SICK IN CAMP THOMAS

Better Treatment Could Not Be Accorded Them.

Nothing Lacking to Promote Men's Comfort.

Officers Partly to Blame For Conditions Which Existed Earlier.

Washington, Sept. 1.—A detailed statement is made by General Boynton of his investigation of the hospital situation in Camp Thomas made by direction of the secretary of war. Chickamauga is one of the camps, where, it is alleged, mismanagement existed and needless suffering was endured by the troops, both sick and well. The general, in his report, takes up first the two permanent hospitals, Leiter and Sternberg, and states with the greatest minuteness the exact accommodation afforded by each. The first is at Crawfish Springs, under charge of Major Carter, and was converted from a summer hotel into a hospital, receiving the worst typhoid cases from the camp. Each patient has abundant room, with woven wire and hair mattresses. The plumbing is entirely new and the bathing facilities are ample. The number of attendants, when all are well, is entirely satisfactory, and attendants are on the way to take the places of those who are broken down. Major Carter has secured a herd of cows, and has arrangements for pasturing them without expense to the government. He has sufficient money from the hospital fund to buy whatever is wanted in the way of milk, ice and other delicacies. There have been at this hospital full supplies of ice, milk, commissary stores and delicacies such as the sick ought to have, and the funds have enabled him to buy all that has been needed in the way of canned and potted goods, soups, clam juice, sage, malted milk, eggs, koumiss, preserves, relishes, ginger, oil, appolinaris, champagne and claret. The entire hospital is furnished with distilled water, and the ice used is made from distilled water. The sewage of the hospital is excellent, and, contrary to persistent assertions, none of the sewage has ever drained into the Chickamauga river or approached it at any point. Major Carter has a corps of doctors which he regards as amply sufficient to care for all the patients in the hospital, and reports them as faithful and efficient in the performance of their duties.

A Complete Hospital.

Taking up the Sternberg hospital, in charge of Major Diffen, General Boynton shows that it is one of the most complete field hospitals ever seen, according to veterans of the late war. All the tents are closely floored, and they are separate. At present only four men are in any tent, and in addition to the tents there are nine large board pavilions. Every tent and pavilion has woven wire mattresses, iron bedsteads and hair mattresses. There are especial diets, five cold storage rooms for delicacies, separate refrigerators for each row of tents, and every proper measure of sanitation is observed with respect to the sinks. Further, the report says: "The whole place is most carefully policed daily, and the whole establishment, within and without, its permanent buildings and its tents, is in the most perfect order.

"Since the establishment of this hospital, everything asked for in the way of supplies of every kind has been promptly furnished. Sixteen to 24 barrels of distilled water are purchased daily, and patients get nothing but distilled water to drink. From three to five tons of ice are used daily. Three hundred gallons of milk are purchased daily and 150 gallons furnished by the Red Cross society. All money necessary for the purchase of delicacies of every kind suitable to the sick has been furnished by order of General Sternberg. Soon after the hospital was established he telegraphed as follows to the surgeon in charge: 'Do not fail to procure every necessary for the comfort of the sick. Apply to me for additional female nurses and for money to buy delicacies when required.'"

A careful inquiry developed the fact that all varieties of medical supplies required or asked for were furnished, both from Washington and from medical headquarters at the camp with the greatest promptness. It is stated in addition that all the hospital refuse is burned in a crematory, and, according to Major Diffen, all but 1000 patients now sick in the entire camp could be safely moved. The diseases are more of a typhoid-malaria character than the typhoid fever strictly, the death rate being very low.

Carbolic Acid Used.

"The first division field hospital, in charge of Major Drake, is floored with planed lumber, and it is as clean as possible, being scrubbed with carbolic acid and treated with bichloride of mercury every other day. All the patients are on cots, and never have been on the ground for any length of time. None of the 66 cents allowance per man for delicacies has been used, as it was not needed. The report says of this hospital: "There have been in this hospital at various times 161 patients from the Eighth New York volunteers. In a great many cases it was difficult to tell that anything was the matter with them. Only 10 percent of the sickness from this regiment was reported as in any way serious, and when it was rumored that the regiment was to be sent home, several of those in the hospital asked not to be sent, but to be allowed to remain throughout their convalescence."

The next hospital inspected was the third division hospital, first corps, in charge of Major Thomas Clark. Here the attendants were found sufficient, though in the earlier days there were not enough surgeons or attendants. The grounds were in excellent condition, the tents clean, most of the tents floored, and all floored between the cots. For a time the hospital was a week behind in obtaining its medical supplies, but this was before the government had collected its medical stores in great quantities. As in the other hospitals, the entire force of attendants, both officers and men, worked with great persistence till over 25 percent of the hospital's corps fell sick. For the last six weeks there has been no difficulty whatever in obtaining medical supplies of every character. The Red Cross has made liberal donations to this hospital, and friends in Minnesota have sent great quantities of delicacies.

Taking up the last of the field hospitals, that of the Third corps, second division, under Major Smith, the report states that 53 tents are at present not all occupied, though during the epidemic of measles they were crowded. There were no Red Cross nurses, and a detail of two ladies from the Chattanooga association has visited the hospital daily to cook the lighter food for the sick. When the hospital was crowded the number of attendants was insufficient. There were also strong complaints of the failure to get medical and surgical supplies in the earlier days before the government had been able to furnish itself, and when it was impossible to avoid delays incident to rushing supplies to great army camps. The requisition papers on file, however, show that the hospital officers made every effort to obtain full supplies.

Treated In General.

Leaving the details about the hospitals, the report proceeds to treat the whole subject generally as follows: "In two of the hospitals opportunities occurred for discovery of what undoubtedly originated many of the sensational stories which have been printed over the country to the effect that patients in the hospitals lacked sufficient food, and in many cases had been on the verge of starvation. In the wards where the convalescent typhoid fever patients were found many of the men were constantly asking for food, and as a matter of course were as constantly denied everything except the lighter forms of food, which alone can safely be administered to recovering typhoid patients. This refusal of food throughout the hospitals, by which care alone, as is perfectly understood, can the lives of typhoid convalescents be saved, has been distorted into the cry, which has spread throughout the country, that patients were being starved in the government hospitals. There has been no lack of proper food in these hospitals, and competent cooks for preparing it have been present; and the only reason for depriving the patients of what so many of them have clamored for has been the necessity of such dieting as the disease demands.

"It will be observed that the conditions set forth in this report are mainly present conditions. It has not heretofore fallen within the range of my duties at this park to make critical observations of hospital conditions. As a matter of course, many features of this division of camp administration have fallen under my notice. I am constrained to believe that there has been no neglect on the part of either the medical or the quartermaster departments to furnish such supplies as have reached the camp.

It will be observed that the report in each case has been made with reference to the maximum number of patients in each hospital, and so far as it was possible to obtain the conditions then existing they are set forth in this report. These are conditions which in times of rapid increase of disease, a condition which was reached at this camp solely in my judgment from the filth which too many of the regimental officers allowed to dominate their camps, in spite of the orders, which would have prevented all this trouble, from the surgeon general and from the commanding officers of this camp.

"So far from believing, as a result of my observations, that medical officers have been heartless or negligent, I believe that these officers and the hospital attendants as a whole have exerted themselves to discharge their duties faithfully. It would seem as if this were sufficiently shown by the fact that they have worked unceasingly until a quarter of the whole force has itself been stricken by disease resulting from their exhausting labors.

"My attention was especially directed in the order which I received to some remarks credited to General Terry as he was leaving Camp Thomas: 'General Terry found the camp in a bad sanitary condition. It is situated in an open field in the hot sun, with no water to be found within five miles. The water the men drink is hauled in barrels and of a kind that in New York would be refused as bathing water. This stuff is what the men drink daily, and is declared to be the chief cause of the sickness.' He said he would insist on the Eighth regiment being returned to New York and had wired Governor Black and the secretary of war of the situation. This camp was removed to the open field at the special request of the officers concerned, as they were inclined to think that their camp in the open woods had something to do with the sickness of their men. Here it may be pertinent to remark in passing that this regiment had at the time of its moving and had maintained one of the filthiest and most disgusting canteens to be found in the entire army. From personal observations of this canteen some two weeks since, I am prepared to assert that it was little better than serving beer to the soldiers of the Eighth New York in a hogpen. It is also true that the reports show that since this regiment moved, its health conditions have improved."

"In closing, I beg leave to express my opinion that most of the interviews with chaplains, regimental surgeons and others, both officers and men, now appearing at the north in many of the newspapers in regard to this camp, are reckless and false except as to the filthy conditions which their own criminal neglect has caused. In my judgment the recent increase in the outcries against water and the persistent assertion that the park is unhealthy have been largely and deliberately used to stir up sentiment and influence which would be exerted to insure their relief from service."

SUFFERING NINTH.

Montauk, Sept. 1.—The arrival of the Massachusetts regiment yesterday with its attendant tales of horror has cast a chill over the entire camp. Nothing else is talked of. The official announcement is made that 145 men on the Alleghany are sick. This in reality will mean 200 or possibly more, as sick is the vocabulary of Dr. Magruder means nearly dead.

One explanation of the 15 deaths on the steamer is that the Ninth took along more of its sick than any other, and that men who really ought to have been left behind were taken on the ship, as they and their comrades preferred to risk the voyage home rather than to remain to what was considered certain death in the hospitals about Santiago. The trip was a long one. The Alleghany was a cattle transport, not well fitted for the work cut out for her. Her condition, according to Dr. Magruder, was frightful before the arrival here.

"Nothing can drive us out of this camp but cold," said Colonel Brown, when spoken to regarding the epidemic predicted by Dr. Senn. This seems to predict a long stay in Camp Wikoff. Although the regular soldiers never complain, it is easy to see that they are becoming more discouraged every day, and the same thing pertains to many of the officers. It is probable that an order to go to war would be welcomed by the entire camp.

Attention, Absent Soldiers!

Washington, Sept. 1.—The war department directs all men absent from their posts to report their whereabouts and reason for absence by letter to their company and regimental commanders. Surgeons are required to report the name of each man in their charge to the regimental commanders of such men. Another order states that all books, papers, etc., are the property of the United States and will be required in the settlement of claims against the government, and for this reason must be carefully preserved. All soldiers sick and wounded, who have been granted furloughs, are entitled to transportation to and from their homes. Commanders of independent brigades and other small commands have been authorized to grant furloughs to not more than 5 percent of their force.

Swept by a Storm.

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 1.—While there was no loss of life from the storm which swept Savannah, the damage to property will foot up close to $500,000. The storm began early Tuesday night and raged with increasing violence until 4 o'clock Wednesday morning. It was at its height between 4 and 5 o'clock, when the wind reached a velocity of 80 miles an hour. When daylight came the streets were impassable from debris. Probably 100 buildings were wholly or partially unroofed and as many more were otherwise damaged. The roof was torn from half of the Savannah theatre, and the auditorium of that building was transformed into a lake. The First Baptist church is among the most heavily damaged buildings. The entire western half of the roof was lifted from the walls and carried into the street below. St. John's Episcopal church, the First and Independent Presbyterian and Luthern Church of the Ascension, were also damaged.

In the business part of the city, dozens of stores were unroofed, windows were blown in and the interior flooded. There was no telegraphic communication during the day until late last night. Street car travel is suspended, and last night the city was in darkness. In the harbor and at quarantine at Tybee the damage to shipping is heavy.

"Jack" In Mississippi.

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 1.—The state board of health is unable to locate the origin of the four cases of yellow fever reported in Orwood, a village in Lafayette county. The place was not infected during the epidemic of last year, and the board finds it impossible to discover an origin from an outside source.

Dr. Gray, a local physician, died at Taylor's Station four days ago, and the doctors who attended him say that he showed symptoms of black vomit. Orwood and Taylor's Station are both tightly quarantined, and members of the state board are hurrying to the scene.

One hundred and twenty-three women students have entered Berlin university this term. Of these 88 are Germans, 12 Americans and 4 Austrians. Great Britain, Hungary and Sweden send one student each.

Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson will sell her home in Samoa. She is at present in London helping Sydney Colvin in writing and editing the life and letters of her husband.

200 Choice House Lots

SQUANTUM PARK.

On LABOR DAY, Monday, Sept. 5,

commencing at 2 P. M., will be offered some of the choicest building lots ever shown near Boston. The land is high and overlooks Dorchester bay on the west, with magnificent views of the city of Boston, Milton hills and Boston harbor. Squantum park is only 3 miles from the State House and is reached by trains on the Old Colony R. R to Atlantic station; 87 trains a day, of which 37 are express, 11 minutes' ride, 8-cent fare, connecting with electric cars direct to Squantum park, or take steamer very half hour from Marine park to Squantum park, or take electrics from Boston and suburbs to Neponset bridge, where the Quincy & Boston electrics connect for Squantum park. The high elevation of the tract we shall offer commands fine views of the surrounding country and ocean of a magnitude that baffles description here. It being the only remaining tract within easy access of Boston, of a high order of excellence not already on the market, and would long ago have been occupied had the owners elected to subdivide it; this fact is highly important to the contemplating purchaser, as the opening sale of a new tract never reaches prices easily obtainable upon further development. If you are looking for a home or land for investment, why not come out to this grand opening sale? Take 11.30, 12.30 or 1.30 express trains at the O. C. R. R., Kneeland St, Boston, for Atlantic. Band concert, refreshments from 12 to 2 o'clock at my auction tents on the land. Sale positive, rain or shine, commencing at 2 P. M. Four auctioneers and 15 attendants will make a good time in disposing of the 200 lots. Don't miss this sale. One or more of my clerks will be on the land, or at my branch office at the Squantum Inn every day from 1 to 8 P. M.

Five yachts well loaded with gay parties went from the Wollaston Yacht club last night to view the grand illumination at Houghs Neck.

Representative T. H. Newcomb was among the invited guests to make the trip of inspection through the Boston subway on Tuesday. The new section is now open to the public.

A large cave was discovered near the extreme end of Lovell's Grove, New Downer, Monday morning by a party of bathers. The roof was covered with poles and boards and so concealed that it has remained hidden a long time. Tinware and the reamins of roasted corn was scattered about. There was room enough for two to sleep.

On a rainy day recently a little girl of Wollaston Park who was obliged to remain in the house, asked her mother for something to do other than playing with paper dolls. Her mother gave her a needle cushion that had been in use for eight years and told her to rip it open and pick the lost needles from the meal which formed the inside of the cushion. She did so and found 304 needles of various sizes, 265 of which were in excellent condition and fit for use.

THE ILLUMINATION.

The Largest Crowd Ever at Houghs Neck.

Result of Field and Aquatic Sports.

A more perfect day for the eleventh annual illumination and gala day at Houghs Neck than Wednesday would have been hard to find, and as a result the attendance both afternoon and evening exceeded by far any previous efforts of the Improvement Association under whose auspices it was held.

The day's festivities opened at 10 o'clock, at which hour sailing parties were taken out in the steam yacht Athlete. The tide was just right for sailing in the harbor and during the morning hours over three hundred were taken out for a refreshing sail.

The next on the programme, and that which gladdened the hearts of the little ones, was at 11 o'clock, at which hour ice cream and cake were served in Cavanagh's hall, and it took over forty gallons of Wales' and Ferris' cream to satisfy them.

A Punch and Judy show located off Sea street also proved to be a centre of attraction for children, and older people as well, during the day.

The field sports were held on the ball field at 1.30 o'clock and resulted as follows, prizes of 75 cents, 50 cents and 25 cents, being given in every event.

100-yard dash—Won by John O'Hara, E. Mullen and Philip Jacobs.

Hop, step and jump—Won by John O'Hara, Phillip Jacobs and E. Taber; distance 28 feet 8 inches.

Three-legged race—First heat won by Rich and P. Jacobs, and Hoey and Dolan.

Second heat won by O'Hara and C. Jacobs, and Garfield and Garfield.

Final heat won by O'Hara and C. Jacobs, Rich and P. Jacobs, and by Garfield and Garfield.

Of the field sports the most amusing was the pie eating contest. In this event the boys, six in number, sat on a shed roof where everybody could see them. Each was given a blackberry pie which he was obliged to hold in one hand and eat without using his other hand. The result was what was expected, the boys' faces were besmeared with blackberry juice and they made pictures. No snap shots were allowed.

At the conclusion of the field sports the water sports were held at Silver Springs. They resulted as follows:

There was also an interesting game of water base ball.

While the water sports were in progress a game of ball was being played on the field off Sea street between the T. R. & S. A. A. and Jordan, Marsh & Co.'s nine, for a purse of $20 which was won by the T. R. & S. boys by a score of 13 to 4, as follow:

During the game Curran of the home team fell while running bases and sprained his ankle. Dr. Jones who was present administered to the injured member.

The National Guard band was present both afternoon and night and gave concerts at different points on the beach.

There were large crowds present during the afternoon but the great crowd did not make its appearance until evening and from six to nine o'clock the people came down in swarms. The street railway made extra preparations to handle the large crowds and by using some of its eight wheel cars was able to accomplish it better than on previous years.

During the early evening four, five and six cars were sent down at a time and ran nearly on time. Return cars were also run every half hour and those who desired to come home early were accommodated.

Besides this, hundreds came down on bicycles, in private carriages, express wagons and hayracks.

Everybody kept open house and made visitors welcome.

Chief Litchfield had all his reserve force on duty, about half of whom were in citizens dress and they patrolled the streets and preserved order.

Chief Packard send down the relief wagon with chemical extinguishers and ladders, and a horse was kept hitched to Hose 5 wagon ready for immediate use. The Chief was unable to be present on account of sickness, but Engineers Ripley, Newcomb and Hardwick were on hand in case their services were needed.

There were a number of sideshows in operation along Sea street, and dances were held at Costello's and at Fensmere hall. The Clerks' Association, holding it first annual at the latter place.

The decorations of cottages were not as general as usual, and there were many cottages that did not even illuminate with an oil lamp. This was particularly so on Bay View avenue and on the Plains, where many of the best illuminations are usually seen. There were some handsome decorations, however, at other points, some of which deserve more than a passing mention. The Grace cottage near the Willows, easily carried off the honors. The cottage was covered with one mass of flags, bunting and lanterns and looked very handsome. The Birds Nest cottage on Sea street had its name illuminated with letters made of lanterns and looked fine. The Hotel Fensmere and Pavillion were also gaily decorated with flags and bunting.

The place to view the illumination was on Great Hill and from there a very pretty picture was presented, for as far as the eye could reach there seemed to be one continuous row of lanterns.

During the evening the band was located in the band stand in Silver Springs and there was also a display of fire works at this point.

The wise people started for home early but there were those who wanted to see the last light extinguished before they left, and they found it late before they arrived home.

As a whole the eleventh annual can be called a grand success and much credit for the success is due to the untiring efforts of the efficient committee.

The Deciding Race Won Today by 10 Minutes.

Took Six Days' Racing for One to Win Three Races.

Another large crowd was at Houghs Neck this morning to witness the sail-off between the Recruit and Duchess for the Quincy Yacht Club challenge cup. Both yachts had two races to their credit and as today's race would decide, there was an unusual interest.

The wind was light and what there was of it was from the northeast. The first incident was a protest entered by the Duchess. Her owner claimed that the Recruit's trim had been altered, giving to her more mast and stays.

George F. Maybury, as acting measurer, then measured the Recruit and she proved to be half an inch shorter.

The race was scheduled for 10.30 but lack of wind prevented the start until 11.30. The course selected was No. 2 which gave the boats windward work. The preparatory gun was fired at 11 25 and five minutes later they got away. Commander Rice sailed on the Recruit in today's race.

The start was a pretty one, the Recruit crossing two seconds ahead. The boats held their same relative position to Sheep island. Then the Recruit gained a little, turning Red Dolphin buoy off Hull with a slight lead, the time being:

Duchess,	12	07	34

On the run home both boats set their spinakers and the Duchess her topsail, but it did her little good, for the Recruit drew away from her and increased her lead to 48 seconds. The time at rounding the stake boat for the second leg was.

Recruit,	12	31	02
Duchess,	12	31	50

On the second time over the course the wind freshened a little and the Recruit increased her lead to 3 minutes and 53 seconds, the time being:

Recruit,	1	02	20
Duchess,	1	06	03

On the final run home the Duchess gained a little but could not overtake the Recruit which finished with a lead of 2 minutes and 35 seconds. Time at finish:

Recruit,	1	25	04
Duchess,	1	27	39

The elapsed time was:

	h.	m.	s.
Recruit,	1	55	04
Duchess,	1	57	39

In today's race Dr. E. E. Davis officiated as one of the judges in place of Mr. McVey, who was absent.

Mushroom Plumbers.

There are mushrooms that are delightful. There are toadstools that will "kill you dead"

There are plumbers that undestand their business and have been established for years. They are safe to deal with, but beware of the mushroom plumber who today is, and tomorrow is not.

Plumbing a house is a serious matter and you should not be caught napping by employing inexperienced or faking workmen.

September Suggestions.

As September approaches we think of how to fix the house up to make it cosy for winter. A new carpet on a floor will change the whole appearance of a room. Some rooms only need a mat or two and other rooms need a handsome rug or art square to add warmth or richness.

It is easy to select one for any place after inspecting our assortment.

In Respect to Pri. John A. Boyd of 9th Mass.

Mayor Sears and City Officials Also Attend.

The first soldier of the war with Spain to be laid at rest in Quincy, was consigned to mother earth this morning in the St. John's section of the Catholic cemetery at West Quincy. All the city mourned the death of Private John A. Boyd, who died of typhoid fever at Fort Myer, near Washton, D. C. Flags were at half mast on City Hall and elsewhere.

Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., the veterans of the Civil war, and St. Mary's Catholic Total Abstinence Society were largely represented. There was also a detail of a corporal, bugler and eight men from Co. K of the Fifth Massachusetts Regiment, United States Volunteers, and members of other regiments in the regular and volunteer army.

The societies escorted the body from the late residence of Private Boyd on Centre street, to St. Mary's church on Crescent street, the formation being as follows, under command of William Warner, Commander of Paul Revere Post:

Bugler.

The bugler played as the cortege moved.

When the church was reached open order was given and the societies came to present while the hearse with the body guard passed through.

The casket was covered with the American flag and when taken from the hearse was supported by the bearers from the St. Mary's C. T. A. Society down the centre aisle. The Co. K guard stacked arms in front of the church and soon followed.

Mass was celebrated by Rev. J. P. Cuffe. Miss Farrell presided at the organ, and the quartette was composed of Miss Garrity, Mrs. Lyons, Mr. Grignon and Mr. McKee. Near the close of the service Miss Mary F. White sang as a solo, "Calvary."

There were two beautiful floral tributes including a knapsack of white, surmounted by a roll of blue, with these letters in red: "U. S. V., Co. E, 9th Mass." This was from the St. Mary C. T. A. Society. The other was a large pillow from the family.

From the church the body was taken to the cemetery in the rear, and the squad from Co. K fired a parting salute.

ALLIE DISGUSTED.

Any Change Would be Welcomed by Him.

This letter has been received from Allie Williams.

Key West, Fla.,
Aug. 15, 3 P. M.

Well, talk about your troubles. We have them. I think I left off my last letter where we arrived at Key West. Cleaned up in the morning and laid to all day,—quite a rest for this crew.

Monday—Rained all day. At 11 P. M. the tug Mananscot towed this craft to the light house wharf, where we received a six-pound mount. Workmen are busy putting it up aft, and removing the one-pounders amidship. At 9 P. M., the captain came on board with two coal passers that had gone ashore without leave, (We are not allowed shore leave or anything else) and had them both put in double irons. He also lent a set to the Mangrove for one of her crew.

Tuesday let the two men out of irons so they could get to work. Right after breakfast, while they were having their smoke, four of them went ashore. They came back pretty well loaded. The officers caught them coming and ordered them into the fireroom to clear out the bilges. One would not go, but they soon threw him down, put irons on him and dragged him into the fire room. He came up in a few minutes swearing to the officers and telling them what he would do. They ordered him dragged below and chained him to a staunchion. When they started to take him down he grabbed an axe with both hands and certainly would have brained the first man that put a hand on him. The officer, standing with revolver in hand, ordered the men to tackle him. Not a man moved. The officer was mad. The fellow dropped the axe and they chained him to the fire room floor. He was let out after he got sobered off. It is hard medicine but they have to take it.

Wednesday—The six-pounder is on the mount and it is a "Beaut." General work is going on today and there is enough of it.

Thursday—Nothing of interest, only working just the same.

Friday—We got underway at 11 A. M. and went alongside of the Schooner Sagamore for coal. Left her at 3 P. M. and anchored off the naval station. At 8 P. M. received on board 26 bags of mail for blockading vessels and official documents for the commander of the blockade of the Northern Cuba coast. We got underway at 8.45 P. M. and everything went fine in engine room.

Just before leaving shipped a colored cook from U. S. S. Lancaster. At 9 35 passed entrance buoy to main ship channel. Changed course to S. S. W. 1-4 W.

Saturday—Both boilers burnt out dry, due to the inattention and negligence of the engineering force and watch. They tried to pump water in the boilers but they were too much damaged.

Spread everything that would hold wind. At 2 P. M. sighted U. S. S. Miamtanomah. Fired charges from the 6-pounder but she never stopped, she being six miles to the westward. At 3 P. M. sighted U. S. S. Hamilton, attracted her attention with one shot, and the ensign upside down. Shortly after that the U. S. S. Fish-Hawk came within hail. We put the captain on board the Hamilton with her mail. Then to the Fish-Hawk with her mail and the dispatches. The Hamilton took us in tow at 5 P. M. Everything went pretty well during the night. She rolled so bad that it threw the starboard bags over on top of the port ones. That made her tow bad until things were straightened out. Sunday morning laid off Key West until daylight.

Then went to anchor off the naval station. Turned to and cleaned up the mess. Everthing was up side down. She rolled fearfully during the night. She tried to roll her keel up. I wish she had.

Thirty three war vessels were laying here at sunset. We are going to Norfolk, Va., to go out of commission. We will be put on board the receiving ship Franklin, and may be discharged.

If not will be sent among the fleet. Anything will suit me but this. I had rather be an apprentice on one of the big ones than be captain of this one. I could have taken your gunning boat and one of Bryant's 8-gauge guns down here and done more service to the country than I have on this boat. Whoopee, I am disgusted!

Wednesday—This morning the boats are firing up to go north. At 1.30 A. M. a telegram came for the captain. The fleet all got one. The captain did a lot of running around through the fleet and aboard the flag ship. I have been kept busy all the morning wig wagging and sending signals to the vessels going out. The prettiest sight I have seen was the Maryland, a barge from Baltimore. She went out with her ensign and the International code signals at her mizzen mast. Oh wasn't she a beauty. Every boat dipped their colors to her. Her captain was proud of her. She "owned everything" as she went to sea.

The captain came on board at 11.30 A. M. Said we were to be towed to Norfolk, Va., this afternoon, Aug. 17. I think this is her last tow. Well don't you see she is a hard packet. We have some old sailors on board that say so.

I have seen lots of trouble and hardships but not the kind that I started in to find, but I may get a taste of some of the other yet. I thought by going into the regular navy instead of the naval brigade I would get there quicker, but have not seen much war. Have been in three little scraps. They did not amount to much, and no men hurt.

Will write from Norfolk.

AT CAMP DALTON.

Squads Detailed Daily to Attend Funerals.

Camp Dalton,
Sept. 1st, 1898.

The general monthly inspection took up all of yesterday. The regiment formed in the field at 9 A. M. A muster roll call was first called to rectify pay roll. The inspection of equipment began at 10.00, but the time before dinner was too short so the regiment marched to quarters at 11 o'clock. After dinner they formed again at one o'clock and completed the work begun.

Tents were inspected at 3.30. There was a marked improvement over the inspection of a month ago. The only fault found with Co. K was that several had scratched matches on their trousers. All the officers were much pleased with the appearance of the men.

There was no time for drill but during the day the cavalry got in some fine work. They gave exhibitions in the afternoon of fancy riding and jumping hurdles.

The color bearer of Troop A had a narrow escape in the morning drill. He was thrown violently from his horse but was able to walk to his quarters. A fellow trooper attempted to dismount to aid him and was himself thrown, but quickly regained his feet and mounted his horse. Then came an exciting race down the field after the injured one's horse. He was captured before the end of the field was reached.

The reports in yesterday's papers about the Fifth remaining in service have not been officially verified as yet, although something is on the tapis. There is little doubt however that the Fifth will stay in unless peace is declared. Further than that no one can say.

The noblest work the Fifth performs is the burial of its comrades in other regiments who have been brought home to die. Not a day passes but several details leave for different parts of the state to assist in the last sad rites to some brave lad from the Ninth, Sixth, Second or Eigth regiments.

Capt. Kincaide was in Quincy yesterday on business.

Artificer Seaverns of Co. K has been given the use of the store house and has fitted it up as a shop.

General health in Co. K is good.

School Repairs.

The several school buildings of the city have been put in readiness by Commissioner Knowlton to receive the school army next Tuesday. No very extensive repairs have been made upon any of the buildings. In most cases the repairs consist of fixing the locks, doors, faucets, blackboards and stopping leaks in the roofs.

At the Coddington some of the rooms have been tinted. A new fence and plank walk have been built.

At the Wollaston the grounds have been graded, a retaining wall built and other minor repairs made.

At the Willard practically two new furnaces have been put in and new glass set.

At the Massachusetts Fields the grounds have been graded and some slight changes made in the ventilating system.

In some of the buildings the cellars have also been whitewashed.

LAND VALUES

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

Sailing Party.

A very pleasant sailing party went out from the Wollaston Yacht club Tuesday evening on board the yacht Premier, Capt. E. A. Hayden. The party consisting of about twenty-five invited by Mrs. A. T. Barstow, who, after a sail of two hours, pleasantly surprised her guests at the Club house by treating them to ice cream and cake, after which dancing was enjoyed for a time. ☞Generally it is hazardous for a woman to marry a man who is younger, smaller, weaker, less experienced, less educated than herself. It is not easy for a wife to render loyal love to a husband whom she is compelled to regard as her inferior. Inequality of character or condition generally augurs ill for the marriage which mates unequals. —Outlook.

Union C. E. Trip to Nantasket.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 31ST, 1898.

Very early in the evening, ere the stars were robed in gold;
Ere the moon drew back her curtains to a busy world infold
The radiant forms of beauty in the thousand dewy flowers
That adorn our every hillside and gem our rustic bowers.

The air was warm and balmy, graced with our summer's glow
Nature reveled in the splendor of the wealth she did bestow.
From distant hills the sunlight kissed the shadows of the day
Till they looked like drifts of rainbow floating 'round us by the way.

But every seat was taken, and we numbered seventy-four (or more),
While we glided smoothly onward for Nantasket's lovely shore.

The tide was coming in, rippling softly at our feet,
I think it came to greet us like a friend we love to meet;
And don't you think the message brings a lesson grandly sweet
When the tide comes rolling in with its tones so full and deep?

We missed the evening concert for the band no longer plays
When the summer hours glide softly into the autumn days;
So we furnished our own music all the way we passed along,
It was first a witty repartee, and then a gush of song.

We took in all the wonders, from the spider for a clock (some said it could fry clams),
To all the rapid transit which gives a sudden shock
'Tis lightning speed, or nearly so, which satisfies our race,
And a chap must hold his courage if he keeps an even pace;
And if the man who danced a jig was on electric wire,
We pity most profoundly whoever was his sire.

But look, the shades of evening have gathered into night,
And we must homeward bound by the moon's soft silvery light,
"Remember and be true, dear," our C. E. pledge gleams bright
"Onward march each Christian soldier" and stand for what is right.

DID HE FEIGN ILLNESS?

That the Charge Against Col. Woodward of Massachusetts.

Said to Have Been Ordered From Hospital Ship.

Boston, Sept. 1.—Colonel Woodward, ever since his resignation from the Sixth regiment, has been saying that he would report only to the governor. Governor Wolcott, last night, at Woodward's earnest request, gave out the correspondence that passed between them during the controversy.

It is claimed that the order for his appearance with other officers before a board to examine into their efficiency was a great surprise. "We earnestly solicited some reason," says Colonel Woodward, "for this unusual action, and the only one given was that the men had fallen out on the marches and that it must be stopped; and that in the future if it continued, severe, and, if necessary, the most extreme punishment must be inflicted. I replied that I felt that we had done all that humane officers could do under the trying circumstances, and I would prefer to leave the service rather than abuse the men, who had come from Massachusetts with me, and to whom, as well as their friends at home, I owed the moral obligation to treat them humanely."

After reviewing the whole matter, including the statement relative to the poor rations for the men and their subsequent weakness owing to that fact, Colonel Woodward closes his statement by pointing to his 29 years in the militia and saying: "The other officers all have most excellent records. While we deeply regret the affair, we are somewhat recompensed by the feeling that many injustices have been called to light and that those who remain in the service will be benefitted. I feel confident that such will be the case, for, before we left Porto Rico, it was admitted that the food would be improved and that the men in the future would not be compelled to carry such heavy loads."

On the same day, Aug. 25, the governor sent to Colonel Woodward a letter, in which he said that in reply to a request sent to the secretary of war for information regarding the cause of the resignations and present condition of the Sixth Massachusetts infantry, he received from the adjutant general the following reply from Major General Miles, addressed to the adjutant general and dated Ponce, Porto Rico, Aug. 5: "When the Sixth Massachusetts infantry was ordered to be ready to disembark near the entrance of Santiago harbor, Colonel Woodward feigned sickness. At Guanica, when his regiment was ordered ashore, he again feigned sickness and went on hospital ship, was examined by Colonel Greenleaf, surgeon, who pronounced him well and ordered him off the ship. During this time seven companies of his regiment were engaged in a sharp encounter under command of General Garretson. Colonel Woodward was ordered before examining board, and tendered his resignation; its acceptance will save expense of a court-martial. The lieutenant colonel of the same regiment is incompetent. He remained in his tent while part of his regiment was engaged. He was within sound of the fight, and did not even assemble balance of regiment to reinforce part engaged, if it should have been required. Acceptance of resignations of both these officers would benefit the service."

Colonel Woodward's Reply.

Colonel Woodward's reply to the charges of General Miles is very voluminous. He says: "I regret exceedingly that these statements have not been made earlier. It seems hard that an officer of the rank of colonel should be judged so severely by the commanding general, and such heavy accusations be on record against him without a careful examination by the commanding general, and without an opportunity for explanation or denial. General Miles has been misinformed by his subordinates, and now that I am out of the service I feel that I have a right to defend myself by a statement of the facts, as a matter of simple justice to myself and the state of Massachusetts."

Colonel Woodward claims that for a long time he had suffered from a painful stomach trouble, and that he was attacked by his trouble on July 24, just before the regiment arrived at Guanica. On July 25 the regiment disembarked. Continuing, Colonel Woodward says: "Our regiment landed unmolested, and there was no reason why I should feign sickness at that time. Soon after supper that evening an order came for all the troops to fall in, stating that we were being attacked by large numbers. Several of my companies were already on outposts, under command of Major Taylor. I marched out at the head of my regiment until we were ordered to lie down by the side of the road, where we remained several hours, when we were ordered back to camp. If I had been disposed to feign sickness or take advantage of an illness to keep out of a fight, this was a time when I could have done so.

"The message states that the acceptance of the resignations would save the expense of a court-martial. The expense of a court-martial must be very small, as all witnesses and others are in the service of the government, and can receive no extra pay for that duty. A little expense, however, should not stand in the way of justice. It became evident to me that vacancies were desired in our regiment, and means devised to get rid of some of the officers. On the evening of Aug. 2, an order was given for me to appear the next morning, with four of my officers, before an efficiency board. This was a new proceeding under a law passed by congress last April. I had never heard of the law. A systematic freezing process seemed to me to have been inaugurated. Reasons were asked for this unusual action, and the only one given was that men had been falling out on the marches and that the officers had not been severe enough with them. Then we found that the board was composed of the officers who had found the fault. These officers were practically the prosecutors, the judge and the jury. Then comes the inquiry from Massachusetts and from Washington concerning the trouble, and false statements were made in two cases, and no reasons at all given as to Major Taylor and Captain Goodell.

"The charges said to have been made by Captain Ham were evidently drawn after I left Porto Rico, for I neither saw nor heard of them until I saw them in the Boston papers. Light as they are, they cannot be substantiated. It is well to note that this Captain Ham is the commissary officer with whom I had the difference in reference to giving my men sufficient and proper food.

"Allusions have been made to our regiment when at Charleston, S. C. There were several regiments there at the time, all wearing identically the same uniform. It was utterly impossible for any person to tell what regiment a soldier belonged to by looking at him."

BASEBALL GAMES.

Boston, Sept. 1.—"Cy" Young had a substitute team back of him yesterday at the south end, but the "subs" were equal to all their chances, and the veteran pitcher's good right arm did the rest. He was at his best with great speed and excellent control, and in only one inning did the Bostons make more than one hit. The Clevelands won the game by bunching hits in two innings.

In spite of its closeness the game was exceedingly dull with few features of note. Klobedanz was remarkably steady, and in five innings retired the Clevelands in one, two, three order. They bunched all except one of their hits in the three innings in which they scored and made three of the five runs after two men were out. The only base on balls which "Kloby" gave cost a run, and the only fielding error, Long's fumble, gave the Clevelands two runs. These were enough to win the contest. Score:

The Bannon family stole yesterday's game in Montreal from the Syracuse team. In the ninth, with two out and Jimmy on second and Tom on first, Jimmy stole third base. Then the brothers worked a double steal successfully, winning the game.

Steady work at the bat and in base running enabled the Providences steadily to pile up runs yesterday. They batted the ball just when hits counted. The Ottawas could not connect with Braun's delivery with men on bases, and were shut out.

Seymour of the New Yorks had eight strike-outs to his credit in Pittsburg. Hastings kept the hits well scattered after the first inning, when Joyce hit for three bases and Tiernan beat out a bunt.

The St. Louis team played a loose fielding game yesterday, and the Quakers won. Platt was hit hard, but received perfect support.

The Baltimores found McGee of the Louisvilles easy, and had no trouble in winning. Nops was knocked out of the box in the third inning.

Killen was easy for the Cincinnatis yesterday, while Breitenstein kept most of the Washingtons' hits scattered. Score: 9 to 5.

The Buffalos won a 12-inning pitchers' battle yesterday in Springfield. A piece of stupid base-running by Pickett was all that kept the Springfields from winning in the eleventh. Diggins' two-bagger, Brown's scratch and an error by Reilly won for the New Yorkers, 3 to 2.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 1.—The full bench of the supreme court has decided in the case of James H. Callahan vs. Mary E. Woodbridge, appellant, that the collateral inheritance tax, statute of 1891, chapter 425, applies to the case of a stranger in blood inheriting property situated in this state of taxable value from a testator who was domiciled in a foreign state and whose will was probated here.

The executive council's committee on nominations gave a hearing on the protest of the silver Democracy against the confirmation of Henry V. Cunningham's nomination as a member of the ballot law commission Mr. McNary, secretary of the state committee, said that the executive committee did not recognize Mr. Cunningham as a Democrat. Melvin Adams replied, and the committee decided to report favorably.

Primaries In South Carolina.

Columbia, Sept. 1.—Only partial reports from the biennial state primaries have been received. Of the 27,943 votes accounted for, Governor Ellerbe has received 9000, his competitors coming in as follows: Ascher, 682; Featherstone, 7242; Scumpert, 3758; ex-Congressman Tillman, 3918; Watson, 3341; Whitman, 102.

Congressmen Elliott and Talbert had no opposition.

Gagged the Watchman.

Boston, Sept. 1.—A bold robbery was committed in the Cambridge Ice company's icehouse in Arlington shortly before 1 o'clock this morning. It is not known just what the thieves carried off, but they succeeded in blowing open the safe and cleaning it out. The house is in a lonely section of Arlington, where, even in the evening, but few persons pass. It was this condition, undoubtedly, that was responsible for the boldness of the thieves' plans. The watchman was gagged.

COAL MINERS' STRIKE.

White Men Locked Out and Negroes Take Their Places.

Clash Likely to Result With Armed Deputies.

Pana, Ill., Sept. 1.—A serious encounter has been narrowly averted between the union miners and the 100 deputy sheriffs guarding the 54 Alabama negroes who have taken the places of the locked-out men at the Springside and at the edge of the city limits. The clash could not have been prevented had not state and national officers of the United Mine Workers of America interfered by wiring District President Topham to postpone action until after an investigation of the condition of the Springside mine, which is alleged to be dangerous, being operated without a boss and a registered engineer.

At the time the message was received the local miners, reinforced by several hundred miners from Danville, Coffeen, Assumption and other outside mining towns, were in secret session in a gulch between the Illinois Central railroad and the Pana Coal company's reservoir, near the north end of the city, laying plans to march on the deputies and negroes at Springside and forcibly compel the negroes to leave. The meeting was presided over by a negro miner named Dean of Danville. It was only by the most persistent pleading and reasoning by President Topham and other leaders that the miners were prevented from marching on the shaft. It was pointed out that the deputies at the Springside were armed with rifles. There were only two Winchesters and a few shotguns in the miners' crowd. All the men, however, fully a thousand in number, were armed with revolvers.

SENSATION IN PARIS.

Colonel Henry Kills Himself After Confessing a Forgery.

Paris, Sept. 1.—Lieutenant Colonel Henry, an officer who figured in the recent attempted reopening of the Esterhazy case, wrote another chapter in that tragedy which has so torn France by confessing Wednesday afternoon that he had forged a document used against the exiled captain's friends in the last case. Then, while under arrest, he did what Esterhazy refused to do—cut his throat.

The confession and suicide of the officer have created a tremendous sensation, and will probably lead to a successful revival of the agitation for a new trial for Colonel Dreyfus.

When Colonel Henry was questioned he at first affirmed the authenticity of the incriminating documents; but when discrepancies were pointed out, he first admitted adding sentences, and finally confessed to fabricating the whole letter.

It is now evident that Henry forged the letter with the express object of paralyzing Colonel Picquart's efforts to expose Major Count Esterhazy and to get a rehearing of the Dreyfus case "owing the the absolute necessity for finding proofs against Dreyfus." This letter was written in very bad French, a fact which first led it to be regarded as spurious. The scene of Henry's avowal was most painful. When he saw it was almost useless to deny further, his tongue grew too thick for his mouth, and he was unable to speak. It was feared that he would have an apoplectic stroke.

After his arrest he was permitted to visit his wife while on the way to the fortress at Mount Valerian. She thought he really had a fit. He addressed her as "my poor wife," adding: "I am under arrest." The officer accompanying him was under orders not to lose sight of him for a moment; and therefore he could not see his wife alone. All three proceeded to his bedroom to get the necessary clothing. Henry then clasped his wife in his arms and exclaimed: "My conscience is pure and free from everything." This exclamation is much commented upon, as going to show that he may possibly have forged the letter under orders from his superiors.

The cabinet held two stormy sittings under the presidency of Mr. Faure. It finally rose, having apparently failed to arrive at a decision on the question of revising the Dreyfus sentence, for the customary official note was not issued. It is possible, however, looking to the excited state of public feeling, that the government deems it advisable to proceed cautiously and to conceal its decisions for the present. Mr. Delcasse, minister for foreign affairs, is said to have been violently attacked by his colleagues for having been ignorant of the intention of Emperor Nicholas to issue his disarmament proclamation; but, in face of the revival of the Dreyfus affair, the disarmament proposal has taken quite a secondary place. It is alleged that several ministers demanded a revision and the immediate supercession of several staff officers. Mr. Cavaignac, however, remained firm, opposing this course on the ground that Henry's forgery had not altered the case as affecting Dreyfus' guilt. The only result thus far therefore is that Esterhazy is cashiered and will retire on a small pension. Even after leaving the council, ministers continued to argue heatedly.

It would be impossible to describe the sensation that has thrilled Paris; and it is not unlikely that at the next meeting of the chamber of deputies the government will be defeated.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Two houses and barns and out-buildings near Exeter, N H., were burned with their contents, which included a large quantity of hay and a horse. Mrs. T. B. Tilton occupied the houses The loss is $6000.

The secretary of war, on the recommendation of Judge Advocate General Liber, has declared illegal and set aside the proceedings of a general court-martial convened by Brigadier General Greene on the China at sea, June 18. General Greene was in command of the second detachment of the Philippine expedition.

The state convention of the Prohibitionists of Connecticut was held in Hartford yesterday. A resolution demanding that President McKinley abolish the "canteen" at the various military camps occasioned a hot debate and it was finally sent back to the committee. A resolution providing for woman's suffrage caused another controversy.

The foulness expected on the New York was not in evidence yesterday, and Captain Chadwick explained that considerable of the sea growth must have been worn off by several of the vessel's fast runs. The required painting and scraping will take about three or four days, and after some minor repairs the New York will return to her station.

A woman's hair is her glory. Like her complexion, much of its beauty depends upon her general health. Nine times in ten a woman's general health is dependent upon her local health in a womanly way. It is an impossibility for a woman to be pretty or attractive who suffers from general ill-health. The skin, the teeth, the eyes, the hair and the carriage will tell the story when a woman is ailing. It is impossible for a woman to be in good general health when some local trouble is continually nagging at her nerves and disarranging the natural functions of every organ of the body. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all medicines for women who suffer from local weakness and disease peculiar to their sex. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned. It makes them strong, healthy, vigorous and elastic. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain, tones and builds up the nerves and banishes the usual discomforts of the expectant months. It makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It enables every organ of the body to perform its natural functions without unnatural interference from a pain-tortured nervous system. It corrects all irregularities. A woman who is made well in this way will recover her natural beauty of form and feature and her natural amiability of character and temper. Thousands of women have testified to its merits. An honest dealer will not urge a substitute for a little extra profit.

Mrs. Rachel Clark, of Houlton, St. Croix Co., Wis., writes: "I am in good health since I have taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I gave birth to a 12½ pound boy last June. He is six months old now and weighs 30 pounds."

How to preserve health and beauty are told in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is free. For a paper-covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover mailing only; cloth binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

WALTER P. PINEL

TOLD TO PAY THE FINE

Message From the President to Clara Barton In Havana.

Red Cross Supplies Given to the Spanish.

Havana, Sept. 2.—Clara Barton received a cable message from President McKinley telling her to act in perfect concert with the Spanish authorities and to turn over the Red Cross society's supplies to them, if convenient, for distribution, helping them as far as possible in this work, owing to her thorough familiarity with it. With respect to the fine of $500 imposed by the custom house authorities upon Miss Barton for not having a manifest of the cargo, the president directed her to pay the fine, reserving the right to make a subsequent claim for its refunding. It is apparent that the two governments are acting in accord in this matter.

Advices from Guines, this province, say that the work in the fields is not being resumed Not far from Guines is encamped a body of insurgents. It consists of an infantry regiment and four squadrons of cavalry. The people were at first apprehensive of lawless behavior, but the insurgents are quiet and lawabiding. At Constantia, near Cienfuegos, is a large insurgent force. All reports as to the conduct of the Cuban troops agree that they are well behaved and are observing the rules of civilized warfare during the armistice. The occasional reports of violence and robbery must not be laid at their door.

A Cuban hospital has been inaugurated in the outskirts of Havana in one of the finest villas here. Forty sick men, on stretchers, borne by their companions, arrived there yesterday under an escort of Cuban soldiers. The hospital is situated exactly on the city line. The Cuban and Spanish outposts—the former staying outside the limit and the latter inside—chat together and are on the friendliest terms. The sick were received by the president of the hospital.

SHAFTER'S RETURN.

What the General Has to Say Concerning Various Things.

Montauk Point, Sept. 2.—"I knew nothing of the Miles-Alger controversy until I was shown a newspaper on my arrival here," said General Shafter yesterday. "I will not discuss it, now that I am unfamiliar with the phases of the case; nor will I enter the controversy at any time. Secretary Alger and General Miles can take care of themselves, and so can I."

"Now, general, it is 'up to you' to explain about the condition of the transports that have brought the men back from the seat of war to this camp."

"The situation I have already made clear," replied General Shafter. "We had to choose the lesser of two evils—to ship the men north to a healthy climate, not wanting to keep them where they must die. We at the front did not want to let the fever have its run. We wanted to save life. Now, the problem is to save the most lives possible. We never had a foreign war since 1812-14. The United States have no hospital ships. It was not a question of what was best, but of what we had. We used the transports that brought the troops down.

"It was that or keep the men there. If I could have had a few weeks to equip hospital ships, the conditions would have been better. The sudden end of the war was unexpected. We were not prepared for the unexpected. I made it an invariable rule to send home 25 percent less men on a transport than she had brought south. That was a fair view to take."

"But, general, the Alleghany got in here yesterday with very many sick and had buried 14 men at sea. How do you account for that?"

"I am astonished at that. What regiment was it?" asked the general.

"The Ninth Massachusetts," answered the correspondent.

"Oh, well, that explains much," replied General Shafter. "For some reason that I cannot fathom that regiment has been most unfortunate throughout the war. It lost its colonel, two majors, several company officers, and a larger percent of men by sickness than any regiment down there."

"What's the matter? Can anybody explain it?" was asked.

"I don't think so."

"Had the Ninth Massachusetts been subjected to more trying climatic or sanitary conditions than the others?"

"Not at all; the men of the Ninth had the same surroundings as everybody else."

"Any ponds or malarial swamps near their camp?"

"No; like the others, the continued sickness in the Ninth Massachusetts cannot be explained. I would recommend that it be made the subject of special inquiry by a medical board."

"How about the Seneca and Concho?" was asked.

"Probably there was some just ground for the charge of overcrowding in the two ships that brought men home in the earlier summer," answered General Shafter. "Possibly they were the ships. The men were clamorous to get home, and the vessels stopped somewhere on the route to take on more men. That was beyond my control. It should not have been. But since that time not a ship has been overcrowded. Remember, that my hands were quite full at Santiago for a few days after the surrender. Why, one ship that brought down 2000 men was limited by my order to 1100 going back. I don't know of any scarcity of doctors or nurses on any of these later ships."

"What did you give the men on board, sick and well, to eat?"

"They had everything the government provided, and an abundance," was the rejoinder. "Of course, the sick did not have the luxuries they ought to have had, but Cuba is a desert waste. We well men hadn't a thing to eat that didn't come off the ships. There is absolutely nothing left in Cuba."

Will Employ Cubans.

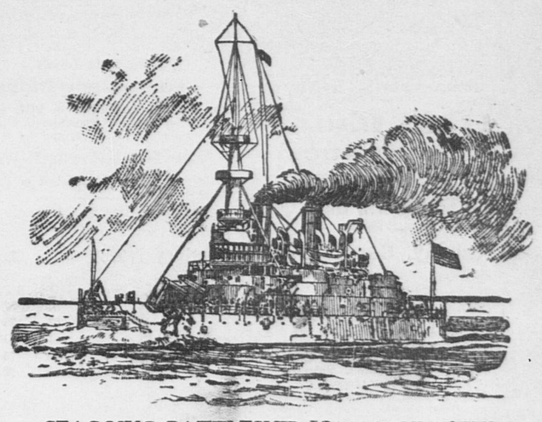
Santiago, Sept. 2.—General Lawton, commander of the department of Santiago, received word yesterday that the Cuban leaders, Cebreco, Lacret and Perez, have been ordered by General Gomez to place themselves under his command. General Lawton is gratified to have charge of the Cubans under these officers, and believes that the arrangement will expedite the disbanding of the Cuban forces. He has decided to employ Cuban officers in civil positions in the province of Santiago. General Castillo will get a place, and will act as General Lawton's adviser in making other appointments.

Why They Were Not Paid.

Washington, Sept. 2.—A dispatch from General Miles asked why the troops in Porto Rico had not been paid. The explanation was that the paymasters with the money for the troops were at Santiago and ready to proceed to Ponce, but General Miles objected to these paymasters, saying that they would bring yellow fever infection with them, or the money might be infected on board the ships. Other paymasters have since been dispatched.

Complaints were made also by certain regiments that they received no pay while in Santiago. It is learned at the department that in some of these instances the requests were made by the commanding officers of the regiments to defer payment until the troops returned to the United States. Such requests were approved by General Shafter, and accordingly the paymasters omitted such regiments when paying at Santiago.

PARADE OF WARSHIPS.



SEAGOING BATTLESHIP MASSACHUSETTS.

The Massachusetts is a 15 knot ship and cost $3,020,000. She displaces 10,288 tons of water, has 9,000 horsepower and carries four 18 inch, eight 8 inch, four 6 inch and 80 guns of smaller size.

Boston, Sept. 2.—Today the old bay state extended a welcome to our naval heroes—to those heroes, now nameless, but whose deeds will live forever; to the heroes of Santiago, the heroes who watched day and night under hot suns, the men who humbled the pride of proud old Spain. They received a welcome that will be remembered in the days to come. Although the occasion was not made a holiday, still the crowds afloat and ashore betokened the deep interest felt by a large part of New England in the naval visitation.

The parade was very appropriately led by the magnificent, first-class battleship, Massachusetts, under command of Captain Higginson, the ranking officer of the fleet. She was followed by eight gunboats and cruisers—the Machias, Wilmington, Helena, Detroit, Montgomery, Castine, Topeka and Bancroft. The vessels were met at Boston light by Governor Wolcott and staff.

Contrary to expectations, the day was not made a holiday, but great numbers of people flocked into the city to see the sights. When the procession passed through the narrows there was a demonstration of the artillery forces stationed there under Colonel Woodruff. From there to the navy yard it was a triumphal progress between dense throngs of floating spectators, while all the headlands and available wharves were crowded with cheering multitudes.

When the Massachusetts got within sight of the navy yard she fired 11 guns in compliment to the commandant, Commodore Howison, and the saluting battery at the yard responded with seven guns for Captain Higginson.

During the afternoon the warships were open to visitors and the inner harbor was alive with small craft. This evening the officers will receive in Faneuil hall. Tomorrow there will be a street parade, but the details of the city's reception to the fleet are not yet formulated.

Regular Army Short.

Washington, Sept. 2.—In order to keep the regular army up to the maximum of 61,000 men the war department will have recruiting offices at all stations where volunteers are mustered out, with a view of giving the men an opportunity to enlist in the regular service. The time which they have served in the volunteer service will be allowed them as a part of the continuous service in the regular branch. It is estimated that the regular army is some 4000 or 5000 below the maximum allowed by the bill which provided for the increase when the war began.

Ministering to Prisoners.

Portsmouth, Sept. 2.—By request of Dr. Pearson, the medical director of the hospital for Spanish prisoners, Alice Gulick, a missionary in San Sebastian, Spain, has arrived here for religious and philanthropic work in behalf of the Spanish prisoners. Mrs. Gulick is familiar with the Spanish language and character, having lived in Spain 27 years. Her labors extend to all the prisoners on Seavey's island.

There are four wards in the hospital and about 130 men under medical care. Most of them can read and write. Mrs. Gulick reads to them in the hospital wards, or to groups of the convalescents who are able to be out of doors. She states that they are all interested in having the daily news from Spain, and she told them of the events of the war since the fall of Santiago, and especially about events in Manila, of which they were ignorant. Some of the men state that they do not want to return to Spain. Others state that after having seen their friends they will return to America, having had enough of war.

Medals For the Brooklyn's Crew.

New York, Sept. 2.—The citizens of Brooklyn are to honor the crew of the cruiser of that name. Every man, from Captain Cook down to the firemen in the hold, at a reception to be given to the entire crew, will be presented with a medal in honor of gallant service in the destruction of Cervera's fleet July 3. The reception will be held on the afternoon of Sept. 29, and it is expected that every member of the crew will be present. The medals are made of bronze metal taken from the 5-inch condemned gun carriage of the Brooklyn.

The New Battleships.

Washington, Sept. 2.—A careful examination of the bids for the new battleships shows that the prices asked for the vessels planned in the department designs average slightly less than the price to be paid for the Illinois class, although these ships are improvements in some respects. It also appears that the bids are within the limit of cost fixed by congress even where the builders propose to make them of 18-knot speed, much better ships than called for by the department. It is expected that the only bids considered will be for the 18-knot ships. In this case the Newport News company is the lowest bidder, but bids for only one ship.

The highest is the Union Iron Works company, but the act of congress allows the department to make an allowance of not to exceed 4 percent in favor of Pacific coast builders, so that brings the bid within the limit. Cramp came in between, and consequently the three ships are likely to be distributed in that order. In the case of the 18-knot ships both Cramp and the Union company submitted similar plans, these being practically the department plans lengthened about 16 feet in order to get in the extra horse power. The Newport News company's design for the 18-knot vessel is original.

— AT —

SQUANTUM PARK.

On LABOR DAY, Monday, Sept. 5,

commencing at 2 P. M., will be offered some of the choicest building lots ever shown near Boston. The land is high and overlooks Dorchester bay on the west, with magnificent views of the city of Boston, Milton hills and Boston harbor. Squantum park is only 3 miles from the State House and is reached by trains on the Old Colony R. R to Atlantic station; 87 trains a day, of which 37 are express, 11 minutes' ride, 8-cent fare, connecting with electric cars direct to Squantum park, or take steamer every half hour from Marine park to Squantum park, or take electrics from Boston and suburbs to Neponset bridge, where the Quincy & Boston electrics connect for Squantum park. The high elevation of the tract we shall offer commands fine views of the surrounding country and ocean of a magnitude that baffles description here. It being the only remaining tract within easy access of Boston, of a high order of excellence not already on the market, and would long ago have been occupied had the owners elected to subdivide it; this fact is highly important to the contemplating purchaser, as the opening sale of a new tract never reaches prices easily obtainable upon further development. If you are looking for a home or land for investment, why not come out to this grand opening sale? Take 11.30, 12.30 or 1.30 express trains at the O. C. R. R., Kneeland St, Boston, for Atlantic. Band concert, refreshments from 12 to 2 o'clock at my auction tents on the land. Sale positive, rain or shine, commencing at 2 P. M. Four auctioneers and 15 attendants will make a good time in disposing of the 200 lots. Don't miss this sale. One or more of my clerks will be on the land, or at my branch office at the Squantum Inn every day from 1 to 8 P. M.

Death of Henry Harlow.

A recent issue of the Gazette of Park Rapids Minn., has the following sketch of interest of the late Henry Harlow, whose father was pastor at the M. E. church at West Quincy in 1878-79:

The death of Henry Harlow which occurred on Sunday, June 26, closed a life that was both pathetic and remarkable. Crippled in his limbs from his youth and always of feeble health, he maintained habitual cheerfulness and exercised great couarge and persistency in business and succeeded beyond what the circumstances would indicate was possible. For some little time previous to his death he was the victim of kidney trouble and at the last rheumatism came in to rack his enfeebled frame and grip his fluttering heart. "In peace" would be a befitting inscription for his tombstone. The resurection which shall change that which "is sown in weakness" so that "it shall be raised in power," must be a blessed event in the future existence of such as Henry Harlow. A brief funeral service was held at the Harlow residence in this town on Tuesday morning. The body was taken to Winona for burial. The father, (Rev. Harlow) being confined in the hospital at Minneapolis was of necessity absent. A large number of neighbors gathered at the service to show their respect to the deceased and family. The deceased was at his death, 36 years of age and was born and spent his youth in New England.

Ladies Invited.

The employes of the Street Department have issued invitations to the city officials to attend their third annual outing Saturday. This department has inaugurated a new idea this year and it is one that cannot fail to become popular. Heretofore the custom of the several departments has been to go to Rock Island for a clam bake and the rule was "for men only." This department, however, has decided to include the ladies, and the employes will take along their wives if they have one, and if not their sister or some other fellow's sister. New Downer Landing has been leased for their exclusive use and they will make a day of it. Special cars will leave City Square for the grove at 9.50 A. M., and at 10.30 there will be a series of sports. Promptly at 2 o'clock Caterer Nash will serve one of his fine dinners. In the afternoon there will be dancing from 4 to 6 o'clock. Should the day prove pleasant the employes will have an enjoyable outing.

—By a new law, the number of ballots to be provided for elections is reduced from 75 to 60 for every 50 or fractional part of 50 registered voters. This is to save expense.

—The Abington fire department will have a field day on Monday.

☞ Buy a ten-cent book of trolley trips at this office if you are contemplating one or two days' outing on the electrics. They are worth double the price asked, their trips are so well mapped out. tf

GOVERNOR'S DAY.

A Serious Accident to Col. Whitney of the Fith.

Camp Dalton,
Friday, Sept. 2.

Yesterday was Governor's day at camp. The sun came out of a mist in the morning and before noon threatened to burn everything up with its rays. The heat was almost unbearable the mercury registered 98 at noon.

Morning drill was cut short and the boys allowed to keep the shelter of their tents.

At two thirty the order came for blue trousers, blue shirts and fatigue hats.

The Governor and staff and Generals Converse and Locke arrived at three o'clock. The Governor's colors were at once raised on the field flag staff. The review which was to take place was interferred with by a heavy shower which came up suddenly, and at one time threatened to spoil the whole afternoon. Its duration was only a half hour however, and as the sun then came out the original programme was started again.

The regiment and troop of cavalry formed in the field and presented a very pretty sight

The Governor's party and the staff officers of the troop were all mounted. The Governor made an inspection of the soldiers on horse back and then came the review. He seemed well pleased with the showing made and complimented the officers in a very neat speech.

A few field manoevres were to have been given but the weather became threatening again and the companies were ordered back to quarters.

At this time a very unpleasant accident happened. Col. Whitney rode ahead of his visitors towards the guard quarters, to give some instructions, and as he turned a corner of the fence, in sight of every one, his horse slipped on the wet ground and threw him violently. It was thought at once that he was killed, but it is a hard task to kill an old soldier like Col. Whitney. After several moments he attempted to walk but found it impossible. He was carried to his quarters where it was found that no bones were broken but that his leg was badly bruised and that he had been seriously shaken up. He was resting easy last evening and will probably be all right after a little rest. Every one felt relieved when it was found out to be no worse. Col. Whitney is held in high esteem by both officers and men of his command and every one would feel badly if he were taken from them. He is a man among many.

Co. K was the smallest company, on the field, as the detail sent to Quincy made considerable difference in their numbers. They put up a good line as they always do.

Co. K boys were remembered again yesterday by their Quincy friends. A barrel of crackers as received on Wednesday, and on Thursday Mr. Fred Tirrell, Mr. G. H. Wilson and Mr. Fred Goss visited camp bringing with them a quantity of butter and cheese to go with the crackers. The other gentlemen interested in this gift were Dexter Remick, proprietor of the Hotel Greenleaf, F. C. Packard, J. W. Dennen, and M. Lynch. These gentlemen certainly have the interests of the men at heart and prove it very frequently. They never fail to leave some kind remembrance behind them. Mr. Remick has been unmentioned in this column for the reason that he has done his work in a quite manner. He deserves a great many thanks for his efforts in behalf of Co. K. Co. K wishes to thank these gentlemen and citizens of Quincy for the thoughtful manner in which they have been looked after. It is the hoped that they will never regret what they have done.

People will get some idea of the number of people at the Houghs Neck illumination, Wednesday, when it is known that the street railway carried over 7,000 passengers. The railroad never handled the crowd better than on this occasion and while on some trips there was a little scarcity of room on some of the downward cars in the evening, as a whole the cars were run on time and the service was excellent.

Tax Collector Baker reports that up to Sept. 1, he had collected 2,704 poll tax bills for the current year against 808 or the same period last year. As the number collected this year is three fourths of the total number it will be seen that Mr. Baker has proved, himself a hustler. Aside from this he has had an officer at work in each ward of the city collecting back taxes with the result that a large number have been collected.

The T. R. & S. team will cross bats with the strong Bank Officers Associatio team on Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The bank offiers are considered to be a good team, having played strong games with the Norwood, Mt. Washington and South Boston, so that we will see a very interesting game. The T. R. & S. have lost their strong pitcher, Mr. Curran having sprained both ankles in the game at Houghs Neck and will have to look for another pitcher.

Among the floral tributes at the funeral of Private John A. Boyd, Thursday, was one handsome piece that was overlooked in the report. The young man at the time he enlisted was employed as an extra man on the street railway, and the employes testified to their appreciation of their fellow workman by sending a star and crescent on a stand. Across the crescent was the word "Comrade," and on top of the piece were three white doves holding in their bills a streamer of red, white and blue ribbon.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The A's are completed in all wards of the city; today the instalment includes all the B's in Ward 1:

JUMPED INTO RIVER.

Was Rescued from Water but Died at Hospital.

Word was received by the police shortly before nine o'clock Thursday night that a woman had jumped from the Neponset bridge and that parties were bringing the body ashore in a boat.

Undertaker Hall was notified and the ambulance went down, as did also Medical Examiner Gilbert. When they arrived they found that the body had been taken to the Neponset side of the river and that the police there were in charge. The woman was not then dead. She was sent to the City Hospital, where she later died.

Eye witnesses say that about 8.30 their attention was attracted to the peculiar actions of a woman, who stood in the centre of the bridge and was drinking the contents from a glass or bottle, who then jumped overboard into Neponset river. A boat was immediately put out and the body landed at the bath house, and later taken to the hospital, where she died at 11 o'clock without regaining consciousness. A man called at the hospital and identified the woman as his wife, Mrs. Julia A. Metcalf, aged 38 years, of 7 Sawyer avenue, Dorchester.

A CRIMINAL RAID.

The Sentiments of Barrows and of Paige.

The sentiments of Barrows and the sentiments of Paige, which represent the Tenth District Republicans?

Four months ago we were just entering upon the war with Spain. The ultimate result was certain; but no one could forsee that in the short space of four months Spain's naval power would be completely annihilated thirty or forty thousand of her soldiers captured, the war ended and peace about to be declared upon our own terms.

If some of our politicians had possessed foresight equal to their hindsight, they would have known the wisdom of silence.

In the Evening Transcript of April 4th there was printed a carefully prepared article on the Spanish complication by Congressman Barrows, in which Mr. Barrows said that he had carefully studied the plan of automony drawn up by the Spanish government and that it is one of the broadest and most liberal schemes of colonial government that has ever been devised and after pointing out what he declared its liberal and broad features to be, said: "Now can you tell me on what just or reasonable pretext the United States can make declaration of war against Spain to prevent the carrying out of a form of government which is as liberal as enjoyed by any one of the forty-five states of the American Union, which indeed grants to Cuba rights not conceded by our Federal Government of the several states. It is idle to say that automony is a failure when it has not yet been tried.

"To forcibly intervene until automony has proved to be absolutely inoperative would be an act of robbery."

Let it be remembered that this declaration by Congressman Barrows was made several weeks after the Maine court of inquiry had decided that the destruction of the Maine was due to an exterior explosion, in other words to Spanish devilry; and after Senator Proctor had startled the country by his calm and dispassionate statement of the hideous condition of affairs in Cuba.

Mr. Barrows so thought and so stated after Senators Thurston, Gallinger and Money and Congressman Cummings had detailed at great length the savagery of Spanish goverment in Cuba; the pitiful condition of the Reconcentradoes and Pacificoes, and had demonstrated the insincerity of the automonist programme, its complete inadequacy and its positive rejection by the people of Cuba. In the full light of all information obtained prior to the declaration of war, Mr. Barrows made the statement quoted above, and there is no doubt that the statement made in an unguarded moment, when he thought it to be popular at home, showed the real feelings and convictions of our Congressman upon the question of intervention by our government in Cuba. Beyond question the opinion of our Congressman two weeks before the declaration of war was that intervention in Cuba would be a marauding expedition, and that the invading army and navy would be robbers and marauders.

When the declaration of war was made and the President called for volunteers, the flower of the youth of the country responded to his call and enlisted in army and navy for purpose of carrying our flag into the heart of the enemy's territory, of executing the resolution of Congress, willing if need be to lay down their lives that Cuba might be free, that Spanish tyranny, Spanish misgovernment and Spanish savagery might cease in the Pearl of the Antilles, and that the glory and honor of the United States might be maintained and advanced.

These men, our brothers and our sons, these noble fellows who loved their country better than life, were robbers according to Congressman Barrows, and those of them who perished, died the death of robbers and marauders.

Mr. Barrows will seek to escape from the logical inference of his candid statement and will declare that he voted for intervention and in favor of the declaration of war. So indeed he did, Unlike other members of Congress who had the courage of their convictions, Mr. Barrows weakened when the time came, abandoned his declared opinions and voted with his colleagues, voted for the "robbery" he had condemned.

Again, as in the case of the tariff, convictions were subordinated to an ambition to return to Congress: but do the Republicans of the Tenth district want a man with the convictions of Mr. Barrows to represent them in the next Congress when the great questions to be passed upon will pertain to our colonial possessions and especially to the retention or abandonment of the Philippines?

Mr. Barrows does not believe in retaining the Philippines, and will, no doubt, exert what influence he may have in Congress against it, and against the policy of expansion generally.

In striking contrast with the opinion of Mr. Barrows are those of Hon. Milton C. Paige also a candidate for the Republican nomination to Congress. In a recent address, published in the Boston papers, Mr. Paige said:

The next Congress will, in all probability, be confronted by new problems as the result of our victory in the Spanish war. Our national outlook has changed more in the last three or four months than it changed in the preceding one hundred years. Whether it is acceptable to all the people or not. it is a fact, that we shall henceforth have colonist to govern, distant from our shore with the prospect of an enormous expansion of our trade and commerce. You will not expect me to present a solution of these great problems but I can assure you that the policy of the Republican party will be my policy, and that, if I shall have a voice upon them in Congress, it shall be in favor of the policy upon which my Republican colleagus agree. Personally it seems to me, the United States has started upon a career of grandeur and greatness, that shall eclipse anything it has heretofore known, and I strongly believe that wherever the American flag now floats in the kies, there it should stay forever. I do not believe that the people of this country want to see the American flag that has been raised at the cost of American life-blood hauled down, and my opinion is that if the next Congress is in control of the Republican party, as it no doubt will be, our flag will stay where our soldiers and our sailors have placed them."

Evidently Mr. Paige does not agree with Mr. Barrows that the war with Spain was, on the part of the United States, a criminal raid.

Come, Mary,

DISGRACE OF FRANCE.

Henry's Crime Committed For the Good of the Cause.

He Is Believed to Have Acted For Others.

Paris, Sept. 2.—Colonel Henry left letters addressed to the minister of war and to General Boisdeffre in which he protested that he had not realized the gravity of the act which he committed "solely for the good of the cause."

The decument on the strength of which Captain Dreyfus was consigned to the most frightful punishment that the mind can conceive was not the famous list of documents which was asserted to be in the handwriting of the prisoner, but a note alleged to have been written by the German military attache to the Italian embassy, and in which the following words occurred: "This scoundrel Dreyfus is becoming too exacting." This note was submitted by the chief of the general staff, and by the other officers engaged to prosecute Dreyfus, to members of the court-martial, when it became evident that Dreyfus could not be convicted on the strength of the bordoreau alone, which, of a dozen experts called upon to identify the handwriting, only one, positively declared that the handwriting was that of Dreyfus. Two others would not commit themselves either one way or the other, and the remainder positively denied that Dreyfus had written it. Fearing that Dreyfus would escape conviction the note in question was produced. It was alleged to have been intercepted between the German and Italian embassy by the spy who had obtained the memorandum, but it was not shown either to Dreyfus or to his counsel, a fact which in itself was sufficient to invalidate his trial and conviction.

The faithful wife of the prisoner is radiant with joy. She believes that justice is near at last. "Justice has triumphed—or soon will. Alfred will receive a new trial, a fair one, which will restore to him and his family the good name which was stolen from him. The moment for which I have been waiting for years is near."

It is now expected that Zola, sentenced for advocating the justice of Dreyfus' plea for a new trial, will return to France at once.

The case presents no new feature; but there is a plentiful supply of rumors. The first of these is that Dreyfus is now dead, no letter having been received from him for some weeks. Another report is that General Boisdeffre, who has just resigned the post of chief of the general staff, has committed suicide. Colonel Du Paty Clam is on a vacation trip in Switzerland, and there is no confirmation of the statement that he had been arrested for complicity in the Henry forgery. General Gonse, assistant chief of the general staff, who tendered his resignation to the minister of war, has been persuaded to withdraw it, as his retirement under the age limit will occur next month.

Speculation is keen over the motives for Lieutenant Colonel Henry's death. Looking to the view the whole nation has adopted regarding the guilt of Dreyfus, it is argued that Henry may have supposed he was acting in the country's interest even in forging the letter, which would satisfy the nation of the justice of the sentence without production of the real evidence, which would be undesirable on the highest political grounds. In that case, Henry might have posed as a martyr to misguided patriotism. The traditions of the intelligence department, which at the time of the condemnation of Dreyfus was under a conspicuous anti-Semite, Colonel Sandherr, would probably have led a blunt mind like Lieutenant Colonel Henry's to construe the slightest hint from above of the desirability of killing off the anti-Dreyfus agitation, into an order to do so by any means.

Colonel Sandherr, who was then suffering from an incipient paralysis, seems to have been the head of a general conspiracy to hunt Jewish officers out of the French army. Dreyfus, a man of haughty demeanor, but of vast strategic knowledge, would naturally be selected as a victim of those machinations. It is asserted that Colonel Sandherr's last days were haunted by a fear, amounting to terror, lest the illegal and flippant nature of the evidence upon which Captain Dreyfus was condemned should be revealed and weaken the prestige of the intelligence department, and that he enjoined upon Henry, his subordinate, to guard the department's traditions at all cost.

The carelessness of the authorities in allowing Henry to have a razor and in not watching him is generally interpreted as connivance, and, perhaps, as persuasion, since officers under arrest and likely to be condemned should, according to military regulations, be constantly watched, while Lieutenant Colonel Henry was left for hours alone and allowed to lock the door on the inside. If there were persuasion, it is not likely to have been difficult. Had Henry been expelled from the army, both himself and wife would have lost all pension rights. As it is, the widow becomes entitled to a handsome pension. This seems a more likely motive than the explanation, based upon the alleged incoherent letter left behind, that he had lost his reason.

Convention In Worcester.

Boston, Sept. 2.—At a meeting of the state committee of the Democracy, it was voted to hold the state convention in Worcester, Oct. 4.

The basis of representation has been fixed at one delegate-at-large for each city and town and each ward of a city, and one additional delegate for each 100 votes, or majority fractional part thereof, cast in 1897 for the Democratic candidate for governor. The basis of representation will be the same for delegates to the councillor, congressional, county, senatorial and representative conventions.

CUPPY RESPONSIBLE.

Champions Returned to Second Place by the Clevelands.

Boston, Sept. 2.—The Bostons for the second time suffered defeat at the hands of the Clevelands at the south end grounds yesterday, giving the best of the series played to date to the visitors. The weather man threatened the rooters several times during the afternoon, but changed his mind and allowed the boys to finish the game.

GEORGE CUPPY.

Tenney's stiffness prevented him from playing, and Yeager had to play first base. Willis pitched winning ball ordinarily. The Bostons were weak in hitting, outside of Lowe and Hamilton, and chances for runs were lost. The Cleveland boys played as if they were at home, and besides good pitching by Cuppy, and grand fielding on the part of Wallace, Tebeau, Blake and O'Connor, the batting of Wallace, Tebeau and O'Connor was noticeable.

As Cincinnati won yesterday, Boston is now in second place, with Baltimore a good third.

The Phillies won yesterday's game in St. Louis in the ninth inning. After two men were out, Carsey gave McFarland and Cross bases on balls; then Donahue singled to left and McFarland tallied.

The Washingtons were badly crippled in Cincinnati. Only two of the hits made off Hawley reached the outfield. Corcoran's single and Peitz's double won the game in the eighth for the Ohioans.

With the score 9 to 3 in the ninth inning, Cunningham of the Louisvilles eased up, and the Baltimores touched him for four singles and two doubles, almost tieing the score.

The Chicagoes opened up on McKenna of the Brooklyns with a single and a clean four-bagger in the first, and kept it up all through the game, batting for a total of 26 bases, and winning by 10 to 0.

The New Yorks could not hit or field in Pittsburg, and were not in the game at any time.

Dolan's great pitching, combined with perfect support, shut the Buffaloes out in Springfield. Four visitors reached first base during the game, three on hits and one on a base on balls. The Springfields scored on errors alone.

The Providences won two games Thursday from the Ottawas and jumped to the head of the second division. Evans pitched great ball in the first game. He allowed the Ottawas only three hits. In the second game the Ottawas batted Egan successfully, but the hustling of the grays on bases, together with costly errors by the Canadians, turned in favor of the Providences finally.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Julia A. Metcalf, 38 years old, jumped into the Neponset river last night, with suicidal intentions. She was rescued and resuscitated, but at the hospital later death ensued. Before jumping, she was seen to drink from a vial which may have contained poison.

These officers were chosen yesterday at a meeting of the grand lodge of Odd Fellows: Grand master, Charles Q. Tirrell of Natick; deputy master, N. J. W. Fish of Taunton; grand secretary, John U. Perkins of Chelsea; assistant secretary, Charles C. Fuller of Worcester; treasurer, J. Lawrence Martin of Melrose; warden, Rev. William F. Dusseault of Acton; instructor, Joseph York of Wollaston; trustee of Odd Fellows' home, John J. Whipple of Brockton; representative, John Corkhill.

Richard Kelly, wanted on four counts for forgery, was brought from New York yesterday by the police, to stand trial here. The charges brought against him are a year old.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Captain C. D. Sigsbee has been detached from command of the St. Paul and ordered to command the Texas.

The appointment of W. C. Hascall of Dover to the military academy at West Point is announced. I. B. McKeon of Manchester is alternate.

At midnight the five-story brick building of the A. Ceisel Manufacturing company of St. Louis took fire, and within 20 minutes was destroyed. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Fire in the Belbach smelting works at Newark caused a heavy loss, although for days it will be impossible to ascertain the amount. There was a quantity of silver in process of smelting when the fire was discovered, and when the pots were overturned the metal flowed in all directions.

ASK FOR RECIPROCITY

Commercial Men of Boston After the Canadian Markets.

Interests That Are Opposed to Lower Duties.

Quebec, Sept. 2.—The representatives of three leading interests of the United States were heard by the United States commissioners yesterday. All talked for the same thing—that the present duties affecting their respective industries be not changed. They asked the commissioners not to enter into any agreement with the Canadian government whereby their own lines of trade would be disturbed. The Boston chamber of commerce also was given a hearing. The argument of the Boston men was along entirely different lines. They asked for a modification of the trade relations with Canada, and that relations as near to absolute reciprocity as possible be secured. Osborne Hawes, during a talk after the hearing, said: "What we desire is a chance to sell our manufactured goods in the Canadian market. We believe in asking this of the Quebec conference, we are speaking the sentiments of 200,000 workingmen along the Canadian border of the United States. In Massachusetts alone we manufacture $900,000,000 of goods each year, and we want a market for these goods. We do not fear competition, for we have the greater wealth and facilities on our side. We realize that the members of the joint high commission must keep in mind the greatest good for the greatest number, but we hope they will find it possible to establish a better trade basis between the two countries. The manufacturers of the New England states are particularly desirous of getting their goods into Nova Scotia and eastern Canadian markets."

Speaking for the New England fishermen, Sylvester Cunningham said they desired the laws governing their industry to remain unchanged. They could not afford to do away with the present duty on Canadian fish for the privilege of free entry into the Newfoundland waters for bait. "To establish free trade in the Atlantic fisheries now," he said, "would mean the certain transferring of the American fishing industry to the Canadian borders."

The United States lumber industry asked for the same action on the part of the conference. The present duties imposed upon Canadian lumber should remain. To remove the duties would well nigh destroy the industry, and to lower them would mean serious injury to the American interests.

Warner Miller, representing the pulp paper interests, made a similar argument. He asked that the tariff on pulp and paper remain as now fixed.

Senator Fairbanks, when asked if he could indicate what the outcome of the conference promised, replied that so far the work had been satisfactory and all that had been expected by either side. The attitude of the delegations who have appeared here in opposition to any steps in the way of reciprocity caused some of the Canadians to predict that the commissioners will be unable to accomplish all they have undertaken to do. They say that Canada wants reciprocity above all things, and that the United States does not desire this, but merely wishes to adjust a few troublesome questions, leaving the general trade relations as they are. None of the commissioners will talk upon this point.

Outburst of Enthusiasm.

Canton, Sept. 2.—There was a grand demonstration at noon yesterday in honor of President McKinley and Secretary of State Day. Out of respect of the president's expressed wish that his present visit be informal, the affair was to a considerable extent unorganized and partook largely of the nature of a spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm. The people of the community turned out en masse and from the depot to the Barber residence, where the McKinleys are the guests of Mrs. McKinley's sister, the various streets were decorated. The arrival was so near the noon hour that the employes of many factories succeeded in securing an early shutdown and joined the throng about the station. President and Mrs. McKinley were driven direct to the Barber home, where their stay of a few hours was shorn of all formality.

Seized by Miners.

Pana, Ills., Sept. 2.—Six hundred striking miners yesterday seized David J. Overholt and Levi S. Overholt, president and superintendent respectively of the Springside mines. The two officials were taken out of their buggy by the mob and carried in the direction of the mines. Nothing is known of their fate.

Rev. Dr. Hillard, a minister of Pana, who made a plea to the miners to release the Overholts, was knocked in the head with a revolver. The two officials were dragged from their buggy in front of the Baltimore and Ohio depot. The seizure was made for the purpose of demanding the surrender of the negro miners who had been working in union men's places.

Danger In Bicycle Racing.

Mahoney City, Pa., Sept. 2.—The national meet of the Mahoney City Athletic association was held here yesterday. Some of the speediest riders in the country were on the track. In the fourth heat, two-mile championship, which was won by Martin of Lowell, five were thrown from their wheels and considerably bruised. In the first heat of the three-mile handicap, Walsh of Boston and Becker of Minneapolis were among four who collided on the track. Walsh is lying at a hotel suffering from concussion of the brain.

Worcester Woman Drowned.

New London, Sept. 2.—While George J. Fay and wife of Worcester, Mass., were out in the harbor crabbing last evening their boat was upset, and Mrs. Fay was drowned. Mr. Fay was rescued in an unconscious condition, and he is so precarious that there is but little hope that he will survive the shock.

September Suggestions.

As September approaches we think of how to fix the house up to make it cosy for winter. A new carpet on a floor will change the whole appearance of a room. Some rooms only need a mat or two and other rooms need a handsome rug or art square to add warmth or richness.

It is easy to select one for any place after inspecting our assortment.

Boom for Braintree.

It is now quite likely that the east part of the town will soon receive the biggest boom that has come this way for a long time, that vacant houses will again be filled and that nearly three quarters of a million of dollars will be spent during the next eighteen months.

It is a well known fact that for several months the Fore River Engine Company has been preparing plans and enlarging their works with a view to building torpedo boats for Uncle Sam and those who know the ability of Mr. Wellington and his associates have felt assured from the start that the firm would secure some of the orders to be given out by the Navy department. The bids have recently been opened and it appears that out of the several competitors the East Braintree firm not only had the lowest bid but they proposed to furnish the greatest speed and finish the boats in the shortest time. The plans which they presented showed long and careful study of the subject and Mr. Wellington was highly complimented upon that point.

If the contracts come to Braintree it will mean much for the East village, the works will be enlarged another building two hundred feet long will be erected. Offices will be built for government inspectors and 300 hands will be emloyed for about two years. The Company is ready to commence work immediately upon receipt of the contract and we hope for the sake of Braintree as well as this enterprising firm that Secretary Long will find it in his way to accept the proposals of the Fore River Engine works.

—Out of the crucial test of the war with Spain, President McKinley emerges with enduring honor. How well he has done his duty the people of all the civilized world already know Without bluster without pretense, without vulgar display, he has brought one of the most extraordinary wars in history to a successful termination, and he is now engaged in making its fruits secure and permanent by diplomatic processes. His sagacity and tact have already won more lasting victories in the council chamber than have followed on land and sea the military and naval forces of the nation. Firmly entrenched behind the moral and patriotic aspirations and impulses of the American people, he has gained the favor and good will of all the nations by his firm attitude, his humane instincts, and his sublime devotion to the cause of justice and honor.—Boston Courier.

AT CAMP DALTON.

Camp Dalton
Saturday, Sept. 2.

Yesterday was the warmest day experienced in Camp since the warm spell in July. The mercury was up in the 90's. As the weather of late has been very cool the change was felt considerably.

A funny incident happended about noon yesterday. The boys of late have been putting up a howl for overcoats and right in the heat of the day the order was received to take the measures for the coats, which had been arriving all the morning. It seemed at that time as if fans and linen dusters would be more appropriate, and as if overcoats would never be needed.

The drills were very light both morning and afternoon, and frequent rests were given. The changes in camp two weeks ago has caused some friction in regard to mess halls, as the severa companies were compelled to cross lines when marching to meals. This was rectified yesterday. A large force of men from each comapany went to work directly after dinner and moved the cooks outfits so that a direct march is now made with no crossing.

Camp Dalton will be crowded to its utmost, if present plans are carried out. The Ninth already has orders to camp with the Fifth and Gov. Wolcott yesterday received a telegram from Adj. Corbin at Washnington asking him if Camp Dalton would accommodate the First Heavy. Orders are expected to come next week to the First to proceed at once to Camp Dalton to be mustered out. There will be in all over 3000 men on the field if these plans are carried out.

Lieut. Whitney is commander of the guard today.

Overcoats will be issued today.

Mrs. G. A. Phillips, wife of Sergt. Phillips, who has been ill for the past week, is fast getting better and will be out in a day or so.

The firing squad from Co. K who attended the burial services of Private Boyd of Quincy were Corporal Leslie Musician Johnson, Privates Pierce, Logan, Johnson. Clarke, Garbutt, Gunderson, Gould and Newcomb.

Troops F, D, and A went to Boston over the road today to take part in the grand parade of the navy.

A thuder storm accompanied by a high wind struck the camp last evening about 8 o'clock, while the band concert was being given. It threatened to sweep every tent off the field, but they weathered it, and the coolness was appreciated.

MACK.

Saw the Warships.

Three boys of about fifteen years of age took quite a cruise on the water yesterday and caused their parents considerable anxiety last night by not returning. They started in a 15-foot row boat with artificial sail, from Quincy Point for Minots to greeet the war ships. But it was rough outside and they changed the course to City Point, and managed to arrive just before the squall last evening. Today they sailed around the warships and got home safely, none the worse for wear, but considerably wet.

Echoes of the War.

The parade in Boston will begin at 2 P. M. and will be dismissed at 3.

President McKinley is at Camp Wikoff today.

The Ninth Massachusetts recruits have been ordered home.

Civil Trial List.

183—Skully vs. Tourell.

—The sloop yacht Fiona of South Boston which took out a cruising party of Dorchester people Aug. 22, put tnto Gloucester Wednesday with a sad tale. A gasolene tank had exploded off Ogunquint that day fatally injuring John Slavin and seriously wounding P. Martin.

Editor Huxford did not forget to thank the newspapers of the district for the generous advertising which was given the Old Stoughton Musical society.

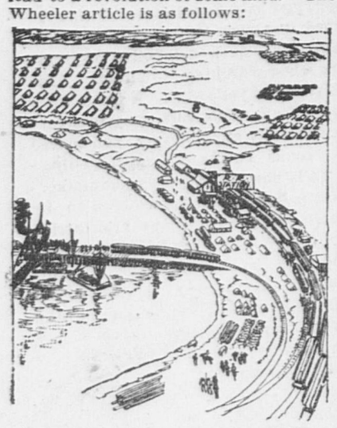
WHEELER A DEFENDER

Charges of Neglect Are Not Made by Brave Men.

Some Discomforts Inseparable From War.

The President and Mr. Alger Praised For Their Solicitude.

New York, Sept. 3.—One of many letters of inquiry, reproof and lamentation received at Camp Wikoff by General Wheeler is made the text for an answer to some of the assailants of the conditions, alleged as existing under his command. The writer of the missive, declaring uneasiness about a stepson who is among the volunteers, said: "Although he has never uttered a complaint since he has been in the army, we hear from other sources of the cruel and horrible treatment inflicted on our soldiers under the pretense of humanity for our neighbors, and the whole country is in a state of terrible excitement. I should not be surprised if the feeling should lead to a revolution of some kind." The Wheeler article is as follows:



BIRDSEYE VIEW OF CAMP WIKOFF.

"It will be seen that this letter says that not a word of complaint has been received from this soldier and so far as my investigation goes, no complaint has been made by any of the brave soldiers that have added glory to our arms in the Cuban campaign. A great many anxious fathers, mothers, brothers or sisters arrive here from all parts of the United States to look after their relatives, who they say the papers tell them are suffering; and many of them have heard that their relatives are in a condition of starvation. Most of these people are little able to expend the money for such a journey, and they are surprised when they come here to find their relatives surrounded with everything to eat which can be procured by money; and if sick in the hospital, they are gratified and surprised to find that they are given every possible care.

"The Exact Facts."

"In reply to a direct request that I give the exact facts as I see them, I will state: Every officer and soldier who went to Cuba regarded that he was given a great and special privilege in being permitted to engage in that campaign. They all knew that they were to encounter yellow fever and other diseases, as well as the torrid heat of the country, and they were proud and glad to do so. They knew that it was impossible for them to have the advantages of wagon transportation which usually accompanies armies, and yet officers and men were glad to go, to carry their blankets and their rations on their backs and to be subjected, without any shelter, to the sun and rains by day and the heavy dews by night. They certainly knew that the Spaniards had spent years in erecting defenses, and it was their pleasure to assault and their duty to capture the Spanish works. They were more than glad to incur the hardships and the dangers. They went there and did their duty, each man seeming to feel that American honor and prestige was to be measured by his conduct. The brave men who won the victories did not complain of the neglect of the government, but on the contrary they seemed grateful to the president and secretary of war for giving them the opportunity to incur these dangers and hardships. They realized that, in the hurried organization of an expedition by a government which had no one with any experience in such matters, it was impossible to have everything arranged to perfection; and they will testify that under the circumstances the conditions were much more perfect than anyone could have reason to expect, and that the president and the secretary of war and others who planned and dispatched this expedition deserve high commendation.

The Lack of Equipage.

"One reason why our army was lacking in some respects in equipage was that a telegram was received from Admiral Sampson stating that if the army reached there immediately they could take the city at once, but if there was delay, the fortifications of the Spaniards would be so perfected that there might be great difficulty in taking it. On receiving this dispatch from Admiral Sampson the war department directed the army to move at once, and, as all connected with the army will recall, the orders were received after dark, and the army was in motion, had travelled nine miles and was on the ships at daylight. When the expedition sailed for Cuba it went there escorted by a large fleet of warships.

"At that time it was regarded as impossible for a merchant ship to sail on the ocean safely from any American port to Santiago, but as soon as the Spanish fleet was destroyed so that it was possible for unarmed ships to sail safely to Santiago, the generous people of the United States subscribed money without limit and dispatched ship after ship loaded with luxuries and delicacies for the Santiago army, and everything that could be accomplished for their comfort was done by the president and secretary of war.

"After the surrender had been completed and arrangements perfected for transporting the Spanish army to Spain, the president and secretary of war sent shipping to Santiago and transported our army to one of the most healthful localities in the United States. The point selected by the secretary of war was so situated that thorough protection was given the people of the United States from the danger of yellow fever contagion. The soldiers, upon their arrival at this place, received every care and bounty which could be procured by money. The president and secretary of war directed that their health and comforts should be cared for without reference to expense, and in addition the people within a circuit of 100 miles vied with each other in shipping to them carloads and steamboat loads of luxuries of all kinds.

Sick Are Improving.

"I have just finished my daily inspection of the hospitals With rare exceptions the sick are cheerful and improving. I have nurses and doctors to care for them, and in all my tours I have not found a single patient who made the slightest complaint. It is true there has been suffering, and great suffering. The climate of Cuba was very severe upon all our soldiers, but instead of complaining, the hearts of those brave men are filled with gratitude to the people for the bounteous generosity which has been extended to them. There is no doubt that there have been individual cases of suffering and possibly neglect among the soldiers, not only in Cuba but since their arrival at this place. Nearly 20,000 men were brought from a yellow fever district to the United States. It would have been criminal to have landed them and allowed them to go promiscuously among the people. It has been stated by physicians that if that had been done, yellow fever would have spread through many of our states. To avoid such a catastrophe, a point which is more thoroughly isolated from the people than any other locality which could be found was selected. By these wise means the country has been saved from the scourge of this fearful disease.

"Everyone will realize that to land 18,000 men and put them on the fields, without any buildings whatever, could not be done without some hardships. Over 5000 sick men have been received in the general hospital, and as many more sick have been cared for in the camps, and yet only about 60 deaths have occurred in these hospitals. Tents had to be erected and hospitals contructed, and preparations to supply these 18,000 men with wholesome water, food, medicines, physicians, nurses, hospital furniture, cooks, wagons, ambulances and the other needs essential to the caring for 18,00 men, fully half of whom are very sick or in a feeble condition. In addition to this most of the bedding and much of the clothing were left in Santiago to prevent yellow fever infection. All of these deficiencies have had to be supplied. We had but one line of railroad to bring these supplies, and sometimes there have been delays."

What Governor Black Saw.

Washington, Sept. 3.—Governor Black and a party of New Yorkers arrived yesterday from a visit to the mobilization camps at Chickamauga Park, Lexington, Ky., and Huntsville, Ala. As the result of his investigation the governor will suggest to the war authorities that the Ninth and Fourteenth New York regiments, located at Chickamauga, be relieved from service as soon as practicable.

FRANCIS S. BLACK.

"The conditions in the camps we visited," said Governor Black, "were better really than I had expected to find them; that is, they were better than they had been pictured in the newspaper reports I had read. Many things doubtless could be remedied, but on the whole the camps we found not to be in bad condition. Those at Lexington and Huntsville are in excellent shape. How long they will remain so depends, I take it, upon the length of time the troops are kept there. The camp at Chickamauga is the worst of the three, if such a comparison may be made. That has been occupied for four months by many thousands of troops, and the very ground has become infected with disease. My idea is that the camp ought to be abandoned, or, at least, the regimental camp sites ought to be moved frequently."

Pando's Large Pile.

Key West, Sept. 3.—Having successfully done everything in his power to convey the impression that he was sailing for Spain, via New York, Pando instead secretly started directly for his native land on a French steamer, with 12,000,000 francs.

There are many reasons for Pando's conduct, though exactly which one moved him it is impossible to ascertain. Much depends on where the treasure he carried away came from, but whatever source, when the army is seven months in arrears and the civil list four months, and while both cry out for pay, it is obvious that a dangerous amount of discontent will be stirred up if the knowledge of the transportation of any such amount becomes public.

Fever In Their Bones.

Indianapolis, Sept. 3.—Colonel Studebaker, in speaking of his troops which have just arrived home, said: "This is not the same regiment I took away from Indianapolis last May. The personality is the same, but it is made up of a different lot of men. They have fever in their bones; they are hungry and their strength is wasted. It is all due to the cess-pools in which they lived in the south. When the men left here they were strong and showed their hardiness. They were all right when they left Chickamauga park. I charge the condition of the men to the camp at Tampa and to the conditions surrounding it.

"When men who have been investigating the condition of the Florida camps say we have not been in actual need of food and medical assistance, they do not know what they are talking about My men cannot march in straight lines on account of their weakness. They cannot carry their rifles at the right position. They cannot march any distance without many of them having to drop out of the ranks to rest. I think that our coming home has saved the lives of hundreds in the regiment."

Anxious For Home.

South Framingham, Mass., Sept. 3.—The Fifth Massachusetts regiment is far from unanimous in its wish to stay in the service, now that the war is over, the actual poll of the enlisted men not being up to the anticipated 75 percent. The men wish it understood that the officers exerted no influence one way or another, and did not figure in the canvass which was proposed, arranged and carried out, with consent of Colonel Whitney, by Sergeant Major Buechner. The vote was as follows: Whole number of enlisted men in the regiment, 1261; voted, 1223; yes, 710; no, 513.

LOST ITS PRESIDENT.

Salt Lake, Sept. 3.—A private telegram from George O. Cannon, who is now in San Francisco, announces the death of the president of the Mormon church, Wilford Woodruff. Mr. Woodruff died at 6:40 Friday morning. He had been troubled with kidney complaint for sometime, and went to the Pacific coast for the improvement of his health about a month ago.

WILFORD WOODRUFF.

Mr. Woodruff was born at Farmington, Conn., in 1807, and was one of the original pioneers that reached Salt Lake valley in 1847. He had been president of the church for the past 10 years.

Created Great Excitement.

Pana, Ills., Sept. 3.—Fifty-four deputy sheriffs who have been on guard duty at the Springside coal mines made a demonstration yesterday afternoon by marching in a body through the principal streets of the city, with loaded rifles and fixed bayonets, to the city hall park, where they rested on their arms for half an hour. They were in charge of Mayor Penwell and Chief Deputy William Baldwin. Later they returned to the Springside mine.

All along the line of march citizens hissed the deputies and applied all manner of epithets to them, but the deputies coolly continued the march. Mayor Penwell said the deputies were brought to the city on orders of Governor Tanner, but the state secretary of the labor bureau, David Ross, the governor's representative, looking into the situation, denied the statement of the mayor. Mayor Penwell said it was feared the lives of the deputies' and operators' families were in danger. The demonstration created great excitement.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 3.—The barge, Moonbeam, coal laden, from Newport News for this port, has been abandoned off Barnegat by the steamer which had it in tow. The crew of four men was probably rescued. The barge was built in Searsport, Me., in 1859.

Mayor Farnham of Malden arrived in this city from Montauk Point yesterday, and in an interview said that matters were in bad shape there. He says that the Ninth regiment men look like walking skeletons. He thinks that half of them can safely be brought back to Boston at once.

The largest number of immigrants to reach this port in a single day for many years passed the inspectors yesterday—1600 in all.

Curtailing In Fall River.

Fall River, Sept. 3.—Trading in print cloths has been quiet for a few days. Nevertheless the output for the week has equalled the production. Prices are firm, on a basis of 2 1-16 for regulars. Some of the mills have sold well for September and October delivery. The American Linen, Merchants, Wampanoag, Stafford, Flint, Laurel Lake, Weetamoe, and possibly one or two others will remain closed next week. It is believed that the curtailment movement will not extend much farther.

Hanged Himself.

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—Charles P. Newton, a traveling salesman for a tobacco firm of New York, committed suicide at the Bingham House by hanging. His motive for the act is unknown, and he left no word behind. Newton was a frequent guest at the hotel, and was apparently a man of exemplary habits. He reached the hotel several days ago, and up to the time he was last seen was apparently in good spirits.

Struck by Lightning.

Keene, N. H., Sept. 3.—During a heavy thunder shower last night the lightning struck and set fire to the barn of Andrew J. Williams, and not only the barn, but a number of other buildings and the ell of the dwelling house were destroyed. Mr. Williams died about a month ago, and the loss of the buildings, which were valued at $5000 and insured for only $2500, is a severe blow to the family.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

TOPIC.—"Repentance and conversion—what are they?"—Ezek. xviii; 20-32; Acts xxvi, 19, 20.

Repentance and conversion are essentially similar in meaning. They refer to the turning, to the changing, of a man, under conviction and sorrow for sin, from sin to the service of God. Repentance may suggest more vividly the inward feelings and emotions under such an experience, and conversion the change in the outward life, but for all practical purposes both words include the same inward emotions and outward actions.

In the reference in Ezekiel the Lord Himself tells us what repentance is. In that from the Acts Paul describes it, and a comparison of the passages will show that Paul's theology is correct.

Repentance and conversion as described in these passages include conviction of sin, sorrow for sin, turning from sin, turning to God.

1. Repentance necessarily includes conviction of sin. No one will turn from sin except he is first convinced that he is a sinner. "When the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness * * * he shall save his soul. Because he considereth and turneth away from all his transgressions he shall surely live; he shall not die." Consideration leads to conviction, and conviction to conversion. It was not until David, under Nathan's awful declaration, "Thou art the man," was thus convicted of his sinfulness that he cried out to God in sorrow and repentance for forgiveness.

2. Repentance includes sorrow and grief for sin. Sorrow is not repentance, but it always accompanies it. We may be sorry for sin and not repent of it, but we will not repent of it without being sorry for it.

3. Repentance is turning from sin to God. These are the two essential elements of repentance. The sinner is convicted of his sinfulness, he is sorry for it, and then he turns from it to God. With grief and hatred for his sin, the sinner turns from it unto God and endeavors afterward new obedience. This is repentance as Scripturally defined. To Israel the Lord said: "Repent and turn yourselves from all your transgressions, so iniquity will not be your ruin. Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed and make you a new heart and a new spirit." A new heart and a new spirit would result in a new life. Paul said to the gentiles, "Repent and turn to God and do works meet for repentance." Repentance is not only ceasing to do evil, but also learning to do well. It is both turning from sin and turning to God. Have we repented? Have we felt sorry for sin, turned from sin, and are we serving God? Repentance is a personal matter between us and God. It brings God's pardon and forgiveness for sin. The absence of it causes the penalty for sin to fall upon our own heads. Let us therefore repent, turn to God and do works meet for repentance.

Bible Readings.—Job xi, 13, 14; Isa. i, 16-20; lv, 6-9; Jer. iv, 1; xxxi, 18-20; Ezek. xiv, 6; Hos. vi, 1-3; xiv, 1-9; Zech. i, 3, 4; Mal. iii, 1-12; Math. iii, 1, 2; Mark i, 14, 15; Luke iii, 1-3; Acts ii, 38; Rev. ii, 5, 16.

Try to Find Out.

All ought to try to find out what they were made for. Every one has a place and purpose in God's plan. That purpose should be understood and fulfilled as far as possible. Every saved man is saved for some specific service besides his own happiness. God made no man simply for his own happiness, and He saves no man simply that he alone may be happy in heaven. He had a nobler end in both cases than the gratification of a selfish spirit. There is some service for every one in God's vineyard. Idlers are not wanted. Let us find what God wants us to do and do it. Let us do it in earnest and do it well. Then God will say, "Well done, good and faithful servant." Oh, how glad that will make us.—Christian Instructor.

Upon the Enemy.

Let us train our guns upon the enemy, mass our forces against all forms of sin. Let us exercise wholesome discipline, ridding ourselves of all persons who bring the church into disrepute. Let judgment begin at the house of God. Let us first be pure, then peaceable. The sooner we get back to our former methods the better, to the Holy Ghost revivals that sweep every obstruction out of the way, that cause backsliders to confess their sins and half hearted, compromising Christians to come out boldly on the Lord's side. —Philadelphia Methodist.

With Those Who Suffer.

We all need personal contact with those who suffer. "The most certain softener of a man's moral skin," writes Dr. Arnold of Rugby, "and sweetener of his blood are, I am sure, domestic intercourse in a happy marriage and intercourse with the poor." Gladstone never appeared nobler than when he read the Bible to an old street sweeper in an attic.—Our Church Paper.

The Spirit Robes Us.

When we have conquered an enmity, the Spirit robes us in humility. We must not think we are forgiving because our anger is getting tired.—Lutheran.

The Battlefield.

Once this soft turf, this rivulet's sands,
Were trampled by a hurrying crowd,
And fierce hearts and armed hands
Encounter'd in the battle cloud.

* * * * * * *

Truth crushed to earth shall rise again—
The eternal years of God are hers—
But error, wounded, writhes in pain
And dies among his worshipers.

Yea, though thou lie upon the dust
When they who helped thee flee in fear,
Die full of hope and manly trust,
Like those who fell in battle here.

Another hand thy sword shall wield,
Another hand the standard wave;
Full from the trumpet's mouth is peal'd
The blast of triumph o'er thy grave.
—William Cullen Bryant.

LABOR'S BIG DAY.

What It Signifies and How It Is Observed.

THE TOILER'S GRIEVANCES.

Those Who Hearken Will Hear of Them on Sept. 5.

Labor Has Cause For Complaint and Is Dissatisfied—The Machine and the Man. A Shorter Workday the Most Important Change Proposed—What Has Been Accomplished by Organized Labor — The Happy Time Coming When the Worker Shall Hold the Post of Honor.

Labor day, like Memorial and Thanksgiving days, has become a general holiday, and the original idea upon which it was established has been by the larger part of the people lost sight of. It was the intention of those who originated the idea and who labored to have it recognized in the statutes of the various states that the day should be set apart as one to commemorate the achievements of labor, its needs and prospects and to discuss ways and means for its advancement, but so prone are the American people to seize upon any occasion to make a holiday that now, instead of entertainment of an educational sort being sought for by those who observe the day, the vast majority go forth to enjoy themselves as upon any other holiday without reference to the occasion; but the organized labor movement of the country continues to observe the day in the manner originally intended, and in all the principal industrial centers of the country it is marked by speechmaking and other educational work, as well as by parading and picnicking.

The first observance of Labor day took place in New York in 1883. There is some controversy as to its origin, and there are several claimants for the honor of suggesting it, but it is probable that the credit belongs to P. J. McGuire, now national secretary of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. The Central Labor union of New York claims to be the organization to first celebrate a day it called Labor day. Be all this as it may, the day is observed in two-thirds of the states and territories, and with few exceptions the first Monday in September of each year is named in the statutes creating the holiday. Oregon was the first state to pass a Labor day law.

The ceremonial observance of Labor day has from the first been left entirely to organized labor, and while in the states where it is a recognized holiday all business is suspended and everybody ceases from labor and most go in for a day of recreation it might properly be characterized as Organized Labor day.

The central labor organizations in the industrial centers with few exceptions have come to consider it absolutely necessary that each of them should arrange for some kind of celebration on Labor day, and generally the chief feature of the day's programme is an address by some champion of labor. Those who have not attended any of these public assemblages of the sons of toil may doubt the assertion that some of the ablest speeches made in our country come from the Labor day platforms, but such is the case. The organized labor movement of the country has during the past quarter of century educated men along economic lines to such a degree that many of the men who work for a daily wage are as well informed as college professors of political economy on their hobby, and experience in their organizations and at agitation meetings has made many of them public speakers of unusual ability. Generally it is from these men that the Labor day orator is chosen. Sometimes a professional man who has made a special study of the labor question is honored by the organizations, and unfortunately a politician occasionally gets on the programme.

As has been said by one who was once high in the councils of labor: "Labor day is a day on which all that is ambitious, noble, lofty and grand in the nature of the workingman should be appealed to. Those who discuss the questions of the hour before industrialists on that day should be educators—preachers of the gospel of humanity and its needs, not Mammon and its greeds."

Labor, though as old as man himself, has no history—that is to say, it has no past to commemorate. Its grand achievements have been absorbed and have become an indistinguishable, though by far the greater, part of the history of the world. Its millions of heroes have fallen at their places after lives of honorable and self sacrificing service, their names unknown and their praises unsung. The great edifices they have reared stone upon stone, the grand ships they have launched, the beautiful creations of their skillful hands stand as monuments to the genius of the lauded "captains of industry," and only occasionally there comes forward a Schley to say a word of praise for "the men behind the guns." Not yet has labor discovered one whose birthday it feels impelled to specially celebrate, nor has it in its past any pre-eminent event to commemorate.

It is said that until he is 40 a man lives in the future. After 40 he lives in the past. The labor movement in this country cannot be said to be 40 years of age. So it may be pardoned for failing to turn often to the past for inspiration or hope. In fact, the important question with the laboring man is the present. It is with the present and the future that he concerns himself on Labor day.

This year is no exception to those that have passed since the day has been a recognized institution, and on no previous occasion was there more imperative necessity impelling the student of the labor problem to investigate the conditions that surround him and to search for means for the advancement of his cause.

Notwithstanding the prevailing impression that the condition of labor has improved within the past year and that in some localities and industries there is good ground for the impression the general tendency of labor is not upward. The large crops of last year and various other lesser causes contributing to slight revivals of business tended to create the impression that there was hope of an improvement in the industrial world, but the close student of social problems knows that there can be no radical permanent improvement in the condition of labor generally until great fundamental changes in our industrial system have taken place.

The writer has not the disposition to pose as a pessimist, but facts are facts, and it availeth naught to hide or disguise the truth on this subject. It is true that there has been a recent revival in many of the factory districts, and that things are not so bad in some other industries as they have been in past years, but there is only a slight diminution in the army of the unemployed, and many of those who are now working are receiving reduced wages and have only temporary employment. There are strikes and rumors of strikes, and in a majority of cases against reductions of wages. You may say that "striking has become second nature to the workingman," and that it is as often an evidence that he sees his opportunities improving as anything else that makes him strike. I say to you in answer that when a great majority of the strikes are against reductions of wages it is a bad sign for the industrian and disproves your flippant charge. Labor is not out of the woods, nor is it less deeply enveloped in the black forest than it was a year ago.

It therefore behooves all well intentioned persons to consider labor's situation; to listen to its grievances, investigate its demands and to lend a helping hand to the movements which manfully, openly and in law abiding manner are attempting its uplifting. On Labor day, just one day in the year, the business and professional men and all citizens who are removed from the necessity of wage labor may well afford to give ear to the plea of the chained giant, who rattles but does not rend his chains.

It is not intended to convey the impression through the foregoing that labor's friends are confined exclusively to the ranks of the wageworkers. On the contrary, what is spoken of as the labor cause numbers among its active supporters some of the country's ablest and most famous clergymen, jurists, professors and others not of the wageworking classes, and from them oftener than from labor organization men come radical utterances on the labor question. Oh, the labor movement is thoroughly respectable! All that is needed is that the great mass of the people, the great middle class, so called, many of them wageworkers themselves, should wipe the dust from their eyes, see the situation as it is, realizing that "labor is noble and holy," and that truly "the laborer is worthy of his hire;" that the labor question is the question of justice, of truth, of progress, of humanity; that the destiny of the state, the future of mankind, depend upon its solution. Victor Hugo said: "Labor is life. Thought is light." With all thinking who labor what an irresistible power would be generated!

It is not possible within the limits of this article to set out and classify the grievances and demands of labor. Its general complaint is against the unfairness which characterizes the division of the products of its efforts. Low wages, the hours of a day's labor and lack of employment are the storm centers of its agitation. It claims that only in exceptional cases does the wage paid bear any necessary relation to the value of the product; but that in almost every instance what Ricardo called "the iron law of wages" is the determining factor. This law proclaims that the laborer is given from the product just sufficient to enable him to live, work and perpetuate his species, and the labor advocate declares that competition among the laborers enforces this law, and must inevitably, except where temporarily thwarted by combinations of the workers, continually lower the standard of living. In support of this contention we are invited to witness the vast fortunes accumulated by the successful captains of industry, the immense wealth of a very few on the one hand and the poverty of the many on the other. Relatively at least the facts support the claim that the rich are growing richer and the poor poorer. It does not satisfy the man who has labored almost a lifetime helping to add to the riches of "the most prosperous country on the globe," while his own condition has not improved, but rather grows worse as he ages, to tell him that he is much better off then are those of his class in some other country. Labor is thinking, and "thought is light."

Probably the most potent contributory cause to labor's present unfavorable position is the invasion of his domain by the machine. The inventor never sleeps, and his machines are constantly displacing hand labor. We have become so accustomed to seeing and hearing of new machines that do the work of two, a score or 100 hands that we pay little attention now to the announcement of a new one, but in almost every industry advancement along the line of lessening the need for hand labor is steady and is fraught with danger to the workingman unless some reasonable and practicable method of meeting it is devised.

The best plan yet suggested is that offered by the trades unions, known as the eight hour movement, which has become generally understood now to mean the shorter hour movement. While several years ago a reduction to eight hours per day would have been sufficient it is now believed that with the appliances in use and at hand to use the reduction should be to six hours.

The truth is that no one has yet been able to compute the capacity of the machines employed and those constantly being improved and perfected, not to mention the possibilities of the inventor's brain. This is a grave question not only for the laborer, but for the owner of the machine. It is possible to so perfect machinery as to make the displacement of labor, with its consequent inability to purchase the manufacturer's goods, a sort of boomerang. The captains of industry may possess sufficient wisdom to so regulate the movement of these forces that one of them will not devour the other and then destroy itself, but danger lies in that direction. The better plan would certainly be to adapt conditions to meet the introduction of really beneficial machinery. Let all in some measure enjoy the benefits of the superlative genius of modern times, and labor saving machinery will not be the destroyer of the laborer, but a blessing to all mankind. It will be in fact what it is in name, labor saving.

Another cause of distress among the working classes has been the growth of trusts. Business methods of these great concerns embody a reduction of operating force to the absolute point of their necessities. The consolidations result in the closing of plants not required to supply the demand and the consequent discharge of employees. Labor has no adequate remedy for this condition save that which it applies to the problem of machinery, the shorter workday.

Labor organizations can do little more for their members than to afford partial protection, and in the majority of cases they must be satisfied if they succeed in continuing existing conditions, not hoping to make an advance. Yet the work accomplished by the unions in this country during the past 35 years when all is considered is remarkable, for while the general condition of the workingman has not improved as it should, while his position is not what it should be in this advanced age, yet when the opposition is considered it is marvelous that labor has done so much through its organizations. It has secured factory inspection laws, child labor laws, immigration laws and various other enactments that afford it some protection; labor bureaus have been established in nearly every state of the Union, as well as a national bureau, and the recent congress, under the influence of the labor organizations, adopted an arbitration law, from which much is expected, and a law providing for the appointment of a labor commission to investigate and recommend legislation bearing upon labor.

These and many things along this line have been accomplished by the efforts of labor through its organizations, and yet I reiterate the general conditions of labor have improved but slightly, if at all, and the dangers that threatened it a few years ago threaten it still. Why do I say this after acknowledging that many laws have been passed for the benefit of labor and in response to the direct appeals of the organized workingmen? Because the little practical good that has come to labor through the laws enacted has not been sufficient to counteract the general downward tendency, which is another way of saying conditions would have been worse but for those results of the tireless agitation of the leaders of labor. The labor unions of the country, though they include less than 10 per cent of the wageworkers, have been a power for good. Let those who deride the result of trades unions keep in mind the fact that so small a portion of the workers in the country support the organizations whose mission is the uplifting and the upholding of the man who toils. It will be well also to remember that the beneficial effects of organization are not confined to members, for the laws that have been enacted through the influence of organized labor touch alike the interests of union and nonunion man, and the wages and conditions of employment of the unorganized are better because of the standards set and maintained by the unions.

Labor organizations are not perfect, nor are the men who compose them without faults. Many mistakes have been made and some wrongs have been perpetrated in the name of organized labor. All strikes have not been dictated by wisdom, and probably some boycotts have been scarcely warranted. But there is generally some fire where there is smoke, and it is a pretty safe proposition to assert that there was never a combative demonstration by organized labor that had not its inception in some violation of its presumed rights.

The labor movement of America, which speaks to the world on Labor day, has much to be proud of and little to blush for. It has made better workmen and better citizens of its adherents. It teaches morality and sobriety. It makes men better husbands, fathers and sons. It was the first to enunciate the principle of equal pay for equal work regardless of sex. It has been the never wavering friend of the sweated children of the tenements. To it belongs the credit of inaugurating and forcing to a successful issue the demand for an improved ballot. It stands for honesty and purity in public affairs, and its political demands have the support of the wisest and best men of our time. This is not one tithe of the good there is in it, and while it is often misunderstood and its leaders are frequently belabored yet it is long suffering and will prevail. The day is coming when labor will have its proper place, when he that fashions the beautiful and the useful things shall also enjoy them, when the world, with the wisdom of Solomon, shall seat the worker in the place of honor. Then there will be a Labor day celebration which shall not be a class affair, but one in which every citizen will be glad to take part. Then will strife between employer and employee be forever ended and the oft repeated assertion that their interests are identical be an established truth. The millennium? Well, perhaps.

OUR BATTLESHIPS IN NEW YORK HARBOR, AUGUST 20, 1898. FROM HARPER'S WEEKLY.

On Saturday August 20th the citizens of New York did their best to give a rousing and enthusiastic welcome to Admiral Sampson's fleet of battle-ships which entered the harbor early in the morning. The celebration was an impromptu affair but the flagship New York had hardly entered the Narrows before the shores of Staten Island, Long Island and New Jersey were black with people and along the docks of New York City from the windows of the tall buildings and up along Riversdale Drive one could see nothing but countless masses of people all madly cheering the returning conquerors.

The grim battleships showed little or no signs of the fight with Cevera's fleet. First came the flagship, New York, from the mainmast of which Admiral Sampson's twin-star flag of blue was flying and which was under command of Captain F. E. Chadwick. Next came the Iowa, under the command of Captain Evans; then the Indiana, under the command of Captain Taylor; then the Brooklyn, bearing Admiral Schleys' blue flag with two stars, under the command of Captain Cook. She was followed by the Massachusetts, under the command of Captain Higginson. The famous Oregon, whose wonderful burst of speed in chasing the Christobal Colon, and whose wonderful fighting powers excited the admiration of the whole world, came next. She was followed by what was once known as the "hoodoo boat," the Texas, which has brushed aside the "hoodoo," and shown herself to be one of our best fighting machines. The vessels were more or less clean looking, with the exception of the Massachusetts. She was dirty, and, as one young girl put it, "respectably dirty."

The vessels proceeded up the Hudson River as far as Grant's tomb, where our picture taken from Harper's Weekly shows the vessels. After saluting, they turned around and went down the river. They stopped a short time at Governor's Island, and then proceeded to their anchorage off Tompkinsville. The occasion was one long to be remembered by New Yorkers and others who saw the parade. The spectacle was very impressive, for these vessels, with their guns and crews, had made American history, and had won for this country a new glory. The men who had done so nobly behind the guns could be seen standing on the forward decks responding heartily to the cheers of the crowds. There was not much time for preparation for this parade, but what New York could do to honor these ships and men was done, and the day will not be forgotten as long as generations hand down records to suceeding generations.

Grand Opening Sale

—AT —

SQUANTUM PARK.

On LABOR DAY, Monday, Sept. 5,

commencing at 2 P. M., will be offered some of the choicest building lots ever shown near Boston. The land is high and overlooks Dorchester bay on the west, with magnificent views of the city of Boston, Milton hills and Boston harbor. Squantum park is only 3 miles from the State House and is reached by trains on the Old Colony R. R to Atlantic station; 87 trains a day, of which 37 are express, 11 minutes' ride, 8-cent fare, connecting with electric cars direct to Squantum park, or take steamer every half hour from Marine park to Squantum park, or take electrics from Boston and suburbs to Neponset bridge, where the Quincy & Boston electrics connect for Squantum park. The high elevation of the tract we shall offer commands fine views of the surrounding country and ocean of a magnitude that baffles description here. It being the only remaining tract within easy access of Boston, of a high order of excellence not already on the market, and would long ago have been occupied had the owners elected to subdivide it; this fact is highly important to the contemplating purchaser, as the opening sale of a new tract never reaches prices easily obtainable upon further development. If you are looking for a home or land for investment, why not come out to this grand opening sale? Take 11.30, 12.30 or 1.30 express trains at the O. C. R. R., Kneeland St, Boston, for Atlantic. Band concert, refreshments from 12 to 2 o'clock at my auction tents on the land. Sale positive, rain or shine, commencing at 2 P. M. Four auctioneers and 15 attendants will make a good ime in disposing of the 200 lots. Don't miss this sale. One or more of my clerks will be on the land, or at my branch office at the Squantum Inn every day from 1 to 8 P. M.

New Transfers in Boston.

With the opening of the new section of the Boston Subway this week there will be an issue of free transfers at Park street, so that persons arriving from the west on Huntington avenue and Boylston street subway cars may receive, on reaching Park street subway station, a free transfer giving a continuous ride to Union station, Charlestown, Somerville, Medford, Malden and Everett, by availing of the transfer station at Sullivan square, Charlestown. The Crosstown cars from Fields Corner take this route.

The Neponset cars to the Union station will run via Washington and Dover streets, Shawmut avenue, and subway, but passengers, desirous of going beyond should take notice that no transfer will be issued to persons arriving from the south at Park street subway station on the Shawmut avenue and Tremont street cars for the reason that persons on these streets have ample opportunity to take a car for the proper destination without transfer. This should generally be done at Fields Corner or Dudley street.

Passengers at Union station bound for Quincy will find all Tremont street cars at the subway terminal on Causeway street between Haverhill and Canal streets, instead of in front of the station, as at present Another advantage will be gained for the public that, without waiting at the Union station terminal at Causeway street for a particular car, a person may take the first through car and by transfer at Park street await in shelter and comfort the car of this paticular line.

Santiago De Cuba,
Aug. 12, 1898.

I received your letter of the 30th of June a few days ago, and was more than pleased to hear from you and that all were well. I am happy to state that I am feeling well at present, though I had a touch of the fever for a few days; have recovered and am all right now. We buried two of our majors and five privates since the 24th of July and sent a good many home sick and wounded.

Our health is a great deal better than many of the other regiments on the island. We had a hard time of it for a while, but it is over now. We lay 18 days in the trenches with nothing to cover us but a rubber blanket often in six inches of mud. One night we stood for two hours in the worst rain storm I ever experienced in my life. For two days could we not dry our clothes.

When we first arrived we were 36 hours without food of any kind, and then three days were served with but six hard tack a day per man, as other food could not be carried across the firing line. I have had some very narrow escapes since I came here, but I remain all whole yet.

This is a very nice country, "Nit," it is a place most lovely to look at, but New England is good enough for me, Santiago is pretty city, but awful dirty. Some of the Spaniards are nice people, but "there are others."

Jimmie Clark and I went into the city last week and enjoy our visit, for it was a welcome chance. We are camped on a hill within three miles of the city.

I don't know when we are going home, but I hope very soon. We have rain every day. It is raining great guns at the present time and it comes through the dog tents we are living in. If you had to walk a mile for water as we do, I doubt if you would be struck more favorably with the job than I am.

We get very little fresh meat or bread here. Hard tack and coffee without milk, sometimes without sugar, and bacon is our regular fare. I am growing to detest it. Well, Pat! I hope to be at home soon and see my friends again. Hoping this will find you well, I remain the same,

Your friend
J. J. Graham.

Tennis at Braintree.

Arrangements are well under way to make the coming tournament of the Hitormissit club, one of the most complete events of the kind, ever held in Braintree.

The committee is a unit in its endeavors to perfect every detail that can contribute towards a successful contest.

A covered grand stand with a large seating capacity is to be built for the accommodation of reserved seat ticket holders. No mattter how hot the week of Sept. 12th may be, the holder of a grand stand ticket may feel sure of a cool and shady seat from which to watch the game.

Some club members seem to favor the idea of a banquet on the evening of Sept. 24th when the cup shall be presented to this year's tournament winner.

No definite arrangements have been made by the reception committee, but it is likely that some such idea will be carried out.

The date of the challenge match with Reading has been changed to Saturday, Sept. 2, play to begin at 9 o'clock A. M.

All reserved seat tickets for the tournament of Sept. 13 to 17, will hold good for the Reading—Braintree match a week later.

These tickets will be placed on sale at the very low price of fifty cents.

The court has been used a great deal the past week by players who intend to enter the tournament.

Some very pretty tennis which has been seen in the court this week gives assurance that our local talent will make a strong fight against whosoever cometh.

Among the players who are showing up well were noticed Paul Nixon, Paul Tidden, Frank Howe, Dr. Ernest Bent, Walter Putnam and Frank Perry.

Swedish Convention.

A convention of all the Young People's societies connected with the Swedish Congregational churches of Massachusetts will be held at Merry Mount park on Labor day. In the morning at 10 o'clock Rev. The Daily Ledger commenced this week the publication of the area and Assessors' valuation of every lot of land in Quincy. No taxpayer will miss it and some are already saving it in scrap books for reference.

The losses at the recent fire in Brasee's block have been adjusted and were as follows: Value of building, $10,700; damage, $1,500; insurance $8,500. Value of contents, $13,000; damage $9,000; insurance $10,000. The cause of the fire is given as an explosion of a lamp in the basement.

It will surprise many to hear of the death of Rev. Royal Tyler Sawyer, D. B., M. D., who was killed by ligtning at Worcester Corners, Vermont, on August 21. He was sitting on his piazza, when the lightning struck a telephone wire back of Mr. Sawyer's head, where it struck him and traversed down his spine killing him instantly. Mr. Sawyer was at one time pastor of the Universalist church in this city.

Manning accompanist.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

Atwood's Record.

For the benefit of Republicans voting this year for the first time at Republican caucuses in the Tenth District, the following evidence in the trial of Frederick W. Peabody for alleged criminal libel of ex-Congressman Atwood, now a candidate for renomination, is published.

It will be remembered that Mr. Atwood was for two years architect for the city of Boston during the administration of Mayor Hart, and that he was removed from office by Mayor Matthews for proposing a corrupt political bargain.

During the latter part of the administration of Mayor Curtis (the City Architect's office having been abolished) Mr. Atwood again sought employment by the city for the construction of a new schoolhouse.

His application was favorably acted upon by the school committee and was about to receive the approval of Mayor Curtis, when Mr. Peabody vigorously protested in a letter to the Mayor setting forth the facts of Mr. Atwood's record as City Architect. The letter in express terms charged Mr. Atwood with robbing the city of Boston of upwards of $80,000, during his term of office. The Boston Post published the letter in full, and publicity having been given to it, the Mayor refused to sanction Mr. Atwood's application until he should vindicate himself of the damning charges and Mr. Atwood was thus practically forced into a criminal prosecution of Mr. Peabody for alleged libel.

The case was heard before Judge Gaskell and a jury in the Superior court and after it had progressed some seven or eight days was abandoned by the District Attorney at Mr. Atwood's repeated and urgent request and while he was still on the witness stand undergoing cross-examination by Hon. Moorfield Storey, senior counsel for Mr. Peabody.

As the case never reached the jury and the testimony was never presented in argument and its significance shown by Mr. Peabody's counsel, it is doubtful if the public ever fully comprehended its real significance—although to begin a prosecution for libel for having been accused of robbing the city of Boston of upwards of $80,000, and then to abandon the prosecution while undergoing cross examinnation, was to every intelligent mind sufficiently significant.

The following statement of some of the sworn and uncontradicted testimony is for the first time made public.

Its publication now when Mr. Atwood is seeking a vote of confidence in the Tenth District in the shape of a renomination to Congress, will be both timely and helpful.

From this sworn and uncontradicted testimony it appeared:

That Mr. Atwood approved of and recommended the payment to the firm of Collins & Ham, city contrators, of $638.00 for 290 feet of cap stone, of $320.00 for 32 perch of Roxbury face stone, of $717.50 for 41 perch of Ashler stone, of $376.00 for 188 loads of loam, of $96.00 for 24 brick-layers, $1,125 for 450 laborers, making a total of $3272.50 for material and labor, none of which it is alleged was furnished the city of Boston

That he approved of and recommended the payment to the firm of Ingalls & Kendricken, steam fitters, of $6,000.00 in addition to the contract price of $21,000.00, for which it is alleged the city received nothing whatever.

That he approved of and recommended the payment to Dennis A. Horgan, plumbers, of $320,000 for which it is alleged the city received nothing whatever.

That he had boasted to E. H. Horgan that if Mayor Matthews had left him in office two years longer he would have lugged the——whole place off."

That he had stated to Richard Lynch that if Mayor Matthews had not discharged him he would have made $20,000 a year. (His salary was $3,500.)

That he had stated to Herbert S. Carruth, the president of the Board of Aldermen whose influence he was seeking for his retention in the office of City Architect that if he could be City Architect another year he would like to build a $5000.00 library addition like Carruth's on his own house.

That to Mayor Matthews, Josiah Quincy, Jr., and Alderman Carruth he offered to betray the Republican organization of the city, if Mayor Matthews would keep him in the City Architect's office.

These are not by any means all the allegations (such stealings during his two years aggregated fully $80,000), but what could be a greater insult to the character of the Repulbican voters of the Tenth District than to assume that any more evidence of the same kind would be necessary to move them to the rejection of Mr. Atwood as a Congressional candidate.

If this is not sufficient, no amount of knavery of which a public office holder can be guilty would seem to disqualify him for the honorable office of Congressman of the United States.

Mr. Atwood is an impossibility from whatever point of view you regard him: and Mr. Barrows would more fittingly be an applicant for the favor of Democratic caucuses.

The only man for whom Republicans —who will insist upon having an honest man and who will insist upon having a Republican—can vote, is Mr. Paige. The opposition to Mr. Atwood is rapidly concentrating upon Mr. Paige, and Mr. Barrows does not seem to be in the race at all.

Brave Rescue.

Monday afternoon while Capt. F. J Cain of Braintree was taking a party down the harbor in his yacht "Hattie" his attention was called to a partially disabled "dug out" which was floundering about in the choppy sea. In the boat were four ladies who were badly frightened and their scream s became terrific as every time the skipper attempted any move the boat shipped water.

Catpain Cain immediately took in the situation and through his megaphone told them he would take them aboard his boat, but to do this in a rough sea was a feat that no one except the skilful could perform.

Captan Cain with his usual coolness took his tender and rowed to the side of the dug out, and it required all the strength at his command to prevent a collison of the two boats, but he succeeded and landed the ladies safely in his own boat.

Bowling at Braintree.

The roll off at the Kenwood alleys Monday evening was largely attended. Messrs. Wilde and Johnson proprietors offered a prize of $5 to the highest bowler in a three string of candles. It took 90 pins to qualify and twelve men reached that mark, and over, during the week ending Aug. 29. So on Monday evening the finals were rolled off.

The prize was won by P. J. Kiley of East Braintree.

The following men qualified. Bert Tenny, Ernie Thayer, Arthur French, Austin Holbrook, Horace Dana, Jr., Herbert A. Porter, Horace Hunt, Robert Dougherty, Will Stetson, Fred Teney, P. J. Kiley, John Arnold, and each man had the following total:

Bert Tenney 258-86 average; Thayer 251—83 2-3; French, 260—86 2-3; Holbrook, 218—72 2-3; Porter, 271—90 1-3; Hunt 258—86; Dougherty, 256—85 1-3; Stetson, 264—88; F Tenney, 234—78; Kiley, 284—94 2-3; Arnold, 230-76 2-3; Dana failed to roll.

A DANCING GIRL'S EPITAPH.

Here I lie and dance no more.
Sayonara, sayonara!
With a tombstone for my door,
Here I keep unwonted state,
I that danced up to death's gate.
Sayonara!*

Other damsels dance for you.
Sayonara, sayonara!
Sweetest flowers that ever blew;
Curtsying crocus, iris tall.
Ah, their dances never pall!
Sayonara!

Long I danced—too long, too long.
Sayonara, sayonara!
Sang for you my foolish song.
Now I neither sing nor weep,
But mid iris roots I sleep.
Sayonara!

Oh, you paid my dance with gold!
Sayonara, sayonara!
Now a better wealth I hold—
Folded buds of silver lilies,
Golden buds of daffodillies.
Sayonara!

Flags may curtsy to the sun.
Sayonara, sayonara!
But my dancing days are done.
Glad they were so short a span,
Here I sleep, oh, Hime San!
Sayonara!

*Goodby. —Nora Hopper in Sketch.

THE YELLOW GOD.

Tom Jenkins ran his hand through the gold that lay heaped on the floor of the shack. "Seems to me, Billy," he said slowly, "that hopin to find it is better'n finding it."

Dull gleams of light from a smoky lantern fell athwart the face of the old miner, rugged, homely, deep furrowed by time and hardships and offering a marked contrast indeed to the handsome, patrician features of Billy Bailey, his junior partner.

"Findin, Billy, means quittin. It's an end to the wants an privations I've knowed fer nigh 20 year. But somehow I've come to like these still ole mountains, an the singin of the pines an the river. They've growed like friends, an I'm never lonesome among 'em. Listen, you can hear 'em now. Maybe it's the las' time they'll ever sing fer me."

"We're goin back to civ'lization," continued Tom, unheeding the other's lack of sympathy with his reminiscent mood, "an that means separation. I know you like me, Billy. A feller couldn't want a better pardner than you've been fer the two year I've knowed you. But with your eddication, an your young blood, an your ambitions, you ain't my kind in civ'lization. We can't be the same down there. I couldn't expect it. But I think a powerful deal of you, Billy. I"—

"Oh, come, Tom," broke in his companion impatiently, "you're in the dumps tonight. Take a drink and brace up. Should think you'd look on the bright side of things now. We've worked and starved in these cursed wilds for gold until at last we've got it. Think of the city's 10,000 pleasures that this stake can buy for us. There's no life in these d——d solitudes. It's there in the crowded streets, and it can all be ours when we've got such a god—the god of gold—to see us through."

Billy laughed gloatingly in anticipation. Then once more he fixed his eyes, with a glittering intensity, on the yellow heap, which meant for him all that life can mean to a selfish, love lack nature.

"But it ain't fer me," persisted Tom. "I'm past them things. If it wa'n't fer the hope of findin the old woman down there in Frisco an makin her comfortable, I'd stay. I don't care fer the gold after all. I've found it, an my hungerin fer it's satisfied."

Billy made no answer. He had long since become resigned to the diversity of their tastes, and tonight he was in no mood for argument. He got out some materials and began to repair a rent in his coat. Tom rose presently and dumped the nuggets into a gunny sack. Then he arranged his blankets for the night.

"Put it away safe, Billy," he said jocularly. "We're already on the edge of civ'lization an must learn to be pertickler."

"I'll look after it, never fear," said the other shortly. "Good night."

Billy finished his task, but his mind was still busy with thoughts of the future. He rose and stepped out into the night. At his feet the turbulent river rushed blackly along, its foam crests gleaming like dull silver in the clear starlight. Behind him towered in silent majesty the rugged, wooded mountains. The air was heavy with the breath of the pines. But Billy saw none of the beauty of the night. The mountains awakened memories of hardships and hopelessness, the river was only a highway to civilization. He lit his pipe and began to pace up and down the shelving shore.

There was none of the stuff of which heroes are made in Billy Bailey's composition. Had the fates seen fit to continue their kindly beginning he would probably have developed into one of the horde of whited sepulchers that so largely make up what the world is pleased to term the respectable of humanity—those who observe the conventions to the letter, indulge every desire with a studied care that wins the approval of men, and, dying, are respectfully buried and speedily forgotten. On the contrary, fate had preferred giving Billy a chance to prove his mettle. His college career cut short by the melting away of his father's fortune, he awoke one morning to find himself face to face with the world, his wits his only capital.

He remembered tonight his struggles to maintain his social position, the slights heaped upon him by erstwhile boon companions, the gradual sinking away of hope until, with starvation staring him in the face, he had shipped in a vessel bound "round the Horn." On his lips were curses for the friends who had failed him, in his heart resolve some day to retaliate. He recalled his hardships on the western frontier, his final falling in with old Tom Jenkins and the hopeless search for gold until a week ago, when the gravel of a dried up mountain stream unexpectedly yielded them their little fortune and ended for him the hell on earth existence in these solitudes. His future course was plain. Mercilessly he would engage in the war for wealth. His heart must know but one love—the love of gold.

And the stake, it was not so much after all. If he only had Tom's share too! The thought startled him, and he looked furtively about as though already under surveillance. Well, why not? What was Tom to him now? The old man cared nothing for gold. He had said as much. Why not begin the task of wealth gathering tonight and double his fortune by a single coup? The skiff was all ready for the morrow's journey down the river. He could easily reach North Fork by daylight, and miles of distance would lie between him and Tom before the latter could make the trip across the almost impassable mountain trail. He weakened for a moment as he thought of Tom's almost motherly solicitude, of how throughout their wanderings the big hearted miner had borne the brunt of the struggle. Even when the treasure was discovered the old man's first words were, "I'm glad for your sake, Billy." Then he asked himself if he, too, was growing sentimental, and tonight, of all nights, on the very eve of battle.

He walked back to the house. Tom was fast asleep. The flickering light of the lantern fell aslant the corner where he lay, his powerful form half swathed in the tattered blankets, his brawny arms thrown above his head. The face, from which sleep seemed to have smoothed away the deep furrows, mirrored the rugged honesty of his heart. But the touching picture meant nothing to Billy, who watched the sleeper for an instant, and then proceeded to put his cowardly scheme into effect. It was but the work of a few minutes to gather together the things necessary for the short journey down the river and to secure the treasure for safe transportation. There was a look of cunning triumph on his face as he completed his preparations. He was thinking of the surprise awaiting Tom, who had been "fool enough to believe in human friendship."

He made a cautious step toward the door of the shack, when a slight noise, real or fancied, caused him to glance back over his shoulder. The next instant the bag of gold crashed to the floor, while Billy sank on his knees, as though felled by a blow. Tom was sitting bolt upright in bed, his revolver leveled at Billy's heart.

The two gazed at each other a moment in utter silence. Billy's eyes, fixed with the penetration born of despair, scanned the old man's face and read there reproach and pity rather than a thirst for swift revenge. This somewhat reassured him, and he rose to his feet.

"Well," he said bluntly, "what do you intend to do?"

"So," said Tom with a long breath, "I wuz mistook in you after all. To think that I gave you my friendship an you wan't worth it. What be I going to do? What do men usu'lly do when a pardner turns thief?"

"You wouldn't shoot me, Tom?"

"Why not? Men's been killed fer less 'an this, an the world wuz well rid of 'em."

Then it did mean death.

As Billy realized this his face turned ashen pale, while a palsying terror struck through him, rending his bravado mask and revealing him as the pitiable dastard he was. He cowered before the old man, pleading hysterically.

"Oh, spare me, spare me, Tom. You said you cared nothin for gold, while I—I was mad with love of it. It is my god—my heaven—my everything. But take it, take it all—only give me my life—Tom—I—I—can't—die."

"Git up," commanded the other coldly. "Don't make me despise you worse'n I do. What would you do if you wuz in my place? Shoot, wouldn't you? You'd kill me now if you had the chance."

"But think, Tom, what life means to me. I'm young and"—

"Think what friendship meant to me, Billy. I'm old."

In the momentary silence that followed the pines and the river could be heard singing their old, old song, unheeding of the strife of mortals for a scrap of the treasure they guarded. Tom heard the song, and his bitterness seemed to go out with the weird melody. The hand that held the weapon dropped listlessly to his side.

"I'll spar' yer life," he said hoarsely. "You kin go."

Billy stood a moment as though he had not heard.

"Yer free. Go!" said Tom.

The boy glanced from the old man to the bag of gold and then turned slowly toward the doorway.

"You better take yer pile now," said Tom quietly, "as I reckon you won't be comin back."

"Do you mean it?" gasped Billy.

"You can take the boat; that goes with your half. As fer me," he added in a voice that wavered in spite of himself, "I'll do what I'd 'a' done if you'd 'a' robbed me. I'll stay awhile longer with the mountains an the river. They're uncertain sometimes, an sometimes they're dangerous, but mostwise they're better'n men."

Billy vaguely appreciated the nature of the man with whom he was dealing, yet he felt that such nobleness required some acknowledgment. He sprang forward and tried to grasp the old man's hand.

"No, no—not that!" cried Tom fiercely. "Don't touch me. The gold is yourn. Take it an go. But go quickly, Billy—fer God knows—I'm only human."—Leavenworth Macnab in Argonaut.

DREYFUS CASE AGAIN.

HELPED TO CONVICT DREYFUS.

General De Boisdeffre, Prominently Connected With the Affair, Resigns—Paris Is Stupefied and Crushed at This Latest Revelation—The Cabinet Is Considering the Advisability of Reopening the Case.

In September, 1894, a bordereau, or memorandum showing that French military secrets were being betrayed to a foreign power, and which was said to have been found at the German embassy, was taken to the French war office. This bordereau ran as follows:

SIR—Though I have no news indicating that you desire to see me, nevertheless I am sending to you some interesting bits of information.

1. A note on the hydraulic break of the 120 and on the way in which this piece behaved.
2. A note on the covering troops (some modifications will be entailed by the new plan).
3. A note on a modification in artillery formations.
4. A note relative to Madagascar.
5. The project of a firing manual for field artillery, March 14, 1894.

The last document is extremely difficult to procure, and I can only have it at my disposal

CAPTAIN ALFRED DREYFUS.

during a very few days. The minister of war has sent a limited number of copies to the several corps, and these corps are responsible for its return, each officer in possession of one to return it after the maneuvers. If, then, you would like to take out of it whatever interests you and hold it afterward at my disposal, I will take it, unless indeed you would like me to have it copied in extenso and then address to you the copy.

I am just off to the maneuvers.

At this time there was attached to the military staff a Hebrew officer, Alfred Dreyfus, a son of a wealthy manufacturer at Mulhausen, in Alsace. This officer, together with his three brothers, elected, after the war of 1870, to remain French subjects. Alfred Dreyfus showed considerable ability, was a hard worker and was then already the father of two little children, to whose mother he was devotedly attached.

The French authorities, having secured possession of the bordereau, opened an inquiry to discover its author. Commandant du Patey de Clam discovered in it a resemblance to the handwriting of Dreyfus.

Dreyfus was arrested, tried in camera and sentenced to imprisonment for life and degradation from all military rank and honors.

His degradation, which took place at the Ecole Militaire, Paris, on Jan. 5, 1895, was witnessed by 3,000 troops and was as complete as is known to the practice of military law. The insignia of rank, the badges of his profession, were torn from his coat and cap, even the stripes were torn from his trousers by the adjutant, and his sword was broken in two.

Dreyfus protested that he was innocent and said, "In three years the truth will be known."

Before the degradation he was asked by Captain Lebrun, in whose charge he was placed at the Ecole Militaire, whether he had ever thought of suicide. He confessed that he had thought of it on the day of his condemnation, but that subsequent reflection convinced him he had no right to take his own life. In three years he was certain justice would be done him.

Two years later doubts began to be expressed regarding Dreyfus' guilt, and it was hinted that a grave judicial error had been made. M. Scheurer-Kestner, in a letter to General Billot, then minister of war, declared that a rich and titled officer, well known in Paris society, had been requested to resign in consequence of the continued leaking of military secrets since Captain Dreyfus' imprisonment. Furthermore, he declared that this officer was the author of the unsigned letter which led to the condemnation of Dreyfus.

Subsequently M. Mathieu Dreyfus, brother of the condemned man, wrote a letter to General Billot in which he accused Comte Esterhazy of being the author of the famous memorandum.

In reply Comte Esterhazy requested an immediate inquiry. A court martial was convened shortly afterward, and Comte Esterhazy was placed on trial. His principal accuser was M. Mathieu Dreyfus, who attempted to prove that the comte wrote the bordereau. On the second day of the court martial the president declared that it was the judgment of the court that the comte was not guilty, and consequently he was acquitted.

Meantime it transpired that the members of the court martial that tried Dreyfus had not been unanimous in agreeing that Dreyfus was really the author of the bordereau and were hesitating to condemn the accused man when General Mercier took them aside and, it is alleged, showed them a document containing the following words: "Ce canaille de D—— devient trop exigeant!" (That scoundrel of a D—— is becoming too exacting!) This is the document which Colonel Henry confessed he forged and which, it is said, convinced the court that Dreyfus was guilty. On the strength, it is said, of this forged secret document, which was not communicated to the prisoner's counsel, the government took the stand that the verdict was just, and the minister of war declared from the tribune of the chamber, on his honor as a soldier, that Dreyfus was guilty. This, with the public acquittal of Major Esterhazy, closed the case for a time, but it broke out again with increased violence by the publication of Emile Zola's famous letter of accusation against the chiefs of the army. He charged that General de Boisdeffre, General Gonse and even the minister of war himself believed Esterhazy wrote the famous bordereau, but said the staff, knowing that Esterhazy's condemnation would lead to a revision of the Dreyfus court martial, refused to reopen the case. This, asserted the novelist, was the worst of all, for General Billot refused to do justice, although he had the power. He, with General Gonse and the chief of the staff, knew that Dreyfus was innocent, and they kept the terrible secret and slept and had wives and children whom they loved. He concluded as follows:

I accuse Lieutenant Colonel du Paty de Clam of having been the diabolical worker of a judicial error, unconsciously I am ready to believe, and of then having defended his nefarious doings for the past three years by the most absurd and culpable machinations. I accuse General Mercier of being the accomplice, at least through weak intelligence, in the greatest iniquity of the century. I accuse General Billot of having in his hands the certain proofs of the innocence of Dreyfus and of having suppressed them, thus rendering himself guilty of treason against humanity and justice, for a political reason and in order to save the compromised staff. I accuse General de Boisdeffre and General Gonse of being the accomplices in the same crime—the one through religious animosity doubtless, the other perhaps through the "esprit de corps" which makes the war office that sacred and unassailable ark. I accuse General de Pellieux and Commandant Ravary of having made a flagitious investigation, whereby I mean an inquiry of the most monstrous partiality, whereof we have in the report of the last mentioned, an imperishable monument of candid audacity. I accuse the three experts in handwriting, the men Belhomme, Varinard and Couard, of having drawn up false and fraudulent reports, unless a medical examination shall prove them to be victims of a disease of sight or of judgment. I accuse the officers of the war ministry of having organized a press campaign in order to lead public opinion astray. Finally I accuse the first court martial of having condemned a man on a document kept secret, and I accuse the second court martial of having covered this illegality by order and of committing in its turn the judicial crime of knowingly acquitting a guilty person.

The French government was forced to prosecute the novelist for these unqualified accusations, and then began the long Zola trial, which, while it lasted, convulsed France and her colonies, the people generally taking sides with the government and the army against Zola and the friends of Dreyfus. Serious riots occurred in Paris, Zola's life being constantly threatened and several Hebrew stores wrecked. After a stormy trial, without a precedent for its disgraceful scenes, Zola was sentenced to one year's imprisonment and a fine of 3,000 francs. On the novelist's appeal this verdict was annulled, but he was put on trial a second time last May, was again condemned to imprisonment, and on July 19 last fled to Switzerland to avoid arrest.

Colonel Henry was also attached to the war department when Dreyfus was convicted, and he was one of the prominent witnesses who testified unfavorably to Zola during the latter's sensational trial.

Colonel Henry was connected with the French war department when Dreyfus was convicted, and it was he who arrested Dreyfus. It was also he who first drew attention to the secret document.

Colonel Henry was asked during Zola's trial about the document which he asserted he had seen in Colonel Picquart's office, in which the words "Cette canaille de D——" occurred. He fixed the date, in his testimony, as about the end of October and asserted that the document was in their hands and the secret dossier on the table.

As a result of the proceedings in the Zola trial Colonel Picquart and Colonel Henry fought a duel.

The next scene occurred in the chamber of deputies, where Colonel Picquart proclaimed the letter a forgery, and as a result was arrested, while Henry's villainy was rewarded by his being appointed Colonel Picquart's successor in the intelligence department.

It is now evident that Henry forged the letter with the express object of paralyzing Colonel Picquart's efforts to expose Major Comte Esterhazy and to get a revision of the Dreyfus case. The letter was written in bad French, a fact which first led it to be regarded as spurious.

Colonel Henry was born on Pouzy, in Marne, in 1848, and enlisted in a foot regiment, as his brother's substitute, in 1863. He had a good military record for bravery and inexorable discipline. He was a prisoner of war in 1870 and was wounded in the Algerian campaign.—New York Herald.

CYCLONE IN GEORGIA.

Coast and Interior Thought to Have Suffered Heavily.

Many Sections Are Cut Off by Floods.

The Beaches Lined With Wrecks and Many Houses Destroyed.

Savannah, Sept. 3.—While Savannah suffered heavily from the cyclone which swept over this section of the coast Wednesday morning, the damage on the coast islands and in the interior as far as the storm reached is probably greater. The flooded condition of the country renders communication difficult and in many sections it is entirely cut off and no news has been received to indicate what the conditions are.

The first news from the Carolina sea islands, which were the scene of the great tidal storm of 1893, in which many persons perished, was received yesterday. While the storm was nothing like that of five years ago, the loss is heavy. The beaches north of Tybee are lined with wrecks of small craft, and at Bluffton and the other settlements nearly all the houses were unroofed and many were destroyd.

The Noe, in attempting to rescue the crew of which a lieutenant and and of his companions lost their lives, has about disappeared. Small steamers patrolled Calabogue sound all day yesterday searching for the bodies of the heroic rescurers. The loss to the rice crop on the Savannah river alone is estimated at $200,000 to $250,000. Much of the crop has been destroyed. The loss to planters between Savannah and Augusta will run into the hundreds of thousands. A heavy flood is reported in the upper Savannah river, and messengers were sent out from here to warn planters of its approach.

Taking the losses in Savannah, those sustained by the rice planters, the growers of cotton, by farmers generally and by railroads and shipping, it will be found that an estimate of $1,000,000 damage will be reasonably within bounds.

Broke His Right Arm.

Montauk Point, Sept. 3.—General Young, while walking alone the road near the railroad depot yesterday afternoon, tripped on a piece of bale wire and fell, breaking his right arm. During the civil war a bullet broke some of the bones in this arm, and since then he has been unable to raise his hand to his shoulder. When he fell this stiff arm was underneath and the bone was broken. A few weeks ago, while riding his horse the animal shied and collided with a telegraph pole with the general's left foot between the horse and the pole. This broke some of the small bones below the ankle, and since then he has had to ride in a carriage. His new accident will probably force him to be moved to New York.

There was another conference of the surgeons with General Wheeler yesterday morning, with a general discussion of affairs, including the danger of an outbreak of typhoid fever. Wheeler announced later that on Monday he would issue a set of orders that would regulate many things which needed regulating in relation to the hospitals and the general health of the camp.

The Naval Parade.

Boston, Sept. 3.—The naval reception yesterday was a most cordial one, half the people of the city being on the waterfront or on the roofs of the high buildings, while quickly after the fleet had anchored each vessel was surrounded by small boats, and soon their decks were alive with visitors. Last night, the officers in their best uniforms came ashore, and with Governor Wolcott and Mayor Quincy held a well attended reception in historic Faneuil hall, while the fleet, with the assistance of a lively thunderstorm, lighted by the harbor with their searchlights.

A large portion of the crew of each vessel was given shore leave, and soon the bluejackets were coming ashore by the boat loads. It was stated on the Massachusetts that just after leaving Provincetown, Bandsman Ward of the ship died of fever.

A Terrible Accident.

London, Sept. 3.—A terrible accident has taken place at Wellingtonborough, a railway station on the London and Northwestern railroad, near Manchester. Two boys pushed a loaded luggage trolley on the track just as the express was approaching at a speed of 50 miles an hour.

The train was derailed and a fearful scene ensued. The wreckage of the railway carriages caught fire; the engineer, fireman and two passengers were killed, and many others were seriously injured.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Admiral Cervera and party of 75 to 90 persons will leave Annapolis on Monday or Tuesday for New York.

At a conference of the representatives of the Adams, American and United States express companies in Chicago it was decided that the companies would from that date bear the expense of the war tax instead of requiring the public to stamp consignments.

Professor B. F. Clark, who was acting president of Brown university during the absence of President Andrews, has returned from his trip abroad. He considers that no appointment will be made at once, and that it may be six months before a new president will take charge.

The heat has increased slightly in the central valleys except in eastern Tennessee, where rain has kept the temperature down. The following maximum temperatures were reported yesterday: Huron, 100 degrees; Concordia, St. Paul and Omaha, 96; Washington city, Little Rock, Cincinnati, Parkersburg, Marquette, Green Bay, Toledo and St. Louis, 94.

TIED IN THE TENTH.

Darkness Probably Saved the Boston Club From Another Defeat.

Boston, Sept. 3.—The final game of the season with the Clevelands yesterday furnished no balm in Gilead for the partisans of the home nine, although it ended in a tie, after 10 innings. The game should have been won by the Bostons, but poor running, werid fielding and Lewis' lack of control and speed all but lost it. With a spurt in the third inning, which netted five hits and five runs, the Clevelands were doomed to defeat with any kind of steadiness in the box on Boston's part, but Lewis, as well as Powell of the Clevelands, was far off the mark, and as a result was taken out of the box in the fifth, when he had given his sixth base on balls and hit O'Connor on the thumb.

As an offset to Nichols, who replaced the wild man, Tebeau called big Young into the game, with good results in the last of the fifth, and a champion never crossed the home plate thereafter. Young had magnificent control and speed, and the crowd had a late chance to enjoy the work of the two premier league artists. Score:

The New Yorks dropped another game to the Pittsburgs, principally because of what looked very much like mutiny. Rusie pitched one inning, but was too sick to continue. Meekin for some reason would not take his place, and Joyce went out to Seymour in right field and tried to get him to go into the box. Cy also refused, and while the argument was on, Doheny volunteered. Although he pitched Thursday and went in without warming up he did good work, but was given miserable support.

Bradstreet's Trade Review.

New York, Sept. 3.—The advent of September finds fall trade apparently in full swing at the west and northwest, and more reported doing also at southern Mississippi valley points and in the east, but the volume of business in wool and drygoods in the latter section is rather smaller than expected. Early reports of large business doing during August are confirmed by aggregates of monthly bank clearings, which show unprecedentedly large totals for that month, little below indeed the immense month aggregates of last winter.

A better tone is evident in the print cloth markets this week, and an advance of 1-16 cent is reported, largely the reflection of a more cheerful outlook in Fall River.

Failures in the United States are down to a very low figure, numbering only 164 this week, against 172 last week, 198 in 1897, 336 in 1896, 184 in 1895, and 207 in 1894.

Choked a Woman.

Portland, Sept. 3.—Several burglaries were committed at South Portland Thursday night, but no valuables are missed at any of the houses. In two instances the burglars were discovered at their work by a woman, and in each case when an entry was made the woman was choked into insensibility. They were not seriously harmed, however.

Friday morning two tramps were arrested on suspicion, and on being taken before one of the women they were identified as the fellows wanted. One says he is James Keegan and belongs in Dedham, Mass., and the other gives the nams of George E. Price, claiming Providence as his home.

Polo League Disbanded.

New Haven, Sept. 3.—At a meeting of the polo magnates in this city the Southern New England Polo league was disbanded and the National Polo association was formed. Officers elected are: President, Jacob C. Morse, Boston; vice president, Thomas L. Reilley, Meriden; secretary and treasurer, Charles F. Olin, New Britain. Franchises were granted to the Springfield Polo association, Meriden Polo company, New Haven Polo and Bowling club, John Jacques of Waterbury, W. A. Parsons of New Britain, H. H. Jennings of Hartford, William M. Harris of Bridgeport and M. Murray of Providence.

No Prosecutions to Occur.

Washington, Sept. 3.—There will be no prosecutions as the result of the investigation of the manner in which several thousand bonds were subscribed for in New York city. Secretary Gage had conferences with some of those involved in the scheme for the securing of these subscriptions by wholesale. As a result in all cases where the bonds were subscribed for in an improper way, the bonds will not be issued, but an arrangement was effected by which bona fide bids forwarded by a bank or other means will be accepted.

Explosion of Dynamite.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 3.—A horrible accident occurred at Stinesville yesterday afternoon, in which four men were instantly killed by a dynamite explosion and many others seriously injured. The dead are: John W. Williams, John Grubb, Buck Wampler, Edward Watts. The fatally injured: Ben Fyffe, Milton Hyke, Willie Liford. The injured were brought to Stinesville. The men killed and injured all had families.

OUR WEEKLY FASHION PLATE.

Broadcloth, which is in great demand for early fall costumes, especially in the various late effects of brown, is the material of a handsome gown made up with rich flowered moire of new design. While the outlines of many of the French corsages are more severe, there is much diversity in the various forms of jacket and fancy waists. Plastrons also, in great variety, are continued. The jacket front of this gown laps far to the left side, where it is fastened with three large silver buttons. In this instance the jacket forms a portion of the waist, being sewn in with the shoulder and under-arm seams, and opening over the flowered silk plastron. The brocaded moire is introduced again, like an inverted V, into the front of the skirt, which is circular in form and is banded with narrow bias folds in imitation of a shaped flounce, its width at the bottom being four and a half yards. The back may be pleated or gathered. While many of the new skirts are made over a perfectly fitted foundation, the circular models are usually lined throughout in order to preserve their form better.

The sleeve of this gown illustrates one of the newest designs, from which the epaulette has entirely disappeared. Two bias folds cross the close top. This gown is taken from Harper's Bazar, and cut paper patterns can be obtained from that paper.

The hat is brown-tinted felt, rolling high from the face, is effectively trimmed with a cluster of roses and foliage.

Failed by Half a Second.

Readville, Mass., Sept. 2.—On the same track on which he made the record time last year, 1:59¼, Star Pointer again tried for a world's record of a mile in harness, but failed to equal his performance by half a second. The enormous crowd saw a mile made in less than two minutes, and it is safe to say that with slightly better conditions the record would have again gone down before the great stallion.

With a running mate, Pointer made the quarter in 29½, which gave encouragement, and with the half in 59, it looked as if he would do something to the record. The terrific pace was kept up to the three-quarter pole, which was reached in 1:28¼, and then came the question of endurance. The great horse was urged all through the home stretch, but he did not quite reach the wire in time, although only a short half second behind.

In Violation of Law.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The treasury department has issued a circular calling the attention of collectors and revenue agents to the fact that the tax on medicinal preparations is not being enforced and ordering an immediate and systematic examination of the stocks of dealers. Large manufacturing chemists are reported to be putting up a number of medicines in a style similar to proprietary medicines in general, but bearing no stamp. Medicinal chemical compound preparations, patented or trade-marked, are being improperly put on the market as uncompounded chemicals and unstamped. The department says the action of the chemists threatens the integrity of the whole tax system under schedule B as relating to medicinal articles, and calls for the serious attention of the entire service.

Farmer and Wife Burned.

South Londonderry, Vt., Sept. 2.—In Windham Thursday fire broke out in the barn of George Dimick from some unknown cause. Dimick and his wife attempted to release the cattle, but the flames spread so rapidly that neither was able to get out of the barn. The fire spread to the house and other buildings, all of which were burned. Three horses and a number of cattle were lost. The financial loss is about $5000. Dimick was one of the most prosperous farmers in Vermont.

Mr. Dimick was a member of the legislature in 1872 and 1882, and was 63 years of age. He was known in business as the largest maple sugar maker and shipper of produce in the state. The barns which were burned were built 10 years ago to replace those burned at that time.

The Engineer Killed.

Auburn, N. Y., Sept. 2.—In a collision between north and south bound passenger trains on the Ithaca branch of the Lehigh Valley railroad at Half Acre, about four miles from this city, Engineer John Vaughn of Ithaca was killed. The passengers and other trainmen escaped injury.

The Federal Finances.

Washington, Sept 2.—The monthly statement shows that on Aug. 31 the public debt, less cash in the treasury, was $1,012,870,717, which is a decrease for the month of $34,789,711 This decrease is accounted for by a corresponding increase in the cash on hand due to the receipts from the war loan. The debt is recapitulated as follows: Interest bearing debt, $922,212,800; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,259,030; debt bearing no interest, $383,885,971, a total of $1,307,357,801. This amount, however, does not include $558,046,933 in certificates and treasury notes outstanding, which are offset by an equivalent amount of cash in the treasury.

The statement of the receipts and expenditures shows that the receipts from all sources aggregated $41,782,707, an increase of $22,759,093 over August, 1897. The receipts from the several sources of revenue follow: Customs, $16,249,699; internal revenue, $24,015,934; miscellaneous, $1,517,073. The expenditures aggregated $56,260,717, an increase of $22,672,670. The heavy increases on both sides of the ledger are due to the war expenditures on the one side and the internal revenue law on the other.

Church Destroyed.

Buffalo, Sept. 2.—A Polish independent church was demolished and carried away yesterday, and 21 Poles were arrested on the charge of petit larceny. The building, a wooden affair, 40 feet wide, 80 long and 14 feet high, was erected six months ago by seceders from Father Kaminiski's independent church. Since its erection there has been continued trouble between the factions. Yesterday a big crowd attacked the edifice and had completely demolished it before the police arrived. Women were in the majority in the attacking force, and 14 of them were arrested.

Volts Through His Body.

Buffalo, Sept. 1.—John H. Farrell, employed by the Lockport Gas and Electric Light company, caught hold of two terminals of a 50-light machine at that place, and was instantly killed. A current of 1950 volts passed through his body.

DEBATING A REVISION.

Reopening of the Dreyfus Case Not Yet Decided.

Cabinet Officers Appear to Be In a Quandary.

Situation Assuming Fresh Complications Each Day of Delay.

Paris, Sept. 3.—The report put in circulation by a news agency, that a revision of the Dreyfus case had been decided upon, appears to be premature. It is now pointed out that a revision must be sanctioned by a cabinet council, under the presidency of President Faure. Such a council has not been held as yet, bu the minister of war, Mr. Cavaignac, conferred at great length yesterday with Mr. Sarrien, the minister of justice, and Mr. Brisson, president of the council and minister of the interior. The presumption is that these conferences had to do with the proposal of revision; but the results have not been made public.

PRESIDENT FAURE.

Mr. DeBlowitz arrives at this conclusion: "It is absolutely impossible that Lieutenant Colonel Henry should have attained the necessary professional dexterity. The actual forger therefore must be sought elsewhere, though it is likely enough that Henry concocted the phrases. Discovery would not be difficult and would elicit the whole truth."

The most pessimistic feelings continue to exist, the common belief being that Great Britain and Russia are on the eve of war and that the consequences of the Dreyfus scandal will involve France in war with Germany. The government is doing its best to stem the rising tide of agitation by a studied quiescence which scandalizes the papers, but it may succeed in getting over the crisis. Mr. Faure ignores the reproaches of the press and remains at Havre. Mr. Bourgeois, minister of education, is in Switzerland. Mr. Peytral, minister of finance, is at Marseilles, and Mr. Lockroy, minister of marine, is at Cherbourg. In the meantime, Mr. Cavaignac, minister of war, and Mr. Sarrien, minister of justice, are busy enough. Sarrien had two prolonged conferences with Mr. Brisson yesterday, and after Cavaignac's long interview with Sarrien, both ministerial conferences were devoted ministderial conferences were devoted to an endeavor to convince the minister for war of the necessity, on political grounds, of a revision of the Dreyfus case, which the whole country, including the army, now demands.

High officers confess that the discussions which will follow revision will probably entail war; but they say that would be preferable to having the army remain under a cloud, with the possibilities of agitation leading to civil strife.

It is said that the chamber of deputies will not assemble until October, by which time it is hoped the storm will have blown over. Almost all the ministers, it is believed, are now in favor of revision. Mr. Cavaignac alone is obdurate, insisting that he must first finish his departmental inquiries; and that even then he will act only under pressure of a threat of publication abroad of such disclosures as would leave him no alternative to revision.

Several officers of the highest distinction, it is alleged, threaten to resign their commissions and to publish the facts in order to force the government to act. In the crowd of speculations and alleged revelations, however, little that is actually new has been disclosed.

General Pellieux is furious at having been deceived. He says that during the Zola trial he received a letter from a juryman begging him for proof of the guilt of Dreyfus. He learned elsewhere that the jury wanted the report of Captain Lebrun-Renaud, who is credited with having received a confession from Dreyfus. All of General Pellieux's demands upon the government failed to get anything but Henry's forged letter, which Pellieux took on trust. In his anger at this base deception, General Pellieux has now written to the governor of Paris, asking with brutal frankness to be placed upon the retired list, as he does not wish to be mixed up with "men lacking all sense of honor." The governor has begged him to reconsider his decision.

Zola remains in hiding, but he has written a letter of congratulation to Mrs. Dreyfus.

Colonel Picquart implores Mr. Laboni, who was counsel for Zola in his recent trial, to cease efforts to obtain Picquart's freedom, as he says he can wait until Sept. 21, when he will be liberated and can face his accusers.

While the sea breeze prevented extreme heat yesterday on the coast of New England, a few miles away brought temperatures in the 90s, which prevailed in interior parts. As yet there is no sign of a cooler temperature, and the heat seems certain to continue through Sunday, with winds generally from the southwest, and fair, generally clear weather, excepting where local thunder showers may occur.

The drummer who tries to talk a merchant into purchasing a bill of goods may be handicapped by a face rendered unsightly by pimples and blotches and by a foul breath. Some men imagine that bad health does not handicap them in business. A bigger mistake was never made. The slightest disorder may be the biggest kind of a detriment to a business man. An unsightly skin is caused by impurities of the blood. A foul breath means a weak stomach, an impaired digestion and an inactive liver. A sweet breath means that the stomach is sweet, the digestion good, the liver active and the bowels regular. It is an indication of a thoroughly constitutional sweetness. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach, facilitates the flow of digestive juices, gives edge to the appetite, makes digestion and assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It is the great blood-purifier. It makes the eye brighter, the skin clearer, the breath sweeter and the step more elastic. It imparts both mental and bodily activity. It cures all diseases resulting from impurities in the blood. Found at all medicine stores.

"I was a complete wreck; appetite gone, nervous system impaired; could not sleep; and was so weak that I could not stand on my feet ten minutes," writes Miss Ella Bartley, of No. 213½ South Grant Ave., Columbus, Ohio. "I only weighed 95½ pounds. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cured me and now I have an excellent appetite, sleep soundly and my friends say they never saw me so well."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. All medicine dealers sell them. No other pills are "just as good."

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

—It costs the Royal Baking Powder Co. something like $500,000 annually for advertising. Some one once suggested to the company that it discontinue advertising one year, the baking powder was so well known and advertised, and place that amount, $500,000 in the profits. The answer was that it would undoubtedly cost the company three times that amount to get the product in its original channels again. This is a pretty good pointer to those business men who imagine they are making a great saving when they discontinue a $4 or a $6 a month advertisement a few months in dull seasons. It never pays to tear out a dam because the water is low.—Kimball Graphic.

—We would esteem the Spanish war a reasonably cheap investment, if it will only introduce to our people the economic advantage of Popular Bonds (i.e., bonds in small denominations in which all our citizens can invest), and if it will hasten the day when the American, interest-bearing debt, under future renewals, is taken from syndicates and placed in the pockets of wage-earners of the United States. This will be accomplished when the bond in denominations, from time to time is offered to our people as an investment, and when that time comes it will be the knell of fiat money and the surest guarantee of the public credit.—North American Review.

—We have read of Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines having much that is favorable. No doubt they have many peculiar advantages. But, the best kind of national expansion is that which comes by our living the best kind of lives we can right here in Massachusetts. Our country is beautiful. Let us magnify its beauties. There are opportunities in our own favored region for business development. Let us do what we can to push things. There is chance for marked improvement in good citizenship. Let us make a united effort to give this community an uplift. If we set ourselves to the task we shall find plenty to do.—Beverly Times.

AN ACT OF COURAGE.

A Celebrated Animal Trainer Who Carried a Tiger on His Back.

Few men have had the distinction of carrying a refractory tiger to its cage on their shoulders, but doing this made the name and fame of a celebrated animal trainer named Bidel. As he tells the story in a book recently published, the big tiger escaped from its cage while the menagerie was filled with people. The creature was known to be bad tempered and very dangerous, but breaking through the crowd of frightened men and women the keeper tracked the tiger to a neighboring blacksmith shop. When he found the escaped feline, it was crouching in a corner, with eyes glaring and mouth snarling viciously. Using a heavy whip that he always carried while among the animals, the keeper beat the tiger till the creature began to howl and started to run. Then, dropping the whip, the keeper sprung to the beast, seized it by the loose skin of the back and neck, flung it on his shoulders and ran to the cage. You can imagine that the crowd in the menagerie was astounded by the daring of the feat, and Bidel was at once famous. The accompanying picture will illustrate how the keeper carried the tiger.—Chicago Record.

The Big Niagara Bridge.

The new steel arch bridge being erected at Niagara falls to replace the last of the suspension bridges will be the largest of its kind in the world. The main arch will be 868 feet long, the next largest being the 566 feet arch of a bridge at Oporto, Portugal. The approach on the Canadian side is 210 feet long and that on the American side 190 feet, making the total length of the structure 1,268 feet. The bridge will connect the two great free parks, Queen Victoria Falls park on the Canadian side and the New York state reservation on the American side. It will be a single structure, having a width of little over 49 feet. In the middle 23 feet of this will be electric railroad. On either side of this will be carriageways 8 feet wide. Outside of these drives will be foot passages slightly elevated above the roadways. The middle of the arch is 150 feet above the gorge. It was impossible of course to build false works to sustain the main arch, and it was built out from either end to the middle, the old suspension bridge furnishing an anchorage and a platform from which to operate. The work was extremely perilous, and in order to give the mechanics every protection possible a boat manned by an expert oarsman was kept under the bridge.—New York Press.

The Brook Down In the Pasture.

My grown up sister, Gladys,
Is boardin by the sea,
But the brook down in the pasture
Is good enough for me.

When she goes in a-swimmin,
She has to wear a dress
And rubber cap and stockin's,
And slippers, too, she says.

And everything about it,
She says, must be in style,
And then they wade a little
And hold a rope awhile.

You ought to see us swimmin
Down in the pasture brook!
There's no style there nor dressing,
For no one's there to look.

But, say, we swim, I tell you,
And dive and float and tread,
And out a-ways the water
Is way above my head!

I s'pose that Sister Gladys thinks
It's nicer by the sea,
But the brook down in the pasture
Is good enough for me.

A Grateful Cat.

A Boston family had a cat of which they thought a great deal. The cat was sick, and in spite of careful nursing, catnip tea and all they could do the cat grew worse, and they had to call the doctor. The doctor soon put pussy on her feet again.

Not long after this the doctor was called again to see a member of the same family. No sooner had the doctor entered the room than the cat appeared, took a seat beside the doctor and did not stir until the physician had left. Every day the doctor returned, and every day the cat sprang to greet him with every appearance of delight.

Only Wants a Chance.

The Little Dreamer.

A little boy was dreaming,
Upon his nurse's lap,
That the pins fell out of all the stars
And the stars fell into his cap.

So, when his dream was over,
What should that little boy do?
Why he went and looked inside his cap
And found it wasn't true.

Boston Museum.

Roland Reed has had a most successful first week at the Boston Museum. He will begin his second and last week next Monday with the Labor Day matinee. He will present his highly successful comedy, "The Woman Hater," written by the late David D. Lloyd. This piece is one of the best that this popular actor has ever had. It gives him splendid opportunities in the role of a supposed misogynist, "Samuel Bundy," a retired member of the coffee exchange, who, during the play manages to become engaged to three different women at the same time, and after a series of highly amusing and complicated situations, finally lands by mistake in a lunatic asylum. Mr. Reed's competent company all have delightful roles, and charming Isadore Bush has a splendid role as "Mrs. Lucy Joy," who finally becomes "Mrs. Bundy." There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees beside the one Labor day.

Sans Souci.

The programme for the coming week, which by the way, contains an extra matinee on Monday (Labor Day), becomes specially interesting in the promised advent of Senorita Rosa Masso, who makes her first American appearance on that occasion. Her daring exploits in the late war as a Cuban spy are already a matter of universal newspaper history. It is not generally known, however, that before enlisting her sympathies with the Cubans she was a music hall favorite in old Madrid. Her songs she sings in pretty, broken English, and is said to dance as only a Spanish lady can, with abandon and sinousness. Other features on the programme are our old friend, George Monroe, Florence Bindley, O. K. Sato, Dorothy Drew, Coakley and Heusted, Waterbury Brothers and Tenney and others.

Castle Square Theatre.

The management of the Castle Square Theatre announces the beginning of the regular fall and winter season with the performances of the coming week. The play selected as the opening attraction is the thrilling melodrama by Dion Boucicault "Led Astray," which gives some fine opportunities for elaborate scenic and mechanical effects. The cast will be especially strong, and the return of Miss Lillian Lawrence after her long vacation will be one of the pleasant events associated with the production. Characters will be as follows: Rodolph Chandoce, J. H. Gilmour; Hector Placide, Tony Cummings; Mount Gosline, Charles Mackey; George De Losparrs, William Humphrey; Major O'Hara, James C. Barrows; Lafontaine, Lindsay Morison; Robert, John J. Geary; Huntsman, Louis Lytton; Armande Chandoce, Lillian Lawrence; Mathilde, Mary Sanders; Suzanne O'Hara, Maude Odell; Countess, Mother of Rodolph, Rose Morison; Sophie, Marion A. Chapman; Baroness, Mother of Armande, Lizzie Morgan.

Keith's Theatre.

There remains but two weeks more for the Symphony Orchestra players at Keith's, an announcement that will be sincerely regretted by every patron of that popular amusement resort. For the week of Sept. 5 their concert programme will be made up of charming selections from three of the best and most popular composers. Mon. Albert L. Guille, the French tenor, and Mlle. Zelda Rotali, an accomplished Boston vocalist, will sing duetts, with orchestral accompanimant. The biograph seems to be growing more interesting as the weeks roll by, and the list of pictures being exhibited at the present time are among the finest which have ever been shown. There is one of the great naval parade recently held in New York, which shows the fleet passing up the North river and by Grant's tomb, while another has Lieut. Richmond Pierson Hobson, the hero of the Merrimac, leading a party down the gang-plank of the wrecking steamer Hercules, Tompkinsville, L. I There will be a full list of the usual comedy, singing and other acts, which enter into the makeup of the always admirable performances given at this house.

HORROR AT A CROSSING

Fast Running Engine Collided With Electric.

Car Was Cut In Two and the Occupants Mangled.

Headless and Limbless Bodies In the Wreck.

Most of the Thirty Victims Were Women and Young Folks.

Cohoes, N. Y., Sept. 6.—A trolley car laden with 35 people was struck by a Delaware and Hudson train going at full speed at a grade crossing in this city last night, and cut in two. Ten persons were killed outright, eight died soon afterward from the effects of their injuries. The remainder of the passengers were all injured, and some of them may die.

The cars entering the city from Lansingburg were crowded with passengers returning from a Labor day picnic at Renssalaer park, a pleasure resort near Troy. Car 192 was the victim of the disaster. It came over the bridge about 7:35 o'clock loaded with a merry party. The crossing where the accident occurred is at grade. Four tracks of the Delaware and Hudson road, which runs north and south at this point, cross the two tracks of the trolley road. It was the hour when the night boat special, a train which runs south and connects with the New York city boat at Albany, was due to pass that point.

The tracks of the street line run at a grade from the bridge to the point where the disaster took place. In consequence of this fact and of the frequent passage of trains it has been the rule for each motor-car conductor to stop his car and go forward to observe the railroad tracks and signal his car to proceed if no trains were in sight. It cannot be ascertained whether that rule was complied with on this occasion, for all events prior to the crash are forgotten by those who participated.

The motor car was struck directly in the center by the engine of the train, which was going at a high rate of speed. The accident came without the slighest warning. The car was upon the tracks before the train loomed in sight, and no power on earth could save it. The motorman evidently saw the train approaching as he reached the track and opened the lever in vain. With a crash that startled the people for blocks around, the locomotive crashed into the lighter vehicle. The motor car parted in two, both sections being hurled into the air in splinters. The mass of humanity, for the car was crowded to overflowing, was torn and mangled. The force of the collision was experienced to the greatest degree in the front part of the car, and every human being in that section was killed.

The scene after the accident was a horrible one. A mass of shattered beings lay about. Bodies had been hurled into the air, and their headless and limbless trunks were found in some cases for 50 feet from the crossing. The pilot of the engine was smashed and amid its wreckage were the maimed corpses of two women. The shrieks of the wounded and the groans of the dying added to the horrors of the scene. The passengers of the train suffered no injury other than a violent shock. The majority of the passengers of the trolley car were young people. They included many women.

The accident, taking place almost within the heart of the city, caused the wildest excitement. The passengers of the car were mostly Cohosiers returning to their homes. Within 10 minutes after the collision fully one-half of the population of the city were surging about the vicinity in an endeavor to ascertain if relatives or friends were among the unfortunates. The injured were taken to the city hospital and to the Continental knitting mill. The bloody corpses were picked up in boxes and placed in a neighboring mill. Many of them were unrecognizable. The crash was frightful in its results. Headless women with gay summer dresses bathed in their own and the blood of others; limbs without trunks or any means of identifying to whom they belonged; women's and men's heads with crushed or distorted features; bodies crushed and flattened—these constituted a horrifying spectacle.

The train immediately after the accident proceeded to Troy. The engineer stated that he did not see the car until he was upon it. He tried to prevent his train from striking the car, but his efforts were fruitless. He was some minutes late and was trying to make up lost time. In consequence of the caution taken by the trolley road to ascertain if the tracks were clear at this crossing the engineers of trains have always felt safe in running at a high rate of speed. The engineer thinks that the motorman, when he saw the train was upon him, tried to get beyond the danger line. The grade of this crossing and the speed at which his car was going also made it impossible for him to stop before he reached the Delaware and Hudson tracks. The motorman was killed outright.

The New Yorks defeated the Brooklyns in the morning yesterday by timely hitting in the third and eighth innings. The Brooklyns scored on errors by Joyce. The afternoon game was practically a walkover for the Brooklyns. Meekin's curves were hit hard.

The Chicagoes won the morning game from the Pittsburgs by well placed hits at the right time. In the afternoon they made their 109th double play, but were unable to hit Hart and gave Thornton ragged support.

The Providences and the Buffaloes broke even on the games yesterday. The first lasted 10 innings, and Sam Wise batted out a three-bagger and sent in the second run which won the game for the New York club. The second game was a hot contest, and in the midst of a wrangle, Garry was ordered out of the game and put off the grounds. A batting streak and daring baserunning in the seventh won it for the Providences.

The first game in Cincinnati required 14 innings, and the Clevelands won. Hawley outpitched Cuppy in the second game, which was called at the end of the fifth on account of darkness, with the score 1 to 0 in favor of the Cincinnati club.

The Baltimores snatched a victory from the Phillies in the morning game by bunching five hits in the ninth and tenth innings. The afternoon game was one of the most exciting played in Philadelphia this season. The Phillies won on a combination of misplays and a batting streak.

MISSED FOG WHISTLE.

Boston Steamer Runs Aground at Point Judith.

Was Carrying Sick Soldiers From Montauk.

Most of Them Conveyed to Newport on an Exposed Lighter.

Newport, Sept. 6.—The Lewiston, chartered by the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid association, with nearly 200 sick soldiers on board, bound from Montauk Point to Boston, ran ashore near Point Judith last night and narrowly escaped being wrecked. One hundred and thirty-five of the men were placed in a lighter, which fortunately was in the breakwater, and brought to this city by a tug, landing at about midnight. The sick soldiers were in such an exposed place on the bare deck of the lighter during the trip of 15 miles across the bay that a number of them are not expected to survive.

The Lewiston left Montauk Point Monday morning with as many Massachusetts soldiers on board as she could carry. Her captain ran across the sound to New London, where a large quantity of fresh milk was obtained, and then early in the afternoon she started for Boston. A heavy fog set in while the steamer was off Watch Hill, and she proceeded slowly along the shore, blowing her whistle frequently and getting replies from many of the fog stations. By some means her captain missed the fog whistle on Point Judith, and about 9 o'clock last night she brought up on shore.

Fortunately the tug, John T. Gaynor, was behind the breakwater at Point Judith at the time with a small lighter, and after her captain had been notified of the accident he immediately towed the barge along side of the steamer. It was also fortunate that there was little sea on at the time the steamer went ashore so that the work of transferring the men was carried on with comparatively little danger of any being lost by drowning. In the course of half an hour 135 poor, weak, fever-stricken soldiers, some utterly unable to stand, were taken from their bunks and cots, wrapped in blankets and placed upon the exposed deck of the lighter. A few of the very sick, and only a few, were accommodated in the tiny cabin of the tug. When the deck of the lighter was crowded with the shivering men so that no more could be taken aboard, the tug started for Newport, the nearest harbor, with the lighter of sick freight on board. It was a long and terrible sail across the bay and up the harbor to the wharf here, not that the wind was high or the sea boisterous, but the fog penetrated very quickly the scant clothing of the men, and it was not long before everyone was quaking with the cold.

Dr. Shea of Boston, who was one of the physicians that went round with the Lewiston, came up on the lighter, and with one or two other physicians and nurses did everything possible to alleviate their sufferings.

The tug steamed into the harbor shortly after midnight and ran up to the Fall River line wharf, where one of the crew was landed and the police of the city were notified. Within a remarkably short time the entire force was at the wharf with every ambulance in the city, and a large corps of physicians was on hand to assist the helpless ones. The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad officials were also notified, and within an hour or two a special train was made up to carry the men to Boston.

In the meantime the greater portion of the city had been aroused and large quantities of blankets, mattresses and other bedding, besides overcoats, had been taken to the wharf. Hot coffee, warm milk and everything that would warm the chilled soldiers were also brought down to the wharf, and every possible effort was made to make the soldiers comfortable. As soon as the Gaynor had landed the men and taken aboard a fresh supply of blankets and provisions she started off again with her lighter for the wreck, on which there had been left 50 or more who were unable to find room on the lighter.

Father Cummings of Boston, who came with the men, spoke in praise of the bravery of the captain of the steamer. "He did everything possible for the comfort of the unfortunate men," said he, "and personally assisted nearly everyone on reaching the lighter."

The Radical Populists.

Cincinnati, Sept.6.—The afternoon session of the radical Populists' gathering yesterday disclosed many differences among the middle-of-the-roaders. They were united on the subject of such a permanent reorganization as to prevent fusion or desertion hereafter and on an independent ticket for 1900, but there were wide differences as to how to prevent "fusion and desertions," and how to name the candidates. Most of those present are self-constituted delegates, or at least unable to show the usual credentials, and there is another class claiming the right to vote by proxies. As there are only two or three present from some states, the question of proxies is one on which the control of the convention hinges, and it was pending when the convention adjourned until today.

Series of Fatalities.

London, Sept. 6.—There has been a series of fatalities in the Austrian Alps. The case of a newly married couple was particularly sad. The bride lost her footing and fell; the rope broke and she went to destruction. The husband deliberately threw himself after her and was killed. A gentleman who visited the spot lost his balance and fell, being killed instantly.

A BROKEN AXLE.

Causes a Serious Accident on the Third Rail System.

What might have been a serious accident occured on the third rail system of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. at Braintree about 5.40 last night. The electric train due at this time was approaching the station, and when it reached the Y, the axle on one of the forward trucks broke, and the forward trucks left the track

The passengers were more or less shaken up and frightened. One man from Randolph who was getting ready to leave the car when the accident happened was badly bruised and was carried to his home on a stretcher. The track was blocked for several hours in spite of the prompt work of the wrecking crew, and the interference with the switches made more or less delay on the main line.

News of the accident spread rapidly and in a few minutes hundreds of people swarmed around the station; some thinking their friends might have been injured; others lingered around out of curiosity.

Had the accident happened a short distance to the east when the car was moving over the bridge at a more rapid rate of speed there might have been great loss of life, as the car was loaded with people. The road is to be congratulated upon its good fortune, as the car was about to stop.

WITHOUT BEER.

Ladies Substituted, and a Pleasing Change.

Annual Outing of the Street Department.

Mayor and Others Make Speeches —Sports and Dancing.

When the employes of the Street Department decided to include ladies at their annual outing, they established a precedent which they and the other departments of the city will doubtless follow in the future. They also proved beyond a doubt that a successful, pleasant and enjoyable day's outing can be had without beer, for one of the orders at Saturday's outing was, "no beer or liquors."

The outing was held at New Downer Landing and many of the participants went down on the special car which left City Square at 9.50. Others went down on later cars, so that when the party marched into dinner it required plates for 144.

Not only were the employes out in force, but many of the city officials were present, among whom were: Mayor Sears, City Auditor Hall, City Treasurer Gray, City Clerk Cleaves, Chief of Police Litchfied, City Messenger Tirrell, Commissioner Knowlton, Principal Assessor Perkins, Sewer Commisioners Jones, Engineer Branch of the Sewer Department, Chairman Gay and Inspector Cunningham of the Board of Health; other guests present were Henry H. Faxon and representatives of the local press. Some of the guests were accompanied by their ladies.

During the morning hours there was dancing; also a series of sports, which resulted as follows:

Quarter mile run, for men under 30 years — Dunican, first; Connors, second; Stanton, third.

100 yard dash, for men over 60 years—Hennesy, first; Reilly, second; Bowen, third.

Prizes of $1, 50, 25 cents were given in the first events, and $5 in the base ball.

While in the dance hall waiting for the dinner there was jig and reel, dancing by W. McGann, D. Kears, J. Shortle, W. Taylor, W. Good, and T. Fitzgerald; Highland fling by John Martin; and clog dancing by John Shortle and William Taylor.

Promptly at 2 o'clock a march was take to the dining hall where Caterer Nash servd a tempting dinner consisting of turkey and cold meats, salads, cucumbers, tomatoes, rolls, ice cream, and frozen pudding, cake, fruit and coffee.

After cigars had been passed, which the men refrained from smoking on account of the presence of the ladies, John J. Bryon, chairman of the committee called the meeting to order. After speaking of the two previous outings and then of the present, which although the last was the best, he spoke words of praise for the present administration in inaugurating permanent sidewalks where the children could walk dry shod. He also complimented the City Council Committee on Streets on liberal appropriations and progress.

Mayor Sears was introduced and was received with three rousing cheers.

His Honor spoke of the gatherings of the other departments, but this was the first time he could say "ladies and gentlemen," and the Highway Department was to be congratulated on having recognized woman's rights. In all respects other departments, we can get along without city water or a sewer, but the statutes say we must have streets, safe for travel for ourselves and neighbors. The department was to be congratulated upon the success of this occasion, for it was pleasant and refreshing and he hoped they would keep up the good time every year and not forget the ladies.

City Auditor Hall, said it was a difficult problem to know just what to say to meet the demands of the occasion. We are all engaged in carrying forward the welfare and interest of the city. Some in the employ of the city feel that those in the administrative department are above them but he hoped none present had a feeling kindred to that. The man with a pick and shovel, if he work faithfully is entitled to just as much esteem as any other. He is a citizen with just as high rank as any one in the employ of the city. You and I are working side by side for the welfare of the city, and there is no department so important as that of streets. The success of our city lays as much with you as anyone, and you are entitled to and shall receive the commendation that belongs to every faithful citizen.

City Treasurer Gray was glad to meet the men on this occasion, because the and the Commissioner had entered office together and he felt an interest in him and it gave him pleasure to say he kept his accounts right. It was also a pleasure to meet the wives and children socially who often come on Wednesdays in your place for your money. He took an interest in them all.

Commissioner Knowlton was introduced as the man who had to meet a thousand applications for fifty jobs and

Commissioner Knowlton said he had been among them for three years, but this was the first time he had met their wives, sweethearts and daughters. He felt a personal interest in every one who was in the department and wished the city was rich enough to have as many at work from January to December. No one wished to give all employment more than he, but he was obligedd to spend the money in a judicious manner and could not put all the men at work he should like to. The present administration he thought had been more liberal and there were many new improvements and there was never a time when so many were employed in the different departments as today. The proposed new methods of rapid transit will help build up the city, which means more work. He then spoke of the good judgment of getting up this outing (without beer,) where the wives and children can enjoy the sports. In closing he hoped the men would continue to be as faithful in the future as in the past.

Henry H. Faxon said men do not do wrong when the ladies are present. We are doing well in Quincy except getting in debt. He hated to see Quincy accumulate debt for our children to pay. We will never have good roads until the legislature passes the wide tire law. The permanent sidewalks he thought should have been begun in the Centre. Taxes did not trouble him if money was expended judiciously, because good improvements were always a benefit to the city. There are many who find fault when they do not get work, and he was surprised to find that many of the loudest clamors for work were the kind who worked the least. He hoped there would be a large No vote each year and that when any department had an outing, liquor in any form would not be allowed.

This concluded the speaking and an adjournment was made to the grove where more sports were held. First was a tug of war between the Quincy Centres and West Quincys. The former team was made up of Messrs. Dyer O'Neil, Gourley, Faircloth, Smith and Radley, while the West Quincy end was held down by Duane, Stanton, Thomas, McLaughlin, O'Brine, and Cregan.

Mayor Sears refereed the pull. West Quincy won the first heat by 1-4 inch, the Centres the second heat by two inches. Then came the final heat when the Cenres pulled the rope away from their opponents and won half a dollar each.

Then came a blindfold wheelbarrow race which was won by J. Cregan. An adjournment was then made to the hall where dancing was enjoyed until 6 o'clock.

—What is in a name? Havana tobacco is raised in Connecticut, Turkish towels are made in Pittsfield and in Springfield they advertise a "horse matinee."

MURDER CHARGED.

On the morning of April 13, 1897, the Weymouth fire department was called out for a fire in the house of Mrs. Aurelia Bates at Lovell's corner. When the firemen entered the house they were shocked to see the badly charred body of Mrs. Bates' 17-year old daughter. After the fire had been extinguished it was found that her clothing had been saturated with oil and that there was a ragged wound in her left breast. On the table near by was a revolver and a note which it was given out was written by the girl. At that time the suicide theory was doubted by many but there was no evidence to convict anyone of the crime although two tramps were arrested but later discharged.

Shortly after Mrs. Bates moved to Norwell and the affair was lost sight of by the general public for a time. The Weymouth officers, however, had it still in mind and last week with the aid of Sheriff Wentworth of Cohasset obtained a confession from Georgianna Bates, a sister of the dead girl, which was that the note found near the dead body had been written by her at the command of her mother. The arrest of the mother followed Sunday upon a complaint sworn out by Officer Patrick Butler of Weymouth, charging her with the murder of her daughter by shooting her with a revolver. Mrs. Bates was arraigned in the Quincy court this morning.

Big Land Sale.

Mr. N. V. Titus is very well satistied with his expenditure of $200 in advertiseing the opening sale of seashore lots at Squantum park. He had a large attendance all the afernoon of Labor day, and it was an enjoyable outing for city people as Teel's band discoursed popular airs and refreshments were served free under large tents. But the people enjoyed most the delightful situation. It was a charming spot, tempered with cool breezes, while inland towns sweltered in the excessive heat of the day. L. L. P. Atwood was the auctioneer. And without urging the people to buy, he set forth the attractions of Squantum in such glowing terms that people jumped at the lots, and gave from five to fifteen cents per foot for them, the average being eight or nine cents. Some of the buyers took more than one lot, so that the aggregate of the sale was about $25,000. Some of the purchasers were: John R. Graham of Quincy, Richard Ring of Everett, Maxmilian Kaiser of West Roxbury, Joseph Warner of Boston, J. M. Walker of Boston, J. J. Aubecame of Boston, F. M. Perry of Malden, Thomas H. Tigh of Boston, J. S. Marrett of Boston, Thomas Wiley of Roxbury, Mrs. E. P. Hudson of Roslindale and J. S. Merrill of Boston. Another sale will probably be held soon.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Four shots fired in quick succession about 10 o'clock Sunday night disturbed the quietness of the night and caused a crowd of several hundred to quickly gather near the West Quincy depot. Officer Barry soon came down the track and the crowd quickly scattered. It seems that a man, said to have been Charles Amet, was having a peace celebration on California avenue; that is, he was trying to make pieces of the blinds and window glass in that vicinity, with odd pieces of Quincy granite which were laying about. A messenger dispatched for an officer and Officer Barry was found on Copeland street and upon being told of the trouble started for the scene on the run. Amet, however had his eyes open and when he saw the white helmet he started up the railroad track on the run. He had a good start but Officer Barry put after him and the race was getting exciting. Finding that he could not overtake Amet Officer Barry drew his revolver and aimed it at the moon. Bang! bang! bang! bang! bang out in the still night air. Instead of stopping, however, Amet darted into the woods and made his escape for the time being.

—Many dealers have recently laid in a stock of war stationary, which will probably have to be sold at a bargain.

New Downer was a scene Labor day which will be remembered for a long while. Never on a holiday has such a crowd been seen about the grove. A large number of people enjoyed the dancing and the many attractions which the grove affords.

Mr. N. B. Furnald hitched his horse to a lamp post on Winter street, Labor day, but the horse pulled the post over and the rattle of the lamp frightened him, so that he ran into a yard on Howard street, smashing the top of the carriage. A large crowd collected but nobody was injured.

Clan McGregor of this city was the largest clan by considerable in the parade of Scottish Clans in Boston on Labor day. It had nearly 400 in line. The picnic at Oak Island grove was very largely attended, the crowd being estimated at upwards of 10,000. Some of the prizes in the sports came to Quincy.

Judge Bumpus has been in England the past summer, and they tell me that one of his principal amusements in the English capital was the delving in the old bookstores, saecrhing ancient tomes. The carelessness of a barge driver came near causing a serious accident on Franklin street, Monday night. A heavily loaded Braintree car was coming along Franklin street when a loaded barge attempted to cross the street in front of the car. As a resnlt the car struck the barge but not with force enough to overturn it. Several men who were riding on the running board of the car had a narrow escape as it was some had their legs scraped.

The Globe has heard rumors that several officers of the Fifth would tender their resignations on account of the new orders for the command. There are several business men holding commissions in the regiment, who, when war was declared, were more than willing to sacrifice everything in defense of their counry, but now that the danger has passed and there is no longer any necessity for their service, they desire to return to home duties and will consequently tender their resignations immediately the order for the regiment to move to Camp Meade is received.

At the Memorial Congregational church Sabbath morning, a large congregation filled the church for opening service. The floral decorations were the most pleasing and artistic of the many fine displays this church has enjoyed the past year. Golden rod and ox eyed daisies in abundance under the skilful arrangement of Mr. W. Jay Sanborn transformed the room into a place of beauty. There was also a handsome lot of salvia hydrangeas, etc. furnished by Miss Lizzie Glover. The harmonious and beautiful appearance of the room, the always delightful singing by Miss Adelaide J. Griggs, the sermon by the pastor and the communion which followed, made a service impressive and without a blemish.

Nothing Like Good Bread.

When Dr. Prescott delivered his first batch of fresh bread and jars of butter to the men at Camp Wickoff on Thursday the scene was almost beyond description. The soldiers would hug the bread, kiss the little jars of butter, and then totter back in almost childish joy to their tents, where they indulged in the first real sample of home cookery they had had since leaving Camp Alger. —Post.

THE FIFTH GOING.

Expects Orders to Go to Camp Meade for Winter.

Camp Dalton,
Tuesday, Sept. 6.

Sunday morning the usual services were held in the mess halls.

The day was very warm and every one made themselves as comfortable as possible.

At one o'clock an order was received stating that a detachment of the Ninth would arrive at three o'clock. Very little preparation had been made for them, as they were not expected for several days. The Fifth volunteered their services, and as the tents and floors were in readiness, and the men worked with a will, they succeeded in getting the camp ready for occupation in the short time of twenty-five minutes.

The camp occupies a position between the Fifth camp and the State arsenal. Its location was formerly the rifle range.

All arrangements were made to receive the boys. Ambulances, carriages and street cars were at the depot with a detachment form the hospital. Everything was got ready for both the sick and the well, but there was some mistake; they did not arrive on time.

Another telegram was received stating they would arrive at one o'clock in the morning, and more preparations were made to meet this train. There was still another mistake, but at 5 30 yesterday morning the train pulled into the South Framingham depot with 376 men and six officers. Of this number 13 were sick, but the rest were in a healthy condition.

Their outward appearance was not the best, as the brown suits is all most of them have had, and these were some what delapitated.

Life in Camp Alger with long marches through the mud does not improve clothing very much. They were tired and hungry when they arrived on the camp ground, and were at once marched to the several mess halls of the Fifth and given a good "square." The sick were taken to the Framingham Hospital.

The boys are to remain in quarintine for three days and no visitors with the exception of relatives were allowed in their camp through the day. They will not be allowed to mix with the members of the 5th until all fear of disease has gone.

They are glad to get home and their stories of their Southern camp life are not at all enticing. They will be given thirty days' furlough and then be mustered out.

The news of the 5th going to Camp Mead was received in camp Saturday with great rejoicing. A change of any kind is welcome if they are to stay in service any length of time. Thus far the official order has not been received but it is expected at any moment. If it is a rush order camp can be broken and the troops on the train in a few hours if the cars are in readiness.

The new camp is the finest large military camp in the United States today. It is a short distance from Middletown and Harrisburg, Penn., and is not a great ways from Philadelphia. The country is rolling and excellent water is supplied in large quantities. There are at present about 23 regiments on the ground and they stretch out for a distance of six miles. Each regiment is obliged to build their own camp.

As near as can be got at now, it is the intention of the government to keep the Volunteer regiments ordered to Camp Mead in the service until spring. If the Fifth goes it will probably remain in camp until peace is declared, and then occupy Havana with Gen. Lee's division. There is not much fear of suffering, as the investigations which are taking place now in regard to the treatment of soldiers will go a long way towards providing proper rations for the troops kept in service. No one has any idea that any volunteer troops will be left in the service after spring. Every one is on the anxious seat in camp now.

Yesterday a holiday was granted the boys of both the Fifth and Ninth, it being a national holiday. A great many visitors were on the grounds during the day, brought there no doubt by the arrival of the Ninth and the intended leaving of the Fifth. A fine dress parade was given in the evening.

A very humane act has been performed for the benefit of the boys for the last few days. This is an order which has been issued allowing the leaving off of coats and fatigue hats during dress parade. Before this no matter how warm it was, it was necessary to put on a warm woolen coat and button it up to the neck and march around until nearly suffocated. This change is welcomed by both men and officers. The uniform now is blue trousers, blue shirts and campaign hats.

All the Yachts Out.

Sunday morning did not open auspiciously for the yachtsmen with a thick fog hanging over the bay. At ten o'clock it began to lift and by eleven it had entirely burnt away, leaving a light easterly wind. At two o'clock the wind suddenly shifted to S .S. W. heating up the air on the water to an unbearable degree.

There was a good-sized fleet of boats out. S. N. Small came down from Savin Hill with his schooner Bud, presumably looking for the Recruit, which Commodore Rice was skippering. Then there was the Freyja, Capt. Follett; the Enigma, Capt. Maybury; the Glorina, Capt. Ring; Tantrum, Capt. Whittemore; the Gismonda, ex-Commodore Sanborn; the Pauline, Capt. Wilkins; the Alice, Capt. Walters; the Baby Beatrice, Capt. A. J. Cavanagh; the Don, Capt. Pierce; the Moondyne, Capt. A. J. Shaw; the Heline, Capt. Harrison; the Posy, Capt. Hunt; the Hobo, Capt. Edwards; the Kitty, Capt. Evans; the Hustler, Capt. Collin; the Thisbe, Capt. Robins; and the Viento, Capt. Myler. Monday was equally as pleasant a day and scores of yachts dotted Hingham bay and Weymouth Fore river freighted with gay pleasure parties.

Memorial Services.

Memorial services to commenorate the memory of the late Mrs. George P. Merrifield, of Wollaston, who passed away at Helena, Ark., last week, were held at St. Chrysostom's church, Wollaston, on Sunday afternoon at five o'clock. The edifice was filled with relatives and friends. The floral tributes were abundant and magnificent.

The Rev. Carleton P. Mills, the rector, conducted the serivces, with the order for the burial of the dead from the book of Common prayer; the reading of the twenty-first chapter of Revelations followed by the singing of "Lead, Kindly Light" by the vested choir; the reading of the second chapter of St. John; the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee;" and a few appropriate remarks by the rector.

CUP FOR HUSTLER.

She Won the Deciding Race in Q. Y. C. Handicap Series.

After a hard fought battle C. C. Collins, Cape Cat Hustler, pulled out at Monday's race the Quincy Yacht club's sterling silver pitcher for the championship in the Handicap class, her average per cent. being 90 against 65 for the "Chatham" her nearest competitor.

Monday afternoon's race was sailed in light easterly air. The start was at 1.30 with the "Chatham" in the lead, but the Hustler soon assumed her usual position in the lead and retained it to the finish.

The judges were Mr. Walter B. Burrell and Mr. George A. Robbins.

EXCHANGED BUTTONS.

American and Spanish Soldiers Fraternize During a March.

Conquerers Receive Courtesy In Porto Rico.

San Juan, Sept. 6.—Major General John R. Brooke, his staff and escort have completed two-thirds of their journey across the island towards this city. Their march has been like a march through friendly territory. On Saturday General Brooke stopped at Cayey. Monday he entered Rio Piedraz, one of the aristocratic suburbs of San Juan, where he will establish his headquarters. General Brooke has accepted the hospitality of Captain General Macias, who graciously offered him the use of his private residence.

The column, though small, is imposing, and is making a deep impression. As it wound its way over stately mountains, covered to their summits with coffee and tobacco plantations, and through broad savannahs and valleys, General Brooke, with his chief of staff, rode at the head of the column. The natives who had news of the coming of the Americans, lined the roads, their faces showing their pleasure, although there was no demonstration. At intervals along the way, the Spanish soldiers of the civil guard, presented arms as the column passed. At Cayey and Caguas, the Spanish commanders received General Brooke with marked courtesies, and the mayors paid official visits, extending welcome to their towns.

At Caguas, where 1000 Spanish regulars are stationed under the command of Colonel Rodriguez, the ceremony was pretentious. The Spanish buglers gave the flourishes in honor of a major general upon our arrival. Houses had been set apart for the accommodation of General Brooke and his staff. The infantry and cavalry companies camped in the outskirts of the town, and were visited by the Spanish soldiers. There was no display whatever of ill-feeling. Spaniard and American mingled freely, fraternizing and exchanging buttons as souvenirs. Already many of the American soldiers are buttonless. Spanish flags flew at Cayey and Caguas, but, as guests in an enemy's country, we showed no colors save the cavalry guidon. Our stalwart soldiers and massive horses caused ceaseless wonder to the natives, accustomed to men of small stature and nimble-footed little ponies.

Miles Was In Command.

Kansas City, Sept. 6.—The Evening Star contained another article yesterday relating to the Miles-Alger controversy. The writer said, in part: The statement made semi-officially from Washington that Major General Miles was not in command of the Santiago expedition up to the time it left Tampa is not borne out by the official records of the war department. These records prove that Miles not only conducted the preliminaries with General Garcia, but was then recognized by the war department as general commanding even of General Shafter's army.

The details of General Shafter's actual equipment and method of movement were naturally left to Shafter, but a general plan was devised by General Miles and directions were issued to General Shafter by him which, after leaving Tampa with the full knowledge that he was subject to orders from General Miles, and up to that time the war department recognized this state of affairs, which is provided for in the federal statutes, organizing the army of the United States.

Alger Wants Information.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Secretary Alger has sent the following order to Montauk Point: "The New York World of about the 28th ultimo published a statement of the death of Private Hugh Parrott of the Eighth regulars, in which it is charged that when he begged Dr. —— to take him to the hospital, the doctor notified him that the hospital was for sick men, and it is reported that Parrott died that night. This account is sent me by Representative Grosvenor of Ohio, who says there is great indignation in his community over the case, and, if it is as reported, there should be. I wish an inquiry immediately instituted to find out about this matter and report made to me. I understand one Sergeant Rich, of the same company or regiment, is under arrest for having complained of this matter. I have heard much of the neglect of the men, much of which is no doubt fictitious; but if there is any foundation for this statement, or if there are any men ill in the regulars in their tents that are not provided for, I wish to know the reason why and at once, also the names of the officers in command of the regiment and company in each case."

Chaplain Talked Too Much.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Ever since the printed reports of the sensational utterances of the naval chaplain, Joseph P. McIntyre, reached the navy department, the officials have been making a quiet inquiry into the accuracy of the newspaper publications. Apparently, the navy department has now satisfied itself that the chaplain really uttered the language ascribed to him, for it has ordered his trial by courtmartial on charges to the prejudice of good order and discipline and unbecoming an officer.

Distress Among Cubans.

Washington, Sept. 6.—General Nunez of the Cuban army has returned to Washington, having been on an expedition which took supplies to the Cubans. He left this country before the war was closed, and landed at several points and delivered his supplies. General Nunez reports a great deal of distress among the Cubans, and says it will be still greater on account of the inability of the Cubans to forage and raid various places where they formerly obtained supplies. General Nunez says that one reason why the Spaniards are making it difficult to supply food to the Cubans is that they want to compel the latter to take provisions by force, and thus create disturbances and trouble and stir up strife between the Americans and Cubans, which will tend to discredit them The Spaniards are willing food shall be given to their immediate people, but do not want it taken to the Cubans, says the general.

Shafter In Command.

Montauk, Sept. 6.—General Shafter came out of the detention camp yesterday somewhat improved in health. He said that Camp Wikoff would be continued for sometime. Although many of the troops here will be sent away, the camp will be fitted with a barracks for the accommodation of several thousand men during inclement weather. Advices were received from the war department by General Wheeler that 4206 recruits were to be sent from southern posts to join the Fifth army corps at Montauk. General Wheeler has resumed command of the cavalry and General Young will perform executive duty about the camp.

Wants Troops Well Cared For.

Boston, Sept. 6.—The pitiable condition in which the Second and Ninth Massachusetts regiments have returned from their arduous and gallant service in Cuba has caused a profound sense of solicitude regarding the Sixth regiment, now in Porto Rico. In a message to the president, Governor Wolcott says: "My own feelings are deeply concerned, and I am besought by personal letters and by the authorities of cities to ask for the prompt return and muster out of this regiment. I have felt it my duty to decline to comply with this request so long as the national government requires their services. The splendid patriotism which prompted their voluntary enlistment will sustain them in any perils or hardships they may be called on to endure, but the lives of her sons are precious in the eyes of the commonwealth, as I am well assured they are to you, to whom the fortunes of our arms have been competently entrusted; and I have the honor urgently to request that whether in camp, in garrison, or on transports these lives may be tenderly guarded by every precaution in clothing, food and medical attendance which science may suggest. To this end no effort can be too great and no expenditure too lavish."

Used a Soldier's Name In Swindling.

Washington, Sept. 6.—E. K. Valentine, formerly sergeant-at-arms of the senate, has written a letter to Secretary Alger, stating that sometime ago the relatives of a soldier belonging to the Second Nebraska regiment received a letter saying that the soldier was ill and in want at Chickamauga, and asking that money be sent to him. The money was sent, but no reply was received. A second instalment was sent by registered letter, to which the soldier replied, saying he did not understand why the money was sent and had received none previously. He said that he was well and had not been ill, and had not requested any money. It is thought some swindler wrote the first letter.

Bryan's Regiment Must Serve.

Washington, Sept. 6.—No request has been received at the war department for the immediate muster out of Colonel Bryan's regiment, the Third Nebraska. It is also stated that if such a request were made it could not be complied with because the quota for Nebraska to be mustered out has been filled.

Declared a Draw.

New York, Sept. 6.—"Mysterious Billy" Smith and Andrew Walsh, both of this city, fought a 25-round draw before the Greater New York Athletic club yesterday, and it was one of the fastest and fights that have taken place in this vicinity since the Horton law came into operation. The men fought with one arm free, and soon had each other's ribs raw from the hard blows exchanged at close quarters. The men fought at 145 pounds. During a clinch in the first round they pounded each other on the ribs and wind until the referee pulled them apart. These tactics were repeated half a dozen times. The men clinched in the fourth round, and the referee tried to separate them, but Walsh hit Smith four times after being told to break, and was cautioned by the referee.

There was good fighting in the next few rounds. In the 10th round there was a hot rally, of which Smith had the better. A lump was raised on Walsh's eye in the 12th round, and Smith had Walsh on the ropes. Good blows were exchanged in the succeeding rounds up to the 17th. In the latter round Smith accidentally hit the referee on the breast.

Failed to Make Returns.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Because of a conviction that it would be unjust to impose a penalty of 50 percent upon persons liable for a special tax under the war revenue act, who failed to make a return, the internal revenue commissioner directs the collectors "in all cases where persons who had neither notice nor information that they are required to make sworn return within the calendar month when their liability began, and who consequently failed to make such return, to report the facts in these cases in their next lists for assessment of the special tax without the 50 percentum penalty, and to refer to this circular letter as their authority for doing so. This is not to be extended to cases hereafter arising. In each particular case of this kind therefore notice should be given that hereafter for any neglect or failure to make such return, without the excuse of sickness or absence (the only excuse provided for by section 3176), the 50 percentum penalty must be assessed and collected. General notice hereof should also be given by collectors for the information of the public."

House Wrecked by Bolt.

Machias, Me., Sept. 6.—This place was visited by the heaviest electrical storm for many years Sunday night. The residence of Captain E. S. Wright at Machiasport was literally torn to pieces, lightning going through every room in the house. The sleeping inmates were buried under falling plastering and laths, but escaped uninjured.

Mrs. Bion Parsons, at East Machias, was struck by lightning as she attempted to leave her room with her baby. Her right side was shockingly burned from head to foot, and the baby was badly burned about the feet and legs. The condition of both is critical.

COMPLAINT OF DROUGHT.

Boston, Sept. 6.—The weather the past week was very warm and sultry, with, however, more sunshine and less moisture than during the preceding week. The general conditions have favored agricultural pursuits, and farm industries have progressed accordingly. Advantage was taken of these conditions to finish the harvesting of over-ripe grain, securing the second crop of hay, cutting tobacco and to further general work, which lagged during the wet weather.

The precipitation was by far the lightest for several weeks, yet the only complaint of drought is from Maine, where wells and springs are failing, streams running low, and pastures and meadows drying.

Good weather has favored the harvesting of grain, which has advanced rapidly, with the end in view. The securing of buckwheat is at its height. The crop is reported as good, and in many sections large. Reports are unanimous in favor of a large corn crop. Sweet corn is being canned in large quantities, and the field variety is being picked and the stalks cut, especially in southern sections. Fall ploughing and seeding are in progress. At Hawleyville, Conn., re-seeding will be required, due to dry weather in June. The present conditions presage successful operations in fall farming.

Much grass, mostly second crop, has been secured during the week. Rowen is unusually large, in many sections almost equal to the first crop. Hungarian grass is also good and secured in good condition.

Apples continue to improve in color and quality. In scattered sections the yield will be large, though the crop will average very light. Pears, plums, peaches and grapes are uneven in quality and quantity. The weather has improved cranberries, though less than an average crop is indicated. Dr. Fischer of Fitchburg reports fruit ripening seven days later than the average for 42 years and two days later than in 1897.

While there is more or less complaint of rot and rust in potatoes, the crop will be fully up to the average. Digging is in progress in many sections. Garden vegetables continue abundant, but tomatoes fail to ripen properly in many fields. In the southern states celery is nearly ready for the market. Beans, onions and vines are generally satisfactory.

Tobacco is probably three-fourths harvested and in good condition. Correspondents at Leeds, Mass., state that the crop is as good as ever grown in that vicinity. In the neighborhood of West Simsbury, Conn., the crop is the best for eight years.

Factory Inspectors Meet.

Boston, Sept. 6.—The International Association of Factory Inspectors began its 12th annual convention yesterday. Governor Wolcott spoke for the commonwealth and Mayor Quincy for the city. The former felt that the administering of factory laws is very important. Massachusetts had endeavored to lead in factory legislation, guarding employes from danger and the young so that they should have an education and that their bodies should not be overtaxed while growing by too many hours' of labor.

Mayor Quincy expressed his appreciation of the good work in which the association is engaged. When in the legislature he had become much interested in it. Massachusetts had led the way, and it was to her credit that she had been bold enough to lead. It had been said that she had gone too far in the line of factory legislation. Some state had to lead, and he thought the opinion of the whole American people would uphold the step taken.

To Discuss Secretly.

Madrid, Sept. 6.—According to the statements of several senators, Premier Sagasta, after the senate galleries had been cleared yesterday, proposed that questions relating to territorial cessions be discussed in secret. Replying to criticism of such a procedure, the premier urged that delicate matters of such a nature were always discussed in secret. Moreover, he pointed out, the existing situation was very grave, Spain having obtained only a suspension of hostilities, and indiscreet language might interfere with the diplomatic negotiations.

The motion was carried by a vote of 57 to 6.

Pursuing Abdullah.

Cario, Sept. 6.—Advices from Omdurman say that the Anglo-Egyptian cavalry which went in pursuit of Khalifa Abdullah, after the fall of Omdurman, abandoned the pursuit about 30 miles beyond the city. The horses were completely exhausted, having been ridden 48 hours, during 15 of which they had been engaged in fighting. The khalifa has gone to Kordefan, to the southwest of Omdurman. General Kitchener has organized an Arab camel squad to follow him.

Death Due to Accident.

Greenfield, Mass., Sept. 6.—The body of Cleon F. Baker of Meriden, N. H., was found beside the track of the Fitchburg railroad, near Charlemont station, yesterday. The medical examiner found death due to accident, but reported the facts to the district attorney. Baker had represented himself to be a deputy sheriff in pursuit of a criminal. The body was found half a mile below the station where Baker was to have taken the train, and how it got there is a mystery.

Y. M. C. A. Record Broken.

Melrose, Mass., Sept. 6.—The annual handicap athletic carnival, open to all Y. M. C. associations of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, was held Monday. The record for three standing broad jumps was broken by I. H. Joslin of Melrose with 34 feet, beating the record by 15 inches. The trophy for the best all around work was won by J. A. McDonald of Melrose with 18 points; C. W. Fanning of Boston was second with 13 and S. Maxwell of Boston third with 8.

Excitement Killed Her.

Jersey City, Sept. 6.—James Ryan, 33 years of age, was overcome by the heat while sitting at the breakfast table yesterday morning. A doctor was called in to attend him, and while he was trying to restore Ryan to consciousness, Mrs. Ryan fell over dead from heart failure. She was 30 years of age. Ryan was removed to a hospital in a critical condition.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Last night a stock train ran into an open switch in South Washington. The train was derailed, the engine overturned and several cars were wrecked. Fred Frieland, fireman, and Brakeman Cooper were killed. Engineer Harman was scalded and otherwise injured.

Senator Tillman of South Carolina was present at a picnic in Haverhill Monday, and made a short speech in which he made a bitter attack upon the Republicans and gold Democrats, and urged Massachusetts Democrats to sustain the Chicago platform and Bryan's policy.

Rear Admiral Sampson, Major General James F. Wade, Major General Matthew C. Duncan, and Lieutenant General John W. Clous, members of the Cuban campaign, left New York yesterday on the Resolute. Each commissioner had a number of aides and secretaries.

Twenty-six deaths and 40 prostrations were recorded in the borough of Manhattan and Bronx up to midnight. In Brooklyn there were seven deaths and 14 prostrations. On Staten Island there were two deaths and five prostrations. In Jersey City there were three deaths and seven prostrations.

There have been several labor strikes in Manila, the demand being for excessive wages. Because the American authorities, in the early exigencies of the situation there, agreed to the extravagant demands of the laborers, it has been difficult to return to an equitable basis. One of these strikes caused the suspension of traffic on the tramways of Manila for three days.

Tomorrow's Almanac and Forecast.

Sun rises—5:15; sets, 6:08.
Moon rises—9:59 p. m.
High water—3 a. m.; 3:15 p. m.

Cooler temperatures are now gradually extending over the country, and it promises to be cooler Thursday. The weather Wednesday will probably be somewhat cloudy, but without rain, except possibly scattered sprinkles, followed by fair and more clear Thursday.

When Baby's Ill.

When the little loved one is sick, when its brow is fevered, its pulse rapid, its features pinched with pain and there are great blue circles under its eyes, the mother hovers about the bedside, and with anxious eyes tries to read the meaning of every expression upon the physician's face.

A woman may save herself almost all of this worriment about her children if she will but take proper care of her womanly health during the period of gestation. A child born of a mother who is thoroughly healthy in a womanly way will almost unfailingly be healthy and robust. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts directly on the delicate and important organs that bear the burdens of maternity. It makes them well, strong and vigorous. It heals all internal ulceration and inflammation. It stops debilitating drains. It fits for motherhood and insures a healthy child. Thousands of happy mothers have testified to its merits. No honest dealer will urge you to take an inferior substitute for the little added profit it may afford him.

"A lady told me that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was good to take when with child," writes Mrs. Annie Simpson, of No. 13 Chelmsford Street, Lawrence, Mass.: "I was suffering terrible pains, and was unable to get about the house without being in misery. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and the first bottle greatly relieved me. I took three bottles before my baby was born, at which time I suffered very little. The baby has been healthy since birth, and is now three months old and weighs fifteen pounds. When my older child was born I suffered terribly. I don't know how to thank Dr. Pierce enough."

They don't simply give temporary relief, but are a permanent cure—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for constipation. They never gripe. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative and two a mild catharic.

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

WALTER P. PINEL

There are plumbers that undestand their business and have been established for years. They are safe to deal with, but beware of the mushroom plumber who today is, and tomorrow is not.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The A's are completed in all wards of the city; today the instalment includes all the B's in Ward 3:

You should save a file of the Ledger while this list is being printed. We cannot supply back numbers of the paper at 2 cents per copy, but have established this rate: Papers one week old, 5 cents; papers one month old, 10 cents; papers one year old, 25 cents.

Bonds Required.

A new rule of the Brockton street railway, which is causing a kick, is promulgated by General Manager Rogers as follows:

"By action of the board of directors at a recent date, I am instructed to require of all motormen and conductors employed by the Brockton Street Railway company, running as regulars or extras, a bond for the purpose of indemnifying said company against loss by dishonest acts, negligence or misconduct, on the part of its employees, and in compliance I have made arrangements with the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, to issue bonds to the employes of this company. I enclose herewith application blank, which please fill out and return to the office of this company. Conductors must accompany applications with $1.50 and motormen with $2.75. This amount covers the premium on a bond of $300 for one year to date from Sept. 1, 1898."

The Squantum Inn.

This new hostelry at Squantum is a very attractive place to take one's guests for the sea breezes and a fish dinner, as many have found out. Mr. Joseph Lee, the proprietor, reports many guests every day, and on Sunday and the holiday it was a lively place. Here is a sample menu:

APPALLING DISASTER.

Workmen Had No Time to Fly to Places of Safety.

Sixty Dropped Into the River With the Debris.

Two Thirds of the Number Were Either Killed or Drowned.

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 7.—A most appalling disaster occurred near here yesterday, and its results will probably make a death list of 40 to 50. The great railroad bridge, now being erected across the St. Lawrence for the New York and Ottawa railroad, gave away about noon, sending upwards of 60 workmen with the debris into the mighty, rushing river 60 feet below. That a single man survives is almost marvellous. Thirty-three of the victims were brought to the hospital here, and 18 died. It is believed that over 20 remain in the river, and it is expected that the roll will not be completed for many days.

A witness of the terrible affair was sitting on the bank of the river watching the busy workmen above him, when suddenly, without warning, there came a fearful crash, and two spans of the bridge collapsed; the immense mass of timbers and iron dropped down and the agonizing shrieks of the men who were being crushed in the wreck were drowned by the rushing waters. Then he saw floating bodies coming to the surface.

The work of rescue was helplessly inadequate, there being only a few boats in the vicinity, and very few men who would undertake to swim out into the turbulent waters. Many who might have been saved were drowned before help could reach them. Piteously appealing faces sank beneath the waters before the eyes of helpless onlookers. Broken bodies came to the surface for a moment and then passed out of sight, perhaps forever. It was a terrible and heart-rending scene. Even those who were got to land alive were in such condition that many died on the way to the hospital. Some had their backs broken, others both legs, while others were crushed by the heavy irons.

The town is in a terrible state of excitement owing to the number of local men employed on the work. Women are looking for husbands; mothers after sons and friends after friends. About 40 of the men were Americans, who came here to work for the Phoenix Bridge company. The remainder were mostly Indians, who acted as assistants. Every man on the division went down with the wreck. Many of those who escaped climbed up the iron work which still rested on piers at either end.

The latest information concerning the tragedy makes it probable that the death list will reach fully 30. As far as can be learned, 87 men were on the payroll, of whom 32 reported for work yesterday morning. Of this list only 38 have actually been accounted for. Allowing that some of those unaccounted for will turn up after the excitement, the probable list of dead and injured will in all likelihood reach over 25, and it may reach 30. Among those thrown into the river was the foreman, Thomas F. Brady or Bricerly, whose home is in Pottsville, Pa. He has not been accounted for up to a late hour, and is supposed to be in the bottom of the river.

All efforts to get a list of the names of the workmen and those missing proved futile. Everything was in a state of great excitement all the afternoon, and the effort of all was to care for the injured ones and get them to Cornwall hospital as fast as possible.

Going to the Jubilee.

Washington, Sept. 7.—President McKinley and as many members of his cabinet as can do so will attend some portion of the peace jubilee which begins at the Omaha exposition Oct. 10. The president so informed a delegation of Nebraskans who presented to him a handsomely engrossed invitation to attend. Only pressing public business will interfere with this program, but at this time the president sees no reason why he should not go.

Invitations will also be extended to the members of the supreme court of the United States, the leading officials of the army and navy and the diplomatic corps.

Tomorrow's Almanac and Forecast.

Sun rises—5:16; sets, 6:08.
Moon rises—9:58 p. m.
High water—4 a. m.; 4:30 p. m.

The last of the warm wave will probably pass off today and be followed by generally cool temperatures during the evening and night. Thursday and the remainder of the week now seem certain to be fair and generally clear, with seasonably cool temperatures, rising but little, if any, above 76 degrees at the highest, with westerly winds.

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

Pretty Home Wedding.

The Burlington, Daily News, has the following which will interest our Wollaston readers:

A pretty home wedding that took place last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Booth was that of their eldest daughter, Miss Florence G. Booth, and Percy L. Davidson of Wollaston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. C. L. Hall. The bride was charmingly gowned in white India lawn. The rooms were decorated with smilax, palms and cut flowers, and looked exceedingly pretty under the lights. Miss Booths liitle sister, Marion, and brother John stood up with them. It was a very quiet wedding, only relatives being present. Among those from out of town were a brother of the groom from Boston, Mrs. George A. Martin of Greenfield, Mass., Miss Mary F. Gould of Waltham, Mass., and Mrs. Bardwell and son of Somerville, Mass., Mrs. Samuel Booth of Clinton, Mass.

Miss Booth was graduated from B. H. S. in '95 and has won many friends who wish her a long and happy married life and who also extend their congratulations to the groom.

The wedding march and other music was furnished by the Howard opera house orchestra. At the close of the ceremony the guests were ushered in to the dining room where refreshments awaited them.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson left on the 10.06 train for a wedding trip after which they will reside in Boston, where the groom is connected with the Winthrop National bank.

Contradictory Reports.

A dispatch from Seattle of Sept. 6 says, Captain Edwin Goodall of San Francisco has arrived from Juneau with the report that the Pacific Steam Whaling Company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer ice break-up, for the relief of which the Government despatched the revenue cutter Bear, under command of Captain Francis Tuttle, last November. The vessels reported lost were the Orca, Belvidere, Jesse H. Freeman, Roar, Newport, Fearless, Jeanie and Wanderer, valued, including whaling outfits, at $7,500 and $10,000 each. The report is not credited by the W. H. Talbot which arrived at Port Townsend on Monday from St. Michaels.

Quincy Soldiers Back,

Two Quincy boys who took an active part in the battle of San Juan at Santiago are at home on sick leaves. They are Corporal Walter C. Jones of Troop G, 1st U. S. Calvary, a son of Sewer Commissioner Frederick L. Jones, and private Barney Mularky of the 7th U. S. Regulars.

Corporal Jones when he arrived Monday was suffering from malaria and is unable to leave his home.

Private Mularky however, is able to be about.

TO RACE ON FRIDAY.

Prizes of $50 and $25 for the 21-Footers.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Quincy Yacht club, which was held at the Adams building on Tuesday evening, the arrangements were made for the forthcoming race for 21-footers including the 24-foot schooner Bud.

The race will come off on Friday, Sept. 9, at 3:15 o'clock. There will be two prizes, a first of $50, which was given by the Hon. William B. Rice, and a second of $25 given by Mr. Henry H. Faxon.

The courses will be laid to the windward or leeward and return. Distance nine knots.

The time limit will be three hours and it is distinctly understood that the race shall not be started unless there is good air.

The judges will be Vice-Commodore Davis, Secretary Whiting, ex-Commodore Sanborn, and Mr. George E. Pfaffmann.

Home for Convalescents.

Mrs. Nelson V. Titus of Squantum has sent the following very generous offer to Governor Wolcott:

"Many of our soldiers and sailors are being daily discharged from the hospitals, weak from suffering, and, while convalescent are not able to resume their usual employments. It seems to me some temporary home should be provided by the State for these men. I therefore desire to offer to your excellency, free of charge a large house of twenty-seven rooms on my estate at Squantum Park, with three acres of land sloping to the shore of Quincy Bay, for the purpose of establishing there a temporary seashore home for our soldiers and sailors after they leave the hospital, where they may rest for a month or two to regain their health and strength. If this suggestion receives your favorable consideration, I shall be glad to place the house at your disposal as soon as desired."

At Last! At Last!

The end is in sight of the Wollaston section of the brick sewer that has blocked Hancock street for several months. Messrs. Sheahan have practicaly completed their contract. The sewer is built and all that remains is the cleaning up. This section has been a hard one to build on account of the large amount of quicksand that has been encountered Then the water pipes have been broken several times and the sewer trench flooded which has made more delay. That part of Hancock street between Elm avenue and Beale street is, however, in a bad condition. In places it has settled quite badly and the street car tracks in some places are out of sight, and before they can be used some extensive repairs must be made. Repairs must also be made to put the street in a safe condition.

Heavy Artillery Reunion.

Secretary and Treasurer,—Charles Newhall, of Danvers.

Executive Committee of one from each company.

Voted to hold the next reunion at the same place on Labor day, 1899, with the hope that a much larger number may be present.

AN INCREASE OF 161.

The School Army Numbered 4,359 on the Opening Day.

A school army of 4,359 entered the public schools Tuesday as against 4198 who entered at the same time last year. The number 4,359, however, does not represent all that will begin the school year with this term, for the reason that some are out of town and others have doubtless been kept away by the extreme warm weather.

The total number of new pupils outside of those at the High school is 287. As the school children have until Friday, Sept. 16, to enter, the above figures will doubtless be increased considerably.

As a whole the buildings have more than they were intended to accommodate, and as some of the rooms had over 60 Tuesday, they are necessarily crowded.

The following table shows the number of pupils in each room of the several buildings; also the number of each grade, grade I being the lowest:

At the Quincy school, Atlantic, there is only one room that is not overflowed.

At one room of the John Hancock there are 69 pupils.

The Massachuusetts Field school has 249 pupils this year, and occupies eight rooms. There are more in the eighth grade than at the Lincoln.

The Wollaston school has less than 300 pupils this year, and only three rooms have over 40 pupils.

The Washington has only 4 less than the Wollaston, which are very evenly apportioned.

The Gridley Bryant is using nine rooms, and has from 21 to 45 in each room.

The Adams has 65 in the lowest grade and they are so divided that one room has 32 and one 33.

The Lincoln has 60 in one room.

It is now the "High school 400."

If the coal dealer should say to himself—"the weather is so hot I can't sell coal if I buy it, then everybody would freeze next winter or be obliged to pay high prices for a scarce article, but the enterprising and hustling firm of J. F. Sheppard & Sons never take any chances, they always have a big stock on hand and plenty of teams and deliver promptly. Barge Blackbird has just brought them a cargo of pea coal. Do you want some of it?

BURGLAR ABOUT.

He Gets Off to Boston, But is Arrested.

Three dogs and a man proved to be no protection against burglars Tuesday night at the stable of Mr. Horry Rice on Adams street. While all slept soundly a burlgar smashed in one of the windows and entered the building. How long he remained in the building is not known but when he departed he took away a quantity of blankets, robes, etc.

The first that was known of the break was this morning when the hostler awoke and missed the articles. Whether or not the dogs made any noise is a question, but if they did it failed to awaken the man who slept through it all.

The matter was reported to the police and they requested the Boston police to watch the pawnshops. This proved to be a wise move for shortly before 11 o'clock a telephone message was received from police headquarters, Boston, saying that Station 5 officers had arrested a man who was trying to dispose of the articles stolen at a pawnshop.

Officer O'Brien was sent in to bring the fellow to Quincy. He will be taken to court Thursday.

School and Vacation.

The New Hampshire papers regret the departure of their summer boarders, and the Manchester Union says:

All last week the trains were heavily loaded with people returning from their vacations in the country to their city homes. The weather was blazing hot throughout the week, as hard to be borne as at any time during the summer months, and these trainloads of people did not hurry home from choice. A week or two more of comparative rest, at least of change from the routine of city life, would have done the mothers and children a great deal of good, but there was nothing for it but to hurry home, because school was to begin; the educational system demanded a certain amount of work to be done during the coming year; the dates for opening school were fixed, and that ended all protest or discussion. There were certain necessary things to be done to make ready for the opening of the school year, and the mothers, of necessity, hurried home, and took the children with them. Such as could do so remained, but the present week will see them also, hastening home, and this regardless of the weather conditions.

The schools are largely, but not wholly, responsible for this untimely exodus in the midst of the heated term; the round of social duties opens presently and the mothers must make ready for that as well as for the schools. So, what with one consideration and another, the vacation season closes without regard to the temperature, and of course, without regard to what is best for the women and children. They must keep step with the almanac, although the thermometer should be in the nineties.

Drove to Death.

Tuesday afternoon two men, claiming to hail from Boston, drove into Quincy in a buggy. The horse appeared to be thoroughly fagged out, and it was reported that the men had been beating the animal. The police stopped the team in City Square and made them put the horse in Penniman's stable, which they did, and then left on an electric car. The animal which was sick, was attended by Dr. Henderson but he was so far gone that he died in half an hour. The society for the prevention of cruelty to animals was notified.

—The Nonantum of West Newton won in the firemen's tournament at Hudson on Labor day, playing 220 feet, 6 3-4 inches. The Butcher Boy of Braintree was eleven and the Conqueror of South Weymouth sixteen and last.

MUST PAY DUTY.

Spanish Won't Allow Supplies For the Cubans Landed Free.

Havana, Sept. 7.—Monday Captain Niles of the Comal and Major Niskern, who is in charge of the supplies with which the Comal is laden, received a message from President McKinley directing them to repeat their request on behalf of the United States government to land and distribute the Comal's cargo without having to pay duty. A favorable reply was expected. Last evening the council of secretaries decided that it would be impossible to allow the Comal to land her cargo without paying custom house duties, but that, if the colonial government is to distribute the supplies, then it will pay the duty, according to a previous decision.

MISS JESSIE SCHLEY.

There is no doubt that the colonial government is doing everything to relieve distress; but the funds and facilities are insufficient to meet the suffering in the interior towns. Jessie Schley, Admiral Schley's cousin, who went to Madrid on a peace mission last July as a delegate of the Woman's International Peace association, has arrived here from Spain. She comes in connection with the relief work, and will have an interview with General Blanco.

Want to Be Americans.

Manila, Sept. 7.—At a meeting of 20 leaders of the Filipinos of all sections, called to discuss the policy of these islands, 18 of them were emphatically in favor of outright annexation to the United States and two were in favor of a republic. The native opinion is that it is best to adopt United States Consul Williams' suggestion, and offer liberal inducements to the independence factions to co-operate and to reward the services rendered.

By Desire of the President.

Montauk Point, Sept. 7.—General Joe Wheeler will continue in command of the division of regular cavalry under General Shafter. The president, when here, expressed a desire that he remain in the army until the work of the peace commission takes a satisfactory form. General Wheeler is not, however, likely to stay with the army after congress meets in December.

The volunteers in camp are: Ninth Massachusetts, First Illinois, First District of Columbia, Cos. B and M; Third Texas and the First United States cavalry volunteers, otherwise the rough riders. All the volunteers are scheduled to leave this week, the Ninth Massachusetts going by boat on Thursday.

Generous Rhode Island.

Providence, Sept. 7.—The Gaspee sailed last evening for Montauk Point, loaded with supplies for the sick soldiers at Montauk Point. The response to the appeal for contributions from the Rhode Island Sanitary and Relief association has been most generous, the amount received up to last night being $5275.06, besides a vast amount of food and drink for the unfortunate men at Camp Wikoff.

Colonel R. H. I. Goddard has chartered a steamer to bring 113 of the sick men from the camp, accommodations being made for them in the hospitals and other places in this city. It is the intention of Mr. Goddard to bring as many as possible here and restore them to health if possible.

Saluted the Spanish Flag.

San Juan, Sept. 7.—The Seneca, carrying Rear Admiral W. S. Schley and Brigadier General W. W. Gordon of the Porto Rico military commission, arrived off the harbor Monday night, but did not enter until Tuesday morning. The New Orleans, which is lying in the harbor, fired an admiral's salute of 13 guns. The Spanish gunboat Isabel Segunda responded with 13 guns, whereupon the New Orleans set the Spanish flag at the peak and saluted it with 13 guns.

A boat immediately put off from the New Orleans to the Seneca and took Admiral Schley aboard. As he went over the steamer's side, her passengers, among whom he had become exceedingly popular, gave three cheers and a tiger. One man in his enthusiasm yelled: "Hurrah for the next president." Admiral Schley was given an enthusiastic reception on board the New Orleans.

A Memorial of Steel.

Pittsburg, Sept. 7.—New Brighton, a few miles below this city, is the first place where a memorial of the late war has been placed. The memorial is of steel and 130 feet high. It stands in the park in the center of the town, and is built on the lines of the Eiffel tower at Paris. On the pinnacle is a 30-foot steel flagstaff. Around the four sides of the base are placed tablets, upon which is engraved the name of each man in Co. B, Tenth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, who went to Manila. The memorial was erected by public subscription after the battle of Malate. Every inhabitant of New Brighton helped with the dedication.

More Trouble In Crete.

Canea, Crete, Sept. 7.—Candia is being bombarded, the British troops, which have been acting as police since the Greek war, are fighting the Mussulmans, riots are in progress and fires have broken out in various parts of the city. The Mussulmans assembled in the principal square of the city to protest against the favoritism which they allege the powers are showing to the christians.

MAJOR KINCAIDE.

Is Acting Major While Major Morrison Commands Ninth.

Camp Dalton,
Wednesday, Sept. 7.

Col. Whitney is slowly improving. He was out for a drive yesterday with Major Morrison.

The Fifth is still waiting orders, and is ready to move at short notice.

Four buglers of the Fifth—Purcell, Holmes, Dyer and Pacquet are doing police duty for the Ninth.

Major Morrison of the Fifth has been detailed as commanding officer of the companies of the Ninth which are here, with Lieut. Coleman as quartermaster, and Lieut. McNarmara as company officer.

MAJOR KINCAIDE.

During the temporary absence of Major Morrison from the Fifth, Capt. Kincaide of Co. K is acting major for the second battalion.

Secretary Collins of the Army Commission has returned from Camp Wickoff and is glad to be back with the Fifth.

Lieut. Col. Shumway of the Second was a visitor yesterday, and confirms the trials at Santiago. Adjutant General Dalton, Col. Converse, and Lieut. Col. Bailey of the Eighth were also here.

Some of the boys are getting married since there is a prospect of going South.

Lieut. Catlin is in camp again as an assistant of Quartermaster Clark in the commissary department.

Lieut. Spear of Co K is officer of the guard today.

Echoes of the War.

Lieut. Col. Bailey is authority for the report that the Eighth Massachusetts is contented to stay in service until spring.

Gov. Wolcott is interesting himself to quite a degree among the soldiers. Tuesday he visited the soldiers in the Boston hospitals.

The battleship Massachusetts leaves the harbor this afternoon.

The Lynn Race.

First prizes, Meemer $15, Eleanor $12, Bud $12, Privateer $12, Alpine $10, Vitesse $8; second prizes, Ashumet $10, Beatrice $8, Tacoma $8, Arab IV $8, Circe $5, Katydid $5; third prizes, Little Peter $5 and Vamoose $3.

Will Have Every Care.

Washington, Sept. 7.—In a dispatch to the governor of Massachusetts, Secretary Alger says: "Might I not suggest that the soldiers sent out by the commonwealth of Massachusetts and other states, returning to this country, should be envied for their heroic services? Not one of them would exchange that service for any earthly possession. Does this not seem to you? They are heroes and have earned, and will receive the gratitude of their countrymen. They will have every care the government can bestow upon them."

Rowed on the Charles.

Boston, Sept. 6.—The Labor day regatta of the N. E. A. R. association yesterday afternoon proved the best of previous events for which the city of Boston has provided the prizes. The senior eight-oared race was the first on the program, and by a quarter of a length the Atlantic club of Springfield took victory from the Millstreams.

Another good race was in the senior singles, participated in by C. H. Lewis of Worcester, Amos Kubic of Springfield and Everett L. Pope of Boston. Lewis won by several lengths.

Weymouth Fore river and Hingham bay are considered excellent fishing grounds for pogies. Six pogy steamers were off the Quincy Yacht club house on Monday forenoon. The fish are taken in the steamers to Boothbay, Me., where they are pressed for the large amount of oil which they contain, and the refuse is ground into fertilizer. They are caught in purse seines which are about 1,200 feet long. The average catch in these waters is 20 barrels. Sometimes as high as 1,000 barrels are taken at one haul.

WANT COLUMBUS' ASHES.

His Descendants Wish the Remains Removed to Madrid.

Madrid advices received in Washington say that the Count de las Infantas, said to be one of the descendants of Christopher Columbus, has held a conference with Senor Sagasta, begging him that the body of the illustrious navigator be immediately transported from Havana to Spain and reinterred in the royal chapel at Madrid with the full honors of an admiral of the royal Spanish navy, the highest rank held by Columbus.

The Count de las Infantas is anxious that the government should at once undertake the removal and that the body be sent to Spain in the marble sarcophagus inclosing it, which is now in the cathedral of Havana. He does not think that objection would be offered by the United States to this plan, but if so he begs that this privilege be made one of the conditions of the peace terms to be firmly impressed upon the peace commissioners.

DUKE OF VERAGUA.

The Count de las Infantas has several times attempted to induce the Spanish governent to bring about the removal of the body, and the termination of the war has made him redouble his efforts, which finds favor with the Spanish people. He says it is not too late to give recognition to this great man and that the proper resting place of the body is the royal chapel, where the Catholic queens and kings of Spain are buried, and where the body will lie near those of Ferdinand and Isabella, who gave him the commission and ships with which he accomplished the discovery of the western hemisphere.

The count is backed in his efforts by all of his powerful family, including the Duke of Veragua, a direct descendant and head of the family, and many others high in the government at Madrid. Senor Sagasta promised that he would do what he could and thought that an appeal to the American people would overcome any objection that might be offered.—Cor. Philadelphia Press.

THE PRESIDENT ACCEPTS.

He Will Attend the Peace Jubilee at Omaha In October.

President McKinley has informally accepted the invitation extended through Manager Rosewater to attend the Transmississippi exposition at Omaha during peace jubilee week beginning Oct. 10.

Before extending the invitation to attend the peace jubilee at Omaha Mr. Rosewater, on behalf of the exposition managers, presented the president a superb painting representing the grand court and lagoon by John R. Key, the famous artist, who painted the magnificent pictures of the world's fair now on exhibition at Omaha in the art gallery of the Illinois building. The president expressed himself highly pleased with the exquisite piece of color work, more especially because it was executed by an American, the grandson of the author of "The Star Spangled Banner."

After hearing Mr. Rosewater's earnest appeal the president said: "You may say to your people that I accept the invitation, and unless something unforeseen happens I shall visit Omaha early in October. It seems to me proper that a president who has concluded a successful war should manifest his appreciation of the achievements and arts of peace as illustrated by the Transmissisippi exposition, but let me say right here that I am not going to Omaha to make a speech. I need rest and want to be comfortable."

"That is what I need, and remember I am not going to prepare speeches and want no addresses delivered to me."

"The Chicago people," said Mr. Rosewater, "are also preparing a demonstration."

"Let the Chicago people do what they like. I will take a vacation. I am going to Omaha."

Jackies Save a Life.

Joseph W. Edington was saved from drowning the other afternoon by sailors of the battleship Massachusetts. Edington had delivered a boatload of beer on board the Massachusetts at the Tompkinsville anchorage, and was being rowed back to shore when the swell from a passing excursion steamer struck the boat squarely on the side, and Edington slipped from his seat into the water. He could not swim.

Seven sailors who were standing on the deck of the Massachusetts saw the occurrence, and one after another all of them jumped into the water. The foremost reached the drowning man before he had gone down for the third time. With the assistance of the other bluejackets Edington was placed safely in his boat. The sailors rowed him back to the Massachusetts, where restoratives were applied. He was soon able to return to shore.—New York Sun.

Facsimile of Cartoonists' Uncle Sam.

John B. Young, superintendent of the public schools of Davenport, Ia., is an almost perfect counterpart of the typical Uncle Sam of the cartoonists. A local paper declares that he has the same "goatee," with smoothly shaven cheeks, wrinkled by many smiles, while his mouth is firm and shows as great determination of character. If he were to wear the old white beaver that Uncle Sam usually has on his head and the trousers with straps, he would look as if he had stepped from one of the popular cartoons of the day. He comes of a long line of American ancestry, and is as American in every respect as he looks. He was born in New York state.

The Scientists Discuss Cheese.

At the recent meeting of scientists in Boston a paper on the ripening of cheese, by S. M. Babcock and H. L. Russell of the University of Wisconsin, was read. It has heretofore been supposed that the process was aided by the action of bacteria. The authors were unable to account for the many discrepancies which occurred in the process by explaining them as caused by bacterial action. They added mild antiseptics such as ether and chloroform to the milk, which would stop the action of bacteria. Such milk underwent changes similar to those that occur in cheese. From this it was evident that the bacteria were not agents causing the ripening of cheese, but it is probable that the milk contains an unorganized ferment capable of digesting casein. They gave the name of galactase to the ferment.

Millionaire's Ninety-Sixth Birthday.

John I. Blair, the New Jersey millionaire who has just celebrated his ninety-sixth birthday, has perhaps been as large a factor in the development of this country as any other man. He has built railroads in Iowa, Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Missouri and Texas, organized the railroad system of the first named state and built the first line from the Mississippi to the Missouri across it, subsequently constructing over 2,000 miles in that state and Nebraska. He was one of the original directors of the Union Pacific, and at one time was a director in 16 other roads and president of three, being a controlling owner in several.—New York Tribune.

One Engineer Mistook the Signal Light.

Fifteen Passengers More or Less Injured, and One of Them Dying.

Taunton, Sept. 7.—There was a collision of passenger trains—one from the Park square and the other from the Kneeland street stations in Boston—about two miles above the station here, just before 8 o'clock last night, and in the wreck which followed 15 persons were more or less injured, Harry McIntyre dying after his removal to this city.

The track from Mansfield, where the tracks leave the Providence division for this city, and beyond to Fall River or New Bedford, is comparatively straight all the way to the main station in this city. On the other hand, trains coming over the Plymouth division from Kneeland street by way of Braintree leave the main road at Raynham, sweep a sharp curve, and come into the main track from Mansfield at Whittenton Junction. There is a tower at the junction from which interlocking signals protecting each track are worked If the connections are in good order—and it is rare that they are not—it is impossible to throw the switch for the trains from Mansfield without setting the signals at danger for trains round the curve from Kneeland street and South Braintree.

Both trains are due at the junction within five minutes of each other. The train from Park square left Boston at 6:45, while the train from Kneeland street left 15 minutes later. For some reason the Park square train lost time on the way down, and arrived at the junction five minutes late, or at the time when the Kneeland street train was due. The engineer of the Park square train, on approaching the junction, slowed down, but kept on for the switch, as the signals on his line were apparently set at safety. Just as this train reached the switch the headlight of the engine from Kneeland street flashed round the curve, and a sharp whistle startled the trainmen on both trains. The engineer of the Park square train put on the emergency brake, and, as the train was going over the switch at the rate of only seven or eight miles an hour, the train stopped with such suddenness that nearly every passenger was thrown forward in his seat with some violence, but without injury, at that time. On the other hand, the Kneeland street train did not slow up to any great extent, but kept on and crashed into the Park square train.

The latter train had stopped so that the engine and three cars were over the switch, while the balance of the train was back on the Mansfield track. The engine of the Kneeland street train struck the third car of the Park square train, and, tearing it from the forward trucks, tilted it on its side, off the tracks. The blow was a glancing one, and the engine kept on to the next car which was a combination baggage and smoker. Nearly the left side of this car was torn off, with all the seats and those who occupied them. The crash broke the copulingpin between the smoker and the passenger car, and the engine, becouplingpin between the smoker and the rest of the forward end of the train down the track about 20 feet. The smoker was well filled, and it is from this car that nearly all the injured were taken.

In an instant all was confusion. The lights in the passenger coach, which was over on its side, and the smoker, which was almost a mass of ruins, went out immediately, leaving the wounded struggling in the wreck, with the heaving of the Kneeland street train in the center of it all. Fortunately the engine kept the rails, and none of its steam pipes broke, so that the horror of being roasted to death was not added to the agony of those imprisoned in the wreck.

The passengers of both trains began the work of rescue by the light of a few lanterns and a fire which was built on the side of the track. Messengers were dispatched to this city, and within an hour every physician in the city was at the scene of the disaster, and the work of sending the unfortunate victims to the hospital had begun. As soon as they were extricated the maimed and bleeding passengers were laid on the grass beside the track, where they were administered to as the few convienences would allow. There were but few houses in the vicinity, but those who occupied them went quickly to the scene of the wreck with bedding, and it was not long before 15 of the injured were stretched on mattresses. All were removed to the central railroad station, where they were met by ambulances and removed to Morton hospital.

Nicholas Young, one of the most seriously injured, and who may die, was crushed between a car seat when the smoker went over on its side. His arm was wrenched from its socket at the elbow, and he sustained cuts and bruises of a serious nature. His condition was so weak that he was taken direct from the wreck to the hospital in an ambulance. He is a lineman, formerly with the Western Union company, and is well known here. He has a wife and several children.

An investigation of the accident by the New Haven officials disclosed the fact that the interlocking signal covering the switch was set against the Mansfield train, and that the engineer apparently disregarded it.

General Superintendent Clarke said today: "It looks very much as if the engineer of the Mansfield train mistook a white light in the signal tower for the home signal covering the switch, and discovered his mistake when he struck the switch. There he stopped just as the train from the Kneeland street station, which we find had the right of way, came around the curve. The latter engineer did not discover the Mansfield train until he was upon it, and ran into it, although with reduced speed."

ELECTION IN VERMONT.

White River Junction, Vt., Sept. 7.—Returns from 153 cities and towns give Smith (Rep.), 28,288; Molony (Dem.), 11,460; Wyman (Pro.), 728; Smith's plurality, 17,828. This shows a Republican loss of 2250 in the cities and towns heard from.

The whole Republican state ticket is elected with majorities corresponding to that for governor. In 1894 there were only 11 Democrats elected to the house of representatives, whereas 27 are already reported elected, with 111 towns to hear from. The state senate is practically solidly Republican, while Congressmen Powers and Grout are re-elected by substantial margins.

Got Caught on Rocks.

Narragansett Pier, Sept. 7.—The Lewiston, which ran ashore Monday with members of the Ninth Massachusetts regiment on board, lies fast on a hard bottom at Sandy Beach cove and the chances of getting her off again are about even. After the steamer was gotten off the rocks at the Point Judith breakwater, Captain Lyman steered the craft around to the cove, and then put her ashore. At this time there were seven feet of water in the hold and 11 feet of water under the stern.

The condition of the steamer is fair The upper works are stove in more or less from the effects of the crash on the rocks, and there is a hole in the bow which was hacked out to allow the transfer of the soldiers. The condition of the hull underneath will not be known until the divers go down.

The present plan is to patch up the vessel so she will float, and then take her to a port for a general overhauling The wreckers think that this will take several days, but if a storm comes up she will probably pound so badly that she will not be worth wrecking, except for salvage. Captain Church of the life saving station thinks the steamer may be floated.

One of the quartermasters of the Lewiston believes that the current was so strong that it interfered with the steering, and at the same time the vessel drifted four miles off her course.

Selfishness Makes Them Bitter.

City of Mexico, Sept. 7—.There is a bitter feeling here among European merchants against Americans since the successful close of the war in Cuba and the Philippine islands, being wholly based on a fear of the rising prestige of Americans and that the Europeans will lose the trade of Mexico. A curious outcome of the war is an apprehension felt by resident Spaniards and merchants that their own nationality in Havana will come here and enter into competition with them. They are warmly opposed to Spanish immigration into Mexico. The general sentiment among men in trade is hostile to the growing American commercial and financial influence, and this feeling is manifested in many irritating ways. President Diaz's administration is friendly to the Americans, and this fact enrages the newspapers in opposition to his government, which are owned or secretly subsidized by resident Europeans. These papers are doing all in their power to excite bitter feeling against the United States. The government papers are friendly to the Americans, as are the mass of the people. The country was never more prosperous, and the anticipation that American capital is going to invade the country in large amounts and compete for the business with the established concerns makes them exceedingly anxious.

To Be Sailed In October.

New York, Sept. 7.—The terms to govern the contest for the America's cup next year provide that the first race shall be sailed Oct. 3, unless the Shamrock should be detained by stress of weather or other cause, in which case three weeks shall be given her for fitting out after her arrival; but the first race shall not be started later than Oct. 10, and the races shall be sailed on Tuesdays and Saturdays until completed.

The members of the Ulster club will leave for various parts of this country and Canada within a few days, but will return here before sailing for Ireland The date for the sailing of the races is later than that usually placed for the international races. Only once, in the races between the Vigilant and Valkyrie II, was it held so late as October.

The committee of the New York Yacht club, in announcing the conclusion of the negotiations, draws public attention to the act of congress passed in 1896, under which the United States government has power to formulate and enforce regulations for the purpose of ensuring a clear course and the safety both of the spectators and the contestants.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 7.—The police have arrested George McLaughlin, alias Charles McLaughlin, 19 years old, John Burns aged 17, and Richard Jones, alias John Holland, alias John Rutledge, aged 29 who are alleged to have composed a gang which had entered a number of business houses and secured considerable plunder. Holland has already been arrested a number of times, and has spent sometime in an insane asylum, from which he escaped on the morning of Sept. 4, 1896. A large quantity of stolen goods was found in the room of the prisoners in a hotel.

The fifth convention of the National Railroad Master Blacksmiths' association opened yesterday. John Suskley, master blacksmith of the Illinois Central railroad, called the 100 delegates to order.

Three hundred and fifty sailors and marines from the warships enjoyed a clambake yesterday afternoon. After the bake Mayor Quincy made a speech and greeted them in the name of the city.

Killed In Battle.

Washington, Sept. 7.—The official records of the war department as far as completed show that 33 officers and 231 enlisted men of the army, 264 in all, were killed in battle during the war with Spain. These casualties include all the lives lost by the army in the battles in the Philippines as well as those in Cuba and Porto Rico. The percentage of officers killed is strikingly large, and is said to be unprecedented in the battles of the world. The contrast is especially striking in the case of the battle of Obdurman, where, although the loss of life was heavy, the list of killed included only one officer of the British army.

BARKER AND DONNELLY

Nominated by a Faction of the Party.

Butlerites Bolted and Declared Against the "Sloughing Off."

Cincinnati, Sept. 7.—The delegates to the Populist national convention got into such a row yesterday afternoon that the manager of the lyceum ordered them to leave the hall, fearing the destruction of his property. Order was finally restored by the Butler faction bolting. The disturbance was caused by the bitter opposition of the bolters to the making of nominations by this convention. They said they were instructed not to participate in the nomination of a ticket. The majority selected Wharton Barker, a Philadelphia editor, for president and Ignatius Donnelly for vice president.

IGNATIUS DONNELLY.

A platform was adopted which incorporated the provisions of the Omaha platform as well as an address adopted at the morning session, in which it is asserted: "The People's party vote in 1890 and in 1895 rose to nearly two million, and everything indicated its speedy national triumph. In this emergency the Democratic party saw it had no recourse but to steal one of the principles of the despised Populists. In their Chicago convention of 1896, in a prearranged theatrical scene of great uproar and enthusiasm, it moved to the front as the devoted and lifelong champion of that which it had always opposed. Senator Butler, who is the chairman of our national committee, preached disintegration and demoralization just as Benedict Arnold stipulated for the scattering of the American forces, that the British might more readily overthrow the young republic. Mr. Butler taught our forces that the first duty of a soldier was to break ranks and go over to the enemy. All efforts to chain the boundless subtlety of this cunning man have been in vain. Our chief battle is not against the demonetizing of one metal for the benefit of another, but against the chaining of the world's progress to the car wheels of a prehistoric superstition in the shape of both metals. The whole world today is held in check by a system of gold barter, while enterprise languishes, industry suffers and the cemeteries are populous with the bodies of bankrupts and suicides. We will end the tricks of the office seekers by putting our national ticket in the field at once. We believe the soul is bigger than the pocketbook."

The resolutions also provide for the reorganization of the party with Milton Park of Dallas as chairman. The convention adjourned without fixing any time or place for another convention, and the delegates consider their campaign for 1900 now opened. The most important action of the convention was the adoption of the referendum system as the cardinal principle in the future of the government of the reorganized party. The new rules provide that the People's party shall never again hold a delegate convention of any sort, national, state, district or local, but that the nominations for all officers shall be made through the "initiative or referendum, or petitions adopted by popular vote."

The Butlerites adopted an address, saying: "We implore the Populists of every state to pay no heed and to attach no importance to this small sloughing off of the party timber, but to maintain an aggressive warfare on the line hitherto followed, to build up and preserve our state and local organizations in accordance with the recommendations of the national organization committee as adopted at Nashville, July 4, 1897, and the subsequent agreement between our two national committees in Omaha, June 15, 1898, relying on the patriotism and good judgment of men advocating both policies of party management to heal their differences before the time fixed for our regular national convention."

Americans In the Far East.

London, Sept. 7.—The Hong Kong correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says: "Americans living in the far east are unanimously in favor of the annexation of Luzon, which, so far as fianace and trade are concerned, forms the main portion of the Philippines. Spain might retain the rest of the archipelago, of which only portions at present are of value, as for instance Paday and Cebu. They (the Americans) are convinced that Germany has arranged with Spain for the purchase of Palawan and Sulu islands.

"The exodus of Spanish families, priests and friars from Manila continues. They all appear convinced that Spanish rule in Luzon is at an end. The monastic orders, anxious on account of their large properties in the interior, are endeavoring to dispose of them. They would welcome American or English authority.

"Considerable anxiety exists regarding the prisoners, including Spanish troops and civilians, women and children, in the hands of the Philipinos.

TWO POINTS AHEAD.

Boston, Sept. 7.—It looked as if the Washingtons would be whitewashed when they drew blanks in eight successive innings, but an error by Hamilton gave them a big opening, and they gave a little spice to the game by running up a score of five runs in the ninth inning. They made more than twice as many hits in this one inning as they made in all the rest of the game.

Klobedanz pitched a grand game for eight innings, being hit for two singles, and giving only one base on balls. As he was supported perfectly in this interval, not a "senator" reached second base. His drubbing in the ninth appeared to be due to the fact that he felt Hunt did not give him credit for putting the ball over the plate, when he did. Score:

There was a snappy game in Louisville yesterday, but the colonels were stronger at the bat and won from the Clevelands.

With the score a tie at the end of the ninth inning, Umpire Doescher called the game in Providence in order to allow the Buffaloes to catch a train for Montreal.

A base on balls and Irwin's double enabled the Cincinnatis to win an exciting game from the Chicagoes in the ninth inning.

The Baltimores won the first game in Philadelphia rather easily, owing to Maul's effective twirling. The second game was hotly contested, and darkness stopped it at the end of the eighth inning with the score a tie.

The Eastern league season closed in Springfield with a victory for the Wilkesbarres in a slugging match. Duggleby was batted out of the game in the sisth inning. Score: 7 to 6.

The Springfield club of the Eastern league was scheduled to play in Wilkesbarre, Pa., today, but last night the manager of the Springfields sent a telegram that he would forfeit the four games.

Mr. Dingley's Views.

Farmington, Me., Sept. 7.—Nelson Dingley, at a conference of the Republican leaders of Franklin county, impressed the importance of a full Republican vote this fall as a forerunner of a victory in 1900. He paid the highest tribute to President McKinley. He said: "Though war is a great calamity, we have obtained immense benefits from it. The American nation has gained a name and position the world over that she could not have gained otherwise in 50 years. The cause of humanity has been advanced. The war has brought new responsibilities, and we will meet them. I have the greatest faith in the Anglo-Saxon race, and the American nation as a part of it will successfully cope with all responsibilities. The war has drawn the English speaking people of the world closer together. There was never any intention on our part to acquire territory, though results of the war may change the issues."

ARGUMENT CLINCHED.

General Miles' Contribution to the Santiago Discussion.

Was Not a Mere Observer of Army Movements.

New York, Sept. 8.—General Miles, on his arrival on the Obdam, gave out a long statement written by himself, in which he says that the war was conducted largely as the commander stated at the beginning that it would be, and that the plan issued by him sought to accomplish results with the least possible loss of life. He quotes an interview with himself given in the latter part of May in which he opposed an advance upon the city of Havana, and he then gives an extract from an army order issued by him early in the war to the effect that every officer, so far as was in his power, should guard and preserve the health and welfare of those under his charge.

The general says that when called upon to submit a plan of campaign he did so, and put it in writing. He took the stand that the Cubans should be equipped and enabled to harrass the Spanish forces. He then contemplated a movement against Havana, but the appearance of Cervera's fleet changed the conditions and made it necessary to move a military force to that point at once. The general says that while at Tampa he organized the expedition and requested permission to accompany it, but this permission was not granted. Authority was granted to equip a second expedition "for movement and operation against the enemy in Cuba and Porto Rico." Before this expedition was equipped, calls were made for additional forces to go to Santiago, and they were immediately forwarded.

On July 3, General Shafter telegraphed that his losses had been underestimated; that he had met with stronger resistance than anticipated; that he was considering the advisability of falling back, and that he had been unable to be up during the heat for four days. General Miles telegraphed Shafter that he would be with him in a week with reinforcements, taking the troops ordered by the president to operate against the enemy in Cuba as well as in Porto Rico. Under verbal instructions of the president, General Miles says he was directed to go wherever his presence was required, and to give such directions as in his opinion were best for the army and the government. The statement given out by General Miles says that any pretense that he went to Santiago disrobed of his authority or official capacity is too childish to be considered by sensible men. From the moment he arrived at Santiago he was responsible for what might occur.

General Miles calls attention to a dispatch sent him by the secretary of war telling him the terms upon which he was authorized to accept the Spanish general's surrender, and says: "This does not look as if General Miles was there as a visitor." He then reviews the events in connection with the surrender of Santiago and following it, saying:

"The place of landing of the Porto Rican expedition had been so thoroughly advertised in communications sent over the French cable and in the newspapers of our own country, and telegraphed to Madrid and from there to San Juan, that not having received the necessary appliances with which to disembark, he decided after leaving the Windward passage to change his course and land on the south side of Porto Rico, where the Spaniards were the least prepared and the least expecting to receive him, and where he knew that the disembarkation of the troops and supplies could be most easily effected. From the time of that disembarkation, during the following 19 days of the campaign, he kept the Spaniards guessing what the next move would be. When they withdrew along the line of the great military road between Ponce and San Juan, they destroyed the bridge, obstructed the roads and fortified strong positions in the mountain passage, and then were surprised that one column of his army was sweeping around the west end of the island, capturing the principal cities and towns, while another had passed over the mountains on the trail which the Spaniards had supposed impassable, and therefore had not fortified or guarded; and the first they knew of the march of the American army was the appearance of a strong brigade within 20 miles of the northern coast at the terminus of the railroad connecting San Juan with Arecibo.

"The island of Porto Rico was fairly won by the right of conquest, and becomes a part of the United States. The sentiment of the people was in no sense outraged by the invaders, but on the contrary was successfully propitiated. A people who have endured the severity of Spanish rule for four centuries hail with joy the protection of the great republic. One of the richest sections of the country over which our flag now floats has been added and will be of lasting value to our nation, politically, commercially and from a military or strategic point of view. Possession of that island has also rendered any further resistance of the Spanish forces in Cuba hopeless, and General Miles firmly believes that by fair and just treatment the people of Cuba can be easily controlled, either as a friendly ally and neighbor, or to become a part of our own country as the people of Porto Rico.

"General Miles remained in Porto Rico as long as he deemed his presence necessary for carrying out the instructions of the president, and now returns to the United States, bringing with him nearly 5000 troops who are no longer required there, leaving some 12,000 still remaining, amply sufficient for all purposes. He returns at once to Washington, where he believes he can be most useful, as he considers the most important need of the hour now to be the immediate reduction of war expenses and the return of as large a portion or those in the military service as possible to their former occupations, where they are most needed."

"It is true," said the general to an interviewer, "that I requested of the war department that the troops be allowed to march through New York city. I never intended to parade myself, as I shall go to Washington in a few days, and would not be here at the time of the contemplated parade. I asked that the Wisconsin men aboard the Obdam be permitted to stay in this vicinity for a day or two, to give them a chance to see the city. It would do no harm to let these western boys get a glimpse of New York. Surely they merit it. Many of them, I think, have never seen the city and perhaps will never have another opportunity to see it.

"To my first request, namely that my troops be permitted to camp hereabouts, in the neighborhood of Brooklyn heights, and that they be allowed to parade, I have received no reply. To my second request, I received a reply at quarantine ordering the Wisconsin boys home forthwith."

Cannot Spare All of Them.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Yesterday the president sent for Secretary Alger and Adjutant General Corbin, and also for a list of the volunteer organizations which have not been mustered out. The conference lasted an hour. Later, the following was given out at the war department: "In response to the request of the governors of some of the states for the muster out of their entire volunteer forces the president replied in substance as follows: 'Answering your telegraphic request for the muster out of your regiments, I have already directed that 100,000 of the volunteers shall be mustered out of the service; this because in my judgment that number can be spared. About 100,000 will remain, as the government now requires in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines a larger army than the regular military establishment affords. The muster out, like the muster in, will be as nearly as possible according to the population of the several states. The suggestion to muster out all of the volunteers from your state cannot therefore be entertained. The secretary of war has already inquired of the governors of the several states what regiments in their judgment can with the least inconvenience remain in the service. Their advice will, so far as consistent with the public interests, be complied with."

Hissed Governor Pingree.

Cincinnati, Sept. 8.—During the G. A. R. campfire last night, Governor Pingree of Michigan was hissed and hooted off the stage because of his criticism of the management of the Spanish war. He cited several cases of alleged abuse and suffering and to the delays of "red-tape." He became very vehement in denunciation of such formalities at the sacrifice of comfort, health and human life. After citing a particular case of bad management in the distribution of disinfectants, he said: "If Secretary Alger ——," but the governor never finished that sentence. A voice in the audience cried: "Hurrah for Alger." The cry was taken up in a boisterous chorus. The three words, "If Secretary Alger," were interpreted to be the beginning of censure and criticism. Governor Pingree made effort to resume, but only inflamed the audience more and soon shouts of "Take him off." "We don't want to hear him" and the like were heard.

GOVERNOR HAZEN S. PINGREE.

The chairman made futile attempts to quell the disturbance, and the governor retired. Chairman Melish finished from the governor's manuscript the sentence which the audience had refused to permit the governor to read. It ran as follows: "If Secretary Alger had been given full power such things would never have happened." The hisses of derision were then turned into cheers and repeated calls for Governor Pingree, but he had left the hall and refused to return.

The Bombastic Gomez.

Havana, Sept. 8.—General Maximo Gomez, under date of Aug. 26, has addressed a letter to T. Estrada Palma of New York, a copy of which has arrived here. Its salient points are embraced in three propositions:

First—General Gomez' annoyance at hearing rumors of peace negotiations between Spain and the United States without being himself officially notified; his horror of war and his desire to hear the Cubans spoken of only as republicans, men of worth and virtue; his declaration that, having been first in war, he now proposes to be first to assist in the consolidation and consummation of peace.

General Gomez further says that the Americans have been "cold and dry" with him, but they are the benefactors of Cuba, adding that both the United State and himself are "strangers and foreigners in this land."

Wheeler Deeply Afflicted.

Montauk Point, Sept. 8.—Thomas H. Wheeler, son of General Wheeler, and Second Lieutenant Newton D. Kirkpatrick, First cavalry, were probably drowned while bathing yesterday afternoon. Young Wheeler was a naval cadet in his second year, and had been acting on his father's staff. He was 17 years of age, was a fine fellow and had made a host of friends among the older officers. Together with Lieutenant Kirkpatrick he went to the beach to enjoy the surf bathing. The surf ran high, and the undertow was very strong. Apparently, nobody saw the young men drowned, and it was not until about 6 o'clock that they were missed. Their clothes were found a short distance from General Wheeler's tent, close to the water.

Sherman and the President.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Ex-Secretary Sherman called yesterday on President McKinley at the latter's request, and, after the exchange of civilities, the president brought up the matter of the criticisms of the management of the war department, and said they seemed to him largely unwarrantable, and certainly very much to be deprecated at this time, especially from a party point of view, and that he hoped that Mr. Sherman would exert his influence against such attacks.

Mr. Sherman, according to his own statement, made no promises, but said to the president frankly that it was so obvious that there had been serious mismanagement of the Santiago campaign from the time of its inception at Tampa to the return of General Shafter'stroops to Montauk Point, and also in the camps north and south, that the criticism of the war department was inevitable, and, in his opinion, justifiable.

Mr. Sherman is thinking of being a candidate for governor of Ohio, and has other political ambitions, now that his health is better, which, together with his strong sense of party loyalty, are relied on to make him acquiesce in the president's purpose.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The A's are completed in all wards of the city; today the instalment includes all the B's in Ward 4:

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

HAS A RECORD.

The Carriage House Burglar Has Weakness for Robes.

Thomas Neil, the man arrested in Boston on Wednesday, for breaking and entering and larceny from the stable of Mr. Harry L. Rice, is an old offender, and from his record it is almost impossible for him to pass a stable without entering and helping himself to what carriage robes there are about.

He is not unknown to the Quincy police, for some time ago he resided in Quincy and was employed as a hostler for James R. Wild and the late John E. Drake. While at work for Mr. Drake he suddenly disappeared as did also some valuable carriage robes. Before the police caught him, however, he was arrested for thieving at Brookline and was sent to jail for a term.

When arrested Wednesday he was acting in a suspicious manner on Washington street and the officer followed him to the corner of Broadway where he overhauled him. He told the officer that he had clothing in the bundle but when opened and the robes disclosed Neil admitted that he had stolen the goods in Quincy. In Neil's pockets were a number of pawn tickets which proved to be for articles stolen in Brockton.

Hayden—Saunders.

One of the first of the early fall weddings took place Wednesday evening at home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Saunders of Mill street, when their daughter Miss Nellie Louise and Mr. Albert Lorenzo Hayden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Hayden, Howard avenue, were united in marriage by Rev. Edwin Noah Hardy of the Bethany Congregational church. The wedding march was played at half after seven o'clock by Mr. Clifford C. Bradford.

Miss Laura B. Tupper of Spear street was the maid of honor and the groom was attended by his brother, Mr. E. Warren Hayden. The bride's gown was of white silk and most becoming.

After the ceremony a rece tion was held from eight until ten, the maid of honor and best man assisting the happy couple in receiving, and Mr. Ernest D. Gourd and Mr. Walter C. Sampson acting as ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden have gone to New Hampshire on a two weeks' trip and on their return are to reside at 21 1-2 Granite street, where they will be at home to their friends after December first. Both have been members of the Bethany choir and are popular with the young people.

Deficit of $7,156.60.

At the Town meeting in Braintree last night John Kelley was elected Water Commissioner to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John V. Scollard. The Investigating Committee made a long report criticizing the Water Board and showed a deficit in the late collector's account of $7,156.60. Meeting adjourned for two weeks.

Pastor's Reception.

Rev. J. H. Whitaker held his first reception this week for the season. The extreme heat kept many away who would otherwise have been present but those who came received a hearty welcome and congratulated their pastor on his return to his people after his eight weeks' absence from his pulpit.

MARBLEHEAD GIRLS.

Experience of Wollaston Yacht Club on Cruiser.

With its accustomed enthusiasm, the Wollaston Yacht club went on its second annual cruise last Saturday. The start from the clubhouse was made about two o'clock, P. M., and Marblehead was the objective point.

Following are the names of the yachts which made up the fleet: The flagship Burgess, Commodore Frank Burgess; Steamer Winona, Vice-Commodore Arthur C. Gardiner; Magnolia, Rear Commodore Eben Hardy; schooner Enigma, Fleet Captain Henry E. Nelson; Premier, Capt. E. A. Hayden; Clara Lou, Capt. W. J. Coombs; Rambler, Capt. J. A. Tower; Medora, Capt. S.B. Wiley, Jr.; Belle, Capt. J. C. Chamberlaine; Thelma, Capt. E. A. Merrill; Muriel, Capt. J. L. Smith; and the little Beatrice, Capt. W. D. Given.

The little boat named last, is by no means the least when depended upon to pick her way along a rocky coast and make a harbor safely in the dark with "Dr." Given at the helm.

Forty-seven members participated and not a member regrets that he was one of the forty-seven. Many interesting incidents happened during the two and one-half days' absence from home.

The time at Marblehead from Saturday night to Monday morning was pleasantly passed in visiting the many points of interest on land and about the harbor. The hospitality shown by the Burgess Yacht club will long be cherished.

The Old Monitor Catskill was lying in the harbor which added entertainment to the occasion, a very few, if any of the Wollaston boys, missing the opportunity to visit the old craft and note the routine life of Uncle Sam's boys in blue on that class of warships. Some of the boys wrote letters to their wives and best girls many reaching home ahead of the letters.

Two of the party actually attended the service at the Baptist church, Sunday morning, but the others hardly believed the story when told of it.

The Commodore tried for two hours to steal the Catskill's "mascott" a little pig seen upon her decks, but he only succeeded in getting a snap shot of the small piece of pork. The boys promised however not to give the Commodore away if he would give each one a photograph of the squeeler, and of course they won't break faith with him. Many of the members possess good voices and it was not long after evening came on that the singers began to find each other, and going on boad the Winona, they did themselves honor, not only by their good singing, but also for the appropriate selections. One of the party was found all by his lonesome, and when asked if he was sick, he answered "no," and added, "You will all be sick if Mr. Prescott publishes the result of my efforts for the past two hours."

An explanation was demanded and he said "Well, I was thinking of our poet Whittier's poem of "Old Floyd Ireson," who was tarred and feathered by the women of Marblehead for his hard heart, and it occurred to me that our new member, Jack Middy, should be shown up, for his soft heart. "Let me read it to you," "I will first give you one verse of Old Floyd Ireson so that you may catch the metre," and so he read as follows:

Small pity for him, he sailed away,
From a leaking ship in Chaleur Bay;
Sailed away from a sinking ship
With his own townspeople on her deck.
Lay by! Lay by! they called to him
Back, he answered, "Sink or swim,"
Brag of your catch of fish again,
And off he sailed through fog and rain.
Old Floyd Ireson, for his hard heart
Was tarred and feathered and carried in a cart
By the women of Marblehead.

YOUNG JACK MIDDY.

Of all the runs since runs were had,
The Wollaston Yacht Club this time led Down past the islands and little Nahant.
The yachts kept on with a starboard cant,
A wholesail breeze from Nor, Nor, west;
With sheets close hauled to do their best,
On, On, they sailed, each captain tried
To get there first, it was their pride.

Into the harbor of Marblehead,
The Wollaston Yacht Club boldly sped,
Off on its second annual run,
They made the harbor with the setting sun,
Among the crew in the fleet so gay,
Was young Jack Middy, who joined that day,
An Apollo in form and voice so sweet,
He mashed all the girls he chanced to meet,
Young Jack Middy, for his soft heart
Was feasted and petted and spoiled from the start,
By the girls of Marblehead.

On shore at night, he easily led,
His manly form (so the boys all said)
Was such that his mates, not one had a chance,
For he won all the girls with his conquering glance.
On Sunday the town was given to him,
But he left it behind to go there again,
'Twas the pretty girls and sights to behold
A price in his heart, he held above gold,
Young Jack Middy, for his soft heart
Was feasted and petted, and spoiled from the start,
By the girls of Marblehead.

In white duck suit, he dressed with pains,
Through Marblehead's old crooked lanes
He marched to conquer maidens fair,
He found them plenty everywhere.
His choice he took of a pretty maid,
And by her side for hours he staid,
When rudely to his ears did tell
The midnight hour by the village bell,
Young Jack Middy for his soft heart
Was feasted and petted and spoiled from the start,
By the girls of Marblehead.

The warning that the bell had told,
Was to him a story, O so old,
Her father's voice close by said, "Scoot."
He raised his foot and with his boot
He struck Jack full where he sits down,
Jack landed just across the town,
Close by the Burgess Yacht Club house
He meekly stood like a frightened mouse,
Young Jack Middy, for his soft heart
Was feasted and petted and spoiled from the start,
By the girls of Marblehead.

High on the bank he stood alone,
With hands he formed a megaphone,
He loudly called to those on ship,
They heard his voice but let him rip,
On second thought their jealousness fled,
For Jack, before he left, had said,
That of his conquests, he'd relate,
No matter what for him, his fate.
Young Jack Middy, for his soft heart
Was feasted and petted, and spoiled from the start,
By the girls of Marblehead.

Floyd Ireson, our immortal Whittier said,
Was tarred and feathered in Marblehead,
But Jack with a heart that beat (the band),
Was of a different sort, and full of sand.
No ship at sea would he leave to strand,
With a possible chance to lend a hand,
So the fate of Ireson as told of yore,
For young Jack Middy was not in store,
Young Jack Middy, for his soft heart
Was feasted and petted and spoiled from the start,
By the girls of Marblehead.

Hot tears shed for him, he sailed away,
With the Wollaston club from Marblehead bay.
Sailed away from broken hearts
Pierced through and through by Cupid's darts.
"Leave me not, Oh do not go!"
Back he answered, with head bowed low.
"Next year to thee I will return
And quench thy heart which now doth burn."
Young Jack Middy, for his soft heart
Was feasted, and petted, and spoiled from the start,
By the girls of Marblehead.

Out on the waters beyond the bay,
Of Marblehead, on "Labor Day,"
This petted man so free from guile(?)
Went down below and took a smile.
His heart so full of hope and joy,
No other thoughts could he employ,
But that of girls of Marblehead.
That night when he was put to bed
Young Jack Middy, for his soft heart
Was feasted and petted and spoiled from the start,
By the girls from Marblehead.

The poet looked up, after reading the above, and found himself surrounded by six of the most stalwart members, each holding a revolver at his head. He was then put in irons and placed in the ice box, under guard, and brought home where he is now convalescing.

Club Gets Prize Offered by Mr. Rice—Race Off.

Mr. I. N. Small the owner of the schooner "Bud" having very curtly declined to race against the "Recruit" the following letter has been received by the Quincy Yacht club from the Hon. W. B. Rice who offered a first prize of $50 provided the "Bud" would enter the race. Failure on her part to enter annuls that race.

Treasurer of the Quincy Yacht club.

My Dear Sir: Enclosed please find check for $50 payable to the order of the Treasurer of the Quincy Yacht club.

As the race between the "Bud," the "Recruit," and the "Duchess" and other 21-foot boats failed to come off by reason of the refusal of the owner of the "Bud" to enter, I request that this sum be placed in the club treasury, and be used for general purposes.

Yours respectfully
W. B. RICE.

Still Working for Soldiers.

A large box of canned goods and delicacies were sent Friday, Sept. 2d, to the 1st U. S. Regular Cavalry, Troop G, who were in the battle of San Juan, and are now at Camp Wickoff, Montauk Point, Long Island, New York, by the local branch of the M. V. A. Association, and other loyal and patriotic ladies of Quincy, who are interested in the welfare of the soldier.

A large barrel was also sent to the same destination from the association filled with delicacies, handkerchiefs, towels and 60 comfort bags; the contents of which were valued at $48.

A box containing hospital shirts, sheets and pillow cases was shipped the same day, to the Dean building, thence to be forwaded to the hospital ships for the sick and wounded boys. This box was valued at $20.

On Fire a Second Time.

The alarm from Box 27 at 12.55 this morning was pulled in for a slight fire in Ring's bakery on Washington street. The fire caught in the sheathing which surrounds the chimney but was discovered and extinguished before it had made much headway and the loss will not be over $5. This is the second time that the fire department has been called out to extinguish a similar fire at the same place and it seems as though the proper thing to do would be to remove the iron chimney and build one of brick. Remarkably quick runs were made by Hose 4 and 2.

THE DAILY EVENTS.

The Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

At the bakery fire last night, 'tis said,
The trough sang a doughful rhyme,
And the raspberry jam in the currant swam
And the bread loafed all the time.

Cooler.

A delightful change.

The Bostons still lead.

One week of September has gone.

A new lamp post is needed sadly on Winter street.

Mrs. C. Alice Litchfield has gone to North Scituate beach for two weeks.

Mrs. Mary F. Dexter has gone to Saxton River, Vt., for the month of September.

The Wollaston yacht club will have its annual clambake on Saturday at Nut island.

Mrs. Charles P. Brackett of Wollaston has been at Point Allerton for the past three weeks.

Miss Josephine Walker of Arthur street has returned from a two months' visit to Scotland.

Tourists board the trains with arms full of golden rod. It is no uncommon thing to see this flower carried away by the wholesale.

The dust had full sway for a while Wednesday about the streets but its mad career was checked by the heavy rain in the evening.

Lumber for the new Presbyterian church has arrived. The timbers are all ready to put together and rapid progress is probable.

Walter E. Loud, who has been spending a week at Hampton beach, N. H., has returned home, much improved after his two weeks' illness.

The fellow who stole the robes from Mr. Rice's stable should have removed the names that were worked in them before he tried to sell them.

On Wednesday a large dog rolled off the retaining wall near Mr. W. G. Corthell's place at Wollaston, and got badly used up. He finally managed to hobble home on three legs.

Deputy Fire Marshal Adams takes in this week all principal cities and towns between Quincy and Provincetown. He started today on his trip of inspection and will be away three days.

Mr. Chester Newcomb came up Wednesday from Providence, R. I., on the trolley, and was just fou hours on the trip. The scenery is very picturesque from Providence to Taunton.

A crowd collected in the square Wednesday just at 5, but it was only a poor old horse belonging to a stone team from French village that was sun struck. A sponge and cold water revived him.

George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, No. 146, are to have a basket picnic at N. B. Furnald's cottage Houghs Neck, on Wednesday, Sept. 14, and have invited Amana lodge, No. 96, of South Braintree and Carrie E. Ruggles lodge of Wollaston to join with them.

Mr. Reginald Martin, son of Mr. William P. Martin, of Richmond corner, Maine, formerly of this city, has been spending a week here among friends, the first visit in three years. He says that Quincy is improving and he noticed a number of improvements.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. James P. Perry of Wollaston were held at the First Baptist church on Wednesday afternoon before a large concourse of relatives and friends. The services were conducted by the Rev. Preston Gurney the pastor of the society. The interment was at the Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

The news of the death of Cambridge Hall formerly of this city, at South America, came as a shock to his many friends, as in the last letter he wrote he was enjoying good health and would start for home Nov. 1. He married Miss Ida Edwards, daughter of Samuel Edwards of this city and was at one time on the State Constabulary force. His wife survives him, also a daughter.

Stove Cleaning Help.

A little Soap eases wonderfully the labor of cleaning and brightening up the kitchen stove. Rub a flannel rag on the Soap, dip it into ordinary stove blacking and apply to the stove; finish with a dry cloth. The work will be done quickly and it will last much longer than without the Soap. It will pay you to try this—it is a real help.

GOING TOMORROW.

Fifth Gets Orders to Move at Once.

Expects to Leave South Framingham at Noon Friday.

Quincy Men Will be There to See Them Off.

Camp Dalton.
Thursday Noon, Sept. 8.

Col. Whitney has received orders for the Fifth Massachusetts regiment, U. S. V., to move at once to Camp Meade, Middletown, Penn. It is expected that transportation will be provided tomorrow, and that the regiment will leave South Framingham at noon. Hope the Quincy friends will come to cheer us on our way.

MACK.

The above telegram was promptly bulletined at the Ledger office, and some Quincy people have gone to camp today to say good bye to the boys. The larger number of citizens will go tomorrow morning that they may enthuse when the Fifth departs. In their new camp in Pennsylvania Co. K will not be handy to visit, but they will not be forgotten, and boxes of good things from Quincy will follow the boys wherever duty calls.

AT CAMP DALTON.

Anxiety Yesterday for Orders—A March Taken.

Camp Dalton,
Thursday, Sept. 8.

Yesterday the anxious look seemed to have passed from the faces of most of the members of the Fifth, and a look of discouragement to have taken its place. Last Sunday's news seemed to have excited every one, as a change of any kind was welcome. A great many had wished to be mustered out, but when the news of their being obliged to remain in service came, they swallowed their disappointment and tried to be glad with the rest. Moving orders have been expected every moment but up to last night none have been received. There is no doubt they will move in time, but the boys are tired of waiting.

The members of the Ninth in Camp Dalton are getting along very well with Major Morrison of the Fifth in command. Drill orders have been arranged and their first grand mount took place yesterday. They will guard and police their end of the field. A number of carpenters and plumbers have been at work for the last few days building a bath house and kitchen and putting in the water. It is well arranged camp and is some different from those they came from.

Just to show the public a sample of the red tape in the United States service, a word or two will not go amiss. Good bacon is supposed to be supplied the troops, but a very poor quality of "salt junk" has been issued of late and charged up to the regiment as good bacon. Some of it was found to be unfit for human use last week by a board ordered to examine it. The fact was telegraphed to Wahington but as yet nothing has been heard of it. Lot after lot has been rejected but no better received. There is no remedy for an emergency of this kind and as this is not eatable the men would have had to go hungry were it not for the several company fnnds. It may take weeks to straighten out this affair. It is a case of eat it or go without with some, but Co. K is fortunate in having thoughtful friends at home.

A march was ordered for yesterday afternoon but at one o'clock a cloud burst threatened to mar it. The rain came down suddenly and continued for twenty minutes but as quickly cleared.

The start was made at 1.45. The route was through a wooded country and was a beautiful march. Saxonville was taken in on the return trip. Lemonade was served to the members of Co. K when they reached camp through the kindness of Rev. Mr. Tobey of Wollaston, who shipped the company a box of lemons early in the week. The boys wish to thank the gentleman for his kindness.

THE REASONS WHY.

Republicans Will Not Rally for Barrows and Atwood.

A prominent anti-Atwood Republican, who two years ago was an enthusiastic supporter of Mr. Barrows, and this year is favoring Mr. Paige, on being asked by a representative of the Ledger to state why he was opposing the renomination of Mr. Barrows, said: "I am opposing and shall oppose the renomination of Mr. Barrows because I am a Republican and Mr. Barrows is not; because I am a Protectionist and Mr. Barrows is not; because I am in favor of the Republican platform and Mr. Barrows is not; because I believe in the policy of expansion in the unhesitating acceptance of the enlarged responsibilities thrust upon us by the successful issue of the late war, and Mr. Barrows does not; because I believe a man who gets into Congress through pledges voluntarily given, should keep his pledges, and Mr. Barrows does not; because Mr. Barrows favored the adjournment of Congress before the report of the Maine Board of Inquiry; because he was opposed to intervention in Cuba and denounced it as robbery; because he made himself conspicuous in Congress by voting and acting against the whole Republican party; because he abandoned his congressional duties at the time of the extra session over a month before the adjournment of Congress, while the Dingley Bill was still pending, to take a junketing trip to Europe at the expense of Uncle Sam; because when the Dingley Law was passed by the House of Representatives on the 19th of July, 1897, Congressman Barrows was not in his seat, did not vote and was not paired.

I am opposed in short, to the renomination of ex-Congressman Atwood because he has been conclusively proven to be personally dishonest, and to the re-nomination of Congressman Barrows because he, two years ago, obtained a nomination to Congress by false representations and by pledges made only to be broken.

If there is any part of the district that should be a unit against Mr. Barrows, I should suppose it would be Quincy; and if there is any interest in the 10th District that should favor the representation of the district by a genine Republican protectionist, I should think it would be the granite interest of Quincy. Mr. Barrows went out of his way to subject his friends at Quincy to an indignity when he rejected Mr. Adams their candidate for the Quincy postmastership for Mr. Hammond, the candidate of his opponents; and in order to obtain a hearing by the Ways and Means Committee of Congress the granite men of Quincy were compelled to go outside of their district for an introduction to the Committee on Ways and Means. Of course Mr. Barrows could not talk protection of granite, for he does not believe in protection as a principle; and so course he could not act as the spokesman of Protectionists in Washington when he felt they were there only to satisfy their personal greed, and had characterized them as "cormorants."

There are three candidates for Congress in the the 10th District—ex-Congressman Atwood, Congressman Barrows and Alderman Milton C. Paige of Boston. The first two candidates are excluded for the reasons stated, and honest men will insist upon being represented by an honest man, and Republicans who will insist upon being represented by a Republican, will support Mr. Paige. In my candid opinion, and I think I have as accurate an understanding of political conditions in the 10th District as any other man, votes cast for Mr. Barrows will be votes thrown away. Mr. Barrows is not in it even a little bit; the contest is between Paige and Atwood; and if Mr. Atwood is to be defeated, it can only be accomplished through the nomination and election of Mr. Paige, whose honesty and Republicanism have never been and cannot be questioned."

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas Neil pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the stable of Harry L. Rice, and the larceny of robes, etc., to the value of $42, but was held in $700 for the grand jury.

THE DAILY EVENTS.

Randall Faxon of Co. K is reported as being on the sick list.

The First church will be opened for regular service on Sunday after extensive renovation.

This is the coolest day since Sunday, Aug. 28. There have been only eight cooler noon temperatures since Aug. 1.

Wednesday there was cast in Quincy, at the shop of Prof. McGowan, the largest aluminum casting ever made. It is for a horseless carriage.

Among the articles sent to the Co. K boys this week was a keg of pigs' feet, and a keg of tripe from ex-Councilman Sprague, and a barrel of sweet potatoes from the regular contributors.

Jeremiah Sullivan, who with others left Quincy early last spring for the Klondike gold fields, returned this week. He says that there is plenty of gold there but he did not get any of it.

Among those who went to Camp Wickoff at Montauk Point with Dr. Hughes, to nurse the sick soldiers, was Miss L. M. Hernan of Quincy. Miss Hernan is a graduate of Quincy City Hospital and has had a large experience.

The steam yacht Marie also her commander, Capt. Taylor, are missed by some this summer. The Marie laid at her mooring off Monatiquot at Quincy Point for several summers. Capt. Taylor was always generous and his time and his yacht were always for the comfort of his friends and others.

The Calvary Baptist church is glad to announce the Rev. David Kerr, has accepted the call to labor in this place. He is expected to begin work on September eleven. Mr. Kerr comes highly recommended fro m his former work in Scotland and it is believed the Lord will bless him here.

There is one Quincy gentleman who has done much in his line for the boys of Co. K, whose name has not been mentioned. That gentleman is Mr. E. E. Hayden, local manager of the New York & Boston Dispatch Express Co. He has not only contributed financially to the fund but he has forwarded many packages of good things to the boys free of charge.

A. A. Meyers, the energetic proprietor of the Fensmere plant, has made more of a success of the enterprise than any one was ready to predict in the spring. He is reported to have made a good interest on the investment, which is a good record for the first season. With this year's advertising it will be even a greater success next year, especially if the electric car service is improved. Many will regret that the closing entertainment comes so soon, but it will be possible to get a first class clambake until Oct. 1. On Saturday evening an Irish comedian a serio-comic singer, and specialists are advertised and there will be dancing and a good time.

Neponset Bridge.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

If any of the readers of the Quincy Daily Ledger have been so unfortunate as to be obliged to cross Neponset bridge during a shower or immediately after a rain they can testify to the wading that has to be done to travel its length. Puddle after puddle has to be passed through and if one succeeds in having his rubbers actually protect him and he escapes without wet feet he must owe it to some miraculous preservation.

Why boards of the sidewalk are not properly punctured with holes that the water may immediately drain off is best known probably to those that have the care of that public way but there certainly seems to be a negligence on the part of somebody in not looking out for the comfort of pedestrians when there are such excellent facilities for so doing and it can be done with so little trouble.

PROGRESS.

BACK FROM MONTAUK

Alger Deems Wikoff Admirable and Thoroughly Healthful.

Santiago Troops Had Plenty of Necessaries.

Noticeable That the Men Who Fought Make No Complaints.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Secretary Alger, who has returned from his inspection tour of Camp Wikoff with President McKinley and several of the bureau of the war department, feels certain, after a careful examination of Camp Wikoff and a thorough investigation of its conditions, that everything possible is being done for the men, both sick and well, who are detained there. "The camp is an admirable one," he said, "the best, I think, I ever saw. The site is ideal. It is beautiful without being picturesque, and is certainly as healthful a camp location as could be found in the eastern country. While the conditions are as good as could be expected in the circumstances, even better than I ever knew them to be in a camp, a shade of gloom is cast over the encampment by the physical condition of the men. Sickness, suffering and death mar what would otherwise be a magnificent military picture. These conditions, however, are not the result of the situation of the camp itself, but of the terrible campaign through which the troops have just passed.

"That campaign of Santiago will be memorable in the military history of the world. It was wonderful both in its conduct and in the results achieved. Few military experts expected when the campaign was inaugurated that such a success could be achieved in so short a time. It was a tremendous undertaking to begin a campaign in a tropical country during the rainy season against a position so strong and so well defended as was Santiago. That success was achieved so soon and with a loss comparatively small is due to the energy and ability of General Shafter and his commanding officers, and to the dash, bravery and splendid fighting qualities of the men of General Shafter's corps.

"I talked with General Shafter," continued the secretary, "and he discussed some of the obstacles which had to be overcome in the Santiago campaign. Just now, by the way, he is suffering from the effects of the campaign himself. While I chatted with him, his face was flushed with fever, and he was really a sick man. Upon his arrival at Montauk Point he went into the detention camp with the other soldiers, and like the true soldier he is, he asked nothing better for himself than was being received by the men whom he commands. He said that when he arrived in Cuba and realized the conditions that confronted him and his men, he knew that the campaign must not necessarily be one of days rather than of weeks and months. He had lost nearly all of his lighters, and was thus seriously handicapped in effecting a landing of both his troops and the stores and supplies which the fleet carried. The tremendous rains which set in immediately after his arrival rendered it next to impossible for either the troops or supplies to be gotten forward. He felt, however, that whatever were the difficulties, he must press forward and if possible end the campaign in the briefest time. The climatic conditions were such that to lose any time meant the destruction of his command by illness, and the consequent failure of the expedition. He took no chances on delay, therefore, but swept his gallant army upon the Spaniards with such irresistible dash that the city was won almost before the Spaniards realized what they had to encounter. It is perfectly evident now that had General Shafter waited until his army and supplies could have been sent forward with ordinary deliberation, the expedition against Santiago would have failed utterly. In a measure, it was his disregard of military conventionalities that enabled him to carry the campaign to a brilliantly successful issue.

"During all the time the troops were lying in the trenches before Santiago, despite the immediate difficulties experienced in getting supplies to the front, the men suffered very little from a lack of provisions. Of course they did not have what they are now receiving at Montauk Point, but they had the actual necessaries of life, notwithstanding the newspaper reports to the contrary. Doubtless, there were individual cases of suffering because of the scarcity of supplies at the front, but as a rule the men had all that the soldiers of the Union army had at times during the civil war. While the Federal forces were lying in the trenches before Petersburg, they suffered at times during those seven months for food, but like the heroes before Santiago they endured without complaining.

"It is particularly noticeable that the men who were actually engaged in the Santiago campaign are not complaining of their treatment. I talked with scores of them, I was about to say hundreds, and not a breath of complaint did I hear from any of them. They suffered, they are suffering yet, but they endured and are enduring their trials like spartans. There may be individual cases of complaint. It would indeed be strange if there were not, but as a body the army of General Shafter is not only satisfied with the situation but immeasurably proud of its marvellous achievement.

"The president was particularly solicitous about the condition of the men. He went to Camp Wikoff to ascertain for himself whether the men in the ranks needed anything that they were not getting. His orders were that they should want for nothing, but he desired personally to know whether those orders were being carried out. After several hours of patient investigation and careful examination he left the camp, satisfied that the men were being as well cared for as they could be in a field hospital. He took no official's word for anything. He had gone to the camp to see for himself, and his conviction as to the conditions was reached only after he had come in personal contact with these conditions.

Nearly every woman can recall from her own experiences some emergency when a ready knowledge of the best thing to do, would have saved days or perhaps months of anxiety and suffering. No family ought to be without the constant safeguard and ever-present help of that wonderful free book the Common Sense Medical Adviser by R. V. Pierce, M. D., chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. It tells what to do in emergency or accident or sudden sickness. It contains over one thousand pages, profusely illustrated with engravings and colored plates. It gives receipts for several hundred simple, well-tried home remedies. It instructs the mother in the care of her ailing children or husband, and gives invaluable suggestions for the preservation of her own health and condition in all those critical and delicate periods to which women are subject. The author of this great work has had a wider practical experience in treating obstinate diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-renowned for their marvelous efficacy.

Mrs. H. M. Hansrote, of Magnolia, Morgan Co., W. Va., in a letter to Dr. Pierce says: "My husband is a locomotive engineer. He came home about a year ago and just dropped in the doorway. He was burning up with fever and he commenced with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery according to directions and in two weeks he was able to go to work, without having a doctor. I commenced to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription something over two years ago, and am glad to testify that it is a God-send to womankind. I have been out of health for years, and am now able to say your medicine has cured me entirely. The three children who were born before I commenced to take your medicine did not live long, they were very delicate, but those born since (three in all) are very hearty, and that convinces me that your medicine is just what it is said to be and a great deal more."

By simply enclosing 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y., a paper-bound volume of Dr. Pierce's great book will be sent absolutely free, or for ten stamps extra a heavier and handsomer cloth-bound copy will be sent. A whole medical library in one 1000-page volume.

Would Be a Cause of War.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The officials of the state department attach little importance to the stories coming from Hong Kong to the effect that German warships are preparing to take possession of one or more islands of the Philippine group. Technically, the United States and Spain are now under an armistice. Germany could not even by cession or purchase acquire from Spain any of the Philippine group pending the decision of the peace commission, and were she to attempt to profit in that manner by the present situation of Spain, her act might be regarded as a cause of war.

Juliette's the Champion.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—The women's tennis tournament terminated yesterday with the game for the western championship between Louise Pound, the champion, and Juliette Atkinson, the winner of the tournament proper. Miss Atkinson won 6—4; 6—3, 7—5. She is now champion of the west as well as holder of the international honors, which she won recently in Niagara.

How to Make Sweetbread Patties.

First stand the sweetbreads—about three pounds—in cold water an hour or two. Then parboil, cool and remove all rough edges, membranes and sinews. Then place in cold water and keep on ice until wanted. Put into frying pan four ounces of butter, and when it melts split the prepared sweetbreads in two and saute them in the butter. Open a can of fresh mushrooms, rinse in cold water, cut them into quarters, add them to the sweetbreads with a pint of boiled cream. Season with salt and pepper. Dissolve a heaping tablesponful of flour, add it and simmer until the sauce is thick and smooth. Serve on squares of puff paste.

How to Prepare Garlic Sauce.

Remove the peel from some garlic, separate it into cloves, put them in a saucepan of water and boil for five minutes. Change the water three times, boiling for five minutes in each. Strain off the water, add white sauce to the cloves, boil up and serve. The strength of the flavor is determined by the length of boiling, as the longer it boils the weaker it will be. The garlic if properly cooked will have an almond taste.

How to Serve Marrow on Toast.

Extract the marrow out of two beef bones, cut it into small squares of even size, blanch it, strain and drain. Have ready some slices of buttered toast. Spread over with anchovy paste, cut it into neat squares or rounds, place two or three pieces of marrow on each piece of toast, break it with a fork, sprinkle with a mixture of chopped parsley and chives, season with salt and a dust of cayenne pepper. Bake in a quick over for five minutes. Sprinkle over a few drops of liquid meat glaze just before serving.

ARMY RATIONS AS DIET

Mr. Alger Says the Soldiers Require Nothing More.

Dainties Only Serve to Breed Dissatisfaction.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Secretary Alger is putting his affairs in shape to admit of his absence from Washington on a tour of inspection of the army camps throughout the country. He will go first to Camp Meade, Pa., and thence to Detroit. The secretary now feels free to express views entertained by the president and himself respecting the plans for the treatment of the soldiers and touching the persons upon whom the responsibility should be placed for some of the matters of complaint.

In this connection he says: "The regiments that have been ordered mustered out will be mustered out; the regiments that have been designated by the president to remain in the service will have to remain. As soon as we have mustered out 100,000 more or less, we shall reorganize the army—every brigade, division and corps—and put them into comfortable camps until such of them as are needed are withdrawn for service in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines. The men composing the army will be treated as soldiers. The officers commanding regiments and companies will be held strictly accountable for the sanitary condition of the camps. During the war many of these officers disregarded the specific instructions that had been given looking to the proper care of their men. Now it is time for them to take this work upon themselves. Where men are incompetent to discharge these duties they must give way to competent men.

"Now a word as to the feeding of the troops. The army ration is all that is necessary for a soldier. I hope that there will be less food given to the men from outside sources. The dainties are of no real help, and only tend to breed dissatisfaction where they do not actually destroy the health of the men. The army ration is a sound, healthful diet. The principal difficulty we have to contend with is the recklessness of youth. In the vigor of sound health the young men who went to make up our army could not be induced to take proper care of themselves.

"When a regiment is designated to be mustered out no further appeals will be allowed to influence the department to change its program. That order is going to be strictly observed until the president decides that he can make a further reduction in the army. When such reduction is made there will be no discrimination in releasing the troops.

"The great complaint of the soldiers is homesickness, and a great deal of this has been caused by the inconsiderate publications in the sensational newspapers. Some of it is also chargeable to the fact that the men entered the army with the expectation that their services would be very short. Every experienced officer knows that a great many men died of homesickness. Following the depression that ensues upon homesickness come other maladies to which the homesick soldier falls an easy victim. The American people should try to brace up these men; to encourage them and cause them to remember that they are soldiers and are expected to meet a soldier's duty. Some of the complaints that have been published are calculated to make the American army appear in a poor light to the eyes of the American people and also to those of the nations of the world."

The secretary has given an earnest of his purpose to carry out strictly the decision he has announced to hold field officers responsible for the condition of the men in the case of Private Hugh Parrott, who was reported to have perished in his tent at Montauk, lacking medical attendance. The secretary several days ago called upon the commanding officer for a report on this subject, and yesterday he sent a peremptory order to General Shafter by telegraph to create a court of inquiry to investigate the case, or, if the facts warrant it, to shorten the proceedings by ordering a court-martial at once for the officer responsible for Parrott's lack of attention.

Lost His Peacock Feather.

Pekin, Sept. 8.—Li Hung Chang has been dismissed from power. It is presumed this was done in accordance with the demand which, it is rumored, the British minister here, Sir Claude Macdonald, was instructed to make on account of the alleged general partiality of the great Chinaman to Russia, culminating in Great Britain being deprived of the contract for the Pekin-Hankow railroad, by giving the Russo-Chinese bank financial control of the road.

The Dreyfus Affair.

Paris, Sept. 8.—The agitation for convoking the chamber of deputies is growing daily. Already notices of 12 interpellations as to the Dreyfus affair have been given. Three duels are imminent over the case. A great sensation has been caused by the statement that facts have been discovered implicating the officers and the general staff. Rumors are in circulation that Count Esterhazy has disappeared.

Cyclone In Vermont.

Bennington, Sept. 8.—A miniature cyclone passed over this town yesterday, wrecking the power station of the Bennington and Hoosick Valley electric railroad at Hoosick Falls and causing a damage estimated at $3500. Thomas Moore was injured by the falling of a chimney at the malleable iron works, and died an hour later.

Killed His Aunt.

New York, Sept. 8.—Patrick Reilly shot and killed his aunt, Rosanna O'Toole, in her little shop last night. Reilly was a worthless character and, refusing to work, had been put out on his aunt's home. He was arrested.

WINNING STREAK.

Boston, Sept. 8.—The leaders of the league, with Lewis in the box, made it four straight from the Washingtons yesterday, and the fifth victory in succession in less than a week. The senators had a glorious chance to do serious business with the home players at the opening, but failed in a chance to score by taking advantage of some picturesque playing of the locals. Captain Duffy's men then went in, and in their half of the first placed the game on their side. Score:

The Providences had no trouble in defeating the Springfields yesterday, hitting Dolan hard and often after the third inning. Although the Springfield pitcher had poor support in the fourth, the men behind him fielded brilliantly at other times.

The Louisvilles were badly off in all departments of the game with the Clevelands yesterday, and were shut out, 9 to 0.

Breitenstein of the Cincinnatis, after the first four innings, was an easy mark for the Chicagoes, who won, 13 to 2.

Gust Was Powerful.

New York, Sept. 8.—A gust of wind that preceded a thunder storm blew down the iron superstructure of a new pier at the foot of West Twelfth street instantly killing Samuel Patterson and injuring 10 others, one of whom, James Leonard, afterwards died. There were 90 men at work at the time. The beams and girders were up and the roof, which was also of iron, was on. When the storm loomed up from the southwest a tremendous blast of wind rushed in under the iron superstructure and, fairly lifting it from the pier, allowed it to drop again in a mass of twisted and gnarled debris, burying the men under it.

During the lull that intervened between the first roar of the wind and the sharp creakings of the twisted iron could be heard the cries and moans of the wounded. The uninjured men made a rush for the shore end of the pier and huddled together, trembling with fear, in the large shed of the timekeeper, leaving their fellow workmen crying for help. An alarm of fire which was sent in brought out two companies of firemen, who went to work with all their might to rescue those who were under the debris. Three carpenters who were at work on the roof are supposed to have been blown into the river and drowned.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 8.—Frank E. and Charles Richards, two boys who escaped from the training ship, Alliance, in Portland harbor Sunday night, were taken into custody by the police yesterday. They were endeavoring to get to Albany where they have friends. The boys said they had been ill-treated and abused, and that the boys on board the Alliance are a set of bullies.

The bath house at Revere beach was opened again this morning under temporary arrangements. The building is not so seriously injured as was at first supposed, owing to its construction. The principal injury is in the destruction of the roof and laundry.

The result of an autopsy on the body of a year-old child found floating in the harbor Tuesday afternoon, disclosed that the child had been murdered by blows in the head, which had fractured the skull.

Gerrish Makes Charges.

Concord, Sept. 8.—Major Gerrish, ex-deputy treasurer, was arrested yesterday, for embezzling state taxes paid by towns and unincorporated places, $1297.01; license fees paid, but not entered on the books, $200; amount paid by W. F. Whitney for convict labor for the months of March and April, $3,097.81. Mr. Gerrish has made a statement in which he attempts to implicate State Treasurer Carter.

Colonel Carter declined specifically to answer the charges at this time, but stated that in the proper place he would satisfy the people of the state that there has never been a day since his term of office commenced that he could not, if called upon to do so, account for every dollar of public funds committed to his custody.

Explosion on a Yacht.

Stamford, Conn., Sept. 8.—The steam yacht, Embla, owned by John T. Williams of New York, lies in 12 feet of water off the west side of Shippan point as the result of being scuttled to extinguish a fire, and Henry Storey and Fred Morrison, cooks, are so seriously burned that the physicians at the hospital think the chances are against their recovery. It is thought the fire was caused by the explosion of gasoline that was being used in cleaning the vessel. The 16 members of the crew lost all their effects, and Captain Torrey lost a considerable sum of money. The loss is estimated at about $25,000.

Struck Men and Animals.

Towanda, Pa., Sept. 8.—A terrific cyclone swept over Springfield township in the northern part of this county Tuesday night, killing three men, six horses and 14 cows and destroying a number of barns and outbuildings. Orchards were ruined, and corn and buckwheat were blown down in the path of the storm.

SAGASTA UNDER FIRE.

Policy of the Government Trenchantly Criticised.

Senators and Deputies Declare Dissatisfaction.

Madrid, Sept. 8.—Although Premier Sagasta believes that he will secure legislative sanction of the government's war policy and purposes, it is apparent that his opponents, regardless of the paucity of numbers, propose to make all of the trouble possible for him. What they lack in voting strength they more than enjoy in the field of debate, as they manifested in both chambers Wednesday.

General Weyler reminded the senate of how Count D'Almenas had greeted the returning soldiers, ignoring the officers. He declared that this was a reflection upon the officers' efficiency. "The mistakes made in Cuba are not to be blamed on the army," he said, "but upon the politicians at the head of the government." The latter, he declared, were responsible for not sending supplies to the armies in Cuba and Porto Rico, and indeed for completely abandoning them. The ministers of war and marine ought to have resigned. Had the army been properly equipped, he continued, it would not have failed. It would have been better for Admiral Cervera's squadron to remain at the Canaries, for no practical end was served by sending the ships to Santiago. What measure did the government take to prevent the squadron?" General Weyler asked hotly. "The responsibility for the surrender of Santiago rested wholly upon the government instead of General Toral." General Weyler strongly condemned the secret session of the cortes and concluded his speech as follows: "I desire to speak to all Spain, and not merly to the government."

Count D'Almenas, replying to General Weyler's stricture, said: "I addressed my greetings to those who have been martyrs for their country—to the Spanish soldiers—because they deserve such greetings. I did not address the generals, for they showed themselves incapable of leading soldiers to battle, or of showing them how to fall worthily on the field."

Count D'Almenas, addressing General Rivera, replied: "I am not afraid of such cries or of epaulets, or of the decorations that will have to be torn off the breasts of several officers. The sashes of some generals should be torn off and put around their necks."

A great uproar ensued.

Lieutenant General Correa, minister for war, promised to show all the documents relating to the Cuban campaign; but the recriminations continued, Marshal de Rivera demanding the authentic documents and not the American telegrams. He denied that he ever promised to grant reforms in the Philippines.

General Dominguez declared that the whole responsibility rested upon the government and not upon the generals. He reminded the senate of the heroic deeds of the generals in Cuba who had died gloriously, or been wounded while leading their forces; and he proposed that the senate should pay homage to the army and navy.

Count D'Almenas declined, in spite of the appeals of his friends, to withdraw a single word he had already uttered. He repeated that the surrender at Santiago was "dishonorable."

Deputies In an Uproar.

The chamber has followed the senate in discussing the late war behind closed doors. This action has caused the greatest sensation. Immediately after the chamber assembled yesterday, Mr Salmeron, the Republican leader, moved that an investigation be made into the responsibility of Sagasta's government in connection with the declaration of war, the negotiations for peace and the violations of the constitution by the suspension of the guarantees.

Premier Sagasta quickly asked that the deliberations be conducted behind closed doors, and the president pronounced favorably upon the request. Thereupon the Republicans and Conservatives vehemently protested, and, amid an indescribable confusion, the doorkeepers cleared the galleries of spectators, the deputies in the meantime shouting uproariously.

A resolution signed by all the Republican deputies was submitted to the chamber, declaring the government responsible first, for lack of the necessary energy in prosecuting the war; second, for accepting a shameful peace; and third, for violating the constitution.

The moment the president of the chamber ordered the doors closed, Mr. Salmeron cried out: "I solemnly promise the country that the Republicans will publish all the deliberations of the secret sittings, for we are determined to violate the secresy which the government imposes."

Ultimately the Republican and Carlist deputies quitted the chamber as a protest against the secret sitting. They held a meeting later, but failed to arrive at an agreement.

The chamber, by a vote of 102 against 45, resolved to discuss Salmeron's motion for an investigation, but in the absence of deputies debate was impossible, and the house adjourned.

Tomorrow's Almanac and Forecast.

Sun rises—5:18; sets, 6:04.
Moon rises—11:48 p. m.
High water—6 a. m.; 6:15 p. m.

The fair and cooler weather at hand extends over a large area and promises to last through Friday and probably Saturday. The winds will be from the west to northwest. The cool wave has moved too far south to cause a very decided drop in the temperatures in the northern country. It will, however, result in two or more days of moderately cool and more comfortable weather.

WAS HEART TOUCHING.

Saddest of the Military Incidents In Boston.

A Remnant of the "Fighting "Ninth" Returned.

The Weak and Emaciated Volunteers Were Received Enthusiastically.

Boston, Sept. 9.—The home-coming of the remnant of the Boston companies of the Ninth Massachusetts regiment last night was one of the saddest incidents in the long series of military happenings in this city since the outbreak of the war. To those in the great masses of people in and about the depot, who had no personal interest in the arrival of the men who fought at Santiago, it was simply a demonstration in which enthusiasm ran riot; but to those who had relatives and friends among the soldiers, and who saw the unloading of the cars, it was a heart-touching sight.

The special of six Pullmans came in from Providence at 10:30, and as it came to a standstill in the train shed the people cheered and cheered again. Then the crowd surged forward and for a time a large force of police held it in check; but only for a few moments, for then the friends of the men swarmed into the cars. An attempt had been made to handle the soldiers through the Volunteer Aid association, distributing such as were sick among the hospitals and transporting the well to their homes in vehicles, but the plans almost went down before the surging crowd, and even Governor Wolcott, personally assisting in the care of the men, was unable to do more than to get the soldiers out of danger from too much kindness.

The Boston companies alone came up on the train from Providence. It was understood that quite a number were ill, but the excitement made the sick temporarily well, and the well almost giants in strength. The ambulance corps awaited the coming of the train and its men were put on the cars the first thing. They took charge of the boys, passed them along to the carriages and ambulances in waiting. Governor Wolcott first took a position where he could personally shake hands with each hero, but the crowd was so great that finally the governor, General Dalton, and other members of the staff turned their attention to getting the men into carriages, out of reach of the crowd.

The men of the Ninth did not look like those who four months ago so proudly marched through the streets of Boston, strong in the full bloom of manhood, volunteers to the call for men to defend the country's flag. Some of these came back in the remnants of the Boston company pale, weak and emaciated from terrible suffering in the trenches of Santiago, or the victims of fearful experiences in the weeks which have lapsed since their rescue from the fever camp of Cuba until their start for home. Most of them were able to walk through the depot to the carriages in waiting; many needed supporting by stronger arms; and a few were carried to the ambulances on stretchers. As each returned soldier was recognized, his friends would rush forward and greet him, and those nearby, in the fullness of their welcome, would lustily cheer.

As the men rode away from the depot the crowds on the sidewalks took up the cheering, so that the men got an ovation practically to their homes. In South Boston, especially, the men belonging in that district, were royally received by their friends. It will be a day or two before the actual condition of the men will be known. No serious cases are anticipated, but the reaction of the excitement of coming home is likely to make many of the men very ill.

Congressman Fitzgerald, who came home with the regiment, says: "The difficulties encountered in securing furloughs for the men and transportation to their homes were simply indescribable. There seemed to be a state of confusion existing in all of the departments, and but for incessant effort the Ninth regiment would have had to remain another week. Homesickness enervated the men to such a degree that it very rapidly brought on additional disease, and 10 or 12 new men were daily being sent to the hospital. It was pitiful to go through the hospital and listen to the appeals of the men to be sent home. My last trip through the detention and hospital camp was on Wednesday afternoon, and as it was generally known that the regiment was coming home, every man in both camps begged to be allowed to come. The incompetency of some of those in command of the quartermaster's department accounts for the hardships and suffering of the soldiers. I have been at Montauk for nearly two weeks. I have had occasion to come in contact with all the departments of the government, and when the investigation of the war department is brought to congress, I can speak more plainly than any other member of that body. This I propose to do."

One of the Heroes.

Salem, Sept. 9.—Colonel Clark of the Second Massachusetts regiment, who is here as the guest of Colonel S. A. Johnson of the Second corps of cadets, visited Fort Pickering, where the First heavy artillery is encamped, the two officers being entertained by Major Dyar. The latter introduced Colonel Clark to the men as "one of the heroes of Santiago." Colonel Clark made haste to say that he was no more of a hero than the boys of the First heavy, saying: "We went where we were ordered and did our duty, which is no more than what you have done. You would have done what we did if you had received the same orders."

Crowd Cheered Miles.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Major General Miles, accompanied by Mrs. Miles, arrived from New York last evening. As General Miles passed through the crowd his hands were grasped a score of times by enthusiastic men and women. He gave a cordial greeting to all, and as he and Mrs. Miles stepped into their carriage the crowd burst into cheers.

While expressing gratification at the successful termination of the war and his pleasure at once more being at his home, General Miles said he had nothing to say in addition to his statement given to the press in New York. From the station General and Mrs. Miles were conveyed directly to their residence.

The tension over the general's criticism of army methods is gradually subsiding, and in official quarters the belief is expressed that official attention would not be paid to the criticism.

Immune In Name Only.

Santiago, Sept. 9.—Six cases of yellow fever have developed in Colonel Sargent's Fifth immune regiment. The cases have been watched closely for several days, and in the opinion of the sanitary department of Santiago, the diagnosis is unmistakably correct. The victims have been sent to hospital and a strict quarantine has been established against the regiment, which is encamped on the hills about two miles south of the city.

There is a great deal of sickness in this regiment, but, in the opinion of the surgeons, no more yellow fever. The other regiments doing garrison duty are in fairly good health.

No Report of Friction.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Administration officials have no cause to feel that a critical condition of affairs was near at hand with the insurgent forces of the Philippines. Major General Merritt, before starting for Paris, advised the insurgent leader that the authority of the United States in and about Manila must be respected, and that in the interest of a quiet and orderly administration of affairs it was desirable for the insurgents to vacate the suburbs of the city within a reasonable time. About that time Aguinaldo gave assurances of co-operation with the American forces toward the maintenance of order, and there has been no reason to believe that his adherents would give serious opposition to their removal from the suburbs.

The time within which the movement is to be accomplished has not expired, according to the understanding here, and a satisfactory arrangement is expected. In the meantime no reports have come from General Otis, who is acting governor pending the absence of General Merritt, as to friction with Aguinaldo over his retirement.

To Allow No Delay.

San Juan, Sept. 9.—The Spanish evacuation commissioners seem disposed to delay the meeting of the commission. They say their instructions have not yet arrived, but are expected in the course of a few days. They intimate that even then they will need time to study them. The American commissioners have replied that the first meeting must occur before Sept. 12 under the terms of the protocol.

Queen Lil Was Gracious.

San Francisco, Sept. 9.—The congressional commission on Hawaii, with the exception of President Dole, left Honolulu for the other islands Aug. 22 and returned Aug. 28, after visiting the principal towns of Maui and Hawaii. In speaking of the trip, Senator Morgan said: "I think we very effectively disposed of the prevalent idea among the natives that annexation was only a war measure. We are satisfied that the Hawaiians now thoroughly understand our position and that when we speak we do so by authority."

Ex-Queen Liliuokalani arrived at Hilo at the same time the commissioners arrived, and accompanied them in a separate conveyance to the volcano. She was introduced to members of the commission, but no political talk was indulged in. She was more than gracious, and extended every courtesy to members of the commission.

The Chinese of the Hawaiian islands have presented a memorial to the members of the commission asking that all the Chinese that have become naturalized under the laws of Hawaii and all children born in Hawaii be permitted the right of transit to and from all parts of the United States; that in the laws affecting the immigration of Chinese labor, special provision be made for the importation by the owners of rice plantations of a limited number of Chinese laborers; that the Chinese be permitted to bring in to this country their children from China, and also women of good character; that Chinese merchants be permitted to import clerks for their business establishments; that Chinese be given the same privileges as given to other residents in the community; that the system of penal labor contracts be abolished.

Backboys Making Trouble.

Lowell, Sept. 9.—The cotton mills of this city are threatened with an enforced shutdown for a few days by a movement on the part of the backboys to go out on a general strike for the restoration of the old schedule of wages.

The boys in the Massachusetts mills recently struck and were followed by those of the Booth, Tremont and Suffolk mills. Thursday afternoon the boys of the Hamilton left work. The strikers assert that the backboys agreed to go on strike in each mill in turn until all in the city were affected. They belong to a union and claim to have the assurance of the spinners that the latter will do nothing to injure their cause.

HONORS FOR HAY.

London, Sept. 9.—A committee of the Anglo-American league, headed by its chairman, James Bryce, presented United States Ambassador Hay with an address of congratulation upon his acceptance of the portfolio of secretary of state at Washington. The address expresses regret at his departure from this country "where you have discharged the weighty and delicate duties of ambassador with such eminent tact, judgment and courtesy as to win the cordial appreciation and confidence of the British people." Continuing, the address says: "It has been your fortune to represent your country here at a time of exceptional interest, when the war, now happily ended, gave occasion for the expression of the feelings of affection and sympathy toward the United States which the British people have long entertained, but never before have they been so conspicuously manifested. You carry back the assurance of the depth and strength of these feelings. The principle that there ought to be permanent friendship and cordial co-operation between the British empire and the American republic is one that all parties and all statesmen here agree in regarding as a fundamental principle of British foreign policy, and by it the whole people desire that their government should be guided. We rejoice to believe that in your country corresponding sentiments are entertained, and that a corresponding principle is now largely accepted. Knowing that no one knows these convictions more firmly than yourself, or can express them in clearer or more felicitous terms, we gladly acknowledge the great services you have rendered to both nations, and console ourselves on your retirement by the reflection that you are called to duties in your own country even wider in their scope, graver in their responsibility and more important in the results they may secure."

Mr. Bryce, during the course of the remarks which he made upon the occasion, dwelt upon the "admiration for the splendid gifts and boundless energy of the people of the United States, and the sympathy with the principles of their constitution" which have been quietly ripening among the British people, and which this year found a sudden and hearty expression. He also said he saw in the universality of these sentiments here and the fact that they were reciprocated by a large majority of the Americans a happy augury, as he believed that nothing could contribute more to the peace of the world and the welfare of both nations than the sense of essential unity of the two peoples.

Colonel Hay referred to the gratification he experienced in hearing such words from men so qualified by experience and character to speak for the British people with certainty. He added: "My voice has no such sanction as yours; but I give it for what it is worth, to assure you that your sentiments of kinship and amity are reciprocated to the utmost in my country." The ambassador also said that his work in England had been made easy by the instructions he had received from home, and by the frankness and fairness of her majesty's ministers and of all Englishmen he had come in contact with. He then said: "On both sides of the ocean the conviction is almost universal that a clear, cordial and friendly understanding between Great Britain and the United States is a necessity of civilization. I shall hold myself signally fortunate if I am able to do anything to continue and strengthen the relations of fraternal amity between our two nations."

Death to the English!

London, Sept. 9.—The correspondent of The Times at Candia says: "It is estimated that no fewer than 800 christians have been massacred; and the town has been pillaged by Bashi Bazouks and the Turkish soldiers. All reports agree as to the disgraceful behavior of the Turkish troops, who were seen firing on Colonel Reid. The mob ran through the streets, shouting, 'Death to the English.' Part of the town is still burning."

Every christian survivor of the massacre swears that the butchery was mostly the work of the Turkish soldiers who first robbed and then slew their victims. Edhem Pasha is the man who ought to be held primarily responsible. Not until the British troops under Colonel Reid had been fighting hard for four hours did Edham, with his Turkish soldiers, arrive upon the scene. He had then the effrontery to say that he had just only heard the British troops were being attacked by thousands of Bashi Bazouks. Edhem Pasha must have known what was happening from the moment the first shot was fired, if indeed he did not arrange the plot himself.

The Times and other morning papers in London call upon the government for energetic action in Crete, more especially if the stories of the complicity of the Turkish troops are confirmed. The German and Austrian papers declare that their governments will have nothing to do with Crete.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The A's are completed in all wards of the city; today the instalment includes all the B's in Ward 5:

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

War Relics.

Everybody has read of the deadly and destructive work done by the American and Spanish shells during the recent war, and of the mauser bullets which propelled by smokeless powder found lodgment in the bodies of so many brave Americans at Santiago, but few have ever seen any of these instruments of destruction. As stated in the Ledger Wednesday, Lieut. Arthur Abele of the cruiser Brooklyn was in town on a visit to his brother, Dr. Abele. When the lieutenant left town he gave the doctor a number of relics of the war. These have today been placed on exhibition at the store of Henry P. Kittredge, and the public is therefore afforded an opportunity to make an inspection of them. The relics shown in the exhibit are:

A Spanish bullet fired at Caimanera.

Soldiers Return.

Edward Bowlen, James Clark and Edward S. Ago, the three Atlantic boys who belonged to the Ninth Regiment arirved in Boston shortly after eleven Thursday, where they were met by many of their friends and were escorted to their homes. Although very weak and somewhat thin and clothes much the worse for wear, they were in a pretty fair condition and it is hoped they will be all right in a few weeks. The boys were glad to get home.

AT CAMP DALTON.

Camp Dalton,
Friday, Sept. 9.

The Fifth is waiting only for transportation which may not be ready for a day or two. Col. Whitney says the command could move in two hours if necessary.

The number of visitors Thursday was very large, but today it is even larger. Parents and friends of the boys are here to wish them God speed and a safe return. The parting is the more sad because of the pitiful condition of the regiments returning, but the investigations in process will correct neglects in the future.

It is said that only a bare majority of the Fifth are pleased at the new orders and that forty-one per cent. are disgusted, but there seems no escape.

The Fifth regiment has done much since the arrival of the Ninth to cheer them up, and the members would do more if permitted. Our band is giving daily concerts at the headquarters of the Ninth.

Two new cases of typhoid fever were reported in the Ninth on Thursday.

It was Camp Meade from which the companies of the Ninth at Camp Dalton came, and they speak very favorably of the location and surroundings.

Rumors of further trouble in the Philippines has caused some to wonder, if after all the Fifth may not go there with the reinforcements.

The Fifth Needed.

There is no prospect of the Fifth Massachusetts being mustered out. A Washington dispatch says, the President on Wednesday sent for Secretary Alger and Adjutant General Corbin, and also for a list of the volunteer organizations which have not been mustered out. The conference lasted an hour. Later, the following was given out at the War Department: In response to the request of the governors of some of the States for the muster out of their entire volunteer force, the President replied in substance as follows:

Answering your telegraphic request for the muster out of your regiments, I have already directed that 100,000 of the volunteers shall be mustered out of the service. This because, in my judgment, that number can be spared. About 100,000 will remain as the Government now requires in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines a larger army than the regular military establishment affords. The muster out, like the muster in, will be as nearly as possible according to the population of the several States. The suggestion to muster out all of the volunteers from your State cannot, therefore, be entertained. The secretary of war has already inquired of the governors of the several States what regiments in their judgment can with the least inconvenience remain in the service. Their advice will, so far as consistent with the public interests, be complied with.

Change in Train Service.

Beginning on Tuesday, September 6th, the electric service of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. between Braintree and Pemberton will be operated upon an hourly schedule, instead of half hourly, as previously.

To accommodate persons who may desire to travel between Boston and Pemberton within the evening hours the steam trains leaving Boston at 7.30, 8.30 and 9.30 P. M., stopping at Quincy on week-days, and 8.30 P. M. on Sundays will make direct connection at Braintree with electric trains for Pemberton and way stations; and the electric trains leaving Pemberton at 7.15, 8.15, 9.15 and 9.15 P. M. on week days and 7.15 and 9.53 P. M. on Sundays will make direct connection at Braintree with steam trains for Boston.

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas Grady was sent to the State farm at Bridgewater for six months for being a tramp at Braintree.

Thomas Neil pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the stable of Charles E. Perkins at Milton, and the larceny therefrom of robes, etc., valued at $115.44, and was held in $600 for the grand jury.

MILTON.

The Thursday Evening club held its semi-annual meeting last week Thursday, and elected these officers: President, Rev. T. I. Reese; Vice President, John Graham; Secretary, Henry Briley; Tresasurer, Milborn G. Richardson. This club is an organization connected with the Episcopal Mission and meets every other Thursday evening at Ellsworth hall for literary and social enjoyment. It holds lectures, readings and debates and perfect freedom of discussion is permitted upon all subjects. Its membership is open to any man over 17 years who is a resident of Milton or Quincy. Its officers are elected semi-annually, and its rules provide that the president shall always be the Rector of the Protestant Episcopal Mission. An invitation is extended to all gentlemen of good moral character to become members.

Work on the new street railway is being rushed along.

Miss Lucy Eaton has returned from her visit to New Jersey.

J. F. Reed has moved from Pierce to State street.

Henry Walsh, who has been sick at the residence of Henry Gallagher, has been removed to the hospital.

Albert Bates fell from a building upon which he was at work Wednesday breaking his arm.

A school building at Milton centre was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon.

Owing to the hot weather the Milton schools did not open on Tuesday as was expected but will open next Monday, thus giving the pupils an additional vacation.

The fourth in the series of Sunday evening lectures by Rev. T. I. Reese at Ellsworth hall on "The Christian Life of the "First Four Centuries," will be on "The Landing of St. Augustine in England."

Superintendent Resigns.

Mr. Frank A. Page, who for ten years has been the superintendent of the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday School, has retired, much to the regret of the members of the society, as well as of the school. Mr. Page was elected superintendent on February 5, 1888, and has been continued in office ever since. Taking into consideration the age and beginning of the school, its rapid, yet healthy growth has been quite remarkable. The credit for this belongs in a very large measure to Mr. Page, who has been an indefatigable worker, encouraging his teachers and scholars, setting all an unselfish example. His loss will be keenly felt.

More Burglaries.

Thomas Neil, who was held in $700 for the grand jury Thursday at the District court, for breaking and entering the stable of Harry L. Rice, was brought into court again today by Chief of Police Pierce of Milton on a capias. The Milton police wanted Neil for breaking and entering the stable of Charles E. Perkins at Milton Sept. 1, and the larceny therefrom of blankets, etc., to the value of $115.44. When confronted with this crime Neil readily admitted that he did the job. Neil is also wanted by the Brockton police for breaking and entering, and the chances are that several years will elapse before Neil is again at liberty.

Somebody has dumped something at the corner of Sumner and South streets which causes a terrible odor and the neighborhood is scented with the disagreeable smell. This has been a place for a number of years to dump rubbish. Is it old dead fish?

Boys or anybody should not throw pieces of boards or long sticks into the city cisterns at the street corners as it stops up the drainage. One was cleaned out in the square yesterday and pieces of board were fished out. They found their way through the grating.

The board of Naval Bureau Chiefs recommend to Secretary Allen that two or three destroyers be built by the Fore River Iron Works of Braintree; others to be built at San Francisco, Sparrow Point, Philadelphia, Wilmington, and Richmond. And Bath, Maine, and Lawley of Boston, to build the torpedo boats.

Wednesday a horse in the stable of George Elcock on Copeland street was taken sick and Castiglioni, the Italian baker, and his wife went over to see what was the trouble. Mrs. Castiglioni stood back of the animal as he was backed out of the stall, and before she could get out of the way the horse fell over onto her breaking her leg.

Mr. James F. Merrill was visited the other day by one of his old comrades in arms, Mr. M. A. Maynard of Worcester. Mr. Maynard has two sons in the war with Spain, and came to Boston on the arrival of the Bay State to see if they were aboard. One son was brought off on a stretcher and he could hardly recognize him. He has had the fever.

What to See in the Mountains.

That the mountain regions of northern New Hampshire are famous is evidenced by the thousands of visitors who annually seek the section for a season of recreation and rest. It matters not to what portion of the mountain region you go, for you will never be dissatisfied, as the variety and extent of scenic attractions is unlimited and your expectations, no matter how ambitious, are more than fulfilled.

Several hundred square miles of mountain peaks comprise the White Mountain regions and of the scores of resorts located in its midst space permits mention of but a few of the largest.

Many consider the vicinity of Dixville Notch the most beautiful part of the White Hills. The view of the surrounding territory is very beautiful, for lakes, mountains, brooks and ravines are everywhere around, making an interesting landscape. In the Franconia region one finds many odd though beautiful attractions. There the Old Man of the Mountain stands guard over a galaxy of wild though particularly impressive bits of nature work. There is Cannon Mountain and Eagle Cliffs and Mt. Lafayette and Agassiz and Cleveland, while a short way off is Cherry Mountain, the Twins, and the Presidential Range, with natural curiosities like The Basin, The Flume, The Pool, and Echo Lake and Profile Lake are well worth visiting. Then, of course, all who go to the Mountains want to visit the Wonderland of New England, as that famous Crawford's Notch, is termed. Everything there is in its primeval state, and charming cascades, rushing forest streams and gigantic mountains, make it the ideal place for the tourist, as well as the one seeking rest.

Fabyans, in the very heart of the mountains, with Mt. Pleasant and Twin hard by, is in a region replete in alluring features, and one needs but a visit there to make him a mountain enthusiast. Mount Washington is the highest of any of the White Mountains and its summit is reached by a railroad. The journey occupies nearly two hours, and there is not a moment but what is interesting and the outlook is something grand. Jefferson is a pretty place, and the same can also be said of Whitefield and Lancaster. Bethlehem and Maplewood have many leading characteristics, but perhaps the most famous of them all is its renowned atmosphere, which is particularly helpful to hay fever sufferers. Besides its glorious sunsets, Sugar Hill has from its location an unobstructed view extending from Mount Washington on one side to Camel's Hump on Lake Champlain, and the mountains that border the Canadian shore of Memphremagog. North Conway and Intervale and Bartlett and Glen and North Woodstock are equally attractive as pleasure resorts, and at any of them you will find excellent accommodations, for the mountain hotels are every one of them models.

Beginning September 10 and continuing until about the eighth of October, the Boston & Maine Railroad will place on sale at many of its leading stations reduced rate tickets to all points in the Mountains. The choice of several routes will be allowed, and for information apply to any station ticket office. Send to the General Passenger Department, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston, for the book "What to See in the White Mountains."

They visited many places of interest along the road, and after reaching there had covered about 250 miles. They returned Thursday morning none the worse for their ride, but enjoyed it greatly.

To Forest Hills Via Neponset.

A continued hearing was given by the Committee on Railroads of the Board of Aldermen of Boston, Thursday, in the presence of the Forest Hills and Quincy Street Railway Company for locations in Roxbury and Dorchester. The petitioners ask for leave to lay tracks in Washington, Morton, Sanford, Codman, Adams and Marsh streets. The locations asked for extend though a largely unsettled portion of the district, but they provide for a crosstown line from Dorchester to Roxbury. The committee took the matter under advisement.

Dr. Tuttle Complimented.

Dr. George H. Tuttle of this city, who recently went to Montauk Point, writes home of the heroic work being done in relieving the sick soldiers that are daily arriving. Since the doctor's arrival he has been made an assistant surgeon and now has charge of three ward tents with seventy-five soldiers. The work is very constant and the doctors and nurses are busy from early morning until late at night and obtain but little rest. President McKinley on his recent visit to the camp personally complimented Dr. Tuttle on the work he was doing.

CARE OF THE NAILS.

How They Should Be Treated to Develop and Preserve Their Beauty.

Many women with pretty hands are constantly annoyed by the rough appearance of their finger nails, caused by the fact that they break and split. The possessor of such nails should cut them with well sharpened manicure scissors, and the nail should never be cut or filed unless the fingers have first been soaked in warm water. The brittleness may sometimes be lessened by rubbing almond oil thoroughly into the nails and finger ends on retiring at night. A pair of old kid gloves must then be pulled on.

The housekeeper whose nails break easily should never stir anything on the hot range without first slipping on a loose glove, as the dry heat from the fire will make her nails more brittle than ever.

A teaspoonful of lemon juice in a cupful of tepid water whitens and supples the nails and removes all grease and dirt, making them more easy to polish. This should be used every morning, and by soaking the fingers a few moments it is possible to make the nails perfectly clean and transparent without the use of any metal cleaner by simply rubbing under them with a towel. It is also beneficial in removing the skin around the nail edges, which should never be cut with scissors. Rub the towel firmly all about the nail, pushing back the skin. Do this regularly every day, and after a few weeks the skin growth will disappear.

How to Make Ginger Beer.

Bruise six ounces ginger root, place it in a kettle, add 12 quarts cold water, two ounces cream of tartar and three pounds sugar. Boil ten minutes, remove and when cold dissolve a yeast cake in half cup lukewarm water and add it to the preparation. Add one tablespoonful essence of lemon, cover and let stand till next day. Then strain and bottle. Secure the corks with twine or wire. The beer will be ready to drink after four days. More sugar may be added if wanted sweeter.

—Postal relations, interrupted on account of the war, have been resumed with Spain.

—And now they say Jamaica wants to become a part of the United States. Verily we are growing.

Killed by an Explosion.

New York, Sept. 9.—Three workmen were burned to death in a fire in Stinet & Co.'s whiskey house yesterday afternoon. The fire was started by the explosion of a barrel of spirits of alcohol The dead are: William Witt, foreman; Rudolph Schoenborff, and a man known by the name of "Paul."

There were 18 men, the foreman and two women at work at the time of the accident. Witt, it is believed, was killed almost instantly, and, like the two other dead, was frightfully burned. All three bodies were found in the basement where the explosion occurred, and where the liquors are blended, there being 2500 gallons of pure spirits in copper tanks in this part of the building. The fire spread rapidly, and it was with difficulty that the other employes escaped, several of them, including both women, having to be rescued by persons who rushed up when the explosion occurred.

The explosion is believed to have originated from the flame of an open gas jet, this form of light being used in the cellar where the alcohol was being handled. The loss to the firm does not exceed $10,000, which is fully covered by insurance.

France's Chief Topic.

Paris, Sept. 9.—Some of the papers are publishing circumstantial details of a confession Count Esterhazy made in the presence of witnesses that he was the author of the memorandum upon which Dreyfus was condemned (the bordeau). Well grounded rumors are current that Lieutenant Henry revealed the names of his accomplices in the forgery. It is also asserted that both the embassies concerned have given renewed assurances that all the alleged letters and documents in the Dreyfus affair are clumsy forgeries.

Tragedy In New Hampshire.

Oxford, N. H., Sept. 9.—Alphonso Smith shot and killed Alonzo Grant Wednesday in a quarrel over Mrs. Grant, who had left her home to become Smith's housekeeper. Grant demanded his wife and threatened to shoot Smith if the latter did not give her up. Then Smith fired, the bullet striking Grant in the left breast, near the heart. Grant fell to the ground and lived about 15 minutes. Smith gave himself up.

NOT ROLL OF DISHONOR

Pension Matter Before the Grand Army Encampment.

Corporal Tanner Denounces the Commissioner.

Chicago Candidate the Convention's Choice For Commander.

Cincinnati, Sept. 9.—The administration of the pension bureau came in for criticism yesterday afternoon, when the report of the committee was presented at the encampment of the Grand Army. The committee members indignantly denied that the pension list was a roll of dishonor. It said that expensive investigations had been undertaken by the department, and that there had not been a single case of fraud discovered which could be traced to a member of the Grand Army of the Republic. The report stated that the roll was distinctly a roll of honor. It made a somewhat extended comparison of the work accomplished now and during the last administration of General Grant. This showed that the efficiency of the department in the way of prompt disposal of claims had been vastly increased. The report gave figures showing that the death rate was rapidly increasing among pensioners. The number dying each year now exceeded 40,000. It is estimated that in 1920 the number of pensioners would be reduced to a little over 250,000, and in 1940 the list would be obliterated. The report recommends that just and liberal provision should be made for adjudicating the claims now pending in the department.

When a motion was made to adopt the report, Corporal Tanner of New York said that he did not agree with that part of the report dealing with the administration of the pension office. He spoke in unrestrained criticism of the present commissioner of pensions, H. Clay Evans, with evident feeling. He said: "I stand ready to be responsible here and elsewhere for all statements I may make on this subject, and I declare that Commissioner Evans called his chiefs of division together and, using language which indicated intense feeling, if not anger, instructed them to disregard totally every application based on deafness or rheumatism. He further intimated to them that if anyone declined to accept his suggestions he would find chiefs who would obey orders." Tanner, continuing, said that in his opinion it was clear that the man who could make such an order had never himself heard the sound of cannon nor slept in the open air, and he was not surprised therefore to find that the commissioner had an army record which consisted of three months and 16 days as a clerk in the commissary department.

A delegate from Kansas followed Tanner in the same strain, denouncing in unmeasured terms the unfair and illiberal spirit in which the rulings of the pension office were made. The matter was disposed of finally by postponing it till after the report of the committee on resolutions.

Mrs. William Scott (colored) of Lathrop, Mo., appeared on the platform, bearing a photograph of the monument to Colonel R. G. Shaw, who was killed while leading a regiment of colored troops from Massachusetts at the assault on Fort Wagner. She explained briefly what had been done to honor the memory of this officer, and made an earnest plea for the recognition on a broader scale of the faithfulness, bravery and efficiency of the negro soldier She urged that some provision be made by which the colored soldiers could maintain an organization similar to that of the G. A. R. Commander-in-Chief Gobin replied briefly, praising in the highest terms the record of the negroes in the army. Mrs. Scott then sang a song which was a plea for a better recognition of her race.

Business was further interrupted by the entrance of a committee of three ladies from the Woman's National Relief corps, headed by Mrs. Martin, the national president. Mrs. Martin stated that when the call for help arising from the war with Spain was made, she collected a large sum which was applied to relieve the wants of our soldiers. She requested the national encampment to give to the relief corps authority to change its constitution so that its funds could be used for the relief of soldiers serving in the war with Spain. The resolution was referred to the committee on resolutions.

A delegation from the Sons of Veterans next appeared. Senator Thurston of Nebraska made a speech on behalf of the Sons of Veterans, and was replied to by Inspector General Alonzo Williams of Rhode Island. A still further interruption of regular business was the presentation to ex-Commander-in-Chief Clarkson of Nebraska of a magnificent silver set.

Philadelphia was then chosen as the place for the next encampment. The vote stood: Philadelphia, 359; Denver, 259. The encampment then proceeded to elect a commander-in-chief. A delegate from New York state presented the name of Albert D. Shaw of Watertown, N. Y. General John C. Black of Illinois placed in nomination James A. Sexton of Chicago. The roll of states was then called and the vote announced, showing the election of Sexton, who received 42[illegible] votes, while Shaw received 241. Comrade Shaw moved the unanimous election of Sexton, and the motion was carried.

Something About Sexton.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Colonel James Sexton, the new commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., was born here, Jan. 5, 1844. He enlisted on April 19,1861, as a private As a regimental commander he fought in the battles of Columbia, Duck river, Spring Hill, Franklin and Nashville, and throughout the Nashville campaign. In 1865 he was on the staff of Major General A. J. Smith, commander of the Sixteenth army corps, and remained with Smith until the end of the war. Upon the assault and capture of the Spanish fort, Mobile, Ala., April 8, 1863, he had his left leg broken below the knee, being struck by a piece of shell. He was wounded at the battle of Franklin and at Nashville. After the war he remained two years in Alabama, working a plantation. In 1867 he returned to Chicago

President Harrison made him postmaster in April, 1889. Colonel Sexton is an active worker in the Grand Army, the military order of the Loyal Legion and other soldier societies, and is a past commander of the department of Illinois.

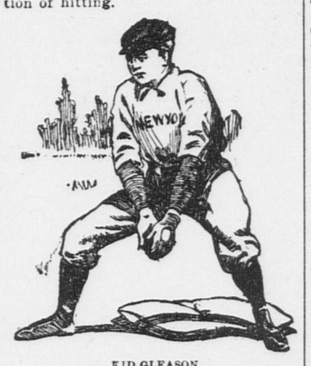
New York Players Lose Easily In Their Game In Boston.

Boston, Sept. 9.—The New Yorks were quite easy for the champions at the south end grounds yesterday in the opening game of the final series. Yesterday's victory gives Boston eight out of the 11 played.

Willis pitched a fine game, although three men were hit by pitched balls, and in a couple of innings the long youngster was in a hole. For the most part, the giants went out in order of coming up to bat, and they gave a weak exhibition of hitting.



KID GLEASON.

The champions struck a strong batting gait against Seymour in the very first inning, and by pounding him in sequence they ran up a fine batting total Long, Lowe, Bergen, Stahl and Duffy all put in clean and timely hits, while Hickman landed for two safe ones. The giants' only run was earned on Hartman's triple and Warner's clean single to left in the seventh. "Kid" Gleason Hartman, Warner and Gettig played the best ball for the Joyce combination in the field. Score:

SOUNDING THE CORTES

Text of the Bill Enabling Sagasta to Conclude Peace.

Bows to Sacrifices Imposed by Necessity.

London, Sept. 9.—According to the Madrid correspondent of The Times the following is the text of the bill authorizing the government to conclude peace: "The reverses suffered by our arms in the unequal struggle to which we were driven in order to defend the honor of the nation and maintain its rights deprived us at an early stage of the elements required for continuing the war. The bravery of our soldiers and sailors proved insufficient, as did the calm attitude of the nation, ever-ready to shed its blood and sacrifice its resources for the honor of the Spanish flag.

"Separated by wide seas from the territories it was our object to protect—and these territories being closely blockaded so that our few remaining ships could not reach them—her majesty's government has been compelled to admit the bitter truth, which says that an end must be put to the war. The sense of responsibility entailed by the preliminary peace negotiations has weighed most heavily on the government. Notwithstanding it fully appreciated its duty toward the country, the government has had to consent to these preliminary negotiations and to bow to the cruel sacrifices imposed by sheer necessity. For this reason and because peace must be purchased at the cost of a cession of territory and the abandonment of sovereign rights, the government has thought it expedient to sound the cortes before concluding peace, the ratification of which will be duly notified to both chambers in accordance with constitutional law.

"The government, whose moderate language will not be found fault with by the representatives of the nation, limits itself to submitting to the cortes the following bill, whose first and only article is: 'The government is authorized to renounce rights of sovereignty and to cede territory in the Spanish colonies in accordance with the peace preliminaries agreed upon with the government of the United States of America.'"

Polavieja's New Party.

Madrid, Sept. 9.—General Polavieja's new party is assuming the greatest importance. His program has met with the warm approval of the great newspapers. The National until lately had supported General Weyler, but it will rally now to General Polavieja, who proposes a reorganitation of Spain from the financial and political viewpoints. It is understood that the general decided to organize a new party after several conferences with a "high personage," who, however, has not interfered directly in the formation of the party. His manifesto is now under consideration. If the military censor refuses to grant an exequator, the manifesto will be read in the chamber of deputies. The general conviction is that as soon as the treaty of peace is signed the Sagasta cabinet will resign and be replaced by either a Silvela or a Polavieja ministry.

The speech of Count D'Almenas in the senate has greatly excited the military party, whose hot espousal of the cause of their Cuban comrades threatens to make trouble.

Mr. Sagasta said last evening: "The nomination of the peace commission is delayed because the commissioners ought to have the full confidence of the government, but who can say who will be in power a month hence?"

TROOPS LANDING AT MONTAUK POINT. FEEDING THE SOLDIERS. FROM HARPER'S WEEKLY.

The soldiers who come up on the ordinary transports usually arrive famished. Upon reaching at the dock, they have to tramp a mile or more in heavy marching order to the detention camp. At the dock it is their good fortune to meet a kind friend Mrs. Valentine Mott stands, day after day, early and late, with milk, beef extract, and sandwiches, to brace the poor weak fellows for their weary march over the hills. Our picture, taken from Harper's Weekly, gives one an excellent idea of this woman's charitable service.

It is, of course, impossible for the regimental surgeons to talk, except in confidence, about the lack of medicines and food beforee and after the fight at Santiago, on the voyage home, and here in camp, but it is also just as impossible for them to keep still about it in talking privately. The one cheerful feature of the camp is the black soldier; he, as a general thing, came through but little the worse of the pestilent climate of Cuba, and coming of a race used to privations, stood the starvation, rations better than his white brother.

He is looked upon by the white soldier with positive affection and pride.

The gallant conduct of the black man, his hunting out and exterminating the sharpshooters and guerillas who were picking off the officers and wounded from the trees, is a story that every white soldier will tell you with kindling eyes. To see the colored troopers bringing a hundred horses down to the water, singing and laughing as they swing along at a canter, is a sight pleasant to remember. Not one good word is to be heard in the whole camp for the Cuban. "Cubans! Well, if I have to go back to Cuba, I hope it'll be to lick those horse-thieves. The Spaniards are all right; I I haven't a word to say against them. In fact, we all liked the Spanish boys when we got to know them." This was what you might hear all over the camp.

LOVE'S PROMISE.

Across the main and far away,
Where the river joins the sea,
Where blows the broom at break of day,
My true love waits for me.
His brow is sad, his eyes are sweet
And his heart both brave and true.
Oh, when, my love, shall we e'er meet,
My lonely self and you?

"Oh, maid most dear," his lips reply,
In the northland far away,
"We ne'er shall meet till eternity
Breaks through life's cloudy day.
We ne'er may take love's last adieu
Ere death begins his flight,
But I, for aye, will still be true,
And so, my love, good night!"
—New York Ledger.

THROUGH A WINDOW.

Between her and me there was a great gulf, a chasm with precipitous walls of stone. We were so near together that I could see the color of her eyes when the light shone fairly, but between us was the gulf and in the bottom of it a roaring river. In the morning the river ran southward. At noon it was full of conflicting tides that clashed and surged. In the late afternoon it ran mostly northward toward Printing House square and Brooklyn bridge. It was a river of humanity, and the gulf was the canyon of Nassau street, in New York city.

She was on the western bank and I on the eastern, 150 feet above the bed of the stream. Crossing was easy, but I could not go, because I had no errand. How could I invade the office of Stoughton & Bland and say, "Gentlemen, I have come to tell your secretary that I admire her?"

I did not think it fitting even to ask what name she bore of such acquaintances as might have been able to answer. I would not have known what firm employed her, but I could read the gilt letters on the glass door of their office when there was light behind it in the hall. It was hard to make them out, for of course they read backward to me, being glued upon the other side of the door, but I looked across so often that I should have made them out at last had they been Chinese characters.

She used to wear neat and tasteful clothes, and her hair was always just right. Her desk and the typewriting table were never in disorder, and from that I inferred that she had been well brought up, a conviction re-enforced by my observation of her bearing toward all who spoke with her. Busy from morning till night, she never seemed to be hurried or worried, and it seemed to me she never had unfinished work to put aside at the close of the day.

As spring advanced her window and mine were often open. It was then that a ray of sunshine striking down upon her one bright morning showed me that her eyes were hazel. I had thought they might be blue, for her hair was light. She was of a slender figure, not strong enough, it seemed to me, to work so hard. I noticed that her cheeks never had in them enough color to be visible from across the canyon.

The man who dictated and signed most of the letters that she wrote was a puzzling fellow. He looked not more than 35, but his hair was almost white. He was always very considerate of her, in his manner, and she obviously looked up to him as a great man. I wondered why he did not see that she needed a long rest and the tonic air of the mountains. Probably he found her indispensable in his business affairs, yet I fancied he might make that plea some day and be answered by the reaper that no mortal is indispensable.

She was very faithful in her work, and I think the young man with the gray hair appreciated it, for I often saw him praise her. It was easy enough to know when she received this commendation, for it pleased her extremely.

There were two clerks and a bookkeeper in the employ of Stoughton & Bland, and I judged that all of them were deeply conscious of the secretary's charms. The youngest of them was obviously in love with her, and he frequently got snubbed for his attentions. He was a tall and handsome youth, with corn colored hair that rolled back from his forehead in a wave which he had the good sense not to spoil with a comb and brush.

There was also a square shouldered fellow who bristled with energy. He seemed to be employed in outside work, and it was only in the early hours that he had a chance to talk with her. She treated him with sufficient cordiality to cause jealous feelings on my side of the canyon—for it pleased me to fancy myself in love with her.

Lastly, there was the old bookkeeper, who must have lived somewhere in the country, for he brought her such flowers as the florists do not sell and laid them on her desk before she came down. He would be alone in the office then, and he did not know that I was watching him from across the chasm. I have seen him spend 20 minutes in arranging half a dozen wild flowers, and then dodge quietly away at the sound of a step in the hall. In all my days at the window I never saw him address her till she had first spoken to him.

There was a day in June when she did not come to the office. A tribute of blossoms awaited her, and I could read anxiety in the old bookkeeper's back where he stood by his desk on the far side of the room, as the minutes passed on beyond the usual time of her appearance. When the gray haired young man came in, his first glance was directed toward the desk, of which the lid was closed for the first time at that hour in many months.

Immediately a messenger boy came in with a telegram, and when the head of the firm had read it he looked toward the closed desk again, so I knew what must be in the dispatch. The bookkeeper was watching over his shoulder, and by and by he plucked up courage to ask a timid question of his employer. The answer made him look very grave.

Whatever the news may have been he communicated it to the light haired youth and the square shouldered fellow in the latter edge of the luncheon hour before the chief had returned. They took it very hard, and the younger of them stood by the window afterward when he should have been at work, and he looked the picture of grief.

Yet the girl was on hand at the usual hour the next morning and was the recipient of cordial greetings, though she had to ask the bookkeeper for his. In the afternoon, when she stood by the open window for a few minutes, I thought she looked quite ill, and, worse than that, she seemed apprehensive. The blight of melancholy was on her. I fancied her as one of those unfortunates who in youth are told that there will be no maturity, that the seeds of death are planted and must grow.

Three days later she was absent again. Then I saw her on three successive days, leaving out of account an intervening Sunday. Again she failed to appear, but only for a day, and the remainder of the week she was in her accustomed place.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday passed with no glimpse of her. In the later afternoon of that last day a man who could be known for a doctor half a mile away made a long call upon the head of the firm. They conversed very seriously for a few minutes, and then drifted to general themes and laughed and puffed their cigars as if nothing were wrong. That fixed my estimate of the gray haired young man at a very low point in the scale.

There was no sign of her during the week. On Monday I saw unusual sights in the office across the way. First the old bookkeeper came in, and while he had the office to himself he sat in her chair, and I saw him shed tears. Then the young man with the corn colored hair appeared, and upon my word I was afraid to see him stand by the open window, with such a look upon his face, lest he should cast himself down to the bottom of the gulf.

A little later the three clerks, the gray haired man and an elderly person whom I took to be the second member of the firm just arrived from abroad—for I had heard a rumor that one of them had been in Europe nearly a year—assembled in conference on a plane of equality which only a mutual deep sorrow could have justified. After awhile two clerks brought in some large pasteboard boxes, which contained flowers, for though they were opened in a part of the office that my view did not well command I got a glimpse of white blossoms and green leaves.

I think those men were all sincere, but not one of them—not even the old bookkeeper—felt a grief that matched mine. Nothing just like that has ever come into my life. Perhaps I should have found nothing sympathetic or attractive in that woman if I had met her face to face, but when that meeting on this side of the grave had become impossible I pictured her in speech and in heart and soul as all that her sweet face had promised.

I longed to share with those who had known her the privilege of expressing my sorrow at her early death—indeed I resolved to do so, even at the risk of committing an impropriety. Therefore, when I saw the pasteboard boxes dispatched in the custody of the messenger boys, I hastened to intercept them on the street. It was easy enough to read the address upon the boxes, but there was no name—only a street and number in Brooklyn.

That was sufficient, however. I hastened to a florist's and gave orders for such tokens as seemed to be appropriate.

And so that was the end. The sight of her at the window day after day; a feeling of cheer from her bright presence near me, and, then the sorrow for the loss of one whose very name I did not know. I missed her heartily in those succeeding weeks.

Even so late as September I had by no means forgotten her or the incidents connected with that time of strange and fanciful sorrow. It was on the fifth day of that month when a man of familiar aspect, yet certainly not an acquaintance, walked into my office. He came slowly up to me and laid two cards upon my desk. One was my own, and the other bore the inscription, "John M. Douglas, M. D."

The name was not familiar, but the man himself I had certainly seen. Ah, to be sure! He was the doctor who had come to the office across the way, when the end was drawing near.

"That's my card, and the other one is yours, isn't it?" said he.

I nodded.

"You sent it with some flowers to 811 De Vaux street, Brooklyn, on June 28, didn't you?"

"Yes," I replied, "they were for her."

And I glanced across the way.

"Well, you probably have some rational explanation for it," said he, "but hang me if I know why you should have sent that cartload of funeral emblems to her on the occasion of her wedding. If you wished to intimate that marriage to me was equivalent to death, it was a bad joke, sir, and if you didn't then what in thunder did you mean? I've carried that puzzle with me 2,000 miles this summer, on our wedding journey, and now, by Lucifer, you've got to tell me the answer!"

I don't want to go any further with this story. It has come to a point where the recollections aroused are really too painful.—Boston Transcript.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

TOPIC.—"Self indulgence or self denial?"—I Cor. ix, 24-27; Gal. v; 16-24. (A temperance topic.)

Self indulgence is the greatest curse of Christianity today. Self denial is its greatest need. Self denial is demanded and self indulgence forbidden, not only for the good of others, but also for ourselves. We should deny ourselves for the sake of others. We should also deny ourselves for the sake of self. Self interest should make us self denying and keep us from self indulgence. Paul practiced self denial both that he "might save some" and also that he himself "might be partaker thereof."

1. The willingness of men to deny themselves for perishing worldly honors should inspire us with a willingness to deny self for immortal honors (I Cor. 24-27). Paul illustrates this by the runner in the Isthmian games. One who contested for the prize in the Isthmian games, the glory of Corinth, had to deny himself, had to be temperate in all things. For ten months before the contest the candidates, according to ancient authorities, had to be pure, sober and enduring to obey orders, to eat sparely and simply and to endure fatigue and hardship. This denial of self was absolutely necessary to inspire hope of success. Without it it would be useless for one to contend. His condition would be such that he could have no hope for success. The contestants did not refuse to fulfill the conditions. They did it willingly and cheerfully, and, too, that they might obtain a corruptible crown, a fading garland of Isthmian or Nemean parsley, or Pythian olive, or Olympian bay. How much more willing therefore the Christian should be to deny himself, since he strives for an incorruptible, an unfading, an unwithering crown, "a crown of righteousness," "a crown of life," and that, too, eternal life. This self denial is also absolutely necessary to success in the Christian race. We cannot live an indulgent and a Christian life at the same time. The extent to which Paul went in self denial he illustrates by the pugilist as a fighter. He strikes real blows at his body, not feints or blows at random. He declares that he bruised his body and smote it under the eyes. Keeping it thus in subjection, Paul referred to no harmful bodily torture, but to noble self sacrificing labors and self denials for the good of others.

2. The fruits of self indulgence and self denial should inspire self denial (Gal. v, 16-24). Self indulgence leads to the grossest sins, which forever debar us from the kingdom of God. Self denial produces the fruits of the spirit, which make us Christlike and Christ possessed. They that crucify the flesh for Christ's sake are Christ's.

As Christians and Endeavorers let us go often to Calvary that we may drink deeply from the fountain of noblest sacrifice and self denial, and, thus refreshed and strengthened, go into the world and teach it by our lives what true self denial is and its superiority over self indulgence.

Bible Readings.—Prov. xx, 1; xxiii, 1-3; Jer. xxxv, 1-9; Math. xvi, 24-28; Mark viii, 34-38; Luke iii, 11-14; ix, 22-25; xiv, 26-33; Acts ii, 44, 45; xx, 24; Rom. vi, 12-14; xii, 1, 2; xv, 1-3; Phil. ii, 1-12; Heb. xi, 24-26; I Pet. ii, 11, 12.

Shake Off Melancholy.

It is only selfish people who contrive to be always happy and placid whatever happens. They are so thoroughly unsympathetic, so unmoved by the joys and sorrows of others, that so long as they live in comfort they are perfectly content. But a great many well meaning people contrive to be unhappy when they might well be the reverse. They have made up their minds that this world is a sad and weary one, and they will not grasp and benefit by the few joys that come in their way. They may fully understand the divine dictum, "Weep with them that weep," but they fail to realize the equally binding obligation to "rejoice with them that do rejoice."—Lutheran Observer.

The Lord Decides.

No Christian can doubt that the Lord of hosts, who cares for right and justice, decides the issues in great battles. Neither the skill nor the power of man can make the issue of any battle certain. Very frequently it is the seemingly unimportant thing that turns the scale and brings victory or defeat, and no Christian nation can afford to enter into war without asking and answering sincerely the question, Is it the Lord's cause? If we cannot commit our way unto the Lord in this matter, it is vain for us to boast of national glory and national resources.—Presbyterian Messenger.

The Negative of Life.

There is a negative side of life which, though not its most pleasant phase, is a very necessary one. When life is young, it seems to be surrounded by a vast shadowy world in which dreams are like realities and realities dreams. In time there comes a juster conception of what living on this practical earth means, boundary lines become more clearly defined, and while the positive side is being learned a lesson in negatives is also taught, and the latter is by no means an easy or a pleasant lesson to learn.—Presbyterian Banner.

Our Responsibility.

All that you and I are responsible for is doing our duty. Ours is the seeding, and God alone beholds the end of what is sown. How do we know how much good we accomplish when we do any good thing or utter any truth in love? Eternity will be full of surprises to us. Wait and see.—Theodore L. Cuyler.

What Is Happiness?

I have come to see life not as the chase of a forever impossible personal happiness, but as a greed for endeavor toward the happiness of the whole human family. There is no other success.—W. D. Howells.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

"There is a fine large kitchen" will often be heard from the house hunter, but every foot of room beyond what is needed is a distinct detriment. Most of the French hotel kitchens, where fascinating gastronomic marvels are produced, consist of a range and a table at the cook's back, with just enough room for him to stand in. His pots and pans are hung on hooks on one side of the range, and the necessary dishes are ranged on wall shelves at the other. He wastes no steps.

If "piped" water is introduced from a town or city waterworks, the labor of housekeeping is immensely diminished, but as this happy condition is by no means universal the location of the well or the cistern becomes an important consideration. Thousands of steps may be saved and hundreds of exposures avoided by thinking beforehand on these. A little longer piece of lead pipe will bring the cistern water into the kitchen, so that the pump can be placed close to the sink, and a short length of rubber hose pipe fitted to the spout will save the heavy lifting that keeps many women ill all their days.

Space and steps can be economized by placing the kitchen windows so high in the wall that a hanging table can be placed under them and put up out of the way when not in use.

Some of the undesirable "largeness" of the kitchen could be utilized in a light closet, where all cooking utensils, from pots and pans to æsthetic jelly molds could be stored, and the kitchen sink of iron, with legs of the same material, would give no means of hiding damp rags and brushes to breed mold and bacteria. The kitchen sink itself and the sink in the butler's pantry should be arranged on the same plan, with a broad shelf for soiled dishes at the right and a grooved drainboard at the left and a dresser immediately above for the reception of the cleaned dishes. Suppose you reverse the position of the table and the board. Washing dishes three times a day for 365 days of one year makes 1,095 dish washings. Think of the vital force wasted in putting these dishes across to the other side. Until a race of left handed dish washers shall have been evolved, the arrangement described is the only proper one.—Mrs. H. M. Plunkett in Harper's Bazar.

Piccalilli.

A well known housekeeper recommends the following tried recipe for piccalilli or chow chow: Three large cabbages, a dozen peppers, a peck of green tomatoes, nine onions, three cups of sugar, three tablespoonfuls each of ground alspice, cloves and cinnamon and a heaping tablespoonful of whole mustard seed. Chop up all the ingredients except the onions, mix together thoroughly with a coffee cup of salt and three cups of cold water and put in an earthen jar to stand overnight. Drain the mixture well the next morning and add the onions, chopped fine, the mustard seed, sugar and spices. Pour all in a kettle, cover with the best vinegar and let it cook for three hours, stirring frequently to keep from burning. Put into glass jars and seal for winter use.

For a Pansy Doily.

The pansy is always a favorite flower with the embroiderer, the richness and variety of colors and tints that may be used making an effective showing, and the shape of the leaf lends itself well for a heavy border trimming. The outer edge of the doily may be scalloped and finished with a buttonhole stitch in either white or lavender. It is a mistake to imagine that no color but white should finish the edge, for the pale shades are always pretty. The design here illustrated is handsome for a centerpiece. The flowers may be embroidered in one color with the proper shadings or in the many tints seen in a bed of pansies.—New York Tribune.

Melons For Breakfast.

Many persons who suffer indigestion from eating melons as a refreshing "appetizer" in the morning will find that no unpleasant results follow their use as a breakfast dessert. Any one who is fond of melons will find them as palatable after the introduction of warm food into the stomach as before, and generally the result will be more satisfactory on the digestive organs.—Woman's Home Companion.

Hams and Bacon.

It is customary with a real "Virginny" cook to boil a whole ham at a time until nearly tender and then slice from that for broiling or frying to serve with eggs. Hams or strips of bacon that are to be kept on hand during the summer are rubbed all over outside with a thin coating of hickory ashes to prevent mold or rust.

To Make Clam Bouillon.

In making clam bouillon select 50 nice clams, chop fine, put them into a double boiler, cook carefully for one hour, then add one pint of water, strain through cheesecloth, add a pint of milk and a palatable seasoning of pepper. Serve at once.—Ladies' Home Journal.

WOULD PAY CUBANS.

American League Advises Government to Advance Money.

Way to Insure Insurgents' Good Will.

Debt to Be Liquidated by the Insular Authorities Sometime.

New York, Sept. 10.—The American league has sent to President McKinley a letter which urges upon the government of the United States that a plan be devised and carried out at the earliest possible moment for the payment of the army of the Cuban revolution. The letter says: "This would accomplish the immediate disbanding of the army and the soldiers would not have to return to their families empty-handed. The soldiers' good will toward the United States would be complete, they having received liberty at its hands.

"The funds for this purpose will have to be advanced by the United States, to be repaid by Cuba as soon as she has a government duly organized and independent as a state in the union that can issue the necessary bonds. Payments could be made on payrolls only certified by General Gomez as commander-in-chief of the army of the revolution, and these could be safe-guarded in every way so as to prevent irregularities."

Boston Cycler Won.

Baltimore, Sept. 10.—Frank Waller of Boston defeated Frank Starbuck of Philadelphia in a 50-mile paced race at the National coliseum here last night. Waller also broke the world's record for 50 miles behind pace. The best previous time was 1 hour, 50 minutes, made by him a week ago in his 24-hour race with Henry Smith. Last night he lowered these figures to 1 hour, 48 minutes, 18 1-5 seconds. The two men were limited to tandem pace, and each had five machines. Starbuck led until the 43rd mile. He jumped for the pole at the very start and set a hot gait, gradually drawing away from his opponent. He was 30 yards ahead at the end of the first mile and steadily increased his lead until the end of the sixth mile he was 300 yards to the good. Then the pace slowed down a bit until the 15th, when Starbuck pushed out again and gained another 300 yards. For 30 miles neither man gained, but Starbuck began to show signs of distress, asked frequently for water and complained of great pains in the legs. At the 35th mile he began to wabble and lost his pace. Waller took advantage of this, closed the gap, overtook and passed the Philadelphian. Starbuck fell from his wheel when Waller passed him in the 45th mile, and had to be carried from the track.

Hit the Pit of the Stomach.

New York, Sept. 10.—At the Lenox clubroom last night Oscar Gardner, the "Omaha kid," knocked out Sam Bolen, a colored pugilist, with a hard left on the pit of the stomach in the 10th round of what was to have been a 25-round bout. The men fought at 122 pounds. With the exception of one round, Gardner had the better of the fight from the start, and the result was never in doubt.

In the sixth round Gardner hooked his right to the jaw, sending Bolen to the floor, where the negro remained on one knee for nine seconds. In the ninth Bolen broke ground and Gardner, in trying to reach him, caught him rather low on the body with a light left. He was cautioned for this by the referee. A right-hand swing on the ribs doubled up Bolen. Bolen in the tenth was forced to his corner again, and in getting out he back-handed Gardner. When they came together again Gardner forced Bolen to his corner and knocked him out with a left hook on the body. Bolen lay on his face for 10 seconds, and was then carried to his corner, where he very soon revived. Gardner was declared the winner.

No Reason For Existing.

Boston, Sept. 10.—Gold Democrats of this state no longer have a party organization. Their leaders of the state committee discussed the matter yesterday for about three hours. Sixteen members were present, representing different parts of the state, and the concensus of opinion was that the organization should be discontinued, following the example of gold Democrats in other states this year. Resolutions, including a large number of sections, were considered section by section, and were eventually adopted. They take the ground that the silver issue is dead, so far as this state is concerned at any rate, and that the national Democratic party, organized for the defense of the gold monetary standard among Democrats, no longer has a reason for continuing in existence.

Quarrelled About a Dog.

Lynn, Sept. 10.—A hurdy-gurdy player named Petroni stabbed Hugh Foley in the abdomen last night, and the latter was so seriously injured that word was sent to his folks who live in Beverly to come to the hospital if they wish to see him alive. Foley and Petroni became engaged in a dispute over a dog, and during the conversation the Italian drew a knife and struck Foley. Thomas Casey, who undertook to prevent any further trouble, was stabbed in the back, but he was not so seriously injured that he was unable to protect himself from further assault. An officer took the Italian in charge.

Club Used on a Pianist.

Dover, N. H., Sept. 10.—Thomas Lynsky, the proprietor of an inn near Granite State park, was arraigned last night on the charge of attempting to murder William H. McHugh, the pianist in the place. McHugh, although searched for, cannot be found by the police, but it is known that his wounds are very serious, and it is thought that Lynsky's friends have placed him in hiding. The men got into a dispute over a trivial matter, and it is said that Lynsky got a club and used it on McHugh's head.

KING NICHOLS.

He Outpitches Rusie and Shuts Out the New Yorks.

Boston, Sept. 10.—The champions defeated the New Yorks for the second time at the south end grounds yesterday by a score of 3 to 0. Nichols pitched winning ball for the home team, and as an offset Joyce put Rusie in to hold the home team after he saw who was doing the act for Boston. The original intention was to save Rusie for the Saturday half holiday crowd.

AMOS RUSIE.

The magnificent work of Rusie made the chances quite easy for the giants, while the Boston infield was continually on the jump. Long and Lowe were unusually fast on double plays. Lowe accepted 13 chances in superb style, while Long was on time for everything that came to the front. The home team had 20 assists, against eight for the visitors. Glenn, the young New England league shortstop, put up a fine game at short taking Jack Doyle's place after the latter opened an old cut on his right hand the first time at bat. Score:

The game in Providence was close and exciting until the seventh inning, when three errors by the Springfields and timely hitting clinched the victory for the Providences. Both pitchers were hit freely.

The Cincinnatis bunched hits in the second and fifth and scored enough runs to win from the Chicagoes. Katell, from the Atlantic league, pitched the last three innings for the Illinois team.

Weyhing of the Washingtons had poor control yesterday, and was hit hard by the Philadelphias, who fielded rather raggedly. The game was called on account of darkness.

Confidence Is Unabated.

New York, Sept. 10.—This week's issue of Bradstreet's says that favorable basic features already noted still continue most in evidence, and the attitude of quiet confidence in future good trade is unabated. Conditions in many leading industries, but particularly in iron and steel and their various products, are of continued and in some cases growing strength. The general level of prices of staples is the highest reached for five years past. Railway earnings, favored by the enlarged movement of wheat to market, are showing larger gains than have been recently reported. A good export demand for agricultural and offered products is reported, failures remain at a minimum and reports of poor trade are infrequent.

Eighty leading roads show an increase of 6 percent over last year's earnings, against a gain in July of only 1 percent. Reports of net earnings for July point to increased operating expenses having wiped out the slight gains noted in gross earnings for that month, but reports from leading systems for the last week of August would seem to show that the corner has been turned, and that from now on a better showing will be made, notwithstanding the comparisons are now very favorable with earnings a year ago.

Bank clearings aggregate $1,106,000,000, with practically two holidays at some cities, 12.7 percent smaller than last week, but equal to last year's large total. Business failures number 143, against 164 last week, and 173 in this week a year ago.

Newport Hotel Wiped Out.

Newport, Sept. 10.—The Ocean House, one of the largest and best known hotels on the Atlantic coast, and the center of attraction to visitors in the city for over half a century, was burned completely to the ground yesterday afternoon. Sparks fell all over the thickly settled portion of the city and caused three or four roof fires along Bellevue avenue, principally at the Casino. Fortunately none of these caused very much damage.

Just before the flames reached the main building there was a cry that someone was on the second floor. Two soldiers of the Forty-seventh New York regiment made a dash through the smoke into the burning building and ran to the second story. A hasty search was made, but no one was found.

The fire was first discovered by an employe, who saw smoke issuing from a window in the fourth story of the dining room wing. This story was used entirely as servants' quarters and nearly 200 lost all their effects.

The Ocean House was owned by Henry J. Barbey of New York, and valued at $100,000.

A Deadly Gas.

Millers and the owners of grain elevators look upon the bisulphide of carbon as one of their most useful agents. When a mill, an elevator or a granary becomes infested with weevil, bisulphide of carbon is the cheapest and most effective thing to exterminate the pest. So deadly is the gas, however, and so rapidly does it act that the utmost care must be taken in applying the bisulphide. It is usually sprinkled over the grain from watering pots. The liquid is rapidly converted into a gas, and the latter sinks through the grain, carrying death to the weevil and even to the unhatched eggs.

So long as the persons applying the liquid stand above the point of application they are pretty safe from the fumes, but occasionally the workmen breathe a little of the gas and have to be removed at once to the open air, as the heart is quickly paralyzed by the action of the bisulphide. It is usual to treat the lower floors of a granary first, so that those employed in the work may keep constantly above the gas. Any animal, as a cat or a dog, shut up in an apartment where the bisulphide is doing its work is found dead when the place is opened.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

A Cuban Milkman.

"How many cows there are about the streets!" somebody exclaims, and then he is calmly informed that the morning's milk is simply being delivered. A bunch of cattle and their driver stop before a house, and the portero comes out with a cup for the morning's supply. It is seen then that the cows are being milked from door to door by the dairymen, for this is the way the acute Cuban housewives have taken to assure for their tables a lacteal supply which is entirely fresh and absolutely pure.

Even with the cows milked before the door one must continue to watch the milkman, for I have even heard of their having a rubber bag of water concealed under their loose frocks and connected with a rubber tube running down inside of the sleeve, its tip being concealed in the hollow of the milking hand. Only a gentle pressure upon the bag of water within is needed to thus cause both milk and water to flow into the cup at the same time. The milk venders of Italy and India have also learned their trade to perfection, for they practice this identical trick.—Edward Page Gaston in Woman's Home Companion.

A Singular Calculation.

In a recent number of Power a singular calculation is presented by J. A. Renie. It would require, according to Mr. Renie's figures, the power of a 10,000 horsepower engine about 70,000,000,000 years to lift the earth a foot in height, and to do this work, allowing 13 pounds of water per horsepower per hour, would require some 10,000,000,000,000,000,000 gallons of water, or more than would be discharged at the mouth of the Mississippi in 60,000 years. This would be enough, the writer estimates, to cover the entire surface of the earth to a depth of about 300 feet, to convert which into steam, using good boilers, would require some 4,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons of coal. If the latter quantity of the mineral was loaded on cars of 20 tons each, it would demand 200,000,000,000,000 such cars. If the latter were 30 feet long and all coupled together in one train, it would reach around the earth 45,000,000 times and, if running 25 miles per hour, would consume 25,000,000 years in running the length of itself. So much for "figures."

An Editor's Hard Lot.

There are always those who will kick. For instance, if you publish jokes with whiskers on them some will say that you ought to be in a lunatic joint. If you don't print something to smile at, they say you are a pessimistic fossil. If you spread yourself and write a good, original article, they will say it is stolen. If you reprint an article, they say you can't write. If you say a deserving word for a man, you are partial; if you compliment the women, the men are jealous, and if you don't the verdict of the women is to the effect that your paper is not fit to use in the construction of a bustle. If you stay in your office, you are afraid to remain on the streets; if you do, you are lazy. If you look seedy, you are squandering your money; if you wear good clothes, you are a dude, and don't pay for them. If you play a social game of any kind and get stuck, you are a fish; if you win, you are a tin horn, and so it goes through one continual round of pleasant complications.—Roslyn (Mich.) Sentinel.

A Speak Easy.

A Philadelphia policeman the other day received a letter informing him that a "speak easy," by which term an unlicensed saloon is designated, was in operation near Franklin and Spring Garden streets. His detective instinct was at once aroused, and he made an investigation, only to discover that he was the victim of some practical joker. The place referred to proved to be an Episcopal church for the deaf.—New York Tribune.

A Military Exquisite.

Marshal Ney, who was as handsome as he was brave, is said never to have appeared on the field at a great battle until he was dressed with scrupulous elegance and his beard carefully curled and perfumed. When he was led out to execution, he was cool and calm as though he were going to open a dance, only asking that the guns should be aimed low, that his face might not be disfigured after death.

The Svantians, who live in the inaccessible mountain range between the Black and Caspian seas, are probably the laziest people in the world. They have made no advance toward civilization in 2,500 years. It is their invariable rule to observe holidays four times a week, with saints' days as extras.

An Emperor's Attic.

The winter palace of the czar surpasses any other palace in Europe. It is on the banks of the Neva and owes its existence to the Empress Catherine II, that most extraordinary woman, extraordinary in ability and in vice, the surprise of all her contemporaries and the wonder of all who have studied her character. The building is four stories high, of a light brown color and highly ornamental in architecture. It is a wilderness of halls, stairways and apartments. The Nicholas hall and the St. George's hall will never be forgotten by those who have seen them.

One of the most interesting rooms is that where Nicholas I died. It is in the upper story of the northeast corner of the building and is approached by four doors and finally by a narrow passage. It is a small room, only about 18 feet long and 12 feet wide, with two small windows, and is the place where the emperor spent most of his time when not officially employed. It is the room in which he died, some say by poison administered by himself in a fit of melancholy induced by the outcome of the Crimean war. The room remains just as he left it. Near the center is a plain iron bedstead. Some chairs and a few cheap pictures adorn the room, and a dilapidated, down at the heel pair of slippers complete the furnishings of the attic room in the palace.

The Ashantees See Sights.

The natives of these Jaman villages had never seen a white man before, and I noticed at first with some surprise that those of our actions which interested them most were the simple and commonplace ones. To such matters as eating and dressing they gave the closest attention. Every morning when I emerged from my tent I found a large audience waiting patiently for the performance to begin, and when I took my place at the washstand a crowd closed round, forming a large circle. They followed the whole process with the greatest enjoyment, discussing and explaining to one another the various details and now and again raising shouts of applause as some peculiarly amusing feature of the performance (such as the use of the nailbrush) occurred. When I produced my toothbrush and proceeded to put it to its natural use, there was much anxious discussion, and when I brushed my hair up and made it stand on end they yelled with delight.

As for the opening of a bottle of champagne, which occurred on one occasion after an unusually long march) it simply brought down the house, although the spectators somewhat abruptly dispersed and viewed the remainder of the performance around the corners of adjacent huts.—"Freeman's Travels and Life In Ashanti."

The Black Hole of Calcutta.

A scientist, writing of the black hole of Calcutta and its atmosphere, says:

"On the 20th of June, 1756, about 8 o'clock in the evening, 146 men were forced at the point of the bayonet into a dungeon 18 feet square. They had been but a few minutes confined in this infernal prison before every one fell into a perspiration so profuse that no idea can be formed of it. This brought on a raging thirst, the most difficult respiration and an outrageous delirium. Such was the horror of their situation that every insult that could be devised against the guard without and all the opprobrious names the viceroy and his officers could be loaded with were repeated to provoke the guard to fire upon them and terminate their sufferings. Before 11 o'clock the same evening one-third of the men were dead, and before 6 next morning only 23 came out alive, but most of them in a high putrid fever. All these dreadful effects were occasioned by the want of atmospheric air and by their breathing a superabundant quantity of nitrogen emitted from their lungs."

Eyeglasses and Spectacles.

"You say you never wore spectacles?" said the near sighted man. "Well, if you ever put on a pair you'll never wear anything else. I wore eyeglasses for years. I thought they looked better on me, and then I imagined that they were more convenient; that I could take them off and put them on more readily and all that. But after wearing a pair of spectacles once for a few days—I had put them on, as I thought at first, temporarily—I discovered that spectacles were the glasses for comfort.

"There are, to be sure, people who do not wear glasses all the time, but only for reading or writing, and so on, to whom eyeglasses may be more convenient, and then I believe that eyeglasses are made nowadays that have more scientifically adjusted grips, and all that sort of thing, but I tell you that the thing for real comfort is spectacles."—New York Sun.

A Very Small Piece of It.

She—Have you forgotten how you once said you would give the world for me?

He—What if I did?

"Oh, nothing particularly, but it seems very strange now that you won't even sell that little old suburban lot so that I can have a new wheel!"—Indianapolis Journal.

A Long Walk.

The longest walk one could take in a straight line on solid land would be from the eastern side of the Red sea, not far from Mecca, to the Bering strait, a promenade of about 6,600 miles. In the western hemisphere the walk would not exceed 4,500 miles, owing to the irregular shape of the American continent.

A Demand For a Waistcoat.

At Strathfieldsaye there are (or were) llamas. A good story is told of the Duke of Wellington that years ago the first llamas brought there were shorn and a waistcoat made for the duke, but a late frost set in, and they had to make flannel waistcoats for the llamas instead of their own wool.—Notes and Queries.

Dickens In Evening Dress.

When Charles Dickens was to make his first appearance in Boston before an American audience as a reader, an immense crowd awaited him. The enthusiasm of the people for the most popular novelist then living had risen to fever heat. One of the most ardent of his admirers afterward told this little incident of the evening:

"With a few gentlemen who wished to welcome and show him attention I was in the little room at the back of the platform when Dickens entered it. He was a rather stout man with a somewhat red face, and I saw to my surprise, that he was dressed in an exaggerated servility to the extreme fashion.

"More than this, he wore a boutonniere in each buttonhole, and two watches, the chains of which were strung aggressively across his chest. There was a gaudy bad taste in his appearance which his friends regretted, knowing how distasteful it would be to most of his admirers who appreciated his genius and enjoyed his writings.

"No one, of course, could broach the subject to him, and he appeared that night and every other night of his engagement in the same attire. The universal comment was, 'Why, this is a petit maitre.' How can a man with such tastes be the creator of Tiny Tim and Sam Weller!"—Youth's Companion.

High Praise.

A story told by John Ross Dix in his "Pulpit Portraits" shows how strong a current of life ran in the veins of Dr. Lyman Beecher when he had passed the allotted threescore years and ten.

When about 75 years of age, he spent a fortnight in the eastern part of Maine. A party of gentlemen at Calais went with him some 30 miles up a series of lakes to Indian territories.

When about to embark upon a chain of lakes in the birch canoes, the Indian guide, Etienne, rather objected to so old a man attempting the adventure, fearing that he would give out.

The doctor paddled with the best of the youngsters; caught more trout than all the party together and returned each day from the various tramps in the lead; ate his fish on a rock, with a sea biscuit for a trencher and fingers for knives and forks; slept on the ground upon hemlock branches under the tent, and at length the Indian guide went from the extreme of depreciation to the highest expression of admiration in his power, saying:

"Ah, old man, all Indian!"

It Was a Pretty Hat.

A young lady of the east end had just received several proofs of different styles of photographs of herself and had kept them until the usual semiweekly visit of her best gentleman friend. He was punctual in arriving that night, but he never imagined that it was to be his last call for an indefinite period.

He had no sooner seated himself in the parlor than the young lady brought in the photographs for his inspection. He looked them over very carefully and finally selected the only one of the several pictures showing a hat on the subject. It was a pretty big hat and beautifully trimmed. The piece of millinery caught his eye at first glance, and he most innocently remarked:

"I think this is the best photograph. The hat is so pretty. It is a very fine picture of the hat."

The young man did not notice his fatal error until too late. His visit was short and uninteresting that evening, and now he wishes that the art of photography had never been discovered.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The English Army.

In the 40 years that elapsed between the battle of Waterloo and the fighting in the Crimea the British army attained a maximum of inefficiency. It is only now, when the chief actors in the great drama of the struggle with Russia are dead, that the public is beginning to learn the extent of the incapacity and inefficiency of the men responsible for the equipment and training of the British army. But for the courage of the British private the Crimean campaign would have been a disastrous failure. Indeed but for the accident of a fog on the morning of the battle of Inkerman, which enabled a handful of British troops to impress 40,000 Russian soldiers with the idea that they were more numerous and better supported than they really were, the English army would have been driven into the Black sea and the subsequent history of Europe altered beyond recognition.—London Standard.

A Deadly Grudge.

"You and Briggins don't seem to be very good friends any more."

"No, he is a wolf in sheep's clothing."

"Why, what did he ever do to make you conceive such an opinion of him?"

"Made me believe I ought to take my bicycle apart for the purpose of cleaning it."—Chicago News.

The Foolish Advice Given.

"I hate to see a man who has sense enough to give good advice," said Mr. Bifferly, "but not sense or strength enough to follow and profit by it himself, but it is a fact that many a man has got rich on a hint from somebody else who has staid poor."—New York Sun.

Well Named.

"This is the parlor, eh?" tentatively remarked the real estate agent, who was looking over the house.

"Yes," replied the old man Kidder, "but I usually call it the courtroom—I've got seven daughters, you know."—Harper's Bazar.

There are over 1,000 islands under the flag of Japan, and in Georgia bay, the north extension of Lake Huron, where we find very few islands on the map, there are in reality several thousand islands, most of them, of course, quite small.

One-seventh of the population of England are engaged in the building trade.

The flag under which all women should march is the banner of good health. A woman owes it to herself, her husband and children to enlist under this flag. If she does not do so she will live a life of wretchedness herself, and unless her husband is an exceptionally good man, he will become indifferent to her, her home will be unhappy and her children will be puny and sickly.

Ill-health in a womanly way may almost invariably be traced to weakness and disease of the femine organs that are the vestibule of human life. No woman can enjoy good, general health who is dragged down by continual pain and local weakness. Troubles of this description utterly unfit her for wifehood and motherhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives health, strength, elasticity and vigor to the special organs concerned. It makes a woman strong and healthy in a womanly way. It gives the nerves a rest from pain and an opportunity to build up. It makes motherhood safe and comparatively easy. It transforms weak, sickly, despondent women into happy, healthy wives and mothers.

Jas. Caswell, Esq., of Ocheltree, Johnson Co., Kans. (P. O. Box 61), writes: "My wife was troubled with prolapsus, or 'female weakness,' for several years. She was not able to do her work, she had such bearing down pains and pain in her back. Her periods were irregular, varying all the way from two to six weeks. At those times she would have fainting spells so bad that I thought she could not live. She was attended by the best doctors in the country. They did her no good and she grew worse all the time. I thought I would try your medicines. By the time she had taken four bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and two of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two of the 'Pleasant Pellets' she was completely cured."

Every day, a dose. Once you start, you can never stop them. That is the way with some so-called remedies for constipation. It is different with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are a positive, complete and permanent cure for constipation and they don't become a habit. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them. Nothing else is "just as good."

It is a druggist's business to give you, not to tell you, what you want.

The Editor in Denver.

As one sits at the feet of the Rocky Mountains in this city and looks over the landscape, he feels the poverty of language to properly and graphically describe it. Here is a city of 160,000 now asking proper recognition from the world, and proffers unquestioned proof for all claims submitted. Here can be found some of the best streets, some of the most tasty and elegant homes on the continent. Science has lent her aid, and all that wealth and brains can create is here seen in a way that has no rival on this continent, because of her magnificent environment. Forty years ago the locality was in a state of nature, the home of Indians, and wild game, today it shows as fine edifice as can be found in any city of the union. The run from New York to this place would if shown in one thousand snap shots, and averaged, from the editorial train, show an immense corn field. It may be that on the common roads of the country the landscape would differ somewhat but, viewed in an agricultural way, shows up to the very doors of Denver the small habitations of the people seen, an absence of bars, the grain being sold, and only the straw left. Hence there is no call for storage. Cattle are seen but not much in groups until we reach Nebraska. The service on all of the railroads is of the best, and the roads are second to none in the ease of motion. I was particularly impressed with the street lines in Denver. I have never seen anything in the east quite so easy to travel on. Possibly the soil may be a factor in its solution. The bob and jump of many roads in Massachusetts while it may aid digestion, does not add to one's comfort or improve their morals. The weather since our arrival has been delightfully cool.

Settled in Quincy.

Roger Billings, the elder, from whom most of the Billings in this country descended, came from Lancaster, Eng., about 1635, and settled in Dorchester, in what is now part of Quincy, and died there in 1683. The tombstone over his remains, in a good state of preservation, is now to be seen in the central burying-ground at Quincy. In attendance upon the Reunion in Boston on Tuesday, was Mrs. Lucy Billings Newton of Atlantic, who lives upon the last piece of the old Roger Billings estate remaining in the family and who uses daily the ancient doorstone which the feet of the original Roger were wont to tread.

AT CAMP DALTON.

Camp Dalton,
Saturday, Sept. 10.

We are here still, and don't know the hour of departure.

A group picture of Co. K was taken yesterday as a memento for our friends.

Dr. Pearl is not to go with the Fifth but is detailed to stay with the Ninth regiment.

Thirty-six cars will be necessary to transport the regiment, and will move in three sections.

It is possible that the regiment may not leave until Monday.

Our overcoats have been issued and they were almost needed last night. It took 1,362, and the men must pay $11.74 each.

The First Artillery is expected today. There have been rumors that Capt. Kincaide of Co. K would resign, because of business, but he will go with the regiment to the Pennsylvania camp.

$3000 Verdict Stands.

The defendant's motion for a new trial in the case of Frederick A. Thayer vs. The Quincy Electric Light & Power Company was argued by John Lowell for the defendant and Paul R. Blackmur for the plaintiff before Judge Sherman in the lobby of the Superior Court, Friday afternoon.

The defendant claimed that the verdict of $3,000 rendered by the jury at the last term of court was wrong inasmuch as the jury should have found for the defendant, and in any event, the sum given the plaintiff was entirely too large.

Judge Sherman declined to take that view of the case and made an order that the motion should be overruled and that the verdict of $3,000 should stand, and said that if the jury believed the evidence of the plaintiff the first verdict was not too large.

Grand Jury Report.

The United States cruiser Marblehead, Howman H. McCalla, commander, arrived near the Navy Yard last night. The gallant cruiser fired 11 guns as a salute to Commodore Howison, which was returned from the yard. It is believed that the Marblehead will remain here for repairs, which will consume quite a long time. The Marblehead comes here direct from Guantanamo, Cuba, where she did yeoman service in shelling the city, and in honor of whose captain the marines named their camp at that place.

The Grand Army encampment passed resolutions commending President McKinley and Secretary Alger.

At the eleventh annual reunion of the California Pioneers in Boston, yesterday, Mr. Israel Waterhouse formerly of Wollaston and E. D. Wadsworth of Milton were elected members of the board of directors. Since the last reunion eight members have died among whom was William Prescott of Quincy.

There are a few books left at this office of trolley trips along the north and south shore and this is just the weather to enjoy a cool trip. Books with complete maps only ten cents.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The A's are completed in all wards of the city; today the instalment includes all the B's in Ward 6:

REFORMERS OPPOSED.

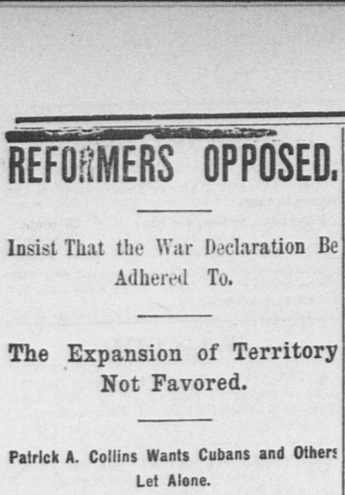
Insist That the War Declaration Be Adhered To.

The Expansion of Territory Not Favored.

Patrick A. Collins Wants Cubans and Others Let Alone.

Boston, Sept. 10.—"Let them alone," is what P. A. Collins, former consul-general to London, advised the members of the Massachusetts Reform club to do with the Philippines, speaking before the club at a dinner given last evening.

Mr. Collins' three words, which to his mind, he said, summed up the text of all the advice that could be given the president and those who are to deal with the future of the Philippines, were caught up by the representative gathering of men present and loudly applauded, as were all his utterances against annexation of the Philippines and imperialism in general.



PATRICK COLLINS.

Winslow Warren, president of the club, presided. The war he characterized as one of terrible suffering to the brave soldiers and of "shocking incompetency in high quarters." The consequences must long disturb and complex the country with questions novel and dangerous to a republic. He said he believed the Porto Ricans should be allowed to govern themselves. What was true of Porto Rico was much more true of the Philippine islands.

Mr. Collins called attention to the fact that Manila was acquired by an accident practically. The United States did not want Cuba, Porto Rico or the Philippines. "We should look after ourselves before taking hold of other people. Charity begins at home," said the speaker. "We have the greatest future offered to us if we stay at home and mind our own business that mankind ever had. It is said we can educate these colonies and make the American germ fructify in the soil, but it is not so. Great Britain's experience teaches us this. Of a temperate zone herself, she can govern by her own people with success and without trouble only those colonies and peoples who are in a temperate zone. Her other colonies are governed by the peoples themselves, with her controlling hand, exerted by one head. On the same principles we cannot govern these colonies which we are now to deal with. We have no capacity as an organized republic to govern a vassal peoples on the principles we stand on.

"The quetiosn is then asked, What is to become of these islands and the people? Let them act just as if fate and good fortune would force them to act if Dewey had not scored his great victory. We are told we have a duty to perform to them. We have a duty to perform to ourselves, and we should look out for it. Self-preservation comes first. I do not believe, therefore, for one, that we ought to go outside our own boundaries. Let the Philippines work out their own future under the protectorate of God.

"I do not believe in the establishment of a protectorate. It will mean that we will have to cause unpleasant complications with European countries. As with the Philippines, so it is with Cuba and Porto Rico. Our word was when we went to war that we would help Cuba in the name of humanity and make her free. Let us do it. We cannot make conditions better by taking Cuba into the folds of this country. If they are capable of selfgovernment let them govern themselves. If they are not, then don't let us bring them into this country, but let them shape their own course. We have done our duty to them. We have done a grand thing in taking up the cause of humanity. Our duty is done and if we go beyond what we said we would do then we go back on our sacred promise."

Edward Atkinson practically agreed with all that Mr. Collins had said. The United States had nothing to gain in a commercial way with trade in the Philippines in the West Indies. Our exports to Canada more than equalled our entire exports to South America, the West Indies, the Philippines or Spain.

Gamaliel Bradford said he had not wanted to speak, but being called upon was determined to speak his mind. He criticised President McKinley and others in Washington in severe language.

This resolution was passed: "That while the people of the United States must now meet the responsibility which has been brought upon them by the displacement of the dominion of Spain in the Philippines and the West Indian islands, it is not right for us to annex or to assume dominion over them."

Desires Light Turned On.

Pittsburg, Sept. 10.—Secretary of War Alger reached here last night on the way to his home in Detroit. The secretary said: "I do not care to talk about the charges and counter-charges seen in the newspapers. Absurd and nonsensical stories have been published which have had the effect of alarming the soldiers' friends at home."

The reason he had asked President McKinley to order an investigation was that there had been so much publicity given to alleged mismanagement and complaints in the army that he desired the light to be turned on. "I desire," he said, "the widest, fullest and freest investigation that the whole world may know the truth."

He was asked: "Do you desire to have included in the investigation the charges made by General Miles?"

The secretary replied: "I do not discuss my affairs with General Miles with the newspapers."

Pointed Comment of "Bob" Evans.

Poughkeepsie, Sept. 10.—Captain Robley D. Evans of the Iowa was the principal speaker at a mass meeting held here last night in aid of the sick soldiers at Camp Wikoff. Captain Evans said: "I feel sure that every good man and woman will appreciate the object of this meeting, and that all will applaud the patriotic women who are endeavoring to carry out the work; at the same time I feel that all thinking Americans will regret that such a meeting is necessary.

"Any government that is worth fighting for must assist and help the brave men that left their families, which is really the hardest part of it, much harder than to go face Spanish bullets, which is the easiest part of it. Probably in the years to come, if this nation has learned a lesson or will learn it, such meetings will disappear."

Investigation of the Army.

Washington, Sept. 10.—The cabinet meeting yesterday lasted two hours and a quarter, although only Secretaries Gage and Wilson and Postmaster General Smith were with the president. The appointment of Senator Gray as peace commissioner was first considered, and met with such approval that the formal announcement of the choice was made.

The question of investigating the administration of the war department and the appointment of commissioners to conduct the investigation was gone over. Whether the president will direct the investigation depends upon his ability to find men for the commission in whom there will be such confidence that their verdict will be accepted in advance as a just determination of the subject. If such men can be found then the president will name them and order the investigation; if they cannot be found, then the investigation will not occur. It is felt to be esesntial as a prerequisite to the commission that a membership shall be secured which will command general approval.

GENERAL J. B. GORDON.

President McKinley has tendered places on the proposed commission to Major General Schofield, former commanding general of the army, and to ex-Senator John B. Gordon of Georgia.

Governor Tenders His Thanks.

Boston, Sept. 10.—Governor Wolcott has written letters of congratulation to Colonel Clark of the Second regiment and Colonel Logan of the Ninth for the work of their commands in Santiago. In the Clark communicationhe says: "You have returned with many vacant places in your ranks, and with many of your number weakened in body, although unbroken in spirit. For these brave sons who have died the commonwealth proudly mourns; for the living who have courageously fought and endured she gratefully renders her thanks and admiration. Both the living and the dead have won glory for the national arms and have brought added lustre to the fame of the commonwealth. Their deeds will live in history and in the remembrance of a greatful people."

Of the sacrifices of the Ninth the executive remarks: "Your sons and your sons' sons will tell the stories of what their fathers suffered and achieved in the summer of 1898. The service which the country demanded of her sons was rendered with willing and generous devotion, and was illustrated by deeds of valor and by the quiet heroism of endurance. It is doubtful if any other regiment in the volunter service has paid a heavier sacrifice than the Ninth. The people of the commonwealth are not unmindful of this sacrifice, and will tenderly cherish the memory of the gallant dead, and of the heroism of the living."

Sagasta Ministry a Corpse.

Madrid, Sept. 10.—The government's severe measures to prevent reports of the secret sessions of the cortes are nullified by the senators and deputies of the opposition, who are eager to inform the foreign correspondents as to what goes on. Thursday's session of the chamber ended with Silvela attacking the government and exclaiming: "The Sagasta ministry is a corpse, and we do not discuss corpses. We bury them."

It is reported that at a cabinet council Sagasta told his colleagues that they must be prepared for the fall of the cabinet.

General Blanco has appealed to the government for funds, representing that the situation in Cuba is most distressing. Romero Giron, minister for the colonies, asked the treasury for 100,000,000 pesetas.

In the chamber of deputies Mr. Canalejas, in the course of a long speech of violent and unmeasured abuse, denounced the government collectively and individually for its conduct during the war, and now the peace negotiations. He produced a sensation by asserting that when Admiral Cervera asked for instructions and munitions of war the minister for the colonies replied: "May God help you. Canalejas accused Sagasta of constituting himself dictator merely to satisfy his personal ambition; and he attacked Lieutenant General Correa, minister for war, and Captain Aunon, minister of marine, mercilessly for their incapacity.

PENSION OFFICE WORK

Present Commissioner Denounced by the Grand Army.

Rules and Interpretations Are Too Severe.

Comrade McKinley Urged to Bring About a Change of Conditions.

Cincinnati, Sept. 10.—The work of the 32nd annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic was concluded yesterday afternoon. The anticipated discussion of the resolutions from the pension committee did not occur. The pension report went through without discussion, although it was modified later to take away an impression that might have arisen that President McKinley was under censure. Commander-inchief Gobin, in all his rulings, commanded the fullest respect of the encampment.

While the encampment was concluded in the afternoon so that the national board of administration could meet with Commander-in-chief Sexton for routine initial work, the national convention of the three organizations of ladies continued until late last night. They had much more fighting over officers than the ex-soldiers. Their afternoon and evening sessions were devoted to contests over the division of the honors and in these contests Illinois carried off almost everything.

The report of the committee on pensions recommended the adoption of substantially the following:

"Resolved, that it is the judgment of this encampment that the pension laws should be administered in the spirit of justice and fairness in which they were enacted.

"Resolved, that any effort to prevent the honest applicant for a pension from succeeding by any subterfuge, rule or forced construction of the laws which will work injustice to the applicant is to be condemned by all honorable men.

"Resolved, that the repeated complaints of the unfair construction of the pension laws and of the enforcement of rules which are in violation of the law and inimical to the interest of applicants impel this encampment to call upon Comrade William McKinley, president of the United States, to exercise his authority and see that the law is executed in a spirit of justice and liberality.

"Resolved, that all rules which hinder and embarrass the allowance of honest pension claims should be repealed, and we ask the president that he use his authority to cause those whose duty it is to execute the laws to so perform their duty as to do justice to the soldiers and administer the law so as not to obstruct the prosecution of pensions by technical requirements not within the province of the law, and which are only calculated to hinder and obstruct in the effort to obtain lawful pensions. Two years ago the country was stirred to its depths by complaints of the injustice of the then administration of the pension bureau. Beyond doubt the political campaign of 1896 was largely influenced by the hope of ameliorating the harsh conditions then existing in the pension bureau. We submit that this expected amelioration has not taken place; that in no substantial instance has one of those harsh rules been abrogated, but every one of them remains in full force. The veterans had the right to expect very different treatment from the present commissioner of pensions than they received from his predecessor. Every day brings the veterans nearer the grave in increasing ratio, yet the number of weekly allowances steadily diminishes, while the pension commissioner states that he has 625,000 claims pending in his bureau, of which he says 75,000 so far have received nothing at all. Elsewhere he states that about 200,000 survivors received no pensions, and yet recently the commissioner carried through a reduction of 100 in his force of clerks on the ground that he had more force than he needed. In the meantime the 1600 employes of the pension bureau continue the dreary round of circumlocution.

Pensions to Widows.

"Resolved, that the rule of the pension office by which a widow is debarred from a pension if she has an income of $100 is unjust, and we ask the president that the order be abrogated and the minimum debarring from pensions be fixed at not less than $300 per annum.

"Resolved, that we ask for the re-establishing of order 164, which was enforced under the Harrison regime. This order took cognizance in rating a man's pension of all the disabilities he suffered under. It was abrogated by the last administration, and it was held that to be entitled to the lowest rate of $6 per month, a comrade must have some one disability which is rated at that amount. If he has three disabilities rated at $4 each, he gets no pension at all. This iniquitious rule is maintained up to this hour, and we submit is not such treatment as we had a right to expect from Comrade William McKinley.

"Resolved, that the phrase, 'inability to perform manual labor,' is to be construed to mean inability to perform unprofessional, unskilled labor, labor requiring muscular effort alone.

"Your committee further states that it is wise to receive even the official statement of the commissioner of pensions with several large grains of allowance. He states in one place that there are 75,000 comrades who never received a pension. In another place he fixes the figures at 200,000. From time to time he issues glowing statements as to the work he is doing for the comrades in comparison to what was formerly done, but most of his comparisons are with the administrations of Presidents Grant and Hayes, prior to the act of 1890, granting pensions after 90 days' service for disability honorably incurred even after the war. He compares with the period when the sum total of claims was only 300,000 when, owing to the small force in the adjutant general's office, it took two years to get a report on the claimant's record, where it now takes only five days. He compares work with the work done when the clerks in the pension office numbered only 300, while he now has 1600. He discreetly refrains from giving prominence to the number of his rejections. Our comrades living and the widows of comrades dead cry aloud for justice. We voice their cry and bring it to the ear of that comrade in chief authority over all the land, confident that he will do justice."

The Report Amended.

The report was adopted without discussion, but sometime after the adoption of the report a fear seemed to have come into the minds of some comrades that some blame had been attributed to President McKinley, and Judge Torrance of Minnesota moved to expunge from the report the sentence, "this iniquitous rule is maintained up to this hour, and we submit it is not such treatment as we had a right to expect from Comrade William McKinley." Corporal Tanner stated that in preparing the report it had been far from his purpose to cast any imputation upon the president, and he asked unanimous consent to add to the sentence which it was sought to have expunged: "And we are confident that when he is once relieved from the mighty matters of national and world-wide importance which now command his attention, he will see that justice is done." The encampment unanimously gave permission to make the addition to the report, and the motion to expunge was withdrawn.

It was resolved that unless the railroads gave a satisfactory guarantee to make the rates to the next encampment not exceeding 1 cent per mile and the hotels of Philadelphia gave a guarantee not to increase their regular rates at the time of the encampment, then the national council of administration be authorized to select such city as should make these guarantees.

A resolution declaring it to be treason for any member of the Grand Army to refuse to do all in his power to give employment to a fellow soldier was discussed, but was voted down.

The Ladies Relief corps was authorized to amend its constitution so as to enable it to use relief funds for the benefit of soldiers of the Spanish-American war.

The proposition to make eligible to membership in the Grand Army soldiers who have served in the war with Spain was tabled.

The national council of administration was then appointed. It includes the following: Connecticut, John N Thatcher of Hartford; Maine, Edwin Riley of Chism; Massachusetts, W. A. Stackman of Boston; New Hampshire, B. A. Brown of Penacook; Rhode Island N. W. Viall of Howard.

The Daughters of Veterans of the G. A. R. elected and installed the following officers: President, Anna Clark of New York; senior vice president, M. Lizzie Kimble of Massachusetts; treasurer, Ida J. Allen of Massachusetts; instituting and installing officer, Vinne Bond-Willis of Massachusetts; members of the national council, Ellen M. Walke rof Massachusetts and others.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

THE DEVOTION OF A YOUNG WOMAN TO THE CHICAGO WOMAN'S TEMPLE.

Miss Eva Marshall Shontz is president of the Young People's Christian Temperance union, which was organized by her nearly a year ago to bring together the young people of both sexes in a strong army against the liquor traffic, and which has latterly devoted itself with almost superhuman effort to lifting the burden of debt from the Woman's temple, being pledged to raise $100,000 for that purpose.

She is another one of those grand women who have spent themselves in the cause of temperance and of the temple built by women and beloved of them.

In Druidical times the altars, temples and shrines were built on foundations spattered with the lifeblood of innocent victims. It was a remote expression of the eternal truth that sacrifice enters into every endeavor, every achievement. The world is wiser now, but it still demands its sacrifices, and these of the best and noblest.

People have called the Woman's temple the greatest undertaking of women, the most masterly of them in the universal history, yet it has demanded its sacrifices. Frances Willard gave her life for it. Eva Shontz her eyesight.

These were great gifts indeed, but the givers greater yet. To see the temple free, to see it touch the magic ring of happy independence, and the success of it assured were monument enough and reward enough to these gentle martyrs.

Miss Willard died unknowing of the outcome of her work, wavering as it did between success and disaster, but she died hoping. Miss Shontz has dwelt in the dim period of doleful prophecy, but she has strengthened her heart, has girded up the courage of her associates, has poured out her time, strength, youth, energy and talent, and is in turn laid low, but still hopeful, still believing. Of such faith is that which moves mountains. Unless all signs, all law, fails the Woman's temple will yet stand free, a towering monument to the unwavering faith of some of the noblest women God ever made, a monument to the glory of selfless womanhood and the beauty of self sacrifice.

Eva Shontz, who now lies with patiently folded hands, but busy brain, in a darkened room of her father's home at Beverley Hills, has always been a devoted temperance advocate and worker. Her strong temperance principles were in a measure inherited, since both her mother and her father have been and are earnest temperance people, and her steadfastness, intensity and gift for sacrifice may also have come to her through heredity, as she is descended from Huguenots who suffered persecution and prison for their faith, so that she may almost be said to have the blood of saints and martyrs in her veins. She is a western girl, pure and simple, being born in Centerville, Ia., graduated from the high and other schools there and afterward took the classical course at Monmouth college, Illinois, where she graduated with honors in 1884.

Her first temperance appeal made in public was in her college valedictory. That was the beginning. Going from college, she returned to her native town and taught in the high school for a year. It was good, but it was not enough. At college her oratorical ability had been recognized. Three times had she been chosen to represent her literary society, and each time had won in the contest. To go further in the art of expression was her heart's desire. She went to Philadelphia and took the two years' course in the National School of Oratory. Teachers and friends prophesied that here was a new actress arisen, but Miss Shontz said her nay. Her strong religious convictions, her tastes, desires and habits were all opposed. She took up teaching instead and became exponent of elocution in Westminster college, Pennsylvania, and Tarkio college, Missouri, each for a brief space of time, and then did what she was obviously most fitted for—she went on the platform as a public reader.

All this time she had been an ardent member of the Y. W. C. T. U. and the W. C. T. U. itself. They spoke of her as "our white ribbon artist reader," and it was said that she rarely if ever gave a selection which did not carry with it a moral or a religious truth.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The New Woman's Jingoism.

"The question of the new woman is as yet unsettled, and wholly beyond the power of arbitration. Like Great Britain, the new woman is continually enlarging her borders. Some think that the Monroe doctrine should be applied to her case, that she should be made to prove her title to her claims. I say that it is man who is responsible for the new woman. Woman is a domestic creature instinctively. In years gone by she was content to stay at home, to cook, to sew, to mind the house and the children. But man entered her sphere with his inventions, and now woman must go out into the world for new employment. The woman's hand must have occupation unless you can arrest her intellect, which you can no more do than you can arrest her tongue. There was never any question as to the right or propriety of man's entering woman's sphere, save only that he should submit to the test which the law of capacity administers in her world as in man's. Must women, then, be doomed to the life of a modern sphinx? Never. God rules us with a driving force which hastens the progress not only of man, but of woman, and a drawing force of better wages and great opportunity has been created by that progress for the woman. And the new woman is not slow to take advantage of it.

"The woman's influence upon the world is often as strong and lasting as the man's. Abraham Lincoln did scarce more to overthrow the institution of slavery than did Harriet Beecher Stowe. If the woman is fitted to look after the business, I say, let her do it, and let the man stay at home and nurse his nerves. If the man's strength lies in his legs and the woman's in her eloquence and intellect, then let each fill his sphere, he upon the football field, and she in the pulpit or at the bar. Don't be uneasy about a woman's unsexing herself. She has entered 200 professions and businesses in the last 100 years and has not done so yet."

Imported Gowns.

"Now," said the shopper to the man who knew, "I should like to know what becomes of all the imported gowns I see here. They are imported gowns too. I can see that with half an eye. I know an imported gown too well to be deceived. You can always tell a French frock by its good style and slipshod work. But what interests me is to know what becomes of all the imported gowns I see here. They are beautiful and expensive, and only a few people can afford to buy them, and those people are the ones who can afford the most expensive things of all kinds, and they import their own gowns or have them made here by the best modistes, and they are certainly not going to buy gowns that every one has had a chance to see in a shop.

"The only thing I can think of is that these are actresses' gowns, and they possibly do not mind the public having a view of them."

"You are not so very far wrong in your general ideas," said the man, with a laugh, "but you are not quite right. The gowns you see are imported, but they are not actresses' gowns. The firms here import them and have the privilege of keeping them for a month or six weeks. If they sell them, so much the better, but if not, they return them and get a new stock, and it is a great attraction in the showroom."

"Yes, it's an attraction," said the woman, "for I always go where I can have a chance to see a real French gown.

"But there is one thing I do not need to have you tell me," she went on, "and that is that all the swell gowns I see in cases in some of the shops are not new. Those gowns have long lives. I have seen a gown when it was first brought in fresh and new; I have seen it a second season, a little furbished up, and I have seen it a third year, still further altered. I know too much about refurbishing a swell gown to make it as good as new to be deceived. Some of these gowns may live to be more than three years old, but that they do reach that age I am sure."—New York Times.

Syracuse's Cooking School.

In the matter of cooking schools Syracuse puts forth a claim to distinction. It is the only city in the country so far as known where a cooking school has been established and successfully conducted which has for its basis the equality of mistress and maid. Both classes are received as pupils, but the school is no respecter of persons, and the mistress of a mansion with a retinue of servants finds herself touching elbows at the cooking school with Bridget from her own kitchen and borrowing or lending "a pinch of salt" or "a piece of butter the size of an egg" or otherwise exchanging cooking school civilities with great equanimity.

Schools of this sort have been founded in many cities, but all of them have been short lived. The inevitable stumbling block has been apparently the want of tact in management. The mixed classes have been a failure in most cases from the start.

The Domestic Science school of Syracuse was opened two years ago by the Household Economic club. Classes in cooking were formed, and the society women joined them and got their cooks and housemaids to join with them. They all donned aprons and caps, turned back their sleeves and went at it together. At the end of a year's faithful work each received a diploma setting forth her qualifications as a professional cook.

The second year opened with a rush of pupils, including both domestic employers and employees, and when the diplomas were given out at the close of the year's work enthusiasm had not abated. The school has been self supporting and has even earned a small income from food sales and the operation of a high class employment bureau.—New York Sun.

A Novel and Delicious Cake.

I want to tell about a most delicious cake concoction I have lately encountered for the first time. It was a revelation of what a cake can be and good enough to venture giving for the benefit of those who have not met with it as yet. It is just the right thing for serving at this season at a luncheon or a high tea, or as an accompaniment to iced tea or coffee, or in fact whatever cake would be grateful. It certainly is a dream of a cake.

The first requisite is a ring cake mold like a ring jelly mold, but the center hole must not be too large and the tin must be rather deep so that the cake will stand high on the plate on which it is served. The mixture for the cake may be made from any good, rich chocolate cake receipt—we all have our particular favorites, and they are all alike in general principles, consisting of a good sponge cake mixture, with melted chocolate added toward the end of the stirring to give the necessary flavor and richness. When the cake is baked, it is turned out as soon as possible on to the platter or plate on which it is served and then covered with a rich chocolate icing, the soft kind which penetrates into the cake as well as covering the outside. And then comes the finishing touch that gives this especial delicacy its character, which is sweetened whipped cream that fills the hole inside of the ring of cake. While simple enough to make and prepare the combination of the hot chocolate cake and the whipped cream is really ideal, and I most certainly advise any one who has not tasted it already to try it. I know whoever does will want to do so a second time.—Harper's Bazar.

Oxygen For Babies.

"Now is the time," says an eminent medical authority on children's diseases, "for mothers to keep their babies out of doors all the day long when the weather is decently fine. Let the little ones, shielded from sun and draft, take their naps out of doors. Even in northern latitudes they may safely sleep in the open air in the daytime until Thanksgiving, and frequently even later than this. Children thus treated will have little susceptibility to colds, sore throats, etc., and will withstand almost any disease.

"Parents seem to forget that children are born with the hunger and need for plenty of oxygen. It is not less essential than their food. Two or three hours on pleasant days is utterly insufficient for expanding lungs, yet it is all that the majority of babies get. Twelve hours is none too much this season, and there is scarcely a day in the whole year when they may not be taken out.

"A remarkable instance of the results of this practice has come into my own personal experience. There is, by the way, no such thing as inherited disease, only inherited tendencies, and these 'tendencies' may be successfully combated by commanding proper conditions. The child of one of my patients directly inherited tuberculosis from both sides of the family and was a very delicate infant. The parents, however, had the courage to adopt this treatment, and from its birth kept it out of doors practically all the daytime. Now, at the age of 6, it is a child of uncommon vigor. One can of course establish this habit only in mild weather, and now is the most favorable season."—Exchange.

Good Work of the Travelers' Aid Societies.

In the course of an article, entitled "When Country Women Come to Town," published in The Ladies' Home Journal, Frances E. Lanigan briefly describes the excellent work of the Travelers' Aid societies, which keep at the principal railroad stations and steamboat landings in large cities women agents to assist women and girls when arriving in strange places. "This 'Travelers' Aid' has for its object the protection of helpless women and girls who are forced to travel long distances alone. As, for instance, a young girl may leave Stockholm, Sweden, desiring to reach San Francisco. With a letter from the 'Travelers' Aid' the agent will meet her in London and place her upon a steamer. When she reaches New York, she will be met and placed upon her train. At Chicago she will be met again and taken to the train, and when she arrives at San Francisco she will be met by one of the women agents of the association and conducted to the rooms of the Woman's Christian association or to her friends."

A Premium Upon "Single Blessedness."

The new charter of Montreal extends municipal suffrage to widows and unmarried women who lease or own taxable property in the city. This is in line with the just principle, "no taxation without representation," but why should our friends across the border discriminate against women with husbands? That is to place a premium upon "single blessedness."—Boston Woman's Journal.

IMPORTANT TO BANKERS.

Court Rules Against a Bank Which Had Been Victimized.

"If an employee raises checks so skillfully as to escape detection and his employer uses ordinary precautions, the bank must stand the loss."

This is the substance of a decision handed down a few days ago by the appellate division of the supreme court, New York. The opinion is written by Justice Hatch.

The title of the case is John W. Clark against the National Shoe and Leather bank. Clark is a builder at 86 Roosevelt street. He had a bookkeeper and cashier, Marius J. Lamonthe, whom he trusted implicitly. In nearly every case the stolen money in question was obtained through checks drawn to obtain money for the pay roll. Lamonthe furnished his employer with the items on a pad of paper. He would then fill out a check, and Clark would sign it.

Clark retained the slip until he had verified the amount by the petty cash book kept by Lamonthe. Then he destroyed it. Before Lamonthe presented the check to the bank he would raise the amount $50 or $100 and pocket this amount.

When the bank returned the checks at stated intervals, Lamonthe restored them to the original amounts. He also changed the statements furnished by the bank so that they would correspond with his books. The court says that the checks were so skillfully altered as to almost defy detection. The forgeries were discovered only when the bank notified Clark that his account was overdrawn.

Lamonthe was sent to the reformatory at Elmira, and Clark sued the bank for the money the bookkeeper had stolen. In all there were 21 raised checks. Clark had an accountant go over the books at intervals, and he discovered nothing wrong.

The lawyers for the bank claimed that the continued forgeries were possible because of the negligence of the depositor. The appellate division has held that Clark was entitled to rely upon the statements made to him and that his failure to personally examine the vouchers and statements or the accountant's failure to examine the statements did not constitute negligence as against the bank.

The claim was set up that the only method of discovering the forgeries would have been to compare the vouchers with the books kept by the bank. It is held that this would have involved extraordinary care and that no duty devolved upon the depositor to go to that extent.

Wherefore the justice holds that the bank was responsible for the loss and that it must pay Clark $2,406.10.—New York World.

Finds Long Lost Daughter.

A. L. Hughes, a retired broker of New York, found his long lost daughter at the Arlington hotel, Hot Springs, Ark., the other day.

Miss Hughes was kidnaped several years ago by the mother, who took the babe to Chicago and there deserted her. The heartbroken father prosecuted a vigorous search throughout the entire country, but to no avail, as he could not find his child.

Recently Hughes went to Hot Springs on his customary winter tour and took rooms in the Arlington hotel. When passing through the laundry, he chanced to meet a pretty face. He questioned the girl and found her name to be Mamie Hughes.

Explanations followed and it developed that the girl was Mr. Hughes' long lost daughter. They fell into each other's arms and a dramatic scene followed. Father and daughter left on a trip to California.—Chicago Times-Herald.

A Great Authority on Heraldry.

Chevalier Georges Marcziangi, for many years editor of the Almanach de Gotha, who died recently in Hungary, was probably the greatest authority on heraldry of his time. He wrote much on genealogical subjects, and his correspondence, which was as enormous as that of Voltaire, included letters of inquiry from every court in Europe as well as from Americans who had suddenly found themselves wealthy and who eagerly hoped that they might have ancestors of distinction. To all who came in contact with him Chevalier Marcziangi proved himself a literary Bayard.

Bismarck leaves about 20,000,000 marks, or $5,000,000, to be divided among his three children, Prince Herbert, Count William and the Countess Von Rantzau, his daughter. The admonition that "he who provideth not for his own household hath denied the faith and is worse than an infidel" was not thrown away on the sapient old chancellor by any means.

Talkin 'Bout Money.

You got to have the money
Ef you're livin here, my honey—
You got to have the money ever' day;
Fer all the Lord is givin,
It's the money makes the livin,
An the best o' all the roses o' the May.

You got to have the money—
That's what they say, my honey—
An sometimes it's a-makin of me sigh;
Fer whatever there is in it,
It is only here a minute—
It only says "Good mornin!" an "Goodby!"

Oh, the shiny, shiny dollar!
When we hear that eagle holler,
An we see him slip an sail aroun' the sky,
It's then—it's then, my honey,
That I wish fer weather sunny

An enthusiastic Georgia poetess writes as follows:

My John's comin home from the army,
An he'll never do fightin no more.
He lost one arm—
That's all o' the harm—
But I'm goin to marry him—shore!

John's come home—so glad to mention!
Got my love; also his pension.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

CURIOUS ANCIENT DOLLS.

They Were Not as Pretty as Modern Ones, but Quite as Useful.

Queen Elizabeth in her youthful days was particularly attached to dolls, of which she had quite a number. Among her collection was a very curious specimen of the dollmakers' art, composed entirely of the bark of trees, so artistically pieced together that only a close inspection revealed the fact that the whole was not carved out of one solid piece of mahogany. This doll, which was reputed to have been in existence more than two centuries previous to coming into the young princess' nursery, was clothed in such a variety of beautiful garments that her juvenile highness always had the assistance of a maid to dress and undress her favorite plaything.

Another strange doll with which the queen's childhood was associated was one from Spain. It was almost life size and dressed in clothes said to have been made by the highest ladies of the land.

A wonderful doll was that possessed by the Duchess of Kenloch, who lived prior to the reformation. This doll was made of the wood of the fir tree and so ingeniously constructed that by the mere pressing of either of its eyes it would open its mouth, "yawn, laugh and make an expression as if in pain." Not only would it do all this, but it could be made to move its legs "as if walking at a rapid rate." The hair used was human, once adorning the head of a wealthy and titled lady who lost her life for the sake of her religion.—New York Herald.

The Youngest Teacher.

Little Tillie Herget of 617 Chouteau avenue, South St. Louis, is probably the youngest professional teacher of dancing and singing in America. Recently

Miss Herget, who is but 8 years old, celebrated the first anniversary of the establishment of her singing and dancing academy. It is her delight to teach her playmates to sing and dance.—New York World.

Child's Odd Playmate.

Colonel Ellethrope, the well known Illinois scientist, has a summer cottage about two miles from Dunnin. One of his yearly summer visitors is his little granddaughter Bessie. In the household of a scientific grandfather it would be strange if the child wanted for pets with which to amuse herself. Nor does she, for birds and animals of every description surround her. There are dogs and cats, parrots and mocking birds, pigeons and doves, but the one the child likes the best is a common forest toad.

It appears each spring and watches eagerly for the arrival of little Bessie. The child is equally anxious to find her pet, and as soon as she arrives at Galewood she goes out into the yard calling "Tom, Tom." Presently something is seen moving through the grass from the vicinity of the old well, and before long the toad comes into view.

It hops eagerly into the child's lap and remains there contentedly while she speaks to it and feeds it crumbs. Not a day passes but Tom makes his regular appearance. He follows Bessie around everywhere until the time comes for him to go back to his winter sleep in some hollow tree.—New York Mail and Express.

The Polliwog.

A tiny little polliwog
And little brothers three
Lived in the water near a log,
As happy as could be.

A-swimming, swimming all the day,
A-sleeping all the night,
And trying, though they were so gay,
To do just what was right.

A-growing, growing all the while,
Because they did their best,
But I'm afraid that you will smile
When I tell you the rest.

One morning, sitting on the log,
They looked in mute surprise—
Four legs had every polliwog,
Where two had met their eyes.

Their mother, letting fall a tear,
Said, "Oh, my polliwogs,
It can't be you that're sitting here!"
For all of them were frogs.

So you must wait and see;
In summer time their little tongues
Will sing "Ka-chink!" with glee.

GEORGE H. FIELD,
INSURANCE,
Durgin & Merrill's Block, Quincy

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

WALTER P. PINEL

is the Manager, and the store is right over here at number 20 Franklin street.

OUR WEEKLY FASHION PLATE.

AUTUMN COSTUME FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

A new gown of light-weight cloth in black, now so stylish for autumn wear, is rendered very striking by the addition of a fancifully cut velvet vest in copper color, over which falls front and back a fine pleating of shaded taffeta silk in lighter tones.

The close-fitting coat-shaped bodice, which promises to be one of the distinguishing features of the season, rounds down from the shoulder to under the arm like a bolero, which is also edged with the finely pleated frill. The coat opens at the neck on a square plastron and a great cravat bow of coppery tinted mull, and is fastened between the ruffles of the bolero front with gold-rimmed opal buttons. The coat is cut to form tiny epauletts over the sleeves, and the divisions of the open back below the waist are caught together by the same linked buttons, while the narrow-pointed girdle is attached in front with similar jewelled buttons. A shaped collar finishes the neck, since a coat or waist without a very high collar is the exception. The close-fitting sleeves, opening at the wrist in bell shape, are trimmed with a fan-frill of taffeta and little buttons.

The skirt, cut in fashionable three-tier mode, is attached to a foundation skirt of silk—a new model—the pattern of which is furnished in connection with that of the skirt. The skirt has deep pleats at the back, and its width at the foot is three and three-quarter yards. The only trimming employed is a double machine-stitching on the edges. The proper cut of this gown can only be obtained from the cut patterns published by Harper's Bazar, where the design of the gown appears.

The hat, which turns broadly back on the left side, and is faced with shirred black satin, is ornamented with a great rosette of copper-colored velvet fastened by a jewelled pin, and the crown is encircled by heavy black plumes.

Quantity of material for costume—8 yards of cloth 52 inches wide, 1 yard of velvet, 2½ yards of silk.

The continued case of Louis J. Fratus of Cohasset, for assault on his wife, was called and again continued three weeks.

The continued case of Amelia Bates, for the murder of her daughter, Lottie F. Bates, at Weymouth, was called, and again continued without a hearing until next Saturday.

The continued case of Louis J. Fratus, for assault on Amelia Bates at Cohasset, was called. He pleaded nolo contendre and was fined $15.

A horse was ridden long before he was shod, and until it was learned how to put shoes on, his greatest usefulness was not achieved. It is cause for comment that the ancients did not sooner learn to shoe him.

Keith's Theatre.

The principal attraction at Mr. Keith's famous amusement resort for the week of Sept. 12 will be the return of the talented Cohan Family, who have been making rapid strides as entertainers of the first class in the vaudeville theatres. They will present a new farce, written by the junior of the male Cohans, George M., which is called "Running for Office." A recently married widow and widower each trys to disguise the facts that they are not without encumbrances. It will be the last week for the Symphony Orchestra, a feature of the weekly entertainment during the past three months which has proven particularly enjoyable to all music lovers, but this will be compensated for in a measure by a performance of some of the brightest and most popular airs which Director Zach has selected this season. Others in the programme are Lillie Western, the most most talented female instrumentalist on the stage; Margaret Webb, a distinguished vocalist; Kimball and Donovan, two of the most accomplished banjo players in the country; Cook and Clinton, expert markswomen, and the Reed Family, dancers, vocalists and comedians.

Castle Square Theatre.

The second attraction of the fall and winter season at the Castle Square Theatre will be presented the coming week and will consist of the laughable farce comedy of "The Guv'nor." This play has had a famous record in this country, and ranks with the best productions in its time in recent years. The character of Theodore Macclesfield, the old boat builder has been accepted as one of the comedy creations of the present generation, and its performance calls into play the best abilities of the thoroughly schooled comedian. The clever plot of the play affords ample opportunities for bright dialogue, laughable situations and amusing incidents all of which have been used to the best advantage by the author. The cast will introduce Messrs. Seeley, Gilmore, Barrows, Mackey, Masson, Fowler, Morison, Geary, Walker, Drew, Lytton, and Gillis, and the Misses Lawrence, Odell, Sanders, Morgan and Chapman. Following "The Guv'nor" on Monday, Sept. 19, comes a production of "Mr. Barnes of New York."

When the ostrich is to be divested of its plumage a long hood is placed over its head, and it is then confined in a railed inclosure about three feet square. The birds rarely show fight.

Boston Museum.

There is no doubt about the place that one American dramatist will have when the final history of the stage comes to be written. Many writers went to England, France or Germany for their models and worked out imitations of the compositions which they found there, but Charles H. Hoyt started along original lines and the uniform success which his plays have attained clearly demonstrates the truth that American audiences honor American originality. Mr. Hoyt's latest big winner is the one which will come to the Boston Museum for a limited engagement, opening on Sept. 12. "A Stranger in New York" is declared by many to be Mr. Hoyt's happiest effort and it attained an instant popularity on its first presentation in Boston, a popularity which it has enjoyed elsewhere wherever it has been presented. The company at the Museum will be found to be especially strong with local favorites, as its ranks include Harry Connor, Lloyd Wilson, Arthur Pacie, Charles Warren, George A. Beane, Harry Gilfoil, John Hyams, William F. Ryan, Jules Jordan, Harry Rawlins, Anna Boyd, Margaret Fitzpatrick, Florence Lilian Wickes, Etta Gilroy, Louise De Wolfe, Sallie Randall and Lucille Verna. Nearly all of these players will be seen in the characters originally created and the newcomers have been specially selected in order that the cast for the present season may be the strongest possible. Seats for the coming engagement will be placed on sale at the box office as usual and the customary matinees will be given as usual, so that surburban theatre goers may have a chance to see the original company.

One who has investigated declares that the city directory of Washington, D. C., contains 40 George Washingtons, seven Martha Washingtons and 19 Mary Washingtons.

ANARCHISM!

Latest Manifestation of Enemy of Society.

The Murderer of Empress Elizabeth Gloats.

Crime Committed "For the Sake of Example."

Europe Thrilled From End to End by the Crime.

Geneva, Sept., 12.—The deepest indignation prevails at the act of the Italian anarchist who assassinated Empress Elizabeth of Austria in this city Saturday. She was about to board a steamboat for Caux, France, when she was murdered. Her suite had preceded her by train, leaving with her only her maid of honor, the Baroness Von Rothschild, and a man servant. Thus it was that the murderer was given an opportunity to carry out the design upon which he had meditated for two days.

The empress was travelling incognito, and as a consequence was without the police protection which would have been accorded her had the officials of the department been aware of her presence. Everything, therefore, conspired to give the assassin full swing in carrying out his purpose. Her majesty was walking from her hotel to the landing when he suddenly approached and stabbed her to the heart. The empress fell, got up again, and was carried to the steamer unconscious. Her last words were addressed to the attendants of the steamer. Recovering consciousness for a moment she feebly asked what had happened.

As yet the authorities have found no confirmation of the report that the murder was part of an anarchist conspiracy; but a dozen persons with whom the assassin associated have been arrested for examination. He maintains a cynical demeanor and frankly congratulates himself upon the success of his crime. He says: "I am an anarchist, but I belong to no committee. I acted on my own initiative. Let them do as they like with me. That is my strength. If all anarchists did their duty as I have done mine bourgeois society would soon disappear." He admitted that he knew the crime was useless, but he committed it "for the sake of example." The assassin said he came to Geneva with the intention of killing the Duke of Orleans, but the latter had already left. He then returned to Geneva and, learning from the papers of the presence of the Austrian empress, he decided to attack her.

Emperor Francis Joseph having telegraphed the Austrian minister, Count Von Kuefstein, to consent to a post-mortem examination, two physicians and Mr. Golday, the mayor of Geneva, were entrusted with the examination of the wound, on behalf of the judicial authorities. At the close of the examination they announced that death was caused by "internal hemorrhage from a triangular incised wound." They decided that the injury was of a character to leave no grounds for the theory, which had been advanced, that the empress, who suffered from weakness of the heart, might have succumbed simply to the shock of the blow.

The emperor, it is said, had been troubled from the beginning of the year with gloomy forebodings, and was often heard to express a fervent wish that the jubilee were over. His brother, Archduke Ludwig Victor, was dining at a restaurant in the jubilee exhibition at Vienna when the news of the assassination reached him. He hastened to Schoenbrunn, where, on meeting the emperor, a deeply affecting scene ensued. The emperor is very much agitated. Twice he has started for Vienna, each time changing his mind. He is unable to eat anything. His daughter, Archduchess Valerie, remains constantly at his side.

On Thursday Empress Elizabeth had read to her passages from one of Marion Crawford's novels describing the Sicilian vendetta murders. She was much horrified at the details, which resemble those of her own death. It is understood that the book had been chosen for her with the idea of dissuading her from an intended visit to Sicily.

A file, found late last night, has been identified by the assassin as the weapon he used. His name, though heretofore variously given and published here as Laccheni, Lacchesi and Leccessi, is now said to be Luigini. The Italian records show that Luigini was an illegitimate child, who took his mother's name. He has twice been arrested as a defaulter from military service.

Terrible Shock to the Emperor.

Vienna, Sept. 12.—The emperor's fortitude is the topic of universal admiration. He is bearing up manfully despite the terrible shock, which, in view of his age, had inspired the gravest apprehension. Although at first stunned and then slightly hysterical, he soon regained his self-control and displayed remarkable calmness. Occasionally, however, completely overpowered by his grief, he moaned piteously, repeatedly sobbing the name of the empress. Addressing Prince Von Liechtenstein, chief marshal of the imperial household, he exclaimed: "It is inconceivable how a man could lift his hand against one who never in her life injured anybody, one who did nothing but good." Then he moaned: "Nothing is spared to me in this world."

The shock of the news crazed one of the court servants, who rushed from the palace, shrieking: "Where is the murderer of the empress?"

Ten Friends Arrested.

Lausanne, Switzerland, Sept. 12.—Ten friends and acquaintances of the assassin of Empress Elizabeth were arrested here. He had been working as a stone mason in this vicinity, and last month he took the preliminary steps to become a naturalized Swiss. His application papers, however, he withdrew last Monday.

Want United Action.

London, Sept. 12.—Many of the European journals are again urging international action against anarchists. They recall that Mr. Carnot, president of the French republic, and Canovas, the Spanish prime minister, were victims of Italian anarchists.

Shot and Killed In Greenfield.

Greenfield, Sept. 12.—Patrick Toomey 23, was shot by Melvin Hamilton, 46 about midnight Saturday night, and died almost instantly, the bullet passing through his heart. Hamilton surrendered to Deputy Sheriff Smead and was locked up.

The affair occurred about a mile outside the town, and it is said that both of the men had been drinking. Hamilton had been visiting friends in the neighborhood, and about 11 o'clock started for his home in the center of the town. He had not gone far when he came across three men standing in the road, all engaged in a warm argument. According to Hamilton's statement, he passed the men, merely exchanging a few words, when Toomey, in a fit of anger, rushed after him, and, grasping Hamilton by the shoulder, said with an oath, "I'll fix you."

Hamilton pulled a self-cocking revolver from his pocket and told Toomey not to make a step toward him. Toomey made the step, and Hamilton fired, and without waiting to see if Toomey was hit, he went back to the house where he had been visiting. Word was soon brought there that Toomey was dead, and then Hamilton hunted up the police and surrendered.

One of the men who were with Toomey said that Hamilton reproached Toomey for using loud words and profane language, and after the two men had had hot words, the shooting took place. They admitted, however, that Hamilton warned Toomey not to come near him, but Toomey started to rush at him, and then Hamilton fired. An autopsy showed that the man had been shot through the heart.

Hamilton is 45 years old, and married; Toomey was 23 years old and unmarried.

Sympathetic Strike Evil.

New York, Sept. 12.—A proposed agreement between the board of walking delegates and the United Building association, representing the large building contractors, by which sympathetic strikes will be done away with, will be submitted for ratification to the unions affiliated with the board this week. The new agreement provides for the appointment of a board of arbitration, composed of employers and employes, to whom all questions in dispute will be submitted. The walking delegates, in such a case, will appear before the board os counsel for the workers. It is believed that this agreement, if adopted by the unions, will bring about a radical change in the methods of the delegates. The Building Trades council, composed of unions which seceded from the board, is in sympathy with the new movement.

A Lover's Tragic Act.

New York, Sept. 12.—Lewis B. Smith, aged 40, ticket agent at the Central railroad station, Elizabeth, N. J., committed suicide Saturday night after shooting and attempting to kill Washington S. Pugh at the latter's home in Elizabeth. Smith was in love with Mabel Smith, aged 20, a ward of Mr. Pugh, with whom she lived, but she had repulsed him. Saturday night he was found secreted under the bed in Miss Smith's room with a revolver in his hand. Pugh endeavored to seize Smith, when he fired at Pugh, striking him on the third finger of the left hand. Smith then ran down the street and threw himself on the track between two moving freight cars. Both his legs were crushed at the hips. He died Sunday morning.

Rape Punished by Death.

Brooks Station, Ga., Sept. 12.—The body of George Burton, a negro, who assaulted Mrs. Coggins, was found in Flint river, near Digby, riddled with bullets. Burton was arrested Saturday at Seyona. John Withon, who lives near where the negro was found, heard several gunshots, and later went down to investigate. He found on the banks of the river old pieces of clothes, burned and saturated with blood. With the assistance of others Withon dragged the river and found the body. News has just reached here that 200 or 300 negroes are marching to Digby armed with guns and rifles, swearing vengeance.

STILL LEADING.

The Bostons' Grip Strengthened by the Cincinnatis' Defeat.

Boston, Sept. 12.—The Boston champions left last evening for Philadelphia, where they play today and tomorrow. Wednesday the boys will return for a series of games, and will be at home until Oct. 5. They now hold a fine lead over all comers for first place. Cincinnati is a close second, but is forced to go away from home to play the Baltimores, Philadelphias and Washingtons, while the Bostons will be playing on their own grounds.

The Baltimores are a dangerous factor in this year's race, as the management has come out with an offer of $5000 if they win the flag. The other clubs are merely jogging along, but likely at any time to throw down the leaders. Cleveland look like a forlorn hope, as they have no incentive from home crowds to win, and are booked for a shift to other quarters next season.

The Bostons won their third straight from the New Yorks Saturday; the Cincinnatis were downed by the Louisvilles; the Baltimores won and lost in a double-header with the Brooklyns; Pittsburg beat Cleveland; the Chicagoes were treated to an upset by the tailenders, and the Philadelphias won from the Washingtons.

The Providences and Springfields met yesterday for the last time this season in a game at Crescent park. Owing to the failure of the Providence players to play with all the vim they were capable of in the finish they, lost the game after they had it practically won. The field was in bad condition, and many batted balls went for hits which should have been fielded out.

The National league standing is as follows: Bostons, 653; Cincinnatis, 627; Baltimores, 619; Clevelands, 579; Chicagoes, 552; New Yorks, 541; Philadelphias, 504; Pittsburgs, 500; Louisvilles, 429; Brooklyns, 397; Washingtons, 328; St. Louises, 274.

The Eastern league season closed with Sunday's games, the order in which the teams finished and their percentages being as follows: Montreals, 591; Wilkesbarres, 555; Torontos, 538; Buffaloes, 512; Providences, 492; Syracuses, 452; Springfields, 432; Ottawas, 431.

The percentage of the leaders a year ago was considerably greater than it is today. This is due to the longer season, to the increased number of accidents to players, and to the keener competition among the clubs. A year ago but two clubs were in the running at this time; now there are three. Cincinnati has improved considerably in percentage, but has not the batting strength to enable it to keep clear of its rivals. With the Cincinnatis playing away from home, and the Baltimores on their own grounds, the latter club ought to get a firm grip on second place. New York's record has sagged badly, while Cleveland and Chicago have shown a decided gain. Philadelphia promises to surpass its showing of last season.

The New Yorks beat the Washingtons easily Sunday in Weehawken, N. J. Seymour was in fine form and was too much for the senators at all stages of the game, only four hits being made off his delivery. Seymour broke the strike-out record of 11, held by Doheny, by compelling 12 men to fan the air.

The Louisvilles again outplayed the Cincinnatis yesterday and won handily. Magee lasted but two innings. Dowling who succeeded him, was in fine form.

The Chicagoes won two games from the St. Louis team yesterday by superior work both in the field and with the stick. Dowd's catches of three hard hits almost into the bleachers and wonderful stops and throws by Cross were the features of the first game. The Chicagoes did great running.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 12.—A portion of the Boston fire department had a novelty in its line of work Sunday when the Mystic river caught fire. It so happened that waste oils from the gas works flooded the river near Malden bridge, and a lighted match thrown from the bridge ignited the gases which hovered above it. The blaze covered the river for a distance of 500 feet, but fortunately no property along the shore was damaged.

Sarah McNeil, whose age is probably a century, died yesterday at the home of her son in East Boston. Until her last illness she had always been in excellent health. She was born in Cape Breton.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The town of Jerome, Ariz., has been almost wiped out by fire. Three lives have been lost, and immense damage done.

The central provinces of Japan have been swept by a terrible typhoon, which caused heavy floods, doing immense damage and destroying hundreds of lives.

The foreign admirals have sent an identical telegram to their respective governments requesting the immediate expulsion from Crete of the 15,000 Bashi Bazouks in the island, the recall of the Turkish troops and authorities, and the appointment of a governor general as desired by the Cretans.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A and B. The installment today includes the "Ca" in all wards, and the letter will be continued tomorrow:

Good Afternoon.

Among those mentioned for the Republican nominations for Representatives from Quincy this year are ex-Councilman Eugene H. Sprague, Capt. Henry L. Kincaide of Co. K; E. W. H. Bass, the Overseer of the Poor and ex-Councilman; E. W. Sheppard, the coal dealer; ex-Councilman Jonas Shackley, a veteran of the Civil war, and ex-Councilman Roger H. Wilde. Every ward seems to be represented except Ward Two, and it is said they would like to continue Representative Newcomb at the State House.

Atlantic Fire.

The alarm from Box 61 at 8.30 this morning was for a fire in Barry's block at the corner of Hancock and Squantum street, in the tenement occupied by William Newall. The blaze started in a closet in one of the chambers and was probably caused by matches in clothing igniting. Engineer Nyhan, who resides in the next house, placed a ladder on the building and had a stream of water on the fire from a lawn hose before the fire department arrived, and this prompt action did much to check the flames. The fire was confined to the closet and the window casing near by, and the loss will not exceed $5.

City Council Tonight.

The indications are that tonight's session of the City Council will be a short one, but you cannot tell. There are several matters before committees, among which are sewer assessments, entrance to the Metopolitan park, and the order of $1,320 for sewer maintenance, and it is possible that reports on some or all of these matters may prove it. It is also possible that the Mayor may send in his list of election officers and new business.

OUT OF THE STATE.

The Massachusetts Fifth Now at Middletown, Penn.

Left South Framingham Sunday Afternoon.

Camp Meade, Middletown, Penn.
Monday, Sept. 12, 1898.

The Fifth Massachusetts, which left Camp Dalton at South Framingham, Mass., Sunday afternoon, arrived here about noon today, after an uneventful trip, although attracting considerable attention en route. Ledgers of Saturday were here before us.

THE DEPARTURE.

Camp Dalton,
Sunday, Sept. 11, 1898.

It was a gala day at South Framingham today, if it was Sunday. The announcement in the Sunday papers that the Fifth Massachusetts regiment, U. S. V., would leave South Framingham about 11 A. M. caused early arrivals, and it is estimated that there were over 2,000 visitors on the camp grounds when the regiment marched off.

The departure was not as early as announced, but the first section pulled out of the South Framingham depot at exactly 1.45 P. M.

It was a grand day, a bit cool and bracing for those who had nothing to do, but for the boys it seemed hot, for they had lots to do, and but little time to devote to friends. There were not as many visitors from Quincy as were expected, but the uncertainty of the time of departure is probably responsible. There were several however from Quincy, and hundred have been here within a few days since it was known Co. K was going to a camp out of the state.

It needed no urging to get the officers and men up in the morning; they were astir before reveille. After breakfast rolls were packed, the men wearing their canvas suits and putting the blue ones in the roll. Early in the morning the personal luggage was taken to the depot by the Quartermasters department, and before 9 o'clock the companies fell in with rifle and roll and marched to parade. There guns were stacked.

At 9.30 the tents were struck simultaneouly, and were rolled up and later taken to the cars. All rubbish was burned.

Gov. Wolcott and staff arrived soon and at 11 o'clock reviewed the regiment which was in command of Maj. Morrison of Braintree. It was indeed a grand sight, as the Fifth is almost perfection now.

It was about 11.30 when the regiment left the field amid considerable enthusiasm. There was enthusiasm all along the route to the railroad.

Section one left at 1.45, Section two with Companies K, H and C and the regimental colors at 2.05, and the other two sections at intervals of twenty minutes. It was not all a gay scene as many women and strong men wept at the departure of "their boys," and the volunteers for their country were affected by the scene.

The boys of Company K were again remembered by two Quincy gentlemen, one of whom by his many acts of thoughtfulness has endeared himself to every man in the command. Just previous to the starting of the second section, Corporal Mathews received for distribution among the boys 126 packages of tobacco from Mr. George H. Wilson, and a box of cigars from Mr. Remick, the proprietor of The Greenleaf. The pigs feet recently received from Quincy were also handy for lunch en route.

The journey to Camp Meade will require about twenty hours.

The Fifth regretted to leave behind Lieut. Col. Weaver, and Co. K is sorry to learn of the resignation of Capt Kincaide to take effect Sept. 15. Both of these officers are entitled to great credit for the proficiency of the regiment and Co. K having been strict disciplinarians.

That the Fifth has had a wide awake progressive lieutenant colonel is shown by the bill which Lieut. Col. Weaver has drawn, amid all his other duties to increase the military establishment of the United States. It will be submitted to the next session of Congress. Many of its provisions are radically different from those existing at present, as will be seen from the following sections, which embody the principal changes proposed:

"That the army shall consist of two branches, the regular army and the volunteer army.

"That all enlistments for the volunteer army shall be for a term of two years.

"That during one calendar month in each year the regiments, batteries and troops of the regular army and the volunteer army shall be mobilized as for war, under the orders of the President of the United States, and that during the month of moblization for different sections of the United States.

"That in time of war or mobilization the troops in the service of the United States, whether belonging to the regular or volunteer army, or to the militia, shall be organized, as far as possible, into divisions of three brigades, each brigade to be composed of three or more regiments.

"That in time of war or mobilization all officers and enlisted men of the volunteer army and of the militia of the States, when in the service of the United States, shall be in all respects on the same footing as to pay and allowances as that of officers and enlisted men of corresponding grades in the regular army.

"That in times of peace the officers and enlisted men of the volunteer army shall receive ten per cent. of the pay and allowances of officers and enlisted men of the regular army.

"That officers and enlisted men of the volunteer army shall receive the same pensions as authorized by law for officers as enlisted men of the regular army of corresponding grades."

The Committee has decided that any one sending a two-cent stamp to Henry D. Dupee, Secretary, Mechanics Building, Boston, will receive by return mail a copy of this valuable little guide-book free of charge.

There are a few books left at this office of trolley trips along the north and south shore and this is just the weather to enjoy a cool trip. Books with complete maps only ten cents.

A controversy exists between eight very young men at Quincy Point and Neck, as to which is the strongest team in a tug of war, which will be decided on Thanksgiving day. Although planned far ahead this will be no candy pulling match. Charley says nothing but the mud will stop his team from winning.

The services at the Universalist church, after the month's vacation, have opened auspiciously, with good attendance and an increased interest. Yesterday morning the pastor gave a sermon on some lessons which the world teaches the church showing how in some respects the children of the world are wiser than the children of light. He enforced the duty of cooperation in church work making it apparent that the same energy and harmony of action is as necessary in matters of religion as elsewhere.

John Colligan spent Sunday in the lockup as a result of his interference with Officer Daveron. It was shortly before midnight when Officer Daveron was arresting a man for drunkenness. Colligan determined to rescue the prisoner and catching the officer by the heels tipped him over. The officer hereupon let the drunk go and collared Colligan and placed him in the lockup. This is not the first time that Colligan has figured in court circles and he had an opportunity this morning to explain his action to Judge Humphrey.

The last band concert of the season under the auspices of the Street Railway Co., was given Saturday evening by the National Guard band. The cold weather, prevented the usual large attendance. Now that the concert for the season are over the public should give a vote of thanks to the street railway for the concerts given this summer, for if it had not been for their enterprise there would have been no concerts. It is hoped before another summer that the city will at least erect a suitable public band stand, for if the street railway is willing to furnish the band the least that the city can do is to furnish a band stand.

The reason why ships are not struck by lightning is attributed to the general use which is now made of wire rope for rigging purposes, as well as the fact that the hulls of ships are usually consructed of iron or steel.

INTENSE SUFFERING

From Dyspepsia and Stomach Trouble.

A New Discovery, But Not a Patent Medicine.

Dr. Redwell relates an interesting account of what he considers a remarkable cure of acute stomach trouble and chronic dyspepsia by the use of the new discovery, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

He says: The patient was a man who had suffered to my knowledge for years with dyspepsia. Everything he ate seemed to sour and create acid and gases in the stomach; he had pains like rheumatism in the back, shoulder blades and limbs, fullness and distress after eating, poor appetite and loss of flesh; the heart became affected, causing palpitation and sleeplessness at night.

I gave him powerful nerve tonics and blood remedies, but to no purpose. As an experiment I finally bought a fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at a drug store and gave them to him. Almost immediate relief was given and after he had used four boxes he was to all appearances fully cured.

There was no more acidity or sour, watery risings, or bloating after meals, the appetite was vigorous and he has gained between 10 and 12 pounds in weight of solid, healthy flesh.

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Talbets are advertised and sold in drug stores yet I consider them a most valuable addition to any physician's line of remedies, as they are perfectly harmless and can be given to children or invalids or in any condition of the stomach with perfect safety, being harmless and containing nothing but vegetable and fruit essences, pure pepsin and Golden Seal.

Without any question they are the safest, most effective cure for indigestion, biliousness, constipation and all derangements of the stomach however slight or severe.

Stuarts' Dyspepsia Tablets are made by the Stuart Co. of Marshall, Mich., and sold by druggists everywhere at fifty cents per package.

News of Far Off Australia.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 12.—Australian papers contain columns about a stage hold-up sensation which developed into a comedy. The first report had it that a mail coach in New South Wales was held up, and that bushrangers had made a big haul of checks and postal orders. Most of the passengers in the coach lost their jewelry. Mounted police went in hot pursuit and arrested a man named James King. Then it came out that there was only one robber, who relieved the passengers while he had a dummy figure standing by a fence. Moreover, he held up the coach with a toy pistol. The police have found upon him five or six caps of the sort that children use with make-believe firearms.

In the Perth theater, Westvalia, there was a sensation during the performance of "The Middleman." Just at the beginning of the third act a man named William Purdie jumped up and shouted, "Captain Baldwin is a murderer; my name is Purdie." With that he cut his throat with a knife.

In a New South Wales lunatic asylum one of the chief witnesses in the famous Tichborne trial, Jean Luie, has just died. Luie was stoker on board the ill-fated Bella, which sailed from England with Tichborne. In his evidence at the famous trial Luie identified the claimant as one of those saved from the wreck with himself. Up to a short time before his death he stated he firmly believed that the claimant was Tichborne until the conclusion of the trial, when he and the claimant were arraigned for perjury and sentenced to 14 years' imprisonment.

An Absconding Priest.

Zacatecas, Mex., Sept. 12.—A shortage of $80,000 has been discovered in the fund belonging to the Catholic churches of this diocese. He is believed to have gone to the United States. Bishop Portillo has placed detectives on his track.

One Woolen Factory Less.

Milton, N. H., Sept. 12.—The entire plant of the Waumbeck woolen mill was completely destroyed by fire Sunday with a loss of nearly $100,000. The mill has been idle since 1890, but arrangements were recently completed for resuming work, giving employment to 300 hands. While the origin of the fire is unknown, it is supposed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion in the picker room. Agent M. F. S. Whipple stated that the company had $70,000 insurance on the property.

Wyandotte, Mich., Sept. 12.—While in a fit of drunken jealousy Sunday Ezekiel Lazette, aged 45, shot and instantly killed his wife, and then turned the revolver on himself, inflicting a wound from which he died in an hour.

FLEET OF ABOUT 300.

Saturday afternoon and Sunday was the great meet of the Yacht Racing Association of Massachusetts at Hull. Saturday afternoon and night were cold and raw with a brisk breeze blowing from the north. A number of the larger boats congregated at Hull and lay there over night, the smaller ones hanging on to home moorings. Sunday opened up with the bleak northerly wind still blowing. By noon it had entirely fagged out. At that time the big fleet of Boston boats had slowly begun to wend its way to Hull. Later in the afternoon the wind backed around to the west and blew up sharp, kicking up white caps.

At three o'clock the great fleet of nearly 300 yachts began to move, the flagships of the various clubs passing in review before President Clark of the Association. These were followed by the yachts of the Association clubs.

Among the Quincy Yacht club boats noticed were the Recruit, Electra, Gismonda, Mudjekeewis, Alice, Autocrat, Beatrice, Bynhild, Brant, Claytonia, Chatham, Dorothy, Eleanor, Enigma, Evelyn, Freyja, Galena, Gloriana, Hustler, Hester, Josephine, Kitty, Lillian, Little Peter, Moondyne, Omeme, Pauline, P. CHURCH BUILDING.

Quincy Congregationalists Contribute to the Work.

Sunday morning, Rev. George A. Hood of Boston, New England Field Secretary of the Congregational Church Building society, spoke of the work of the society in the Bethany Congregational church, and in the evening at the Atlatic Congregational church.

His text was 1 Chron. XXII:19, "Arise, therefore, and build ye the sanctuary of the Lord God." He said that ever since God built the tabernacle in the wilderness all forms of the true religion must have their churches, and, indeed, all false religions must have their temple. Congregationalists are the only ones who organized 200 churches, more or less, and build only a few more than 100 per year.

Our young men developing the new towns are equipped with docks, elevators, mills, machinery, and every improvement for doing their work six days of the week, will they go to church the first day of the week in an abandoned saloon or a dance hall, carpenter shop, or the loft of a livery stable? No, it makes them homesick; they have no respect for a church which cannot build, and they cannot afford $25 or $50 to help it build. The church, like any other line of business needs an equipment to succeed. If we can aid the young church to build, the new settlers will attend, will give 50 cents or $1 or $2 a week to make it self-supporting; and the future character of the new town can be moulded by the church. Thus the Congregational Church Building society helps the young churches of the Congregational Home Missionary society, and of the American Missionary Association among the dark races.

We aid them by three funds; the Grant fund, the Loan fund, and the Parsonage Loan fund. The money is paid back to be used over and over, the loans every five years, the grants irregularly by contributions. Every dollar is secured by first mortgage and insurance policy, therefore there is no loss. The aid pays only last bills therefore the missionary church will be out of debt. The society has always paid every dollar when due therefore donors to the annuity fund are sure of their annuity.

Why do they need help? Because a church building costs four or five times as much as the missionary's salary. Where the Home Missionary society helps pay the minister economy and success demand that the Church Building society should be able to give much larger aid on the building. Because to convert open prairies and empty woods into a town is hard for the first settlers with farms and homes mortgaged, interest and taxes high, shanties to live in, usually at first no partitions, no plaster or paint, no cellar or well; snowdrifts inside when they are outside, and food frozen solid in the morning; the people cannot build churches without aid. But they give wonderfully. A carpenter trying to get a home for wife and two children gave $175 out of $2 a day wages; a laborer earning $400 a year gave $150 and a note for $100 more. A minister: living in a dugout had saved money for a new roof, but afraid of losing the new church for lack of Church Building society aid, he gave his roof money and kept an umbrella beside the bed in case of rain.

A missionary church has its first hope of success when it gets a building, and it cannot build without aid. If not aided the churches will die, or if they live it will be only by taking continued aid from the Home Missionary society. One Home Missionary superintendent said his churches would live only two years without a building. Large numbers of churches have died from this cause, for a church without a building is like an egg without a shell, the more it is brooded the worse condition it is in. When a church dies it damages the moral future of the new town and loses the Christian workers and riches of the future.

If we aid a church to build, a revival soon follows, and many Eastern young men are saved in this way in the new town, new life, new habits. A Minnesota church took Home Missionary aid for thirteen years without a sign of success; but when the Church Building society gave it $500 to pay last bills on a $1,600 church a revival began with the dedication, and fourteen young men were converted.

Then comes self-support. One Minnesota church expected every year for five years to throw off Home Missionary aid; the sixth year it had $500 aid from the Church Building society on a $4,000 church, and has been self-supporting ever since. A good way to save home missionary money, but why couldn't the Church Building society have aided that church five years before and saved $1,500 Home Missionary money? For lack of money. In North Wisconsin seven new churches were aided to build about the same time; in four years six of them were self-supporting.

Often the Church Building society has to cut down the application of a church, forcing it to a hard struggle to pay up; then the church must have more aid from the Home Missionary society the next year because they emptied their pockets on the building, and the extra expense to the Home Missionary society proves to be more than the amount the Church Building society cut them down. The greatest trouble a home missionary has, is in the struggle to pay for a building when the Church Building society cannot aid him promptly and sufficiently. Worry, overwork, sickness follow, and often he leaves, broken-down.

Thus by prompt payment of bills, revival, and self-support, we see that every $1,000 given to the Congregational Church Building society will save $1,000, to the Congregational Home Missionary society in about three years.

At the monthly business meetings the society has to refuse from one-fourth to two-thirds of the applications; it should have nearly twice its present income in order to help the Home Missionary society do its work with economy and efficiency.

The Braintree Schools.

Schools opened Sept. 6, and the increase in numbers was fully up to the average.

In the Union school there was a slight increase and the average for each room is about fifty.

In the Jonas Perkins school there was an increase of thirty-five, six of these having moved from other towns. The total enrollment for this school is 340.

The High school opened with over 100 pupils, about the same as last year. The entering class numbered forty-seven.

In the Monatiquot grammar there are four classes in five rooms. The other three classes average about 70 pupils and these have to be divided in four rooms making an average of 55; this makes it necessaty to have parts of two classes in each room.

Miss Rogers opened the South West school with 14 pupils.

The Middle street school in charge of Miss Knight has 17 pupils.

The Kindergarten in the Lower Town Hall in charge of Miss Hill opened with 25 little ones.

The increase in the number of pupils in town in six years is 400.

The Committee met Thursday afternoon and discussed the division of classes. In several rooms there are parts of two grades but each has the same work to do so that no injury will be done the pupils other than the inconvenience.

The selection of pupils is to be determined by the alphabetical order of their names or by lot, which makes it perfectly fair.

These conditions will exist and even increase until extra class rooms are provided either by renting rooms outside and hiring new teachers; finishing more rooms in the third floor of the Monatiquot building or a new school house.

The Committee authorized the purchase of new desks where needed.

Miss Belle Newton was elected as Miss Pray's assistant at the Union, and Miss Waldron of Quincy, Miss Randall's assistant at the Jonas Perkins. These two young ladies are spending a part of their time in Miss Symond's school and the Committee receives their services for the small sum of $1.50 per week each.

Miss Grace M. Ward of Foxcroft, Me., was elected assistant in the grammar department of the Jonas Perkins school.

The American Humane Educational society was granted permission to enter the schools and organize Bands of Mercy. The membership to be perfectly voluntary on the part of the parents and pupils.

—The Popular Educator and Primary Education are at hand with the opening of the public schools, and more valuable and entertaining than ever. Teachers must find these journals a great help, while parents and the general public will find much of interest. The Educator continues the articles on "Hawaii" and "Outlines of English Literature," and has a good report of the Washington convention. Primary Education has glimpses of the school room, naturalist's study here and there, stories, entertainment, etc., and is a great number for the benefit of children.

—The starving Cubans are undoubtedly in favor of a provisional government, with the emphasis on "provision."

—That President McKinley deserves the short vacation he is taking from his heavy cares at Washington is conceeded but he cannot get far from his people for at every place where he stops thousands seek a chance to greet him. It is a spontaneous tribute to his wisdom and kindness of heart.

—The Framingham normal school has reopened with 140 pupils in the new class. Henry Whittemore, recently superintendent at Waltham is the new principal.

BELLIGERENT RIGHTS.

Leader of the Philippine Insurgents Making Trouble.

He Wants to Exercise Power In Manila.

Spanish Officials Endeavoring to Sow Seed of Dissension.

Manila, Sept. 12.—Aguinaldo clings to the impossible idea of joint occupation. The Americans are willing to continue the condition of things prior to the surrender of Manila, but the insurgents are continually encroaching and are constantly working in the trenches surrounding the city. They declare that they are merely strengthening themselves against the Spanish, but actually they are menacing the Americans.

The Spanish have been endeavoring to provoke a conflict, telling the Filipinos that the Americans intend to return the islands to Spain. A great many Filipinos believe the story and think that in that case the Americans would re-establish the Spanish power. There has been considerable petty deviltry, such as robberies, assaults, kidnapping, etc. the tendency of which is to create friction. The perpetrators usually wear the insurgent uniform. Information is reaching the American authorities that the Spanish are inciting much of the disorder in the hope of producing trouble between the Americans and the insurgents. High Spanish officials are accused of being concerned in this scheme.

The Filipinos practically demand recognition of their belligerency as a condition precedent to their withdrawal from the territory and ignore the impossibility of the Americans granting such a demand. A councillor who is close to Aguinaldo declares that the insurgents would insist upon receiving an assurance of recognition even at the cost of a conflict with the Americans. The uselessness of such a course being explained to him, he replied: "We can only die."

Aguinaldo himself said: "When the rebellion started, independence was the sole idea of the Filipinos. Since the Americans have been forced to interfere, the Filipinos hope to gain some reward from the Americans for their work and sacrifices of blood, life and treasure. They live for recognition of their liberty."

This is the first public admission from Aguinaldo that the Filipinos would be satisfied with anything less than absolute independence. He has transferred his headquarters to Malolos, 30 miles north of Manila. It was a good strategical move. Malolos is difficult to attack, and Admiral Dewey's guns will not reach there.

A gentleman connected with an expedition under instructions to study the situation and conditions here and report concerning the advisability of the Americans retaining the islands, has formed these conclusions from personal investigation and conversation with leading Filipinos, both of the insurgents and those not allied with them; Spanish officials, army, naval and civil; Spanish business men, Spanish prisoners and foreigners of all nationalities interested here. "The enormous wealth and undeveloped resources of the islands," he said "is undisputed. Then, first, the people are docile and easily managed and would readily submit to any government that would control them firmly and protect and direct them without the oppression and injustice they suffered under the Spanish. They are absolutely unfitted for citizenship, as the term is understood in America. The Filipinos would be unable to maintain an independent government, even in the island of Luzon, if they could establish it. The Spanish would be utterly unable at any time in the near future to discharge the duty of government toward life and property in the island of Luzon. The form of government in the American territories prior to their admission to statehood would be impracticable here."

Prodding Neglectful Surgeons.

Middletown, Pa., Sept. 12.—General Graham has issued an order that company commanders who neglect to furnishe a descriptive list of patients sent from their commands to the division hospitals will be placed under arrest for neglect of duty. Major Parke has been relieved of duty as chief surgeon of the second division hospital and placed under arrest for neglect to furnish a descriptive list of patients forwarded to Philadelphia hospitals. General Graham is very anxious about the welfare of the patients which have been sent from time to time from Camp Meade to Philadelphia, and has ordered Major Payton to look after these invalids and issue furloughs to them as soon as they are able to leave the hospitals and travel alone.

Embarkation of Spaniards.

Santiago, Sept. 12.—Colonel Ray, who returned from Guantanamo Saturday, reports the embarkation of all the Spaniards, save about 80 under General Pareja.

The condition of the Spanish was most distressing. The death rate was over 80 per day, and Colonel Ray believes that more than half will die on the passage. Seventy died on the wharf the day the San Ignacio was loaded, and there is yellow fever among those who remain behind. Colonel Ray had two mules killed for fresh meat supplies to the Spaniards. No fresh beef was to be had, and the Spaniards were glad to get the mule meat. Indeed, there had been no meat of any kind in Guantanamo for three weeks.

The first battalion of Colonel Ray's regiment has contracted yellow fever from a Spaniard. Sixty cases have broken out.

Miles Directing Affairs.

Montauk, Sept. 12.—The general belief in Camp Wikoff is that great changes will be seen here before the present week is over. Reports are circulating freely that General Miles had assumed the active direction of the affairs of the camp and that he intends to have all regular troops removed from here as soon as possible and sent to every day than they can in living in barracks and be more comfortable in every way than they can in living it tents on the eastern end of Long Island, for when the weather becomes more cold than it is now the troops will undoubtedly suffer here. The Saratoga arrived from Santiago Sunday morning with about 60 members of the signal corps in command of Lieutenant Colonel Frank Green. Half of them were volunteers from Maine and the others were regulars. The Saratoga also brought 250 negro laborers who were sent to Santiago to act as teamsters, drivers, stevedores, etc. Two of the negroes died of malarial fever on the voyage. Twelve men were sick when the steamer reached here and were taken to the detention hospital. None of the cases is considered serious. The members of the signal corps were taken to the detention camp, but the negroes were not allowed to land. The Saratoga will be fumigated, and will then go to New York, where the negroes will land.

Colonel Roosevelt expects to have his regiment of rough riders mustered out on Thursday, and the men will then leave camp and go to their homes. The officers and men of the regiment are preparing to present Roosevelt with a testimonial of their regard in the form of a bronze statue designed by Frederick Remington, the artist. It is called the "Broncho Buster" and represents a cowboy on the back of a busking mustang. The testimonial will cost $250.

Wanted to Blow Up Ships.

Madrid, Sept. 12.—In the chamber of deputies Saturday Captain Aunon, minister of marine, replying to the attacks of the editor of The Herald, reminded the deputies that when he became minister of marine the Spanish squadron under Admiral Cervera was already at Santiago. Therefore, he declared, he could not be held responsible for the acts charged by Canalejas. Moreover, he asserted that the admirals met in council and expressed a unanimous opinion that the squadron should go to Cuba. "Admiral Cervera, not having coal or food, was unable," said Captain Aunon, "to leave the blockaded port of Santiago. He wanted to blow up his ships in the harbor, but I informed him that it would be preferable to leave the port and engage the enemy. General Blanco ordered Admiral Cervera to leave Santiago and fixed the day of his departure."

Act of Vandalism.

Chickamauga Park, Ga., Sept. 12.—men left in the park enjoyed a bonfire Saturday night at the expense of the government, setting fire to Camp Thomas' theater, a building that had been authorized by General Brooke, in which theatrical entertainments were given to the men of the volunteer army. The building was a large one and contained many thousand feet of lumber.

General Breckenridge has ordered an investigation as to who are the guilty parties, and proposes severe punishment if he can identify the incendiaries. This is the only act of vandalism of which the soldiers have been guilty at this camp.

Winter Hospitals to Be Built.

Detroit, Sept. 12.—"The day before I left Washington," said General Alger, "I called Surgeon General Sternberg in my office and told him I wanted him to build winter hospitals for 6000 men. We will have enough hospitals if we have to raise the 6000 to 60,000. They will be located at points where they can be reached by transport, although just where is not yet determined. One of the hospitals, however, will be at Havana. It will be built just as soon as our troops are sent to the island. I don't know what they have in the city in the shape of hospitals now, but I very much doubt if we would want to take any of their infected buildings for hospitals for our soldiers."

Return of Refugees.

San Juan, Sept. 12.—The Alfonso XIII arrived Sunday morning from Barcelona, bringing instructions for the Spanish commissioners, with mail and passengers. Many of the latter are residents of the island who fled at the outbreak of the war, and the quays were lined with friends waiting to welcome their return. The Alfonso XIII steamed into the harbor amid the booming of the forts and the shore batteries. In the afternoon she proceeded for Havana.

Grand Review of Troops.

New York, Sept. 12.—Deputy Quartermaster Kimball received an order from General Miles Sunday setting forth that a parade of the returning Porto Rico troops will take place in this city on Saturday next, and instructing him to prepare a suitable camp for the men who are on their way from Ponce in the government transports. Although none of the arrangements has been decided upon, it is more than probable that the event will be made the occasion of a grand review of all the troops that are able to take part, whether they have taken part in the Porto Rican campaign or not.

"It Will Be a Shame."

Asbury Park, Sept. 12.—James J. Corbett hardly believes that there will be any interference with the fight with McCoy. "I cannot understand why there should be any opposition," said the ex-champion. "The bout will be fought under the provisions of the law, and will be for 20 rounds only. I have gone to considerable expense in preparing for the battle, and it will be a shame if the authorities interfere. My training and incidental expenses will amount to more than the forfeit I will receive if the fight does not take place."

A FIRE RAVISHED CITY.

Conflagration's Sweeping Work In British Columbia.

Suffering and Despair of Hundreds of People.

Only Two Industries Escaped Onslaught of the Devouring Flames.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 12.—New Westminster, the chief city on the Frazer river, presents a fearful scene of desolation today, fire having wiped out the whole of the business portion. There is not a public building standing in the central portion of the city.

Fanned by a fierce wind, almost a gale, the fire, which was started on the water side by sparks from a passing steamer, spread with such rapidity that 10 streets were blazing in three hours, and only smoking ashes mark the spot where scores of houses formerly stood. Handsome blocks, banks and churches went up in smoke. The cathedral of the diocese is no more.

Hundreds of people are helpless, and relief is being rushed from this city. The newspaper offices are gone, as well as the Canadian Pacific railroad station, three river steamers, a railway bridge and a number of private houses. It is also feared that some lives have been lost. The burned city is 12 miles from here.

Returning to Vancouver from the fire-ravished city is like coming from a land of desolation and ruin to another of smiling plenty. In New Westminster not a business house stands. Despair and suffering are the lot of hundreds of poor, homeless folk. Food, clothing and aid of all kinds are being dispatched from Vancouver to the ill-fated city.

At the time of writing, it is not known how many people lost their lives, but it is feared several must have been burned to death. It is said that John Campbell, a fireman, fell off a roof of a burning building and was killed, while a woman dropped dead from fright. Two other women who were ill died while being taken from their homes. Three river steamers, the Edgar, Gladys and Non Accord, were destroyed.

New Westminster today is without a store of any kind, without newspapers and without food, save that which is being hurried over from here. It is impossible just now to estimate the amount of damage, but it ranges up in the hundreds of thousands. Every industry save the big Royal City planing mills and Clove Canning company has been wiped out.

VAPOR IGNITED.

Explosion Wrecked Buildings and Caused the Loss of Life.

Philadelphia, Sept. 12.—Several lives were lost Sunday night by the explosion of gasoline vapor in the cellar of a grocery kept by Samuel Schattenstein. The exact number will not be known until the ruins are searched and a careful census is made of those who occupied the thickly populated structures. Four bodies were found before work for the night was suspended.

Estimates of thenumber of missing vary from 18 to six. The accepted theory of the accident is that Schattenstein went into the cellar with a lamp, which ignited the fumes of the gasoline. From the position of his body and that of his son on the front steps, it is thought they were emerging from the house when caught by the falling walls. The collapse of the buildings occurred within two minutes of the explosion, and the occupants had little time or no chance to escape. Mrs. Goldberg snatched up her 10-months-old child and rushed for an exit, but the child was so badly injured that it died while being borne to a hospital. Strangely enough the mother escaped with only trifling injuries.

At 6:45 o'clock a sergeant of police was talking with one of his men on the opposite side of the street, when, without a moment's warning, there was a terrific explosion, which was followed by a crash. Mingled with this were cries of human beings. Without loss of time, one of the policemen struck the alarm box nearby, while another rang for ambulances. The engines and six of the hospital wagons were there within 20 minutes, and a large force of policemen also appeared on the scene. The work of rescue was begun forthwith.

All of the dead and injured were in the buildings at the time of the disaster, and as the walls collapsed almost in a perpendicular direction no passersby were injured by flying debris. The force of the explosion was so great, however, that all of the windows in the houses across the street were broken by the concussion.

Only a Church Left.

Prescott, Ariz., Sept. 12.—The town of Jerome, near here, was completely wiped out by fire Sunday morning, entailing a loss of over $1,000,000 in property. Eleven bodies have so far been recovered, while a score or more are said to be in the ruins or missing.

The fire originated in a cabin and ran rapidly. It was confined exclusively to the business portion of the town, and the open space intervening between it and the mammoth works of the United Verde company saved the latter's plant, otherwise the loss and suffering would have been terrible.

Over 150 residences, averaging in value $2000; 25 general merchandise and other stores, saloons, etc., of all kinds, were wiped out; in short, not a single business house remains. The only building to escape was the Methodist church. The number of people who are homeless is placed at 1500.

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

MORE WAR POSSIBLE.

General Wheeler Dubious About the Prospect For Peace.

President Said to Be of the Same Mind.

Disposal of the Philippine Islands May Be a Stumbling Block.

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 13.—The Advertiser prints the following as a portion of an interview with General Wheeler, and states that the general was in the presence of three gentlemen when talking to a reporter:

"I do not believe the war is over by any means; neither does President McKinley, who told me personally he had no faith that the peace commission would settle the differences existing with Spain over the Philippines. The Spanish claim that the battles at Manila were fought after the protocol was signed, and on these grounds will refuse to give up the islands."

Continuing, General Wheeler said: "Spain will want us to give up the Philippines, and," laying emphasis here, "we will never do that. I am going back to duty, and really expect to be called into action again."

Scene of Tumult.

Madrid, Sept. 13.—The session of the senate yesterday was stormy. Count D'Almenas, challenged to give the names of the generals who, he recently said, ought to be disgraced, replied: "Very well; as you wish it, I will. The generals to whom I referred are General Weyler, General Blanco and General Primo de Rivera. I will also include in the same category Admiral Cervera." This announcement led to an extraordinary scene of tumult.

Polavieja's Manifesto.

Madrid, Sept. 13.—General Polavieja, former governor general of Cuba and the Philippines, in the manifesto declaring his readiness to place himself at the head of a neutral party in Spanish politics, denounces the "evils existing in the present political system" and declares that "every department needs cleansing." His program begins with a "drastic purging of the administration," and advocates "reform in taxation" and "purification of electoral system."

After pledging his "unwavering loyalty to the throne," General Polavieja says: "Spain must shape her future career in accordance with her reduced sphere of sovereignty, without losing her aspirations for the future. Above all things, full light is required. The Spanish people must no longer be deluded by misrepresentation as to the country's strength." In conclusion, he repudiates the charge that he is aiming at dictatorship, and appeals to all Spaniards not to be "silent spectators of the ruin of our country," but to "concentrate forces and place me in power."

Never Retired Under Fire.

Detroit, Sept. 13.—The handsome new Detroit opera house contained its first audience last night. Among those present were Secretary Alger and Brigadier General Duffield. When Mr. Alger, with Mrs. Alger and his son, entered his box there was a storm of applause. After the first act, the general, responding to repeated calls, thanked his friends for their hearty welcome and said that while he would rather have avoided speech-making he had never retire under fire. The audience continued cheering, and Mr. Alger, pointing across the theatre, said: "There's a hero of Santiago over in that box." Calls for Duffield brought the general to his feet with a modest speech.

From Suffering to Comfort.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The war department deems it proper to make public a letter received by Surgeon General Sternberg from Major General Coppinger, dated Camp Wheeler, Huntsville, Ala., Sept. 9. General Coppinger says: "We are encamped in an attractive open valley, the fresh, cool, invigorating air of Huntsville's hills winning our poor, enfeebled men back to life and strength after the poisonous, fever-laden swamps of Tampa. Our corps and brigade hospitals are well supplied, surgeons and attendants doing fine work. Their work has been long and arduous. Our condition, struggling at Tampa with typhoid and malarial fever, was sad. I cannot too strongly express my gratitude to you for the extraordinary success with which you supplied the corps with doctors, immunes, nurses and medical stores, the more extraordinary when you reflect how confusing and unlooked for orders fired our men with little time for preparation into unlooked-for places. You humanely responded to every appeal. On behalf of my stricken men, I wish earnestly to thank you."

Relief on the Way to Boston.

Camp Wikoff, L.I., Sept. 13.—The army hospital boat, Relief, during the day took aboard about 250 sick men, and left last night for Boston. Great activity is being displayed here by the medical department to free hospitals of all patients who can possibly be removed. With the departure of the Relief there are about 500 men in the general hospital and two or three hundred more in division and regimental hospitals. The detention hospital has been abandoned.

To Be Large and Well Equipped.

Washington, Sept. 13.—Interesting details of the plans of the war department for the establishment of two large and well equipped winter hospitals for the troops were furnished by Surgeon General Sternberg yesterday. He said the medical department for sometime had been at work erecting such a hospital on the government reservation at Fort Monroe. There is already at the fort a tent hospital in excellent shape, capable of accommodating 500 patients. The new hospital is intended for the reception of sick soldiers returning from Porto Rico.

Looking ahead to the possibility of an extended occupancy of Cuban ports by the army, with the resulting requirements upon the medical department for the care of the sick, Dr. Sternberg is planning for another hospital on even a larger scale at some of the southern ports below Fortress Monroe and more accessible from Cuba. The impression prevails that the hospital will be located either in Charleston or Savannah.

Just as Alger Directed.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The plan of having a parade in New York of the troops returning from Porto Rico and those at Montauk Point has been definitely abandoned. This is the result of conferences on the subject between the president and General Miles, and of consultations with army officers at New York and Camp Wikoff.

Secretary Issued the Orders.

Detroit, Sept. 13.—Concerning reports from Camp Wikoff that the camp is preparing to break up under peremptory new orders from General Miles, Secretary Alger said: "There is nothing new in that. Camp Wikoff from the first was merely intended as a detention camp. The purpose from the first has been to get the soldiers away from there as soon as posible. No change in purpose is indicated by these dispatches from my own orders given before I left Washington."

MAJORITY LESSENED.

Comparison With 1894 Shows a Republican Loss In Maine.

Portland, Me., Sept. 13.—The biennial state election for the choice of governor, congressmen, state legislators and county officers resulted Monday, as was anticipated, in a Republican victory, but when compared with 1894 the usual majority polled by the candidates of that party was greatly reduced.

Returns at midnight from 191 towns out of 430 gave Powers (Rep.), 33,395; Lord (Dem.), 19,237. The same towns in 1894 gave Cleaves (Rep.), 42,187; Johnson (Dem.), 19,852. These figures indicate Governor Powers' plurality about 26,000; a Republican loss of 21 percent, and a Democratic loss of only 6 percent.

The lower branch of the legislature will probably stand 133 Republicans to 18 Democrats, a gain of 12 for the latter. The senate, however, will remain unchanged, being as in former years solidly Republican.

All four Republican congressmen were elected, but Speaker Reed's majority was reduced.

Chairman Manley sent a dispatch to Senator Hanna, in which he said: "The Republicans of Maine have again proven their allegiance to the party, and have loyally endorsed the national and state administrations. They send words of hearty congratulation to the president of the United States and to the heroes of the army and navy, who, on land and on sea, have so magnificently upheld the nation's honor. For the first time in the history of the Republican party, the campaign has been conducted without the distribution of any political literature and without a single speech being made, save those made by the Democratic candidates for governor and for congress in the first district. While the total vote is light, slightly exceeding 80,000, we have elected our governor by the largest majority ever given for the past 25 years, with the exceptions of 1894 and 1896. Indications point to exceeding 25,000 majority. We have carried every county, elected every state senator, and will have at least 130 out of 151 members of the house of representatives."

Covered by Insurance.

Salisbury, N. H., Sept. 13.—Hotel Chapman, patronized largely by summer guests, and the store of J. W. Little were burned to the ground yesterday afternoon. The fire was discovered on the third floor of the hotel, having evidently been caused by a defective chimney. The building burned rapidly, and the fire soon communicated with the store of Little, in which the postoffice was located. All the mail matter and most of the goods in the store were saved, and about two-third of the furniture of the hotel. The hotel was erected at a cost of $7200, and it is understood that all the losses are covered by insurance

WEATHER FAVORABLE.

Harvesting Promoted by Last Week's Conditions, but Rain Needed.

Boston, Sept. 13.—As a whole, the weather has been favorable to the maturing of crops, to harvesting and to fall work. There still is need of rain in parts of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. In the first named state the ground in some localities is too dry for plowing.

The rainfall for last week averages light. In a few instances, however, large amounts fell during local storms, washing fields and roads and damaging crops.

Seeding in many instances is completed, and is nearing the end for the entire district. It has been favored by good weather. Corn is being secured; with few exceptions the crop is the largest of recent years. Many silos have been filled with good crops; this work will soon be finished. Buckwheat is mostly harvested; the crop is considered excellent.

Grass continues in excellent condition in most sections. Pastures and meadows are green. Considerable hay (second crop) was secured during the week. In some sections the barns are full to overflowing, and many acres of grass will not be cut.

Apples are coloring rapidly, earlier than usual in places. Wind has caused dropping. Fall berries are in sufficient supply. Cranberry picking has begun, though little has yet been done; all report a light crop of good fruit. Pears and plums are in fair supply. Grapes are ripening.

Tomatoes have ripened rapidly in most sections, and the supply is abundant. Potato digging is in progress throughout the district; the crop is uneven, though the yield, it is believed, will fully equal the average. While the complaint of rot is widespread, great loss will result in but few sections. The warm, moist weather has not favored cabbage, lima beans and cauliflower.

Tobacco is about secured, and is curing well, although the warm days were not favorable. The crop exceeds the average in quantity, and is of good quality.

Housed In Tents.

Vancouver, Sept. 13.—In New Westminster, on a wide open space just beyond where the great fire of Sunday stopped, a city of tents has arisen. Here the provincial government and Vancouver authorities have housed in tents lent by the military department all homeless sufferers. Blankets by hundreds formed beds, and the burned out families seem to be as comfortable as possible under the circumstances.

A number of robberies took place during the fire. Johnson's boot store was entered and $6000 worth of goods stolen. The chief of police believes that the fire was started by a spark from a steamer which ignited material on a wharf.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A and B. The instalment today is the second of the C's and includes the letter to "Ch" inclusive, and will be continued tomorrow:

It would seem as if the City Council committee had reported a very equitable and satisfactory method of sewer assessments, if it is possible to devise one which shall be satisfactory. In view of the fact that the sewer bonds run for forty years and only one-fortieth can be paid off in one year, the committee was wise in deciding that abutters shall pay only one-half. If they pay one-half in ten years, they will pay to the city considerable more than it needs to pay the fourth of the debt maturing.

The plan of assessing upon the abutters the larger portion per area seems the most equitable, as many with small lots have a big frontage, while some with a large area have a very small frontage. It is proposed to assess eight-tenths upon area, and two-tenths upon frontage.

The assessments promise to be lighter than many expected. It is estimated that the cost of the sewers including the proportional part of the pumping station, force mains, etc., will be $11,000, of which the abutters must pay $5,500. As there are abutters on both sides of the street, $2,750 is all that is necessary to raise per mile on one side of the street. Eight-tenths on area will mean $2,200, and two-tenths of frontage $550. This will mean about eleven cents per foot frontage, and one-half of a cent per area within 100 feet of the street, corner lots to be assessed but once for area but for all the frontage.

These figures are computed by the Ledger, and are only approximate. The assessment upon a fifty-foot lot, which is 100 feet or more deep will be, by these figures, only $30.50 or a little over sixty cents per front foot. They may possibly be seventy cents per foot.

The political caldron is beginning to boil at Wollaston thus early in the season. This is not surprising in view of the fact that it is tacitly understood in Republican circles that one of the party plums is to go to the fifth ward this year. This is probable because of the retirement of Representative Thompson and Newcomb, who have so ably represented this district in the Legislature. It makes an opportunity for two new men to be nominated. Wollaston which is now one of the most populous wards in the city, and at the same time has held second rank in valuation for a number of years, has had the honor in Republican circles to have it conceded that this year one of the Republican nominees for the Great and General Court should come from that place. It seems no more than fair as Wollaston is the Republican stronghold of the city. To be sure she has been strongly criticised for the past two years because of her attitude towards the party's mayoralty candidates. But there is reason to believe that there will be no friction in the future and especially if this plum drops into her lap.

At least three Wollaston Republicans are named for Representatives, all ex-Councilmen, viz: Eugene H. Sprague, Herbert T. Whitman and N. G. Nickerson. Any one would ably represent the district.

The new High school at East Weymouth has a very large attendance. Efforts are now in progress to secure subscriptions for gymnastic apparatus and works of art for the adornment of the blank walls.

The attendance of the Union church at Pythian hall is increasing so that the need of the new church is a question of comfort and progress.

The 175th anniversary of the Old South church of Weymouth is to be held from September 25-28. Prof. C. S. Beardslee of Hartford seminary is to speak on the evening of the 25th to the Endeavor Union. The Norfolk Conference of churches is also united with this anniversary. Several addresses will be given by the pastors. On Wednesday evening, the 28th, Rev. G. F. Stanton, a former pastor will give some reminiscences of his labors there.

Prof. Giroux of the French American college at Springfield addressed the South Weymouth churches last Sabbath. This college is worthy of our support. It is for our foreign poor.

Bicyclist Hurt.

William Jacobs, a summer resident of Houghs Neck, met with quite a serious accident at Atlantic Monday night, shortly before 7 o'clock. He was riding on his wheel toward Quincy and was on the right hand side of the road. Driving in the opposite direction was an Italian fruit peddler named Pasequali Gravallezi. Gravallezi was on the wrong side of the road and instead of turning out for Jacobs he ran into him. The shaft of Gravallezi wagon struck Jacobs in the left breast just below the heart and carried him some thirty feet inflicting serious injuries. Officer McCarthy placed Gravallezi under arrest for violation of the road law. Later when it was learned that Jacobs was seriously injured the complaint was changed to assault.

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

Q. H. S. CLASS OF '02.

The Class That "Ought to" Make a Grand Record.

A few facts relative to the entering class at the Quincy High school will be of interest.

The number graduated from the grammar schools of the city in June last was 320, and the new classes at the High number 200, or 63 per cent. The largest percentage of its graduates was sent by the Gridley Bryant school, with the Adams second, as the following summary shows:

	Grammar Graduates.	Now at High.	Per Cent.

The classical and general course includes 46 boys and 61 girls, a total of 107, while the business course has nearly as many, a total of 93, made up of 64 boys and 29 girls. The two courses taken together, there are 110 boys and 90 girls in the Class of 1902. The apportionment of the boys and girls from each school in the different courses is shown by another summary:

Boy Missing.

James Caswell the 13 year old son of James Caswell of Braintree has been missing since Aug. 30. On that day he was sent to the store for some groceries and that is the last seen of him. Some of his acquaintances say they saw him at the beach that day and a carriage driver says he saw him take a train for Boston. This is not the first time the boy has made himself scarce for last spring when his parents lived in Somerville he ran away and was later found in Boston. He is nearly 5 feet 5 inches tall and walks with a little stoop. He is light complected, blue eyes and perfect teeth.

When last seen he wore a brown cap blue sweater with white stripes on the collar, knee pants black stockings, and lace shoes.

—There is no covering like manliness; it is the robe that is left when a true man is stripped to the bone.

—Sheep are sheared, rabibts ar popped over—but we stand aside and let the lion pass unmolested.

FRUIT AND FLOWERS

THE ART OF BUDDING.

How to Do It Easily and Well on Peach, Plum and Cherry Trees.

The popular method of propagating the peach, plum and cherry is by budding, which is now in season. The first thing to do is to cut your buds, which should be taken from a vigorous shoot of this season's growth. Make a drawing cut, beginning half an inch below the bud, going just deep enough to keep below the bark, and cut off a thin slice of wood beneath the bud. Make a cut across a quarter of an inch above the bud, thus severing it from the shoot. It is now ready for insertion into the stock. The stock should not be over three-quarters of an inch in diameter.

To prepare the stock for the bud make a T shaped incision just through the bark, as shown on the left of drawing. A skillful budder will lift the edges of the bark of the perpendicular cut with the knife as he makes the cross cut and insert the bud at once. Some persons use the thumb nail for this purpose and others a quill shaped like a blunt toothpick. If the point of the bud is once entered and the bark is in the right condition, it can easily be pushed down to the position shown in the center of the illustration. The budded stock must now be tied as shown on the right, with basswood string or candle wick, tight enough to hold the bud firmly to the stock.

As soon as the bud takes, which will be in 10 or 14 days, the bandage should be removed. The bud lies dormant until spring, when the stock should be cut back to within two inches of the bud, and when the shoot from the bud is a few inches high this stump may be cut down close to the shoot. The operation is quite simple and may be easily performed by observing the foregoing plain directions, given by The Farm Journal.

Pear Leaf Blister.

Concerning the pear leaf blister, of which considerable is heard this season, it has been stated in Rural New Yorker that the only practicable method of combating the mite which causes it, while the insect is still in its galls or blisters on the leaves, is to gather and burn the infested leaves. Where but a few leaves on a tree are badly infested this is the simplest and cheapest method to employ against the pest. As most of the mites winter in the buds at or near the tips of the branches the burning of the prunings would destroy many of them. Experiments further demonstrate that the pear blister mite can be nearly exterminated in a badly infested orchard by a single spraying of the trees in winter with kerosene emulsion diluted with from five to seven parts of water. It is probable that whale oil soap, one pound to four or five gallons of water, would be equally as effective as the emulsion.

Timely Care For Chrysanthemums.

One of the most important things in caring for chrysanthemums at this season is to keep them free of black aphis and green fly. A writer in Gardening says: We have to resort to spraying with tobacco extract, which we find when used with a little judgment and more as a preventive than as a cure to do the work well. We use about a wineglassful of the extract in an ordinary bucketful of warm water, allowing it to stand for a few hours before applying with a sprayer late in the afternoon after the sun has left the glass.

Specimen plants should be given every encouragement to keep them growing healthfully. Ample syringing two or three times a day is what they delight in, and see that they never want for water. It is time to stop pinching back specimens of the late varieties or they will not be ready for showtime.

Superior Plums.

It is a fact which presses upon me, after having planted most of the new varieties of plums, that among all of them there is none that surpasses a few of the very old sorts. Take a list of the old English plums, including Green Gage, Bavay's Green Gage, Coe's Golden Drop, Magnum Bonum and Pond's Seedling, and it would be difficult to name another list to surpass it. Of the newer plums I like exceedingly well Grand Duke, Victoria and some of the prunes. I do not find anything among the natives to displace these in my grounds, says E. P. Powell in Farm and Fireside.

A Peculiarity of the Peach.

The Denver Field and Farm points out a peculiarity in the ripening of peaches: Early peaches ripen from the pit toward the surface, while the late varieties ripen from the surface toward the center; this mark of distinction being sufficient to make the difference between the shipping and keeping qualities of early and late peaches. Softening or ripening near the pit first makes the early peach a poor carrier and a poor keeper, and this is one reason why they fall down so quickly after reaching market.

A Hard Worker.

Mrs. Harriet B. Kells of Roswell, N. M., is a woman with a genius for hard work and a desire to help "make the world better." For many years she was principal of a young woman's college at Fairmount, near Nashville. It was a high grade institution, where were educated the presidents of the boards of lady managers of the recent expositions at both Atlanta and Nashville, Mrs. Emma M. Thompson and Mrs. Van Leer Kirkman. Her health failing, Mrs. Kells went to the gulf coast. There she founded and organized the school of the diocese of Mississippi, a high grade school for young women, of which she was two years principal. Later she occupied the chair of physiology and zoology in the Mississippi State College For Girls, a school numbering 400 students. Becoming tired of teaching, Mrs. Kells went into editorial work. After editing a paper of her own for three years she was called to Chicago as coeditor with Miss Frances Willard on The Union Signal, where she remained several years. Her health failing again, she removed, in 1895, to New Mexico. She purchased a fruit farm near Roswell and experienced ranch life until she took charge of the public schools of that city. She founded a woman's club there, which has grown and flourished and is now supporting a free reading room. Mrs. Kells is still a member of the Illinois Woman's Press association, of which she was a vice president in Chicago.—Exchange.

Miss Leiter's Paper Crown.

That is a very interesting story which relates how Mrs. Curzon, when little Miss Leiter, was seen strutting up and down a room wearing a paper crown while she remarked, "I will be a queen some day." The lady who tells the story, says the Chicago Post, adds significantly that "many a truth is spoken in jest." All of which is undeniably true, but at the same time we have no special reason to believe that the prediction has been verified or is likely to be verified or that little Miss Mary prophetically gave utterance to a sparkling truth. We suppose there has never been a little girl in this delightful city of Chicago who has not at one time or another adorned herself with a paper crown and announced that she was going to be a queen. Little girls have a weakness for this sort of thing, and yet we have no recollection that any young woman of our town has ever ascended a throne save for temporary and unimportant purposes. Somebody has said that all American women are queens. Of course not even the women themselves believe such wild hyperbole but it is a gallant remark, and if it makes them feel good for the time being there is no objection to the phrase. Let the little girls play with their paper crowns and utter their mock solemn predictions, for we are making history nowadays, and Cuba or Hawaii or the Philippines may yet ask for a queen.

Some Queer Finger Rings.

Rings have been made for almost all purposes. Thus we find cramp rings, said not only to cure cramp, but to prevent its return; amulet rings, infallible protectors against the "evil eye;" astronomical, dial and zodiacal rings; garter rings and puzzle rings; rings for novitiates taking the veil—these are usually of gold set with a sapphire; rings for diplomats, signalizing the official standing of the wearer; rings for poets, pilgrims, lawyers and clerics; squirt and poison rings, made so that they could contain vegetable poisons of the most deadly kind, which could be injected by slightly scratching the skin of the person whose hand the wearer grasped; whistle and key rings, both useful; motto rings, by means of which lovers gave vent to their passions, and love knot rings and gemel rings, the last made of two or three links intertwined, which could be joined together in such a manner as to form one ring. —Frank H. Vizetelly in Woman's Home Companion.

How It Happened.

The Kansas City Star says there is a story to the effect that Mrs. William C. Jennings, president of the Utah Federation of Clubs, organized an art club in Boston a few years ago while sojourning temporarily in that cultured city. Mrs. Jennings is a Boston woman who finished her education abroad, and when she went to Utah eight years ago she was already an accepted authority on art. Her call to organize a Boston art club was, after all, nothing remarkable.

To Cook by the Sun.

An inventor in India has devised an apparatus whereby the sun may be made to do the cooking. It consists of a wooden box lined with reflecting mirrors, at the bottom of the box being a small copper boiler, and is covered with glass to retain the heat centered by the mirrors upon the boiler. In this apparatus food may be quickly baked, stewed or boiled, the result depending upon whether the steam is retained or allowed to escape.

Women In Chicago Postoffice.

Postmaster Gorcon of Chicago has appointed 62 women for service in the city postoffice. He selected them from the list of women who had passed the civil service examination for clerkships and placed them on the list of substitutes for assignment hereafter as the exigencies of the postoffice demand. The Chicago postoffice now has in its employ 118 women clerks. Four of the new clerks are colored women.

In the olden days men were physically, at least, worthy of the admiration of women. It is a great big something for a woman to feel that her husband is truly a capable and intrepid protector. It is a comfort for her to feel that he has the physical stamina and courage to defend her through all the vicissitudes of life.

Nowadays there is not much to admire about the average man from a physical standpoint. He may be a moral and a mental giant, but the flesh of ill-health is weak, and he is probably a physical coward. It is not in nature for a sickly man to be a brave man. His spirit may be willing but his body is weak. That is the man's own fault. Any man can be healthy who will pay a little common sense attention to his health when he has it, and when he gets a little out of sorts, take the right remedy. Many of the diseases that afflict mankind are traceable directly to indigestion, torpidity of the liver and impurities in the blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the greatest medicine for disorders of this nature. It strengthens a weak stomach, corrects all disorders of the digestion, gives edge to the appetite, invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood and tones up and invigorates the nerves. It searches out disease germs, kills them and carries them out of the system. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and nerve-tonic and restorative. It makes strong, healthy men out of weak, sickly invalids. Medicine dealers sell it and no honest dealer will urge a substitute upon you.

"I have been taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pellets' and must say that they have worked wonders in my case," writes Mr. L. L. Pack, (Box 175), of Hinton, Summers Co., W. Va. "I feel like a new person, in fact I think I am well, but will take one more bottle to make sure the cure is permanent. I cannot speak too highly of the 'Discovery.' I can eat anything now without misery in my stomach. I have gained some eight or ten pounds, weighing as heavy as I did three years ago.

"The medicine certainly worked like a charm on me, but when I first began to take it I felt a little worse for a few days; had pains through my body and bones, but all this left me after taking the medicines four or five days."

Jerome's Destructive Blaze.

Prescott, Ariz., Sept. 13.—The fire in Jerome was one of the greatest calamities in the loss of life and destruction of property that ever occurred in Arizona. Among those who lost their lives are the following: Mexican woman and her two children; Wilford, an undertaker; a drygoods clerk, name unknown; two laborers, names unknown. The number of missing is placed at 15.

Many people familiar with Jerome place the property loss at figures ranging from half to three quarters of a million dollars. There was but little insurance, the aggregate being less than $50,000. The loss is complete, it being stated that not even the commonest articles of use were saved. Much merchandise and other valuable goods were removed to places on the hillside, but the heat became so intense that nearly everything was destroyed in the end.

Showed Evidence of Grief.

Vienna, Sept. 13.—The emperor of Austria and his daughter attended mass yesterday in the private chapel of the Schoenbrunne palace. His majesty showed evidences of intense grief, but he said he did not lose faith in God, and expressed a wish for confession and communion.

During the day the emperor read with much emotion a passage in the last letter he received from the empress, in which she expressed herself as being pleased at the prospect of returning to Vienna in a few days, in order to witness the jubilee festivities. He discharged state duties with the usual earnestness, and insisted upon replying personally to the numberless messages of sympathy he has received since the assassination.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 13.—The captain of a Warren line steamer reports that about 16 hours after leaving Liverpool Edward Burton, one of the sailors, committed suicide by jumping overboard while temporary insane. Burton was 26 years old, and a native of Wales.

How to Make Cucumber Jelly.

Cucumber jelly makes a good salad course with lettuce, and is equally good to serve with fish. To make the jelly take four large cucumbers, remove the outside skin, cut them into strips and stew in about one quart of water, with one small slice of onion, a generous saltspoon of salt and a little white pepper. When the cucumbers become soft, add half a box of gelatin that has been soaking in a small cup of cold water and stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Strain through a fine sieve, and when the liquid becomes cold and almost ready to set peel and slice thin one cucumber and line a plain mold that has been wet in cold water with the slices, turn in the liquid jelly and put in a cold place to harden.

How to Prepare Tomato Jelly.

Put half a can tomatoes in a saucepan with one bay leaf, sprig sweet majoram, summer savoy thyme, four cloves, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, ten drops onion juice, salt to taste. Simmer 15 minutes and press through a fine sieve. Add one-third box gelatin soaked in one-third cup cold water until dissolved. Add two teaspoons tarragon vinegar and pour into wetted molds. When firm, serve on lettuce hearts and with mayonnaise. Garnish with grated ham.

Since the government has come into possession of the transports which will be retained permanently, it is believed to be necessary to amend and amplify the old regulations governing the conduct of troops on such vessels. The old regulations had to do with chartered vessels, and in order to modernize them a board has been appointed to deal with the subject.

SHERIFF INTERFERED.

A Knockout For the Hawthorne Athletic Club.

Lavigne and Erne Contest Did Not Occur.

The Sheriff and His Deputies Took Possession of the Ring.

Buffalo, Sept. 13.—The 20-round bout for the lightweight championship of the world between Frank Erne of this city and "Kid" Lavigne, that was to have been the opening contest at the Hawthorne Athletic club at Cheektowaga, was stopped by Sheriff Killgallon before the men came together in the arena. About 4000 persons had gathered in the big enclosure. The sheriff and a score of deputies were in the ring when Lon Beckwith of Cleveland and Jack O'Donnell were ordered on for the preliminary bout. The sheriff declared that he would not permit any contest to take place. John W. Fisher, attorney for the town of Cheektowaga, demanded that the club be given the use of its property, and the boxers were ordered to shake hands. Before a blow could be struck the deputies seized the boxers and forced them to their corners, and then released them.

GEORGE LAVIGNE.

Once more the boxers were ordered to get together. O'Donnell rushed at Beckwith, but the deputies again grappled with the boxers, and for a few minutes the ring was filled with struggling deputies, fighters and their seconds, and Beckwith and O'Donnell were again compelled to take their seats.

The spectators were greatly excited and roundly denounced the action of the sheriff, but no open act of violence was committed. A long and wordy wrangle between the sheriff and attorney then occurred, and after a long delay Beckwith and O'Donnell left the ring.

Announcer McBride then introduced Erne and Lavigne, saying that they would box under the provisions of the Horton law. The men were in their corners, but the sheriff could not be prevailed upon to permit them to get together in a friendly match. Finally it was announced that the bout was off. The club officials obtained a long list of witnesses, and declared that the club would immediately bring an action against the sheriff for damages. The crowd then filed slowly out of the building, giving free vent to disgust at the fiasco.

The Corbett-McCoy contest, scheduled for Oct. 15, will depend upon the result of the action brought against the sheriff. He did not arrest either of the principals in the preliminary, notwithstanding the managers ordered them to resume the fighting, evidently with that purpose.

The battle was in reality intended as a test case, and on the result of the expected arrests and trials the club officials based their hopes of having the legality of sparring determined. It was expected that the men would be allowed to box and be then placed under arrest. This would have forced the sheriff to "show his hand," and the issue could then be squarely met. The only way the club management can hope to pull off the Corbett-McCoy contest is to secure an injunction restraining the sheriff from interfering, on the ground that he cannot anticipate that the men are to engage in a prize fight.

Secretary Wilson of the club was very bitter against the district attorney and sheriff, and hinted that the political influence of a New York fistic promoter was the cause of the contest being stopped. He said that he intended to go right ahead and would carry the matter to the highest courts in the state to establish the legality of the boxing, and he expressed himself as being satisfied that a verdict would be rendered in his favor.

Eastern Man For Referee.

San Francisco, Sept. 13.—The National Athletic club of San Francisco offers Martin Julian in behalf of Bob Fitzsimmons the privilege of selecting an eastern man of reputation as referee of the proposed contest with Tom Sharkey for a purse of $17,000. Tom O'Rourke, representing Sharkey, must of course be consulted.

Goddard a Chopping Block.

Philadelphia, Sept. 13.—Choynski had all the better of his bout with Goddard last night at the Arena. Goddard was considerably heavier than the Californian, but he lacked in science. Choynski made a chopping block of the Australian, and several times it looked as though Goddard would not be able to stay the full six rounds.

There was but little fighting in the opening round. The men exchanged rights on the face, and Goddard landed a light left on Choynski's chest. In the second round Choynski landed several lefts on Goddard's face, but the latter could not get in a good blow. The third, fourth and fifth rounds were repetitions of the second, Choynski doing nearly all the leading and landing almost at will. In the closing round Goddard fought wildly, while Choynski was calm and banged Goddard on the jaw, sending him to his knees. Choynski landed hard and often, but he could not stop the Australian. When the gong sounded, a spectator stepped into the ring and attempted to hit Goddard, but he was quickly thrown from the platform.

Bonner Given the Fight.

New York, Sept. 13.—With a 25-round bout between Daniel Creedon of Australia and John Bonner of Summit, Pa., as the star attractions, the managers of the Greater New York Athletic club at Coney Island expected a large crowd at the clubhouse last night, but the arena was only about half filled.

JACK BONNER.

Creedon was the favorite in the betting at 100 to 80. In the first round there was a good deal of sparring, and very little was done. In the second round Creedon sent his left to the wind hard and countered on the stomach. Bonner jabbed his left on the face very hard, and followed with a heavy left on the wind. Creedon looked very weak after this blow; he put up a poor defense and left himself wide open. Bonner led his left for the body and, quick as a flash, he sent his right over on the jaw, and Creedon went down in a heap.

Referee Brown counted off the 10 seconds, and just as he said "nine," Dan tried to rise to his feet, but his right foot went back on him and he fell again as Brown was saying "10."

Bonner was declared the winner. Creedon was unable to walk. A doctor examined him and said that his right ankle was badly strained. Creedon was helped to his dressing room, and it will be sometime before he will be able to walk again.

WON IN PHILADELPHIA.

The Bostons Defeated the Quakers Without Much Trouble.

Philadelphia, Sept. 13.—Platt was expected to pitch good ball against the champions yesterday, and was put in out of his turn. He proved a sorry disappointment. On nearly every batsman he got himself in a hole by failing to get the first two or three balls over. This made it a very hard game for the young left-hander, and he was extremely lucky in not having more runs scored off him. Lewis was also liberal with bases on balls, but at critical stages he was invincible, and the bases on balls did no damage.

The features of the game were Hamilton's batting and base running. It was the best exhibition of run making seen on the local grounds this season. He reached first every time he came up. Three times he made hits and once he "walked." Stealing second on a left-handed pitcher, with a clever catcher like McFarland behind the bat, is a difficult feat, but the fleet-footed Billy pilfered the bag twice, and also stole third twice. In the seventh, he stole second and third, which was his only possible chance to bring in the run, as there was no hitting behind him. Score:

Cincinnati, Sept. 13.—The 15th annual convention of the Laundrymen's International association met here yesterday with a large attendance. After the address of welcome by Mayor Tafel, and response by President A. B. Richards of Philadelphia, annual reports were presented, and 80 applications for membership were voted on. The annual report of the president showed a successful year in business with a large increase in membership.

HORRIBLE BUTCHERY.

The Guldensuppe Murder Duplicated In Bridgeport.

Head and Legs of a Young Woman Found.

Done Up In Two Packages and Dropped into a Pond.

Bridgeport, Sept. 13.—The head and legs of a woman were found yesterday in Yellow Mill river, a tributary of Long Island sound, by three boys who were amusing themselves casting stones from a bridge into the shallow water. The ghastly find revealed a crime which in all its details rivals the murder of Guldensuppe, the victim of Martin Thorn and Mrs. Nack. The only difference is that instead of a powerful man, the victim is a young woman, whose tender physique made her easy prey for the inhuman wretch responsible for her butchery.

One boy picked up a stone and threw it overboard. In a moment a parcel arose to the surface, the tide at this time being low. The lads, curious to know the contents of the package, waded into the water, and, towing it ashore, cut it open. Horrified, they uttered a cry and ran back. William Burr, who was passing, stopped and the boys told him that the remains of a mutilated body were in the parcel. Burr opened the package and found the legs of a human being severed above the knees. It did not take but one glance to see that the legs were those of a woman. Word was sent to the police.

Medical Examiner Downes was at once informed of the discovery, and he immediately drove to the scene, and later communicated with Coroner Doten. Detective Cronin also, by good chance, happened to be in the neighborhood, and succeeded in retaining many apparently trifling articles which will probably be of invaluable assistance in working up the case. The medical examiner gave a permit for the dismembered parts to be removed to the morgue, where they were taken.

After the head had been cleaned and made presentable, as far as it was possible on account of its battered condition, photographs were taken for the purpose of possible identification. Two pictures in different positions were secured. The result was that it is the opinion of the authorities that the victim was a person of more than ordinary refinement. The features, however, are wan and thin. It is surmised that the woman was about five feet, six inches in height, her hair was braided in a manner as usual with many women before they retire, and was tied with a cotton cord. A number of the teeth were white and regular, and some were gold-filled, while only two or three in the back of the mouth were missing. The eyes were greyish blue. The pronounced characteristic of the face is the short, aquiline nose, which, it is believed, will afford a strong means of identification. The feet are small and shapely. The neck and also the limbs at the knees and thighs were severed in a manner showing a clean cutting of the flesh, and was clearly done by some one conversant with anatomy, and was either a butcher or a medical person. The authorities are inclined to believe that one of the former class was the guilty party.

Dr. Downes stated that the case was most curious, and one of so many contradictions that the solution of the mystery promises to be no easy task. In his opinion the body had been in the water about 24 hours when found, and that a large knife had been used to dismember the body, as in no place was the flesh torn. The limbs were sawed a leisurely manner and evidently with apart, but the entire work was done in much care, as no bruises were visible about the head. It is the opinion of the medical examiner that the death took place at night, from the arrangement of the woman's hair, and also from the appearance of the teeth that she had not lived in a plentiful manner of late.

There was also noticed that two stout cords were wound about the thighs so tightly as to cut into the flesh, and it was evident that whoever did the cutting was desirous to prevent the flow of blood. The limbs had one leg of a man's cotton drawers, of the kind that are worn in summer, wrapped about them; it was of good material, but there were no marks on it to assist in identification.

Two stones, weighing about 10 pounds each, were attached to the bundles. They were discolored from being in the water for a long time, and were undoubtedly taken from near the shore, where there is much refuse, by whoever tried to dispose of the remains.

All the articles which might assist in any way in the ferreting out of the crime were taken charge of by the police. The arms and trunk are still missing, although a persistent search was kept up in the vicinity of the place of the finding of the other portions of the body.

All sorts of theories are afloat, but not the slightest clue has been obtained, nor has there been anyone reported to the police as missing. The place where the dismembered parts were found is a very lonely spot, and may be approached at night with little fear of detection. The dentists of the city have been asked to examine the teeth to see if any of them could recognize the work, which might assist in the identification.

Assassins In Barbadoes.

Kingston, Jam., Sept. 13.—According to advices received here from Barbadoes since the death of Mr. Pile, speaker of the house of assembly, Sept. 2, from the effects of the recent attempt to assassinate him, the governor and five public officials have been anonymously warned that a similar fate has been decreed for them, as a reward for their oppression." The worst feature of the Pile tragedy is that the government reward of $5000 for information regarding the conspirators fails to induce their betrayal.

RABID CUBANS ANGRY.

Possibility of a Protectorate Not Well Regarded.

Citizens of a "Free and Independent Republic."

Four Tickets Placed In the Field For the Presidency of the Island.

Havana, Sept. 14.—The presence of Robert P. Porter, who is in Havana on a special commission from the United States government to study the financial and economic aspects of the situation, is regarded with suspicion by the party of free Cuba, as indicating the establishment of an American policy of guardianship. Mr. Porter is preparing a revision of the Cuban tariff, which will probably be protective of Cuban industries, and is acquainting himself with every detail of local taxation. In this work he is assisted by a capable staff. For the present his efforts are only preliminary, as, until after the definite settlement of peace, it will be impossible to establish the new regime. His efforts and inquiries, taken together with the announcement that American troops will be sent later to occupy the island, which has hitherto been doubted by many, have had the effect of provoking protests from the more rabid Cubans, who are holding meetings and adopting resolutions against "encroachment upon our rights as citizens of the free and independent republic of Cuba by the establishment of an American protectorate."

Commenting editorially upon these developments, a Havana paper says: "It is easy to foresee a clash between the two tendencies, the two forces on the political horizon of Cuba, the sentimental independent party and the party of practical annexationists. On one hand stands the Cuban sentiment, which has struggled for freedom for three years; on the other is arrayed every material interest in the island, which looks first and foremost for the greatest and strongest guarantee not only that order will be preserved, but that there will be a future development and increase in these very interests. It is too early yet to predict with which party the victory will lie, but the leaders of the national Cuban party should not allow themselves to be carried away by the natural exaltation and fiery temperament of their race. They should proceed with tact and discretion at this juncture, for otherwise annexation may become an accomplished fact far sooner than is expected. The leaders should act with prudence and furnish an example of strength and stability. Such conduct in them may result in time in adding to the ranks of the Cuban national party a large proportion of those who now advocate annexation and in carrying with them the great landed and industrial interests of the island."

These two problems, independence and annexation, are the chief topics discussed, and the idea of an American protectorate, with military occupation, is nowhere favorably considered. Everywhere it is recognized that the choice is between independence and annexation.

Next month, at the headquarters of the so-called Cuban republican government at Cubitas, province of Puerto Principe, representatives of the different corps of the Cuban army will proceed to a presidential election and a definite constitution of the government. Each army corps will send eight delegates, making a total of 48 electors. There are two separate and distinct tendencies in the Cuban army, one strongly supporting the present government, and the other favoring General Maximo Gomez. Already four presidential nomination tickets are in the field. On the first are the names of Bartholomew Masso for president and Mandez Capote for vice president; on the second the names of Mendez Capote for the first place and J. M. Gomez for the second; on the third are J. M. Gomez and Peter Betancourt, and on the fourth, Calixto Garcia and J. M. Gomez. An evening paper says that at a fashionable mansion there was an important gathering to discuss the future of Cuba, which in the opinion of those present will witness the achievement of independence. A central committee was appointed, consisting of a president, vice president and 20 advisors, "into whose hands the promoters of the movement hope to deliver the destinies of the island as soon as Spain has formally relinquished sovereignty." The same journal announces, what had hitherto been kept secret, that some of the buildings, formerly state property, which were sold at auction have not been paid for by the purchasers, with the result that the treasury has suffered serious loss. It insist that the government should make a complete inventory of state property sold under such conditions in order to recover it from purchasers who have not complied with their contracts.

The Parliament of Spain.

Madrid, Sept. 14.—Notwithstanding the absence of most of the opposition at yesterday's session of the deputies, that chamber gave its approval to the peace protocol by a vote of 151 to 48.

The senate was in a tumult, members standing, shouting and threatening each other. The president vainly strove to restore order, and broke his bell in attempting to do so. When the debate was resumed, Mr. Gonzales attacked the army. He said it has been worsted first by the insurgents and then by the Americans. The speaker then asked what had become of the 200,000 men sent to Cuba. He blamed General Weyler and Premier Canovas, asserting that the latter was omnipotent while in power and might have done what he pleased.

Premier Sagasta, replying, said that neither Canovas nor himself had ruled long enough to change the character of the race, which was the true cause, he claimed, of the disaster to Spain. Later the premier remarked: "We are an anemic country. We were attacked when acting as an honest man would. We defended ourselves. I have lost my prestige, but it is because I believe the path I am following is the best."

General Weyler then made a speech of great violence, which provoked such an outburst that the premier had to intervene, and called upon the general to explain his policy. Weyler replied that he had not threatened the government institutions, but only those who had attacked the army.

The minister of war, General Correa said the government alone was responsible.

Maximo Gomez Disgruntled.

Santiago, Sept. 14.—The report is current here that General Lawton received word that General Maximo Gomez has resigned the command of the Cuba army. The Cuban government, having its seat at Camaguey, is said to have accepted his resignation without a protest, owing to the general's criticisms of the civil officials' alleged attitude of complaisance toward American domination of Cuba.

General Gomez is reported to have said that the Cubans should resist American control, even by arms if necessary and the present submission and allowance of American occupancy of the Cuban towns were a virtual acceptance of the plain intention of the United State to retain possession of Cuba.

Linares' Feeling Appeal.

Havana, Sept. 14.—From a translation of a cable message sent by General Linares to Captain Aunon, the Spanish minister of war, urging the surrender of Santiago, it appears that he said: "Our troops are attenuated, and the proportion of sick is considerable; but they are not allowed to go to the hospital owing to the necessity of our keeping them in the trenches. Our horses have no grain or forage. Under a veritable deluge we remained for 20 hours at a stretch in the trenches and breastworks, soaked to the marrow, with no earthly shelter or protection possible for the unfortunate soldiers, who ate nothing but rice and can not even change or dry their clothes. The great losses among our officers—either dead, wounded, sick or disappeared—deprive our men of the necessary direction and command at critical moments.

"Under such conditions it would be impossible to attempt to break through the enemy's ranks, as one-third of our men are too feeble to walk and would have to be left behind, while the rest would be decimated and routed by the superior forces of the enemy. The result of such an attempt would be a wholesale slaughter and national disaster which would utterly fail in the object desired by you excellency, which is the salvation of these 11 thin and impoverished battalions.

"The honors of arms and of war have limits; and I appeal to the judgment of the government and of the whole nation as to whether these troops have not given repeated illustrations of courage valor and devotion, and whether they are to be further sacrificed for a lost cause. If for reasons of which I am ignorant, their sacrifices demand it, or if some person is required who will assume the responsibility for the inglorious end already predicted in my former dispatches, I offer myself loyally on the altar of my country to assume command and responsibility in either case."

Keeping Instructions Secret.

Washington, Sept. 14.—The cabinet yesterday discussed the instructions to be given to the American members of the peace commission. Although the document is practically agreed upon as a whole, the matter will be left open until the meeting here of the members of the commission, when a final revision will be made. It is the president's wish that nothing concerning the instructions be made public. Secretary Day authorizes the statement that the president and the cabinet have decided positively to do all in their power to prevent any publicity in the matter.

Had a Cargo of Arms.

Manila, Sept. 14.—An American bark with a cargo of arms and ammunition from the United States, which left Canton ostensibly for Singapore under heavy bonds 10 days ago, has now, it is said, landed 5000 Krag-Jorgensen rifles and cartridges in Batangas province for the insurgents. The report seems impossible, though it comes from a good source. The indications are that the insurgents intend to comply peaceably with the American request to leave the suburbs of Manila by Sept. 15.

ATROCIOUS CRIME.

No Clue to the Butchery of the Woman Found In Bridgeport.

Bridgeport, Sept. 14.—The mystery surrounding the murder of the woman, whose dismembered remains were found in Yellow Mill pond, is still unsolved, and as far as can be gleaned the police have obtained no clue that would tend to establish the identity of the murdered woman.

The crime, which appears to be the most atrocious in the annals of the state, has created a morbid curiosity that it would be impossible to conceive of were it not evidenced by the crowds of people that continually throng about the morgue where the remains lie. Hundreds and hundreds of persons viewed the body, though nobody was able to give any information that would in any way assist in the identification.

It is the general opinion of the officials that death followed the performance of a criminal operation, inasmuch as the intestines and overy organ below the diaphram were missing. The belief that was general at first that the victim was an out-of-town woman was shattered when the trunk was found early in the morning near where the other portions were discovered. They apparently had been placed there during the night.

The condition of the trunk caused the medical examiner to express the opinion that no amateur had done the work. The police have been busily employed all day looking up possible clues and, though the officials allege that they have been unable to secure any information regarding the identity of the woman, it is intimated from an official source that startling developments may be looked for.

The President Concurs.

Washington, Sept. 14.—President McKinley has not named a representative of the United States to attend the conference projected by the czar with the purpose of securing a disarmament. In the answer directed by him, however to the invitation extended by the Russian minister for foreign affairs, the president openly expressed his concurrence in the sentiments set forth in the Russian note, and promised, if the conference was held, to have the United States represented by some person.

As yet it is not possible to make a selection, for it remains for the Russian government to say whether or not it regards the response made by the governments invited to participate as sufficient to warrant the holding of the conference. It is not believd at the state department that the sending of such a delegate would commit the United States government to any certain line of policy beyond that specifically set forth in the call, namely, to engage to limit armament to certain proportions. In this case our government would not even be called upon to make any change in its establishment.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 14.—The failure of the Morrill Brothers' company, engaged in the jewelry business, was announced yesterday. Ths assets amount to $95,000, and the liabilities, it is said, will not exceed $38,000. Inability to secure ready money was the cause of the assignment.

Medical Examiner Stedman has filed his autopsy report on the death of the 1-year-old infant found in the waters at Fort Point channel Sept. 6. He finds that the child died from a fracture of the skull.

French Ambassador Cambon and his son arrived in this city last evening. The ambassador's visit is believed to be on official business in connection with the departure of the Spanish admiral and his sailors.

With prayer and song and words of encouragement, the members of the Woman's Baptist Missionary association bade farewell to several young women who sailed today for Liverpool.

France's Great Topic.

Paris, Sept. 14.—Among the rumors in circulation regarding the Dreyfus case is one that an arrest still more sensational than any yet made is imminent. Another report says that when General Zurlinden, minister for war, resigns, legal action for revision will be commenced before his successor is appointed. General Zurlinden at the last moment begged to be excused from accompanying President Faure to the maneuvers. A newspaper assertion that Faure is supporting Zurlinden in opposing revision has created considerable comment and given rise to the notion that there will be no revision while Faure is president.

Last night four men, armed with clubs, attacked and severely injured Philibert Reget, director of a Dreyfusite paper. One of the four is under arrest.

Confession of a Maid.

New York, Sept. 14.—The mysterious disappearance of Louise King from a bath house at Coney Island has been explained by the confession of the maid, Alma Lindstrom, who accompanied Miss King. Through an interpreter, the girl has stated to the mother that the girl had been drowned while the maid was teaching her to swim. She and Miss King went bathing together. They had been in the water only a little time when Miss King, who could not swim, was caught by a breaker and carried away from the rope. Before the maid could get to her the young woman was swept out to sea and was drowned.

More Red Men.

Indianapolis, Sept. 14.—At yesterday's session of the national council of Red Men, the financial committee reported receipts of $41,459; expenditures, $24,546; balance on hand, $16,913. Charles C. Conley, great chief of records, in his report shows: Total receipts, $1,146,310; paid for relief of members, $366,788; relief of widows and orphans, $9167; burial of the dead, $97,414; other expenses, $602,536; investments, $1,395,302; in tribal belts, $369,174; total worth, $1,764,477. One year ago the total membership was 155,388; now it is 162,442.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A and B. The instalment today is the third of the C's and includes the letter to "Co" inclusive, and will be continued tomorrow:

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

Smelts Next.

The summer resort is a thing of the past,
And soon there'll be mud on the road,
And then on a Sunday, the cyclist, perchance,
Will devote a brief thought to the Lord.

Mr. Editor: The above little poem which appeared in last night's issue of the Ledger is very cute and I hope the cyclist will avail himself of the opportunities offered for devotion, but I am afraid that in the majority of cases their devotion will be "perchance" and "brief," as the poem suggests, but more likely their time will be occupied on the Sabbath as the following lines suggests:

The summer resort is a thing of decline,
And soon there'll be smelts in the bays,
And on a Sunday the angler with line,
Will catch more than on other days.

NEW SIGNALS.

Automatic System Patented—To be Tried on Wollaston Line.

Daniel McLane, superintendent of the electrical department of the Quincy & Boston street railway, has invented and had patented a system of automatic electric block signals for single track electric roads. The system, while similar to that now used on the road, is designed not only to show a car leaving a turnout whether the track is clear to the next turnout but if in use how many cars are using it. With the present system there is no way in telling how many cars are using the track and it frequently happens that after one car has appeared and the car going in the opposite direction has left the turnout it meets a second or third car that was some distance back of the first car.

The method of operating the present system is for the conductor, when leaving a turnout to throw a switch on the signal box which relieves the signal at the turnout back of him and sets the signal at the turnout in front of him. If the conductor for any reason forgets to do this, the result is that two cars are likely to meet between turnouts, and then an argument on the part of the conductors as to which shall go back, which is not pleasant to the waiting passengers. With McLane's system, however, there is no forgetting to throw the switch as the car does it.

Stripped of the technical terms which the general public do not understand, the modus operandi of the McLane system is as follows:

Fastened to the trolley wire at the end of each turnout is a block containing a two point spring switch. As the car passes the the trolley wheel hits one point of the switch which relieve the signal of the piece of track left, and then hits the second point of the spring which sets the signal at the end of the next turnout ahead, the second point being held in position by a magnet until released by the trolley, wheel at the next turnout or by the opening of the circuit at that point.

In the face of each signal box is a red glass behind which the light is shown. There is also a dial upon which are the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, etc. This dial is connected and operated by an electro magnet. As the first car passes the figure one appears and as he cars following pass the dial is made to move and expose to view the number on the dial corresponding with the number of cars that have paassed. When released the signal and figures on the dial disappear.

Mr. McLane is to put his system on the Wollaston one of the of the Quincy & Boston where its usefulness will be demonstrated.

Boys in Court.

John Buck, Fred Hadden and Loring Bigelow were arrested Tuesday, by Officer McKay upon a warrant charging them with obstructing the railroad tracks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad at South Quincy. The boys in some way obtained possession of a railroad torpedo, which they placed on the railroad tracks. In this case no damage was done, but as one torpedo is a signal for a quick stop and some express train might have been brought to a sudden stop and the passengers thrown out of their seats, serious damages were possible.

What a Man Eats in a Lifetime.

It is computed, by a contributor of inquiring mind to an English journal, that a healthy man with a good appetite and average drinking-capacity assimilates into his system during seventy years ninty-six and one-half tons of material, solid and liquid; or, putting it in another way, and assuming his weight to be twelve stones, he consumes over twelve hundred and eighty times his own weight of nourishment in the course of a lifetime,

Coffee Good This Morning?

A small amount of good coffee will furnish more nourishment and give more real strength to the cup than a large amount of an inferior brand at a cheaper price. A cheap coffee will sometimes yield a fair flavor but that is all. It is economy to buy the best.

Our Mocha and Java is as good as any coffee on the market. It is all coffee—there are no colored wheat grains in it. It will suit the most particular coffee drinker in Quincy or out of it—30 cents a pound.

INTENSE SUFFERING

From Dyspepsia and Stomach Trouble.

A New Discovery, But Not a Patent Medicine.

Dr. Redwell relates an interesting account of what he considers a remarkable cure of acute stomach trouble and chronic dyspepsia by the use of the new discovery, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

He says: The patient was a man who had suffered to my knowledge for years with dyspepsia. Everything he ate seemed to sour and create acid and gases in the stomach; he had pains like rheumatism in the back, shoulder blades and limbs, fullness and distress after eating, poor appetite and loss of flesh; the heart became affected, causing palpitation and sleeplessness at night.

I gave him powerful nerve tonics and blood remedies, but to no purpose. As an experiment I finally bought a fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at a drug store and gave them to him. Almost immediate relief was given and after he had used four boxes he was to all appearances fully cured.

There was no more acidity or sour, watery risings, or bloating after meals, the appetite was vigorous and he has gained between 10 and 12 pounds in weight of solid, healthy flesh.

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Talbets are advertised and sold in drug stores yet I consider them a most valuable addition to any physician's line of remedies, as they are perfectly harmless and can be given to children or invalids or in any condition of the stomach with perfect safety, being harmless and containing nothing but vegetable and fruit essences, pure pepsin and Golden Seal.

Without any question they are the safest, most effective cure for indigestion, biliousness, constipation and all derangements of the stomach however slight or severe.

Stuarts' Dyspepsia Tablets are made by the Stuart Co. of Marshall, Mich., and sold by druggists everywhere at fifty cents per package.

A little book on stomach diseases mailed free, address Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. Sept. 12-14-16.

IN THE NEW CAMP.

Beautiful Spot at Middletown —Rations Short.

Middletown, Penn.
Camp Meade, Sept. 13.

We have been very busy since arrival in getting settled in our new camp, and the change makes variety, and is therefore welcome.

There is a scarcity of provisions today but the treat of Quincy friends on the day of departure has not made it so uncomfortable for K Co. as for some of the other companies. Their camp fund also came in handy to make up for the shortage by Uncle Sam. It seems only one day's rations were issued on Sunday at South Framingham and these were exhausted when we arrived, and there was no store to draw upon.

All the boys are well and happy.

Maj. Morrison will be division officer Wednesday.

There is regret over the resignation of Capt. Kincaide, and it will be increased fourfold if a West Pointer or any other man outside the company is appointed to the position. All admit that Capt. Kincaide was justified in resigning because of his personal business.

Camp Meade is in many respects a beautiful spot. It overlooks the Susquehanna river, and is flanked by woodland. The turnpike in front of the camp was very dusty today and disagreeable.

A GIRL WHO "SCULPS."

The Foremost Member of a Colony of Talented Chicago Women.

Sculpture is a branch of artistic labor which has not as yet appealed strongly to the women artists of America and the world in general. But taste and desire for clay modeling and working in marble are growing steadily in popularity and strength, and there are in Chicago at least seven full fledged feminine artists, all of whom "sculp"—to use the merry term now in course of creation by the busy workers with clay and chisel—well and vigorously.

First and foremost among them, perhaps by reason of her priority in the field as well as her really remarkable work, comes Miss Julia M. Bracken, the Illinois girl whose home has been in Chicago during all of her artistic life, and who works away cheerily in a cozy studio in the Tree studio building on the North Side. Miss Bracken belongs to the practical branch of the genius family and took up wood carving, in which she excels and which she still teaches to a large class of pupils and to the inmates of the Ephatha deaf mute school on the West Side for purposes of self support while studying the art which she best loves. Not until the year of the World's fair did she open a studio of her own.

At the World's fair Miss Bracken was placed in practical charge of the feminine sculptors and herself modeled several famous statues. The large figure of "Illinois Welcoming the Nations," which stood above the door of the Illinois building, was the work of this clever girl sculptor, who is as sweet faced and sweet natured as she is talented, as were also the flying figures which adorned the corners of the Woman's building, a "Victory" in the Manufactures building and many less known pieces of work. Since the time of the World's fair Miss Bracken has devoted much time to bust work, one of her most successful efforts in this direction being a bust of Sir Moses Montefiore, the famous Hebrew philanthropist, and has also done some very successful ecclesiastical work. She is an ardent believer in systematic work and perseverance, but is also inspirational in her methods to a great degree, and much dislikes to make changes or alterations in an idea which has been once formulated.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Girls Who Talk Slang.

In opening so many avenues to women hitherto closed in the deservedly famous chivalric attentions of our men to their country-women, in the liberty allowed to children by their parents, are there not very real dangers to our girls? queries a writer in London Truth. Are they not fast becoming less modest and sweet, more self asserting and impatient of control? The slang in common use among our girls no one can doubt is on the increase. We hear "kid," "corker," "stuck on himself," "in the push," "he's chasin Miss So-and-so." Some one has suggested that for much of the latest if not choicest slang Chimmie Fadden is responsible.

To use slang is far from being a crime and is at times expressive, but the increase of its use must be deplored, falling from the lips of refined, lovely young girls. It is most affected by the "bachelor girl" and the new woman, bona fide types of whom are dashing, independent creatures who, with all their vivacity and "go," are often a great trial to their elders. They think every one but themselves narrow and old fashioned, yet time, the great teacher, tones them down and often makes fine women of them.

Health on the Bicycle.

"Health on the Bicycle" is the subject of an interesting article in a contemporary, and although the advice given is by no means new it will bear repetition. "A broad rule," says the writer, "may be laid down that no one who is unsound or delicate should commence to cycle except under the advice of a competent physician. There are some ailments in which cycling, properly regulated, acts like a charm in restoring health. There are others in which to mount a bicycle would be simple suicide. It does most good in disorders which arise from insufficient exercise. It prevents and assists in the cure of such ailments as gout and rheumatism, and few regular cyclists are troubled with indigestion. Anæmic patients derive more good from the exercise than would result from taking pints of iron drops, though in such cases moderation is essential until the heart is well drilled in its needed work, and few cases of pure nervousness survive a regular course of bicycle rides. No person with organic disease—especially if the heart be affected—should attempt to cycle, except under the direct orders of his or her physician."

A Successful Recruiter.

Mrs. M. A. Curtis, the Afro-American woman who went south under orders from Surgeon General Sternberg to get together 25 immune colored nurses for Santiago, was so successful that her quota was increased, and she returned to Washington, having secured 129 immunes for the work

THE DAILY EVENTS.

A long installment of land values today.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Studley and Miss Ella L. Stetson have gone to Nashua, N. H., for a few days.

There is said to be a fourth candidate for the Republican Congressional nomination, J. Payson Bradley.

Privates Clark and Bowlen of Atlantic, who returned last week with the Ninth Massachusetts, are dangerously ill with typhoid fever.

The 8-inch main removed from Adams street when the 16-inch was substituted is being laid on Newport avenue between Central avenue and Beale street. Hydrants will be located at the corner of Central avenue, Warren avenue and Winthrop avenue.

The agent of the Putnam Nail Company of Neponset, P. J. Barry, won the silver fruit stand and dish in the shooting gallery at 53 Pleasant street, Fall River, Sept. 10th. He is one of the best shots who has ever shot in Fall River. The next prize to be given will be a silver medal.

There was an exciting runaway in City Square this afternoon. A single team of F. B. Washburn & Co. of Brockton was going south and when at the crossing opposite the postoffice the rattle of cars scared him and he began to kick and run. The team collided against a stone team at the head of Granite street throwing the driver out. The horse brought up on the sidewalk in front of the Greenleaf. The driver was knocked out for a while and was taken into the hotel.

—In a letter from Europe to the Farmer's Cabinet we find a concise statement as to how Europeans regard the American-Spanish war and we heartily agree with the following:

"Summing up all that I have heard, it has been both sympathy and conemnation. All regard our cause and the occasion as just, but they score us tardy in asserting our rights. They ask, why did you wait weeks when your sailors lay rotting in Havana harbor, the victims of Spanish treachery? In England the feeling against this delay was more than strong, and more than once did I hear all this procrastination attributed to politics and stock jobbing, and not that right and justice might be secured. When the American nation has a more vigorous foreign policy, then will our country be respected to a greater degree. It is a notorious fact potent to all travelers, that our consuls do not give American citizens equal protection to that offered their English or German cousins, and I tell you frankly if you get into trouble abroad as a general rule, look to God for help but never to your consul."

Shafter's Report Submitted.

Washington, Sept. 14.—General Shafter has submitted to the war department his report on the Santiago campaign, covering not only the battle of Santiago, but also the entire progress of the military invasion of Cuba. It covers the supplementary reports of division commanders, about 200 typewritten pages. The report will not be made public for the present, the desire being to place it first in the hands of the president and Secretary Alger, and allow sufficient time for a consideration of its contents. After that there is little doubt that the material portions, and perhaps the entire report, will be made public. It repeats a story already pretty well known, although there is much interest in the view which the commanding general takes of several features of the campaign.

Otis Has Plenary Power.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Not much importance is attached to the Spanish report on the destruction by Spanish gunboats of an insurgent fleet which attempted to make a landing on Visayas island. General Otis has informed the war department that the insurgent navy consists of three small vessels, carrying about 240 men, while it was known that the Spanish government had still one or two gunboats concealed among the islands of the Philippine group. The insurgent vessels started from Manila before the signing of the protocol.

The military authorities here, after a careful consideration of the question, have concluded that it is incumbent upon them to compel the insurgents to an observance of the suspension of hostilities agreed upon between the United States and Spain, at least in cases like that in the vicinity of Manila, where, by the action of the United States naval forces and military, the residents have been deprived of the protection of the Spanish forces. It is stated authoritatively that General Otis has been given plenary powers to deal with this matter, although is it expected that he will be able to prevent an absolute clash.

I'm disgusted with the whole thing, and when Oct. 15 comes, I'll declare my fight with Corbett off, draw down my ferfeit and go looking for somebody whose name is not so magical. At any rate, this is the way I feel now."

ONCE AGAIN BLAMED.

Subordinate of Surgeon General at Camp Wikoff.

Everything Official Satisfactory to Him.

Reports That He Saw Furloughed Soldiers In a Fatigued Condition.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Surgeon General Sternberg calls attention to additional features of the report made by Lieutenant Smart concerning the condition of Camp Wikoff. Colonel Smart is in charge of the sanitary division of the surgeon general's office, and is professor of hygiene in the army medical school. He has had great experience in water analysis and is regarded as an expert. He was sent by General Sternberg to make a sanitary inspection of the camp and report on the water supply. The features that General Sternberg calls attention to are as follows: "The first subject which arrested my attention on arriving at the hospital was the utterly prostrated condition of some of the men furloughed at the intervention of friends who desired to remove them to their homes. No doubt much pressure was brought to bear on the surgeons charged with the duty of furloughing by the injudicious entreaties of friends and of the sick men themselves, but it appears to me that much greater care should have been exercised in authorizing the departure of certain of these men on a journey (which necessarily involves much fatigue. An hour later a telegram from yourself to the surgeon in command explicitly forbidding the furloughing of men unable to take care of themselves appeared to me to be sufficient to remedy this evil.

"The site of the camp is an excellent one. A firm, compact and well-drained grassy sod, the soil beneath the surface being held well together by the interwined roots of the grass and freely growing annuals, and forming thus a surface which wears well under foot and is productive of neither dust in dry weather nor mud in rainy weather. Here and there in shallow depressions and ravines the surface has been eroded down to a clay bed which supports surface water in pools, but in view of fresh breezes constantly blowing from the ocean I am of the opinion that no malarial developments need be anticipated from these small ponds. Some of them in time would probably become a nuisance by surface drainage into them, and would require to be drained and filled up.

"The camps are kept in excellent condition, the streets are perfectly clean, all garbage being buried except some of the refuse which is more conveniently disposed of by burning, and the sinks deep, well protected by boarding and so carefully attended to as in no instance to constitute a nuisance. Only two of the regiments, the Third and Twentieth infantry, are in any way crowded. The tents of all the commands are wedged wall tents, three men to a tent, each tent well spaced from its neighbor. In a few cases board floors have been laid, and lumber is being delivered in some regiments for this purpose; but speaking in general terms the men sleep on bed sacks filled with straw or hay. These, with their blankets, are cleaned and sunned and aired daily. Some recruits recently arrived are not yet provided with bed sacks. In the interior of many tents there is a lack of tidiness, due to the worn-out condition of the men.

"The kitchens of all the commands are under tent flies, all utensils clean and waste buried. No suggestion of a complaint as to the character of the food supply could be elicited in any of the regiments. Ice, milk, eggs, melons, etc., appeared to be abundant in every camp.

"The water supply of the camp is taken from a well about 200 yards from the eastern margin of Fort pond. A free supply of water was found at a depth of 40 feet below the surface. Two strata of clay, one near the surface, the other at a depth of 25 feet, separate the well water from surface contamination. It is distributed by about eight miles of pipe, and is on tap in each of the regiments. With this satisfactory water supply and the good sanitary conditions prevailing in the regimental camps, I have no hesitancy in saying that the troops could stay on their present ground in winter quarters without any such outbreak of typhoid fever as has occurred at Camp Alger and at Chickamauga park."

Cannot Be Reduced Further.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Tremendous pressure is still being brought to bear to have more troops mustered out of the service. Efforts in this direction, however, are of no avail. It is announced with increased emphasis that there will be no more troops mustered out. The situation does not admit of a further reduction in the army, and efforts are being made to put those volunteers who are retained in the service as near as possible on the footing of the regulars in the matter of drill and discipline. A little over 6,000 have already been mustered out, and it is announced positively that there will be no more mustered out, no matter what influence is brought to bear. The retention of the volunteers now in the service and the efforts to improve the morale of the army have in view the Philippine situation more than that of Cuba and Porto Rico, though there is a great deal of vagueness as to the danger apprehended.

Edhem Pasha to Be Coerced.

Candia, Crete, Sept. 14.—Rear Admiral Gerard Noel, commander of the British naval forces in Cretan waters, has issued an ultimatum to Edhem Pasha, the Turkish military governor of Crete, demanding that within 48 hours he should deliver up the ringleaders of the recent outbreak and massacre, surrender the fort and ramparts commanding the town, and disarm the Mussulman troops.

PHILLIES THE VICTORS.

Champions Had an Off Day In Their Second In the Windy City.

Philadelphia, Sept. 14.—In the first two innings yesterday the Phillies rolled up enough runs to defeat the champions by a score of 5 to 2. Two gorgeous wild throws in the first inning presented the locals with a pair of tallies, and a batting streak in the next inning gave them three runs. After that Nichols settled down and the Phillies got but two additional hits.

The Bostons also took a brace in their fielding, but the game was lost. Orth was hit hard in the second and third, but after that he was equally as effective as Nichols, and the last six innings furnished a beautiful battle between the two pitchers. The Boston men threw away several runs in the third inning by reckless base running. Score:

Frank Robinson has telegraphed to President Young of the National league the suggestion that all soldiers and sailors in full uniform who took part in the Spanish war be admitted to all league games free. Mr. Robinson gave the formal consent of the Cleveland club, and suggested that President Young telegraph to the other clubs.

Cabrera Had a Walkover.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Minister Hunter telegraphs the state department from Guatemala as follows: "The election for president of Guatemala, held during the first seven days of September, resulted in the election of the present incumbent, Manuel Estrada Cabrera, by the largest majority ever given a presidential candidate in this republic. Two candidates were voted for, Cabrera and Castillo, Liberals, and 316,500 votes were cast. Of the se, Cabrera received 315,936, and Castillo 564. Peace, good order and an untrammelled exercise of the election franchise marked the entire election. The national assembly meets on the 18th inst., to declare the result, and the inauguration takes place on the 22d.

"The new president is 41 years of age, a statesman of broad, comprehensive views, possessed of rare ability and attainments, and was for many years minister of justice in the cabinet of his predecessors. He assumed the executive functions of the government on April 8 last as the constitutional successor of Barrios, who was assassinated, and enjoys the distinction of being the first president taken from civil life since Mariano Galves, in 1839. All since then have been military chiefs. Cabrera's election means peace and prosperity to the country and an able, honest and stable government."

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Ex-Judge Thomas F. McCormick committed suicide by shooting in a cemetery in Elizabeth, N. J. No cause can be assigned for the deed.

No new cases of yellow fever have been reported from Ponce. The total remains at four cases, including two deaths, both privates.

Nat Goodwin, the actor, while out riding near Woolwich, Eng., was thrown from his horse and sustained two bad fractures of the leg. He intended to sail for New York yesterday.

A revolution in central China seems unavoidable. The rebellion in Hainan and the province of Kwang-Si is being joined by thousands of the literati, who are bitterly opposed to the Manchu dynasty.

Joseph Feldman of Newark and Kate Oates of Orange, N. J., went boating Saturday on the Passaic river. Tuesday their bodies were found floating in the river a mile apart. It is supposed that the boat was upset.

Thirty-three nurses deserted from the division hospital in Lexington, Ky., Monday night and failed to report yesterday. They were privates detailed from various regiments, and they went back to their regiments. They will be tried by court-martial.

The commission sent by the war department to investigate the hospitals and the conditions that produced sickness at the Chickamauga camp has concluded its work except as to the water supply, regarding which there is to be a chemical analysis made.

SOMEBODY'S BLUNDER

Camp Wikoff Soldiers Sent to Boston to Be Cared For.

Only Few Members of the Bay State Regiments.

Governor Displeased That Volunteers Were Kept at Montauk.

Boston, Sept. 14.—The comparative absence of Massachusetts men on the Relief—six belonging to bay state regiment of the 286 landed—caused deep regret, indignation even, at the state house yesterday. The governor was displeased, the adjutant was displeased—no one was satisfied. General Sternberg had said that the bay state men would be sent on the Relief. There was bad faith somewhere.

While every man received all the care and attention a Massachusetts soldier would have received, the officers of the Massachusetts Volunteer association feel much chagrined over the fact that so many Massachusetts men should have to stay behind, lingering and suffering in the camp at Wikoff, when their friends proposed their speedy home-coming on the Relief. There seems to be some misunderstanding. Other prominent officials feel that the proverbial liberality and broad methods of the commonwealth are being abused. Some days ago the state house officials determined to send special cars to New London to bring the balance of the Massachusetts men home. Meanwhile Surgeon General Sternberg wired a request to send 300 sick soldiers to Boston hospitals by the hospital ship Relief. The state authorities assented, asking that the Massachusetts men be included. To this General Sternberg agreed.

It has been suggested that the war department has been engeged in another little game. The great object at Montauk is to clear the camp of sick soldiers. It may have occurred to some bright mind that if the Massachusetts troops were not put on the Relief, the state would send for them immediately. The work of clearing the camp would thus be facilitated.

There is a great contrast between the men who arrived on this ship and those who came on the Bay State. On the latter there were men wasted away to shadows, men who couldn't walk because of their weakness and men who had no hope of recovering. On this ship there was not a man who was in immediate danger of death. There were strong, healthy fellows, with cheeks as brown as nuts, limbs as strong as oak, apparently in condition to return to Cuba and fight it all over again.

Governor Wolcott received a telegram yesterday afternoon from Surgeon General Greenleaf at Montauk, saying that the hospital ship, Red Cross, would sail with all the Eighth Massachusetts soldiers at Camp Wikoff, but later sent word that the plan had been changed.

Was Paid to Marry.

Boston, Sept. 14.—The first case put on trial before a jury at the opening of the supreme court yesterday was an action of contract, the plaintiff being Luigi Carcano, an Italian marquis, and the defendant, John H. Merriam, the administrator of the estate of Emily Merriam, deceased. The plaintiff sued to recover $30,000, and in his declaration he says the defendant's testatrix entered into a contract in writing with him, wherein, in consideration of certain things to be done by him, and especially in consideration of his marrying her daughter, Caroline M. Soren, she agreed to pay him by way of a marriage portion 150,000 Italian lire, of the value of $30,000, within five years of the date of the marriage. It was stated in the contract that the money should be paid within five years provided an estate in Cambridge owned by the defendant should be sold, and in case such sale did not take place, the marriage portion was postponed until the end of 1897. The plaintiff claims the contract was not lived up to.

The Maine Election.

Portland, Sept. 14.—While the returns from the state election are very slow in coming in, 228 towns out of 430 have been heard from, and they give Powers (Rep.), 40,597; Lord (Dem.), 22,296. The same towns in 1894 gave Cleaves (Rep.), 50,634; Johnson (Dem.), 22,973. This shows a Republican loss of about 20 percent and a Democratic loss of about 4 percent.

Revised figures in the First district, with three small towns missing, show a plurality for Reed of 5312. His plurality in 1894 was over 9000.

The vote of the Second district gives Congressman Dingley a plurality of about 6000 over Scott (Dem.). In 1894, Dingley's plurality was over 10,000.

Three Were Killed.

Wichita, Sept. 14.—Three persons were killed outright and several others badly injured last night, when a Rock Island passenger train struck a carryall at a crossing. In the carryall were 13 persons. The vehicle was going at a rapid pace, and the driver could not stop at the crossing when he saw that the train was upon him. The dead are Mrs. Sarah Avery, Mrs. W. H. Ford and John Cherry. Another woman, name unknown, was probably fatally injured. Mrs. Charles Jones, wife of the chief of police, had an ankle broken and a thigh bone fractured.

Courtiers Suspected.

Yokohama, Sept. 14.—Telegrams from Seoul, capital of Corea, report that the king of Corea and the crown prince were suddenly taken ill after dinner on Sunday last. Poisoning is suspected. Both are recovering. Eleven courtiers have been arrested.

Tomorrow's Almanac and Forecast.

WILL PROTEST GAMES

Trouble Over "Ducky" Holmes Not Ended Yet.

Another Step to Assert the Dignity of Freedman.

Possible Appeal to the Courts to Compel the League to Take Action.

New York, Sept. 5.—Treasurer McCall of the New York Baseball club announces that all the games which Baltimore has played and does play with William Holmes as a participant since that player's suspension and reinstatement will be protested by the New York club. This action is to be taken because of the reinstatement of Holmes by the league after he had been suspended by the board of directors, from whose decision, according to the rules of the league, there is no appeal.

"DUCKY" HOLMES OF BALTIMORE.

McCall stated further that if the protest of the New York club is not recognized, mandamus proceedings would probably be begun in the courts to compel the National league to take action in the matter.

WON FROM ST. LOUIS.

Team From Missouri Beaten as Usual on Bostons' Grounds.

Boston, Sept. 15.—"Jack" Taylor pitched well for the St. Louis team yesterday until the fourth inning, when the champions bunched a few singles, and the visitors bunched a couple of errors, giving Boston three runs. In the next sortie a like assortment of misplays and a quintet of hits gave Boston four more runs, so Manager "Tim" Hurst hauled Taylor off the rubber in favor of Carsey, the diminutive twirler, whom Boston was willing to give Stivetts for last winter. The little man got away with it for one inning without punishment, but the final trio of runs scored by "Hubtown" was chalked against him in the seventh.

PITCHER WILFRED CARSEY.

Victor Willis towered above the two St. Louis box men and held the enemy down to two runs and six singles. His speed was fine and attended by almost perfect control. Half a dozen "browns" went out on strikes, Harley, the old Georgetown 'varsity man, missing connections three times out of four. Score:

The Meridens defeated the Hartfords in the first of a series of ball games for the state championship. Ten innings were played.

Yesterday Arthur Irwin took control of the senators, bringing with him new players. Both games with the Clevelands were lost because of poor pitching. The second game was called on account of darkness.

The Phillies lumped their hits in the first and fifth innings yesterday and easily defeated the Chicagoes.

Pitcher Dunkle has been released by the Philadelphias. Pitcher Phyle of St. Paul and Catcher Nichols of Springfield have joined the Chicago team.

A stupid piece of base running by Catcher Grady of the New Yorks in the eighth inning practically caused a tie game between the New Yorks and Pittsburgs. The game was called on account of darkness.

The Louisvilles won yesterday's game in Brooklyn by hard hitting in the first three innings. McKenna, who succeeded Dunn, stopped the onslaught.

George Fred In Omaha.

Omaha, Sept. 15.—In taking the chair yesterday to preside for the silver day at the monetary conference, Senator W. V. Allen voiced a hearty welcome on behalf of the state to the champions of all sides of the money question who had met to discuss the merits of their respective claims. Alluding to Horace White's reference to his speech against the Cleveland bond issue, he said: "I said then, and I say now, that there was not the slightest authority in the statutes in the country for that bond issue but the American people are too generous as well as just to stand upon a technicality, and they will pay dollar for dollar for the money received. I cannot conceive how a man can be a gold monometalist who wants justice and sees and enjoys the fruits of their labors. If a man desires to see a small volume of money and the resultant spoliation of business by the creditor class I can understand why he will defend the gold standard."

G. F. Williams of Massachusetts attributed his conversion to the silver theory to the philanthropic reason involved in what was to him a great question. "In this country," said he, "the boasted prosperity of the north and east is based upon the depression of farms and plantations of the west and south. The effect of an appreciated money requiring more products for a given sum increased the burden of debt. Prices had fallen 40 percent in 1895, and have continued to fall ever since. In an era of falling prices I believe in a protective tariff, but the gold standard is a leveller that passes over every wall. If it is not dishonest to lower prices by legislation at the expense of the debtor, is it dishonest to raise them by legislation for the relief of the debtor? We are charged with being repudiators, but any system of policy demanded by the best interests of mankind is not dishonest. The Congressional Record is full of prophesies of what would follow the establishment of the gold standard, the contraction of the money volume and the appreciation of the dollar."

Meager Details of Disaster.

St. Thomas, D. W. I., Sept. 15.—According to the latest reports from St. Lucia, the storm which broke upon the island Sunday night developed almost unprecedented violence, being accompanied by a tidal wave and tremendous rains. Numerous landslides were caused, and many houses, bridges and cocoa estates have been destroyed. At least 12 lives have been lost.

Guadaloupe, the French island in the Leeward group, has experienced very heavy weather. Nineteen deaths are reported, and there have been destructive landslides.

A boat from the island of St. Vincent, 100 miles west of Barbadoes, arrived yesterday at the island of Grenada and reports that St. Vincent has experienced the most violent and destructive cyclone ever known there. Kingston, the capital, is totally destroyed. It is estimated that 300 lives have been lost in that island and that 20,000 people are homeless. The bodies of the dead are being buried in trenches. Thousands are starving, or being fed at the public expense. The amount of property destroyed in St. Vincent cannot yet be estimated. Every small house is down and many large ones have been destroyed. The demolished buildings include churches, stores and almost all the state buildings. Three large ships are ashore on the Windward coast and many smaller vessels are stranded.

General Woodford's Views.

Saratoga, Sept. 15.—The reorganization of the League of Republican clubs of the state of New York wes perfected yesterday. The principal address was made by General Stewart L. Woodford, minister to Spain. General Woodford said that Republican defeat in New York this autumn will be accepted throughout the nation as the defeat of President McKinley and as a declaration that New York does not endorse nor sustain the president. "I know, as no man in the land can know," he said, "how firmly the president stood during all the trying hours of last winter for the preservation of American interests in Cuba and for the protection of suffering and humanity."

He added that the Republicans of the United States and they alone are responsible for the settlement of the issues of this war. "We must give to Cuba a stable government," he said. "The flag is in Porto Rico by right of conquest, and the island must remain American. The flag is in the Philippines. I will not say that wherever our flag has gone there our flag must stay; but this I will say, that wherever our flag has gone there the liberty, the humanity and the civilization which that flag embodies and represents must stay and abide forever. Whatever our nation should do to fulfill this obligation, that our nation must do. Upon this nation the responsibility is placed, and to the Republican party is given this great trust for the future and for humanity."

Money Spent In Relief.

New York, Sept. 15.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Woman's National War Relief association the treasurer's report showed the total receipts to be $35,455, which include only $10,000 of Miss Gould's $25,000 gift. The total expenditures are $17,357, leaving a balance of $10,097 in the treasury.

Edward Sumner, representing Sir Thomas Lipton, sent $1000 to the Irvington auxiliary of the association. This is part of a gift of $10,000 sent by Sir Thomas Lipton for relief work among veterans of the Spanish-American war.

Senator Made Unconscious.

Cleveland, Sept. 15.—Senator James H. Kyle of South Dakota was stricken with paralysis at the Forest City House yesterday. The senator is unconscious and is in a serious, though not necessarily dangerous, condition.

Senator Kyle arrived here to visit friends. While in the hotel, the senator was taken suddenly ill. His entire right side was paralyzed and he was rendered speechless. A few moments later he became unconscious.

Phenacetine Between Mattresses.

New York, Sept. 15.—Charles Polacek, a wholesale dealer in leaf tobacco and cigars, and H. K. Robinson of this city were arrested yesterday by United States deputy marshals. Nineteen packages of phenacetine were found concealed between the mattresses of Polacek's bed. Polacek said he had received the phenacetine from Robinson, who had purchased it from a druggist in Milltown, N. B.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Thomas Schofield of Calais, Me., was drowned yesterday. He leaves a wife and several children.

The Norwegian ship America, from Quebec for Greenock, Scotland, with a large cargo of lumber, was wrecked in mid-ocean by a hurricane Sept. 4, her crew of 18 men being rescued by a British steamer and landed in Boston.

A semi-official note says that all the statements of the newspapers regarding the alleged intervention of the president of France in the Dreyfus affair are incorrect. This is interpreted to mean that there will not be a presidential crisis.

The newspapers reaching the state department in the official mails from the east show that the almost universal expression in the public press of Japan is in favor of the United States holding permanently and governing the Philippine islands. The editorials insist that this is the only issue of the matter that will satisfy the highest interests of the islands and the demands of civilization.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A and B. The instalment today is the fourth of the Cs' and includes the letter to "Cr" inclusive, and will be continued tomorrow:

Good Afternoon.

There is a movement to give a benefit for the families of Company K men, as it is claimed that "they are in need of assistance for immediate need." If it is a fact that there are some dependent upon the boys in the company for support it is a worthy cause, but there is no evidence that this is the case. Only seven of the company are married, and special care was taken at enlistment that men should not be taken who were depended upon by widows or families. The members of Co. K and their parents are self respected, and will not take kindly to a benefit, unless they are actually needy. An effort should be made to ascertain if there is the least suffering or want because of the withdrawal of support formerly received from members of Co. K.

Was it Murder?

Judge Humphrey held an inquest this morning on the death of Lottie F. Bates at Weymouth in April, 1897, and for whose death her mother now stands charged with murder. Assistant District Attorney Schutz conducted the inquest for the government and a large number of witnesses were examined. The trial of Mrs. Bates will be held Saturday and the finding at this inquest will play an important part at the trial, for it is expected that it will determine whether the death of Lottie was the result of suicide or willful murder.

A New Page.

The summer resort is a thing of the past,
And soon there'll be mud on the road,
And then on a Sunday, the cyclist, perchance,
Will devote a brief thought to the Lord.

Mr. Editor: The above little poem which appeared in last night's issue of the Ledger is very cute and I hope the cyclist will avail himself of the opportunities offered for devotion, but I am afraid that in the majority of cases their devotion will be "perchance" and "brief," as the poem suggests, but more likely their time will be occupied on the Sabbath as the following lines suggests:

The summer resort is a thing of decline,
And soon there'll be smelts in the bays,
And on a Sunday the angler with line,
Will catch more than on other days.

C. W. PAGE.

The author of the first "gem" desires to add the following:

When the smelting season is nigh
We trust that these words of the Sage,
Will meet the lens of the angler's eye
And cause him to turn over the Page.

There are a few books left at this office of trolley trips along the north and south shore and this is just the weather to enjoy a cool trip. Books with complete maps only ten cents.

—A nice brass fire set will be sold at the auction, 6 Chestnut street, tomorrow.

ENJOYED THE TRIP.

Train Took a Steamboat Ride to the Surprise of Some.

Middletown, Penn.,
Camp Meade, Sept. 13.

We did not change cars on our journey here until we landed on Pennsylvania soil. While travelling in daylight the scenery was something picturesque. Our first stop for rations was made at New Haven, Conn., arriving there about 8 P. M. and leaving about 8.20. Coffee was here supplied to troops as each section came in. We then procceeded along until New York was reached. Arrived there about 11 P. M.

Here the great surprise took place which lots of our boys of Co. K will not credit. We were side tracked on to a bridge, as we supposed, but the bridge turned out to be a float, taking on the whole second section. We sailed down East river for a distance of twelve miles, passing under Brooklyn bridge at just 12, midnight; it was the prettiest sight of whole route. It was witnessed by quite a number of the boys, others peacefully slumbered. As taps were sounded at 9.30 P. M., requiring all lights to be turned out, we could perceive the country better. Every man is supposed to retire for night, but there were over a hundred of the boys who stayed up all night.

Arriving at Jersey City, a Pennsylvania engine pulled us off float and proceeded to Camp Meade. Our next stop for rations was Lancaster, Penn., 120 miles from Camp Meade; there we stayed for a period of about fifteen minutes. From here we proceeded on to our camp, arriving at 10.45 A. M.

We must not forget compliments paid to the "Dandy Fifth."

The train was policed every two hours while we proceded onward. By policing we mean to keep floors clean and everything in perfect order. The N. Y., N. H. & H. company making the remark that cars were kept cleaner than any other regiment that has passed over their line.

We finally reached Middletown at 10.45 A. M. and had to wait for other sections. Each section arriving 20 minutes behind the one ahead. The regiment being formed we proceeded onward to camp. Here is where we anticipated the worst experience of a life-time, the roads out here being laid with coal dust. Being in heavy marching order, and old Sol beating down on us at a temperature of about 100. The boys felt just warm enough for all the dust in the country to adhere to their faces and hands, and when the grounds were reached, every man complimented the other on what a good coon he would make. The sight of the boys was something terrible, but after a bath each man felt better.

Supper was served at 7 P. M. and revived the men wonderfully. Today (Tuesday) the boys are having a holiday, so as to get everything in order and become rested after their long journey.

Col. Whitney and his noble staff of officers intend to use every effort to prevent sickness, so men will have to take baths about every day. The regiment is in fine condition, none reported dangerously sick; we hope it will continue so.

The guard details for today were Captain Springer of C, officer of the day; Lieut. Whitney of K, commander of guard; Corporal Matthews in charge of prison guard. These officers have the distinction of being the first to perform duty at our new camp. Lieut. Whitney is an energetic officer, keeping his eye open for all openings and we are proud of him.

The "Dandy Fifth" is brigaded with the 21st New York, 3d Connecticut and 4th Missouri, under the command of Brigadier General Graham. Later these regiments will be attached to 2d Army Corps, under command of General Fitz Hugh Lee.

VOLUNTEER.

Camp Meade Dispatch.

A dispatch to the Journal from Camp Meade says, Maj. Gen. Graham has modified the army regulations to allow ten per cent. of the officers and men of the various regiments to be away on five days' leave at one time. Gen. S. M. B. Young arrived Wednesday from Camp Wickoff, and assumed command of the first division.

There is much sickness among the men of the Fifteenth Pennsylvania Regiment, and all drills have been suspended until they are better. The boys are suffering from malarial fever, contracted at Sheridan Point, where they were located before they came to this amp.

—Several desirable odd chairs will be sold at the auction, 6 Chestnut street, tomorrow.

They Played Ball.

George L. Gill, Rebekah lodge, No. 146, held its first picnic, at N. B. Furnald's cottage at Houghs Neck, Wednesday, and a gay and happy crowd to the number of forty was on hand to enjoy the outing. Delegations from Amana lodge, South Braintree, and Carrie E. Ruggles of Wollaston, helped to enliven the occasion. The day was perfect and after a most agreeable social time, wading in the water at low tide by Sister L and others, a bountiful collation was served, consisting of clam chowder and a lot of nice things. After dinner all witnessed a very interesting ball game between the ladies of Amana and George L. Gill lodges, score 51 to 49 in favor of Amana, eight innings. Game called on account of darkness. Referees John H. Gillis, Ansel O. Clark and N. B. Furnald, the only three men on the beach, at the picnic. The outing was one of the most enjoyable and all felt well paid for the day's trip, and hope that at the end of another year to assemble again to see the pitcher of the George L. Gill base ball team.

Men as Nurses.

There isn't one man in fifty thousand who is a good nurse. The average man feels as much out of place in a sick-room as a bull must in a china-store. His heart may be ever so full of sympathy, but his feet are heavy and his fingers clumsy.

In most cases when a woman's general health breaks down the original cause is weakness or disease of the distinctly feminine organism. The only permanent cure lies in the correction of all these disorders. Husbands should know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only medicine that invariably cures all ailments of this nature without "local treatment" and "examinations." It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned. It makes them well and strong. It allays inflammation, heals all internal ulceration and stops debilitating drains. It soothes and tones the nerves. Found at all medicine stores. An honest druggist won't urge upon you a substitute.

"I had female trouble for many years," writes Mrs. A. Lingelbach, of Granger, Sweetwater Co., Wyoming, "and tried many physicians until I was completely discouraged. Finally I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for six months, and I soon found that I was completely cured. I had been so bad I could hardly walk across the floor, but I am now well and strong, thanks to Dr. Pierce."

No family should be without Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It used to cost $1.50; now it is free. Paper-covered copy, 21 one-cent stamps, to cover mailing only; cloth binding 31 stamps. Over 1,200,000 American homes now contain copies of this great work. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued cases of Samuel E. Richards of Milton for the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor was heard. The evidence in this case was that Chief of Police Pierce of Milton sent Officers O'Brien and Newcomb of Quincy to Richard's place on Randolph avenue to obtain evidence against him. The officers testified that they went to Richard's place with two men whose names they did not know, and each paid for a round of beer which they drank.

Richards was found guilty on the two complaints and was fined $50 on each. Appealed.

The continued cases of Andrew A. Meyer and Charles Moore for assault on Annie McGirth was heard. They were found not guilty and discharged.

Maurice and Edward Lawton and Thomas and Michael Logan were arraigned for the larceny of a peck of peaches from the orchard of Frank S. Patch at Quincy. Thomas was discharged, and the cases against the other boys continued four weeks.

The continued case of John Buck, Fred Hadden and Loring Bigelow, for obstructing the tracks of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., was heard and continued until Oct. 13. The evidence showed that the boys had found the torpedo on the highway crossing at South Quincy, where it had been left by railroad employes, and that their placing it upon the tracks was not with malicious intent, but simply to hear it explode.

TROOPS USED BADLY.

THOSE IN PORTO RICO NOT PAID FOR THREE MONTHS.

The Military Postoffice Called a Pathetic Joke — Soldiers Have Not Heard From Home For a Quarter of a Year.

It is a harsh thing to say that the devoted volunteers and patient regulars now in Porto Rico have been treated with a singular lack of consideration by the government so far as pay is concerned.

The entire hospital staff of the Fourth army corps, for instance, has not received a penny for four months up to Aug. 27. On Aug. 31 it will have been three months since the Eleventh regiment and the Fifth light artillery have seen a penny of Uncle Sam's money. This regiment and artillery only a few days ago were called upon to perform an extraordinary march under peculiar difficulties and responded to a man, two stealing away from the hospital to join the firing line. But for three months the only knowledge they had that they were employed by Uncle Sam was the serving of rations—when they had them. This speaks well for the spirit of the men, but there must be something wrong between here and Washington.

Now that there is no war, the volunteers are talking. They are not a poor and helpless set, by any means, and many an inquiry here may result in a court martial over there. What a shame it is that scandal should always follow on the heels of a high purpose! But already the names of some well known men are bandied about here as freely as if the proof was not wanting—and it is not.

Where the paymasters are Washington only knows. A detachment of Troop A escorted two with their treasure to Utuado, where the money was paid out to troops away back in their pay, but who had done nothing except get wet. Since then nothing has been heard of the paymasters, except that they are coming "manana." Men who have been pushed steadily forward to the front have heard that "they are coming" so often that they only grin and ring in the old, old, "So's Christmas!"

It is no joke to be four months without pay, especially when thrown into an island like this, where one must take the best of care of himself or go to the sick tent, the hospital, the fever ward and perhaps the grave. A penny for a lime at the right time would have toned up that bad stomach. Three cents for a glass of brandy would have prevented that congestive chill, but Uncle Sam had forgotten, and there isn't today one cent of his money in the entire army in the western end of the island.

At San Marias, a young West Pointer, a volunteer of a company of the Eleventh infantry, gratefully accepted a loan of a few dollars for delicacies which were necessities to him. A rich and well bred New York man, he had suffered quietly with his men, sleeping in the rain and mud and eating the stuff called rations. This young West Pointer had been advanced to first lieutenant for gallantry during the fight at Las, or San, Marias, as it is called there.

Imagine what the young lieutenant did with the borrowed money—the first he had seen in three months! He bought a clean undershirt and half a beef. The former he donned with a sigh of satisfaction, after burying its predecessor; the latter he assisted his company in stowing away in one gorgeous gorge—the first fresh meat any of them had eaten for three weeks.

Another volunteer, attached to the Fourth army corps and sent here (San German) on hospital duty, says not a man in his detachment has been paid for four months, and he has not met a soldier who had received a penny in less than three months. This man is a graduate from a New York medical school and is indignant and amazed at the way the soldiers are being treated. They anticipated hardship and even privation, but not indifference and neglect. He tells of stories of delicacies sent over in the relief ships by good American women and intended for the sick, but which never reached them. All that, of course, is mere private scandal and will be traced in time to the officers who intercepted these merciful little gifts, but the great question, as to why the soldiers are not paid, must be answered by higher authority than a petty officer.

The alleged military postoffice, too, is a pathetic joke. The lack of money from the government would not be felt so keenly were not all communication with home absolutely cut off. I have been fortunate in being here only one month, so it is not longer than that since I heard from home, but the soldiers here number thousands who have not heard a word from home for three months. There are letters for them at Tampa, Key West, in fumigation at Santiago, at Ponce or anywhere or everywhere except where they ought to be.

The private, hungry, cold, bare and penniless, sleeping with his face in the rain and his back in the mud, with the advance guard close to Lares, demands that the blame be fixed for these unnecessary privations. The commanding officer, here or elsewhere, who has all he needs except what he wants for his boys away in front, insists upon it. The American people will have it.—Harry N. Gaither, Cor. New York Press.

He Wanted Pie.

A breathless regular rushed into Hungry Joe's at Camp Wikoff, Montauk, the other evening and cried:

"Gimme a piece of apple pie."

"Ve got it, bud ve're all oud of it," answered the "chef."

"Can't you get me just one piece? It ain't for myself. It's for my chum. He's terrible sick with dysentery, and he can't eat nothing else."

He didn't get the pie there, and as there was no death in that regiment reported the next day he probably didn't get it anywhere.—New York Sun.

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

Child's Pure Grit.

New York, Sept. 15.—George Byers of Boston and Frank Childs of Chicago, colored heavyweights, fought 20 hard rounds at the rooms of the Lenox Athletic club last night. After taking an awful lot of punishment, Childs held his ground until the limit was reached. Byers outfought and outpointed him, and was declared the winner.

Childs' left eye was badly bruised and swollen from a succession of left jabs in the fourth round. Childs rushed matters in the seventh round, but could not knock out Byers, who kept jabbing his left on the injured eye until it was in a terrible condition. In the 10th Childs went at Byers furiously, and swung his right hard in the side of the head. It was a savage blow, and Byers became more careful.

Pure grit kept Childs to his work. He was fearfully punished about the face, but took his medicine gamely. His blows were not heavy enough to be effective. In the 20th round Childs was the aggressor and sent his right to the head. Byers, however, had the better of it all through, and the referee decided in the Boston man's favor.

Lynn, Sept. 15.—Mabel Midgeley reported to the police last night that a thief whom she caught rifling the bureaus in her house attacked and beat her so badly that she was unconscious for a long time. Notice of the loss of two watches and jewelry worth $150 was also given.

GRATITUDE OF CUBANS

Council of the Provisional Government Expresses It.

Would Have Won Themselves, but at Great Cost.

Assembly of the People Convoked to Consider the Future.

Santiago, Sept. 15.—A manifesto, signed by President Masso, Vice President Capote and three secretaries of the council of the provisional government, has been issued, together with an order to the military commanders of the insurgent army. It touches on the history of the movement for Cuban independence and principles upon which the Cuban people have fought for their liberty, and proceeds in part as follows:

"The peace preliminaries have been signed, and the United States has imposed upon Spain an obligation to renounce all her rights of sovereignty over the island of Cuba and to evacuate the territory immediately. The cessation of hostilities has also been agreed upon. Though the principal object of our revolution has been obtained, that is the destruction of Spanish dominion, the work of this council is not yet at an end, for the Cuban republic—the ideal for which we have fought—has not yet been constituted. Now that hostilities have ceased and Spain has renounced her sovereignty, it is the duty of this council to set before the Cuban people the feeling and purposes of the men who made the revolution.

"We always felt confident that through our own perserverence we would in the long run destroy Spanish domination; but we must acknowledge that an indefinite prolongation of the struggle would have annihilated the little that was left of our wealth and population. The entrance upon the field of a powerful and decisive factor, upon which we have always relied and toward which the hearts of all Cubans have always turned, has put an end to the horrors of war, to the benefit of all concerned. This prompt solution we must acknowledge we could never have obtained. It is proper to acknowledge the evident truth. That is the best title the United States has to our gratitude. We were abandoned by the world, some nations ignoring us through selfishness, others, ignorant of our real condition, considering us an obstinate and ungovernable people, because we did not accept the cajoleries and flatteries with which Spain tried to soothe our just anger. This was our situation when the people of the United States, their government and congress came to our rescue and took upon their shoulders the task of delivering us at once from an unbearable yoke, as our sufferings could not be endured or permitted longer. They have accomplished their program brilliantly; what is more they have liberated, in one way or another, from the rule of Spain all peoples oppressed by her. The liberation is definite and irrevocable. Spain has been expelled from this hemisphere.

"We are grateful. In nations as well as in individuals, gratitude is ennobling. As we begin now our national life we, more than any other people, must be jealous of our national honor. It is therefore the duty of this council to explain to the people of Cuba what, in its opinion, are our duties towards the United States and toward ourselves, and what are the rules that ought to direct our conduct.

"When, after a long struggle, the United States congress recognized the right of the people of Cuba to be free and independent and ordered the Spanish forces to withdraw from the island, no Cuban government was recognized; but the one we had constituted, though not recognized, was not opposed and has not been opposed. No steps have been taken to dislodge it from the place where it exercised its functions, nor has it been considered an illegitimate authority which events have dissolved or destroyed for the good of the people of Cuba. It could not be otherwise. The United States could not interfere in our struggle for the sake of what our enemies might consider a political faction. The American government could intervene for the benefit of the whole people of Cuba, a part of whom, being under Spanish rule, was not free to express a purpose or a preference. The intention of the United States was that, as soon as the obstacle of Spanish rule had been removed, the whole Cuban people should choose a government that would shape the destinies of the island. The people of the United States have all along appreciated the fact that the majority of the people of Cuba is in agreement with our peoples, for the motto of the United States government has been the same as our own—absolute independence for Cuba. Under these conditions, the Americans could not take a hostile attitude toward us, or consider our authority illegitimate and harmful to the welfare of the Cuban people.

"These considerations have convinced us that we should not dissolve, and that the powers we have received from an assembly elected by the people under arms should not vanish. On the contrary we feel that we should remain as a nucleus and guide for those who have vested such power in us. We have therefore decided to call together another assembly which will determine our future course."

In conclusion the manifesto gives a number of reasons why the proposed assembly should be convened and some government or another chosen, "not with the character of a government as yet, but as an official representation of those Cubans who fought against Spain and of those who, in the cities under Spain's control and in foreign countries, have helped and supported them."

The Cuban Character.

New York, Sept. 15.—When General Wheeler was asked if he believed that a large standing army will be required in Cuba, yesterday, he replied: "I do not. I believe that we will have no difficulty in managing the Cubans when once we begin to understand their nature. We must remember that they speak a language different from ours, and that they are of a different temperament. Under proper management I believe that the Cubans will prove perfectly tractable and friendly to us in every way.

"My view of the Cuban character is different from that of many. I believe they mean well. One thing I have learned is that you can accomplish nothing with them by harsh dealing. By reasoning with them, however, you can accomplish wonders. They are always willing to listen to reason. I do not believe that a large force will be required in Cuba or that there will be any further trouble there. All that I have said of Cuba applies to Porto Rico."

Blanco's Bad Fit of Sulks.

Havana, Sept. 15.—For the first time since the peace protocol was signed, Captain General Blanco consented yesterday to speak of the war to an American newspaper. He said: "My government has signed the peace protocol, and her decision must be complied with. Nevertheless, I have an eternal confidence in divine justice, and I have, therefore, hope that this arrogant nation will receive its just deserts; and God knows the day when this act of national despolation is accomplished, and the stars and stripes float from the walls of Havana, that day may perhaps mark the beginning of the decay of the American nation. Before it is all over I wish to put myself on record as having no dislike for the army of the United States. On the contrary, I have the highest appreciation of their noble and courageous behavior."

Congratulates Sagasta.

London, Sept. 15.—The Standard says editorially this morning, after congratulating Sagasta and the government upon "having survived a difficult period successfully," that the great danger is now over. "Spain," it continues, "appears reconciled, knowing that, whatever differences may arise in the peace negotiations, she is bound to yield. As to reports that indemnity will be demanded, the United States knows that no money can be got out of Spain, and is therefore unlikely to make such a demand seriously. If the United States secures Luzon, it is most probable that Spain will give up the remainder of the islands as a useless encumbrance."

Parliament Prorogued.

Madrid, Sept. 15.—In the senate yesterday General Primo de Rivera demanded an inquiry into his administration of the Philippine islands, and in so doing he said the attacks of Count Almenas were only "fit for the mouth of a miserable slanderer." Almenas was endeavoring to reply when Sagasta read the decree proroguing the cortes. Count Almenas and General Rivera separately approached the president in a hostile manner, and a duel is expected. Premier Sagasta afterwards read the decree in the chamber of deputies.

A painful impression has been caused here by a statement that the United States intends to demand $20,000,000 in behalf of the American citizens who have suffered through the insurrection in Cuba. The Spanish peace commissioners will strongly oppose this, it is claimed, but fears prevail that the United States will become pitiless and press its advantage to the utmost.

Cuban Independence.

Havana, Sept. 15.—The central committee of the promoters of the movement for Cuban independence appointed Monday night is actively appointing sub-committees in the provinces to second the efforts of the Cuban junta in New York, and is making great efforts to persuade the Spanish residents that independence would have great advantages over annexation. The committee calls on resident Spaniards to help achieve independence.

William Chambers, a British subject, was found in a railway station with a trunk filled with revolvers. He had come from the interior of the island. Out of courtesy to the British consul he was not arrested. He gave as his address the Hotel Pasaje, in this city, but no trace of him can be found there. The British consulate is looking for the man, who gave no explanation regarding the contents of the trunk, which has been seized.

Signed the Protocol.

Madrid, Sept. 15.—The queen regent signed the protocol last evening.

The government had intended the cortes to sit until an indemnity bill for the suspension of the constitutional guarantees had passed, but the threatened agitation on the part of General Weyler and others, together with the evidence of divisions in both the Liberal and Conservative parties, convinced Sagasta of the advisability of closing debates which would have hindered the free progress of the peace negotiations The cortes will be next convoked to ratify the final treaty of peace.

Was She Bertha Mellish?

Bridgeport, Sept. 15.—Yesterday was another day of mystery in the case of the woman whose remains were found in Yellow Mill pond. The police certainly have clues upon which they are working, but, for reasons which they say are good and sufficient, refuse to divulge the nature of any of them. That certain ones are under suspicion is evident from the actions of the police, and any moment is likely to be prolific of developments of a startling nature.

Superintendent Birmingham has discovered the livery stable which rented a turnout Monday night to a stranger, who is believed to be connected with the case. The police are building great hopes upon this clue. A New London man, who declined to give his name, called at the morgue and in npositive terms said that the body was that of Bertha Mellish, who disappeared from Mt. Holyoke college, Nov. 18,1897. He said he knew Miss Mellish well, having met her frequently in New London. Miss Mellish's father is a minister and preaches at Dayville. The stranger said he would communicate his belief to Miss Mellish's parents.

Wanted to Drown Trouble.

Portland, Me., Sept. 15.—Joseph Colley, aged 64, whose home is in Ottawa, was a passenger on the Peak's island steamer yesterday. When the boat was half way between the island and her dock Colley cut his throat and jumped overboard. He was recovered in an unconscious condition, and taken to the hospital. It is believed he cannot recover. His explanation is that he was despondent on account of trouble he had with his wife, whom he married two weeks ago. He left her in Ottawa.

SUPPLIES ABUNDANT.

What Shafter Says of the Conditions In Santiago.

Everything Possible Done For the Fighters.

Satisfaction Expressed That the Discipline Was So Good.

Washington, Sept. 15.—In the report submitted to the war department of the movement against Santiago, General Shafter describes the embarkation, preparation for battle and the conclusion of hostilities, and says:

"Great credit is due to Brigadier General H. S. Hawkins, who, placing himself between his regiments, urged them on by voice and bugle calls to the attack so brilliantly executed. In this fierce encounter, words fail to do justice to the gallant regimental commanders and their heroic men, for while the generals indicated the formations and the points of attack, it was, after all, the intrepid bravery of the subordinate officers and the men that planted our colors on the crest of San Juan hill and drove the enemy from his trenches and blockhouse, thus gaining a position which sealed the fate of Santiago.

"I am greatly indebted to General Wheeler, who returned from the sick list during the afternoon. His cheerfulness and aggressiveness made itself felt on this part of the battlefield, and the information he furnished to me at various stages of the battle proved to be most useful. My own health was impaired by over-exertion in the sun and the intense heat of the day before, which prevented me from participating as actively in the battle as I desired; but from a high hill near my headquarters I had a general view of the battlefield, extending from El Caney on the right to the left of our lines on San Juan hill.

"A few Cubans assisted in the attack at El Caney, and fought valiantly, but their numbers were too small to materially change the strength indicated above. The enemy confronted us with numbers about equal to our own; they fought obstinately in strong and intrenched positions, and the result obtained clearly indicated the intrepid gallantry of the company officers and men, and the benefits derived from the careful training and instructions given in the army in recent years in rifle practice and other battle exercises. Our losses in these battles were 22 officers and 208 men killed, and 81 officers and 1203 men wounded, with 79 missing. The missing, with few exceptions, reported later."

In closing, Shafter says: "Before closing my report I wish to dwell upon the natural obstacles I had to encounter and which no foresight could have overcome or obviated. The rocky and precipitous coast afforded no sheltered landing places, the roads were mere bridle paths, the effect of the tropical sun and rains upon unacclimated troops was deadly, and the dread of strange and unknown diseases had its effect on the army. At Daiquiri, the landing of the troops and stores was made at a small wooden wharf which the Spaniards tried to burn, but unsuccessfully, and the animals were pushed into the water and guided to a sandy beach about 200 yards in extent. At Siboney, the landing was made on the beach, and at a small wharf erected by the engineers. I had neither the time nor the men to spare to construct permanent wharves. In spite of the fact that I had nearly 1000 men continuously at work on the roads, they were at times impassable for wagons. The San Juan and Aguadores rivers would often suddenly rise so as to prevent the passage of wagons, and then the eight pack trains with the command had to be depended on for victualling my army as well as the 20,000 refugees who could not, in the interests of humanity, be left to starve while we had rations. Often for days nothing could be moved except in pack trains.

"After the great physical strain and exposure of July 1 and 2, the malarial and other fevers began to rapidly advance throughout the command, and on July 4 the yellow fever appeared at Siboney. Though efforts were made to keep this fact from the army, it soon became known. The supply of quartermaster and commissary stores during the campaign was abundant, and notwithstanding the difficulties in landing and transporting the rations, the troops in the firing line were at all times supplied with its coarser components, namely, of bread, meat, sugar and coffee. There was no lack of transportation, for at no time up to the surrender could all the wagons I had be used.

"In reference to the sick and wounded, I have to say that they received every attention that it was possible to give them. The medical officers without exception worked night and day to alleviate the suffering, which was no greater than invariably accompanies a campaign. It would have been better if we had more ambulances, but as many were taken as was thought necessary, judging from previous campaigns.

"The discipline of the command was superb, and I wish to invite attention to the fact that not an officer was brought to trial by court-martial and, as far as I know, no enlisted men. This speaks volumes for an army of this size and in a campaign of such duration. In conclusion, I desire to express to the members of my staff my thanks for their efficient performance of all the duties required of them, and the good judgment and bravery displayed on all occasions when demanded."

Deserting Montauk Point.

Camp Wikoff, Montauk Point, L. I., Sept. 15.—Present indications are that before the end of another week Camp Wikoff will be practically abandoned. During the last few days every effort has been made to send the troops away as rapidly as possible. There were originally 18 regular infantry regiments here, but seven of them have gone away, and eight more regiments are under orders to move as soon as transportation can be furnished, leaving only three infantry regiments in camp without orders to move. Advices are expected from Washington any moment, instructing these to go to other quarters.

Delay In Porto Rico.

Washington, Sept. 15.—The delay of the military commissioners in Porto Rico in arranging for the evacuation of the island is deprecated by medical officers because of the danger to which it exposes the United States troops on the island. After the lapse of a month from the appointment of the commission nothing has been accomplished beyond the ordering of formal courtesies. It has been represented to the president by General Miles that the cause of the sickness of the American troops was to be found in this delay.

It appears that under the truce, neither side is authorized to either advance or withdraw troops. Consequently, the American troops are obliged to maintain the positions they occupied when the news of the signing of the protocol reached them. These positions, while well adapted for fighting, are unhealthy and not fit for permanent camps.

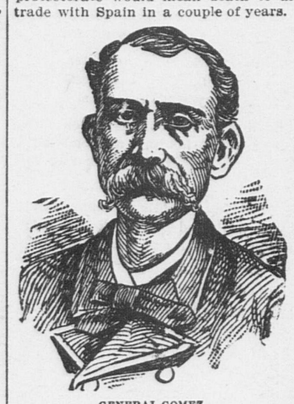
LIBERTY, OR NOTHING!

Gomez Fiercely Opposed to a Protectorate In Cuba.

Absolute Independence of the Island Urged.

Radical Agitators Favor a Fight to Compass Their Ends.

Havana, Sept. 16.—The predomenant feature of the situation is the feverish and widespread agitation of the Cubans in favor of the absolute independence of the island at all costs. Manifestos are being circulated inviting the co-operation of Spanish residents and merchants to this end, and pointing out that either annexation or an American protectorate would mean death to all trade with Spain in a couple of years.



GENERAL GOMEZ.

General Maximo Gomez, who, only a fortnight ago, gave expression to extremely moderate views, counselling harmony and patience, now expresses himself as strongly in favor of "absolute independence, or nothing." He says the Spanish element cannot afford to delay in uniting with the Cubans as a "necessary basis for the establishment of conditions that will forbid and prevent the United States grabbing and taking easy advantage of the treasure both Spaniards and Cubans have fought for at an expense of rivers of blood on each side." General Gomez says, if report speaks truly, that "those who fear independence belong to the same family of cowardly curs who fled from Havana at the first rumor of bombardment." These, he declares, to be a minority, and, to quote him further, "almost the entire Spanish population remained, protecting their homes and defying the dangers of war, and will now remain to unite their efforts with those of the Cuban party, working together with the Cubans for the development of the island and the return of prosperity."

A leading evening paper published a letter purporting to voice the opinion of Catalonia in favor of independence and promising aid and co-operation. How far the influence of the party agitating for Cuban independence may extend it is at present difficult to estimate; but the fact is, its agents are working like beavers. Some former sympathizers with the annexation movement are to be found in the ranks of the independent movement.

This violent impetus given to the agitation for independence is the result apparently of the arrival of the Resolute, or rather of the arrival of Mr. Porter and the examination he is making into tariffs, municipal taxation and other matters of internal government which the Cubans had expected to handle and administer themselves. Mr. Porter's operations are viewed with suspicion by an important section of the Cubans, who keep on calling meetings and protesting against a "usurpation of privileges purchased at such a sacrifice." They insist upon absolute freedom, unrestrained liberty, or a fight to the death.

One reason why many Spaniards who at first favored annexation have now changed their minds is that they fear the competition of American rivals as storekeepers, hotel managers and restauranteurs. They are afraid that Americans, instead of coming to buy out their establishments and stocks at fabulous prices based upon the old Spanish duties, will open shops next door, import goods at low duties under the new regime, ruin their business and reduce them to poverty. Exactly the same spirit prevails among the planters, especially the smaller ones, who had hoped to sell at good prices the old French and Belgian machinery for which they paid dear and imported under excessive duties. They realize that the American syndicates will bring American machinery, much cheaper and paying practically no duties, establish a large central market, close to theirs and push them to the wall.

The awakening of such dreams to the reality of the future nature of American competition causes them now to shout loudly for Cuban independence, under which they would expect to enjoy the blessings of lenient laws without fear of active competition. All this amounts practically to a silent admission of Cuba's inability to offer, if left to herself, the guarantees of stability that would induce foreign capital to come here to develop the island's natural resources. The deduction seems to be this: With Cuban independence, no foreign capital and no competition; with Cuba under American rule, a competition against which the Cubans would not have the energy or the power to succeed. These questions are uppermost in every mind, making for general uneasiness and discontent, preventing the resumption of the normal tone of the market, and blocking trade and traffic.

Queen Paying For Food.

Madrid, Sept. 16.—The queen regent pays a daily visit to the sick soldiers who have returned from the colonies. She has ordered the convalescents to be conveyed in the royal carriages to the royal park, and is paying from her own purse for proper food for the invalids.

Officers, invalids and others who have returned from Santiago extol the kindness of the Americans after the surrender. They do not display the slightest animosity against the Americans, but they entertain bitter feelings against the Cubans.

Officers to Become Civilians.

Washington, Sept. 16.—The war department will soon take up the question of mustering out a connsiderable number of general officers of the volunteer army, including major generals and brigadiers, now that the volunteer forces have been reduced so largely. All regimental officers have gone out of service with their respective regiments, but the entire force of general officers still remains. The first effort of the department will be to reorganize the several corps and divisions on the basis of the reduced number of regiments, and when this is done, general officers will be named as corps commanders, division commanders, etc. The reorganization can be effected with about half the general officers now in service, so that when the new assignments are made those officers remaining unassigned will be mustered out. It is believed, however, that with the war closed, a considerable number of the high volunteer officers will resign so that the number which it will be necessary to muster out will be comparatively small.

"Bob" Evans Relieved.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Captain Robley D. Evans had a long talk with Secretary Long yesterday, the immediate result of which was the issue of an order relieving him of the command of the Iowa, which is now being repaired done at Captain Evans' request. He done at Captain Evan's request. He has served more than the period of time required by the regulations.

The next commander of the Iowa will be Captain Silas W. Terry, now in command of the receiving ship, Franklin, at the Norfolk navy yard. He will take the ship around South America and over to Honolulu in company with the Oregon and some soldiers.

Secretary Long decided to assign Captain Evans to duty as a member of the naval inspection board, and he will assume his new duties after a brief vacation.

Wrecking of the Warships.

Washington, Sept. 16.—No report has come to the department from Lieutenant Blue in charge of the wrecking of the Spanish warships near Santiago since Aug. 26. At that date he reported that it would be useless to attempt to raise the Colon; but meanwhile Constructor Hobson had been dispatched to undertake that task, and at the instance of Chief Constructor Hichborn, who was disposed to afford Mr. Hobson every opportunity to carry out his plans, the secretary of the navy ordered the work to continue, subject to the discretion of Commodore Watson, in command of the force on the station. The commodore has been assigned to the command of the Mare island navy yard, and whether or not he has directed Hobson to abandon the effort to raise the ship is not yet known.

TWO VICTORIES.

St. Louis Club Again an Easy Victim For the Bostons.

Boston, Sept. 16.—The Bostons had very little trouble in winning a doubleheader from the St. Louis team yesterday. Klobedanz held the rough riders down to three weak singles and one run in the first game, and Hickman shut the same team out in the second game and held the visitors down to five singles, two of which were scratches. Boston found Sudhoff quite troublesome in the first game, Klobedanz and Stafford getting in timely hits, while in the second game Hughey was hit rather freely by Lowe, Collins and Duffy. Score:

The Baltimores took two games from the Cincinnatis yesterday. The second contest was won after an uphill struggle. After the fourth inning the Baltimore team had Hawley at its mercy.

The Washingtons won the first game in the second inning, when Wilson was pounded for eight runs. Casey's errors at critical times gave the second game to the Clevelands.

The New Yorks took the first in the sixth inning, when three bases on balls and five singles brought in five runs. The second was lost the the Pittsburgs mainly through opportune batting, although errors by Joyce and Warner were responsible for runs.

The Brooklyns played sleepy ball after the Louisvilles got the lead. The Kentucky players bunched their hits in the fourth and won.

Lewiston Man Commander.

Williamsport, Pa., Sept. 16.—The 13th national encampment of the Union Veteran legion ended yesterday. Baltimore was selected as the place of meeting of the next national encampment. Officers were elected as follows: "Commander, W. S. Norcross, Lewiston, Me.; vice commander, J. B. Renner, Cincinnati; quartermaster, Thomas J. Hubbard, Baltimore; chaplain, H. N. Couden, Washington; surgeon, John T. Booth, Washington; executive committee, J. B. Knox, Worcester, Mass., and others.

Cannot Sell Pools.

Dedham, Sept. 16.—After a hearing given the Watch and Ward society, the police commissioners decided to prevent the selling of pools at the meeting of the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' association in Readville next week. The police took no action during the circuit meet of two weeks ago, but the Watch and Ward society made a strong appeal yesterday, and the request had been granted. The officers at the track will be instructed to arrest any one selling pools on the races.

Boston, Sept. 16.—In the supreme court, the jury having in hand the matrimonial case of Carcane vs. Merriam, an action of contract, the plaintiff being Luigi Carcane, an Italian marquis, and the defendant John M. Merriam, administrator of the estate of Emily Merriam, deceased, returned a verdict for the defendant.

A petition for commutation of the death sentence against Alfred C. Williams, convicted of the murder of John Gallo at Lynnfield July 28, 1897, has been presented to Governor Wolcott. It asks that the death penalty be commuted to that of life imprisonment, and the paper is signed by 10,000 names.

John Glynn is at the city hospital with a probably fractured skull, and Joseph E. Flanders is out on bail on a charge of assault and battery, but is likely to face a more serious complaint if Glynn's injuries result fatally. The men quarrelled over an oyster stew.

John Dolan of Philadelphia, who was found beside the tracks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad yesterday morning, having been run over and terribly injured by a train, died in a few hours after his admission to the city hospital.

The police were notified this morning by a couple of the alleged theft of a pocketbook containing $9500 in cash and $75,000 in stocks and bonds, which had been deposited by a San Francisco man with "a lady friend" for safekeeping. Little credence is given the story.

W. E. Spicer, formerly a clerk in the postoffice, has been appointed postmaster at Guantanamo. The former postmaster was found by the military authorities to be a Spanish sympathizer, and not trusted by either Cubans or foreigners.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A and B. The instalment today is the fifth and last of the C's.

The name of Governor Wolcott is being considered in connection with the ambassadorship to England. His appointment would make it interesting at the Republican State convention.

With pluralities of upwards of 5,300 for each of the four Republican congressmen of Maine, it looks as if the Pine Tree state was almost solidly Republican.

The Woodward

The fifth year of the Woodward Institute opened Wedenesday with about one hundred pupils, which is practically the same as last year, although fifty more could be accommodated with the same corps of teachers.

The new pupils to enter this year number twenty, and include one graduate from the Quincy High, and a Quincy born young lady, graduate of the North Easton High.

The only change in the corps of teachers is that made necessary by the resignation of Miss Lance, who has been succeeed by Miss Isabella Southworth Foote, a graduate of the St. Louis high and Smith college, and who last year was engaged as assistant with Miss Frye, teacher of English at the Brookline high school.

The programme for the school year has been arranged and this morning the regular order of work was commenced.

It is not perhaps generally understood that the study of foreign languages is optional and not compulsory. In this year's new class every member has selected one or more foreign languages.

A fact that has perhaps escaped the notice of the general public is that the present senior class enjoys the distinction of being the first five-year class of the school. This class now numbers twenty-one which is nearly the same number that entered with the class.

A NIGHT OF FIRES.

HOUSE AT QUINCY.

Incendiary Torch Applied to New Unoccupied Dwelling.

The alarm from Box 28 at 9.30 o'clock last night called the department to a lively fire in a new unoccupied house on the corner of Putnam and Everett streets, and before the last round of the alarm had done sounding the central station apparatus was on the scene. The fire at that time was well under way, and had been burning some time. The interior of the building was a roaring furnace, and the fire had worked through the east end of the building. A bright sheet of flame was extending heavenward from the top of the bow window, devouring everything that came in its way.

Two lines of hose were laid from a hydrant and the steamer was located at the corner of Merrymount road and Putnam street and almost before the nozzle had been coupled on the water was coming.

At this time but few of the call men had arrvied and Driver Faircloth of the Hook & Ladder was one of the first to take hold of the pipe and direct the stream into the building. As he did so the heat burst the window glass and one piece cut an artery on his right hand. He was urged to go to a physician and have it dressed but refused and kept pluckily at work until assistance arrived, when he was taken to a doctor. The arrival of the central station apparatus was quickly followed by Hose 2 and 4, each of which laid a line of hose from a hydrant on Putnam street. There was a good water pressure but it was an hour before the last spark had been extinguished and the order given to limber up. One line was however left connected with the hydrant and two men were detailed by Chief Packard to remain on duty until morning, in case the fire should again break out.

Investigation after the fire had been extinguished showed that it evidently originated near the fireplace in the dining room and had worked its way up through the partitions to the second story where it had spread out, as there is very little evidence of fire in the street floor rooms. The rooms upstairs are, however, burned although the greatest destruction was in the attic where havoc was worked among the rafters and roof.

The house was owned by Annie W. Grant of West Quincy, and the assessed value of the building was $1,800. It was probably what is called a $2,000 house and $1,000 should cover the loss. It was insured for $?,000 and the land and buildings were mortgaged for $3400.

There is no question but what the fire was caused by an incendiary and from an examination made early during the fire, it appeared that the glass in the back door had been smashed from the outside for the glass was inside the building and a large rock with which the glass had evidently been broken was on the steps. The door was locked.

The last person known to be in the house was Mr. Grant who it is reported was seen about the building about 5 o'clock, Thursday afternoon.

The fire, according to what can be learned, had been burning nearly an hour before it was discovered, for parties residing on Hancock street saw a light in the building before 9 o'clock, and at that hour others passing along Hancock street could distinguish the odor of burning wood.

Deputy Fire Marshal Adams was early on the scene and is making an investigation.

The appearance of Hose 4 at a fire was quite a novelty to many of the hundreds of spectators for up to the present year, while they may have known that there was such a piece of apparatus, few had ever seen it, for it seldom left its quarters. The present administration, however has improved many things, and now Hose 4 turns out at every alarm either to go to the fire itself or to the central fire station to protect the centre district during the absence of the central station apparatus. And it responds promptly too.

An Acceptable Gift.

Thursday evening as the hour hand of the clock at the Young Men's Christian Association was drawing toward the figure six, an expressman came struggling up the stairs under the burden of a large roll on his back and laid the same carefully down on the floor. It proved to be a large Brussels rug for the parlor of the Association, size 20x11, and was sent as a gift from the ladies of the Benevolent society of the Wollaston Congregational church. It is of neat design and very handsome and makes a complete transformation of the parlor, hitherto clad with only its bare floor, certainly it is much more homelike than formerly. The thanks of the Association are due the donors for this remembrance.

BARN AT BRAINTREE

Horses, Cows and 125 Tons of Hay Destroyed.

A large barn on Kendall's Glen Rose farm at Braintree, together with its contents, was totally destroyed by fire between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning. The contents consisted of 125 tons of loose hay, a car load of bundle hay, four carriages and harnesses, and five blooded horses, one of which was "Emperor" who recently took a prize at the New York horse show.

The fire started from some unknown cause in the loose hay, and when the apparatus arrived it was seen that the building was doomed, and the only thing to do was to save the surrounding buildings.

Two men slept in the building and according to their story they were aroused about 4.20 by a crackling sound, and upon going to the door of their room discovered that the mow opposite was on fire. At the further end of the building were the five horses. The fire, however, was between the men and the animals, and although they made an effort to liberate the animals, the fire was so hot their efforts were unsuccessful.

The building whose dimensions were 45 by 85 feet, was situated some distance from the street, and the hose that arrived on the first alarm did not reach more than half way to the building. Engineer Kelley who was in charge realized this, and immediately ordered a second alarm sounded, and it was a case of wait for the additional apparatus before any water could be thrown upon the building. As it was, but one line of hose could be used, as that required 2000 feet.

The loss of the building and contents, exclusive of the horses is estimated at $8000, and the horses will amount at least $2000 more, bringing the loss up to $10,000.

Wheelmen Meet.

The last meet of the Y. M. C. A. Cycle League of Eastern Massachusetts was held Thursday evening with the association of Quincy at their rooms on Hancock street The hall was arranged for an informal gathering and the Quincy boys assembled to wait the arrival of representatives of other associations. Shortly before nine o'clock the Boston delegation arrived followed by the Waltham club, and as they entered the room, cheer after cheer greeted them and they were made to feel quite at home. The rooms in their clean and renovated condition were very attractive. After a social hour with graphaphone selections by Mr. Pelos, and piano selections by Mr. Bradford, the meeting was called to order and necessary business transacted As this was the last meet of the year, the meeting was adjourned to the annual meeting in Boston in April. Refreshments were served by a committee from the Ladies' Auxiliary. After the singing of social songs and three cheers for "Secretary Hoehn, the Ladies' Auxiliary, and the Association," the crowd dispersed each going to their various destinations, thus ending a very interesting meet.

A Ray of Hope.

Reviewing the political situation in the Tenth Congressional district and the possibility of a deadlock, the Post says: "A ray of hope is found in the Granite City. The Hon. John Shaw is a Republican, without any of the barnacles which affect tenth district members of the G. O. P. He is a business man, and is popular with the "boys," and he can make a good speech. With Shaw and Cobb as a reserve force, the Republicans of the tenth can go ahead and elect delegates pledged to this and for that, for the combination, after all, will settle the matter.

W. C. Jones, Quincy, Mass.,

Dear Old Friend,—In answer to your most welcome missive of the 10th instant, will say I was more than pleased to hear from you, and to learn of your improvement in health, and sincerely hope "old boy," that by the time your leave comes to a close, you may join us as your old self again.

The talk is very strong of our returning to Fort Sheridan within the next ten days. Everything is about the same as when you went away so I am afraid I am unable to give you any news of interest.

Oh, yes, the box and barrel of delicacies that was addressed to the captain is here, all O K. A letter came here addressed to the captain, sent by Mrs. Mary A. H. Crane of Quincy. The captain not being here, the Adjutant opened it and gave it to me to answer. Then came your postal telling us all about it. I told Lieut. Adams about it, he being in command of the troops at present, and then opened it and made a distribution of such things as I could amongst the men the rest I gave to our cook to care for and prepare for our meals. Everthing was in excellent condition.

I am going to write to Mrs. Crane and extend thanks. You know how thankful the boys are to get anything of the kind. Of course I will speak for the Troop and you must tell your mother how highly they were appreciated by us all.

All the boys send their best regards. Must close hoping this may find you enjoying yourself (more than I am) with best wishes. I remain,

BARROWS ARRAIGNED.

Editor Morgan Replies to the Congressman.

He Reaffirms Serious Charges Against Him.

Damaging Disclosure of His Political Methods.

The editor of the Dorchester Beacon having been severely attacked in the Boston papers by Congressman Barrows and charged with publishing false statements and flagrant slanders regarding him, and with bublishing false statements and flagrant slanders regarding him, and with venality replies to the attack in the same forum reaffirms his charges supported by proof and leaves the controversy in a situation embarassing to the congressman.

Sir—In your columns of Sunday last there appeared a statement by Hon. Samuel J. Barrows in response to a letter from Mr. Elbridge Torrey, requesting Mr. Barrows once for all to answer certain criticisms that have appeared in the paper of which I have the honor to be the editor.

In the course of his statement Mr. Barrows severely criticises the paper for whose statements I am responsible, without naming it, but direting attention to it in such a way that no voter of the Tenth district who has read his statement can have any doubt of the paper to which reference is made or of the individual attacked. As you have opened your columns for Mr. Barrows to say that statements appearing in the Dorchseter Beacon are "flagrant slanders" of him, and have permitted him to insinuate that its opposition to his renomination is venal; and as these statements by a man occupying the position of Congressman Barrows are, if unrefuted seriously injurious to me and my paper, it is with confidence that I ask an opportunity to respond to Mr. Barrows in your columns.

It is true that the Beacon is opposed to the renomination of Mr. Barrows, but the insinuation contained in Mr. Barrows' statement, that the judgment of the paper "on political matters in the past has not been such as to relieve it from the suspicion of venality," is, so far as its present management and editorship are concerned, absolutely without warrant or foundation, and Mr. Barrows should be, in the light of past experience, of all men, the last to make it. Does Mr. Barrows refer to the judgment of the Beacon in supporting him for the Republican nomination two years ago, aggressively, loyally and enthusistically, as calculated to excite the suspicion of venality? We understand Mr. Barrows to mean by his insinuation, which is intended to convey the same impression as if put in the form of a charge, that the Beacon is now opposing him because it is for its pecuniary advantage so to do, and if this is what he means to charge, it is utterly untrue and without foundation. We supported Mr. Barrows two yeas ago solely because we were opposed to Atwoodism in politics; and we support Mr. Paige this year for the same reason.

Under its present management the Beacon, as every voter in the Tenth district knows, and as Mr. Barrows especially knows, has steadfastly stood in opposition to Atwood and Atwoodism, to corrupt politicians and corrupt political methods, and in behalf of clean politics and reasonable party independnce. For these things the Beacon has stood and stands, and will continue to stand, and for these reasons it is supporting the promising candidacy of Mr. Paige.

In his response to the many criticisms of the Beacon Mr. Barrows devotes himself specifically to one only; namely, the charge that he absented himself from congress and went to Europe without having voted or paired upon the Dingley bill as finally passed. This charge the Beacon had made, and this charge, as the editor of the Beacon, I repeat. In his statement Mr. Barrow says, "I did not leave for Europe until the 11th day of July, only 13 days before the house adjourned, July 24. I was paired until adjournment, at first wih Mr. Jett and then with Mr. Maguire. On the vote to accept the conference report on the tariff, taken by the house July 19, five members of the Masachusetts delegation, that is, four besides myself, were absent and paired."

I do not question the statement of Mr. Barrows that he did not leave the country for Europe until the 11th day of July; but I affirm that he did leave congress on or about the 17th day of June when he was granted leave of absence "indefinitely on account of representing the United States government on the prison commission." It thus appears that while Mr. Barrows did not leave the country more than 13 days before the adjournment of the extra session, he did leave congress and his congressional duties 37 days before adjournment; and in support of our statement that Mr. Barrows was not paired in favor of the bill, I refer to the Congressional Record of July 19, 1897, in which there is the yea and nay vote, showing that Mr. Jett, with whom Mr. Barrows says he was "first" paired, voted nay on the bill, and that Mr. Maguire, with whom Mr. Barrows says he was "then" paired, was paired with Mr. Loud.

Mr. Torrey truly says: "As a rule if the people have the facts they can be trusted to do justice;" and to the acts, established by Mr. Barrows' own declaration and by the Congressional Record, to which he refers, I appeal in justification of the statement in the Beacon, that Mr. Barrows was not paired upon the Dingley bill when it finally passed. There has been no question that he voted, and no charge that he did not vote, upon the bill as it orginally left the house; but it was well known that that bill would not become a law, and it is a fact that it was so transformed in the senate that it must have been difficult for its author to recognize it when it returned to the house.

Now what are the other criticisms that have appeared in the Beacon to which Mr. Barrows vaguely refers, or which he altogether ignores.

Amongst others there are the following:

That in a letter published over his signature during his first campaign for the Republican nomination, he said, "I stand on the Republican platform, and shall work for it whether nominated or not," and that frequently upon the stump during the campaign, after his nomination, he declared that he would upon all measures act with the Massachusetts delegation in congress.

That he repeatedly violated both of these pledges.

That he is not a protectionist in principle but a free-trader.

That he was the only "Republican" to leave the entire Massachusetts delegation and all the Republican representatives in congress and vote with the Democrats in opposition to that clause of the Dingley bill introduced by the author of the bill and designed to suspend the flood of importations during the debate in anticipation of higher rates.

That he spoke twice upon the bill both times against schedules reported by the Republican majority of the ways and means committee.

That in congress and out of congress, in season and out of season, persistently and aggressively, he opposed the enactment of the Lodge bill for the restriction of immigration—all of which actions were in direct violation of his pledge in support of the Republican platform and his promise to co-operate with his Republican colleagues.

That he declared himself in favor of an adjournment of congress prior to the report of the Maine court of inquiry.

That he declared intervention by the United States in Cuba would be an act of robbery—and this only a few days before the declaration of war.

That after the court of inquiry had reported that the Maine was destroyed by an external explosion, thus establishing Spanish responsibility for the murder of our 266 sailors, Mr. Barrows advocated the submission of the question to international arbitration, which Senator Lodge said could as properly be done as a man could submit to arbitration an insult to his mother.

That he opposed to the policy of expansion to the retention of Porto Rico the Ladrones and the Philippines and that these actions, these opinions and these declarations make it impossible for Mr. Barrows to represent the Tenth district in congress.

Mr. Barrows admits the truth of all these charges by not denying any of them.

Instead of responding to the specific charges regarding his attitude and action upon the question of intervention and other problems arising therefrom Mr. Barrows says he is "attacked for standing by the President in his earnest efforts to avert war" and that "My views on this subject are expressed in a speech in the Congressional Record for April 28 1898, entitled 'Intervention for Peace, Freedom and Humanity' and that "President McKinley was kind enough to send me his thanks for the speech and for the 'fine tribute paid to the policy of the President under very trying circumstancees.'"

Mr. Barorws desires to be understood as having made a speech in congress on the 28th of April, under very trying circumstances, for which the President thanked him. I submit that no other understanding of the statement of Mr. Barrows is possible; and it is an understanding that is entirely erroneous. Mr. Barrows' memory is apparently in no better order than when, two years ago, for the purpose of meeting criticism and establishing his status as a Republican, he averred that he cast his first vote for Abraham Lincoln, when the date of his birth, furnished by himself, showed that he was not of legal age at Lincoln's second election. He did not make a speech in congress on the 28th day of April, 1898, or at any other time in favor of "Intervention for Peace, Freedom and Humanity;" no allusion was made to Mr. Barrows in the Congressional Record for April 28; but he did print in the Congressional Record of May 9, 1898, as a speech, an article upon the subject named, no word of which was uttered in congress and which was merely an explanation of why he voted as he did upon a measure finally disposed of 10 days before his unspoken "speech" was published. Let it be distinctly understood that the "speech" to which Mr. Barrows refers, and for which the President, evidently supposing it to be a speech, thanked him, was not a speech, and no word of it was at any time spoken upon the floor of the house, or printed for the informatin of members until after final action by the house. It was not an argument designed to influence congress or to defend or commend in congress the policy of the President. It was merely a method chosen by Mr. Barrows to explain to his constituents his vote cast in the house 10 days before his reasons were for the first time communicated to a select few of them through the medium of the Congressional Record.

This is a method of speechmaking that was frequently resorted to by Mr. Barrows. A long "speech," never made in congress, upon civil service reform, and another upon the Indian bill were likewise printed in the Record as speeches, and distributed to his constituent as speeches.

In his statement Mr. Barrows says, referring to the Indian appropriation bill that "My work and my vote on that bill, amply supported by the whole Massachusetts delegation, was worth to the treasury of the United States many times more than my congressional salary."

I hope it is not slanderous to enquire how the vote of Mr. Barrows, which was only one of a majority, and how the "work" referred to, in so far as it consisted of the elaborate "speech" never made in congress, and not designed to influence th action of the house, and published in the Congressional Record long after the subject was disposed of in the house, could have defeated the bill and saved to the treasury many times the amount of a congressman's salary.

I cannot understand what good object is attained by the publication in the Congressional Record of "speeches" never made on the floor of the house, weeks after the subject to which they refer is disposed of, unless, being printed as speeches, they are distributed amongst consituents with the design of conveying misunderstandings.

When, for instance, the President thanked Mr. Barrows for his "speech" that was not a speech, did he know it was not a speech, and if he knew it was not a speech, but merely an article published as a speech, 10 days after its subject matter had been disposed of by the house, what were the very trying circumstances to which the President referred? Was there any very "trying circumstances" in handing the manuscript of an article or essay to the public printer, and requesting him to print it in the Congressional Record as a "speech?" It is a practice so frequently resorted to by Mr. Barrows that, in itself, it would not seem to be "trying" to him, and as members of congress never read pretended speeches that are printed in the Congressional Record, I confess complete inability to comprehend just where the "trying" nature of the circumstances comes in.

And when Mr. Barrows in his statement published in your columns spoke of his "speech" in the Congressional Record for April 28, 1898, and said President McKinley was kind enough to send him his thanks for the "speech," did he want his constituents to think that the "speech" of April 28 was a speech, and that President McKinley also thought it was a speech made to a house opposed to the President's policy, and for that reason made under very trying circumstances?

I am opposed to the candidacy of M. Barrows, but have no desire to employ any but perfectly legitimate methods to effect his defeat and the nomination of the gentleman whose candidacy I support. If a misstatement of fact has appeared in the paper for whose utterances I am responsible, not attributted definitely to another individual, and it is called to my attention, I shall hasten to correct it with explanation or apology as the case may require; but for telling the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, neither The Beacon nor its editor have explanation or apology to make.

Respectfully yours,

CAPT. WHITNEY.

Resignation of Capt. Kincaide Has Taken Place.

Middletown, Penn.,
Camp Meade, Sept 15.

Co. K and the Fifth Massachusetts continnes busy establishing a comfortable camp. Board floors have been made.

It was a sad day for the company as the resignation of Capt. Henry L. Kincaide took effect. The boys give Capt. Kincaide considerable praise for their efficieney as soldiers.

Major General Graham, the commander of the camp paid Col. Whitney a visit today and was introduced to the boys. There was no demonstraton. We are wondering if he will have the same opinion of the Fifth as others have expressed.

Promotions have been made to fill vacancies in Co. I, but the successor of Capt. Kincaide has not been named. Of course all are hoping it will be Lieut. Whitney and that Lieut. Spear will also be promoted.

The paymaster disappointed us today, but it is said he will be here tomorrow. VOLUNTEER.

35,000 Troops.

A dispatch to the Post reports a member of General Graham's staff as saying that there would be 35,000 troops in camp within a fortnight. How long they will remain is an open question, although it is doubtful if they will all get away before the middle of October. One division will be sent South to join General Fitzhugh Lee's army for duty in Cuba.

Memorial Church.

The services Sunday morning at the Atlantic Memorial church were conducted by the pastor who preached an impressive sermon from the text "Am I my Brother's Keeper." The singing by the quartette was excedingly fine. The floral decorations by Mr. Sanborn were elaborate, masses of sumach forming the background, lighted up by generous displays of orange, all shades of crimson, pink and other colors of the handsome fall flowers. At the evening service. Rev. Mr. Hood presented the subject of the Church Building Association connected with the Home Missionary society. He has a fine voice and is a very interesting speaker. He illustrated his address with pictures of the church building in western settlements before aid from the Building society was given and spoke of the immediate religious influence resulting from the location of a suitable church building in their midst. He portrayed the personal hardships and inconveniences of new settlers and the sacrifices they were willing to make to establish churches in their communiites and demonstrated the fact that aid given to help erect such buildings was of incalculable benefit.

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

INTENSE SUFFERING

From Dyspepsia and Stomach Trouble.

A New Discovery, But Not a Patent Medicine.

Dr. Redwell relates an interesting account of what he considers a remarkable cure of acute stomach trouble and chronic dyspepsia by the use of the new discovery, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

He says: The patient was a man who had suffered to my knowledge for years with dyspepsia. Everything he ate seemed to sour and create acid and gases in the stomach; he had pains like rheumatism in the back, shoulder blades and limbs, fullness and distress after eating, poor appetite and loss of flesh; the heart became affected, causing palpitation and sleeplessness at night.

I gave him powerful nerve tonics and blood remedies, but to no purpose. As an experiment I finally bought a fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at a drug store and gave them to him. Almost immediate relief was given and after he had used four boxes he was to all appearances fully cured.

There was no more acidity or sour, watery risings, or bloating after meals, the appetite was vigorous and he has gained between 10 and 12 pounds in weight of solid, healthy flesh.

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Talbets are advertised and sold in drug stores yet I consider them a most valuable addition to any physician's line of remedies, as they are perfectly harmless and can be given to children or invalids or in any condition of the stomach with perfect safety, being harmless and containing nothing but vegetable and fruit essences, pure pepsin and Golden Seal.

Without any question they are the safest, most effective cure for indigestion, biliousness, constipation and all derangements of the stomach however slight or severe.

Stuarts' Dyspepsia Tablets are made by the Stuart Co. of Marshall, Mich., and sold by druggists everywhere at fifty cents per package.

A little book on stomach diseases mailed free, address Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. Sept. 12-14-16.

President Prescribes Line of Action For Peace Negotiators.

Explicit Directions Before Sailing Tomorrow.

Spain Must Concede All the Terms of the President's Protocol.

Washington, Sept. 16.—There was a meeting of the cabinet Thursday afternoon to consider the nature of the orders to be given to the commissioners who are to go to Paris. At the close it was announced that the negotiators were "fully instructed," and it appeared that the cabinet had patiently gone over, in the discussion with the commissioners, every subject that in their opinion could be brought into the proceedings before the joint commission. On each of these the American commissioners were made acquainted with the views and wishes of the administration. It is not to be understood from this that the commissioners go under ironclad and unchangeable instructions at all points, for there is a certain amount of flexibility in the instructions, else, as one of the cabinet members put it, the president might just as well have reduced his wishes to paper in the form of an ultimatum and have sent that to Paris by messenger.

The peace commissionners are in no sense mere mouthpieces, but having chosen with the greatest care and consideration five men in whom he puts the most implicit confidence, the president feels that they are to be trusted with the interests of the United States. It is expected that they will have a free rein in the larger questions of policy, but with ample opportunities for consultations by cable and otherwise, there is no reason why the commissioners should not be able to carry out the desires of the administration, and at the same time have the opportunity to somewhat shape these desires by conveying information that they may acquire. For instance, it is expected that at Paris the commissioners will meet General Merritt, fresh from Manila, and in addition they will there have the benefit of a special report from Admiral Dewey. These will be of the greatest value, for the commissioners are not acquainted with the Philippine question in detail, and even the information that is to be acquired from the Spanish peace commissioners is not to be despised when it takes such an official form that it can be relied upon as to accuracy.

The Campania sails at 2 p. m. Saturday, and explicit instructions have been given all the members of the party as to being on hand at that time. Special baggage tags have been printed for the belongings of the members, and a small paper paster showing red and blue bars crossed on a white background gives a handy way of making a "red, white and blue" identification of the personal and general luggage of the party. A number of stout chests have been made to carry the books, pamphlets, typewritten papers, etc., forming a part of the American case. The chests are like a shallow steamer trunk, so that they may be shoved under the berths, and thus be available on the passage over instead of going with the baggage in the hold of the steamer. This will permit of considerable work on the trip, and it is expected that the commissioners will hold meetings on shipboard. The party will go direct from Liverpool to London, and there stop for a day's rest, then proceeding to Paris by way of Dover and Calais.

Senator Frye called at the war department during the afternoon and had a talk with Acting Secretary Meikeljohn. While they were together Representative William A. Smith of Michigan, who is a member of the house committee on foreign affairs, joined them. In the course of a good-natured exchange, Mr. Smith urged Senator Frye to hold on to the Philippines as an entirety, as well as all other territory of which we were possessed as a result of the war. Mr. Frye diplomatically avoided committing himself, beyond remarking that this idea seems to be growing. As the senator came from the department he was asked if he favored a retention of the Philippines, to which he replied: "I have never given my views on that subject to a living being."

Our Foreign Policy.

Washington, Sept. 16.—The committee representing the Saratoga conference on future foreign policy called on the president yesterday and presented an engrossed copy of the resolutions adopted at that conference and a memorial amplifying the different subjects touched upon. The president said he had followed with great interest the discussions, and was sure that they had done great good throughout the country, especially commending the conference for having given so fair a hearing to both sides and for having been able to agree on resolutions. The president, in closing a five minutes' talk to the committee, said: "I propose to do the best I can with such knowledge and light as I have, and hope my acts in the matter will be approved by the deliberate judgment of mankind."

The committee at a subsequent meeting unanimously resolved that a permanent committee or organization should be perfected to agitate the questions touched upon in the resolutions and memorial.

Pretty Cold Up Above.

London, Sept. 16.—Next to the highest balloon ascension on record was made here yesterday by Stanley Spencer, the well-known aeronaut, and Dr. Berson. The balloon, which was inflated with pure hydrogen and had a capacity of 56,500 cubic feet, attained an altitude of 27,500 feet. At a height of 25,000 feet the air was so rarefied that the occupants of the car were compelled to breathe compressed oxygen by tubes. The temperature was 61 degrees below the freezing point. The atmosphere was clear, and the coast was distinctly visible.

MURDERER IN MAINE.

Decoyed a Man to the Road, Killed and Robbed Him.

Biddeford, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Parcher owns a farm in North Saco which was managed by Ivory Boothby, aged 50 years. Wednesday night a stranger called at the Parcher house for assistance in repairing a carriage. Boothby responded. When he was next seen his body was found about an eighth of a mile from the house next morning by two women of the household. There were no marks of a struggle, with little to indicate that the man had met a violent death except a small spot of blood on the head which was caused by a bullet wound. An examination disclosed the fact that a bullet had entered the head just below the right ear and had passed out by the left eye. The dead man's pockets were turned inside out and a pocketbook which Boothby usually carried was missing. It is thought that he had about $25 or $30 with him when he left the house.

"Greenies" With the "Green."

New York, Sept. 16.—The police of Newton have two men, $2000 in good money and a green goods layout. The men under arrest are John Ungarry of South Norwalk, Conn., and his son, 11 years old. The old man a year ago received circulars, took the bait and went to Boston, and was fleeced. A short time ago he again received the usual feeler, and as a result he and his son came to New York. The steerer piloted them to a house in Maspeth. The old man had instructed the son, and each knew what to do when the time came.

They were taken upstairs in the house, and there met two more of the green goods men. The usual talk and barter took place, and then $2000 in new bills were counted out and placed upon the table for the examination of the farmer and his son. No sooner had they the pile to examine than they whipped out revolvers and began blazing away at the ceiling and floor and the walls.

The green goods men tumbled down the stairway, and started up the street on a dead run. Downstairs went father and son, sending a few bullets in the direction in which the green goods men had gone. The shots fired on the street brought the police on a dead run, and father and son and the whole layout were captured.

Hurricane Predicted.

Washington, Sept. 16.—The hurricane which created such destruction in the West Indies on Sunday night was detected at its inception Saturday by the new West Indian hurricane service of the weather bureau of the department of agriculture. At 8 a. m. on Saturday morning observations on the islands of Martinique and Trinidad gave slight indications of a disturbance southeast of the Windward islands. At 12:40 p. m. a special observation at Barbados indicated a fall of nearly one-tenth in the barometer during the preceding two hours. This movement of the barometer at Barbados, taken in connection with the whole atmospheric survey made four hours previous, satisfied the forecast officer that the hurricane would soon develop over the Windward islands, although to the non-expert there were no indications of a coming storm. Hurricane warnings were immediately dispatched to all ports in the islands of Barbados, Martinique, St. Kitts, St. Thomas, and they were advised to prepare for a destructive storm. Cable communication was perfect, and the warnings were promptly received.

Body of the Empress.

Vienna, Sept. 16.—The funeral train arrived last night. The scenes at the station and in the streets were weird and solemn. Nothing was omitted. The ceremony was most elaborate and impressive. There was no music, and the stillness was only broken by the muffled drum, the suppressed sobs of the populace and the words of command, which sounded sharp and shrill, though given in an undertone.

As the coffin was borne to the chapel the choir chanted the "Miserere." The emperor's coming had been kept secret from the public. He was accompanied by his daughters and his son-in-law. After the benediction all departed except the emperor and the relatives, who remained alone with the beloved dead until shortly before midnight.

Among the wreaths the one from President McKinley attracts much attention. It has the stars and stripes intertwined and bears this inscription: "From the president of the United States—a tribute of heartfelt sympathy to the memory of a noble and gracious lady."

Police Stopped the Fight.

Brooklyn, Sept. 16.—There was a 20-round bout at 138 pounds between Robby Dobbs of Minneapolis and Billy Ernst of Brooklyn last night. Ernst was floored twice in the fourth round, lost his head and was all but out. He began fouling, but the referee allowed the fight to proceed. In the seventh round two body punches sent him to the floor twice in rapid succession, and he looked about ready to quit. The eighth round saw Ernst receiver general for all kinds of punishment, and in the ninth he was in such a condition that the police stopped the fight. He was staggering all over the ring like a drunken man, and would have hardly lasted the round out. The referee awarded the bout to Dobbs.

Double Murder and Suicide.

Louisville, Sept. 16.—Joseph F. Villier, his 2-year-old child and a woman named Nellie M. Guffin were found dead in a room in a hotel yesterday. From notes left by the woman it was learned that she had first given her paramour and his child morphine in sherry wine, but, fearing that this would not be effective, had shot Villier and then herself. The child was already dead from the effects of the drug.

Villier was a motorman for the Louisville City Railroad company, and was 26 years of age. He was a widower, the child being that of his lawfully wedded wife. The woman was a domestic who had been once employed by Villier.

Over a Thousand Ballots.

Frederick, Md., Sept. 16.—The sixth congressional district Republican convention adjourned last night to meet again today, after having taken 1181 ballots in an ineffectual effort to nominate a candidate for congress. Each of the five counties composing the district has a candidate. The Sixth district is the home of Senator Wellington and of Senator-elect McComas, and is regarded as solidly Republican.

HAVOC IS WIDESPREAD

Hurricane In the West Indies Lasted Ten Hours.

Full Extent of the Disaster Not Yet Known.

Large Number Killed or Injured, and Much Property Destroyed.

London, Sept. 16.—The dispatches received at the colonial office from the British authorities in the West Indies indicate as a whole that the earlier reports of the havoc wrought by the hurricane were not exaggerated. They show widespread devastation. Owing to the breakdown of the telegraph and telephone systems, the real extent of the disaster is still unknown, but financial aid is needed to meet the distress.

People are flocking into Kingston, St. Vincent, from all the country round for shelter and food. Everywhere it appears that all the small buildings and many large ones were destroyed, and there is no doubt that the fatalities were numerous.

The governor of the Barbadoes reports that the hurricane was of 16 hours' duration. Already he has been officially notified of 61 deaths and of 31 persons seriously wounded. The reports from the country districts in the island are incomplete, but there has been a heavy loss of government and private property. Assistance is urgently required.

The Marchand Expedition.

London, Sept. 16.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Daily Mail says: "News has been received here of the occupation of Fashoda (on the White Nile, south of Khartoum) by the French expedition under Major Marchand, assisted by 10,000 Abyssinians under Ras Makonnen, the principal general of Emperor Menelik."

MAJOR MARCHAND.

The Telegraph's special correspondent with the Anglo-Egyptian forces in the Soudan telegraphs that he has had an interview with the captain of a boat which has returned from Fashoda, and that the captain's description of the flag raised there leaves no doubt that it is French. The captain says that the garrison at Fashoda menaced him and would have sunk his boat if they had possessed a gun. After getting out of the zone of the garrison's fire, the captain landed and ascertained from natives that the dervishes at Fashoda had been attacked by eight Europeans and a hundred Senegalese soldiers, who defeated the dervishes, killed a hundred and drove the rest from the town.

The gunboat Sultan was sent up the Blue Nile to intercept a dervish garrison, 2500 strong, coming to reinforce the khalifa. The gunboat found and engaged the enemy, killing 1000, and driving the remainder back. It is now officially announced that the khalifa is surrounded and must be taken alive or dead within a few days.

Hitch Over Duties.

Managua, Nicaragua, Sept. 16.—The constitution-forming delegates from Salvador, Honduras and Nicaragua, in their attempt to formulate a compact acceptable to those three states, have separated into distinct groups on the question of the article authorizing the government organized to collect and dispose of all import and export duties. The delegates from Salvador declare that the imports and exports of their country exceed those of Honduras and Nicaragua combined, although Salvador has less than one-fourth the area of either of the other states, and consequently that the burden of taxation under the proposed article will have to be borne by Salvador, which unequal mode of taxation she declines to assume. One of the delegates from Honduras proposed, as a substitute, that each state contribute its proper pro rata of the necessary expenses of the federation.

Two of an Assassin's Friends.

Lauzanne, Switzerland, Sept. 16.—Two important arrests have been made here in connection with the assassination of Empress Elizabeth. A vagrant named Gualduppe, who was arrested on the eve of the crime, has now been recognized as a dangerous anarchist. It is believed he is the man who made the handle for the file with which the empress was murdered. The second prisoner is an anarchist named Barbetti. He is charged with harboring Luccheni, the assassin, for several days.

Assassin In Court.

Geneva, Sept. 16.—The assassin of Empress Elizabeth appeared yesterday before the correctional chamber. He entered the court smiling, saluted the public with a wave of the hand, and asked the president of the tribunal in good French to allow him an interpreter. The examination appeared to show a plot involving other Italian anarchists.

ON A HOMEWARD BOUND TRANSPORT FROM CUBA. FROM HARPER'S WEEKLY.

DRAWN BY RUFUS FAIRCHILD ZOGBAUM. Reproduced from Harper's Weekly. By Permission. Copyright, 1898, by Harper & Brothers.

Day after day regiments are arriving in New York city or at Montauk, returning from the war or from camps in the South and from either of these two points regiments are departing day by day returning to their homes As a result the people of New York city are witnessing such sights as are illustrated in the accompanying cut from Harper's Weekly of this week, as they go to or from their business offices.

Three months ago we watched the regiments march by on their way to Southern camps with their full complement of officers and soldiers. If they returned now with their files decimated by the absence of those who had beeen killed or wounded in battles it would still be a sad but nevertheless an inspiring sight but when a regiment returns with less than half of its command and when those who do return, or most of them, are unable to walk three or four miles through the city streets, and have to be carried in large barges because they are so ill with fevers contracted in camps within the United States, the sight rather excites the anger of the citizens of the United States than their enthusiasm and pride of the soldiers—anger at the incompetency of the War Department and the officers whom they have appointed to take charge of the feeding and clothing of the United States Army. The same sights may be seen on the transports arriving day by day, and the lesson which they are teaching the average voter is one that will not soon be forgotten.

The Social Realm.

At evening, when the noise of life is done,
And Earth lets fall her labors with the sun,
And calls her children, weary with their play,
In from the busy tumult one by one,
How tenderly the heat and hurts of day
She washes in her infinite baths away!

GOD FORGIVE ME!

Woman on Trial for Murder of Her Daughter.

Many Witnesses at the Quincy Court Today.

The hearing in the murder case is in process today at the Quincy court, and is likely to take about all day.

Mrs. Amelia Bates is charged with the murder of her daughter at East Weymouth, April 13, 1897.

The first witness was Annie L. White, who testified that on the morning of the fire she saw Mrs. Bates trying the L door and then pass around the house. It was at 10.45 that morning as she was passing. Later when in the store Mrs. Bates came in and said her house was on fire. Witness went back with others and entered the house and saw the body of the girl, Mrs. Bates placed her hand on the revolver and said "The revolver mister." 'The revolver mister." The girl was dead. The revolver was pointed toward the girl. Mr. Walter Pratt threw water on the body and she heard a sizzling noise.

Louis T. Bates, a son of defendant, testified he got up at 6.30 and left for work with his brother Henry fifteen minutes later. Finding no work he returned home and told his mother he was going to Hingham. She said she would go with him. They started and after reaching Hayward's mother's shoes hurt her and we turned back. Left mother at waiting room and she started toward home. He went to Derby house for a bicycle, and then rode home. Did not see his mother. Got home betweeen 10 and 11. When he arrived he found mother and sister crying, was informed by Georginna that Lottie was dead.

George F. Maynard saw Mrs. Bates between her house and East Weymouth alone about 7.30 and an hour later saw her going in the opposite direction. Saw her again near 11 o'clock at her house and saw the condition of affairs there.

Wiley E. Jenkins saw Mrs. Bates; was toward East Weymouth and saw her turn about, looking at the house.

Georgianna Bates testified that she saw her sister the morning she died. Lottie was helping get breakfast. Left school at five minutes of nine. Mother left between 7 and 8 o'clock. Jumped rope with Lottie until I went to school. First she knew of affair was at recess, when she saw her mother come home and try to open the sitting room door. She could not open it and then saw her go to the store and then Walter Pratt go to the engine house.

Officer N. P. Peare saw Mrs. Bates that morning at the car station.

N. W. Gardner testified that on the morning while at the house Mrs. Bates said to him, "I did not do this as I was not at home, and Mr. Peare will say he saw me at Hingham." On the day of her arrest he heard her tell Mr. Wentworth, "I didn't kill Lottie," also stated she was going to Hingham to see if her boys had been arrested. She said the revolver belonged to Henry and was kept in the drawer. Did not know of anyone who knew where it was besides her. Did not think Lottie knew where the revolver was.

When he entered the house on the morning of the fire, Lottie was dead. She was seated in a chair and had slipped down, the left arm being caught on the back of the chair and the right hand extending upward. There was a Bible, and hymn books were open on the table, the revolver was on the table pointing in her direction. Mrs. Bates told me at time of the fire that she knew nothing about the revolver and did not know there was one in the house.

Thomas B. Loud on the day of Mrs. Bates arrest went to the lockup about 9 o'clock. After the officers left and he was in the cell heard her talking in a sort of prayer saying, "Lottie, Lottie, Lottie, forgive me! God, forgive me." This he heard repeated several times. When the children would begin to talk she would interrupt and say, "don't talk, don't talk."

The government rested its case at this point.

The defendant offered no eivdence

NEPTUNE'S FEAST.

[Feste quid potius die.—Horace.]
What shall we do, my Lyde, say,
To celebrate this festal day?
See, the sun wheels to his decline!
Haste, then; 'tis time to broach the wine!
Our oldest wine shall quit its rest,
For Neptune's feast demands the best.

Neptune, the green haired nymphs among,
We'll praise in antiphonal song;
Your lyre shall themes divide between
Latona and the huntress queen.

Then in a song we'll celebrate
The praise of her who keeps her state
At Cnidos and the Cyclades,
Which gleam afar across the seas
And ofttimes chooseth to repair
To Paphos' sweet, pellucid air
When through the blue is borne afar
By snow white swans her glittering car.

And, last, to Night we will rehearse
A holy, high and solemn verse.
—"Poems From Horace, Catullus and Sappho and Other Poets," by Edward George Harman.

TALE OF A TIARA.

"My dearest Hermione" looked up from her morning correspondence. Her air was one of profound abstraction, and she commenced to sugar my coffee with quite uncalled for generosity.

"It is altogether too bad," she exclaimed, as I rescued the cup with the fifth lump suspended above it. She took no notice even when the sugar flopped into the marmalade, and her forehead was puckered into a frown.

"What is it?" I said, sitting down and settling my paper afresh.

"Oh, here is a letter from May Vere. She has just had a present from her father-in-law, a diamond tiara, and she says"—this rather doubtfully—"that it is quite the best of the whole lot. She will wear it first at the duchess' reception. That makes the sixth tiara in the family, doesn't it?" (Mrs. Mark Vere is my wife's cousin).

"I suppose so—if you say so."

I was frankly more interested for the moment in the money market column than in May Vere's latest present. There followed a longish pause. Hermione rattled the teaspoons and made much of the cat. Then her voice came to me across the table decorations with just a touch of fretfulness:

"Jack!"

"U'm!"

"I should look so nice in a tiara, Jack."

I tossed the paper on to an armchair. Although we have been married three years that particular inflection in my wife's tones never fails to arouse my curiosity, and—well, something else.

"If I were only rich enough"— I began recklessly. You see, I knew I wasn't.

"Oh, Jack, I didn't mean that. I am not so mean as to reproach you. We have really everything that is necessary. A tiara can be done without. I couldn't bear to have anything but a very expensive one, and May won't look anything but plain in hers, however beautiful it is. But still—well, what I meant was that it seems almost a misfortune that I should look so nice in one—as having one is out of the question."

"I don't see that," I said. "I would rather have you as you are."

"May is generally acknowledged as plain"—

"Would it?" smiled Hermione. And I am not yet proof against Hermione's smiles. So in sport I suggested something to her which had occurred to me—just as a joke, and nothing more. That she would act on it I never dreamed of for a moment. Yet Hermione still declares all that followed was entirely my fault, and that but for me she would not have to suffer the prolonged ignominy of being the only girl out of seven married cousins unable to boast a diamond tiara among her possessions.

We had several engagements the week of the duchess' reception, but that was the first and was very generally considered the most important. I also happened to be very busy just then. I rather expected a bad quarter of an hour when I told Hermione how absolutely impossible it would be for me to do more than just look in at quite a late hour, but, as is often the case where she is concerned, my anticipations were not fulfilled.

She smiled at me very sweetly, said she could find plenty of people to go with and that I need not worry on her account, and I fancied I detected signs of relief in her expression, which may have been the reason why I made my way to the reception rather earlier than I originally intended.

The duchess who was giving it had scattered her invitations broadcast, as is within the rights of a duchess. The spacious rooms were extremely crowded. It was some time before I caught sight of my wife, but not long before I heard of her, for Mrs. Jack Voyce—Voyce is my name—appeared to be creating quite an unusual sensation even for her. "And have you seen pretty Mrs. Voyce?" "And have you heard her tale of the tiara?" "What fun she is, isn't she?" seemed the principal topic of conversation.

More than one man patted me on the back and congratulated me anew. I felt myself, generally speaking, quite as lucky as they thought me, for I admire her, too, but I could not help wondering how they would have liked participating in my present anxiety on her behalf.

"Hermione just doesn't mind what she does," a candid girl friend had said to me before our marriage, and once or twice I have been forced to agree with her, for if my suspicions were correct and this tale apparently so widespread were to reach the ears of my most unnecessarily particular uncle, Lord Curran, who I knew to be present, having seen him, what would be the unfortunate result I failed to imagine.

Lord Curran is best described as one of the old school. His ideas about women Hermione calls "peculiar to say the least of it." They certainly are not of the present day, but date back to the times when women occupied themselves with barbarous triumphs in woodwork and doing as they were told, and especially in avoiding anything approaching to notoriety. Just as I went over this afresh in my mind my venerable uncle approached me with that peculiarly beaming smile of his which always foretells disaster.

"Pretty woman, your wife, Master John," said he. "A little lacking in reticence, eh—eh?" And just then Hermione came along, and I had to run the risk of distorting my features for life in my efforts to signal to her not to join us. Fortunately my uncle's sight is not as good as it used to be. But though I did my best at smoothing things over—my wife even going to the unusual length of doing as I desired and keeping out of the way—it was very evident that our stiff backed old Tory relative was seriously annoyed and that he meant to take his own time about coming round, for my suspicions were correct, and that wife of mine had been mad enough to include Lord Curran among the many to whom she had told her tale.

"What in the world were you frowning about like that?" was her greeting to me. "Really, if you are going to practice for a contortionist, don't you think you might choose a more suitable time and place?"

Then she laughed at the men about her. "Here," said she, "is a poor fellow who has not heard my tale of the tiara. Shall I tell him?"

"I don't want to hear—I can guess"—

"Come, Voyce, don't be sulky," said my brother-in-law. "It has been an immense success—the success of what would otherwise have been a very dull evening. Upon my word it was a bright idea."

"It was Jack's idea"—

"This is past a joke"—

"Oh, of course," interrupted Hermione, "we shouldn't have expected you to have the nerve to carry it out. Oh, Jack, don't go—I want to tell you"—

But I thought of what I had to tell her—by Lord Curran's orders—and I went. In the midst of my justifiable aggravation I could not help being sorry for her probable disappointment—my pretty Hermione; could not help admiring her afresh for her happy recklessness or prevent myself envying for that one occasion the fellows who had enjoyed her tale unrestrained by personal considerations.

When we were alone at home again, these feelings were still mine. Hermione faced me. The electric light lit up her gleaming neck and arms. Her dress was white. Her fluffy golden hair was surmounted by an exceedingly beautiful diamond tiara.

"The horrid old man," she kept repeating.

"Why did you tell him?"

"Teddie bet me a turquoise dagger that I wouldn't, so of course I had to. I didn't think he would really mind. No one else did. And, besides, every one was talking about it. He would have found out." She paused and then continued: "You said, 'Why don't you hire one for the week?'"

"I never meant it."

"You said it, though, and put it into my mind."

"So it is my fault that Lord Curran considers you so full of resource as to have no need of the tiara he had ordered for you and will now save for the next bride?"

"Of course I shall always say so. Oh, she does. But"—here she came close to me—"I—it has reminded me of something. Do you remember when we were first engaged promising to buy me one as soon as ever you could afford it? I would rather have one from you than, oh, a dozen from your crabby old uncle, and even wait for it, so you need not make any more fuss, need you?"

What happened then any one may guess.

"In your heart of hearts, Jack, darling," finished Hermione, "you are not sorry any more?"

But that is almost too much to say. My wife's tiara is still to be bought, and they are not cheap things by any means.—Madame.

OUR WEEKLY FASHION PLATE.

AUTUMN COSTUME OF POPLIN FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

Autumn coats are in great variety—short, medium, and three-quarter length—to suit all figures. Many of them, according to Harper's Bazar, show a series of revers, and are belted, with basque effects produced by fancifully shaped hip pieces—another one of the season's modes.

A French gown of the new corded poplin in marine blue is combined with a poplin velours plaid of military gray and shadowy tones of red, a touch of tartan being very fashionable in the new fall costumes. The court corsage of plain blue has its collar square in the back, and sloping off to wide revers in front, below which are short revers that taper to the waist line, faced with plaid velours, the vest beneath being of cream-colored poplin, trimmed in yoke effect with bands of velvet between insertions of corn point de Venise.

The tartan is used also to face the high turn over cuffs, and the cravat bow is of plaid. The small tailor sleeves have tiny caps of the plain poplin, and the fancy belt is of cut steel.

The skirt moulds the hips, and has a box-pleat holding all the fulness behind. Very narrow at the top, it gradually expands and sweeps outward in fan effect. At the bottom is a flounce, flaring at the front and sides without ripples, the width at foot being four yards. The upper finish is a black velvet piping.

The hat of latticed satin in black is trimmed with puffy loops and bow of gray blue velvet, through which is thrust a jewelled buckle, while behind is a bunch of curled quills in dull shades of red, blue, and gray.

Quantity of material for gown—blue poplin, 6 yards; plaid poplin, 4 yards; cream poplin, 3-4 yard.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

TOPIC.—"The triumphs of Christianity."—Luke iv. 16-22.

Christianity is a triumphant religion. Its triumph is prophesied in the Scriptures. In the vision of Daniel the stone that represented the kingdom of God destroyed the other kingdoms. The book of Revelation is a series of visions in each one of which the triumph of the religion of Christ is assured. History corroborates prophecy; Christ and Christianity have triumphed in the past over satan, the grave, tremendous persecutions, the heathen Roman empire, the ignorance and superstition of the dark ages. It is conquering today materialism, rationalism and heathenism, wherever found in the world. It went forth conquering and to conquer, and the day will come when its victory will be complete, when "at the name of Jesus every knee shall bow * * * and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord!"

The topical reference suggests the triumph of Christianity over various things in life. It is the record of Christ's visit to Nazareth, where He stood up in the synagogue and read Isa. lxi, 1, and declared that in Him this Scripture was fulfilled. The blessings and triumphs of the year of jubilee are thus typical of the blessings and triumphs of Christianity. They suggest that—

1. Christianity triumphs over all human conditions. "He hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor." The poor specially were benefited in the year of jubilee. They received again the inheritances of their ancestors, but not at the expense of the owners. They in reality had only leased them until the jubilee year. The poor have the gospel preached to them. It is offered to and needed just as well by the rich. There is no caste system in Christianity. It breaks down the human barriers that separate men, and rich and poor are one in Jesus Christ.

2. Christianity triumphs over sorrows and heartaches. "To heal the broken hearted." How many hearts must have been broken in Israel by separations and losses of family inheritances? But when the year of jubilee was ushered in loved ones were again united, losses were retrieved. Broken hearts were healed. This is the mission of Christianity, to heal the broken hearted, hearts broken by the sorrows which come from separations, adversities, tribulations and the results of sin. Christ came to heal broken hearts, and He does heal them today.

3. Christianity triumphs over slavery. "To preach deliverance to the captives and recovering of the sight to the blind." The captives in prisons were looked upon as blind. Slaves were freed in the year of jubilee. Christianity triumphs over slavery. It has abolished slavery throughout the civilized world and is giving men victory over slavish habits of sin and wickedness.

Let us glory in such a triumphant religion. May the spirit of the Lord rest upon us and anoint us to proclaim these triumphant blessings to a needy world.

Bible Readings.—Ps. ii, 1-12; lxviii, 31; lxxii, 1-19; Isa. ii, 1-3; Dan. ii, 31-45; Mic. iv, 1, 2; Math. xiii, 31-33; xxviii, 18-20; Mark iv, 30-32; Luke xiii, 18-21; Phil. ii, 1-11; Heb. 1, 1-6; Rev. v, 11-14; vi, 1, 2.

The Theological Outlook.

We fear there is nothing cheering in the theological outlook for those alarmed and irritated defenders of the ancient order. The reconstruction of theology on the basis of revised and critical reviews of the Scriptures is bound to go on. The only sane thing for those who feel that faith is endangered thereby to do is to engage with equal earnestness and knowledge in the research, find and publish the facts overlooked or suppressed in the interest of revolutionary theories, and thus, by the only effective means, supply the information on which a valid view can rest. To answer investigation by hysterics and heresy trials is as impotent as it is irrational. The sound policy is to meet light with more light.—Universalist Leader.

Today's Work.

One secret of a sweet and happy Christian life is learning to live by the day. It is the long stretches that tire us. We think we cannot carry this load until we are threescore and ten. We cannot fight this battle continually for half a century. But really there are no long stretches. Life does not come to us all at one time; it comes only a day at a time. Even tomorrow is never ours until it becomes today, and we have nothing whatever to do with it but to pass it down a fair and good inheritance in today's work w[illegible] done and today's life well lived.—British Weekly.

Loyalty to Our Lord.

It is comparatively easy to stand by Christ and His words when they are assailed by His enemies, but many find it hard to uphold them when called in question by brethren whom they love and honor, and so indulge a guilty silence or take refuge in a compromising attitude. But loyalty to our Lord requires us to be true to Him and His truth, come what may. He honors and rewards fidelity to His word as well as to His cause.—Presbyterian.

Church Members.

A church member is or ought to be what his name signifies. A member is a vital part of our organism. Our hands and feet and limbs are members of the body. They are not like parasites and tumors that grow and feed upon the body but add no strength or completeness to it. They are not merely on the body, but are of it. And thus a true church member is a vital part of the church, not merely in it or on it, but of it.—Lutheran.

Peace.

Peace is the calm of holy thought,
The song of Christ by angels brought,
The grand amen by Spirit said,
The crown of Christ upon thy head.

STRIKE IN HAVERHILL.

Bond Order Opposed by Street Railway Employes.

Company Prodded by Board of Aldermen.

Its Care of Streets Occupied by Rails to Be Looked Into.

Haverhill, Sept. 17.—At the close of traffic last night, out of the 80 men ordinarily employed on the Haverhill division of the Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill electric road, only 14 sets were working, and these had been continually at work since early morning. The remainder of the men refused to sign the applications for the indemnity bond, and gave up their positions as an alternative. They are confident that the others will follow them.

The streets were crowded, and there was some excitement but no violence. One boy was arrested at the transfer station for hissing a conductor on one of the cars. The aldermen held a special session to take action in regard to the matter, having previously passed a protest against the bond provision. An order was passed authorizing the city solicitor to draw up an article requiring that all employes of the electric road shall have a license. The superintendent of streets was ordered to inspect all streets through which the electric railway passes, and report as to whether the company has kept them in repair as required by the franchise. A further order was passed requiring the company to appear next Wednesday evening and show cause as to why the grant of a location on Oxford street should not be withdrawn.

Brockton Lasters May Strike.

Brockton, Sept. 17.—A strike of the lasters in most of the shoe factories of this city is likely to be begun on Monday afternoon, the only preventative being an agreement by the manufacturers to ask the Lasters' union for a conference with the idea of compromising. The contest will be over the new price list sent by the lasters to their employers. The strike proposition was recommended by the executive committee of the union and ratified afterwards by a mass meeting of both union and non-union lasters. General Secretary Eaton of the national body came from Boston to make an address. It was stated that there seemed to be a disposition on the part of some of the employers to consider the new list, but the executive committee recommended that on Monday at 2 p. m., if no overtures were made, the men were to be called from work. No further notice would be given the men. The Whitman and Rockland unions sent delegates, who promised to support the Brockton men in their claims.

The demands of the lasters are based upon a year's experience, under a price list which succeeded a strike, begun a year ago yesterday, and which lasted until late in December. That strike was chiefly directed against lasting machines. This time machines do not figure in the impending strike, but rather, it is claimed, a fair day's wages on certain lines of goods. The new list covers fancy grades of leathers, which the lasters claim are not so easy to last as the general run of work, and in consequence of which their wages suffer.

Arrest of Strikers.

Monongahela, Pa., Sept. 17.—Sheriff Kennedy and a posse of six deputies arrested Vice President Dodd and 41 strikers yesterday on a charge of riot, inciting riot, and assault and battery. Among the prisoners were the members of the New England band, who have been furnishing music for the strikers, and as they marched to the station to take the train for Washington, the band played, "Marching Through Georgia." A large crowd witnessed the arrests, and there was great excitement, but there was no disorder.

The strike situation is quiet. The district officials have decided not to furnish bail for the prisoners, and they will remain in jail.

Viewed the Remains.

Vienna, Sept. 17.—The public was permitted to view the casket containing the remains of the late Empress of Austria yesterday. It reposed on a catafalque in the chapel of Hofburg, where masses for the repose of the soul of the deceased were celebrated incessantly at three altars until noon. On the casket were four wreaths sent by the children and grandchildren of the deceased, while many offerings were upon the wall of the chapel. At the head of the casket were the imperial crown, the coronet of an archduchess and the jeweled orders of the late empress. At the foot of the casket were a black fan and a pair of white gloves.

Besieged General's House.

Vigo, Spain, Sept. 17.—A crowd of about 700 people besieged the house of General Toral, demanding that the troops which arrived from Santiago on board a steamer be immediately landed. They proceeded to the quays, cheering the troops, and were with difficulty dispersed by soldiers of the garrison. Afterwards, a crowd of about 1500 returned to the quays, and, when they saw the soldiers landing barefooted and nearly naked, they became infuriated and surrounded General Toral's house, hooting, hissing and stoning the building. Eventually, the Spanish commander succeeded in escaping to the steamer. On learning this the mob gathered on the wharf and stoned the steamer for half an hour, smashing the cabin windows.

Free Silver, or Nothing.

New York, Sept. 17.—It is regarded as settled by the Chicago platform Democrats, who held a meeting last night, that they will place in nomination a full state ticket at their convention in Syracuse the day before the regular Democratic convention. Upward of 35 leaders, representing the ultra silver Democrats of greater New York, attended the conference. All the speakers expressed the belief that the regular Dmocratic convention would not meet their demands.

TAYLOR TROUNCED.

St. Louis Team's Pitcher Had a Bad Spell In Boston.

Boston, Sept. 17.—There was a period of decided unrest for the "rooters" for the Boston nine in the final game with St. Louis yesterday. It was not due to any lack of faith in the ability of the Bostons to win out in nine innings, but because the "browns" opened their batteries so successfully against Lewis' pitching in the second inning that they scored two runs, and also because this score looked mighty big, when it began to drizzle a few minutes later, and there were prospects that the game might be called with the Bostons not in their stride before the fifth inning.

Happily, however, the champions after three unsuccessful innings cheered the drooping spirits of the crowd by batting Taylor all over the lot in the fourth. There were five hits, two of them home runs with a man on the bases each time, and they netted six runs. Score:

The Philadelphias won the first game yesterday with the Chicagoes by forfeit. McFarland overslid the plate in the fifth, but touched the base before Donohue put the ball on him. Mertes, the acting captain of the westerners, kicked so vigorously that Umpire Gaffney declared the game forfeited. The Phillies were not in the second game at any stage. Their fielding was execrable.

With three men on bases in the second inning, Gilbert of the New Yorks misjudged O'Brien's fly, and it was good for three bases and three runs, more than enough for the Pittsburgs to win.

After Brooklyn had gained what appeared to be a safe lead by good hitting, Shortstop Magoon let the Louisvilles tie the score by bunching five errors. The teams remained tied when the game was called at the end of the eleventh.

The Baltimores made it four straight with the Cincinnatis yesterday in a game that was in doubt at all times, and in which both sides played good ball.

The Clevelands won in Washington in the seventh on two singles, a base on balls and an error.

Third Baseman Shindle played his last game with the Brooklyns today. He has been released, and Wagner, the Washington infielder, has been secured to take his place. Anderson, who, it was reported early in the season, had been sold to the Washingtons, was only loaned. He will return to Brooklyn in a few days.

The controllers of the Boston team announce that Manager Frank Selee has agreed to continue for another season.

To Answer Forgery Charge.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—A. F. R. Crofton, who returned from the Klondike country three days ago, has been arrested charged with passing a forged draft for $1200 three years ago on the First National bank of Chicago. Crofton denies his guilt. Five years ago, the police authorities say, Crofton and J. Jellett passed bogus drafts on Chicago, Montreal and Winnipeg banks to the extent of $12,500. Jellett was sentenced to five years at Winnipeg, and Crofton was caught in El Paso and brought back to Chicago for trial. Owing to his youth he was given an indeterminate term in the Pontiac reformatory. Having served one year, Crofton secured his release. After leaving Pontiac, the police state, Crofton, by representing himself as the western agent of a Boston investment company, managed to secure $1200 from the First National bank of Chicago. He is then said to have gone to Dyea, Alaska, where he struck it rich, and was on his way east to spend the winter when arrested.

Heavy Sales of Ice.

Gardiner, Me., Sept. 17.—The season, now fast nearing its close, has proven to be the most successful and profitable known to the ice men for many years. The season's opening last winter was an unusually expensive one, owing to the heavy storms, which necessitated the expenditure of thousands of extra dollars for the scraping and cleaning of the fields; but the end has shown up to an advantage far exceeding their expectations. There are many vessels and barges along the river which are loading as fast as possible, and long before the river closes it is predicted that there will not be a pound left anywhere. Many of the companies are shipping ice that has been carried from two to four years. At the present time the rate of shipments is several tons in advance of the 114,000 tons shipment estimated monthly. The houses will be stripped between now and the latter part of October, or first of November, as never before, and this means a busy season and lots of work and employment for the coming winter.

Queen Vic.'s Sympathy.

London, Sept. 17.—Queen Victoria has sent a message of sympathy with the sufferers from the hurricane to the governor of the Barbadoes. The governor has renewed his appeal for aid. He cables that three-quarters of the population are without shelter or food, and that they are crowding into the populous centers, which, he explains, will not accommodate their own inhabitants. Cargoes of food have been ordered to supply the immediate wants of the sufferers; but the relief must be continuous, and must be kept up for a long time.

ROUGH RIDERS' ADIEU.

Colonel Roosevelt's Men Present Him With a Bronze Statue.

HIS HEART WAS DEEPLY TOUCHED.

His Men Were Dearer to Him, He Said, Than Anybody on Earth Except His Own Family—Praises Them For Their Good Work and Shakes Hands With Every One—Praise For Smoked Yankees.

The camp of the rough riders was in tumult all day recently. Four troops of the command were to be paid off and mustered out of service. Still more important, there was a surprise in store for the colonel. The men all knew about it, but Colonel Roosevelt gave his word that he did not know the rough riders were to make a present to him until 20 minutes before they asked him to accept the gift.

It was about 1 o'clock p. m. when Colonel Roosevelt was summoned from his tent. He saw his command drawn up informally in a square, in the center of which stood a pine table. Upon it was something over which was thrown a horse blanket. Many other people had been attracted to the spot, and some had been told what was to be expected. There were nurses, a score of them, officers from various regiments, doctors and men and women visitors and a detail of about 200 colored troopers from the Ninth and Tenth cavalry. The rough riders think there is nothing like the colored soldiers and the black regiments fairly worship the volunteer cavalry. Lieutenant Colonel Brodie escorted Colonel Roosevelt to a place in front of the table. The colonel was plainly flustered. His tanned face took on a deep red tinge, and before a word had been said there was a moisture about his eyes that told that he was moved. Will S. Murphy, a private of Troop M, rough riders, and a judge in the Indian Territory, stepped from the crowd and, doffing his hat, said:

"A few moments since I was informed that I had been selected to present to you as a very slight token of the admiration, love and esteem in which you are held by the officers and men of your regiment a 'Broncho Buster' in bronze which has been prepared to especially typify the idea which must have been in your mind when you felt called upon to raise a regiment of men to assist your country in the recent struggle so gloriously ended. At this time it is not possible or appropriate that I should go into the details of the organization of that regiment or mention the many glorious deeds accomplished and hardships endured by you, and the world itself knows what those hardships were. History will record them, and honor will be given where honor is due.

"It is fitting, however, that I, one of the troopers from the ranks of your regiment, should say that the honor given me in making this presentation is due to the fact that it is well known that, while you held your officers in the highest esteem on account of their gallantry, bravery and ability, your heart of hearts was ever with your men, whether in tented field or in the trenches before the enemy's lines or, better still, in the trenches taken from the enemy. In conclusion allow me to say that one and all, from the highest to the lowest hailing from this great and united country, will carry in our hearts a pleasant remembrance of your every act, for they have always been of the kindest as colonel of the rough riders, and we hope that 'The Broncho Buster' will continue through life to remind you of that fact."

There was a rousing cheer as Judge Murphy, when he had concluded, removed the horse blanket and disclosed Frederic Remington's statue of "The Broncho Buster." "Three cheers for Colonel Roosevelt!" some one shouted, and then the cowboy contingents sent up cheers and their peculiar yells, which could be heard a mile away. As Colonel Roosevelt replied to Private Murphy there were tears in his eyes. Several times he faltered while he spoke. He said:

"Officers and Men—I really do not know what to say to you. Nothing could possibly happen that would touch and please me as this has touched and pleased me. Trooper Murphy said quite rightly that my men were nearest my heart, for, while I know I need not say to my officers in what a deep regard I hold them, they will not mind me saying that just a little bit closer come the men. I have never tried to coddle you and have never hesitated to call upon you to spend your best blood like water. Of course I tried to do all I could for you, and you are the best judges as to whether I have succeeded or not.

"I am proud of this regiment beyond measure. I am proud of it because it is a typical American regiment. The foundation of the regiment was the cow puncher and we have got him here in bronze. No gift could have been so appropriate as this bronze of Frederic Remington's. The men of the west and southwest, horsemen, riflemen and herders of cattle, have been the backbone of this regiment, which demonstrates that Uncle Sam has another reserve of fighting men to call upon if the necessity arises. The west stands ready to give tens of thousands of men like you, and we are only samples of the fighters the west can put forth. Besides the cow puncher this regiment contained men from every section of the country, every state in the Union, and because of that we feel proud of it.

"It is primarily an American regiment and it is American because it is composed of all the races which have made America their country by adoption and those who have claimed it as their country by inheritance. It gives me extreme pleasure to look around among you and see men of every occupation, men of means and men who work with their hands for a livelihood, and at the same time know that I have you for friends. You are men of widely different pursuits, yet you stand here side by side; you fought shoulder to shoulder. No man asked quarter for himself and each one went in to show that he was as good as his neighbor. That is the American spirit. You cannot imagine how proud I am of your friendship and regard.

"I have also a profound respect for you because you have fighting qualities and because you had the qualities which enabled you to get into the fight. Outside of my own immediate family, as I said before, I shall never show as strong ties as I do toward you. I am more than pleased that you feel the same toward me. I realized when I took charge of you that I was taking upon myself a great responsibility. I cared for you as individuals, but I did not forget that at any moment it might be necessary to sacrifice the individual for the whole. You would have scorned a commander who would have hesitated to expose you to any risk. I was bound that no other regiment should get any nearer to the Spanish lines than you got, and I do not think any did. [Cheers.]

"We parted with many in the fight who could ill be spared, and I think that the most vivid memorial that we will take away with us will be of those whom we left under Cuban sod and those who died in the hospitals here in the United States—the men who died from wounds and the men who with the same devotion to country died from disease. I cannot mention all the names now, but three—Capron, O'Neill and Fish—will suffice. They were men who died in the pride of their youthful strength.

"Now, just a word more I want to say to some of the men I see standing around not of your number. I refer to the regiments, cavalry regiments, who occupied the right and left flanks of us at Las Quasimas—the Ninth and Tenth cavalry regiments. [Prolonged applause.] The Spaniards called them 'smoked Yankees,' but we found them to be an excellent breed of Yankees. I am sure that I speak the sentiments of every man and officer in this assemblage when I say that between you and the other cavalry regiments there is a tie which we trust will never be broken. [Cheers.]

"I would have been most deeply touched if the officers had given me this testimonial; but, coming from you, my men, I appreciate it tenfold. It comes to me from you who shared the hardships of the campaign with me, who gave me a piece of your hard tack when I had none and who gave me your blankets when I had none to lie upon. To have such a gift come from this peculiarly American regiment touches me more than I can say. This is something I shall hand down to my children, and I shall value it more than I do the weapons I carried through the campaign."

"Now let us have three cheers and a tiger for our colonel," cried Captain Curry of H Troop. The cheers and tiger were given in a hearty way. "Now, boys," said Colonel Roosevelt, "I wish to take each of you by the hand as a special privilege and say goodby to you individually. This is to be our farewell in camp, but we shall meet again in New York." The rough riders formed in line and marched by the colonel, each shaking the hand of his leader.—New York World.

HUNDRED POUND NUGGET.

Was Found by a Priest In West Australia and Caused a Stampede.

Father Long of Vancouver, a priest, recently found a nugget in West Australia weighing 100 pounds. The news of the discovery caused a stampede, but Father Long refused to tell exactly where the nugget was found. Next day 6,000 miners gathered in front of Donellan's public house, where the priest was a guest, and clamored for the facts about the finding of the nugget. Father Long at length yielded.

He said the nugget was in the shape of a sickle, and he had called it the "Sacred and Golden Sickle," as it had been found as the result of a vision that came to a poor but holy parishioner. It had been dug up by the priest, guided by the parishioner. The nugget had been found clean and brilliant as if polished, six feet under the surface, on the Kurnalpa road, a quarter of a mile from the nearest lake. When the nugget was exhibited and the place indicated, the crowd made a wild rush for the spot in buggies, on horseback and on foot.—New York Sun.

Ferocious Humming Birds.

In the island of Minora, one of the Philippines, the humming birds are pugnacious little creatures. Thousands of them frequently attack huntsmen without the slightest provocation, inflicting sometimes serious wounds on the face and neck.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Commended to the Khalifa.

Maxim and Gatling are two English speaking personages with whom the Mahdi would do well to cultivate acquaintance before he adventures upon another war. They bear authority greater than that of Mohammed.—Philadelphia Record.

Home Again.

At last it sounds. The phrase we longed to hear
Is brave and glad in the triumphant cheer,
But tenderest when a weary one may rest
At last with those who know and love him best.
The fleeting years bid memory efface
Life's crude and cruel lines. In softened grace
The picture, lit by hope instead of pain,
Shines, as our boys repeat it, "Home again."

And we, who could but watch the empty chair
And pray for the one whose place was waiting there,
Found in the old time haunts so sad a change
That places most familiar grew most strange.
We, who were lingerers from the battle scene,
With step grown lighter and with pulses keen,
Like wanderers hear the welcoming refrain,
For we, with you, at last are "Home again."

TRADE SITUATION.

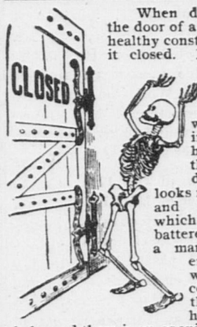
Many Features That Tend to Make It a Notable One.

New York, Sept. 17.—Reports of still further enlarged distribution at most western markets and of slight improvement at eastern centers, where demand has been slower to materialize; enlarged foreign demand for breadstuffs; increased railway earnings, not entirely due to the swelling movement of grain to market, which is still behind last year's records; bank clearings increased over last week and over all corresponding weeks except one year ago, when speculation was very active; rather better than expected government crop reports, and enlarging exports of American manufactures—all are features tending to make the trade situation at present a notable one, this week's issue of Bradstreet's remarks.

Export trade as a whole continues very satisfactory. The August total, swelled by larger shipments of cotton, provisions and manufactured goods generally, is larger than August one year ago by 47 percent, notwithstanding a heavy decrease in shipments of breadstuffs. Import trade as yet shows no particular expansion, and for the eight months our exports are 82 percent in excess of imports. Unfavorable trade features are few and presented chiefly in the textile manufacturing trades, but here it is hoped that the undeniably large distribution of drygoods this fall will soon be reflected in improved demand. Shutdowns and strikes in Fall River have improved the statistical position of print cloths, which hold firm at the late advance. Large world's stocks and a possibly immense yield this year have resulted in very low cotton prices, which are now down nearly to the low level set in November, 1894, a year of dull trade, large stocks of raw and manufactured goods, and heavy yield.

Business failures for the week number 173, against 142 last week, and 169 in this week a year ago.

August railway earnings mark increases in most parts of the country over the month one year ago, when the grain movement was of enormous proportions. Additional features are the heavy gains reported by the soft coal carriers. The total earnings of 109 companies operating 95,000 miles of road aggregate $45,829,862, a gain of 5 percent over August one year ago, that month in turn increasing 12.5 percent over August, 1896, and comparing with a gain in July of only 1 percent.



When death comes to the door of a strong, rugged, healthy constitution he finds it closed. He is always sneaking around looking for openings through which he can invade happy homes and leave them forlorn and desolate. He looks for weak places and broken doors which can be easily battered down. When a man's vigor and energy begin to weaken and become uncertain, then the door to his vitality grows shaky and there is an opening for the grim visitor to enter.

It is commonly said that people die of this or that particular disease. The truth is they die of constitutional weakness. If more people realized this they would understand why the great "Golden Medical Discovery" invented by Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., cures so many cases of lingering coughs, throat, bronchial, and kindred affections of the air passages. It gives thorough abundant constitutional vitality. It gives the digestive and blood-making organs, where consumption usually begins, power to do their work completely so that no poisonous dregs can get into the circulation to fasten on the lungs and vital tissues.

"I have been troubled with bronchitis for several years," writes Mrs. Orlin O'Hara, of Fergus Falls, Minn. (Box 114). "In the first place I had sore throat; doctored with different doctors and took various medicines, but got no lasting relief. We made up our minds to try the medicine advertised as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After I had taken one bottle we thought we could see a little change. We sent and got another bottle of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and also one of 'Favorite Prescription.' I took them alternately, and in a few days I began to see that I was better for certain. I took eight bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two of 'Favorite Prescription,' and, really, I have not felt as well in years. I sleep better than I have in twenty years."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a 1000 page illustrated book, will be sent free by the World's Dispensary Medical Association for 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, or a more substantial cloth-bound volume for 31 stamps.

Good Afternoon.

Every ward has mentioned a candidate for representative except Ward Two from which section no name has yet been mentioned. This does not mean that the ward has no available material, for it has plenty. Among those who might be mentioned are Councilman George A. Sidelinger and Councilman Eugene N. Hultman. Either of these gentlemen would fill the office with honor to the city.

Commended by President.

President McKinley has written the following letter congratulating the Army and Navy Christian Commission on its work among the soldiers during the war:

Executive Mansion,
August 26th, 1898.

To John J. McCook, Esq., Chairman Executive Committee Army and Navy Commission, New York City:

My Dear Sir: I have noted with much pleasure the admirable work that the Army and Navy Commission, organized by the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, has been accomplishing for the physical and social welfare of our soldiers and sailors. Hoping that the good work may be continued, I am, faithfully yours,

WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

Quincy certainly did her share in the support of this work, the committee having had the sum of $138.35 pass through their hands in its support. Therefoe the above letter will be of interest to those who subscribed in appreciation of their effort.

That Incendiary Fire.

Mr. F. W. Grant, the owner of the house on Putnam street, damaged by fire Thursday evening wished to correct the rumor which has been published in the newspapers that he was about the house on the afternoon previous to the fire. He says he was not there, nor has he been for three or four weeks. He was in Boston on Thursday and upon his return went to West Quincy via. Granite street. He did not know of the fire until the next morning. He says further that he has enemies in the vicinity of the fire, and that the person who circulated the rumor may know more about the fire than he does.

His accounts of the struggles and victories are very interesting. This is his ninth year in the regular army.

Mr. John Nelson Dead.

Mr. John Nelson, whose death is chronicled today, was for many months a sufferer from consumption. The deceased was born in Sweden, but with his folks had resided in Quincy for the past sixteen years. He was by trade a stone cutter, and was ever an industrious and worthy workman. Some two years ago, at the beginning of his trouble he went West in the hope that the change might bring back to him the robust health of former years. But the change did him little good and since his return to Quincy about a year ago, he has failed rapidly. Since July he has been connfined to his bed but through all his suffering he bore up with Christian fortitude. For four years he was a member of K company, Fifth regiment, M. V. M. A mother and two sisters mourn the loss of a kind and devoted brother. The funeral will be held on Sunday afternoon from his late home, 134 Granite street.

A Brave Volunteer at Home.

Peter Norton of South Braintree a member of the 9th Massachusetts regiment, was in town Monday calling on his many friends. Peter, as he is called by his friends was hardly recognized as he passed along the street. He having fallen away so from a large and fleshy man when he went away. He looks more like a shadow of his former self. He informed the writer that the hardships the regiment had to endure could not be expressed by words. His worst time was from July 2nd when the battalion he was in had a battle at El Caney. They having to lay in the mud for four hours fearing to move, for if they did they would have been shot. Another time he was on picket duty for 14 hours without a bit of food. On July 10 a thunder storm, struck the camp which lasted for six hours and nearly frightened the life out of the whole regiment so sharp was the lightning. He said he could go on for hours and tell of the terrible suffering they had to endure. His greatest duty was when he and members of company quelled the mutiny on board the transport "Harvard" when the Spanish captives tried to capture the boat. Five of the Spaniards were killed. He is now on 60 days' furlough, and is living with relatives in Dorchester. His many friends hope to see him recover rapidly to his former self.—Observer.

Heberry Rosh Hashana.

Rosh Hashana, the Hebrew New Year, began last night at sunset, and a series of festival days will follow. It is observed by Quincy Hebrews at Faxon hall. This will end the 5659th year since the first day of creation, according to Jewish tradition. The orthodox Hebrew still adheres to all the traditional customs. The fast lasts from sunset until after the services of the next forenoon, and no food or drink passes their lips during this time. The purpose of the observance is that every Hebrew throughout the entire world shall raise his voice at the same time to Jehovah.

In nearly all of the synagogues the principle of Judaism that no woman shall appear on the main floor where the men are, but shall sit in a balcony or separate apartment fitted up for her, is still observed, and a separate apartment is provided at Faxon hall.

The New Year's services are simple, but those of the following day are more impressive and solemn. The blowing of the "shoffar," the ram's horn, which refers to the judgment of God, is heard in all synagogues during the Saturday afternoon services. It is blown to move the wicked and unrepentant, and to inspire rejoicing in the penitent and virtuous.

Serious Fall.

Mr. Benjamin H. Kinglsey of Wollaston met with a bad accident yesterday afternoon. He was painting a house owned by A. L. Baker on Arlington street, Wollaston, and was suspended on a staging about twenty feet above the ground when he made a misstep and was precipitated to the ground, striking on his head. Dr. Record was hastily summoned and ordered his immediate removal to the hospital in an ambulance. No bones were broken. At a late hour last evening he had regained consciousness with good prospects of his ultimate recovery.

A. building on Monday afternoon next at three o'clock. All friends of the work and those who are interested are invited to attend.

MASS. FIFTH LEADS

In Keeping Grounds Up to Standard of Cleanliness.

Middletown, Penn.,
Camp Meade, Sept. 16.

The boys of the Fifth Massacuhsetts are getting better accustomed to their new camp and are resting well nights.

The weather was threatening yesterday morning, but rain passed us by.

Not a man of Co. K is sick. We hope it may continue so.

The writer has made a call on the 4th Missouri, 3d Connecticut, and 201st New York, and has reached the conclusion that "the Dandy Fifth" is the only regiment on the grounds that is kept up to the full standard of military cleanliness.

Mules are used here for transportation of merchandise. They brought the lumber Thursday for the tent floor.

The paymaster arrived Thursday and Co. K has received another month's pay.

Many of the boys have worn out their shoes, and hope more will soon be issued.

The soil is awful dry here, and it is difficult to keep our blue suits presentable.

The evening parade is held as usual every day, but there has been but little drilling since our arrival.

The boys have been instructed as to what is necessary to stamp out and keep out fevers, and if directions are followed there will be but very little sickness in the command.

The second corporal of Co. K to take his turn on guard duty was T. H. Hermanson.

But I forgot to mention in the previous letter a very important event of Wednesday. K company was marched in a body in the afternoon to bathe in the river near the foot of the Alleghany mountains. Every one enjoyed the pleasant sensation.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A, B and C, and today prints the first of the D's as far as "De" inclusive:

QUINCY MAN WON

The Hitormissit Tennis Tournament at Braintree.

At ten o'clock, Tuesday morning, the annual challenge cup tournament of the Hitormissit club, began. The entries had closed the previous evening at half past six. The committee, in looking over the entries had noticed the names of Bates, Albee and Witham; the three best players in the Wollaston club; and also that of Howe, who figured so brilliantly in last year's tournament. The result of the drawing was as follows: Albee drew a bi; Bent and Plumer, Howe and Crooker, I. W. Horne and Rollins Gallagher, Field and Barbour, Witham and Nixon were drawn as opponents. To make an even play Ewart and Bates did not play until the first round.

In the preliminaries, played on Tuesday, Crooker defaulted to Howe and Horne defaulted to R. Gallagher. This left only three matches to be played in the preliminaries. As in all tournaments, the preliminary round was merely a sifting out process.

Bent defeated Plumer 6-0, 6-2.

Field defeated Barbour 6-8, 6-4, 6-3.

Witham defeated Nixon 6-4, 6-2.

The play in these matches was slow and uninteresting.

In the first round, Field defaulted to Witham.

Albee defeated Bent, 6-0, 6-0, in a particularly slow contest.

Howe had some difficulty in defeating R. Gallagher; more perhaps, than he should have had. The scores in this match were 6-3, 2-6, 6-2.

Bates had little difficulty in defeating Ewart, the scores being 6-1, 6-1.

On Thursday, the tennis enthusiast had plenty of opportunity to witness good playing. This was the day set for the semi-finals.

The first match, between Albee and Howe was a fine exhibition of tennis. The hopes of the Hitorimssit boys were centered in Howe, as he was a member of the club. Albee, however, proved himself the better man by winning 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 7-5. Albee plays a swift, driving game, but had much difficulty in returning lots. On the other hand, Howe plays what might be called an easy game, and doesn't seem to recognize the use of driving the ball when he has good opportunities.

The remaining players in the semi-finals were Witham and Bates. These men are old opponents in the game of tennis and both have the reputation of being fine players. After a neat exhibition of tennis, Bates won 6-3, 7-5, 6-3.

Friday afternoon the finals of the tournament were held. After three days of playing the number of players had dwindled down to two persons; Albee and Bates, both of Wollaston. The players were very evenly matched and the playing was brilliant. Bates endurance, however, won him the tournament. The final scores are as follows: 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, 2-6, 6-1.

Today at two o'clock the winner of the tournament plays for the possession of the cup against William W. Gallagher the winner of last year's tournament. All lovers of tennis should see the match and also should not forget the Reading-Braintree match to be held Saturday Sept. 24 on the Hitormissit club grounds.

TODAY'S COURT.

Frank R. Williams was arraigned for being a common drunkard at Braintree. He was sent the house of correction for three months.

The continued case of James H. O'Brien for drunkenness was called and he paid a fine of $7.

Misses Hall and Keene, were two of the one hundred successful competitors for admission out of a class of one hundred and fifty-two. This speaks very well for the old North High.

The boys of '99 deserve great credit for the manner in which they are working to equip the "gym" of the new High school. The boys expect to have the apparatus put in, during the brief vacation, on account of the Weymouth fair. Several contractors have sent in their bids, and the contract will be awarded next week. It is the intention of the boys to fit the school with a first class gymnasium.

GRATEFUL FOR PEACE.

Acknowledgment of Cuban Debt to the United States.

President Masso to the Insurgents' Army.

Flag of the Republic Not to Be Soiled by Crime or Revenge.

Havana, Sept. 17.—President Masso of the Cuban republic has issued the following address to the army: "It is a pleasing duty, which the government council could not but fulfil and which at the same time it deems as the highest gift of fortune, to announce to the army of liberation the end of the struggle carried on, in these heretofore rich, but now devastated fields, before all the world between dignity and injustice. There is no need to say whose is the victory. Cuba, panoplied by a feeling of honor and the defense of right, was aided in its weakness by the magnitude of the necessary sacrifice, and went into the struggle with the firm and serene resolution of one who faces death to conquer death itself, seeking refuge in immortality. The stubborn resistance had to result in our complete destruction or triumph; and as there remain Cubans in existence success cannot belong to Spain.

"All the vigorous efforts of the nation that discovered this new world and was its mistress made during three years and a half of dire war, carried on by combined arrogance and egotism, have not been sufficient to prevent the final effacement from this hemisphere of that grasping and proud people, to the eternal shame of its name and material ruin of its power, expiating finally its grave fault by such a heavy punishment. Its honest and implacable judge was another nation—blessed by fate, youthful, pushing, generous, just. The United States of North America, from the moment the cry of Feb. 24 was given, rose alarmed, casting its eyes across the small sea which separates us towards this bloody and agitated land. Moved by our convulsions, the United States could not continue to live the pleasant life which their prosperity gurantees them, and in which other countries indifferent to our misfortunes have continued to live. The United States gave in their cities hospitality to our people; in their manufactories our rifles were made; from their shores came numerous expeditions; their press, with immense and constant clamor, called for justice, praising our triumphs, publishing our sufferings, encouraging us with sympathy and promise of help, while it protested against and condemned the atrocities of Spain. American diplomacy drove the infamous Weyler out and terminated the criminal policy of concentration. The United States have continued their great work of humanity and justice, sacrificing their own peace, offering their own treasure and giving their own noble blood, constituting themselves the executors of the verdict by which the empire of Spain is forever extinguished in the Antilles and Cuba becomes sovereign in the enjoyment of her independence.

"Every Cuban heart therefore, instead of cherishing bitterness and sorrow, must be proud of having done its duty and grateful to its protector. The army of the revolution should also receive the congratulations of the rising republic; it deserves our boundless gratitude. The government council therefore salutes the Cuban soldier who has been a model of abnegation and heroism. The army has shown a perseverance equal to its bravery.

"The American people, our ally of yesterday, our host of today, our friend always, is contemplating Cuba and will witness our constitution. Let Cuba be worthy of herself, and she will be worthy of the friendship of the United States. The Cuban army will do its part, having fought under the motto embodying our ideals—'Country and liberty.' We have at last a country, and will deserve liberty. Our love for Cuba will cause us to have little trouble in establishing a calm present, harbinger of a prosperous future. Neither interest nor hatred was the motive which impelled us to this war. No one who gives up his home and suffers hardships and misery is capable of such baseness. The Cuban flag so gallantly defended and stainless will not be in the hour of peace soiled with crime or violence or revenge. The good judgment and magnanimity of the Cubans will gain for them the admiration of the world; they will deserve a place in history, for they will have seen their work accomplished and their country redeemed and triumphant."

Pay From a Colored Hand.

Washington, Sept. 17.—Paymaster General Stanton has turned over to the president all the papers relating to the unpleasantness growing out of the refusal of a Texas regiment to receive pay from Major Lynch bcause he is colored. The president has taken no definite action beyond expressing approval of General Stanton's course in sending a sharp dispatch to the commanding paymaster of that department, stating in effect that as Major Lynch had been regularly commissioned by the president as an army paymaster, the troops must take their pay from him, or else go without pay. There is the possibility that a new question may arise on the point of insubordination in refusing to receive pay from paymasters regularly commissioned to make payments.

Spanish Planters Killed.

San Juan, Sept. 17.—More depredations are reported to have occurred in the neighborhood of Utuod. Several Spanish haciendas and cafetals have been burned and two Spanish planters killed. These outrages are attributed to the lower classes of the natives, actuated by a spirit of revenge, and a lawless gang of brigands which has been operating near Ciales. The Spanish planters fear for their lives and are extremely anxious that the Americans should obtain control in order to afford them protection, as the United States is powerless now to preserve order in places within the Spanish lines.

The details of the evacuation of the island were practically completed at a meeting of the commission yesterday, and all now depends upon when the Madrid government shall place transports at the disposal of Captain General Macias for the embarkation of the troops. Failure to send transports will embarrass the Spanish commissioners; but the American commissioners will probably not set an absolute time limit for the evacuation without instructions from Washington.

Talked Too Bluntly.

Indianapolis, Sept. 17.—The war department telegraphed to Chaplain C. A. Carstensen of the One Hundred and Fifty-sixth Indiana regiment, just returned from the south, calling on him to affirm or deny the text of an interview credited to him in an Indianapolis paper. Among other statements attributed to the chaplain is one that the general-in-chief of the medical department was a veterinary surgeon who had devoted all his life to doctoring horses. In describing Camp Thomas, Chaplain Carstensen is quoted as saying: "Exaggeration is not necessary. Facts are more condemnatory than fiction. The real conditions were bad enough, God knows." Rev. Mr. Carstensen is pastor of the St. Paul's Episcopal church of this city.

Want to Go to Cuba.

New York, Sept. 17.—Now that the war is practically ended, the eagerness of people to reach Porto Rico and Cuba to take advantage of the prosperous times anticipated from the revival of the industries of those islands is being shown at the steamship offices. At the office of one line Friday morning the doors were crowded by people seeking passage on a vessel which sailed for Santiago, and many were turned away because of the impossibility of furnishing further accommodations. The steamship companies have raised their rates all round. The fare asked to Santiago is $75; to Porto Rico one company charges $50, and another $65.

Death Was Sudden.

Columbus, Sept. 17.—Brigadier General Haskell died suddenly at his home at the Columbus post Friday afternoon. He was stricken with apoplexy, the excitement through which he had passed during the day being the immediate cause of the attack. General Haskell commanded the Seventeenth infantry at the battle of El Caney and was wounded in the left shoulder and knee. He came home about a month ago, and was rapidly recovering. The wound in his shoulder, however, had paralyzed his left arm. Friday morning the Seventeenth regiment returned home, and General Haskell went to the depot in a carriage to welcome his men. He rode at the head of the regiment through the city to the post, and the cheers of the immense crowds that lined the streets were directed almost as much to him individually as to the regiment. At the reviewing stand the crowd surrounded the carriage, and flowers were fairy showered into the vehicle from every side.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 17.—The first delegation to attend the annual convention of the sovereign lodge of Odd Fellows arrived here on a special train from Minneapolis Friday.

News has reached here of the death in Santiago of Lieutenant M. J. O'Brien of the Fifth infantry. The officer resigned from the army about a year ago, but re-entered the service upon the outbreak of the war.

Professor W. H. Daily, one of the most noted life-savers of the United States, for many years champion swimmer and champion oarsman of the Pacific slope, and in recent years well known in theatrical circles from the fact that he had been advance agent and manager of many companies, died yesterday in South Boston. Death was caused by pneumonia.

The stock of goods of Thomas Hall & Co., dealers in electrical supplies and megaphones, was nearly destroyed by fire last night. Pierce & Gardiner, silk lamp shades; Chase, Brown & Co., woolens, and the American Wringer company suffered considerably from smoke and water.

The ninth annual convention of the National Loom Fixers association ended last night, the delegates voting to meet in Fall River in September, 1899. Resolutions were adopted, declaring for an eight-hour work day without further delay, and endorsing the short hour bill submitted to congress by Congressman Lovering of this state. Resolutions were also adopted demanding that all trade measures proposed in congress or state legislatures shall be submitted to the trade which is directly interested for a vote before it is enacted.

Will Save a Million.

Washington, Sept. 17.—The contract for stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers is calculated to save the consumers of these articles at least $1,000,000 a year. There is a very marked difference between the prices which will go into effect Jan. 1 next and those which prevail under the present contract. Among the 20 different kinds of envelopes and wrappers to be supplied there are five which are more generally used than the others. Commercial size envelopes are among these. The present contract price per thousand is $1.60, and there has been a reduction of 40 cents per thousand on them. On extra letter size there will be a reduction of 60 cents per thousand. Extra letter size for enclosing circulars will be $1.08 per thousand, a reduction of 8 cents. The price of newspaper wrappers per thousand, $1, will remain the same, and legal size wrappers will be 90 cents lower, the present price being $2.16 per thousand.

Fall In Price.

Fall River, Sept. 17.—The price of print cloth has fallen one-half of 1 percent, and at the new quotation, 2 1-16 cents, less one-half of 1 percent, there is but a moderate demand. The sales for the week, mostly at 2 1-16 cents, were only moderate in amount.

Veil Lifted From the Murder Mystery In Bridgeport.

Abortionist's Victim Identified by Her Father.

Perpetrator of the Crime and Her Lover Elude the Police.

Bridgeport, Sept. 17.—Five days ago the waters gave up a dead girl, and brought to light what it was feared might prove an unfathomable problem of crime to set at bay the oft-baffled sleuths of the nutmeg state. Her identity has been established, but her murderer, who is suspected, is still at large, as is also the man whom she loved too well. Frank Perkins of Middleboro, Mass., came to this city Friday and recognized the dismembered body as that of his daughter, Grace, who had been strangely absent for three weeks.

The establishment of the identity in such a brief time affords great encouragement to the belief that the perpetrators of the tragedy will not long escape arrest, but the progress that is being made in this direction by the police is being carefully guarded. To all inquiries Superintendent Birmingham replies with the stereotyped "Nothing new," and not a word will be said about any features of the case.

Thursday, Aug. 25, she told the manager of the farm by which she was employed in Middleboro that she was going to Onset to stay three days and would surely return by Saturday night. While at Onset she was known to pass a great deal of her time in the company of Charles Bourne, who was her lover. After staying a week at this shore resort she disappeared and with her went Bourne, as the young couple were seen by several acquaintances at Tremont Sept. 1, waiting to board a train. Before leaving Onset she wrote to her employers, stating that she was not feeling well, but would be home in a few days. Since leaving the Tremont station all trace of the young couple was lost. When Miss Perkins left home she took no change of clothing. Mr. Perkins knew of no reason she should leave home. Ever since her mysterious disappearance the parents hoped for her return, and watched the papers every day, until a picture in a Boston paper decided them to investigate.

She Was In Trouble.

Onset, Mass., Sept. 17.—Grace Perkins, the victim in the Bridgeport murder, visited a relative, Sarah Snow, in this town three weeks ago and stayed a week, then leaving quite suddenly. Mrs. Snow says that once during a conversation with Grace the latter intimated that she was in trouble, and Mrs. Snow advised her to go at once to Middleboro and get married. To this Grace replied that the young man was not of age, and pointed to a beautiful ring upon her finger which she said was an engagement ring. That night, Mrs. Snow says, Charles Bourne came for Grace and took her away in a carriage. A few days later she received a letter from Grace in which she said that what she had said about herself was wrong, and asking Mrs. Snow not to mention the incident to her mother.

Midwife In the Case.

Elmira, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Nancy Guilford, the midwife who disappeared from Bridgeport after the finding of the murdered girl's remains, has now disappeared from Wellsburg, a village six miles from here, where she came from her home and where a brother lives. Inquiries at the railroad station show that she went to Montreal by way of Albany on a night train Wednesday. Her daughter remains at Wellsburg.

"Old Nance," who was born in the village, and lived there all her life until her romantic marriage with the notorious Dr. Gill, arrived last Tuesday night, the day after the discovery of the body of the murdered girl. She was accompanied by her daughter and went to the home of her brother. To her old friends who saw her she said that she intended remaining several weeks, but the day after her arrival the New York papers came, connecting her name, though rather vaguely, with the Bridgeport murder mystery. From that time Dr. Guilford denied herself to all callers and was seldom seen outside of her brother's house. She came to this city Wednesday afternoon, and departed for Canada.

English Cricketers In Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Sept. 17.—The first day's play in the international cricket match between Captain Warner's team of English amateurs and the representative eleven of the strongest Philadelphia cricket teams may be described as a draw. The locals were retired for the rather discouraging total of 94. When the Englishmen went in for their first inning, Captain Warner and F. Mitchell started off well, scoring 44 before the first wicket fell. The next four wickets, however, went down with less than a dozen runs added to the score, and when the eighth wicket fell and play was stopped for the day, the Englishmen had only 79 runs. They have only one more wicket to lose, as because of the illness of two of their players they are batting only 10 men in the first inning.

Fishing Vessel Run Into.

Boston, Sept. 17.—The Alice C. Jordan, with a crew of 16 men, left Gloucester last Monday, bound for Block island on a fishing trip. Friday the schooner was in Vineyard sound. The weather was perfectly clear, although the sky was overcast. The City of Gloucester was seen in the distance. As she came nearer it was seen that a collision was inevitable, and the three men on the schooner's deck shouted to those below to hurry on deck. The Gloucester struck the schooner with fearful force, and cut into her fully a third of her breadth. One of the crew was killed, and eight were drowned, the remaining seven being rescued.

Four Were Killed.

Evergreen, Ala., Sept. 17.—News has reached here of the bursting of the boiler at a saw mill 14 miles from here. The engineer, his wife and child, and his wife's sister were instantly killed and four men hurt.

FRUIT CULTURE.

Notes About Strawberries, Raspberries, Early Pears and Apples.

New plantations of the garden strawberry should have close attention tc keep the runners picked off as soon as they are seen, and also to keep the surface stirred up about them either with a wheel hoe once a week or with a garden hoe if the weeds are too large to kill with the former. We find the wheel hoe invaluable for all garden crops if kept going so as to keep the surface stirred up. Even purslane cannot stand this treatment if given often, and if they are caught when in the seedling stage they will then dry up in a hot sun.

Now is the time to thin out the old raspberry canes so as to give light and air to the young ones that are to remain. Even the latter may be thinned if too thick. It is also a good time to tear out old beds where so desired, for if taken at this time it is possible to kill every piece of the old stools before winter. One can kill most anything at this time of year, specially witch grass, and if this prevails in the plantation there is no better time to get it under subjection. Our old plantation will be plowed up and harrowed over so as to bring the rough stubble to the surface where it can dry and be burned, and a late sowing of winter spinach will be put in so as not to have the ground idle.

Early summer pears will begin to ripen at this time, and a little loose straw spread under the trees will save many fine fruit in falling from being bruised badly. But it is best to examine pears as soon as the first signs of maturity are seen, and if the stem parts readily from the branch fruit is ready to pick even though quite hard to the touch. Many of our best and indeed all late pears have to be gathered when hard to mature in their season, and it is best to anticipate the heavy gales of wind that prevail soon after this time of year by housing such as are ready to gather.

There is said to be no better county for apples than ours, and if this is any criterion for the crop in other sections it will pay well to take care of the apples this year. While there is no great scarcity, there will probably be no glut in our markets, and as the fruit is of very good quality owing to the abundance of moisture this season there will be very few seconds as compared with the season of 1896, and it is time to be looking after barrels, says a writer in American Gardening in concluding the foregoing notes for the benefit of fruit growers.

A Heavily Bearing Currant.

The Red Cross currant is not a war-time production, as might be inferred from its name, but has been before the pubic for some years and has received favorable notice. The cut from The Country Gentleman represents a branch or section of the bush of the Red Cross and conveys a better idea than words can give of how thickly the fruit hangs on the bush.

THE RED CROSS CURRANT.

The journal mentioned says this currant is a cross between the cherry and white grape, having the size and color of the one and the mild acid flavor of the other, and was produced by Jacob Moore of Attica, N. Y., originator of the Brighton and Diamond grapes, Bartlett-Seckel pear and other improved fruits.

Watering Dahlias.

Dahlias coming into flower will repay you a hundredfold for every good drenching you may give them, according to Vick. The water saved from the weekly wash and applied at evening, or even water from the well (the latter should be drawn several hours before using and left in the sun if possible), will prove very acceptable. A little soot, bonemeal or phosphate or some kind of plant food dug into the soil about the roots will increase the size of the blossoms. If extra large blooms are desired, allow but one stalk to each tuber set and pinch out part of the buds that form, but this part of the work should have been attended to earlier in the season.

A New Fuchsia For Amateurs.

A recent appearance in fuchsias is Mme. Bruant, of which the Revue Horticole says, "It will become the favorite of amateurs as soon as it is known." The plant is described as vigorous and well formed. Color of the flowers are exquisite, lilac mauve, veined and streaked with rose; sepals bright red with a number of the petals adhering on account of the doubleness of the corolla. The beautiful pendent flowers of enormous size are produced in wonderful profusion.

Pruning the Japanese Plum.

"One item in plum culture must not be neglected," says a writer in Country Gentleman, "and that is cutting back the growth of the Japanese. When a shoot runs up six or more feet in one season's growth, it needs shortening to about one-half. So do not neglect the pruning. Aim to develop a well balanced, symmetrical head upon each tree, and to that end employ the knife where it is needed.

Nautical Ingenuity.

A striking instance of nautical ingenuity and fraternity is furnished by a writer in the London Telegraph:

A sailor from her majesty's ship Ganges arrived in one of the side streets of Walworth, in search of a shipmate passing a half holiday with his parents, who had recently moved to that neighborhood.

He had lost the address his friend had given him and proceeded to ask policemen, postmen and shopkeepers if they knew where a sailor boy from her majesty's fleet lived. None of them could give the desired information, and the dwellers in private houses, whom he summoned by knocks at the door, were equally devoid of knowledge on the subject.

The gallant tar was somewhat nonplused, but at length he met a vender of paper decorations for Christmas. These hawkers always carry a long tin trumpet through which they announce their wares to the public. The sailor gave the man a penny for the use of the instrument for one minute, and then sounded with all his force the Ganges dinner call, adding, "If that doesn't bring out Joseph, then he ain't in this locality, that's all."

Sure enough, in less than half a minute a window was raised 50 yards farther down the street, a nautical looking head appeared at the aperture, and from strong, healthy lungs came the cheering response: "Ship ahoy! Full speed, and here you are! Why, the grog's been a-waitin for you this half hour."

Thus the two friends found each other through a bugle call on a tin trumpet and spent a jolly holiday together.

A Perfect Performance.

At a variety entertainment given in aid of a popular institution one of the "turns" was a ventriloquist. As this gentleman was recognized as one of the cleverest members of his profession, his appearance was looked forward to with much interest. At last it came. The stage attendants carried on to the stage three dressed figures, seated in chairs, as usual. The professor followed and then went through an astonishing performance. No one could detect a muscle of his face move during the laughable dialogues, and the changes of voice seemed marvelous.

On retiring the applause was deafening, and the ventriloquist had to return again and again to thank the audience for their appreciation. A couple of minutes or so after, when the audience were talking among themselves as to how it was done, they were thunderstruck to see the three figures get up from the chairs and walk off the stage also, but on realizing how completely they had been "sold" the laughter was uproarious. The professor had got three of his friends to take the place of his usual "lay" figures for that night only.—Pearson's Weekly.

How Bankruptcy Strikes a Maori.

A Maori chief who lost £40 through a white storekeeper going through the bankruptcy court has given the following lucid exposition of this particular branch of British jurisprudence: "The pakeha (white man) who wants to become pakarapu (insolvent) goes into business and gets lots of goods and does not pay for them. He then gets all the money he can together, say £2,000, and puts all of it except £5 away where no one can find it. With the £5 he goes to a judge of the court and tells him he wants to become pakarapu.

"The judge then calls all the lawyers together, likewise all the men to whom the pakeha owes money, and he says, 'This man is pakarapu, but he wishes to give you all that he has got, and so he has asked me to divide this £5 among you all.' The judge thereupon gives the lawyers £4 and the remaining £1 to the other men. Then the pakeha goes home."—London Chronicle.

Impartial.

An English clergyman, recently settled in a small town in Perthshire, met a farmer's boy while visiting the members of his congregation. In the course of conversation the boy said his parents had an aunt staying with them. The parson, not having much acquaintance with the Scottish language, and not quite comprehending what the boy said asked:

"Then, do I understand that your aunt is on your father's side or on your mother's?"

To which the young agriculturist replied:

"Weel, whiles the ane an whiles the ither, excep' when feyther leathers them baith."—Dundee People's Journal.

Dry Plate Photography.

The first amateur pictures on dry plates were made something after the method employed by Charles Lamb's celebrated Chinaman in obtaining roast pig. The Chinaman burned his house to roast his pig. The amateur tore his camera to pieces to get his picture. The first hand camera was a pasteboard box containing one plate. A pinhole served as a lens and after the exposure of the plate the box was taken to the dark room, cut open, and the plate extracted. This was rather expensive picture making, and it was not long before a magazine camera was invented, and suddenly all the world began taking pictures. —Elizabeth Flint Wade in St. Nicholas.

How to Drink Water.

There are few people, we think, who thoroughly realize the value of water as a beverage or who know how to obtain the greatest advantage from it. The effects produced by the drinking of water, as pointed out by our excellent contemporary, Health, vary with the manner in which it is drunk. If, for instance, a pint of cold water be swallowed as a large draft, or if it be taken in two portions with a short interval between, certain definite results follow —effects which differ from those which would have resulted from the same quantity taken by sipping. Sipping is a powerful stimulant to the circulation, a thing which ordinary drinking is not.

During the act of sipping the action of the nerve which shows the beats of the heart is abolished, and as a consequence that organ contracts much more rapidly, the pulse beats more quickly and the circulation in various parts of the body is increased. In addition to this, we find that the pressure under which the bile is secreted is raised by the sipping of fluid. And here is a point which might well be noted by our readers:

A glass of cold water, slowly sipped, will produce greater acceleration of the pulse for a time than will a glass of wine or spirits taken at a draft. In this connection it may not be out of place to mention that sipping cold water will often allay the craving for alcohol in those who have been in the habit of taking too much of it and who may be endeavoring to reform, the effect being probably due to the stimulant action of the sipping.

but counsel submitted that she should not be held as there had been no evidence to connect her with the crime.

Castle Square Theatre.

The coming week at the Castle Square theatre by a most elaborate production of Archibald Clavering Gunter's own adaptation of his novel "Mr. Barnes of New York" which created such a sensation at the time of its original production at the Broadwar theatre, New York, some dozen years ago. The version used at the Castle Square theatre will be the revised one made by the author after the first season of the play, introducing the railroad episode complete. This production will have a special interest in that it will afford an opportunity of witnessing Mr. Gilmour's impersonation of the hero of the story which is one of the many characters he has created during his career. Following this production a revival of Edward Milton Royle's comedy drama "Friends" is announced for the week beginning Monday, Sept. 26th. The winter season has started in with crowded houses at all performances and a greater success than ever is predicted for this favorite theatre.

Boston Museum.

It may now be said that the dramatic season at the Boston Museum is at its height so successful have been the reproductions that have been given at the favorite playhouse of New England and so great has been the prosperity attendant upon the run of Hoyt's "A Stranger in New York" which is now the attraction there. There is everything to please in this latest and best of musical comedies—situations that are laughable in the extreme, jokes that are new and fresh musical numbers that are bright and catchy as is proved by the way in which they are whistled on the streets all over the Hub. Add to these the presence of some of the most popular players on the American stage and one can readily understand why "A Stranger in New York" is such an enormous success. Harry Conor is a genuine treat as a funmaker. He is well remembered as the leading spirit in "A Trip to Chinatown," but his hit in that comedy has been far surpassed by his success in "A Stranger in New York." Then there is Anna Boyd, who is as vivacious comedienne as the Boston stage has ever seen, and who has made another success equal to her far famed Widow in "A Trip to Chinatown." All the other players are of equal popularity.

Keith's Theatre.

The programme at Keith's the week of Sept. 19 will include the biggest attraction that has been offered in New York for several seasons past, entitled, "The Origin of the Cake-walk," which enlists the services of twenty-five colored people and will be produced under the personal supervision of Edward E. Rice. The music especially is bright and catchy, including many original negro melodies, and there is no reasonable doubt but that it will make the biggest hit of the season in Boston. The success of this novelty at the Casino roof garden, New York, was simply phenominal, many of the best people of the city being among the regular patrons. It was generally conceeded that Mr. Rice had never made a more attractive offering during his long and successful career as an amusement caterer. The engagement of the Symphony Players has been extended a week, an announcement that will be read with pleasure by the lovers of high class music who have especially enjoyed this particular feature of Mr Keith's show during the summer months. A soloist will be provided as usual. The hit made by the Cohans has been the most pronounced ever achieved by any similar combination of entertainers who have hitherto appeared on the stage of "the model playhouse," and they will be the leaders in the fun making the coming week, producing another of their excrutiatingly funny sketches.

Sans Souci.

For the coming week the Sans Souci bids fair to be in the very zenith of its glory. A principal act will be Jess Dandy, who has been making an immense New York hit the past four weeks. It will be his Boston debut. Another feature never before seen in Boston will be an attraction coming direct from six weeks of illustrious success in Washington, Emma Kraus and Margaret Rosa, with their famous "Dutch" Pickaninnies. The greatest sensation of all will be the return of Kittie Mitchell, after her long illness which so suddenly terminated her engagement at this place early in the season at the Sans Souci. She has fully recovered and a brilliant welcome awaits this Sans Souci favorite. Cawthorne and Forrester are a comedy pair that will make a big hit, and there are others of equal merit. The Sans Souci has among its engagements for the future some of the greatest music hall attractions the world affords, and in as many instances as possible it will be the policy to play features that have never before been seen in Boston and will be seen in this city exclusively at the Sans Souci.

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

ARMY OF OCCUPATION

Opposition to Sending Soldiers to Southern Camps.

Gen. Miles' Plan Not Favored by Gen. Corbin.

President Thinks Well of It, However, For the Men's Wellbeing.

Montauk, Sept. 19.—A conference was held at General Wheeler's headquarters Sunday at which the colonels of the cavalry division were present. Views were exchanged on the question of removal of the troops to a new camp in the south prior to their transportation to Cuba, and all present were of the opinion that it would be better for their commands to remain at Montauk until the government is ready to ship them to Cuba. The men are now reported to be in as good condition, in a general way, as when they left their posts last spring to mobilize for the campaign. General Wheeler will make a report to General Corbin himself, indorsing this view of the case.

Unless the present plan is suddenly changed, the army of occupation will sail for Cuba about Oct. 15. This statement is made unon the authority of an army officer usually well informed of the plans of the war department. According to this officer, the army will include two corps, and possibly three, or from 60,000 to 90,000 men. The troops will land, for the most part, at Havana and from there will be distributed through the island.

According to this officer, the Seventh corps, now stationed at Jacksonville under Major General Fitzhugh Lee, will form a part of the force to be sent to Cuba, to be followed possibly by the Second corps, now at Camp Mead under command of Major General Graham. These corps are largely made up of volunteers, and according to the present plan, it is said it is not the intention to send volunteers to Cuba who do not wish to go. By the time the movement is ordered, there will be plenty of regulars in condition to take the places of volunteer organizations which do not care to spend the winter or longer in Cuba.

The president is not much in favor of putting any great number of troops in camp as far south as Huntsville or Anniston. He is more inclined to have some such place as Camp Meade, if the troops are to be put into camp at all. The president, however, is inclined to agree with General Miles that the places for all the regulars now at Camp Wikoff are the sections whence they came when ordered to Tampa at the beginning of the war. At these stations, with barracks to sleep in, good water to drink and more of the appointments of home life for the men, the president believes that the regulars would rapidly regain health and get into shape for further service in Cuba. The president would not send troops which are likely to be needed in Cuba west of the Mississippi.

The president has found that General Miles' plan is not favored by the war department, as represented by Adjutant Corbin. Just why does not appear at present. Some have suggested that the adjutant general does not favor the plan because General Miles has proposed it. While the authorities are trying to determine where the Montauk troops shall be sent the quartermaster general can do nothing in the way of inviting bids for a general transfer of troops to any one place.

Will Represent Spain.

Madrid, Sept. 19.—The Official Gazette publishes the announcement of the appointment of Montero Rios, president of the senate; Mr. Abarzuza, Mr. Garnica, General Cerero and Mr. Villarrutia as the Spanish peace commissioners. Messrs. Du Bosc and Aranguren, formerly secretaries to the Spanish legation in Washington, have been transferred from St. Petersburg to Vienna.

Rhode Islanders Ill.

Camp Mead, Middletown, Pa., Sept. 19.—Fifteen typhoid fever cases were shipped from the second division hospital last night to the charity hospital, Norristown. The patients were from the Two Hundred and First and Two Hundred and Second New York, Fourth Missouri, First Rhode Island and Second West Virginia regiments. Chief Surgeon Girard believes the sick will do better in the city hospital than in a tent, and has arranged to ship more to Harrisburg and Philadelphia hospitals. There are 175 fever and rheumatism patients in the general hospitals, and they will be taken away as rapidly as they can be moved. Colonel Abbott of the First Rhode Island is seriously ill with typhoid fever at the home of a friend in Middletown.

"We Are Another People."

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 19.—The sermon of President William J. Tucker of Dartmouth, with a congregation of Dartmouth undergraduates and students just returning to their books, was upon a topic of national interest, and the lessons he deducted were eagerly listened to. His subject pertained to the Spanish war and its effect upon Americans. The essence of his views was that our victory was due to education. He said among other things: "No war was ever waged, of so short duration, and with so small numbers actually engaged, which produced a like result in the internal life of a people. The supreme outcome of the war is not the acquisition of territory, whether we take as little as may satisfy our moral obligations, or whether we take as much as our greed may demand. The supreme outcome of the war is a new consciousness in the American people. Whether for good or for ill, we are another people.

"The war has taught us in unmistakable language the morality of education. The life of a nation may be made to depend upon the character of its education. If the gunnery of our ships had been on a par with that of the Spanish fleet would anyone have had a moment's consideration for the education of our navy? The educational side of the war as contrasted with its training side has been a delightful surprise to the American people. The schools have fought this war. I do not think the war will greatly increase the military spirit of the country. The reflex wave as it sweeps back over the land is carrying with it too many wasted, worn and dying men to draw again into its return the health and strength of the nation, certainly not out of any vain passion for glory."

New York, Sept. 19.—Five members of company G of the Ninth Massachusetts volunteer infantry, under Corporal John Dwyer, reached this city yesterday afternoon from Camp Meade after hardships, hunger and riding on top of freight cars. The men hail from Woburn. They all complained of their treatment in camp and of the fact that they were not provided with transportation to their homes. These soldiers were left behind in the hospital when their regiment was ordered home.

Saturday, according to their statements, they were told that they could go home. "Get home the best way you can," were the parting words. The men started off together, and boarded a freight train for New York. It was a tedious and dirty ride, which ended in Jersey City, where the men landed penniless and hungry. Near the station they fell in with a kind-hearted stranger, who took them over to a hotel and treated them to a drink. Then they were taken in hand by the hotel people, who, they say, treated them royally. A Jersey City policeman passed them over the ferry, and when they arrived at West street another man gave them money for their night's lodging. The men said that their pay had all been taken up by fines for trivial offenses, and that nothing was coming to them, and therefore they were supposed to get home as best they could. They are all weak from privation and sleeping on the ground, but say they will not ask for anything.

Will Let Soldiers Remain.

San Juan, Sept. 19.—The preparations for the embarkation of the Spanish troops are reported to be complete, though the American commissioners have not been advised to that effect. The United States commissioners have agreed that such troops as desire to remain here may do so, and practically all the volunteers and some of the regulars whose families and interests are here will remain. If the necessary ships were here the island would be evacuated and formally in our posession within three days.

The American commissioners are highly pleased at the spirit shown by the Spaniards. The unexpected has happened. Where it was expected that opposition and delay would be encountered, none has been found. In good faith the Spaniards have met the Americans and arranged with them the terms of evacuation. Our commissioners expect to see the American flag hoisted and the Spanish flag hauled down forever within three weeks.

Unoccupied House Damaged.

Newton, Mass., Sept. 19.—Another case of vandalism has been added to the list of those committed in this city during the past week, and while every effort is being made on the part of the police to discover the perpetrators, as yet a tangible clew has not been found. Catherine Cranitch reported that a house owned by her in the Newtonville district had been entered, and, though but a few articles have been discovered missing, the contents were thoroughly ransacked and a large amount of damage wrought.

As in the Page case, the furniture was overturned, books, pictures, bric-a-brac, and in fact everything was thrown about the various rooms in utter confusion. Articles of value to those in search of plunder were passed over, showing clearly that the object of the intruders was not robbery. In the upper story of the house, closet doors were forced open, and the contents of bureau drawers heaped on the floor and ruthlessly trampled upon. The Cranitch house, like the Page house, has been unoccupied for several months, thus affording an excellent opportunity to the intruders.

STILL A MYSTERY.

Dramatic Episode In Bridgeport's Extraordinary Case of Murder.

Bridgeport, Sept. 19.—The one topic of conversation throughout the city is the unexpected development in the murder mystery and the reappearance at her home of Miss Perkins, who was suspected to be the victim of the tragedy. There has been another identification, the fourth since the discovery of the remains. The man who now comes forward to identify the woman is David Bibbins, whose wife is matron of the home of associated charities for industrial relief. He says that the body is that of a young woman, name unknown, who was a lodger at the home on the night of Sept. 8. He saw the body at the morgue Wednesday, but did not admit any knowledge of identification, for the reason that he hoped somebody might come forward; but now that the Perkins identification proved wrong both he and Mrs. Bibbins are confident that the woman was the one in question.

The young woman approached Officer Peter Hall, who is on duty at the railroad station, late that night and asked him for lodging, as she was penniless. She stated to the officer that she had been in a convent in New York for over a year, but on account of her condition the mother superior would not allow her to remain there any longer. She claimed to have an aunt in South Norwalk, the only living relative, and that she was then returning to her, but on account of the late hour she deemed it better to wait until the next day. In proof of her assertion that she was going to South Norwalk she showed a railroad ticket for that city. Moreover, she stated that she was sent to the convent by Father Slocum of South Norwalk, who is now in Waterbury. The young woman appeared to be in a highly nervous state, almost bordering on the hysterical, and the officer at once took her to the home presided over by Mrs. Bibbins.

The story she told to Mrs. Bibbins was identically the same. The young woman was so nervous that she did not want to be locked in her room, as is the custom of the home, and only on Mrs. Bibbins promising to look in and see her every little while could she be induced to retire. The next morning, however, after her room was unlocked, she slipped away unperceived so that her name was not learned to enter the register. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bibbins affirm that the general description, height, weight and features tally with that of the murdered woman. While Officer Hall did not think she had gold in her teeth, they say it was so noticeable that it could be seen across the room by lamplight. Superintendent Birmingham places but little credence in this last identification, inasmuch as the other three, which were even more positive, petered out.

Rev. Father Slocum was seen relative to the matter, and he disclaimed any knowledge of such a person. He has been in Waterbury, moreover, about three years, which evidences a discrepancy in the young woman's story. He says that the last woman that he recollects as being sent to a New York convent from South Norwalk was sent about five years ago by his assistant, Father O'Donnell. The young woman in question is alive and happily married.

Notwithstanding the statement of Thomas Merrick, the uncle of Grace Perkins, that the young lady had been married to Charles Bourne, the members of the Perkins family are not so sure of this fact, and are inclined to doubt it. This is probably due not only to the positive statement of the Bourneses that such a marriage has not taken place, but to the reticence of Grace herself on her absence. She absolutely declines to have anything to say on the subject, nor will she disclose anything connected with her trip, or her whereabouts during her two weeks' absence from home. It is known that she went to Onset, but since leaving there even her family is ignorant of her movements up to Saturday noon, when she left Providence for Middleboro. Miss Perkins appears very much unconcerned regarding the whole affair, and looks on it all as more of a joke than anything else. She kept in doors all day Sunday, and though the house was well nigh surrounded by curious persons, few caught even a glimpse of her. The Bourneses are even closer mouthed than the Perkins family, denying emphatically that the two are married. The family feels the situation and the publicity of the affair keenly.

"Mrs. Bourne" Will Not Talk.

Middleboro, Sept. 19.—The only topic talked of and dreamed of in this quiet town is the dramatic turn to what was heralded as a tragedy involving the death of a young woman of Middleboro and the guilt of her lover in an effort to thwart the work of nature. If Grace Perkins had not appeared in the flesh herself Saturday afternoon and turned the sorrow of her family into joy, a coffin supposed to contain all that was mortal of the young woman would now be resting in a grave that had been dug in the town cemetery because of the positive identification of the Bridgeport body by Mr. Perkins as that of his daughter. Sunday morning a Bridgeport detective arrived here, and after a little redtape had been unloosed the grewsome charge was surrendered by the undertaker and conveyed to the Connecticut city for immediate interment on account of its condition.

Vesuvius Very Active.

Naples, Sept. 19.—A state of gloomy apprehension prevails regarding the eruption of Vesuvius, which is hourly becoming more active and menacing. Streams of lava are spreading in every direction. The most threatening of these flows through the Vedrino valley, which is almost filled. The observatory, which originally stood at a height of 610 metres, is now only 27 metres above the sea level owing to the sinking of the ground. Seven new craters have formed around the central one, and this has not tended to diminish the fears formerly felt, which were based upon the eruption of stones and scoriae similar to that which occurred in 1872.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A, B and C, and today prints the second instalment of the D's as far as "Do" inclusive:

HALF HOLIDAY.

Wednesday promises to be a gala day in Boston, and a holiday for all the suburban towns. As several of the employes of the Daily Ledger are members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and will parade that day, and all hands want to witness the grand sight, the Daily Ledger will go to press at 11 A. M. on Wednesday to give them the opportunity. The paper will be on sale by the news agents at noon, but will be delivered by newsboys at the usual time.

Good Afternoon.

Representative T. H. Newcomb has excellent prospects of securing the Republican nomination for senator in this district. It needs but the loyal and hearty support of the Republicans of this city, as he is assured support from towns outside. A solid delegation of nineteen from Quincy would give him within nine votes of a nomination, as a majority of the convention will be twenty-eight. Such faithful and assiduous attention to duties as the old G. A. R. veteran has given the past three years merits promotion and it should be Hon. Thaddeus H. Newcomb, senator from the First Norfolk district next year.

The Boston dailies of Saturday published a decision of the full bench relative to sewer assessments, which decides Chap. 402 of the acts of 1892 to be unconstitutional. Some without even taking the trouble to read the newspaper report thoroughly have arrived at the conclusion that the proposed Quincy method is illegal, and have made a great hue and cry over it. But a closer reading shows that the action was brought to have set aside the assessment levied on the petitioner on an unaccepted street and through private land. And on investigation shows that Chap. 402 of the acts of 1892 was a special act "relating to sewers in the City of Boston." It provided for an assessment wholly by frontage.

The Quincy method is very unlike this, as but a small part is upon frontage while the larger part is upon area within 100 feet of the street. Any decisions upon sewer assessments will however be of value at this time. The court said:

"As in other local assessments, so in the case of sewers, the correct principle is, that the assessment upon each parcel of contributing property shall be according to the special benefits which the particular parcel receives. Benefit, actual or probable, is the only foundation upon which an assessment can lawfully rest.

"The Legislature has, within legislative limits, a discretion in providing a mode of ascertaining the benefits; but, even in the absence of expressed constitutional restrictions, its power is not unlimited. This ascertainment may be made, and usually is, by a separate and actual estimate of special benefits. But where the lots in a town or city are small, of the same depth and similarly situated, an assessment under the conditions mentioned in a previous section, may be authorized on the basis of frontage, which is a convenient substitute for an actual estimate; but this mode cannot be authorized where it must inevitably operate with manifest inequality, as will often be the case with rural or suburban property, or where from the circumstances it is clear that it is legally impossible that an apportionment of the cost on this basis can be just or equal, or approximately so, and where injustice must certainly result from its adoption.

"The same general principle applies to an assessment upon the basis of a superficial area; and therefore, where an assessment in this mode was authorized to be made, and was made, equally upon land remote from the sewer, only slightly benefited, with no provision securing the right to connect with it, and upon lots fronting on the sewer and greatly benefited, the court considers the mode so arbitrary, so certain to work injustice, so flagrantly opposed to the principle of contribution, in proportion to benefits, as to be unconstitutional."

After relating the circumstances of the case, the court says, in conclusion: "Assessments according to the frontage on the strip taken may be grossly disproportionate to the benefit to the land received from the construction of the sewer. Confining ourselves to the present case, where the sewer has been laid, not in a street, but in a strip of private land, taken for the purpose, we are of the opinion that the method of laying the assessments prescribed by the statute, is unreasonable and disproportionate, and that the statute in this respect is unconstitutional."

Mangled to Save Others.

Michael Saville, flagman at the Cross street crossing of the Granite Branch of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., at West Quincy, performed a heroic deed Sunday night, and by his act he lost a part of his right foot, while the two drunken men whose lives he saved escaped uninjured.

As the 7.15 Boston bound was approaching this crossing, Saville saw a team containing two men approaching. He waved his lantern for them to stop but they were too drunk to heed his warning and were about to drive in front of the train. He grabbed the horse by the head to stop the team and in so doing was thrown against the engine of the train which struck him and knocked him down. In falling his foot went under the wheels and was crushed. One rib was also fractured.

A physician was summoned and Saville was removed to the City Hospital. He is resting comfortably this morning but it is feared his foot will have to be amputated.

The two men in the team were Daniel Fitzgerald and Frederick L. Hayden and they were later arrested by Officer Bradley. They were in court this morning for assault on the flagman.

A Close Call.

William Ela of Granite street had a close call Saturday. He left home for Arlington in the morning, although suffering somewhat from cholera. When he reached Boston he had a severe attack and entered a drug store where he was given something to relieve the pain. The dose the druggist gave him was a powerful one and when he reached Arlington he was taken deathly sick and entered another drug store for relief. This druggist noticing his condition summoned a physician, and before many minutes four physicians were working over him. They had about given up hopes of saving him, and word was telephoned to Quincy that he was dying. The lady with whom he boarded and Officer Lyons started immediately for Arlington, and upon their arrival were glad to learn that the physicians efforts had been successful, and that he was then out of danger. Later he returned to Quincy. It was also learned that the druggist had given him a large dose of poison and it was a miracle that it had not killed him.

CAMP MEADE AND MIDDLETOWN.

BUSY DAYS FOR CO. K

A Large Turtle and Souvenirs Sent to Quincy.

Middletown, Penn.,
Camp Meade, Sept .17.

When Capt. Kincaide severed his connection with Co K. yesterday he made a speech to his men. He said he had heard complaint that he was too severe, but he had always had the company at heart, and whatever discipline it had been desirable to enforce had been for the best interests of Co. K, and officers and men had the satisfaction of knowing that Co. K ranks highest of all companies in the field. Capt. Kincaide said it was the demands of his private business which called him home at this time. That he had sacrificed considerable when the call came to go to the front, but now that peace was near at hand, and there would be no active service only garrison duty if anything, he felt obliged to resign his commission.

The men wished their late commander every success in life and business, and some wished that they also might resign. They realized that the efforts of Capt. Kincaide had always been for their good, and recalled his thoughtfulness on many occasions.

First Lieut. W. H. Whitney took command of the company, and the boys want him and only him to continue in the position. He is a fine officer and soldierly bearing. They also hope Second Lieut. Spear will be advanced, and that our genial Sergt. Colbert will receive the commission of Second Lieutenant, an honor which he deserves.

The boys are in better spirits since pay day, and say they could clean out all of the Spanish in Cuba if opportunity permitted.

Each member of the Fifth Massachusetts has been supplied by the American Tobacco Co., with pipes, a package of Battle Axe plug and Duke's Mixture Smoking tobacco, two packages of cigarette paper, a supply of matches, etc. The companies were formed in single file and marched up to the wagon to receive the gift, and there were cheers after cheers.

The labors of about 200 men of the regiment on Thursday has given us tent floors. But it gave some of the boys a headache and they were longing for "Headease."

Sergt. McGrath and Corp. Wardwell were on guard duty on Friday. Guard duty is something that this regiment is performing in excellent shape. Every one out after 9.30 is treated as an enemy, so woe be to the man who tries to run the sentry line.

The only inconvenience in this camp is the location of the sinks, which are about one mile from camp. The water that runs through the brook is very clear so that is some consolation.

Some very pretty souvenirs of Camp Meade are being sold on the grounds. The number is at present limited, so that soliers can obtain but one each. More are expected next week. They are being sent home, mostly to young lady friends, and doubtless some are to be seen in Quincy.

Corp. Foster of Co. K is serving on the guard today.

Priv. Tucker will be able to command a good situation in a first class hotel upon his return, as he is becoming quite a professional at cooking.

Priv. McCarthy one of the "Rough Riders" has become quite proficient as a wood chopper. The wood burned in camp is chopped in the woods in the rear of the camp.

Corp. Matthews while in the woods yesterday captured a beautiful Pennsylvania tortoise turtle, and intends to ship it to Quincy as soon as transportation can be secured. The express companies only come upon the grounds about once a week.

Every regiment at Camp Meade has just been supplied by the government with twelve "Margren" filters, one for each company. It is the first step toward purifying our drinking water. Major General Graham of the Second Army Corps, of which the Fifth Massachusetts is a part, is now taking every precaution to stamp out and keep out the germs of typhoid fever which have been so fatal in many of the regiments.

ROUGH RIDER.

Liquor Raid.

Chief of Police Litchfield accompanied by Officers Ferguson, Barry, O'Brien and Newcomb, raided the premises of Emile Bedot on California avenue Sunday night, and seized six quarts of wine, a dozen bottles that had contained whiskey, and an empty jug. Bedot and his wife were both placed under arrest, the former for keeping a liquor nuisance, and the latter for keeping liquor with intent to sell.

—A special town meeting has been ordered in Melrose for Oct. 3 to vote upon the question of applying for a city charter. The vote will be by ballot, "yes" or "no." No other article will be in the warrant, and no discussion. The polls will be kept open nine hours.

SKETCH OF THE TOWN

A Quincy Man Writes of the Site of Camp Meade.

The boys of Co. K, the Fifth Regiment, have left our state and are now settled in their "white city" in the Keystone state, Pennsylvania, and our eyes are turned toward that particular section of our country. The loved land of William Penn seems to have been brought closer to our own boundaries as well as near to our hearts. After all, the places that have become loved in our memory, have been those where friendship's ties have been cast, and now that Quincy has many of her sons in this foreign land, it is not at all unlikely but that we should want to know something of the places where they have gone.

The writer considers himself thoroughly familiar with the place, having for some time made his residence there. Middletown, Penn., is an old-fashioned town and an early settlement. For the most part the houses are of frame and brick and a built quite close to the street.

The business section is to the south of the residence portion, while a little further to the south flows the Susquehana river, nearly a mile wide., and dotted with numerous islands. A ferry crosses the river at Middletown to a station on the Northern Central Railroad. The other railroads reaching Middletown direct are the Pennsylvania and the Philadelphia and Reading. The business of the town is chiefly carried on by the American Tube works and the Raymond stove works, both of which concerns operate large plants and employ thousands of men. The Middletown Journal is its only daily paper.

Among the religious denominations we find Lutherans, Methodists, Presbyterians, Church of God, United Brethren and Catholics, each of which have fine churches, one will also find among the people many Quakers, Mennonites and Dunkards, and the market place in the centre of the town on two mornings of the week affords one a fine opportunity to see these various people as they bring in their market produce. The Y. M. C. A. there has a good organization with baths, gymnasium and the various social rooms and is conducting a staid work, no doubt the many members in Co. K of the Quincy Association will avail themselves of the benefits there.

To the westward from Middletown five miles lies a little village called Highspire and it is between these two places along the line of the Pennsylvania railroad and the turnpike that Camp Meade is situated. The property belongs to the estate of the late Col. James Young who was known as the "Farmer King" and who was killed in a runaway accident some three years ago. The entire property up to the time of his death was used for farming purposes and was dotted here and there with the settlements of the people in his employ and with the great storehouse in which the tobacco and grains were stored. The property slopes toward the river thus affording excellent drainage and being among the hills the climate is exceptionally good. It is a beautiful section and can not fail but be a healthy camp. The water is of the best. The Camp is only nine miles from Harrisburg, the capitol of Pennsyvania, where in '61 the famous Camp Curtin was situated and where many of our Federal troops were sent.

Middletown is connected with Harrisburg by a line of electrics, running cars every half hour. The correspondent of the Ledger must be in error when he says the streets are covered with coal dust, the fact is the soil is of a rich black color and somewhat sandy as it nears the river. No coal is found in that part of Pennsylvania, it is only as one penetrates the interior and northern sections of that great state that coal is found. The district in which Middletown is located is a rich agricultural territory abounding in the beauties of nature.

Gettysburg and Chambersburg historic to us is to the south of Middletown and at a small cost these places can be visited. When one looks at the map they will find that Pennsylvania is nearly as large as the entire New England States put together.

Half Holiday.

Several of the storekeepers would like to close their stores Wednesday, that they and their employes may see the Odd Fellows parade in Boston. They dislike to close, however, unless the closing is general. It is proposed that the stores open Wednesday morning until 9 o'clock and then close as they did on the day of the Knight Templars parade. The Daily Ledger office will not be able to close quite as early as 9 A. M. but the edition of the paper on Wednesday will go to press at 11 A. M. Take due notice thereof and govern yourself accordingly.

Aside from a wait of twenty minutes at Lowell they were riding all the time. Four cars are used in the trip to Boston, and the fare from Nashua to Quincy was but 68 cents.

Come, Mary,

Will be Missed.

The little home on Willard street, was inadequate to hold the vast throng of relatives, neighbors and friends that turned out Sunday afternoon to attend the funeral of Mrs. Rebecca Burke, wife of Tobias H. Burke, who died on Friday morning last, after only a week of illness.

She was a member of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, No. 146, instituted in this city in April last, and it is their first loss by death. Her gentle, smiling and generous disposition endeared her to the hearts of all with whom she was associated. The services were solemn and impressive and were conducted by the Rev. C. W. Wilder of the Methodist church. The Temple Quartette rendered four selections, which was followed by the Rebekah ceremony, Lizzie A. Monk, N. G, Grace L. Spear, V. G., and Isabella I. Savage, chaplain.

The floral offerings were profuse and elegant, among which were a mound, with the word "wife"; a pillow, with the word "mother"; a standing crescent and star, from George L. Gill Rebekah lodge; a beautiful wreath from Charles L. Hammond; a basket from Nellie and Margaret Callahan; ivy wreath and roses, Mrs. Mary Burke and family; a cross and several bouquets. As the members of the Rebekah lodge took the last look of their departed sister, whose loss they deeply feel, each dropped a spray of evergreen into the casket.

The interment was at Mount Wollaston.

Came to a Bad End.

The summer resort is a thing of the past,
And soon there'll be mud on the road,
And then on a Sunday, the cyclist, perchance,
Will devote a brief thought to the Lord.

The summer resort is a thing of decline,
And soon there'll be smelts in the bays,
And on a Sunday the angler with line,
Will catch more than on other days.
C. W. PAGE.

II.

When the smelting season is nigh
We trust that these words of the Sage,
Will meet the lens of the angler's eye
And cause him to turn over the Page.
—ANON.

IV.

We trust that the angler, his time will divide,
And the fruits of his labor when through,
Will show that the smelts that he caught were all fried,
And that a prayer will carry him through.
C. W. PAGE.

V.

This joke is so old, we fear it will soon,
Smell like a dead smelt or tinker,
And so to the end of the line we affix,
These rhymes to act as a sinker.
—ANON.

VI.

It seems rather bad, since the fun we have had,
With the cyclist, the angler and smelt,
That these rythmes, with a cord, should be tied to a rod,
Such a doom as that never was meant.

Sewer Assessments.

Quincy may profit from the investigation of Boston. Street Commissioners Dore, Duane, and Innis and Superintendent Cutter of the sewer division are on an extended trip to the West. Their purpose is to study the methods of levying sewer assessments. The use of sewers in Boston is henceforth to be taxed and the commissioners desire to apply the best known methods.

A rental system assessed on every abutter of the sewer would obviate assessments.

Resolutions.

Resolutions adopted by Merry Mount lodge, No. 127, A. O. U. W., on the death of Brother John F. McCarty.

WHEREAS,—The great Ruler of the Universe has in his infinate wisdom removed suddenly from our midst our worthy brother John F. McCarty; and

WHEREAS,—In view of the loss we have sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to him; therefore be it

Resolved,—That it is but a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say, that in regretting his removal from our midst, though a recent acquaintance to many of this lodge, we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regard.

Resolved,—That we sincerely condole with the family of the deceased on the dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them, and we commend them for consolation to Him, who orders all things for the best, and whose chastisements are meant in mercy.

Resolved,—That this heartfelt testimony of our sympathy and sorrow be forwarded to the widow of our departed brother, be spread upon our records and a copy of the same be published in the Quincy Daily Ledger.

PECULIAR POISONS.

GENERATED IN THE HUMAN BODY.

The Result of Imperfect Digestion of Food.

Every living thing, plant or animal contains within itself the germs of certain decay and death.

In the human body these germs of disease and death (called by scientists Ptomanies,) are usually the result of imperfect digestion of food; the result of indigestion or dyspepsia.

The somach, from abuse, weakness, does not promptly and thoroughly digest the food. The result is a heavy, sodden mass which ferments (the first process of decay) poisoning the blood, making it thin, weak, and lacking in red corpuscles; poisoning the brain causing headaches and pain in the eyes.

Bad digestion iritates the heart, causing palpitation and finally bringing on disease of this very important organ.

Poor digestion poisons the kidneys, causing Bright's disease and diabetes.

And this is so because every organ, every nerve depends upon the stomach alone for nourishment and renewal and weak digestion shows itself not only in loss of appetite and flesh, but weak nerves and muddy complexion.

The great English scientist, Huxley, said the best start in life is a sound stomach. Weak stomachs fail to digest food properly, because they lack the proper quantity of digestive acids (lactic and hydrochloric) and peptogenic products; the most sensible remedy in all cases of indigestion is to to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia tablets, because they supply in a pleasant, harmless form all the elements that weak stomachs lack.

The regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure every form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

They increase flesh, insure pure blood, strong nerves, a bright eye and clear complexion, because all these result only from wholesome food well digested.

Nearly all druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents full sized package or by by mail by enclosing price to Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., but ask your druggist first.

A little book on stomach diseases mailed free. Address Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. Sep. 19-21-23.

Stunned by Hailstones.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—The most destructive storm of the year swept over Montreal Sunday, causing thousands of dollars' damage to windows and skylights. Hailstones the size of pigeons' eggs fell in abundance, and one death is reported as indirectly due to this cause. A trolley wire was broken during the height of the storm and struck James McKensie, a passer-by, instantly killing him. Other pedestrians were stunned by the hailstones before they could reach shelter.

Grave anxiety is felt about yachting parties known to have ventured out in Lake St. Louis, but as all telephone wires are down it is impossible to obtain information on the subject.

IS BALM TO HIS HEART

Sympathetic Voice of Austrians Stirs the Afflicted Emperor.

Thankful For the Pledge of Devoted Affection.

Memory of the Deceased Consort Perpetuated by an Order.

Vienna, Sept. 19.—A rescript of the emperor to Count Hohenstein, president of the Austrian council of ministers, expresses in eloquent and pathetic language the emperor's thanks for the expressions of national sympathy with him in his great bereavement. In the course of the rescript, his majesty says: "The murdering hand, the instrument of frenzied fanaticism, aiming at the destruction of existing social order, which was raised against the noblest of women in blind and purposeless hate, struck a heart which knew not hate and beat only for good. Amid the unmeasured griefs by which I and my house are stricken, and in the presence of the unheard of deed which has sent a shudder through the whole civilized world, the voice of my beloved people first brings balm to my heart in affecting unison with the resound of universal lamentation for our immeasureable loss like a faithful echo of all that moves my own soul. From my deeply sorrowing heart I thank all for this new pledge of devoted sympathy. If the festive peals which should have greeted this year must remain dumb, there yet remains to me the memory of innumerable proofs of loyalty and deep sympathy, the most precious gift which could have been bestowed upon me. Our common grief weaves a new and intimate bond between the throne and the fatherland."

EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA.

Another imperial rescript founds a new order, and medals of St. Elizabeth, in memory of the deceased, will be conferred upon women and girls meriting distinction in the various avocations of life or in special religious, humanitarian and philanthropic works. The emperor is invested with the sole right of conferring the order, which comprises three grades, with a grand cross for the first and second classes, bearing an enameled picture of St. Elizabeth of Thuringia. The first recipient of the order was Countess Szapary, who has received an autograph letter from the emperor conferring upon her the grand cross of the order in recognition of her devoted services to the empress in her last hours.

Frenchmen Were Ejected.

Havana, Sept. 19.—At the Tacon theatre Saturday night a play was produced based upon the Dreyfus trial, in which Dreyfus was portrayed throughout as an innocent victim of conspiracy in the French army. From the start the sympathy for Dreyfus was plainly manifested. Four Frenchmen, one of whom is supposed to have been an officer of a French gunboat, now lying in the harbor, occupied a box in the first tier. All of them carried boatswain's whistles, and at the first insinuation against the honesty of the trial they began to blow them and to loudly hiss the players. A scene of indescribable tumult followed, the entire audience rising in defense of Dreyfus. The Frenchmen were forcibly ejected and the performance was continued without further interruption. General Blanco has prohibited a further performance of the play in Havana.

A difference of opinion between Cubans and Spanish officers in a cafe resulted in an exchange of abusive language and a free fight. The disturbance was promptly quelled by the police, and the ringleaders were arrested.

Odd Fellows In Boston.

Boston, Sept. 19.—The Odd Fellows of the United States and Canada own this city. They have come as representatives to the sovereign grand lodge, and, incidentally, to enjoy a week of pleasure under the direction of the grand lodge of Massachusetts. Practically all the grand lodge representatives are here. Sunday the visitors spent the time in sightseeing, although the sovereign lodge attended divine service at the church of the Disciples, where Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale preached upon Odd Fellowship, and the delegations attended several other churches where the services had a bearing upon the events of the coming week. The first sessions of the high bodies of the order today were held with public exercises, chiefly in the nature of welcoming addresses and responses.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The street car service in Haverhill is still feeling the effect of insufficient help to man the cars, and the company was unable yesterday to run on schedule time.

The body of Otis G. Woodward of Atkinson, N. H., was found floating in the river at Haverhill yesterday afternoon. He is supposed to have fallen from one of the wharves.

Charges have been preferred by Captain Miller of the Second immune regiment in Santiago and Captain Shelley of the Fifth immunes against Sergeant Josh W. Johnson of the Third regiment for maligning and libeling the officers and soldiers of their respective regiments in an article published in the Atlanta Constitution on Aug. 29.

MISS DAVIS DEAD.

Favorable Manifestations Delusive, For the End Came Sunday.

Providence, Sept. 19.—Winnie Davis died Sunday in a hotel in Narragansett Pier, where she and her mother had been guests almost from the beginning of the social season of the pier. She had been ill for several weeks, and a fortnight ago her ailment was diagnosed as malarial gastritis. At times her condition became very serious so that consultations of physicians were deemed necessary, but frequent rallies gave renewed hope that she would ultimately recover.

During the past week especially was her condition considered favorable, and it was thought that her removal would be possible in a few days, as the hotel had closed for the season, leaving the patient and Mrs. Davis and the attendants practically alone in the house. Saturday night, however, a relapse in Miss Davis' condition was noticed, and throughout the night she lost strength quite perceptibly. Sunday morning the physicians said that the end was not far off, and at noon death came to end the suffering which at times had been intense.

MISS WINNIE DAVIS.

Annie Varina Davis was born in Richmond in June, 1864. Her mother was Annie Varina-Haskell, and the second wife of Jefferson Davis, and her infancy was passed at Fortress Monroe during her father's imprisonment. Soon after his release the family went to Liverpool, and later to Germany, where Miss Davis received her education. She was very proficient in the French and German languages, besides having a fine musical and artistic training. She made her social debut in New Orleans as queen of the carnival some years after her father's death, and since then had been one of the recognized leaders in southern society. She contributed many articles to reviews and wrote the novels, "The Veiled Doctor" and "The Knight of the Nineteenth Century." Her style was forcible and marked by great clearness. She was tall and stately in figure, with abundant brown hair and wonderfully expressive blue eyes.

Miss Davis appeared in public for the last time, it is believed, in Atlanta, July 21. The occasion was the parade of the ex-Confederates, who held their annual reunion this year in Atlanta. Miss Davis was a guest of honor and occupied a carriage with Mrs. Stonewall Jackson and a daughter of General Gordon. The procession started under an auspicious sky, but before proceeding far a heavy storm came up, and the rain drenched the occupants of the carriages.

Stirring Events Impending.

Paris, Sept. 19.—The decision of the committee appointed to consider the matter of the Dreyfus revision will be in no way binding on the cabinet, which will still have to decide the actual question of revision. It is reported, however, that a vessel has already started for Devil's island in readiness to bring Dreyfus to Paris, and Mr. Brisson and General Chanoine are determined that nobody, however high his position, will be sheltered.

Stirring events are regarded as impending. General Zurlinden is credited with the belief that there is a Picquart mystery, and it is believed that he fully intended that Colonel Picquart should be prosecuted. According to Colonel Picquart's written statement to the minister of justice, four secret documents were submitted to the courtmartial held in 1894 behind the backs of Dreyfus and his counsel. It is reported that the government has selected Beaubais, capital of the department of Oise, as the most suitable town in which to hold a rehearing of the case.

A Triple Drowning.

Middletown, Conn., Sept. 19.—Word was received here last night of a triple drowning in the Connecticut river off Moramus Sunday, the victims being Patrick Kelly, aged 26, William Kelly, 24, William Gorman, 18. John Hines, another member of the party, was saved.

The four young men rowed up from Moramus to attend services at St. John's church, this city. They were on their return and had almost reached home, when a squall came up and the boat was upset. The accident occurred in sight of Gorman's home, and was witnessed by members of the family. As soon as possible a party went out to assist the men, but they had all disapeared, excepting Hines, who was picked up completely exhausted.

Yacht Struck and Sunk.

Newburyport, Mass., Sept. 19.—The sloop yacht Emily was struck and sunk by a squall Sunday afternoon, and of the five men who were on board two of them, Adolphus Cote and Gustave Morreau of Amesbury, were drowned. The other three managed to reach shore in an exhausted condition. The yacht had on board at the time over 500 pounds of ballast, so that she sank almost immediately in 20 feet of water.

Cote and Morreau became exhausted before they could reach shore and sank, while Ernest Bandleilt, Joseph Cote and Wilfred Bandreau managed to save themselves. Both of the men were married and leave families. Cote was 26 years old and Morreau was 30.

Had Broken His Parole.

Portland, Sept. 19.—A youth who gave his name as Ernest Simmons, aged 19, gave himself up at the police station last night, asking that the warden of the Massachusetts reformatory in Concord be notified. He says that he left that institution in the spring on parole, which he had broken. He and a companion broke into a store in Wales in May, and also stole a minister's horse. They drove into Vermont, when he and his companion had a falling out, and the latter drove off with the horse. He has been tramping since.

OBJECT OF CURIOSITY

Coal Laden Schooner In Boston With Masts Missing.

Whistle and Horn Didn't Prevent a Collision.

Boston Steamer Struck the Vessel During a Heavy Fog.

Boston, Sept. 19.—The three-masted schooner Electa Bailey of Bangor, Captain Clay, from Port Liberty, N. Y., to Portsmouth with coal, while rounding Cape Cod in a thick fog Saturday evening, was run down and completely dismasted by the steamer Parthian, bound from this port to Philadelphia. None of the crew of the schooner was injured except Captain Clay, who received a slight bruise, and, after some delay, the vessel not making any water, the Parthian took her in tow and brought her across the bay, dropping her off Boston light.

Sunday the Bailey was brought to this city by a tug and anchored off the wharves, where she was the object of much curiosity. Both her fore and mizzenmasts are broken off close to the deck, while about 10 feet of her mainmast remains standing. Her headgear is completely gone, but fortunately her hull is apparently uninjured.

When off Race point about 7:15 Saturday night, with the schooner running free before a southwest breeze, a steamer's whistle was heard, but for some minutes it was impossible to locate the direction from which it came. The five men were all on deck at the time, and one of them finally located the whistle off the port bow. The regulation three blasts from the fog horn were being constantly made, and the entire crew was on the lookout for the steamer. Suddenly she loomed up out of the fog almost directly ahead on the port bow, and in another instant she crashed into the schooner, ripping across her bow and carrying with her the entire headgear of the Bailey. Released from any support forward, the three masts on the next plunge of the boat on a wave snapped off short and all came tumbling down aft. The mizzenmast in falling demolished the wheel, and the schooner lay in the heavy ground swell, entirely helpless.

Soon afterwards a boat came alongside reporting the steamer to be the Parthian, and offering to tow the schooner to Boston light. The offer was accepted and after the towline had parted three times the steamer finally started off with the Bailey astern.

FAST BALL.

The Bostons Must Play It to Win From the Louisvilles.

Boston, Sept. 19.—Since Labor day the champions have won 12 of the 14 games played, which is certainly pennant ball during those two weeks. Four straight from Washington, three of a kind from New York, one of the two played in Philadelphia, four from St. Louis, and Saturday's defeat by Louisville, shows the rapid pace at which the Bostons are traveling for the flag. The colonels are here today and tomorrow, and it will take the fastest kind of ball to win the next two. Next to Cleveland the colonels have made the best record of any team against Boston, and the series stands six won by each. The visitors are stronger than when last here and the two games will be fought for all they are worth.

After Cleveland and Louisville the Pittsburgs have made the best headway against the Boston leaders, and they play here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Brooklyn follows for a series of three. The trio with Pittsburg will decide the season's series the same as those with Louisville today and tomorrow, but with Brooklyn the champions should have three comparatively easy games. Every game counts now, as Baltimore is playing the strongest kind of ball and the champions' lead can be cut down by the loss of a few games.

The National league standing is as follows: Bostons, 656; Baltimores, 635; Cincinnatis, 611; Clevelands, 583; Chicagoes, 550; New Yorks, 535; Philadelphias, 504; Pittsburgs, 500; Louisvilles, 442; Brooklyns, 390; Washingtons, 326; St. Louises, 264.

The speedy Louisville team defeated the Bostons Saturday, while the Baltimores outplayed the Clevelands. The New Yorks had an easy task with the St. Louis tail-enders, but did not gain on the Chicagoes, who shut out the Washingtons. The Brooklyns did good work in a double header with the Pittsburgs, winning the first game and making a draw of the second. The Cincinnatis won from the Philadelphias and took a firmer grip on third place, in view of the Clevelands' defeat.

The St. Louis team was defeated in an exhibition game by the Newark team, 7 to 0.

That Cleveland has been wiped off the baseball map as a league city, is certain. The club is slated to go to St. Louis, and it now looks very much as if Indianapolis were the city that would replace Cleveland.

Boston will have as visiting attractions this week the Louisvilles today and Tuesday and the Pittsburgs Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. These will be the last games of the season with western clubs, for on Saturday the Brooklyns will play here.

The New Yorks defeated the Brooklyns at Weehawken, N. J., yesterday afternoon through superior playing. Their fielding was sharp and the hitting timely.

Got Off His High Horse.

Candia, Crete, Sept. 19.—The sultan has ordered Djevad Pasha, the military commander in Crete, to accede to the demand of the British admiral for disarmament, thus complying with the whole ultimatum of the admiral. A British military detachment has occupied the entrance to the fort, and it is rumored that the ottoman troops will be withdrawn and a British force will occupy the town. Among the prisoners already handed over to admiral Noel are two who are credited with being ringleaders in the attack on the British camp.

INSURGENTS ACTIVE.

Will Prevent a Spanish Restoration In the Philippines.

Increasing Their Army and Its Equipment.

Labor Troubles a Source of Annoyance to Many Employers.

London, Sept. 20.—The Manila correspondent of The Times says: "The insurgents, urged by constant rumors of the intention of America to re-establish Spanish rule in the archipelago, continue actively recruiting their army. Hundreds from Manila are enlisting daily, and troops are being drilled everywhere. Great diligence is exhibited in imitating the American formation and manual, particularly in volley firing. The intrenchments in certain positions are being strengthened and a vigilant line of pickets is kept outside the suburbs. At the same time the attitude of the insurgents is much more friendly than it was before the evacuation. Several thousand rifles have recently been landed and four new Maxims have also been received. The provincial leaders are paying into the insurgent treasury a certain portion of the fund captured from convents, professing to reserve the remainder for the payment of their troops. By this means they keep practically independent of the central authority, preserving the integrity of their own command. A general occupying one rich province sent to Aguinaldo $35,000 in cash last week.

"The agitation among the insurgents is stimulated by the clerical party, which uses every effort to influence the natives against American occupation. Evidence to this effect is absolutely trustworthy, although Archbishop Dozal and other ecclesiastics strenuously deny all knowledge of such action and solemnly disclaim personal participation in it.

"Strikes in all industries are becoming more extensive daily, and the labor question is fast growing serious. The Americans unwisely continue to pay nearly three times the usual wages, causing discontent to spread rapidly in every class of workmen. All manufacturers are much hampered, the tramways are frequently stopped and railway operations are seriously crippled, and a discontinuance of the service is threatened. The strikers naturally drift into the insurgent ranks, and consequently labor disturbances are not discouraged by the leaders.

"The news from Washington that the Oregon and Iowa have been ordered here, and that 60,000 tons of coal would be shipped immediately is interpreted by the Americans as proof of the intention of the government to hold the island of Luzon.

"Nothing important is reported from the insurgent congress, which holds sessions daily at Malolos. The chief element of cohesion is confessedly the fear of the return of Spanish domination. If the insurgents should receive reasonable assurances of a permanent foreign occupation, I believe the disintegration of the revolutionary government would be speedy and complete.

"The Spanish prisoners are now rigorously confined within the limits of the walled town. There is much overcrowding in the small area, and it is impossible in the crowded quarters, in the absence of proper appliances, to improve the present unsatisfactory sanitary conditions. The urgent necessity for removing the prisoners is fully recognized by the authorities, but no remedy is in sight, and the health of the American troops and the prisoners is seriously threatened. Nearly 10 percent of the former are already on the sick list."

HAS HE RESIGNED?

Washington Report That Mr. Alger Surrendered His Portfolio.

Boston, Sept. 20.—The Washington correspondent of The Journal wires: "Secretary Alger has placed his resignation at the disposal of the president. I make this positive statement on the authority of one in the president's confidence. The resignation was tendered immediately before Secretary Alger left Washington 10 days ago. It was not made out in the formal manner, writing, but was tendered verbally.

"In asking an official inquiry into the war department and its various subdivisions, Secretary Alger looks for a vindication. He has openly declared his intention not to retreat under fire, and, resting serene in the belief that an official inquiry will result in his acquittal from all blame for camp horrors and the murder of American soldiers, the secretary of war now bides his time, waiting the official inquiry in order to step down and out without embarrassment to himself or the president."

Like a Fakir's Concoction.

London, Sept. 20.—The Havana correspondent of The Times relates terrible stories of anarchy, and says the American government is apparently attempting to suppress the truth. As an instance, he gives the following story which he declares was suppressed by the censor in Key West: "A band of insurgents attacked recently the Proidencia sugar factory near Guinez, one of the richest in Cuba. The guerilla force, which the proprietor maintained to defend his property until the arrival of the Spanish troops, was obliged to surrender because the Spanish troops now do nothing to suppress lawlessness. The insurgents invaded the enclosure, where they found a lot of reconcentrados. They stripped the women naked and, placing them in line, fired from behind them at the guerillas, thus making it impossible for the defenders of the factory to return the fire. The correspondent declares that the most terrible and irredeemable effect of the prolonged civil war in the island is the almost total destruction of the white population."

Gall of Cubans.

Havana, Sept. 20.—Advices from Puerto Principe report that the Cuban troops are not observing the requirements of the armistice, but are stealing cattle and making raids in that district, even forbidding the entrance of provisions from the fields into the city. The military governor has been forced to take strict measures to prevent a repetition of former abuses.

The meat ring continues cornering the market, and the slaughter-house tax, the richest income of the city, is materially reduced. The average number of cattle slaughtered daily used to exceed 400 head, but today it is below 250, owing to the prohibitive price at which it is sold, the monopolists depriving the city's treasury of over $2000 a day. This is one of the chief reasons for the deficit of the municipality, but no steps are taken to remedy the evil.

Army Officers Blamed.

Madrid, Sept. 20.—There is considerable indignation here at the fact that there were 123 deaths during the voyage among the 1000 Spanish soldiers who have just arrived in Spain on board a transport from Santiago. The Spaniards attribute this death rate to the "inhumanity of the Americans in obliging the sick Spaniards to embark and make room in the hospitals for Americans."

A Prejudiced Observer.

London, Sept. 20.—The Times this morning publishes a letter from a Havana correspondent, in which the writer points out that, though there appears no disposition among the Spaniards in Cuba to attempt a pronunciamento, the soldiers and civilians alike having accepted the disaster and its consequences with a dreary fatalistic calm, the island is fast drifting into a condition of anarchy.

Insurgent bands, the correspondent says, are enjoying immunity in the commission of outrages and plundering, and this is especially true in the western provinces, where the insurgents bitterly complain that they have been ignored and abandoned by the United States. Being left utterly destitute, they can only save themselves from starvation by rapine. Without food, medicine and clothing, they are dying like flies, and unfortunately it is the best element among the insurgents that are suffering the most severely.

Troops to Cuba.

Washington, Sept. 20.—It is not the intention of the administration to await the evacuation of the island by the Spanish forces before sending 40,000 troops to Cuba, as the indications are that it may be several months before the commissioners complete their work. Quite naturally, a considerable number of Spanish troops will remain on the island until the arrangements for the relinquishment of Spanish sovereignty over it formally have been concluded. The rainy season in Cuba is nearly at an end, and the most delightful season of the year on the island is about to begin. During the late fall and winter months the climate in Cuba is healthful.

Police Are at Sea on Land.

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 20.—That the police are completely at sea in the murder mystery is apparent from the assiduity with which they chase up apparent clues, and they do not hesitate to admit that they are almost as much in the dark as ever. Asked if "G 51," the laundry mark noticed on a portion of some underclothing that was wrapped about the limbs of the woman, was not a good starting point, a police official said: "The further we go, the stronger the defense of Dr. Guilford becomes."

The police are in receipt of a letter from Emma Curtis, who keeps a boarding house in Meriden, that the description of the murdered woman tallies exactly with that of a woman who stopped a week at her house about three weeks ago. The woman was accompanied by a young man, and they gave the names of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Barnes. They claimed to belong in New Haven. Mrs. Curtis stated that their actions were very peculiar, for whenever the man went out he always locked the woman in the room. They also had their meals served in their room. The young woman appeared to be despondent. After remaining with Mrs. Curtis a week, they removed to the Arlington House in Meriden, where they stopped another week and then took their departure very suddenly.

Although every clergyman in the city had an invitation to be present at the burial service, not one attended, and the dismembered portions were lowered into the grave in potter's field without religious service.

HALF HOLIDAY.

Wednesday promises to be a gala day in Boston, and a holiday for all the suburban towns. As several of the employes of the Daily Ledger are members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and will parade that day, and all hands want to witness the grand sight, the Daily Ledger will go to press at 11 A. M. on Wednesday to give them the opportunity. The paper will be on sale by the news agents at noon, but will be delivered by newsboys at the usual time.

ODD FELLOWS IN BOSTON.

First Day's Meeting of the Sovereign Lodge Followed by a Banquet.

Boston, Sept. 20.—Almost the first act of the Odd Fellows' sovereign grand lodge Monday was to send a telegram of congratulation and expression of confidence to President McKinley in these words: "The sovereign grand lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, in annual session in the city of Boston, sends greetings to you and to the soldiers and sailors of our army and navy, with congratulations upon the glorious victory which their valor has achieved in the war with Spain, and to the sick and wounded our heartfelt sympathy, with hope for their speedy recovery and restoration to home and family."

Following the reading of reports a great deal of business was rushed in and referred to committees. One of the most important subjects to come before this session of the sovereign grand lodge is that of insurance within the order and its regulation.

At the afternoon session Grand Sire Carleton reported that a request had been received for permission to establish the order in the Philippine islands. He recommended that action to this end be taken, and urged legislation by which members of the order serving in the army may be permitted military lodges or associations, limited to consultive or fraternal sessions, strictly prohibiting initiations or conferring degrees. He reported the order in foreign countries as growing and prosperous.

The following statistics show the standing of the order Dec. 31, 1897: Grand lodges, 55; subordinate lodges, 11,229; Rebekah lodges, 4796; grand encampments, 51; subordinate encampments, 2633; subordinate lodge initiations, 59,533; subordinate lodge members, 514,339; encampment members, 127,691; Rebekah members, 297,691; relief by lodges, $3,047,285.15; relief by encampments, $265,965.52; relief by Rebekah lodges, $51,378.74; total relief, $3,364,629.41; revenue of subordinate lodges, $7,810,-175.82; revenue of subordinate encampments, $603,176.14; revenue of Rebekah lodges, $432,907.94; total revenue, $8,946,-259.90; total invested funds, $26,388,695.74.

Goodfellowship, mirth, wit and wisdom reigned at Music hall last night at the complimentary banquet given by the grand lodge and grand encampment of Massachusetts to the sovereign grand lodge. Addresses were delivered by members of the order, Senator Lodge, Attorney General Knowlton, Mayor Quincy and others.

ALMOST IDEAL WEATHER.

Rapid Progress In Farming Operations—Absence of Rain In Some States.

Boston, Sept. 20.—The weather the past week was seasonable and almost ideal. The early part was cool in all sections, and frosts occurred in parts of all the states. The closing days were much warmer. The abundant sunshine with the warm hours of mid-day served to ripen vegetables and crops generally, and to color fruits. The cool nights checked vegetable growth and aided in maturing products. Owing to the small amount of foul weather, rapid progress was made in all farming operations, consisting generally of harvesting, potato digging and fall plowing and seeding.

Rain is greatly needed in Maine, where pastures have in many sections failed. Water is also needed for stock where streams are low. The soil continues too dry for plowing or seeding. The dry weather is also felt in many sections of New Hampshire and Vermont. In parts of Rhode Island and Connecticut the surface of the ground is becoming quite dry, and roads are very dusty.

Corn is mostly secured in good condition; the crop is generally large. Buckwheat harvest is about completed and the crop is large. The conditions favored fall seeding, which, Maine excepted, is nearing completion. Warm rains would be of much benefit to the seed sown.

The bountiful crops of hay have filled barns to overflowing; winter feed will be abundant. Except where drought prevails, meadows and pastures continue green, and fall feed is plentiful.

Apples in most sections are ripening fast and are ready for picking. The crop is light, but the fruit is generally large and well colored. Grapes are slow in ripening, and in many cases will not mature. This crop as a rule is not satisfactory. Cranberry picking has progressed slowly. The berries suffered some from frosts during the week where the bogs were not flooded. A fair crop is expected.

Reports indicate that vegetables are in a satisfactory condition. Potato digging is at its height. There is still considerable complaint of rot, though damage from this source is decreasing, except perhaps in isolated cases. The dry weather improved garden vegetables, and these are generally maturing in excellent condition. In localities where heavy frosts occurred, vines, tomatoes and the more tender vegetables were killed.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A, B and C, and today prints the last instalment of the D's:

KEITH AFTER THEM.

Dandy Fifth Photographed for the Biograph.

Camp George G. Meade, Middletown, Pa., Sept. 18.

Reveille sounds as usual at 5.15 A. M. Saturday was a beautiful warm day.

At sick call we only had one answer, Sergt. Barrett, who had caught a slight cold, but we presume he will soon be well again.

The usual Saturday morning inspection took place, the inspecting officer being Capt. McDonald of H Co., Charlestown. The inspection of rifles was exceeding good, also general appearance of men and clothing, taken altogether it was an unusually good inspection. At 10.20 the whole regiment were marched off in a body and put through several manoeuvres. It is said the Dandy Regiment was being photographed for Keith's theatre in Boston for the biograph views, so that the people of Massachusetts will be able to view us in Keith's theatre, just as we were on the field of Camp Meade, Pennsylvania. It will be quite a sight worth seeing. We hope our Quincy friends will look out and take the opportunity for viewing when the picture is ready.

We were then marched off field to the Susquehanna river, and the whole regimen took their week day swim. The boys enjoying it very much, the water was a little chilly, but a good rubbing down warmed us.

We feel assured that as long as Col. Whitney is over us, we will return home again all right. He will look out that this regiment does not get into the same trouble that our brother regiments have experienced.

Saturday afternoon drilling was suspended. Saturday being inspection day everything is made as easy as possible for the men. Col. Whitney grants each man every Saturday afternoon to himself. This is considered as a favor not as a duty, which is kindly presented by our colonel.

The Guard details for Sunday consists of Corporal Adams of this company. Today Corporal Matthews leaves with a detail of 14 privates to visit the battlefield of Gettysburg, he will report on his return, all historic sites visited. The leave of absence was granted by Col. Whitney personally.

The usual dress parade Saturday evening was dispensed with. Sunday services will be held in ever regiment, respectively. Men have to report at church call. There are no absentees allowed. The boys have been busy sending home their hard earned wages, by the Adams Express Co. it being the safest and most direct way to forward.

The boys are behaving themselves exceptionally fine after their pay day. It being harder for them to jump the lines here, than in Camp Dalton.

VOLUNTEER.

In Camp George G. Meade, Middletown, Penn., Sept. 17.

The welcome visits of the Ledger every day shows that you are well posted on the happenings here among the members of Co. K. We are so busy all the time that there is very little time to write. The camp is located in a rough country and the pick axe and shovel have been in use quite as much as the musket. At the present time 32 regiments are encamped here, or about 40,000 troops. It is reported that we are to go to Jacksonville within three weeks.

There are all kinds of tents here; some just large enough to crawl into, others cone shape or Indian tents, but none better than those of the Fifth Massachusetts. A visit to the other regiments in camp is a treat and the first evening this privilege was granted our company camp looked deserted.

A little rain would do lots of good, as none has fallen here for three weeks. The dust in the roads is over three inches deep.

Mule teams are common. They bring our rations, water and regimental supplies.

Our water is taken from artesian wells and is delivered in barrels, three barrels being allowed each company every day.

Randall lost his watch before he left Camp Dalton, but it has mysteriously turned up here, and now he watches it more closely.

Now that we are out of the State there is a strong desire to go further South. None seem to be homesick.

Col. Whitney is getting along rapidly and now witnesses the dress parade on horseback. The grounds are not as smooth as at Camp Dalton, but the regiment continues to make a good showing.

Many thanks for the Daily Ledgers received, and for the kindly interest of the publishers in the soldiers.

HOFFMAN DROPS.

An Important Case in the Superior Court at Dedham.

Charles Mangs of West Quincy is probably convinced by this time that Hoffmann drops are considered by the courts as intoxicating liquor, and cannot be sold in unlicensed towns and cities without making the seller liable to arrest and fine or imprisonment.

Hoffmann drops, as they are known, are a popular drink among the Finnlanders, and according to Dr. F. E. Jones of the Board of Health, are composed of 325 parts ether, 650 parts alcohol and 25 parts ether oil. As a stimulant they are much more intoxicating than whiskey, and make the drinker crazy. They also have a very bad effect upon the kidneys.

Hoffmann drops are used by physicians as a heart stimulant, a dose being five drops to a teaspoonful. As the Finnlanders drink them in much larger quantities the effect will be readily seen.

Mangs was arrested on April 25, and was arraigned in court upon two compaints for selling Hoffmann drops to one Matt Johnson. At the hearing in the District Court, Johnson testified that on April 19 he purchased six bottles of Hoffmann drops, for which he paid 25 cents a bottle; on April 24 he again visited Mangs' house and purchased two bottles. On the day of Mangs' arrest, Chief Litchfield, Officers Ferguson, Bradley, Barry, Morrissey and Sandberg searched his premises and seized fifteen bottles of the drops, and it appeared that he had been doing quite a business in this line.

The court found Mangs guilty upon both complaints and he was fined $50 upon each.

Mangs took an appeal and the case came up for trial at the present term of the Superior court, where he pleaded guilty. He was fined $50 upon one of the complaints, the other being placed on file. This is the second case of the kind that has come before the Quincy police, and they are determined to wage war upon all sellers of Hoffmann drops.

As a Lesson.

I.

The summer resort is a thing of the past,
And soon there'll be mud on the road,
And then on a Sunday, the cyclist, perchance,
Will devote a brief thought to the Lord.
—ANON.

II

The summer resort is a thing of decline,
And soon there'll be smelts in the bays,
And on a Sunday the angler with line,
Will catch more than on other days.
C. W. PAGE.

II.

When the smelting season is nigh
We trust that these words of the Sage,
Will meet the lens of the angler's eye
And cause him to turn over the Page.
—ANON.

IV.

We trust that the angler, his time will divide,
And the fruits of his labor when through,
Will show that the smelts that he caught were all fried,
And that a prayer will carry him through.
C. W. PAGE.

V.

This joke is so old, we fear it will soon,
Smell like a dead smelt or tinker,
And so to the end of the line we affix,
These rhymes to act as a sinker.
—ANON.

VI.

It seems rather bad, since the fun we have had,
With the cyclist, the angler and smelt,
That these rythmes, with a cord, should be tied to a rod,
Such a doom as that never was meant.
C. W. PAGE.

VII.

This poem composite, should be laid at rest,
In the grave with Page and "Anon,"
And serve as a lesson to those who would jest,
Not to try to be funny too long.

Steamer a Toy For Waves.

Boston, Sept. 19.—Twenty-five passengers from the Express, wrecked Friday night, arrived Sunday by steamer from Yarmouth. The Express was a steel side wheel steamer of 297 tons, and formerly ran on the Isle of Wight route in England. She was brought over and plied between Halifax and Yarmouth, touching at larger towns on the way. About 12:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, while steaming very slowly through the fog near Cape Sable island on her way to Yarmouth, the ship went on the rocks at Ben Portage island, and there she remains, being a total loss. She struck with 150 to 200 yards of the lighthouse.

After exciting times, all the passengers reached the island in safety. The best of order was preserved, even the women of the party being calm. The boats were quickly manned by the crew of the Express and several of the men. The women in one of the boats were carried ashore by the men, who waided waist deep to Ben Portage island, the landing being a poor one. Four of the men hired a dory and rowed to the mainland four miles away. The women and children were first taken from the steamer, and the crew acted admirably.

ANOTHER CARRIER.

Efforts of Congressman Barrows Successful.

The free delivery system of the city will be further improved the first of next month when another carrier will be added to the regular staff. This is necessary to cover Cranch hill and other new sections and also to reach the outlying districts of West Quincy, and has been accomplished through the combined efforts of Postmaster Hammond and Congressman Barrows, the former always alert to improve the service, and the latter always willing to cooperate: Here is the letter received by our popular postmaster:

REV. S. J. BARROWS.

Washington, D. C.,
Sept. 17, 1898.

Charles L. Hammond, Esq.,
Postmaster, Quincy, Mass.

Sir: On the recommendation of Hon. S. J. Barrows, and after careful consideration of all the data on file in this office concerning your free delivery service, I have decided to allow you one additional carrier to commence service October 21st, next. You will nominate your senior substitute to this office for appointment as regular carrier on that date.

This increase in your force, will, according to statement made in your letter of July 19th, enable you to extend the service to new territory recently opened up and built upon.

The question of extension to Wollaston and Norfolk Downs is now under consideration and as soon as action is taken you will be fully advised.

Very respectfully,
PERRY S. HEATH.
First Ass't Postmaster General.

"I m Here to Stay."

New York, Sept. 20.—Gus Ruhlin, the Akron, O., giant, met Edward Dunkhorst of Syracuse in a 25-round bout at catchweights before the Greater New York club last night, and outfought and outpointed the Syracuse boxer for 22 rounds, but was unable to knock him out. The referee stopped the bout in the 22nd round and awarded the fight to Ruhlin.

Dunkhorst was hog fat and weighed 230 pounds. Ruhlin gave his weight as 195 pounds. Dunkhorst took enough punishment to settle half a dozen boxers. At the outset nobody thought that the bout would last 10 rounds, and the power of endurance exhibited by Dunkhorst surprised Ruhlin equally as much as it did the spectators.

In the 20th round Dunkhorst was bleeding from a cut under the left eye, and Ruhlin sent jab after jab on the face while he seemed astonished that his adversary did not fall down. "I'm here to stay," said Dunkhorst. Dunkhorst got in a couple of good blows in the 21st round. Ruhlin walked all around his man in the 22nd round, sending his left to the face, while Dunkhorst was unable to put up a pretence of a defense. When the round had gone about 50 seconds Referee Brown stopped the bout.

An Unsatisfactory Letter.

New York, Sept. 20.—Charles McCoy refuses to hold further conference with Corbett and his managers relative to the change of date and place of his meeting with Corbett. He was not present at a meeting which had been arranged for Monday afternoon, but sent a letter to George Considine. All the pugilistic celebrities in town, including Corbett and Sharkey, were on hand.

Following is the letter from McCoy: "I did not think it necessary to meet you or Corbett, according to the date which was published in the daily print. I have been notified through my manager, William Gray, that the Hawthorne Athletic club of Buffalo will pull off the proposed contest between Corbett and myself which had been set for Oct. 15. Therefore I do not see any need of meeting Mr. Corbett or yourself."

The letter was very unsatisfactory to Mr. Considine. He thinks that McCoy is trying to get out of the contest by insisting on Buffalo when he knows that the match cannot take place there. McCoy could not be found.

Thelma and Muriel.

The second Burgess prize cup race, postponed from July 30, was sailed Saturday afternoon with a wholesail westerly breeze. The time being limited on account of the tide, the course was shortened one mile.

This race was for the third and fourth classes only. The Thelma winning easily in her class over the Gwendoline, giving her a leg in the cup for the 98 series. Two legs in a series is necessary for one leg in the cup.

In the fourth class the Muriel won, thus giving her one leg in this year's series. As it now stands, the Muriel, Dictator and Sea Gull have one leg each making it necessary for a sail off between the last three named boats which will take place Wednesday, Sept. 21.

The summary is appended:

HERO OF MALATE.

How Brave Private Finlay Carried Ammunition to the Firing Guns.

Private J. F. Finlay of C company, First California, especially distinguished himself at the battle of Malate, near Manila. For such work as this Englishmen get the Victoria cross. Finlay is detailed to Major Jones' transportation department as interpreter. His mother was a Mexican, and he learned Spanish before he did English. When ammunition was sent forward, Finlay was in charge of the train. He had eight carromatta loads of it, each carromatta with a native driver. He started when the Spanish fire was hottest and went straight up through the open fields. The bullets buzzed and whistled all about him. They ripped through the tops of his carts, and one of them hit one of his drivers in the leg.

PRIVATE J. F. FINLAY.

Finlay kept on as if he were going after corn on a pleasant afternoon until he reached the old insurgent trench. Then he halted his train and went forward alone to find some one from the Tenth Pennsylvania to whom he could deliver the ammunition. That last 100 yards into our trench was what Captain O'Hara, a grizzled veteran who has seen a-plenty of hot work, called a "very hot place." It was swept incessantly by Spanish bullets. But Finlay hunted around until he found his man, went back and got his carromattas and started forward. One of his ponies was shot just in the rear of our trench. Finlay took it out of the cart and with the native driver hauled the cart along to its place, delivered his cartridges and started back.

On the way he found Captain Richter lying in the field where he had fallen. He jumped out of his carromatta, put the captain in and started on. Pretty soon he found another wounded man. That one was picked up, too, and back he went to camp. Then he turned the wounded over to the surgeons and got orders to take ten carromattas to the front and bring back the wounded. Back over that bullet swept field he went again, as cool and unconcerned as if on a drive through Golden Gate park, did his work, brought in the wounded and turned in to get what sleep he could before the hard day's work began soon after daylight.—New York Sun.

CASTILIAN CUISINE.

Names and Contents of the Favorite Dishes In Cuba.

The commercial exodus to Cuba is apt to result in familiarizing Americans with bona fide Spanish cooking, something seldom seen in this country. Oil and pepper are the two things that especially characterize the Castilian cuisine. One of the favorite dishes in Cuba is "tasajo," which is simply dried meat, cooked with tomatoes, red peppers and onions. "Tripa a la Andaluza" is another preparation frequently seen. As the name indicates, the basis is boiled tripe, which is cooked with beans and potatoes and always served with the small red Spanish sausage known as "butafarra Catalina." A similar sausage, only black, is known as "butafarra Astoriana." "Chile con carne," which everybody eats, is nothing more than a thick stew of beef (carne) and beans seasoned with chiles. Spanish "tortillas" are corn cakes flavored with red peppers, and differ from the Mexican tortilla in that the latter, when properly made, are rolled in chopped vegetables. A salad, a la Espanola, is prepared of lettuce and celery, with a few sliced tomatoes and peppers. Served with French dressing it is very good.

The Spanish soups are as a rule a little too heavy for the American taste, which runs more toward the consomme. They are thick decoctions, full of vegetables and look frightfully greasy. Soup, however, does not have the important role among the Spaniards that it plays in French domestic economy and is an article of secondary importance. The dishes named are pretty apt to appear ere long on home menus and it is interesting to know in advance what they are composed of.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Street Cars In Manila.

All the street cars in the city of Manila were made in America. The open cars are 18 feet 6 inches long over dashers and have a seating capacity of 20 passengers. These cars are drawn by Philippine horses, which are about the size of a Newfoundland dog, and it was therefore necessary to make them extremely light and at the same time of the required strength. The street railway company is known as the Transvias de Filipinas. — Street Railway Journal.

Come, Mary,
Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

OFFICERS ASSAILED.

Strike Sympathizers Made Trouble In Haverhill.

They Resented the Arrest of Stone Throwers.

Windows In a Car and the Police Station Bombarded by the Crowd.

Haverhill, Sept. 20.—The first act of violence in connection with the street railway trouble occurred last night, when a car was stoned; two officers on their way to the police station with two men were also assailed by all sorts of missiles, and the police station itself was made an object of attack by the crowd of strike sympathizers.

The trouble began about 10 o'clock, when a car with new men was assailed by a crowd of nearly 200 and all the windows and the headlight were broke. Two officers rushed to the assistance of the car men and succeeded in arresting Irving Ward and Henry Strout, whom they caught throwing stones. The officers started for the station, followed by a large crowd, which hooted, yelled and threw after the officers all sorts of objects.

Before the police station was reached the crowd had not only been greatly augmented, but apparently became very much infuriated, so that a squad of reserve officers was ordered out and a rush made, the officers using their clubs freely. The crowd dispersed until the prisoners had been taken inside the station, when it again assembled and succeeded in breaking a number of windows in the building. A second rush by the officers again put the angry men to flight, but they showed their feeling in hurling abusive language at the officers.

After this all the cars were manned by the police, two of them going to Newburyport on the last car to that city. While the riot was in progress the former street railway employes were holding a meeting in another part of the city, and it was determined to keep away from the locality, which has seemed to be the gathering place of the ardent but angry sympathizers.

The Central Labor union held a meeting last night and adopted resolutions condemning the bond, and other labor organizations in the city passed similar measures. The street railway officials succeeded in obtaining 10 men yesterday, but they lost several on Saturday, so the gain was not very great.

The Brockton Strike.

Brockton, Sept. 20.—Altogether 508 lasters, representing 26 shops, are out and 12 manufacturers have accepted the new scale of prices. Among the latter are the W. L. Douglass Shoe company, Howard & Foster, McCarthy, Sheedy & Kendrick, Fall & Nesmith company, the People's Co-operative company, Serratt, Higgins & Oakman, Reynolds, Drake & Cabell. The names of the other manufacturers who have signed are withheld by the secretary of the union. In addition to the local shops 21 men have left their benches in the shop of Closson & Pond, South Braintree, and 30 men in the Littlefield factory in Avon.

A mass meeting was held last evening at which over 600 men were present. Secretary Tobin of Boston addressed the strikers,and the prevailing sentiment was strongly opposed to arbitrating the difficulties in those shops where the proprietors had asked for a conference at the last moment. At a meeting of the conference committee, which was held directly after the mass meeting, every union in the district was represented. It was decided to present the new list to every shop in the district before next week Tuesday, and if the new prices are not accepted, the men in all outside shops will be called out. Everything points to a short strike and a speedy settlement in favor of the strikers.

Prosperity of Schools.

Washington, Sept. 20.—"One cause of congratulation on the part of those who hold the doctrine that popular education is the safeguard of our American institutions," says the report of the commissioner of education, is "the continued prosperity of the elementary schools. The increase during 1896-97 amounted to 257,896 pupils over the previous year. The total enrolled in elementary schools amounted to 15,452,426 pupils. Adding to it those in colleges, universities, high schools and academies, the total number reached 16,255,093."

The total amount of schooling received for individuals on an average for the whole United States at the rate of school attendance for 1897 is very nearly five years of 200 days each, and reaches quite seven years in a few of the states that are the most lavish in their expenditures for education. A little more than one-fifth of the entire population attended school at sometime during the year.

A still greater occasion for congratulation it is stated is the increase of students in colleges and universities. This increase has gone on steadily for 25 years. In 1872 only 590 persons in the million were enrolled in these institutions. In 1897, the number had risen to 1216 in the million.

Battle With Tramps.

Newburg, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Detectives Dwyer and Vickers tried to arrest seven tramps yesterday near Vails Gate. Vickers caught one, who dropped a package of burglar's tools. The others fled. Vickers and Dwyer took the man between them, and while walking along the track the prisoner jerked Dwyer's pistol from him and shot Dwyer over the left eye. At this the gang returned and fired volleys at the officers. Michael Wicklow went to the detectives' assistance and was shot near the eye. Vickers was hit in the side with a stone and laid out temporarily. Dwyer and Wicklow were taken to a hospital. Wicklow was not badly hurt, but the bullet is still in Dwyer's head and he may lose his eyesight. Four men were arrested in Washingtonville on suspicion.

THE BOSTONS' GAME.

The Champions Were Too Fast For the Speedy Louisvilles.

Boston, Sept. 20.—Saturday the champions went down before the Louisvilles, but they didn't propose to have the dose repeated without a big kick, so when Willie Magee went out yesterday to offer the best he had he found the home players anxious to meet him at every turn. The Boston boys were out for the game, as they knew Magee—who has been lucky against the Bostons—was confident of winning the game.

Willis was matced against Magee and pitched the South Boston lad to a standstill. In fact the Kentuckians looked like clamdiggers as they poked after the festive shoots that the long, lean pitcher cut across the rubber. It took just one inning to bury the young pretenders under a bunch of runs that they had no chance to shake off while Willis was in form. Score:

The first game in Brooklyn Monday was a slugging match, which the Brooklyns won by a great finish. Yeager badly hurt his hand by a wicked drive. Gardner was effective in the second, and the Pittsburgs won by batting. Darkness stopped play at the end of the fifth.

The Baltimores won their eighth consecutive victory at home yesterday, the Clevelands being again the victims. Frazer's wildness contributed largely to his defeat.

Sun Blotted Out.

Boston, Sept. 20.—A stiff southwester, which has been blowing over the city since Friday, brought with it yesterday a thick, pungent smoke that practically blotted out the sun after 3 o'clock. Similar reports were received from different parts of New England, showing the cause to be much further away, while a dispatch from Chicago seems to lead to the belief that a forest fire is raging in the far northwest, and that the smoke has been blown over more than half the continent.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

George W. Gardiner, of Lafayette, R. I., 70 years old, was run over by a train at Wickford Junction and instantly killed.

An 18-hour bicycle race, with 14 starters, began in Baltimore last night, and will continue through the week, the riders to do three hours' work every night until Saturday.

Members of the crew of the Brooklyn were arrested for maliciously damaging the interiors of two saloons in Newport. The men smashed mirrors, chairs and bars.

The fishing schooner Maud Mullen went ashore Sunday evening on Seal island, Me., in the fog and is a total loss. The vessel was bound to Portland with 50,000 pounds of mixed fish.

It is almost certain that General Shafter will be sent to San Francisco to assume command of the department of California. Such is his desire, and no doubt it will be complied with.

The following fourth-class postmasters were appointed yesterday: East Bradford, Me., Martha V. Houston; Bondsville, Mass., Lewis R. Holden; West Chatham, Mass., Nettie A. Nickerson.

The dwelling and stable of Alfred M. Cook of North Deering, Me., were destroyed by fire last night. Mr. Cook was grooming a colt, when the animal kicked him over, at the same time knocking over a lantern which set the hay on fire.

The Royal Order of Scotland held its 21st annual convention at the Scottish rite cathedral in Cincinnati yesterday. Over 100 members were present. This lodge is the only one in the United States, and is under the jurisdiction of the provincial grand lodge at Edinburg.

A capsized dory was found floating in the Salem harbor, and from its description it is believed that its former occupants were Edmund Sanborn of Beverly and F. M. Martin of Salem, and that both were drowned. Sanborn was 32 years old and a single man, while Martin was 36 and had a wife and two children.

The president has signed an order altering the boundaries and area of the Black hills forest reserve in South Dakota. A portion of the reserve was unsuited for timber growing, and this has been excluded, and a large tract extending into Wyoming, 443,000 acres, has been added to the reserve. This action was taken at the solicitation of the people living in the vicinity.

RUSSIA SEEKS PEACE.

No Change In Policy Toward the United States.

Interests of the Two Nations Do Not Conflict.

The Chinese Question Discussed by the Czar's Embassador to United States.

Narragansett Pier, Sept. 20.—In an interview with Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, that functionary said: "There has been absolutely no change in Russian sentiment or policy toward the United States, nor does there exist a reason for such a change within my knowledge. Russian policy does not conflict with interests of the United States in any part of the world, no more in China than in England. Russia seeks only peaceful and friendly relations with all other nations."

The correspondent reminded the ambassador that the American people were now asked by English writers to believe that some of the continental powers had sought to arrange a project for international intervention on behalf of Spain in the orient war, and that this plan of action had been defeated by the refusal of Great Britain to be a party to it, or even to consent to see other powers engage in it, thereby placing this country under a new and special obligation to the British people.

"I never heard that there was such a proposition by any of the powers," said the count; "on the contrary all the powers carefully maintained their neutrality throughout the war between the United States and Spain."

Coming to the question of Russian development in the orient, Count Cassini said: "In building the Siberian railway it was found that the route necessary to be followed in reaching Vladivostock was a very difficult one, made so especially by the existence of areas of almost impassable marshes. The engineering problems presented by that route were practically insurmountable. We also found that it was absolutely necessary to cross Chinese Manchuria in order to obtain an ice-free port, which was essential to enable the railroad to be a commercially successful enterprise. Our Pacific port of Vladivostock on the Siberian coast is closed by ice during the winter months. We are not building a railroad simply for the purpose of laying down steel rails, or for the fun of the thing. It must have traffic when it is built in order to justify the investment, and so we sought a terminus to the southward, where the ships of all nations could come at all seasons of the year. We obtained from the Chinese government a lease of territory for a term of years, like the lease of Kiaou-Chou by the Germans, and Wei-Hai-Wei by the British. In making the arrangement we were not animated by hostile purposes toward any other power. The only sure and certain revenue which the Chinese government possesses is its maritime customs, and a portion of these was pledged for the payment of our loan to China. The administration of the maritime customs is in the hands of an Englishman, Sir Herbert Hart, but we did not undertake to remove or disturb that gentleman. We are represented as hostile to the interests of other nations in China, but we have not objected to or sought to prevent other nations from increasing their commercial privileges in that country. When the English acquired an extension of territory near Hong Kong we said nothing against it, and the Germans have had a free hand in the Shang-Tung peninsula, where they have obtained very valuable privileges. Furthermore, it should be remembered that Russia and China have a common boundary of some 9000 kilometers (nearly 6000 miles) in extent, so that we have a close national relation to China, exceeding that of any other power."

In regard to the future of China he said: "There will be no partition of China. There were 429,000,000 of people in that country when the last effort was made to obtain a count of them. It is a huge population in a vast country, but I do not expect to see it divided. In extending the great Siberian railway to the Yellow sea, the purpose of Russia was not to acquire or annex Chinese territory, but to secure a commercial outlet from Siberia and to provide necessary commercial facilities for our vast northeastern territory, as well as for the parts of China through which the railway will pass."

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 20.—An unknown man about 35 years of age was found at the foot of a ledge of rocks in Charlestown last night. He was unconscious, and not only was his neck broken, but it was discovered that he had taken carbolic acid, probably with suicidal intent. He died in a short time.

Twelve more Santiago veterans were brought home from Montauk Point by the Volunteer Aid association last night. They came on a special sleeping car from New London. The men were taken to the hospitals.

Storm's Great Damage.

Madrid, Sept. 20.—A destructive hurricane swept over southern Spain, doing great damage in the province of Seville and Granada. Six persons were killed and many injured, and a number of buildings were destroyed at Seville. Eighty-five houses were demolished and many persons fell victims to the storm in Guadix, in the province of Granada.

Tomorrow's Almanac and Forecast.

Sun rises—5:30; sets, 5:43.
Moon sets—8:55 p. m.
High tide—2:30 a. m.; 3 p. m.

At present it seems that the fair weather in New England will last well into Wednesday and possibly through the day, depending on the development and movement of the southwestern storm. The cooler weather in the lakes will pass eastward, followed by slowly rising temperature Wednesday; northerly to westerly winds.

A Fair Proposition.

Pittsburg, Sept. 20.—It is known that a protocol will be submitted to the miners' officials looking to a cessation of hostilities. Jones & Son propose that pending a final settlement they will pay the district price, withdraw suits against the imprisoned strikers, allow them pay for time lost and take back all strikers on equal basis with those at work. The peace commissioner shall be any commor pleas court judge the miners may select, to whom the whole question of the strike shall be submitted and whose decision shall be final. It is a question whether the officials will sign the protocol. The miners' officials report plenty of money on hand to continue the fight to a win.

"Old Man of the Sea."

London, Sept. 20.—The Daily News, in an editorial, this morning, says: "The Philippines are McKinley's 'old man of the sea,' and the mere cooling of the annexation fever will not shake him off. Aguinaldo's message of friendship to The Associated Press is couched in the language of suspiciously tautological protestations and comes rather late in the day. Aguinaldo himself could hardly expect his version to be preferred to that of General Otis."

What mother does not wish to be proud of her children? What mother does not want them to be healthy, happy, laughter-loving and able to withstand the ordinary illnesses of childhood?

Any woman may insure the health of her children who will take proper care of her health in a womanly way. The health of her children depends almost entirely upon her general health, and particularly upon the health and strength of the delicate and important organs that bear the burdens of maternity. A woman has no right to disregard her own health, comfort, ease and happiness, she certainly has less right to condemn her children to a life of suffering or an early death. That is what she does if she neglects the health of her special womanly organism. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is an unfailing remedy for all disorders of this description. It strengthens and invigorates the sensitive organs concerned, and is the best preparation for the trials and dangers of maternity. It insures the well being of the mother and the health of the child. Its use is a guarantee of a bountiful supply of nourishment for the little new-comer. Many women who once bore children only to speedily lose them, are now mothers of healthy, robust children as the result of the use of this medicine.

Barbra A. Mudd, of Indian Creek, Mo., writes: "I am very thankful for what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did for me. I was all broken down from nervous prostration, but since taking your medicine I have had more relief than from all the doctors. Your 'Favorite Prescription' did me a world of good."

Many women have told their experiences, and given their names, addresses and photographs in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. This book is free. A copy will be sent to any address upon receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. The "Favorite Prescription" is for sale by all dealers and no honest man will urge a substitute.

Odd Fellows' New Head a New England Man.

Only One Honor For Which There Was a Contest.

Reception Held by the Daughters of Rebekah.

Today's Parade Participated In by Thousands of the Different Ranks.

Boston, Sept. 21.—Deputy Grand Sire Pinkerton of Worcester succeeds Grand Sire Carleton as head of the universal order of Odd Fellows. The choice was made at Tuesday's sitting of the sovereign grand lodge. Four candidates sought the deputyship, but the total received by A. C. Cable of Ohio almost equalled the aggregate of his competitors.

FRED CARLETON.

All amendments to the grand lodge were rejected. The principal amendment voted down was that which provided for triennial sessions. The amendment which proposes that one of the qualifications for membership in the sovereign grand lodge shall be membership in the Daughters of Rebekah barely failed of getting the three-fourths' vote to adopt, but was reconsidered later and made the special order for the day for Thursday. Detroit was chosen as the next place of meeting.

Last night there was a social gathering and reunion of past representatives to the sovereign grand lodge.

John W. Stebbins of Rochester spoke at length on the principles of Odd Fellowship, and duties and obligations of the members of the order, and what they had accomplished in their annual gatherings. Grand Representative J. Otis Humphrey of Illinois made an interesting address on the purposes and meaning of Odd Fellowship. Grand Representative Nolan of Tennessee spoke on the platform of Odd Fellowship.

One of the events of the day was the reception to the officers of the grand lodge and their ladies by the Daughters of Rebekah of Massachusetts. Fifteen hundred ladies and gentlemen were present, every state in the union being represented. Grand Sire Carleton of Austin, Tex., made a brief address. Then he and other officers stood in line and shook hands with hundreds of Rebekahs.

UNIFORMS AND MUSIC.

Pageant Surpassing Anything of the Kind Under Similar Auspices.

Boston, Sept. 21.—There was a most imposing spectacle in this city this forenoon, many thousands constituting it, and many times the number participating therein as interested spectators. Although the event was arranged by the bay state brethren, it was really a New England affair, each grand lodge being jointly interested with the promoters and directors in impressing the brothers from other jurisdictions with the strength and enthusiasm of Odd Fellows in this portion of the country. To this co-operation are the splendor and impressiveness of the concourse due.

Twelve years ago a similar pageant moved through the streets of the modern Athens, in what has ever since been recognized as the biggest public demonstration in the world of Odd Fellowship. Massachusetts had enrolled in her lodges 15,220 members. Today the bay state lodges include over 50,000 members, an increase of over 330 percent. The procession of today may not have been as much greater as the membership has grown since 1886, but it was an event that will remain long unsurpassed.

The blare of bugles, the roll of drums, the martial melody of scores of military bands and the tread of a legion of marching feet bore ahead to the ears of the waiting myriad tidings of the advance of the army on whose banner is inscribed the linked motto of "Friendship, Love and Truth."

Fully 20,000 Odd Fellows were in line to pay homage to the retiring grand sire and to welcome the incoming commander-in-chief of the fraternity—the Massachusetts man to whom has been intrusted the supreme direction of the affairs of a vast oath-bound brotherhood of 1,000,000 souls.

With waving banners and champing steeds the mounted hussars led the van. With gold-bedecked attire, inscribed with golden crowns crossed by sword and shepherd's crook, the thousands of Patriarchs Militant followed. With gleaming swords, belted coats and waving plumes of purple, the royal purple degree members of the encampment sought to out-vie in brilliancy, though hardly in numbers, the militant branch of the fraternity. Less showily arrayed, yet with uniform headwear, be-gloved, bearing banners and badges, and escorted by almost innumerable bodies of musicians, came the biggest division of all, the men of the subordinate lodges, the "working" branch of the order. Officials of the grand and supreme bodies rode at ease, and last of all, in the prime post of honor (for the position of highest esteem in this "odd" order is last in line) came the men whose lives have been passed in work for the principles of fraternity, and who now, bowed by the weight of years, step aside to make way for a younger generation of workers. Before this division initiated observers bowed lowest in reverence. This was the roster:

FIRST DIVISION.

Brigadier General E. H. Emerson, marshal; Colonel W. F. Spalding, chief of staff; Major F. DeWitt Lapham, assistant adjutant general; honorary staff composed of visiting Odd Fellows unattached and personal friends of the general commanding.

CREATED A SENSATION.

Lasters' Secretary Advised the Strikers to Go Back to the Factories.

Brockton, Sept. 21.—Last night's meeting of the striking lasters proved to be such a large one that the small hall where it was called proved to be inefficient, and the meeting adjourned to one of larger proportions. The men had no sooner assembled that a ringing speech was made by one of the strikers in which he denounced the statement issued in the afternoon by Secretary Cunningham. The entire meeting repudiated it, and many of the remarks were exceedingly bitter.

Mr. Cunningham said that he should stand by his recommendations and that he was willing to resign. He was informed that as the members had not been formally called together, his resignation could not be accepted.

Cunningham's statement caused a sensation among the lasters, as he had not counselled forbearance previously. The gist of his remarks is embodied in this paragraph: "It is my belief that the best policy to be pursued under the present conditions would be for the lasters to return to their work at their respective factories, pending a settlement, as I consider it impracticable to adjust the difference on the uniform basis with the men out. We have shown ourselves capable of controlling the lasters, as their attitude on the question has proven, and I am in favor of having it understood that if the settlements made after the men return are not satisfactory, they will again be called out.

Over 600 lasters are out. The figure would have been larger had not several firms given in and secured the return of their men. It was little thought that Field, Hazard & Co. and D. W. Field would lose their men, but all came out save one man, who was green at his trade. L. M. Reynolds & Co., the Union Shoe company and F. W. Packard & Co. were among the last to make settlements.

Extra excitement was caused among the strikers when it was learned yesterday that lasters from Boston, Lynn and other places had arrived looking for situations. The move was not wholly unexpected by the union officials, and they appeared to deem the matter of little importance. The excitement abated when it was learned that only about a score were in the party. They separated after leaving the hotel where they had stopped and came together at G. G. Snow's. They are believed to comprise the 20 men claimed by the firm to be at work there. They represented that they had been sent by the agent of the Chase Hand Method Lasting Machine company.

PRACTICED BATTING.

Game In Which the Louisvilles' Fielders Were Kept Busy.

Boston, Sept. 21.—The greatest maelstrom of base hits seen at the south end this year took place yesterday. For several innings scratch hits of the luckiest type came in quick succession, and Dowling's failure to judge bunts, intended for sacrifices, started the hard luck combination against the "colonels." Then, if a ball went at a fielder, half the time it took a bad bound. Intermingled with all this good luck for the Bostons was some genuine batting of the cleanest type. Score:

The New Yorks had the game with the St. Louis club well in hand up to the seventh inning, when six singles and a bad throw let in four runs. The game was called on account of darkness, with the score a tie at 7.

The Pittsburgs hit Kennedy of the Brooklyns hard yesterday, while Cronin, formerly of the Fall Rivers, had the trolley dodgers at his mercy and shut them out.

Three errors in the sixth inning gave the Chicagoes the Washington game. Everett of the winners was put out of the game for disputing one of Andrews' decisions.

The Cincinnatis won the concluding game from the Philadelphias by better batting.

Peters of the Clevelands was wild and received rather ragged support in Baltimore. Nops at the close was hit hard. Tebeau's men made four runs in the eighth inning, when the game was called on account of darkness, the score standing 6 to 5 for the Baltimores.

In a gallantly fought battle before a crowd of 8000 fans, the Kansas City team won the Western league pennant for 1898, defeating the Indianapolis team, 6 to 5.

In a baseball match at the international exhibition grounds in St. John, N. B., yesterday, a Boston picked team was defeated by the Roses by a score of 10 to 9 in the presence of 10,000 people.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A, B, C and D, and today prints those of letter E:

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

Quincy Teachers' Association.

During the school year there will be given at the High school hall a series of most interesting lectures and readings under the direction of the Teachers Association. It is expected that the course will include such well known speakers as Booker T. Washington of Tuskeegee fame; Prof. Churchill of Andover; Dr. Everett of Quincy; Elbert Hubbard, the writer of the "Little Journeys" series; and others of note.

The course will open on Thursday evening, the sixth of October with a musical lecture by Louis C. Elson of Boston, on "Seven Centuries of English Song." This includes music from the twelfth to the nineteenth century, old Ballads, Cavalier and Round head songs, etc., and will be illustrated with vocal and instramental music.

The course is offered to the people of Quincy at surprisingly generous prices, and it may be safely said that never before has a programme of such exceptional merit been printed.

Announcements regarding later lectures and tickets will soon be made.

Norfolk County Places.

The Transcript reports a lively contest for the county commissionership to be filled in Norfolk County this year. Thomas H. Blanchard of Stoughton wants a renomination, but there are three other candidates in the field, J. J. Hayes of Dedham, which has not been represented on the board for a number of years, Nathaniel Conant of Brookline, and Frank A. Fales of Norwood.

The term of the sheriff expires this year, and Augustus A. Endicott, a Democrat who has carried this Republican county against strong candidates, will retire from the office.

Samuel H. Capen of Canton is the only active candidate for the office. Mr. Capen has been a deputy sheriff for years, and may be nominated by both Republican and Democratic conventions.

Quincy also may be heard from on the county commissionership. The names of ex-Councilman H. T. Whitman, and ex-Commissioner J. Q. A. Field are mentioned.

South Shore Battalion of Odd Fellows Assemble Here

And March Over a Short Route to Cars.

Whitman Fife and Drum Corps Give a Concert.

Quincy had a little Odd Fellows day of its own this morning and from 8 until 9.45 when cars were taken for Boston, City Square was full of the fraternity, the gay uniforms of the Patriarchs Militant constrasting with the neat caps and regalia worn by the subordinate lodges.

The fife, drum and bugle corps of 26 pieces from Whitman arrived at 8.12 and marched to the Adams building, playing several selections in City Square.

At 8.30 a line was formed and Manet Encampment was escorted by the drum corps to the Thomas Crane Public Library where Wompatuck Encampment of Weymouth was met and escorted to the depot in time for the 9.12 train.

The drum corp then marched back to the Adams building and at 9.15 a line was formed by a part of the South Shore battalion as follows:

Police.

Drum Corps.

Marshal, Hiram Raymond.

Mt. Wollaston Lodge, No. 80, Quincy.
48 men.

John Hancock Lodge, No. 224, Wollaston.
37 men.

Crescent Lodge, No. 82, East Weymouth.
49 men.

Hacks containing F. J. Fuller, A. E. Nash, E. P. Howland, N. B. Furnald, John Page, John Kemp, veterans of the order.

In this order the line marched to School street and return, when special electric cars were taken for Boston.

Cohasset lodge was to join this battalion in Quincy but for some reason they failed to connect.

Great Golf Victory.

The Wollaston Golf team of eight men secured a decided victory over the Newton centre club at Wollaston on Tuesday, the score being 44 to 2, as follows:

Polo Rink.

It will be interesting to the young men of Quincy this coming winter to know that at New Downer Landing a polo rink will be built by the Weymouth team and some fine playing is promised. A strong team will be organized with some of last year's players. It will be under the management and formed by Mr. Samuel Upton. A league will be organized with the following cities: Providence, R. I., New Bedford, Taunton, and Fall River. Those interested in polo in Quincy will not have to go to East Weymouth to see a hot game.

TODAY'S COURT.

James Sheilds was arraigned for drunkenness at Weymouth. Case continued until Oct. 12.

Ernest T. Opie and Walter M. Blair were arraigned for mutual assault at Quincy, and were fined $5 each.

John J. Danahy was arraigned for assault on Mary E. Danahy at Quincy. He was discharged.

The continued cases of John Colligan, for assault on Officer Daveron and drunkenness, were called and he paid his fine of $20.

NEW WORK FOR CO. K

The Fifth Massachusetts Devotes a Day to Tree Felling.

Middletown, Penn., Sept. 19.
Camp Meade.

There was nothing unusual happened here Sunday, it being quiet all day. No evening parades takes place on the Sabbath. This morning the usual setting up exercises took place, no drills being ordered for today.

The whole regiment were turned loose into the woods adjoining our parade grounds with instruction to cut down all trees and bushes. They stuck to their task all morning and again this afternoon, so that the boys feel tired and lots will retire early. The usual dress parade that takes place every evening was postponed on account of the boys feeling fatigued, so that it was nothing but undress parade without rifle.

Captain Wilson and Colonel Stearns of Governor Wolcott's staff visited the Fifth Massachusetts Regiment today, and found that not a single man had been sent to the hospital since the regiment arrived here. The visitors were pleased with the location of the camp, the conditions of the Massachusetts troops and the quality of their rations.

Other regiments are not as healthy. More than one hundred typhoid fever patients are now in the division hospitals here, and the Red Cross wards have been increased to double their former size to accommodate this class of patients. More than half the new cases were brought to Camp Meade by the 201st and 202d New York regiments, from Camp Black. They were of a mild form, but the excitement of breaking camp, the long journey and the change of location developed the disease in its worst form.

Gen. Graham says the Second Corps will remain here several weeks yet, and when cold weather sets in the division will be separated and sent to Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines. The movement will be completed before the snow falls.

The Second West Virginia start tomorrow on a march to Gettysburg to attend the dedication, Thursday week of a regimental monument.

Col. Whitney has forwarded the following statement to Gov. Wolcott:

"I have the honor to address you in regard to the statements which have appeared in some of the Boston papers that the Fifth was short of rations. There has been no lack of proper food for every man in my command since our arrival here. Fresh meat of the best is to be had in plenty, and each man is entitled to one pound of fresh bread every day. The rations are all that could be desired, and are every bit as good, if not better, than those we received while stationed at Camp Dalton. The health of the regiment is good, and we have no complaints to make of any kind over our treatment while stationed here.

None reported as sick as yet in Co. K from last report; last man being considerably better.

The guard detail will consist of Lieut. Charles F. Spear of K as commander of guard. No non-commissioned officers are to go on guard out of K tomorrow. VOLUNTEER.

Deserters from Fifth.

The Globe learns from Camp Meade that the six men beating their way home who were reported to belong to the 8th were really deserters from the 5th Massachusetts, and gave fictitious names. They were members of Co. G, and their true names as given by Col. Whitney, are Cor. J. H. Quinn, S. H. Clark, E. Billingsly, G. J. Halliday, H. J. Gurnsy and W. J. McAdam.

Rumors, which appear to be very well founded, in the 5th Massachusetts, are to the effect that Dr. Frank E. Bateman, first assistant surgeon, has resigned. If so Dr. Frederick Pearl, who is now the second assistant will be advanced to the position, and Dr. McPherson, hospital steward, will be made second assistant Both of these men are popular in the regiment, and their advancement will give general satisfaction. It is hinted that Dr. H. Lincoln Chase, who was assistant surgeon in the state militia, is an applicant for the appointment to succeed Dr. Bateman, but it is conceded that Dr. Pearl will be the man.

Everett E. Whitney, auditor of the Pennsylvania steel company at Steelton, about three miles from the camp, has extended an invitation through Col. Whitney to the field, staff and line officers of the 5th to be his guests on this (Wednesday) evening. The invitation has been accepted and about 50 of the officers will be piloted through the steel works, after which they will be entertained at the home of Mr. Whitney.

Business men will give to the preacher of greed,
A million to further some sea-gold skin,
When they wont' give a hundred to scatter the seed
Of the gospel of peace and salvation from sin;
For the worldly spirit is the all-moving leaven,
And the gold brick is nearer and dearer than heaven.

The City Council Committee on Sewers and Drains meet tonight, and the Committee on State Aid will meet Thursday night.

Elliot Stoddard has just completed some very desirable residences in what is known as McGregor block, at Alleyne terrace, which he advertised to let today.

The public hearing before the City Council, on granting a location to the Bicycle railroad will doubtless develop considerable opposition, as many consider it a visionary scheme, and that the road will never be built.

Ernest Opie and Walter M. Blair got into a dispute in front of Music hall, Tuesday night, and it is claimed that Blair struck Opie, at which the latter turned and pounded Blair. They were having it hot and heavy when Officer Nicol appeared on the scene and locked them both up for mutual assault.

The most interesting instalment of the Assessors land values will appear in the Daily Ledger tomorrow when the value of each of Henry H. Faxon's lot will be given. The public will probably become convinced that Mr. Faxon pays full value on his real estate.

FEARED A DRAFT.

Many Names Withheld from the Assessors This Year.

There have been many inquiries as to why so many names were dropped from the voting lists this year. The reason is very simple. When the Registrars revise the lists in August they are governed largely by the list of polls reported by the Assessors, and if for any reason the Assessors failed to get a name which was already upon the voting list, that name is dropped, on the supposition that as the Assessors did not report him the party was either dead or had left town.

Among so many it is not surprising that the Assessors miss a few. This year, however, the number missed was larger than usual. When the Assessors made their rounds of the city in May the war scare was at its height, and there was a doubt as to how may men Uncle Sam might call for the army. Many feared that before the war was ended it would be necessary to draft men, in which case the draft would be made from the names reported by the Assessors. The result of this was that they found many who hesitated about giving the names of the men who lived at the houses as instructed, and the Assessors experienced much difficulty. The result was that many names were missed and the number dropped from the voting lists was therefore increased, and amounted to over 500.

Co. K Probably Included.

Coolidge writes to the Journal that the movement of the troops for the garrisoning of Cuba will be commenced within the next two weeks. Small detachments of American soldiers will be sent to Cuba from time to time, prior to the completion of the labor of the military commission and the evacuation of the island by the Spanish. The entire garrison force will number about 40,000 men, one-half of whom it is expected will be regulars. The object in sending American soldiers to the island befor its evacuation by the Spanish is to secure the maintenance of law and order.

It would be unsafe to allow an interim to exist with no established military authority to keep down the depredations of the lawless Cuban bands, which even now are proving a menace to life and property in the unhappy land.

The present plan, therefore, provides for the supplanting of Spanish authority with American military domination by degrees, so that at no time will an opportunity be given for lawlessness to obtain a firm foothold. When the President will have returned from his visit to the peace jubilee at Omaha and a short trip through the West, he will take up for consideration the queston of the government of Cuba for the future. It is understood, of course, that the first government in Cuba will be a military one under American auspices. The troublesome questions which will arise will be over the method of investing the Cuban people with that form of self-government which Congress and the President have promised them. There is no intention to depart in the slightest measure from that promise not to modify the position which the President took upon the Cuban question, and which resulted in the war with Spain.

One fact stands out prominently in connection with Cuba's future. It is that the Administration does not purpose to turn over to a handful of Cuban military leaders the destinies of the people of Cuba. The President will not ignore the military heroes of Cuba, but he will give the peopl of the island a voice in the conferring of administrative offices. While he will doubtless appoint some of the recognized leaders to prominent positions, he will also suggest that the people elect their own municipal officers in cities, thus giving them an opportunity to demonstrate whether they possess any fitness for self-government. The final solution of the problem of government for Cuba will be left to a convention of the people, to be conducted under the direction of United States authorities.

There was a very large and enthusiastic attendance at the meeting of Mt. Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., Tuesday evening. The third degree staff, Past Grand E. L. Goodridge degree master, exemplified the degree in grand style upon two candidates. A clam chowder and cocoa were served at the close.

The pumps at the pumping station of the Sewer plant are now in position and have been worked some, so that they are practically ready for use. The only thing lacking to have the system ready for use is the connecting link at Squantum. A gang of men are now at work making this connection, which will probably be completed in a few days.

PECULIAR POISONS.

GENERATED IN THE HUMAN BODY.

The Result of Imperfect Digestion of Food.

Every living thing, plant or animal contains within itself the germs of certain decay and death.

In the human body these germs of disease and death (called by scientists Ptomanies,) are usually the result of imperfect digestion of food; the result of indigestion or dyspepsia.

The somach, from abuse, weakness, does not promptly and thoroughly digest the food. The result is a heavy, sodden mass which ferments (the first process of decay) poisoning the blood, making it thin, weak, and lacking in red corpuscles; poisoning the brain causing headaches and pain in the eyes.

Bad digestion iritates the heart, causing palpitation and finally bringing on disease of this very important organ.

Poor digestion poisons the kidneys, causing Bright's disease and diabetes.

And this is so because every organ, every nerve depends upon the stomach alone for nourishment and renewal and weak digestion shows itself not only in loss of appetite and flesh, but weak nerves and muddy complexion.

The great English scientist, Huxley, said the best start in life is a sound stomach. Weak stomachs fail to digest food properly, because they lack the proper quantity of digestive acids (lactic and hydrochloric) and peptogenic products; the most sensible remedy in all cases of indigestion is to to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia tablets, because they supply in a pleasant, harmless form all the elements that weak stomachs lack.

The regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure every form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

They increase flesh, insure pure blood, strong nerves, a bright eye and clear complexion, because all these result only from wholesome food well digested.

Nearly all druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents full sized package or by by mail by enclosing price to Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., but ask your druggist first.

A little book on stomach diseases mailed free. Address Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. Sep. 19-21-23.

Saved From the Gallows.

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 21.—Louis C. Allen, the youthful murderer of John H. Betscha, pleaded guilty yesterday to murder in the second degree and was sentenced by Judge Thayer to imprisonment for life. Allen shot Betscha in the latter's store last July, after having been apprehended while robbing the money drawer. The victim died a few days later at the hospital.

A miner in Staffordshire has recently discovered a petrified arm imbedded in the solid stone or ore. The peculiarity in the arm lies in the fact that the elbow joint can be made to move to and fro as though it consisted of flesh and blood.

A Thomaston, Me., man had a deed recorded recently which was dated in 1824. It belonged to his grandfather, and by some oversight had never been spread in their records.

OLD GLORY IN HAVANA

First Flag Flying From the Flagstaff of a Hotel.

Commissioners Are Relieving Wants of Distressed.

An Effort to Get the Refugees Back Upon Their Farms.

Havana, Sept. 21.—At 10 o'clock Friday morning the first American flag in Havana was hoisted on the flagstaff of the Trocha hotel, the headquarters of the American evacuation commission. A quartermaster of the Resolute brought the flag, which was unfurled and fluttered proudly in the breeze. All the members of the commission raised their hats and cheered the stars and stripes. The approaches to the grounds at either end of the street were patrolled by squads of the civil guard, in order that the commissioners might not be molested.

Yesterday a widow and two children, evidently persons of refinement, but in abject want, approached General Wade, the president of the commission, and pleaded for relief. They were seated in the dining room of the hotel and given a hearty meal. Others in need were equally well treated, all who applied receiving relief of some sort and the sympathy of the Americans. The commissioners had nothing to say concerning the report of a protest at the length of time asked by the Spanish commission for evacuation, denying all knowledge of such action. They maintain a strict reserve.

Marquis Cervera, the military governor of Mariatae, has issued an order providing for the return of the refugees from the country—reconcentrados—to their farms and fields, offering absolute protection to all those going back to their homes and lands. To this end he has arranged for three omnibuses to run twice a week from Marianso to interior points in the vicinity, taking the families and baggage, free of cost, of those who wish to return to their homes. The civil governor, besides issuing orders to the mayors of Cano and Bauta to co-operate with the mayor of Marianao, has, to the same end, set aside $500 to be distributed among those families which return to labor on the farms.

Advices from Matanzas continue to report great distress and the spread of sickness, to remedy which, it is asserted, the city officials do absolutely nothing.

Bishop Santander, of this diocese, has had a long interview with Captain General Blanco, supposedly for the purpose of considering the position of the clergy after the evacuation of the island.

Was a Distasteful Duty.

Cleveland, Sept. 21.—Brigadier General George A. Garretson arrived home yesterday. In speaking of the trouble with the Sixth Massachusetts regiment he said: "The personnel of that regiment was all right. It is true its officers resigned, and it is equally true had they not resigned they would have been brought before a court of inquiry to inquire as to their efficiency. They seemed to be unable to control their men. It was a distasteful duty which devolved upon me, and I do not want to say much about it until my official reports are made public."

Woburn, Mass., Sept. 21.—Four of the six members of company G, Fifth Massachusetts, charged with desertion from the regiment at Camp Meade, Penn., arrived here yesterday and one of them, Corporal J. H. Quinn, was arrested last night. Henry J. Gersey, William J. McAdams and G. J. Halliday are at the latter's home. The other two men, Clarke and Billingsly, who left the camp at the same time, and who are also from this city, have not shown up.

They now claim that they left the camp on a lark, and, getting somewhat intoxicated, rode to New York on a coal train. When they landed they were penniless, and sold everything they had, including their jackets, to get home, after telling a story of harsh treatment. They arrived in their shirt sleeves. All are ready to go back to Camp Meade and will do so as soon as they can get money for transportation.

Department Not to Blame.

Washington, Sept. 21.—The quartermaster's department of the army, which is, among many other charges, designated to transport troops, has taken notice of newspaper criticisms upon recent troop movements, and in justice to the officers who are responsible for these it has seen fit to make public the actual facts. Colonel Bird, in charge of the department during General Ludington's absence, had his attention drawn particularly to the case of two New York regiments, the Eighth and Ninth, which were quartered at Camp Thomas. These troops were returned to their native state over a route that was not as direct as might have been selected, and consequently they were kept longer on the road than appeared necessary. For this the quartermaster's department has been severely scored. It is shown by Colonel Bird that the New York authorities sent their agents to the camp and took the sick men of those regiments back to New York, selecting the route complained of because it afforded better facilities for the distribution of the men among their homes throughout the state.

Right to Reinforce Manila.

Washington, Sept. 21.—Some question has risen as to the right of the United States to send troops to Manila under the terms of the protocol. Upon this matter being brought to the attention of the officials of the war department it was stated that under the protocol Manila city, harbor and bay were placed under the control of the United States, and that we have the same right to reinforce Manila that we would have to send troops to any post.

Recruiting From Cubans.

Washington, Sept. 21.—Last winter an attempt was made to pass a bill allowing the recruiting of Cubans in the army of the United States, either in the volunteer or regular service, limiting the number to 10,000; but the bill was changed so as to allow only 50 to each regiment, and these to be enlisted as scouts and guides. It is probable that an act for recruiting regiments from Cubans will meet with more favor in the future, as those men will be available for garrison duty in the island. It is also thought that a large number of Cubans who have been serving in some capacity with the Cuban army will become better satisfied with the changed condition of affairs if they are allowed to continue in military service.

Great Many Very Sick.

Montauk, N. Y., Sept. 21.—The hospital now contains 515 men. Many of these are beyond hope, and for the next two weeks it is feared there will be many deaths, mostly from typhoid. The well soldiers are getting on finely and gaining flesh. There were but two deaths yesterday.

The Haverhill Struggle.

Haverhill, Sept. 21.—Obstructions were placed on the rails in several instances in an attempt to derail the cars last evening, but none of these attempts was successful, and the full schedule was run with the exception of the Bradford line, on which the cars were pulled off at 10 o'clock. This was done on account of the action of parties in greasing rails on all the grades of that line, making the track unsafe for travel. No arrests were made, though several brushes occurred in the crowd.

An ordinance has been passed by the aldermen requiring all employes of the Haverhill division of the road to procure licenses before being put in control of cars, it being stipulated that each applicant for a license must have been a resident of Haverhill six months prior to the aplication. The aldermen were authorized to grant such licenses on such conditions as they saw fit to make, it being understood and openly stated that the ordinance would prevent the newly hired employes from holding their position and place the old men on the cars again. During the session a deputy sheriff served formal notice on the members of the board on behalf of Superintendent Woodman that there was a riotous gathering on one street and calling on them to perform their duty, appear on the scene and disperse the crowd. Being informed that serious trouble was not taking place there the aldermen ignored the summons.

TOLEDO'S HOLOCAUST.

Spontaneous Combustion Causes a Disastrous Fire.

A Grain Elevator Reduced to Ashes.

Eight Persons Cremated and as Many More Burned Fatally.

Toledo, Sept. 21.—Eight persons were cremated, eight more fatally burned and others injured in the most disastrous fire that ever occurred in Toledo. The spontaneous combustion of dust in a grain elevator owned by Paddock, Hodge & Co. caused this destruction of life, and none of those who were taken out after the fire was far enough from death's door to tell any of the details.

The dead are: Samuel Alexander, Bert Wainwright, Fred Garrett, Harold Parks, John Smith, Grace Parks, Frank Van Housen and John Carr.

W. J. Parks, the superintendent, was blown through the window of the lower story. He said that an explosion occurred on the south side of the elevator, and that he knew there were about 20 men at work on the seventh floor of the enormous building. Few of the injured will survive the burns and bruises. Besides those regularly employed at the elevator, the three children of Superintendant Parks were visiting him at the time. One of these may recover from her burns, but Grace, 17 years, is burned almost beyond recognition, and Harold, the third child, has not been found.

At 8:30 o'clock last evening the people of East Toledo were startled by an explosion which caused a panic all over the neighborhood. Houses were shaken as by an earthquake, and windows were shattered for blocks around. Those in the vicinity of the Union elevator soon noticed flames bursting from the building. It was but a few minutes before the fire department of the city began the work of rescue, which was rendered difficult by the terrific heat. The river cut off escape on one side, and there the flames seemed to be less fierce. The families of a dozen men who were known to be at work within rushed to the scene, the women loudly calling for their imprisoned husbands, brothers and fathers.

It was learned that the force of 20 men expected to load 80,000 bushels of grain during the night. Not one of them could be seen in any part of the building, and it was impossible to reach them in any way. Mr. Parks was found first. He was 20 feet from the building, frightfully burned and his clothing almost entirely torn off. He had been hurled from his place in the main room, and his agonizing cries were most pitiful. Another employe, John Carr, was hurled from the fifth floor of the building and was found bleeding and burned, with many bones broken. He did not long survive. Fireman Kemp and Charles Keifer, the engineer, were found at their places in the engine room. They were wounded by falling timbers, and their faces were charred to a crisp. The little daughter of Parks was sitting near the desk in the office at the time of the explosion, and she was hurled out of the door. She walked down the elevation on which the elevator stands and then fell unconscious, suffering from wounds from which she cannot recover. John Smith was fatally burned. The missing men are doubtless all dead. No traces of them has been found, and as they were employed at the top of the elevator their chances for escape were but slight.

The heat became so intense that 20 cars on sidings near the burning building were added to the loss. The fire department had a hard struggle to save other elevators and property. The bridge across the Maumee river was on fire several times. The loss aggregates $550,000.

Free Logs and Free Lumber.

Quebec, Sept. 21.—The indications are that the Canadian commissioners are going to take a very determined position on the lumber question. A. S. Hardy, premier of Ontario, and George W. Ross, minister of education, declare unreservedly that no concessions will be made on the part of the Canadian government in the way of permitting logs to go free into the United States unless the United States makes some concession in the way of reducing or removing the present duty of $2 per thousand on Canadian sawn lumber. Last year the Ontario legislature passed a law that no logs cut on crown lands by American lumbermen should be taken into the United States to be sawed into lumber in American mills. This law was no doubt a result of the $2 duty put upon all Canadian lumber in the Dingley bill, but it has been a disastrous law to such of the American lumbermen as own large tracts of crown timberlands in Ontario. These lumbermen contend that the Canadian government knew when it sold the timber to the Americans that it was to be sawed in American mills and, having this knowledge, the government has no right now to pass a law of this character; but the Canadians waive that point and say it must be free logs and free lumber, or no change at all.

Clark Wallace, former minister of customs, representing the Canadian Manufacturing association, counsels the Canadian commissioners to stand by the protective duty upon certain manufactured goods sent into Canada from the United States. Textiles and manufactured iron implements are the principal articles upon which he urges that no reduction be made. He says the Canadian manufacturing interests are all the time growing, and American free importations would paralyze them.

Murder and Suicide.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Michael Schwarz, a musician, went to the home of his wife, from whom he had been divorced two months, and in the presence of their 12-year-old daughter killed her instantly. He then shot and killed himself. The tragedy was the result of an argument over past differences.

FOUGHT OVER SILVER.

Connecticut Democrats In a Four-Hour Struggle.

Difficulty In Bringing Order Out of Chaos.

Platform of the Supporters of Sound Money Finally Adopted.

Bridgeport, Sept. 22.—The Democrats of Connecticut, the last of three parties in the state to place in the field their ticket, last night concluded their biennial state convention after sessions which lasted from 10 in the morning until after 11 o'clock last night, bringing to a close the most remarkable political convention ever held within the nutmeg state.

Summarizing the work of the body, which at its close was characterized as a most astounding assemblage, it may be said that the gold faction completely routed the silver element by securing the adoption of a platform which totally eliminated reaffirmation of the Chicago platform of 1896, and obtained control of the state organization in the personnel of the state central committee.

There was a long chain of extraordinary happenings, the like of which has never been seen in any political convention in the history of the state. For four hours a debate was conducted which beggars description. Dozens of men were on their feet at a time, and Chairman Kennedy was kept almost continually busy in his efforts to preserve order. For the last two hours of the debate, which was participated in by at least 150 delegates, the convention was repeatedly hurled into an uproar, and the delegates, jumping to their feet, shouted, thrashed the air and hurled invective, until to the spectators the proceedings surpassed a farce and were unanimously characterized as pitiful. Upon several occasions the utter disintegration of the convention seemed possible, and it was only after the more conservative leaders had shouted themselves hoarse that a semblance of order was restored and the convention resumed the debate, only to be soon thrown into renewed pandemonium.

For the gold men George L. Gunn of Milford was the leading speaker, while of the more conservative silver men Mr Troup and Homer Cummings were the champions. The instigators of disorder were confined to the more rabid delegates, and it required the combined efforts of chairman, secretaries, committeemen and leaders to bring order out of the chaos.

Finally the convention itself became exasperated, and derisive cries for a vote were heard. At 6 o'clock a ballot was taken. It was by rollcall and occupied an hour. Many of the delegates had left in disgust or for other reasons, and out of an accredited convention of 579 delegates 299 participated in the ballot, and a motion to substitute the silver minority platform for the gold majority platform was lost by a vote of 141 to 158, and the silver men had been routed by 17 votes. The entire platform of the gold men was then adopted by acclamation.

The opening planks read: "The Democracy of Connecticut is now as it has ever been in favor of bimetallism as enunciated by Jefferson, affording as it does the most stable standard of value, and we declare ourselves unalterably opposed to monometallism of any kind.

"We call attention to the fact that while a successful war has been conducted in the cause of a common people and fresh glory to the flag, the management of the various war departments has chilled our exultation and brought home to us a sense of shame. The American sailor and soldier have done their full duty, but the administration of President McKinley has been utterly incompetent to discharge the obligations which the management of the war imposed. Incompetency and venality in places of high trust brought disgrace upon the administration and aroused the ire of an indignant people. In this arraignment of the Republican party for its management of the war we include the United States senators from Connecticut and our four representatives in congress."

The ticket was selected as follows: Daniel Morgan of Bridgeport for governor; Joseph T. Fanning of Norwich state secretary; Asa M. Ross of Thompson, treasurer; Edward S. Roberts of Canaan, comptroller; Levi N. Blydenburg of New Haven, attorney general.

Big Blaze In Gloucester.

Gloucester, Sept. 22.—The business section of the city narrowly escaped destruction last night, and but for the entire absence of wind the heart of the city would have been destroyed. Fire broke out at 11 o'clock in a stable owned by W. H. H. Davis, and in five minutes had spread to the Belmont hotel, Rowe's oil cloth factory, the police station, Davis Bros.' outfitting warehouse and nearly a dozen other buildings. The total loss will be about $25,000.

It is stated that the merchandise carried by rail in the United States is double the amount of land carriage of all the other nations of the earth combined. This means that the 70,000,000 people of the United States transport twice as much merchandise as the remaining 1,400,000,000 of mankind.

INAUSPICIOUS RETURN.

Boston Boxer Proves a Loser In a New York Bout.

New York, Sept. 22.—After an absence from the ring of over two years John Murphy of Boston fought a 20-round bout with Samuel Kelly of this city before the Lenox club last night. They met at 118 pounds, and Murphy put up a game fight. He was no match for Kelly, who had the better of the mill throughout; but Murphy's pluck and endurance were so marked that the spectators cheered him as he left the ring after the referee had awarded the fight to his adversary. All the sporting men were in attendance at the ringside, and they indulged in a good deal of betting on the result of the main bout. Before the men donned the gloves Kelly was a two to one favorite.

SAMMY KELLY.

Murphy was persistent in the 12th and, though Kelly kept punching him hard and had his nose and mouth bleeding, the Bostonian kept up to him. Kelly's nose began to bleed in the 13th, but he did most of the work. In the 14th Murphy sent his left three times on Kelly's nose, drawing blood again. Kelly rushed matters in the 15th and cut Murphy's right eye with a straight left.

Murphy was wonderfully strong and clever, and in the 16th, 17th and 18th rounds he fought well. Both were weak when they stood up for the 19th. Murphy's plucky work made a host of friends for him, and they yelled words of encouragement. In the last round, however, Kelly was too much for him and the referee declared Kelly the winner.

Republicans of Michigan.

Detroit, Sept. 22.—Governor Pingree was unanimously renominated by acclamation by the Republican state convention. His reform ideas and efforts toward regulating alleged inequalities of taxes were heartily commended in the platform, and many members of his party who have heretofore not been in accord with the governor joined in the cheering when he appeared. In his speech of acceptance, Governor Pingree announced that he was "just the same old, bald-headed Pingree I was two years ago; the kind of Republican that believes in principle before party." He believed, however, that the Republican party was the party of the common people, and that was why he had always been in it.

The platform reaffirms the principles of the St. Louis platform; declares for the existing gold standard and opposition to the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, by this country alone; congratulates the country on returning prosperity under Republican rule and the operation of the Dingley law, and on its land and sea victories. This plank refers to Secretary Alger: "We endorse the honored secretary of war and commend his conscientious, patriotic and unselfish devotion to the honor of the nation and the welfare of the army. We denounce the unjust attacks made on him, and offer him our undivided support and confidence."

Washington, Sept. 22.—Colonel W. J. Bryan reached Washington last night from Jacksonville. He declined to state what his mission here was, and would not discuss the question of resigning his commission or the mustering out of his regiment.

VICTORY AGAIN.

Nichols Pitched Winning Ball Yesterday For the Pennant Holders.

Boston, Sept. 22.—Nichols once more has roused the home enthusiasts by his nervy, strategic, unflinching work. "Nick's" effectiveness was shown forcibly yesterday in the third and fifth innings of the game with the Pittsburgs when, with men on third base, skilful manipulation of the ball retired the opposition without a run. Two of the Alleghanies solved him for a brace of clearly outlined hits, Tom McCreery, the ex-giant, and "Bill" Schriver. Only the latter's two-bagger had a hit to do with the run getting. The support accorded "Nick" was of the kind that will insure the championship, only two misses creeping in. Score:

Poor work generally lost the game for the Washingtons. Mercer was knocked out of the box at the end of the fourth by the Cincinnatis.

The St. Louis team bunched eight hits in two innings and won easily. Sudhoff kept the Brooklyns guessing until the ninth.

The Philadelphias found Powell an easy proposition while the fielding of the Clevelands was of the rankest character.

Dreyfusites Are Despondent.

Paris, Sept. 22.—The Dreyfusites are somewhat despondent, the military authorities who were responsible for the shelving of the Picquart trial having apparently regained the upper hand, and it is feared that Picquart will be kept in prison and his trial indefinitely postponed in order to keep his mouth shut.

Never before was such a scene witnessed in court as that which followed his declaration yesterday regarding his possible death in prison. The judges, officers and audience appeared as though paralyzed with emotion. He said: "This is, perhaps, the last time I shall speak in public. I shall sleep, perhaps, in the military prison of Cherche Midi. Therefore, I wish to declare that if I am found there with the strangling cord of Lemercier Picard, or the razor of Colonel Henry, it will be murder, for I have no idea of committing suicide."

Picard was a detective understood to have been employed in the Dreyfus case who was found hanged in his lodgings about a year ago under circumstances which did not indicate with certainty that he had committed suicide.

Multitude Was Pleased.

Boston, Sept. 22.—A perfect day, hundreds of thousands of spectators, and the applause of a pleased multitude were the features which made the parade of the great bodies of Odd Fellows—the Patriarchs Militant, the encampments and the subordinate lodges—a success. Down wide avenues and narrow streets, through serried ranks of humanity, between towering buildings gayly decorated with flags, mottoes and banners beneath the stars and stripes, which waved blessings of peace, marched 20,000 men.

It was the day of all days in the week of the sovereign grand lodge's deliberations. There was nothing secret about it. As a parade, it was a success and a continued ovation from start to finish. It was a holiday for all eastern Massachusetts in a certain sense. Suburban cities and towns suspended business and it was practically at a standstill in Boston.

An Indeterminate Sentence.

Boston, Sept. 22.—The exceptions of Dr. Henry E. Bishop, taken at the hearing of his petition for a writ of habeas corpus for his release from state prison have been overruled by the full bench of the supreme court. Bishop is serving a sentence under the indeterminate statute of 1895 for criminal malpractice committed before the law was passed. His term is for not more than 13 years and not less than seven, and he claimed that the statute was in violation of the constitutional provision against ex-post facto laws. The court finds nothing in the facts of the case to take it out of the general rule, respecting the proper remedy for illegal punishment and so overrules the petitioner's exceptions.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A, B, C, D, and E. Today's instalment is confined to three names, Henry H. Faxon; his son, Henry M. Faxon; and the heirs of Job Faxon, in which estate H.H. Faxon is largely interested. In another column will be found comments on the valuation of Mr. Faxon's property.

H. H. FAXON'S TAXES.

His Valuation in Quincy $360,125.—His Taxes $8,273.63.

Today's instalment of the Assessors' land values is confined to the property of Henry H. and Henry M. Faxon and the heirs of Job Faxon in which they are interested. The temperance apostle is Quincy's largest taxpayer and his property is almost wholly real estate. His personal property is valued at only $2,850, while his real estate which includes 121 lots is assessed for $360,125. He has land in every ward of the city except Ward Six, the Atlantic ward. His largest interests are in Ward One where over two-thirds of his valuation is located. Wards Two, Five and Three follow in the order name for large amounts. Mr. Faxon owns only two small lots in the West Quincy ward.

The Assessors adjudge his Y. M. C. A. lot to be the most valuable, and have assessed 6,490 feet for $9,500, a little over $1.40 per foot. His Hancock House lot is taxed for over $1 per foot, and other lots for nearly $1 per foot. He has land on Washington street taxed for 65 cents, on Coddington street for over 30 cents and so on down to salt marsh which is valued at $50 per acre.

The tax of Henry M. Faxon amounts to $1,123.86, and that of the heirs of Job Faxon to $271.80, and the total tax of the three is $9,669 30. This sum is larger than the total appropriation for the Poor department, or enough to pay the chief of police, all the permanent men of the Police department, and for the enforcement of the liquor laws; or enough to support the public library and pay the city's share toward the City Hospital.

Quincy is not the only place where Henry H. Faxon pays a large tax. He is valued in Boston for $10,200 and assessed $131.58; and in Chelsea, on a valuation of $86,172 he pays $1,491.36, making his total tax in the three cities $9,896.59. In addition to all this Mr. Faxon says his water taxes in the three cities amount to about $1,200 per year.

No man in the city pays his taxes more cheerfully than Henry H. Faxon, although he finds it necessary sometimes to borrow money with which to do it. A study of the valuation in comparison with those published on other days will show that Mr. Faxon gets no favors, but that his valuation is, if anything, a little higher than his neighbors.

The Assessors valuations will be found on the first page today, and are a daily feature of the Ledger since Aug. 30.

Fees Refunded.

A number of the Quincy and Weymouth officers were lined up before Clerk Churchill at the District court on Wednesday and made to go down into their pockets for various amounts of from $2 up; one Weymouth officer being called upon for $15. This was not a political assessment, but amounts that had been overpaid the officers in fees. The fact that some of the officers had been overpaid was determined by the comptroller, who ruled that upon some of the warrants the officers had been paid more fees than the law allowed. In one or two cases some of the officers found small sums coming to them.

A Box to be Sent.

There will be a box, filled with canned goods and delicacies, packed Tuesday, Sept. 27th and sent to the boys of Co. K, Fifth regiment, now in Camp Meade, by the Volunteer Aid association. All friends of the boys who wish to contribute and send to their loved ones, will please leave their parcels at G. A. R. hall Tuesday after 2 P. M., where a committee will be in readiness to attend to them.

AT CAMP MEADE.

Many of the Company K Men Doing Guard Duty.

Midddletown, Penn.,
Camp Meade, Sept. 20, 1898.

Last night was very chilly. Turned out warm and bright today. The usual drills take place. Sick call brought forth two men which we hope will not be increased. Nothing to be alarmed at.

Nothing has occurred today of special mention. Boys doing well. Rations coming along all right. At guard mount today 122 men went on post, it being the largest guard our regiment has ever put out. A detail was sent to brigade headquarter's hospital for guard, another over to Major General Graham's headquarters. Part of companies have been detailed there two days in clearing up wood and chopping down trees, so that some of our boys have become experienced woodchoppers.

The camp is very quiet, as no civilians visit the grounds. Details for guard for Wednesday include Corporal Mahoney.

The boys appreciate the kindness of the Quincy Daily Ledger in forwarding us copies each day.

The old members of the Company, who were members in the old K, 5th M. V. M., are sorry to learn of the death of one of their past members. The writer intends to draw up resolutions as soon as time will permit. Time is very limited at present.

We understand that this 2d army corps will leave Camp Meade for southern fields about the 15th of October, to remain during winter. It will soon be too cold to remain here.

The company is pleased to hear of the safe arrival home of our past captain, Henry L. Kincaide, having seen in the Ledger that he had arrived.

VOLUNTEER.

Can Have What They Want.

A dispatch from Camp Meade to the Globe says: It seems almost certain that the 5th Massachusetts will be sent to Cuba the middle of next month as a part of the army of occupation.

The regiment has made a good impression at headquarters, and reliable information has it that "The Dandy Fifth" will be selected for one of the best places on that island.

Gen. Graham is well pleased with the regiment, and says "the men can have what they want." He is delighted to find a regiment that wants to stay in the service and is willing to take hold in drill and has an esprit du corps. He is determined to get rid of all the dissatisfied troops, and to this end is planning to have mustered out such kind of regiments as rapidly as possible. He thinks such kind of troops are detrimental to discipline, and wants the corps to settle down to army regulations as fast as the conditions will allow.

The men of the regiment are cleaning and clearing up the woods on the western side of the camp, and here will be stationed the colonel and his staff, bringing great relief to the officers from the dusty road which is within a few feet of their present quarters.

Maj. Morrison has won the thanks of all the men by building a dam across a little brook, just back of the camp. Here the men can bathe and wash their clothes in real comfort.

Col. Whitney has at last thrown aside his crutches, and the men rejoice with him.

Wednesday evening Col. Whitney, attended by the band and 30 officers, visited the Steelton steel works, and after going through the various shops all were royally entertained at the home of Auditor Whitney, who formerly lived in Massachusetts. After refreshments the band serenaded host and hostess.

To be Restricted.

The Boston Post reports the Fifth Massachusetts regiment to have received a high compliment from Major-General Graham regarding the cleanliness of the camp.

Also that a new order has been issued from the corps headquarters to the effect that in future all enlisted men will be arrested by the provost guard if found out of their regiment camp without a pass. Accustomed as are the men from all the regiments stationed here to have freedom of the entire camp, this order will fall hard upon them, especially on the members of the Fifth, who have such a small camp.

Rally Day at Atlantic.

Next Sunday is the annual "Rally day" for the children of the Methodist Sunday School of Atlantic. In place of the regular lesson a stereopticon talk will be given, supplemented by several short talks on Sunday School work, by different persons. A very enjoyable and entertaining time is anticipated. All children who are not at present attending any Sunday School are cordially invited to be present.

The Sunday following, Oct. 2, is rally day for the church. Some speakers of note will if possible be secured. A good time is anticipated.

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

OUR FOREIGN POLICY.

EX-MINISTER DENBY FAVORS HOLDING ALL THE PHILIPPINES.

Says We Have a Great Opportunity to Firmly Establish Our Commerce With the East—Predicts Trouble If We Keep Only Luzon.

Mr. Charles Denby, for more than 13 years minister of the United States in China, is perhaps better qualified than any other American to speak intelligently on all questions relating to the orient, and what he has to say therefore on the subject of the Philippines is worthy of special consideration. In a long conversation the other day the retiring minister gave me his views upon the entire situation in the orient, and especially the position which the United States should assume, so as to secure the greatest commercial advantages in those countries which are now opening up to western civilization. So important does he consider this subject of commercial expansion in the orient that he deems the question of the disposition of the Philippines largely subordinate to it and would solve it in the manner best calculated to insure the development of American commerce.

"Heretofore," said Mr. Denby, "the United States has been compelled to stand by in China and witness the strife of the other great commercial nations of the world to obtain advantages that were in many instances opposed to our interests. While Great Britain, France, Germany and Russia have obtained footholds, naval stations and cessions of ports and territory we have made no efforts in that direction and have not entered a protest against the aggression of other nations.

"Now, the victory of Admiral Dewey in Manila bay and the subsequent taking of Manila have changed all this. We have a naval, military and commercial base in the orient, and it will not be necessary for us to take any position on the mainland. The only question before the American peace commissioners, in my opinion, should be whether the United States should retain the whole of the Philippine group or only the island of Luzon. I cannot conceive that it should be proposed to keep less than the island of Luzon, and my own view is that we should keep the entire group of the Philippines. It may be that from my long term of service in China my views as to the importance of that part of the world may be exaggerated, but now, after long waiting, we are offered an opportunity to take a leading part in the commercial development of the orient, and I, for one, hope that we will take such action as will be of the greatest benefit to the people of the United States."

I asked Mr. Denby what he thought would be the effect of the retention of only the island of Luzon and the return of all the other islands to Spain—whether under such circumstances a larger force of men would be required to preserve order and maintain the position of the United States than would be needed if the entire group should be held. "It is quite possible," said he, "that if we should return all the islands but Luzon to Spain and if Spain should succeed in re-establishing her authority over them the proximity of that power to us in the neighboring islands would generate friction, which might require us to keep a larger military force there than we otherwise would and might endanger the peace. There would also be danger of a war in which we might possibly be involved if any of the other nations of Europe should undertake to take control of the islands."

I asked Mr. Denby whether he thought it would be necessary for the United States to maintain a large military force permanently in the Philippines, if all the islands should be retained. "There we come to the real point of most of the opposition to taking all of the islands," was the reply. "It is the fear that it would necessitate a large standing army, and there are in the United States a large number of persons who are opposed to a large army. I would not undertake to say how many troops would be required in the Philippines. That is a question for a military expert. I am of the opinion, however, that after the islands had once been pacified a comparatively small force of men would be sufficient. Of course it might require a larger navy."

While appreciating the importance of the trade of the Philippines themselves, especially in hemp, sugar and tobacco, Mr. Denby does not consider that of the first importance in determining whether the islands should be held by the United States. He believes that with the Philippines in our possession and the Hawaiian Islands as a stepping stone in the middle of the Pacific the United States would take a commanding position in the east and would obtain a large share of the commercial benefits of the opening up of China. He believes that if the islands are to be surrendered to Spain or to any other nation the United States has made a great mistake in allowing Admiral Dewey and General Merritt to take possession of the bay and city of Manila.

"If we withdraw now," said he, "we throw away this great opportunity, which has been opened and accepted as the manifest destiny of this nation. We close the door and close it so that it will never open to us again. We shut out the far east from our influence and do it deliberately. We can never reconsider such a step. It would have been far better for our trade and our influence, commercial and religious, if Admiral Dewey had never gone near the Philippines. We are confronted with this great opportunity at a time when the far east has become recognized as the coming center of the greatest commercial development, and when China is threatened with partition by the European powers."—Cor. New York Herald.

THE DAILY EVENTS.

The city is favored in having this year so many succesful business men who are willing to represent Quincy in the legislature.

Quite a boom has been started for Capt. Henry L. Kincaide since his return from the front, and it is one of the years when the soldier has the call.

The New England Telephone Co. is removing a lot of its dead wires on Hancock street and other parts of the city, where they have been replaced with cables.

Ex-Councilman E W. Henry Bass is said to have a strong following for Representative to the General Court although he has personally made no efforts to secure the nominations.

Mr. Robert H. Watson and Miss Christy A. Campbell were married at West Quincy last evening by Rev. Robert Westly Peach, and tendered a reception later at their new residence at 28 Cross street.

Some of the Quincy Odd Fellows who took part in Wednesday's parade, complain of being somewhat lame today Those who rode horseback fared as badly as those who walked, for the former are hardly able to walk today.

Miss E. Litchfield of Prospect street, Wollaston, a pupil of Thayer academy, lost her gold watch Wednesday while riding her wheel to school. The matter was reported to the police and later the watch was recovered by Officer Ferguson from a little girl at the Adams school who had found it near L. M. Pratts' store.

There was a good attendance at the Rally sociable at the First Presbyterian church Wednesday evening. The entertainment was by members of the Sunday School and included recitations by Jennie Cummings, Annie Giles, Sadie McLeod, Bella Milne and Jeanie Joss, singing by Miss Maggie Milne, cornet solo by John Garmory, violin solo by Miss Alice Joss.

"Our Eddie" was one of the most dignified of the marshals in the Odd Fellows' parade in Boston. Seated on a red horse, and wearing a silk hat, white trousers, sash and other toggery, Mr. Goodridge rode proudly at the head of the eighth sub-division. Others on horses were Farnklin Jacobs, A W. Stetson and Henry P. Furnald. This city was largely represented in the canton, encampment and lodge, and thousands of Quincy people were on the streets.

Not Deserters.

Many friends of Co. K boys are interested in the cases of the three privates of G Co. of the Fifth Massachusetts who left camp and came home, as to what the punishment will be. They left Woburn Wednesday to return. The Globe says, the three young men called at the Globe office while on their way to the train, a companied by Private Halliday's father, who was one of the officers of the company years ago.

The young men stated that they had been labelled deserters and had been the subject of considerable notoriety. They felt a little sensitive about it and wished to be placed right before the public.

In the first place they wished it stated that they are not deserters—any one acquainted with military matters knows that. Until next Wednesday they are absentees without leave, quite a different thing from a deserter. As they will be back with the regiment by tomorrow night, they certainly will be back within the required time to save them from being marked as deserters or even absentees. Overstaying their leave, they say was something that was the farthest from their minds. They were on a good time, found themselves in New York and came home instead of returning directly to camp. A half a dozen things caused this step on their part.

In substantiation of their claim that they had no intention of coming away they say that they left all their money in the care of their captain, and all their effects are at the camp, while if they had any intention of deserting they would have at least got their money which amounts to $20 in each case.

They expect to get punished for breaking liberty upon their return, and, as they feel that they deserve it, they will accept it with good grace.

Field Day at Squantum.

On Saturday, Oct. 1, members of the Society of Colonial Wars in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts are to have a field day, which they will celebrate at Squantum park. They will go from Boston on the train leaving the Old Colony station, Kneeland street, at 1.30 P. M., going to Atlantic, where electric cars will carry the party to its destination. Dinner is to be served soon after arrival. The return to Boston may be made at the convenience of individual members. The committee having the arrangements in hand is make up of John A. Remick, 20 Tremomt street, chairman; George Edwark Brown, Charles Sumner Parsons and Arthur C. Thomson.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Clark was arraigned for drunkenness at Randolph.

The continued case of Pasequalia Gravallezi, for assault on William A. Jacobs at Quincy, was called. This was the case where Gravallezi was driving on Hancock street on the left side of the street and run into Jacobs, who was coming in the opposite direction, the shaft striking Jacobs in the breast and carrying him some distance. Gravallezi was fined $30.

Strike Quickly.

"On the instant when a lion shows his temper" said a famous lion tamer "cut him quickly over the face. Don't wait until he springs at you." This is equally good advice for treating the lion of disease. Many an attack of dangerous illness would be headed off if at the first premonitory symptoms the victim would strike quickly.

Those severe coughs, bronchial affections and wasting diseases which merge into consumption would never get their savage teeth into the constitution if their early signs were headed off by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It provides such an abundance of rich nourishing blood that tuberculosis germs have no chance to get any lodgment in the lungs. It clears the skin and purges all the impurities from every organ. It invigorates the liver to expel all bilious poisons from the circulation. It creates healthy tissue, vitalized nerve fiber and gives solid strength.

"I have thought for a long time," writes Mrs. Rose Petty, of Lockville, Chatham Co., N. C., "that I would not do you justice if I did not write and tell you how I was cured of that dreadful disease called consumption, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I had measles and pneumonia both at the same time, and came near dying, and as soon as I was able to go out I was taken with grip, and then followed consumption. My physician did all he could for my relief but I received none. I tried everything that I could hear of that was good for a cough but grew worse, and would have died soon had I not commenced using the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I felt improved before the first bottle was finished. I took six bottles, and after that I felt better and stronger than in ten years before. That was six years ago, and to-day do not feel any symptoms of a return of the disease. I remain cured, and I think I am the cause of a friend being cured by using the same medicine. He was afflicted as I was, and after every thing failed to cure him he took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and was cured."

Where Money Is Very Mixed.

Although all accounts are kept in dollars and cents (American standard) in British Guiana, there is no existing coinage to correspond. Gold is rarely tendered, all larger sums being handled in bank notes, kept so long in circulation that they become almost unrecognizable in their filthy fragmentary dilapidation.

The silver coinage consists of the most incongruous varieties. Besides British a number of coins, fractions and multiples of the "gilder," enter largely into circulation. These are known as the "bitt" (4d.), "half bitt," the "two bitts," the "gilder" (being 32 cents, or 1s. 4d.), and even a peculiar three halfpenny piece is still extant, although eagerly sought for by collectors.

All these coins are of great and interesting variety, incident on the transfer of the colony from the Dutch and the once distinct governments of Berbice and Demerara and Essequibo, long since amalgamated.

Of copper coins the penny is known as a "gill," while the humble baubee becomes a "cent." Farthings were once introduced, but were regarded with contempt and suspicion, except by a few Chinamen, who succeeded in passing them in their brightness for half sovereigns.

To instance the confusion resulting, 11½d. is here described as "two bitts and a half and a gill and a cent."—London Tit-Bits.

Parents Are Unfair to Teachers.

"That existing methods of educating the young fall short of the ideal there is scarcely any question," writes Edward Bok in The Ladies' Home Journal. "The most prominent educators of the land admit this fact. Every effort is undoubtedly made to better prevailing systems. But the fight is single handed. As teachers and educators constantly say: 'We are alone. Parents give us no assistance. They do not even give us the benefit of ordinary interest.' And this is true—lamentably true. Parents are all too lax about the methods pursued in educating their children. In hundreds of cases they do not even know what the methods are. They know nothing about them. There is no co-operation of the parent with the teacher. However much we may be able to improve modern methods of education, the best results to our children cannot be reached until parent and teacher shall come into closer relations than they are at present."

Frenchwomen as Wives.

Max O'Rell considers that Frenchwomen make better wives for poor or struggling men than do the women of other nationalities. Their ambition and keen sense, he says, are great helps to a man's efforts, and they never allow themselves to weary in their endeavors to be cheery and charming. Mr. O'Rell says that the women are naturally exceedingly energetic and endowed with that vivacity which is so great a support to their own spirits, and that this enables them to impart animation and courage to others.

Other writers have noticed this peculiarity of temperament in Frenchwomen. It has been said that Americans have it to a certain degree, that degree which compels a constant activity, but that lack of true balance makes womanly energy in the western continent fitful and uncertain, while the Gallic women will be found of more equable natures. —New York Tribune.

"To Buy on Tick."

"To buy on tick"—that is, on credit—is something that does not seem to have much connection with the movement of a clock, and yet it is a figurative reference to the same thing. The syllables "tick-tack-tock" are used everywhere to represent sharp, quick sounds of various kinds, with the movements that cause them, whence the ticktack of a clock or the ticking of any quick, light motion, as the stroke of a pen or pencil that "ticks" off our orders. Hence to take a thing "on tick" is to have it marked with a tick or stroke of the pen.—E. F. Andrews in St. Nicholas.

The Kind of Bird.

The party with the long hair and starving family, not to mention lesser symptoms of the literary bent, was less servile than usual.

"How about my poem?" he brusquely demanded.

"She's a bird," replied the conductor of the magazine.

"What kind of a bird?" persisted the man of letters, thoroughly aroused.

And the other, saying nothing, merely indicated with a gesture the pigeonhole above his desk.—Detroit Journal.

HAWAIIANS DIVIDED.

Two Factions Made Known Their Wants to the Commissioners.

San Francisco, Sept. 22.—The congressional commissioners in Honolulu expect to leave for Washington Friday. They are now being deluged with petitions and memorials from the native Hawaiians, whose sentiment appears to be divided. One faction desires the restoration of the queen, while the other asks for certain rights under the new form of government. The natives who favor restoration held a mass meeting and adopted a memorial to the commissioners, alleging that the annexation treaty has failed and the joint resolution is ineffective because it was not passed by the people of the Hawaiian islands or the representative legislature. The memorial concludes by asking that the constitutional government of Jan. 16, 1896, be restored under the protection of the United States.

ROBERT WILCOX.

Among the speakers at the mass meeting was Robert W. Wilcox, the revolutionist, who a few weeks ago took the oath of allegiance in order to qualify himself for a full pardon for past misdeeds. Pointing to the United States flag over the government building he said: "It is useless to say that the flag over there will not come down again. It was up before, and it came down. It will be shown that the annexation vote was carried through by a handful of foreigners. If America loves us, why were not Hawaiians placed on the commission? We are not represented there. The next thing we shall not be able to vote."

The other faction of Hawaiians has also presented a memorial to the commission. This memorial asks for a territorial form of government, with full rights for the natives and permission to make appropriations for ex-Queen Liliuokalani, Princess Kaiulani and Queen Dowager Kapiolani.

DISORDERLY CUBANS.

Swaggering and Jeering In a Most Provoking Way.

One Leader Loses His Nose In a Fight.

Another Defied a Military Governor to Remove His Troops.

Havana, Sept. 22.—Disturbances in public places between Cubans and Spaniards are becoming frequent. The Cubans are assuming an insolent and abusive manner in their treatment of the Spaniards, whom they lose no opportunity of openly referring to the vanquished. Many of them wear miniature Cuban flags, the lone star of which acts upon the Spanish officers as does a red flag upon a bull.

Several Cubans adorned with these emblems entered a saloon that was filled with Spanish officers, some in uniform and some in civilian dress. The Cubans at once began abusing and insulting the Spaniards, comparing their quiet behavior to the cowardice of a whipped cur. Their remarks were resented by several of the officers, who administered a sound thrashing to the Cubans. In consequence of these disorders, Governor Arelas has issued a general order making it obligatory upon every officer to wear his uniform and carry arms in public, whether on duty or not, in order to avoid mistakes as to identity.

Two boats rowed across the bay toward the transport. One was occupied by Cubans from Regla, among whom was the well-known insurgent chief, Rodriguez. The other was filled with Spanish pleasure seekers. The boat in which the Cubans were drew alongside the other, and its occupants began taunting and jeering at the Spaniards, who answered back. When the boats were close to the Resolute, Rodriguez took up an oar and struck one of the Spaniards over the head with it, inflicting a painful wound. One of the latter's companions jumped into the Cuban boat, sprang upon Rodriguez and bit his nose off. The fight became general, and several of the participants were wounded. When the men had been separated the boats rowed away in different directions, but both finally landed their bruised and wounded occupants at Regla.

A serious quarrel took place at the door of the university between Professor Lezzano, a Cuban, and Lieutenant Colonel Benedicto of the Spanish army, who killed the young Cuban general, Aranguren. The excuse for the quarrel was a dispute as to which of the two men should get off the sidewalk in order to let the other pass, the Havana sidewalks only allowing one pedestrian to pass at a time, although the real motives are believed to have been deeper. The professor and the officer exchanged several blows before they were separated by friends and passers-by. It is understood that seconds have been sent to the officer by the professor.

These disturbances are looked upon as having political color, as they always occur between Spaniards and Cubans. The city is heavily patrolled, but disturbances of a like nature are frequent in the suburbs.

The insurgent chief, Edward Garcia, with 500 men, pitched his camp two miles from Matanzas, within the limits of the zone designated by the Spanish government. General Molina, the military governor, sent a polite communication to Garcia, informing him that he was inside of the limits and would be expected to move his camp. The insurgent leader answered that he considered that he was not infringing the provisions of the armistice and would remain where he was. To a more urgent request Garcia retorted that he could only be moved by force. General Molina mustered his men and prepared to send them to dislodge the Cubans, but first consulted Captain General Blanco by wire. Blanco advised Molina to avoid a clash. The Cubans continue in their previous position. Advices from Matanzas report great distress and sickness there.

"A Painful Spectacle."

Madrid, Sept. 22.—Montero Rios, president of the senate and president of the Spanish peace commission, in an interview, is quoted as saying: "It is a painful spectacle to see politicians on all sides trying to throw on each other the blame for disasters, the responsibility for which rested on all parties. I, personally, have always favored autonomy for Cuba, Spain being unable to forcibly maintain her sovereignty at such a great distance.

"It is useless to speak of our disasters. Has not the country accused all our governments of exhibiting too much weakness towards the United States? What Spain wanted was a man ready to sacrifice himself, and who recognized the impossibility of war with a powerful nation, especially after years of useless conflicts with insurgents."

Surgeons' Swelled Head.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 22.—General Breckinridge, who is in command of Camp Hamilton here, and Surgeon General Sternberg had a long conference just before the surgeon general left with Secretary Alger. The general wanted to know just who had the right to command the hospital surgeons. In Chickamauga these individuals were a sort of "do as you please" fellows, under nobody's command. General Wilson had requested certain things to be done in the hospitals, and no attention had been given his demands. Investigation, General Breckinridge said, showed that the surgeons considered themselves subject only to the orders of General Sternberg. General Breckinridge found the same trouble in Camp Hamilton, and he wanted to have a distinct understanding regarding the matter.

General Sternberg said that the surgeons in Chickamauga were subject to the orders of General Wilson, and that the general should have found this out. If he saw his orders were not obeyed he should have found the reason for such disobedience and had the matter settled at once. General Breckinridge said the same was the case right here, and he wanted General Sternberg to inform General Sanger that he was the proper person to command the surgeons.

Riled by Our Flag.

Havana, Sept. 22.—General Arolas, the military governor, went to the palace yesterday and protested against what he called the insolence of the action in hoisting an American flag over the hotel occupied by the commissioners, saying that he should issue an order forbidding the stars and stripes to be hoisted. General Blanco said he would not allow such an order to be issued, as the American commissioners were entirely within their rights in having the American flag floated over their residence.

LASTERS' BATTLE.

Citizens May Bring About a Conference For a Settlement.

Brockton, Sept. 22.—A tour of the city shows that a majority of the shoe shops are doing what they can, while a few have shut down. M. A. Packard's representative stated that he had taken in several lasters and is perfectly satisfied with the way things are going.

Walter Shaw, a representative of the Consolidated and McKay Lasting Machine company, is in the city. He states that he is but a looker-on, waiting for a change. If the trouble continues he can have 150 men here inside of 30 days, and they can turn out new lasters among the non-union men inside of three weeks. Mr. Shaw acknowledges that his men are running the machines at the G. G. Snow factory, and he will furnish enough men to take the places of all the strikers if necessary.

G. G. Snow contemplates opening a free shop. He will wait a little further action on the part of the strikers before he fully decides. He paid off all the strikers yesterday, and they took their kits out with them. The factory is running in fair shape.

The men at Small & Nesmith's were allowed to work, as the firm stood ready to accept the list. Yesterday they accepted it formally when visited by members of the executive board, so they will not have any trouble.

T. D. Barry & Co. have sent for an instructor from the lasting machine company, and are now ready to teach any green men who wish work. The lasting machine company is also ready to supply other factories with instructors.

Several citizens are trying to organize a committee to meet representatives of the union and manufacturers in an effort to bring about a settlement.

The men at E. L. & C. K. Keith's are in sympathy with the strikers, but owing to an agreement they were obliged to give a week's notice. This they have done, and will come out next Monday. The men claim to be the poorest paid set of lasters in the city. They would have had to sacrifice a week's wages, according to the agreement, if they came out any sooner.

C. A. Eaton & Co. held a long and friendly conference with their 30 men, who, after conferring with the union, voted to continue work at old prices.

The men at P. B. Keith's big factory at Campello were wavering for some time and finally left the question to two out of town workmen as to what action shall be taken. There were 12 men who went out early, and 25 went out later, so that but 14 now remain at work.

McCarthy, Sheehy & Kendrick state that they have made only a temporary settlement. They have adopted the list only with the distinct understanding that they shall have a conference with the advisory board this week. They were led to believe, by the secretary that a special price could be obtained for their grade of work.

About 25 of the striking lasters at the D. W. Field shops have organized a picket squad, and are doing duty at the factory. Some of the people fear trouble from the numerous Poles that work there, as the latter look very ugly at the men who have taken their places

Lehman and His Bride.

London, Sept. 22.—The inhabitants of the pretty Thames village of Bourne End, Buckinghamshire, royally welcomed R. C. Lehman, the English oarsman, who coached the Harvard crew for two seasons, and his bride, formerly Alice Davis of Worcester, Mass., on their home-coming yesterday to their riverside residence.

Outside the railroad station was a handsome arch with the mottoes, "Welcome" and "Welcome to the Bride," topped by a rowing shell and four pairs of oars, or sculls, painted with the Harvard, Oxford, Cambridge and Leander colors. The road was also spanned by long lines of streamers.

Mr. and Mrs. Lehman were presented with an address of welcome signed by Lord Curson and other prominent oarsmen, particularly welcoming the bride as "representing that great nation to which we are united by so many ties of kinship and affection" to her English home.

Typhoons In Japan.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 22.—The Empress of India brings news that serious typhoons have done great damage on the Japanese coast. Many ports and towns have been totally devastated and in the Amusi district, where the ruin is greatest, over a hundred lives are said to have been lost. Yokohama and Tokio were also storm-swept.

A Taipeh dispatch states that a serious rain storm was experienced in that place on the night of Aug. 28, when a number of vessels in the harbor were wrecked and 170 persons were drowned.

Bullet In His Heart.

Georgia, Vt., Sept. 22.—Buzzel Ladoux a farmer of this town, lies dead, it is alleged, at the hand of Napoleon Manning who was arrested and taken to St. Albans' jail. Manning is charged with firing two shots in the heat of a quarrel one bullet taking effect in the region of the heart. The row was over the storing of a few bushels of oats. Ladoux died instantly.

Eighty Persons Drowned.

Madrid, Sept. 22.—The southern part of Spain has been visited by terrible floods At the village of Herrera, near Cadiz 80 persons have been drowned. A great quantity of cattle has perished and the olive harvest is lost, especially in the provinces of Seville and Granada. There have been many deaths in other parts of the flooded country.

CROWD THREW STONES

Haverhill Street Cars Are Running Under Difficulties.

Their Windows and Headlights Destroyed.

Jeering Youngster Publicly Chastised by an Exasperated Conductor.

Haverhill, Sept. 22.—There was a wave of excitement in the streets last night on account of the troubles on the electric railway. The usual crowd gathered at the transfer station despite the presence of the police, and for three hours jeered at the employes on every car, and improved every opportunity to throw stones at the windows and headlights, or bespatter the employes with vegetables and eggs. Lawrence employes have protested against being forced to submit to this treatment, and accordingly all Lawrence cars were stopped at Washington square.

The principal trouble last evening occurred on Bridge street, where a Hilldale avenue car was stalled by a plugged switch. The crowd directed much of its scorn and hate at Conductor Wildes, who finally jumped off the car, and a boy named Ambrose Gilbert was struck in the face. A complaint was made against Wildes, but the warrant was not served upon him until after he had completed his night's work. At every appearance of his car at the corner a riotous demonstration occurred. About 11 o'clock a stone thrown at a car struck Officer Boland, injuring him quite severely.

Every car last night was guarded by two officers, and a large portion of the company's lines were patrolled by police. The demonstration against the cars extended throughout the city and were more violent than on any night of the trouble.

The former employes of the road claim that more of the new men left yesterday. A conductor named Dasby stepped off his car on Bridge street and declared that he had had all of it he could stand, and at once gave up his badge.

President Campbell of the company was in the city yesterday, and renewed his request that the riot act be read and the crowd dispersed, and this will probably be done tonight.

The chief danger now is feared outside the city limits, where tracks on grades have been greased the last two nights. This wuld result in a serious accident if a loaded car should run on this portion of thetrack.

The quartermaster's department of the army states that the claim that boilers were not furnished for boiling water at Chickamauga is not true. On the same date that Chief Quartermaster Lee telegraphed for the boilers, 2000 were sent and a little later 500 more. It is also stated that the soldiers would not drink the boiled water because it had a flat taste, and preferred and drank the fresh water.

LEADERS OF THE TURF

Patchen and Gentry on a Massachusetts Track.

Five Thousand People Witnessed Their Race.

Marks' King Took Two Heats Straight In Rather Slow Time.

Readville, Sept. 23.—Barring Star Pointer, the two fastest harness horses in the world, Joe Patchen and John R. Gentry, had a match race at the Readville track yesterday, and the Marks horse won in two straight heats. A stiff wind blew down the stretch and held the horses back, so the time was slow, the first heat being in 2:05¾ and the second in 2:04¾.

JOE PATCHEN.

The day was cloudy and dull, but over 5000 were in the big stand and along the track when the crack pacers came out. Both were applauded generously, and after scoring three times, they came down together and received the word. Patchen, who was driven by his owner, C. W. Marks of Chicago, had the pole and at once went ahead, being a length in the lead at the quarter. The horses kept this relative position until well by the half-mile pole, when Gentry began to close up and almost nailed Patchen at the three-quarters. From there to the finish the crowd saw a grand race, for Mr. Marks drove in the best style and managed to keep Gentry at his wheel until just at the finish, when the big bay almost caught him, the two horses going under the wire with only Patchen's black nose in front.

The next heat up to the half-mile was practically a repetition of the first, for Patchen went immediately to the front, and not only kept the lead, but was three lengths ahead as the horses came to the three-quarters pole. Again Gentry made a great spurt in the stretch, but was not fast enough for Patchen, and the latter won the heat and the race by a good length. With a warm sun and no wind the race might have been sensational, but it was too cool for either of the horses.

VICTORY AGAIN.

Klobedanz Allows the Pittsburgs but One Run and Few Hits.

Boston, Sept. 23.—No quarter was extended the Pittsburgs yesterday. As in the first game, the visitors started off in the lead, but, after Herman Long made an unprecedented catch of Clark's liner and doubled up O'Brien at third base, nothing could stop the champions from winning.

Klobedanz pitched his finest game of the season. Such backing is seldom accorded a pitcher as he received. Long made the most remarkable stop of a base hit ever seen at the grounds in the seventh. Gray sent an apparently safe hit which was bounding out to center field, to Lowe's side of the bag, when he plunged over, made a lefthand pick-up and throw to first, all in one motion, and retired his man by several feet. The Philadelphias hit Cuppy of the Clevelands almost at will, and won a dull game. The fielding of the losers was bad.

The St. Louis team and the Brooklyns played a 19-inning tie, darkness stopping further play.

Hits when they were needed and errors by the New Yorks won the game for the Louisvilles yesterday. Catcher Grady of the New Yorks had the index finger of his right hand broken by a foul.

The Baltimores equalled the previous record of the season for straight victories, held by themselves, by taking the 11th and 12th games from the Chicagoes yesterday. The first game was a walkover, the winners landing on Phyle hard and often. Woods lost the second game in the fourth inning, when the Maryland team scored three runs.

League of Six Cities.

Portland, Sept. 23.—The Maine Polo league has been reorganized. It was voted that the circuit consist of Bangor, Portland, Rockland, Bath, Lewiston and Augusta. The Bangor franchise was awarded to W. C. French of Rockland; Lewiston to J. E. Phelan; Bath to D. T. Dougherty; Augusta to M J. Kelley and M. J. Finn; Rockland to H. G. Bird; Portland to W. W. Burnham. The season begins Nov. 1 and ends March 15. W. W. Burnham was elected president and Harry M. Bigelow of Portland secretary and treasurer.

Hunting a Safe Ground.

Elmira, Sept. 23.—The Corbett-McCoy fight may be pulled off here. W. C. Gray, McCoy's manager, is negotiating with the Maple Avenue Athletic club with a view to having the fight take place on the club grounds. Officials of the local club say there will be no interference by the authorities.

The Cricketers.

New York, Sept. 23.—The international cricket match between Captain Warner's English players and the New York eleven terminated in a hollow victory for the visitors by an inning and 247 runs. The bowling and fielding of the Britishers Thursday was almost perfect, but the New York players went to the bat with more confidence, with the result that they nearly trebled their score of Wednesday.

Murder of a Wife Prevented.

Providence, Sept. 23.—After attempting to kill his wife yesterday afternoon, Arthur M. De Karmerec of this city was wounded while resisting arrest by a bullet from his own revolver. De Karmerec, who is about 50 years of age, attacked his wife in her room on the fourth floor of a building, and the woman sought to get away by the fire-escape. Her husband's efforts to drag her back into a room were seen and interrupted by Policeman A. P. Martin.

When Martin entered the room, De Karmerec attempted to use the revolver, and the policeman seized his hand, twisting it so that one bullet went wild and the other lodged in De Karmerec's wrist. He struggled desperately despite his wound, but finally was overpowered and taken to the station. Mrs. De Karmerec had recently begun divorce proceedings, which, it is thought, prompted her husband's attack.

Tax on Patent Medicines.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Retail druggists of this city have issued calls to the retail drug trade all over the country for the organization of a national association to cast off the burden of the war tax imposed upon retailers by the manufacturers. Oct. 17 the National Wholesale Druggists' association and the National Proprietary association will meet in St. Louis in annual convention. The call from the retail druggists asks each state and city organization of retail druggists to send delegates to St. Louis upon the same date to create an association and to meet the manufacturers of patent and proprietary medicines. Retailers claim that they cannot shift the burden of the stamp tax upon the consumer as required by the manufacturers because of the prevalence of cut prices and indiscriminate sales.

Has a Bad Record.

Boston, Sept. 23.—Daniel O. Taylor, a young swindler who fell into the hands of the police through the shrewdness of an errand boy, is "bigger game" than was at first supposed. He has served a term in the house of correction, has swindled a score of small firms by a money changing trick, and he has been wanted nearly a year to stand responsible for about three-score swindles by means of forged orders.

Taylor is 28 years old, and came to Boston from Auburn, Vt. His only excuse for committing the crimes charged against him is that he could not get work and wanted to make as easy a living as possible.

Mr. Griggs Presided.

Trenton, Sept. 23.—The Republican state convention nominated Foster M. Voorhees for governor. He is at present a senator from Union county, and in his capacity as president of the senate has been acting as governor since Governor Griggs was chosen attorney general. The session of the convention lasted about two hours, and the gathering was the most harmonious ever gotten together in New Jersey. Attorney General Griggs presided, and his speech, mainly devoted to national affairs, was the feature of the convention.

Mr. Voorhees was nominated by acclamation, and as the governor is the only state officer elected by the people the work of the convention was soon performed. The platform adopted is devoted mainly to state issues. A paragraph expressing faith in the ability of the Republican notional administration to deal with incompetency in the army was stricken out.

Substitutes For Checks Held to Be Taxable For Revenue Purposes.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The commissioner of internal revenue has rendered a decision in which he says that a depositor's receipt in the following words is subject to a stamp tax as a bank check: "Received of the La Grange Banking and Trust company $1, to be deducted from my deposit. (Signed) John Smith, Jr."

In his decision, the commissioner says: "The war revenue act imposes a tax upon bank checks, drafts, certificates of deposits and orders for the payment of any sum of money, and thereby intends to include all legitimate ways in which money can be withdrawn from a commercial bank. The use of a receipt, while not in terms forbidden, is presumptively so, and any attempt to use a receipt in lieu of a check is a manifest attempt to evade the tax which can only be prevented by taxing the receipt as a check. A receipt is not a negotiable instrument, and any attempt to treat it as such would result in difficulties to both the bank and the depositors."

The commissioner has issued a special notice to correspondents of the internal revenue office in which he explains that the delay in answering letters is wholly occasioned by the passage of the war revenue act, "which," he says, "touched the business interests of the country at so many points that this office was literally overwhelmed after its passage by correspondence from every section of the United States.

Want Barriers Maintained.

Quebec, Sept. 23.—The people of the United States evidently are beginning to awaken to the great importance of the results which may come from the work of the international high commission in session here The Canadian representatives are urging that a treaty embodying commercial reciprocity be made, and such a treaty would seriously affect nearly all the great industries of the United States. These industries are being heard from in an emphatic way. The American commissioners have been besieged by deputations of Americans, praying and demanding that an iron-clad treaty be not entered into, which would disturb, if not in many cases destroy, the tariff laws. Yesterday the farmers put in their protest, being represented by Aaron Jones of Indiana, worthy master of the national grange, and N. J. Bachelder of New Hampshire, chairman of the national executive committee.

Following Mr. Jones came another protest from Albert Clarke of the Home Market club of Boston. He said the organization he spoke for had upwards of 2000 members, mostly manufacturers, and represented a total of capital interested of $700,000,000. He opposed commercial reciprocity. Between two countries having the same products for exchange, reciprocity was never successful. If Canada and the United States each had something the other did not have it would be a different proposition.

Congressman Tawney of Minnesota presented a memorial signed by 250 of the principal lumber firms in 21 states, protesting earnestly against the reduction of the duty on Canadian lumber.

The Bridgeport Tragedy.

Bridgeport, Sept. 23.—For the second time the remains of the woman who was found dismembered in Yellow millpond have been claimed. After the inquest yesterday afternoon, at which the father of the murdered girl and three brothers appeared, also Dr. G. C. Eighme, a dentist, with a chart prepared by the Hartford dentist who had filled Miss Gill's teeth, Coroner Doten felt convinced that the identity was thoroughly established and gave a permit to exhume the portion of the body now buried in potter's field, and with the head now at the morgue he turned it over to the parent.

Should the Middleboro incident be repeated and Miss Gill return home alive and well, then further efforts at identification would be futile, as the head was so badly cut up in the efforts to compare the teeth filing with that of the chart that all the strong points of the features were destroyed. Not the slightest hope is entertained by any member of the Gill family that Emma will never again put in an appearance alive.

Thursday the police arrested Harry Guilford, son of Dr. Nancy Guilford, as he was attempting to enter the residence of his mother. He was searched and then locked up. What suspicion or evidence the police have against young Guilford they refused to say. Superintendent Birmingham last night refused absolutely to say a word to any reporter concerning the case.

Will Keep His Old Position.

Toronto, Sept. 23.—F. P. Sargeant, grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, stated at the grand lodge convention that he would again be a candidate for the position of grand master, and that if elected he would resign from the position on the industrial commission to which he was appointed by President McKinley. The president had told him when making the appointment that his being on the commission need not interfere with his holding offices in the brotherhood, but Mr. Sargeant determined to forestall political objections by retaining only the one office. His present salary is $3500; as commissioner he would have received $3800. His announcement was received with tremendous applause, and his re-election by acclamation is a certainty.

Two Were Killed.

Albany, Sept. 23.—John Patterson, an octogenarian, and James Patterson, his nephew, were blown through a tool house and a wall by an explosion of dynamite at Glenmont, a few miles south of this city, yesterday and killed. They had gone into the house to prepare dynamite for a blast.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A, B, C, D and E. Today's instalment is the second of the F's as far as "Fe," inclusive, and will be continued tomorrow.

Public hearing.

Rev. M. H. Turk Ordained.

Rev. Morris Howland Turk, formerly pastor of the church at Quincy Point, and called in June to the First Congregational church in Wenham, was last night ordained. The statement of Christian experience and belief made by Mr. Turk greatly pleased the council. He received hearty congratulations for the very auspicious beginning of his ministry in the historic church which dates its organization in 1663. Mr. Turk has already won the affection of the people who speak very highly of his work. The services of ordination in the evening were very largely attended. The sermon was preached by the Rev. DeWitt S. Clark, D. D., of Salem. The address to the pastor was given by Rev. E. N. Hardy of Bethany church, this city.

Memorial Church.

Rev. Mr. Whitaker made for the subject of his last Sunday morning's discourse, the inquiry of Christ's disciples as to which of them should be "the greatest" and gave a most thoughtful and earnest application of Christ's answer to the every day lives of the people, aiming to inspire them with a desire for such greatness as accords with the highest and noblest development of man's nature patterned after that greatness which is manifested in Christ's life.

The evening was devoted to the Christian Endeavor service, the pastor being the leader. The subject was "The Triumph of Christianity." It was a very interesting meeting. There were present visiting delegates from the Neponset Christian Endeavor society.

The coming Sunday will be "Rally Sunday" in the Memorial Sunday School, when it is expected that all members of the Sunday School, and all others who intend to become members will be present in their several classes. There will be no regular lesson for the day but a special programme is prepared for the occasion. A cordial invitation is extended to all persons, adults and children, who are not connected with any Sabbath School to join the school at this time.

REPUBLICAN.

Some Contest for Congressman and Representatives.

There was a surprising lack of interest on the part of Republicans in making nominations of delegates for the coming caucuses. In some of the wards there is no contest whatever, only a single list for each convention being filed, and these unpledged.

In Ward One the only contest was for Congressional delegates, two lists being filed. Both are apparently unpledged and it is problematical how either stand. One may be for Paige, Barrows or Atwood, while the other may not be for either, but for a dark horse.

The Representative list is said to be solid for Eben W. Sheppard, the coal merchant, who will undoubtedly be one of the Republican candidates.

In Ward Three two lists of delegates were filed for the State, County, Councillor, Senatorial and Representative conventions one list of delegates for the District Attorney convention and three lists for the Congressional conventions, which means that there will be a hot fight in this ward. The lists filed or the Congressional convention are said to favor Barrows, Paige and Atwood respectively.

There will be a hot time at the Wollaston caucus. The fight will center over the Representative delegates, there being two tickets in the field, one for N. G. Nickerson and one for E. H. Sprague. Practically a house-to-house canvass has been made by the adherents of these two candidates. Not a stone has been left unturned, or an ear unfilled. The famous Wollaston cucuses in their palmiest days were as nothing compared to what this one will probably be. On the surface it will be undoubtedly a very tame affair, the talking will be done with the ballots. The Congressional delegates of Ward Five are probably for Barrows; the Senatorial for Newcomb; and the County for Field.

WARD ONE.

State—Russell A. Sears, Eben W. Sheppard, Delcevare King, William P. Barker.

Councillor—John F. Merrill, Charles H. Porter, George N. Nash, Charles F. Pettengill.

Congressional—Archibald F. McLeod, Edward L. Goodridge, Charles M. Jenness and Edward B. Brown.

Second list—Clarence Burgin, Henry H. Faxon, James F. Merrill, Theophilus King.

County—Henry H. Faxon, Clarence Burgin, Elias A. Perkins, William T. Isaac.

District Attorney—Thomas M. Butler, Arthur W. Stetson, Henry M. Faxon, Edward B. Souther.

Representative—John F. Merrill, Edward B. Brown, Charles M. Jenness, Andrew Olsen, Archibald F. McLeod, Frank F. Prescott, J. Percival Sears.

WARD TWO.

State—Thaddeus H. Newcomb, Arthur W. Newcomb, George A. Sidelinger.

Senatorial—Rollin H. Newcomb, Benjamin Johnson, Jr., Henry Glidden.

Congressional—Benjamin Johnson, Jr., Edgar F. Hayden, Rollin H. Newcomb. Also a list favorable to Milton C. Paige, viz: Hiram W. Phillips, Henry C. Rodgers, George Crane.

Representative—George Weston, Peter B. Meade, Maurice I. Gatcomb, Frank E. Burrell John S. Gay.

WARD FOUR.

—The Literary World says: What a pity it is that the music of The Star Spangled Banner cannot be marched to except by a company of cripples halting on one leg." The criticism is not good. The critic may possess the "musical ear" we hear so much about, but if he had the full complement of two ears he would find it a very excellent march, whether he step it with one cork leg, a pair of wooden stumps or his natural pins. But why must a national anthem be a "march." The tune of "America" is not.—The American.

ALBERT J. BOWERS

OPTICIAN

ADAMS BUILDING OVER POST OFFICE QUINCY MASS.

AT CAMP MEADE.

Two Interesting Letters—Some One Tampering with Mail.

In Camp Meade, Sept. 21, 1898.
Co. K, Fifth Mass.

Chilly again last night.

Boys are well, none responding to sick call.

Private McLaughlin, who wrote newsy letters to the Ledger from Camp Dalton, is the only man under the weather, and will be sent home on 30 days' furlough.

The boys are having a good opportunity to visit the several towns around the camp, every one receiving a pass after performing his tour of guard duty. The passes read for 24 hours.

Through the perserverance of several of the senior non-commissioned officers a set of resolutions have been drawn on the death of one of our former members in the old militia company, Private John Nelson.

We are pleased to say that Quartermaster Sergt. Crane has not been reduced in weigh yet. He makes a good showing for his position.

The usual drills take place every morning and afternoon, Sergt. Colbert is the instructor this week, and makes quite a good drill master. With the aid of our genial Sergt. McGrath, the drills go on smoothly.

The corporal for guard duty today from this company is Corporal Whiting.

The committee of Co. K, Sergt. Maurice A. Colbert, Sergt. John R. McGrath and Corp. Henry J. Matthews, have drawn up the following resolutions on the death of a past comrade, Private John Nelson, which the company has adopted:

WHEREAS,—The Great Ruler of the Universe has in His infinite wisdom removed suddenly from our midst our late worthy comrade, Private John Nelson, and

WHEREAS,—In view of the loss sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to him; therefore be it

Resolved,—That it is but a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say, that in regreting his removal from our midst, through a long acquaintance to many of this company, we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regard.

Resolved,—That we sincerely condole with the family of the deceased on the dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them, and we commend them for consolation to Him who orders all things for the best, and whose chastisements are meant in mercy.

Resolved,—That this heartfelt testimony of our sympathy and sorrow be forwarded to the family of our departed comrade, and a copy of the same be published in the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER and Advertiser.

In Camp Meade, Sept. 22, 1898.

Wednesday night was very cool. The boys are feeling the chilly weather very much.

The morning drill, which we call setting-up exercises, will be omitted and the new bayonet exercises will take its place, beginning the first of next week.

Pipes are being laid in our Camp to carry water to the end of each company street. It will be a better accommodation than at Camp Dalton, Mass., when finished.

The drinking water is taken from artesian wells, and is very clean white lime water but for all this, the water must be filtered for drinking by order of the surgeon.

The drills yesterday afternoon consisted of battalion movements under the supervision of the 1st Sergeant of each company; 1st Sergeant Colbert acted as major.

The different officers of the companies looked on, and gave commands to the different sergeants, the 1st sergeant of each company taking command in turn. It makes the men more proficient in drilling troops.

There seems to be a deal of comment in camp at present, about letters not reaching their destination. Some of the boys friends are wondering why they do not write. A friend of one of the boys received a letter which should have had a souvenir in it but somehow there was a hole in the end of letter, and the souvenir had taken its leave, no one knows where.

Private Berry continues to hold his office, as cook over to the officer's mess; he must be quite a cook by this time, and will be able when he reaches home to make a good mock turtle soup once in a while.

When the company gets back to Quincy, we will be able to hire Chief Cook Delano. He is a first rate hand in making hashes, beef stews, etc., for our annual dinners.

Artificer Seavens has learned his trade in good shape. If he did not finish his apprenticeship while at home, he has certainly finished it here, being kept to work every day in building floors for tents. He is making tables for mess.

Private Morrissey, late of Quincy police force, makes a good man for guard duty; he is a man who does not shirk his duty, and sees that no one crosses his post after taps. He brings every one to a halt. We are proud of such a comrade.

We still hear Wagoner Livendale's melodious voice, still calling "Whoa, back up." He will make a capital mule driver when he receives his handsome four-in-hand.

VOLUNTEER.

Work on the street railway is being rushed rapidly along, but it is doubtful if cars are running for two months yet.

Frank B. Murray, an employe of the street department, received a bad cut in the skull this week by a piece of flying rock.

He with a fellow workman were at work breaking a rock; his companion struck the rock with a heavy hammer, and as he did so a piece flew, striking Murray in the head.

The Rev. Charles E. Hutchinson of Calvary church, New York city, will preach in the "Mission of Our Saviour," Ellsworth hall, on Sunday evening at 7.30.

WEYMOUTH.

The funeral services of the late John Carroll of East Weymouth were held from the Church of Immaculate Conception, at East Weymouth, Thursday, at 10 o'clock. The funeral procession was escorted by the Div. 9, A. O. H., and Reynolds Post, 58, G. A. R, the deceased being a member of each organization. A large number of personal and business friends were present to pay there last respects to the honored dead. Mr. Carroll has long been a prominent shoe manufacturer in Weymouth. Interment was at St. Frances Xavier Cemetery.

The Ladies' Social Circle of the M. E. church, East Weymouth, held their first supper of the winter season in the church vestry, Wednesday night.

The East Weymouth Lodge of Odd Fellows was well represented in the parade at Boston, Wednesday.

Miss Byfield has returned to her home at Chelmesford, after visiting Miss Lura Oldham at North Weymouth.

A teachers' meeting was held at the Bicknell School, East Weymouth, Tuesday afternoon for Grades I, II and III.

Chamberlain at a Reception.

Danvers, Mass., Sept. 23.—The Danvers Historical society gave an informal reception to Joseph Chamberlain and wife and other guests Thursday afternoon. In replying to Dr. Putnam's welcome, Mr. Chamberlain said in part: "Your president has spoken of a federation of the world. I am not as sanguine as he, but I do desire to see a federation of the Anglo-Saxon race. It is coming nearer and nearer. There was a time when such a thing would be considered a dream. We are bound by common ties, but we are continually misunderstanding each other. I once expressed a hope that some new Columbus would start from America and discover England. He would find that for the past 30 years a much better feeling toward this country has existed among the great majority of the people of England than has generally been believed to exist; but when he came back he would find the people incredulous. The press, statesmen and others have—I will not say maliciously, but by persistent misunderstanding—kept us apart. Recent events have changed all that, and we are feeling better than ever toward each other."

Parisian Temper at Fever Heat.

Paris, Sept. 23.—The Times declares that as the cabinet had refused to sanction General Zurlinden's proposal to prosecute Colonel Picquart, Zurlinden waited until he had resumed the military governorship of Paris, when he acted upon his own authority.

A majority of the papers denounce this military coup with varying degrees of severity. Mr. Clemenceau charges Mr. Brisson with cowardice or imbecility, and couples President Faure's name with that of Zurlinden in the alleged plot to suppress the truth and defeat justice. Mr. Clemenceau credits the ex-war minister with the remark: "If General Mercier had not been so soft-hearted he would have had Dreyfus murdered."

Another paper abuses Mr. Faure with the gravest virulence and accuses him of employing Erisson to make a coup d'etat. It points out that President Faure's military friends hold all the strong posts.

Picturesque Possibility.

What we may expect to see if the ladies keep on tipping their hats forward.—Fliegende Blatter.

Jack's Vegetables.

A vessel being ready for sailing the captain ordered a new hand to take a boat to shore and buy 10 shillings worth of vegetables. Not being certain of the meaning of the word, the man appealed to the first indivvidual he met. "I say, mate what might vegetables be?"

"Vegetables?" the stranger replied.

"Why, peas are vegetables for instance."

"That'll do," said Jack.

Having got his sack filled with peas, he pulled back to the ship, and when alongside the captain called out, "Have you got those vegetables?"

"Yes, sir."

"All right," said the captain. "Then hand them up one by one."

"By gad," said Jack, scratching his head, I have got a job now and no mistake."—London Telegraph.

How Francis Bacon Was Rid of Warts.

The takinge away of Warts, by Rubbinge them wth some what yt afterwards is put to wast, and consume, is a com'on exp'ment: And I doe appreheude it the rather because of mine owne exp'ience. I had from my Childhood a wart uppon one of my Fingers: Afterwardes when I was about 16 years old, being at Paris, there grew upon both my handes a number of Warts (at ye least 100) in a Moneths space. The English Embassadours Lady, who was a woman free from sup'stition, told me one day. She would helpe me away wth them.

Whereupon shee got a peice of Larde, wth ye Skin on, and rubbed ye Warts all over, wth ye fat side; and among ye rest yt Wart wch I had had from my Childhood: Then she nayled the Peice of Lard wth ye fat toward ye Sunne upon a Poast of her Chamber window wch was to ye south. The Successe was, that wthin five weekes space, all the Warts went quite away: And ye Wart wch I had soe longe endured for Company. But at ye rest I did little marvaile, because they came in a shorte time, and might goe away in a short time againe. But ye goinge away of yt wch had staid soe longe doth sticke wth me yet. They say ye like is done by rubbinge of Warts wth a greene Elder sticke, and then buryinge the sticke to rot in mucke.—Notes and Queries.

How Rats Multiply.

In this city rats are found in considerable numbers, the brown rats predominating on the ships and wharfs, the black rats in the stores and warehouses, and the Alexandrian rats being limited to the holds of the ships that come from southern ports. Weasels and ferrets are bred to keep down their numbers. The fecundity of the rats is so great that in a few years they would overwhelm a whole city if they were not kept down by artificial means. One pair will rear four or five families of 10 to 15 to each litter in one year, and in six months these young ones are ready to reproduce. Thus one couple in the course of three years could raise a population of several hundred thousand if not restrained by any destructive measures.—New York Sun.

Pickwick or an Oyster.

To my chief benefactors, whom it was also my high privilege to know as friends, Dickens, Thackeray and Leech, I have done homage on happy occasions, and I have a pleasant recollection of the smile and the sympathy of the author of "Pickwick" when I told him, in proof of my profound admiration, how in my schoolboy days, with an income of sixpence per week, I had saved half for the monthly numbers of his famous book, still in my possession, bound in two volumes, and in the most degraded form of the art.

The smile expanded as I proceeded to describe my wrestlings with temptation, the agony of conflict, when the siren sang, in the form of an oysterman who passed at intervals by the door of our schoolyard, and lured us not only by the cravings of appetite, but by the fascinations of gambling.

His mode of business was to receive a halfpenny from his customer, who cried "head" or "tail" (the tail was represented by Britannia in full uniform uncomfortably located on the edge of her shield) as the vendor threw it upward. The customer lost his coin if his conjecture was wrong. If right, he received an excellent oyster, with a copious supply of peppered vinegar from a huge stone bottle, with a slit in the cork.—S. Reynolds Hole in Literature.

His Mind Still Clear.

Mr. Pneer had been run into by a street car. He was taken to the nearest drug store, and a surgeon was hastily summoned.

"The thigh bone is dislocated," announced the surgeon after a brief examination.

"Here, you!" he continued, turning to a muscular bystander and grasping the sufferer firmly around the body. "Pull his leg!"

"What! Already?" groaned Mr. Pneer, opening his eyes and placing his hand on his pocketbook. — Chicago Tribune.

Brevity.

The late Duc de Sagan used to relate this story: "King Frederick William III was very sparing of words, as is well known, but one day he was told there was at Toplitz, where he was then drinking the waters, a Hungarian magnate still less talkative than the king. An opportunity for a meeting was soon managed, and the following conversation took place, the king beginning: 'Bathing?' 'Drinking.' 'Soldier?' 'Millionaire.' 'Good.' 'Policeman?' 'King.' 'Compliments.'"

OUR ORIGINAL POLICY.

Any Departure From It Now Would Be Criminal.

President of Cornell So Tells His Students.

Not In Accordance With Principle to Annex Spanish Territory.

Ithaca, Sept. 23.—President Schurman, in the course of his annual address to the students of Cornell university, touched upon the issue brought up by the recent war with Spain relative to the disposal of acquired territory, including the Philippines. He said: "Now that war is over there seems to be a willingness on the part of some to depart from our original policy. At the beginning of the conflict our president and our congress in declaring war made a solemn declaration as to the motives and principles on which it was to be waged. We interfered, we declared, in Cuba for the sake of humanity, and disclaimed any intention of forcible annexation or control over the island. It is not in accordance then with the principles to annex any territory which formally belonged to Spain.

PRESIDENT SCHURMAN.

"We hear it advocated that the Philippines belong to us by right of conquest; but the idea that we have conquered them is a mistaken one. We have taken Manila, but there yet remain some 15,000 insurgents under the control of a fierce and desperate leader. To claim the islands by right of conquest it would be necessary first to conquer them. We are therefore under no obligation to its people. To keep this force in subjection it would be necessary also to maintain a large army in the Philippines. It would be another burden on our hands, and an expensive one. We ought not to sacrifice youthful lives when there is no obligation to humanity and civilization involved.

"Monarchy may expand by acquisition of territory, but democracy, which is government by the people and for the people, cannot afford to accept as its citizens people who are not capable of self-government. The nation, like a person, must be honest and keep its promises. When Cuba is pacified, then we must leave its government to its people. If they fail in their efforts to establish a stable form of government, which shall secure safety of life and property, then we must again interfere; but if they succeed, in my opinion not only Cuba, but also Porto Rico, will soon be tapping at our doors for admission to the Union. If we annex the islands I hold that we would be committing criminal aggression."

Inspecting the Camps.

Chattanooga, Sept. 23.—Secretary Alger and party were entertained at a dinner last evening by prominent citizens. General Alger stated that he was firmly convinced of the original healthfulness of Chickamauga park, but that it had been rendered temporarily unhealthy by the long occupation of the army. He intimated that the soldiers now in camp in this latitude will be moved farther south on the approach of colder weather.

Colonel Lee replied to and denied the charges made by Generals Wiley, Sanger and Colonel Leonard, and others against the quartermaster's department.

Surgeon General Sternberg declared that naturally Chickamauga park was absolutely healthy and the water pure. The sickness at Camp Thomas was traceable directly to the failure of commanding and regimental officers to observe the sanitary regulations issued by the medical bureau.

Before leaving Chattanooga, Secretary Alger said: "The press has been disposed to exaggerate the condition of some of the camps, and things have been charged against the war department which were untrue and unwarranted. I want all the facts to come out.

"There may have been incompetent officers, generals and colonels in charge of some of the camps, and if such is found to be the case, they will be held strictly accountable for their misdeeds. If there are any commanding officers who are now incompetent or who fail to put their camps in first-class condition, and keep them that way, I propose they shall be replaced by men who are competent, and who will see that perfect sanitary conditions are established and maintained."

Emissaries of Aguinaldo.

San Francisco, Sept. 23.—Among the passengers on the China, which arrived yesterday, were Philip Agoncillo and Joseph Lopez, who are going to Washington as representatives of Aguinaldo. Agoncillo did not come direct from Manila, but started from Hong Kong, where he had been for sometime. He declines to make public what Aguinaldo wants or expects, but states that the insurgents generally look for ultimate independence. After a short stay at Washington, the two men will proceed to Paris to attend the meeting of the peace commission.

Other passengers on the ship were Brigadier General Greene and staff and Murat Halstead. General Greene said that he was not recalled for any reason that he knew of. With reference to the report that it was owing to his action in conducting an illegal court-martial at sea he stated that the cases were tried according to General Otis' orders, and the findings of the court were reversed by the Washington authorities. Speaking of the situation at Manila, General Greene expressed the opinion that there would be no trouble with Aguinaldo. The health conditions at Manila are improving, but it is extremely difficult to prevent disease from spreading among the American soldiers, as the Spaniards had occupied the buildings and left the germs of disease behind them.

Cervera In Madrid.

Madrid, Sept. 23.—The marked coolness of Admiral Cervera and his officers towards the minister of marine is much commented upon here. Mr. Aunon and his staff, in uniform, met the admiral and his party at the railroad depot. The admiral halted before the minister, saluted and said stiffly: "I am at the orders of your excellency. I shall present myself at the ministry today as is my duty."

The admiral then started to leave, after embracing Captain Eulate, the former commander of the Vizcaya, and his other comrades. The minister of marine offered the use of his carriage to Admiral Cervera, but the latter declined to accept it, and entered another carriage.

Miles' Plan of Reorganizing Volunteers.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Major General Miles has completed his plan for the reorganization of the volunteer forces into corps, divisions and brigades. This plan has been submitted to the war department for approval. The plan contemplates a reorganization of the volunteer force which has not been ordered mustered out, designates an army of occupation for Cuba, provides for the relief of the army in Porto Rico and establishes a reserve to relieve the troops in the various islands which will be occupied by the United States.

It is known that the troops of the Seventh corps, under General Lee, will be designated to go to Cuba, and that troops from the camps at Lexington, Knoxville and Middletown will be selected for Cuban duty. It is understood that General Miles deals only with organizations such as corps, divisions, brigades and regiments. The matter of commanding and staff officers will be settled after the mustering out of general and staff officers has been determined.

Queen of Cuba Returned.

Havana, Sept. 23.—Among the passengers who arrived from Key West was the widow of Dr. Hernandez. She was known as the queen of Cuba, and figured prominently in the insurrection, enlisting in General Maceo's command, in which her husband was a staff surgeon. Her husband was killed in the war, and she was taken a prisoner by the Spaniards near Sancti Spiritus and deported. She returns to the island with the intention of actively resuming work in the cause of the freedom of Cuba.

Reports from all points of the island, besides confirming the statements regarding the want and destitution existing among Cuban soldiers, say that dysentery and malaria are decimating their forces. Official returns as to the mortality in the Santa Clara province during July show 296 deaths, of which 115 resulted from small-pox.

They Protest Too Much.

Madrid, Sept. 23.—The ministerial newspapers protest against the idea that the United States will keep the Philippine islands. They maintain that Spain's rights to these islands are incontestible, and that she is "resolved to defend her rights with the greatest energy." The government papers also contend that the terms of the peace protocol confirm Spain's right to the island of Luzon and the rest of the Philippine islands, and they declare that if the United States bases its claim on humanity and civilization, Spain will prove that there is no higher civilization in any of the Asiatic colonies than in the Spanish colonies in Asia.

The rumor that the Rothschilds are to lend Spain a large sum of money when the treaty of peace shall have been signed is denied here. Officials of the Spanish government claim that the Bank of Spain is able to supply the immediate demands of the government.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 23.—H. Gardner Chase, broker, has filed a voluntary petition in insolvency. His liabilities amount to $45,000, of which $15,000 are secured. He has comparatively no assets.

The recruiting officers report that there are about 75 soldiers here who are absent from their regiments without leave, and that unless they return at once they will be reported as deserters. Most of them are men who have been in the regiments stationd at Montauk. Instead of getting furloughs to return to their homes, they took "french leave" and got out of the camp by evading the guard.

The following nominations have been made by the governor: Leonard A. Jones of Boston, judge of the new court of registration under the Torrens land transfer act of 1898; Charles T. Davis, Worcester, assistant judge of the court, and Clarence C. Smith, Everett, recorder.

One of the interesting ceremonies of the Odd Fellows yesterday was the bestowal of the decoration of chivalry on 11 members, including General Q. A. Scott of Woodville, N. H., Grand Representative Corkhill of Pittsfield, Mass., Thomas E. Wilton and Captain William F. Gay of Boston, Captain W. H. Meade of Beverly, Major J. F. Tattersoll of Lynn and Lieutenant Colonel O. H. Henderson, department commander of Vermont.

Margaret McDougal, 81 years old, while attempting to cross a street last evening, was knocked down by an electric car. She was removed to a drugstore, where she died a few minutes later. She was deaf and did not hear the gong.

The annual banquet of the Past National Officers' association of the G. A. R. took place last night. Col. Emery P. Clarke of the Second Massachusetts regiment was the special guest, and, after the cigars, related his experiences in the Santiago campaign.

POLANDERS' THREATS

Likely to Cause Trouble In a Brockton Suburb.

Angry With the Lasters Who Continue to Work.

Developments Expected From a Conference of Labor Unions.

Brockton, Sept. 23.—Several of the factories are picketed, but no trouble is anticipated except in Montello, where the Poles are in an ugly mood. They threaten both the firms and the men at work, and as they gather in large numbers, trouble is anticipated. Police protection is said to have been secured for the opening and closing hours.

T. D. Barry has an instructor at his factory, and it is understood that several pupils in lasting have been secured, but work has not commenced. There are now about 20 shops running all right, having made settlements, and of the remaining 25, over half are making some progress. The situation is not half as bad as some people have tried to picture it, and no calamity is anticipated. The shops working do not employ quite as many men, taken as a body, as those affected, but there are enough men working in these to bring the number of workers above those on strike. It is estimated that there are 700 men out on strike, and 150 to 200 in other departments are forced into idleness on account of the strike.

Another statement by the secretary has had a healing effect in contrast with that caused by his first action, and it brings his case much more clearly to the eyes of those who were so bitter against him at first. The feeling that he has been bought, as some claimed at the start, is dying out, and those who do not agree with him call it a case of misjudgment. They assert that he was a little premature and made the settlement come harder than it otherwise would have been. The manufacturers and many men in other trades call it a very sensible statement, and are eager to have it acted upon.

It is understood that the grocers are soon to take a stand and demand cash, but most of the stores have been running on that basis anyway. The saloons are doing a rushing business. The meeting tonight may produce some moves that will interest the entire community. The lasters will hold a special meeting, and the election of a new secretary is known to be the primary object. A joint conference of the cutters', finishers' and lasters' executive committees is causing much talk, but its object cannot be learned.

Will Employ Extreme Measures.

Haverhill, Mass., Sept. 23.—Everything was quiet last night, in marked contrast to the scene of several nights previous. At a conference between Mayor Chace, City Marshal Worcester and representatives of the railway company it was decided to employ extreme measures if necessary to preserve order. All of the special police officers were summoned for duty, and 12 of them, with the 24 regulars, were stationed at White's corner and vicinity. The orders were to keep everybody moving, and they were carried out to the letter, with the result that there was no disturbance even to the extent of hissing, and by 10 o'clock the streets were deserted. Trouble was expected in other parts of the city, but the only event was the storm of vegetables which a Willsdale avenue car experienced.

PECULIAR POISONS.

GENERATED IN THE HUMAN BODY.

The Result of Imperfect Digestion of Food.

Every living thing, plant or animal contains within itself the germs of certain decay and death.

In the human body these germs of disease and death (called by scientists Ptomanies,) are usually the result of imperfect digestion of food; the result of indigestion or dyspepsia.

The somach, from abuse, weakness, does not promptly and thoroughly digest the food. The result is a heavy, sodden mass which ferments (the first process of decay) poisoning the blood, making it thin, weak, and lacking in red corpuscles; poisoning the brain causing headaches and pain in the eyes.

Bad digestion iritates the heart, causing palpitation and finally bringing on disease of this very important organ.

Poor digestion poisons the kidneys, causing Bright's disease and diabetes.

And this is so because every organ, every nerve depends upon the stomach alone for nourishment and renewal and weak digestion shows itself not only in loss of appetite and flesh, but weak nerves and muddy complexion.

The great English scientist, Huxley, said the best start in life is a sound stomach. Weak stomachs fail to digest food properly, because they lack the proper quantity of digestive acids (lactic and hydrochloric) and peptogenic products; the most sensible remedy in all cases of indigestion is to to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia tablets, because they supply in a pleasant, harmless form all the elements that weak stomachs lack.

The regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure every form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

They increase flesh, insure pure blood, strong nerves, a bright eye and clear complexion, because all these result only from wholesome food well digested.

Nearly all druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents full sized package or by by mail by enclosing price to Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., but ask your druggist first.

A little book on stomach diseases mailed free. Address Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. Sep. 19-21-23.

The Decay of the Dandy.

Brummel went to prison for debt, but came out again to resume his fopperies. His friends made him a small allowance of £120 per annum—equal at Caen to £300—but he could not be expected to live on such a pittance. When he had not 4 francs in the world, he would order boot polish at 5 francs a bottle from Paris and call the tradesman who supplied it "a scoundrel" for venturing to ask for his money. In the end his intellect gave way. He lost his memory and much of his little mind.

He grew slovenly and careless, yet to the last clung to his eau de cologne and some other luxuries. Finally, his mind all gone, he was removed to a charity hospital, being now reduced to the utmost impoverishment and content to change his linen once a month, instead of three times a day, as of old. Here he died, under the care of sisters of charity, on March 30, 1840. Thus ended the striking career of perhaps the most worthless fop whom history records, his death being a fitting termination to his useless life.—Lippincott's.

Melba's First Appearance.

Mme. Melba recently gave an interesting account of her first public appearance. "I was quite a young girl in Australia," she said, "when, notwithstanding the persistent discouragement of my father, who was averse to the idea of a singer's career for me, I engaged a hall and sent round a notice to all my friends. Unfortunately somebody mentioned the little scheme to my father, and he, furious at my clandestine enterprise, begged every one of his acquaintances to uphold his parental authority by ignoring the performance. But I wasn't disheartened, and at the hour announced for the commencement of my concert stepped on to the platform—to find myself face to face with an audience of two. And nobody else came."

A Hard Pie.

That German was a delight, her cookery was often vile, but she was amusing. Her first efforts at pastry making were lamentable. "Margarete, what was the matter with the apple tart? The crust was like a stone." "Oh, madame, I voorked so harrd. I said to myself, 'Now ze harrder I voork ze better it will be,' so I rolled and I rolled, and I used all my strengzt, and now it is von stone."

One morning Margarete bounces into my room and bursts out in an injured voice, "Madame, does our coachman belong to my towel?" At last I discover that she refers to the round towel in the scullery, on which the offender had wiped his hands in passing.—Cornhill Magazine.

Angelic Acid.

Apropos of acids, there is an angelic acid, obtained from that most graceful of our umbelliferous plants, cultivated in England in the sixteenth century as a pot herb and still used as a candied sweetmeat. From this "herb angelick," or "root of the Holy Ghost," whose fragrance was reputed good against poison and pestilence, was also distilled a perfume, charmingly named angel water, affected by the beauties of the seventeenth century. "I met," says Sedley, "the prettiest creature in New Springgarden. Angel water was the worst scent about her."—Cornhill Magazine.

AT CAMP MEADE.

Co. K, Fifth Massachusetts,
In Camp George G. Meade,
Middletown, Penn., Sept. 22.

Warmer today.

The usual inspection this morning at 8 o'clock under the supervision of Captain Sykes of Co. I, Attleboro.

Platoon drills at 9.30 under direction of the non-commissioned officers.

The first to take charge of the first platoon was 1st Sergt. Colbert, then Sergt. McGrath, Corporal Leslie, Corporal Matthews, Corporal Adams, Corporal Gannon, and Corporal Foster. The movements were executed in fine shape.

This is a good thing giving each non-commissioned the privilege at drilling the whole company, being the first time they have had the opportunity. When they arrive home again the non-commissioned will be able to drill any company.

This afternoon the drilling was postponed on account of rain, we are none too sorry it rains because it will lay the dust, which has been something terrible.

Through some mistake the guard details were issued wrong, so that Lieut. Whitney was placed on guard this morning leaving the company with only Lieut. Spear.

The guard details for tomorrow for the company will be Corporal Gannon and Bugler Piper.

Another orderly was selected from the guard this morning, much to the credit of Co. K. It is an honor to be chosen as orderly—being selected as the cleanest and neatest man in the ranks. The selection was Private Gunderson of Quincy. We hope he may always do honor to Co. K.

Private Gunderson is one of Corporal Mathews squad.

Sergt. Mohan has returned from a visit to Baltimore. He claims it is a very pretty place.

Corporal Leslie leaves today on a 24 hours' pass. The boys are having a good time in seeing the sights, five passes being issued every day.

There has been considerable talk about furloughs, we cannot find any truth in the matter. The boys are all well. We are glad of it and hope they will continue so until we arrive home.

Tomorrow, Friday, the boys will have to prepare for our weekly inspection which takes place on Saturday.

VOLUNTEER.

Runaway Return to Camp.

A dispatch of Friday to the Globe says, The event in camp today was the arrival of the runaways of Co. G, who made such a stir in New York city. Holliday, Gersey, McAdams and Billingsley came into camp this forenoon. They are a sorry crowd, but will get off fairly well by returning within 10 days, for that will save them from the charge of desertion. Corp. Quinn cannot return until his ten days are up in the house of correction at Cambridge.

The command is in fine health, showing a great contrast to many other regiments here.

Not only does the north welcome the south, but the south the north, for this evening Col. Whitney and all staff and line officers, accompanied by the band, were the guests of the 2d Tennessee officers.

A new order goes into effect tomorrow, causing a vigorous remonstrance from some of the officers as well as the cooks. The order is breakfast at 6 A. M. instead of 6.30, guard mount at 10 instead of 8 A. M. and parade at 4.30 P. M. This makes it harder for the cook and also for the officers. But the officer of the day can get to bed earlier after being on duty for 24 hours, if the guard mount comes at 8 instead of 10 o'clock.

A detail of 85 men from the 5th Massachusetts has been made up every other day for brigade service. It should not occur oftener than once in three days. Evidently the regiment is considered as fresh fish by some, but the colonel knows the ropes too well to have his men caught like this too many times. His protest will have a most helpful effect in remedying the matter.

The regiment misses Lieut. Col. Weaver very much and all are anxious for his speedy return. His battalion especially wishes his return, and it's a great loss to the regiment to have such an efficient officer detailed for other duties.

—Forty cigarettes daily have killed a Brooklyn boy. So there are forty cigarettes plus one fool less in the world. Cigarette smoking has had some hard knocks of late—when one remembers the American boys who wanted to go to war, but were prevented by tobacco heart, and the fact that the late Spanish navy was largely addicted to the habit of smoking these combinations of paper and tobacco.—Boston Home Journal.

THE NEW PASTOR.

A Prominent Divine, Soldier, Grand Army and Newspaper Man.

We extend to Rev. Edward Anderson, the new pastor of the Washington Street Congregational church, a fraternal greeting as he was formerly a newspaper man, and congratulate the society upon securing so able and agreeable a pastor. Rev. Edward Anderson was born in Boston, Nov. 19, 1835, and is a son of Rev. Rufus Anderson, D. D., L.L. D., foreign secretary of A. B. C. F. M. He was in Kansas throughout the Kansas war, with John Brown and Gov. Robinson.

Mr. Anderson was licensed to preach at Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 7, 1858, and ordained the following October as pastor of Congregational church at St. Joseph, Mich. Called to Calvary Presbyterian church Chicago, Sept. 1, 1860.

Entered the army as chaplain 37th Ill. Vols. Sept. 18, 1861, and served till after the battle of Pea Ridge, Mo. While recovering from wounds commanded the Northern Military District of Indiana and raised two regiments of infantry and one of cavalry, of which later regiment became colonel, and soon after commanded the 2d Brigade, 7th Division Cavalry Corps, Department Mississippi. Was in Departments Cumberland, Tennessee and Gulf and when mustered out was commanding the sub-district of Grenada, Miss.

He has been pastor of prominent churches, among them Jamestown, N. Y.; Quincy, Illinois; Westminister of Toledo, Ohio; High Street of Columbus, Ohio; and Norwalk and Danielson, Conn.

Has always been active in Grand Army circles, and was first commander of Joshua M. Wills Post of Columbus, Ohio. Was elected Chaplain-in-chief of the Grand Army of the United States at the 21st National Encampment at St. Louis, Mo., in 1887. Was chaplain of military order of the Loyal Legion both in Ohio, while living in that state and in New York, while living at Norwalk, Conn.

Though active for many years in Grand Army and Masonic circles, has now practically retired from them all, and given himself to helping on churches that need such help.

Rev. Mr. Anderson is making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth, who occupies a sightly new residence on Cranch hill.

When Hungry In China.

There was a painful lack of variety in our food. Men dying of thirst spend their last hour in thinking of iced champagne, sherry cobblers, cocktails and drafts of beer, whiskies and sodas, dead horses' heads or whatever their particular beverage may be. We gastronomically fooled ourselves to the top of our bent. "I think," one would say, "when we get to the Hotel de Paris tonight we'll have a nice little French dinner of six courses, with coffee and green chartreuse to wind up with." "Well," another would remark, "I should be content with some soup, a little fish, a slice of beef and some tart." "Chops and tomato sauce for me," murmured a third, oblivious of the fact that befell Mr. Pickwick, who had a similar desire.

Then we would reach a slimy, begrimed village, creep into a smelling hut and make our dinner of pork and rice, or rice and pork when we desired to vary the menu. But one night, at a spot called Taiping-pu, when we called for the perennial pork we were informed we could not be supplied. "No pork," we exclaimed, "no pork in China! Why, Chinamen are three parts pork." Then we were told we were in a Mussulman village, where swine were an abomination, but we could have salt beef. We jumped joyfully at the salt beef, so called, though we knew perfectly well it was nothing else but stale, unprofitable, sinewy wild goat.—Travel.

A Day to the Cause.

Mrs. De Gadd—I heard the awfullest things about Mr. De Good today. They say he steals the church funds.

Mr. De G.—Nonsense.

"Oh, I've no doubt it's true. Mrs. Veragood, that horrid young widow, you know, seems to be infatuated with him, and I shouldn't wonder a bit if they'd pawn the communion service for a bridal outfit. By the way, Mrs. Finesoul has not been out of the house for a week, and people think her husband has been beating her, but that isn't a circumstance to the way they talk about Mrs. Highmind. I saw her on the street today, and she said she felt sick, but most likely she'd been on an opium debauch. She has her husband's collars and cuffs washed at a Chinese laundry, and she's been seen to go there for them herself. Oh, she's a terror! GARCIA IN SANTIAGO.

Honors For the General at the Hands of Americans.

Expressed His Gratitude For Cuba's Emancipation.

Tribute to the Men Who Died That the Republic Might Exist.

Santiago, Sept. 24.—To the residents of Santiago the most important day since the capitulation was the occasion of the first visit of General Calixto Garcia to Santiago since he left there in a bad temper, July 17. General Wood, with a portion of General Lawton's staff and several American officers, met General Garcia outside the limits of the city Thursday, and escorted him into town. Garcia was accompanied by his staff, his son, Colonel Calixto Garcia, many Cuban officers who have recently come to Santiago, and 200 Cuban cavalrymen. The streets through which the party passed were thronged with cheering people, and it was estimated that 10,000 persons filled the plaza in front of the palace, where Garcia dismounted.

He was met at the door by General Lawton, and an informal reception by the American officers was held in the audience room. At night another reception was tendered General Garcia at the San Carlos club, which was filled with prominent Cubans, American officers and ladies. The plaza was brilliantly lighted and decorated with flags, and music was furnished by the band of the Fifth infantry. The Americans wore dress uniforms, and General Garcia and his officers wore white uniforms and high boots. In reply to a speech of welcome by an editor, General Garcia said: "After 30 years of desperate, deadly struggle, the Cuban people today celebrate the success of their efforts. It is a day for the remembrance of the names and deeds of those heroes who fought and died for the freedom of Cuba from the year 1868 to 1878, and for the remembrance of the heroes who fought in the war of 1881, which was called the 'little war'—little only because of short duration, but great on account of the principles defended and for the quality of the men who composed the army, and for the remembrance of those noble soldiers who fell in the struggle begun in 1895, over whose graves our latest tears have fallen.

"People of Cuba, we owe a great debt to those heroes for their efforts in behalf of Cuban independence, efforts which would have been useless—no, not useless, for we would have triumphed, but not speedily effective, if the American people, that colossal republic, with its famous fighters, great ships and dauntless army, had not sent its own sons to shed their blood with ours. A grand nation it must be when the sons of millionaires, who had nothing to gain in Cuba but a soldier's glory, should come here to die side by side with Cubans. To this great nation—to this noble country which has always fought for the rights of liberty—we owe the achievement of our independence and the consummation of our ideals. Our gratitude will long live for America."

General Garcia's speech, which was delivered with considerable expression, aroused much enthusiasm among the Cubans present. He will remain in Santiago for several days as the guest of the Cubans of the city.

Poisoning of Aguinaldo.

Manila, Sept. 24.—A careful investigation of the attempt to poison Aguinaldo shows the cook is not dead as reported and that no priests are implicated, as alleged by the insurgents. Paterno, the president of the Philippine national assembly, exaggerated the facts in the case. Two of the Spanish were employed in Aguinaldo's household. One of these put a packet of oxalate of potash powder into the soup, but the cook detected it immediately, and nobody was injured. A packet was also found in the prisoner's pocket. There was no reason to believe he had any accomplice.

The Filipino government proposed to send a long dispatch to President McKinley, protesting against certain alleged Spanish misstatements as being calculated to "undermine the friendship between the Filipinos and the Americans," but instead simply sent a dispatch tendering to the American government and the American people, through President McKinley, an expression of "high esteem and unity of sentiment towards the champions and protectors of oppressed people and exponents of liberty and independence."

The Filipino national assembly decided to request the Americans, first, to recognize the independence of the islands; second, to establish a protectorate over their external affairs and to induce the powers to recognize their independence; third, to appoint a joint commission of Americans and Filipinos for the arrangement of details to "reciprocate the Americans' services."

Harassed by Fire and Flood.

St. John's, Sept. 24.—The British steamer, Athelaida, nine days from Philadelphia for Rotterdam, with a general cargo, arrived here in a badly damaged condition. Three days after her sailing the coal in the steamer's bunkers burst into flames, and the whole crew were set at work to extinguish the fire. On Monday a hurricane arose, and the seas broke over the ship, swept her deck, stove the top hatches, flooded the hold and carried away boats, davits, bulwarks and deck gear. Seven men were injured. During the next five hours the midship compartments showed 18 feet of water. The next sea carried away the steering gear. The firemen were waist deep in water in the stoke hole, trying to keep the fires going, but the steam pumps were powerless to reduce the water in the holds. During the night the sails were blown to pieces, and the next day the steamer was headed for St. John's, her poop deck being under water and her cabin flooded.

CHANGES IN CHINA.

Minister to Washington Tells How Much They Signify.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The Chinese minister talked freely yesterday concerning the edict relative to the assumption of power by the dowager empress. He said there was no secrecy about it, nothing to indicate that it was a triumph of one foreign element over another, and that its essential purpose was to strengthen China herself at a time when serious problems were presented. It was quite natural, he said, that the dowager should be called for dynastic reasons. The present dowager has survived three dynasties, beginning with that of Emperor Hsien Fung.

Concerning the report that the empress' return to power was a coup d'etat favorable to Russia, the minister said he did not consider the move favorable to one power as against another. Its effect, he stated, would be toward strict impartiality in China's treatment of Russia, Great Britain, Germany, France, the United States, Japan and the world at large. During the former regency of the empress she had shown marked friendship for the English, so that in the opinion of the minister it was unfair to presume she had English prejudices.

As to its effect upon Li Hung Chang the minister said the dowager empress had long admired the rugged ability of the old statesman, but he did not think this would result in the return of Li to the foreign office, from which post he was recently relieved, owing, it was understood, to foreign influences. It was probable, the minister believed, that Prince Li would continue in his nominal post as imperial secretary.

When asked if China had strength to resist dismemberment by foreign powers Wu Ting Fang said: "I am confident China will remain intact, and I am glad to note that your late minister to China, Mr. Denby, has the same opinion. China has the native resources, wealth and population to make her strong within herself. It should not be overlooked that some of the foreign influences, such as concessions for railways, etc., will benefit and develop China far more than they can benefit any foreign country. These concessions will tap the rich interior of China, give highways for the products now confined to the interior, and carry them to the outside markets."

The minister spoke with special satisfaction of a concession which he signed a short time ago, by which an American syndicate will build a railroad from Han Kow to Canton, a distance of 800 miles. It is understood that among those interested are the Rockefellers, Vanderbilts, Morgans, Brice and ex-Mayor Hugh Grant of New York.

Wiseman a Foolish Youth.

Haverhill, Sept. 24.—With the exception of a half hour, this city saw no demonstrations last night by sympathizers of the street railway men, such as was the rule earlier in the week. The break was when Thomas Wiseman, aged 19, threw a stone at a car, and broke a window. He was arrested by a special officer, but as the signal box would not work the officer was obliged to walk the prisoner to the police station. He was followed by a crowd which was augmented at every block. Wiseman tried to break from the officer, and even grappled with him, and in the miniature riot, participated in by the crowd, James Wiseman, a brother of the prisoner, was arrested for interference. The special officer was reinforced by this time, and all the officers, for the first time during the week, drew their clubs.

Some cars in the suburbs were reported stalled, but no one was hurt and little damage was done. A few torpedoes placed on the track completed the work of the hoodlum element during the night. Cars were run on full schedule time for the first time this week. The company will maintain its track patrol for a week longer and will ask that the extra police force be continued tonight.

Lumbermen's Strong Protest.

Quebec, Sept. 24.—The American lumbermen had another inning with the international conference commissioners yesterday. In addition to the 200 names of leading lumber firms of 21 states attached to the memorial which Congressman Tawney presented to the American commissioners upwards of 75 were received by telegraph, urging in the strongest possible terms that no reduction be made in the duty on Canadian lumber.

Mr. Hardy, the leader of the Liberal party in Ontario, and who represents the lumber interests of that province, frankly admitted that the American duty on lumber, being less than 20 percent, was a lower duty than the Canadian government imposed upon almost any product imported from the United States. What irritated the Canadians most was the attempt on the part of the American congress to indirectly dictate Canadian legislation on the lumber question by inserting in the Dingley law a provision that would automatically increase the duty on Canadian lumber to the extent of any export duty which Canada might see fit to impose upon sawed logs intended for export to the United States.

To Remove Columbus' Remains.

Havana, Sept. 24.—Captain General Blanco, in view of the government's decision to transfer the remains of Columbus to Spain, has issued the following order: "The monument containing the remains shall be removed from its mounting, leaving as it now is the base upon which it rests, and shall be properly packed for shipment. A commission, presided over by the captain general, and composed of the bishop of Havana, the colonial secretary of justice, the civil and military governors, the dean of the cathedral, the state architect and a doctor commissioned by the board of health, shall examine the niche containing the remains and adopt necessary measures for their prompt shipment to Spain. The commission will meet Sept. 25 at the cathedral. The finance department will appropriate $3000 to defray the expenses of packing and shipping the monument."

Tomorrow's Almanac and Forecast.

Sun rises--5:34; sets, 5:37.
Moon rises—12:17 a. m.
High water—6:30 a. m.; 7 p. m.

An area of low barometer is advancing east over the upper valleys. This will probably cause a continuation of unsettled weather in northern districts. There is, however, little indication of a storm, though local showers may occur in New England Sunday afternoon or night. Warm weather is now likely in this district Sunday; winds generally westerly.

DISASTER IN A MINE,

Eight of the Seventy Employed Overtaken by Death.

Gas and Fire Damp Caused a Double Explosion.

Anguish of Workmen's Families Until the Fatalities Were Known.

Brownsville, Pa., Sept. 24.—There was an explosion Friday in the Empire mine of Snowden, Gould & Co., by which 70 men were entombed. All were taken out alive but eight. The explosion is said to have been caused by the loosening of a large block of coal which opened a pocket of gas. Immediately following the explosion of gas there was a second explosion of firedamp. There were 70 men at work in the mine at the time of the disaster. Four men who were near the entrance managed to crawl out, and the others, with the exception of those caught by falling coal, escaped by traversing a mile and a half of underground passages, coming out at the entrance near Lynn station. This point is four miles from the opening of the mine on the Monongahela river.

Shortly after the report was circulated that an explosion had taken place and that many miners were entombed, the narrow thoroughfare leading to the mine was crowded with men, women and children. There were moans and sobs, with a general feeling of painful apprehension when the mine was reached. Willing hands at once went to work to rescue the entombed men. Just above the entrance to the mine there is an artificial plateau. From the edge of the plateau a good view of the track leading to the mine could be had. Here women stood wringing their hands in anguish and weeping. It was several hours later that the tinkle of the electric bell in the engine house announced that a train of coal cars was coming from within.

The scene of the disaster is more than a mile from the entry. It took about 15 minutes for the first load to reach the outside world. When the little train of cars emerged a shudder was visible in the crowd. First there came two cars loaded with coal; then three cars, in each of which there were two bodies. In one there were two brothers, side by side, John and Salem Haiston. In the others were Robert Davidson and John Bennett, William Pritchard and John Cartwright. James Hall was in the last car. Wagons were in waiting and the bodies were taken to undertaking establishments. When the bodies were brought up from the mine they presented a ghastly appearance.

After the first lot of bodies had been brought out, the excitement and anxiety grew more intense. During the entire afternoon there was a desperate wait. It was announced that many men had come out of the mine through an abandoned entry nearly three miles distant. This allayed the fears of many, and as fast as the men were accounted for to their friends and families, rejoicings and congratulations followed.

At 9 o'clock last night the last of the explorers came out and announced that there was nothing, living or dead, left behind in the mine, leaving the list of fatalities as given above.

Rather Too Sensational.

San Francisco, Sept. 24.—The Post published a sensational story Friday to the effect that Germany is planning to send numerous trading vessels to the Philippine islands and will arm 150,000 Filipinos, besides furnishing Krupp guns and artillery for field use. The islanders, The Post alleges, will be thoroughly drilled by German officers, and by February Aguinaldo will be prepared to make an onslaught on the American forces.

According to The Post German agents have made a report to their government that it will be impossible for the United States to land more than 50,000 men in the Philippines before Aguinaldo is ready to make his coup. According to the German correspondent from whom The Post's story comes, America's only hope of avoiding trouble with Aguinaldo is to disarm the insurgents.

Address by Gompers.

New York, Sept. 24.—Samuel Gompers made an address at yesterday's session of the convention of the Carpenters' and Joiners' union. Organization had brought about shorter hours of labor, increase of wages and a general better condition of the men. It was claimed by some that the American Federation of Labor was too radical in its views, but in his experience the union which accomplished the most was the most radical. The federation was the only labor movement that had shown continuous progress and growth. It had done much to bring about the international solidarity of labor, and he expressed the belief that very soon there would be established an international card of membership system.

Murderer's Wife Finds Him.

St. Albans, Sept. 24.—The grand jury has found a true bill against Napoleon Manning, charged with the murder of Buzzell LeDoux of Georgia, a small town south of here. LeDoux was shot as the result of a quarrel between the two men at that place last Tuesday.

The wife of the prisoner arrived Friday from Moore's Junction, N. Y., and visited him in the county jail. Mrs. Manning says she had not heard of her husband's whereabouts since he left home a long time ago until she read in the papers of the killing of LeDoux. She also said that Manning had about $400 with him when he left home.

New Cases of Yellow Fever.

Louisville, Sept. 24.—Four new cases of yellow fever, two deaths and three critically ill are reported from Taylors, Miss., and two new cases and one death from Orwood. No new cases have appeared in New Orleans in two days, and no deaths have occurred among the five cases previously reported. One new case is reported at Houma, in Terrebone parish. There have been no cases at Harvey's canal, on the opposite side of the river, in four days.

A CLOSE CALL.

Pittsburgs Made the Bostons Work Hard For Success.

Boston, Sept. 24.—The champions were forced to their limit yesterday before they solved a left-handed proposition offered by the Pittsburg team. For seven innings both teams worked to get a man around the bases, but it was no use. Tannehill, the left-hand "phenom," and Willis were throwing crescents around the diamond-shaped rubber in a way that mystified batsmen.

The Pittsburg man had banked on winning at least one of the games here with Tannehill in the box, but ran up against a great big snag in the form of Willis. As both pitchers were forced to pitch all they knew from start to finish it was almost a miracle to find the ball going over the plate in the last inning as fast as in the first. Score:

Baker's pitching won the first game for the Washingtons. In the second, although Hawley was hit hard, the Cincinnatis got better results when they connected with Williams' delivery.

The Philadelphias won their third straight victory over the Clevelands. Young's support was wretched.

Callahan of the Chicagoes broke the Baltimores' winning streak. He was invincible when men were on bases, while Maul was rather wild.

Kennedy of the Brooklyns won his own game by smashing out a double with two men on bases in the ninth. It was a pitchers' battle, with Taylor of the St. Louises having the better of it up to the finish.

Carrick, formerly of the Newarks, pitched for the New Yorks yesterday, and was very wild. Good stick work by the Louisvilles won the game.

Ruling on Legacies.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The commissioner has rendered a decision on the section of the war revenue act imposing a tax upon legacies and distributive shares of personal property, holding as follows: "Where the value of the whole amount of personal property left by a decedent does not exceed $10,000 no tax is imposed. Where such whole value exceeds $10,000 and does not exceed $25,000, the tax is imposed, and the rate of tax upon the clear value of each share is determined by the degree of relationship of the beneficiary. Where the value of the whole amount of the personal property left by a decedent exceeds $25,000, the rate of tax upon the clear value of each share is determined by the degree of consanguinity and by the value of the whole amount, as provided for in the last paragraph of section 29 of the war revenue act. Each share is required to bear its own tax unless, in case of devise by will, it was otherwise specified in the will."

Issued a Sweeping Challenge.

New York, Sept. 24.—Abdul Halli Adali, the champion wrestler of Turkey, who has just arrived here, has issued a sweeping challenge to American wrestlers. He is willing to meet any man for the championship of America, or for a side stake of $500 or $1000, either Graeco Roman, or catch-as-catch-can style. He prefers Ernest Roeber, and says he will throw Casper Muller four times within an hour's time. The Turk leaves the choice of style to the acceptor of the "defi," but stipulates that two referees must be in the ring, each of the principals to select one.

FRUIT AND FLOWERS

THE SWORD FERN.

A Noble Plant That Will Flourish In the House or the Conservatory.

Ferns are plants that demand a moist atmosphere, and consequently are not as well suited with house culture as many of the palms which appear to be able to endure the dry air of living rooms that is so injurious to many kinds of plants. The epidermis of palm foliage is dense and hard, and, as may be perceived by cutting it, evidently contains a large percentage of silica. A few genera of the fern family have the hard epidermis that enables them to do duty as room or apartment plants. The Pteris and Nephrolepis tribes are most conspicuous in this respect, and there are a few species of other tribes that will flourish nearly as well in the same circumstances. The culture of ferns, therefore, for the most part, must be restricted to a fernery, a house set apart for them or the greenhouse and conservatory. While stating these facts in regard to fern culture Vick's Magazine nevertheless gives encouragement to the amateur who would grow these beautiful plants in the home, as follows:

The many fine forms of Pteris and Nephrolepis add much to the attractions of collections of house plants. Nephrolepis exaltata has long been employed as a room plant. It is commonly called the Sword fern on account of the shape or general outline of its long, narrow fronds. Some years since at Boston a plant of this fern developed extra long fronds, so long that their weight carried them over, causing them to have a very graceful, drooping pose, and on this account the plant has also acquired the name of the Fountain fern. The engraving is a fine illustration of the plant, showing that it is both grand and graceful. A good specimen will easily measure four feet through. The successful grower of ferns in the house must be one who can manage other plants well; otherwise it is not well to attempt it. The soil best suited is an equal mixture of good fibrous loam, leaf mold and sand. The pot should have good drainage. The greatest growth will be made in spring and summer, and in this condition the plant will need a generous supply of water; at other times a moderate amount will suffice. A good light but not strong sunshine is desirable. The foliage must at all times be kept clean, and scale insects never allowed to gain a foothold. A light spraying occasionally overhead with clean water is an advantage.

Favorite Old Flowers.

Apropos of old fashioned flowers, Joseph Meehan tells in Country Gentleman that the common perennial phloxes to do their best need rich ground, moisture and a shady place. With the reverse of this the flowers quickly fade. Some of the newer sorts of phlox are very handsome.

Antemis tinctoria he describes as a yellow, daisylike flower, which blooms from June till September, and if decayed flowers are cut away as fast as they appear the new ones continue to come in greater profusion. Much the same can be said of the two coreopses, grandiflora and lanceolata. Both are yellow and bear their flowers on long stems.

Of foxgloves Mr. Meehan says it is worth remembering that if they are sown in spring there are no flowers until the second summer. Hollyhocks are of the same character. A few will flower when sown in the fall, but it is better to give them two full seasons to get the best results.

Another old favorite rarely met with nowadays, the lavender, Mr. Meehan never protects. It stands both summer and winter well, and as a reward for the space occupied blooms profusely through the midsummer months.

In the Fruit Garden.

The fruit garden and orchard should be carefully and regularly cultivated to kill weeds and consume moisture. The raspberry canes should be headed back from time to time or as fast as they grow to a height of two feet. This will cause lateral shoots to be formed, which will make a larger, stronger and more prolific plant. All suckers and sprouts upon all orchard trees are to be promptly removed and the new canes of blackberries and raspberries need to be thinned if they come up too thickly, which they are almost sure to do. The great trouble with these fruits is just this factor, they tend to run together into a dense mass of vegetation, and their fruitfulness is largely ruined.

Watch the young, newly set plum, peach, apple and pear trees to see that they are growing regularly and symmetrically. All surplus shoots are to be removed at once with thumb and forefinger. This is an ideal way of pruning, for why allow any tree to make useless growth which must be cut away sooner or later? Fruit trees are ornamental as well as useful and profitable, and we can rest assured that the value of the land upon which they are set is steadily growing, says a writer in New England Homestead in concluding this advice about the fruit garden.

Resignation and Election.

The Ward One Republican Committee had other business before it Thursday evening besides opening the nomination for delegates to the several conventions, for at this meeting City Clerk Edgar G. Cleaves, who was elected a member of the Committee last year, handed in his resignation, which was accepted. Mr. Cleaves then withdrew and the business of filling the vacancy came up. Three names were presented, viz.: John McKnight, Henry P. Kittredge and Walter M. Hersey. Upon the first ballot each of the above gentlemen received two votes. Five more ballots were taken with the same result. Upon the seventh ballot one of the Hersey men voted for McKnight and he was elected to fill the vacancy.

Political.

The two gentlemen mentioned among the Democrats, as candidates for Representatives to the General Court from Quincy, are ex-City Clerk Harrison A. Keith and Councilman Thomas F. Cain.

Among the Republicans it is generally conceded that Eben W. Sheppard will be one of the candidates and that the second place is between ex-Councilmen Sprague and Nickerson.

It is understood that ex-Councilman John Q. A. Field has a strong following for County Commissioner.

Aside from the Representatives lists in Wards Three and Five, the only contest among the Republicans appears to be over the Congressional delegation. Nearly every ward has two lists and the indications are that the delegates elected will be divided between Messrs. Barrows, Atwood and Paige.

—The Washington dispatch says, It is expected that the United States forces after the volunteers designated for the purpose are mustered out will consist of about 100,000 volunteers and 61,000, regulars.

THE DAILY EVENTS.

The Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

How is the world kept going
Like a river always flowing?
The people go hither,
The people go thither;
They are all alive,
Like bees in a hive;
They work and they strive,
And buy and sell—
But who is to tell
How the great world is kept a-going?
—W. B. RANDS.

Mr. Tobias H. Burke is ill at his home on Willard street.

The storm of yesterday and today will pass for a line storm.

Washington prediction: At present it seems likely that the weather in New England will remain unsettled through Sunday; partly cloudy and local rains are probable. No great change in temperature is probable for this district.

The Boston Bargain store will open up next week the store in Music Hall block recently occupied by the Old Colony stationery store with groceries, patent medicines and cigars. A passage way has been cut through the partition connecting the new store with the main store.

The temperature at noon today registered 54 degrees which was the lowest point the mercury has reached since May 9, when it registered 50 degrees at noon. As compared with last year, it is interesting to note that the coldest day in September was the 28th, when it was 55 degrees.

The regular meetings of the Hospital Aid Association will be resumed Thursday, September 29th, at three o'clock, in the rooms of the Granite Manufacturers' Association, in Durgin and Merrill's block. All ladies interested in the work are invited to be present and to join the association.

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

Keith's Theatre.

There has never been a time since the opening of Keith's new theatre, Boston, when its popularity was more pronounced with the theatregoing public then the present. Crowded houses are the rule at every performance, and late-comers have to frequently be content with standing room. The reason for this is simple—the public have become convinced that they can always find a first class vaudeville show there, that Mr. Keith employes none but the best talent. For the week of Sept. 26 the bill will include the usual high class variety, several European novelties being presented for the first time. The dramatic number will be furnished by Robert Ficher, Lorimer Johnstone, Caroline Cook and Celia Clay, all well known "legitimate" players, who are to appear in the delightful one-act piece "Naval Complications" which has met with success in other cities. The summer night novelty of the Casino roof garden, "Clorindy, or the Origin of the Cakewalk," with its twenty-five colored interpretors, has caught on in great style. The biograph will have several unusually interesting motion pictures. Batty's great troupe of performing bears come the week of Oct. 3.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A, B, C, D and E. Today's instalment is the second of the F's as far as "Fo," and will be continued tomorrow.

Brockton's Big Fair.

All amusement lovers are on the look-out for the dates of New England's "Mardi Gras," the Brockton Fair, to be held this year October 5, 6, 7 and 8. The management of this big enterprise have arranged for and secured attractions for the coming fair that have never been excelled and seldom equalled in this country. The old-time cattle show with its lowing cows, squealing pigs and cackling hens still exists. The big pumpkins, the luscious fruit and the log-cabin quilt still hold their places, but this is only a small part. The racing, stage show, music and numberless other attractions form an endless chain of amusement that is never duplicated at any other fair. The stage show this year includes the greatest galaxy of talent ever assembled at any one time. Music will be furnished by Brooke's Marine Band of Chicago, Reeves' American Band of Providence, and Martland's Fifth Regiment Band of Brockton, numbering in all 100 musicians and soloists. Such a musical treat has never before been offered at any fair. Under the efficient management of F. M. Ware of New York an out-door Horse Show will be given, and many owners of fine blooded stock will compete for honors. The trotting, as usual, will be first-class. Bicycle races, balloon ascensions and countless novelties have been secured to delight the thousands who never fail to attend this mammoth festival.

PAIGE IN THE LEAD.

Atwood and Barrows Struggle for Second Place.

A prominent ex-politician of Dorchester who has himself been a candidate for congress in the Tenth District, who discredited and made impossible the nomination of Mr. Atwood two years ago, who discovered Mr. Barrows, organized the campaign for him and boomed him into the nomination, Mr. Frederick W. Peabody, believes that Hon. Milton C. Paige is a sure winner of the Republican nomination to congress in the Tenth district. Mr. Peabody has been through three congressional contests in the district, and if any one knows it in all its parts certainly Mr. Peabody does. He makes the prediction over his own signature in the Boston papers, that Mr. Barrows will not carry his own ward. The following is Mr. Peabody's statement:

"I am not now a resident or a voter in the Tenth District, and consequently shall not attend the caucuses. I believe, however, it is a mistake to urge Republicans to vote for Mr. Barrows, as I am confident he has not the slightest prospect of a nomination. Whether rightly or wrongly, justly or unjustly, Mr. Barrows is not popular with his Republican constituents taken as a whole and his candidacy for a renomination can have no other effect than to aid the efforts of Mr. Atwood to foist himself upon the district. The contest is clearly between Atwood and Paige, and if Barrows does not get enough votes to nominate Atwood, Paige will win.

"A few days before the caucuses which nominated Mr. Barrows two years ago, on behalf of the Barrows campaign committee I sent to the Boston papers a statement that Mr. Barrows would have between 80 and 85 of the 117 delegates to be elected. He had 83 and Atwood had 34.

"This year I venture the prediction that Mr. Barrows will not have half as many delegates as Atwood had two years ago, with a strong probability that he will not elect one delegate in the Tenth district. His own ward is confidently claimed, with good reason as I believe, by the supporters of Mr. Paige.

"If the friends of clean government are more anxious to defeat Atwood than they are to give Mr. Barrows the barren compliment of an insignificant representation in the convention, they will vote direct for Mr. Paige as the only possible means of saving the District from the disgrace of Atwood."

Congressman Barrows has been expressing himself at great length in response to his critics, but as one of his former Boston supporters recently remarked: "The more the reverend congressman explains the more he has to explain; and the more he tries to reconcile his pledges with his performances, the more pledges appear to have been broken. It was of course a foolish thing for Mr. Barrows, a Cleveland Democrat to accept a Republican nomination, and the conflict between his principles and his pledges has resulted as all such conflicts do, in compromise, that is to say, in disloyalty to both.

"When he was first nominated Mr. Barrows was a member of the Massachusets Free Trade League, and it was not until a few days before the election that he withdrew from membership. In his long list of denials of charges made against him, including the charge that he is still a free trader, Mr. Barrows does not deny his opposition to the principles of protection, and his belief in the theory of free trade. Sometime ago he was charged with having left congress weeks before the final vote on the Dingley bill, without having paired; and in response to that charge he repeatedly stated that he was paired with Mr. Maguire. The charge being recently republished, Mr. Barrows stated that he was paired with either Mr. Jett or Mr. Maguire; and when it was shown that Mr. Jett voted against the bill, and that Mr. Maguire was paired with Mr. Loud, Mr. Barrows publicly accused the latter gentleman of having been guilty of the exceedingly dishonorable act of breaking his pair. Mr. Maguire has not been heard from, but it is believed he will repel the insult of Mr. Barrows; for no greater insult can be offered to a member of a legislative body than the charge that he will deliberately break a pair with another member. Mr. Barrows has made so many conflicting statements on the subject that perhaps denial by Mr. Maguire will not be necessary.

"The Barrows candidacy possesses every indication of limpness and lifelessness, and the Atwood boom is in the same depleted condition. In fact the campaign is practically over, and Paige has practically won; but his supporters have not on that account suspended in the least degrees their efforts to poll as large a vote as possible for him at the caucuses to be held on the 28th.

It is believed that Quincy will give Mr. Paige 12 or 15 delegates.

He is making a warm and aggressive fight all along the lines here, and his representatives are confident of electing a substantial majority of the delegates.

The reformers who desire more the defeat of Atwood than the election of Barrows, as well as the great crowd of enthusiastic Republicans who want to be on the winning side, especially when the winning man is a man of exceptional popularity, are rapidly drifting Paigeward.

On the whole the analysis of the situation stated by Mr. Peabody seems to meet with the approval of the best judges.

A BALLAD OF THE ARMADA.

King Philip had vaunted his claims;
He had sworn for a year he would sack us;
With an army of heathenish names
He was coming to fagot and stack us;
Like the thieves of the sea, he would track us
And shatter our ships on the main,
But we had bold Neptune to back us,
And where are the galleons of Spain?

His carackes were christened of dames
To the kirtles whereof he would tack us;
With his saints and his gilded stern frames
He had thought like an eggshell to crack us;
Now Howard may get to his Flaccus,
And Drake to his Devon again,
And Hawkins bowl rubbers to Bacchus,
For where are the galleons of Spain?

Let his majesty hang to St. James
The ax that he whetted to hack us;
He must play at some lustier games
Ere at sea he can hope to outthwack us;
To his mines of Peru he would pack us
To tug at his bullet and chain.
Alas, that his greatness should lack us!
But where are galleons of Spain?

ENVOY.

Gloriana! The don may attack us
Whenever his stomach be fain;
He must reach us before he can rack us,
And where are the galleons of Spain?
—Austin Dobson

HOW SHE LISTENED.

Society people might have thought that it was not exactly up to the highest notch of elegance, but since the participants were wholly unconscious of its shortcomings what did it matter. There is a more real weight in the expression of ignorance being the greatest bliss where social matters are concerned than in any other condition of life. The ordinary little girl who slips into a thin gown and dances all night with "the boys," whom she has known since childhood, in the simple ballroom of a family club finds more unalloyed enjoyment in the entire procedure than does the veriest brocade clad, jewel weighted belle who glides in stately elegance through the gorgeous cotillon in the most sparkling ballroom of one of society's real leaders. When the little girl has romped her cheeks red through a gay, easy german or, more frequently, through a hackneyed waltz, she would open her big, blue eyes in amazement if a frigid debutante in the real thing stared at her as decidedly unconventional. But the little girl doesn't even dream that there is any difference between her dance and the one whose details are so exploited in the society columns, so she is a thousand times happier than is her blue blooded sister, breathing the atmosphere of wealth and all the gnawing envies, rivalries and disappointments pertaining thereunto.

Peggy was very pink after the last dance. Richard always went into that particular waltz with especial fervor. Afterward he explained to her that it was because his first dance with her had been that particular one, and she was tease enough to act as though she wasn't at all conscious of the particular significance of the thing. So tonight, when he reluctantly let her slip from his arms, she hadn't quite the necessary courage to refuse his plea that they "go somewhere to rest."

She knew what that meant. Hadn't he carried her off to that particular "somewhere" every night since the little club had begun its informal fortnightly dances? Still, she knew that she had better not go tonight—she had known for weeks that it was coming, and this last waltz had convinced her that it was coming very soon. And Peggy didn't want it to come, at least not just now, for this was Peggy's first winter and it seemed a shame for a girl to tie herself her first season. Then, too, Richard wanted so much that it should come, and there wasn't anything in the world that Peggy loved so much as to make Mr. Richard wait. It didn't matter whether she delayed him by taking an unusually long time to adjust her veil when he had called to take her some place in the evening, or whether he had to toast his toes before the fire while she dallied over making his cup of tea or even in the telling of his great secret, which poor Richard congratulated himself no one, not even Peggy, knew. To be frank, everybody in the little club had discovered it before he had confessed it to himself. Still Peggy yielded and was led off to the big chair in the corner of the library, where Richard could perch himself on the window seat beside her and where the other young people were good enough never to intrude.

Peggy leaned back and let her white lids flutter in happy content over her deep blue eyes, whereat Richard felt his last bit of common sense leave him.

"Peggy?" he asked, leaning dangerously near her.

Peggy sat up with a little start, and a half air of rebellion. Then, all at once, she felt his eyes burning into hers, and her courage fled, leaving a very weak, pliant little girl.

"Peggy," he began again, this time laying his hand over hers as it trembled on the arm of the big chair. "I want to tell you something," added Richard.

Peggy closed her eyes again and gathered together her fast failing courage with one mighty effort. "Don't," she pleaded. "Don't, Richard."

His face grew a trifle paler as he asked, "Why not, little girl?"

Peggy's white cheeks all at once grew fiery, but she said it: "Because I know what you are going to say, and I don't want to hear it."

Poor Richard! So she knew, after all, the secret which he had flattered himself he had kept from all the world, most of all from the tiny, pink and white girl whom it most concerned. Then all at once it struck him that there was a ludicrous side to the situation, and Peggy was amazed to see a bit of a roguish smile about the corners of his fine mouth as he asked:

"How do you know that you know what I was going to say?"

It was a mean thing for him to do, and she afterward told him so. Now, however, she put herself on the defensive as much as possible and answered valiantly:

"I do know, no matter how, and I don't want to hear it," then a pause and finally a whispered "just yet."

Richard sprung to his feet with enough exultation in the movement to startle her.

"When may I tell you, Peggy mine?"

Perhaps he drew her to her feet, perhaps she rose, but all at once she found herself standing before him, with him holding her dangerously close by the two tiny, burning hands.

"Some day," she stammered. Then, noting the happy laughter in his eyes, she cried out: "Oh, Richard, why did you do it? It is almost as bad as if you had really told me, and you've made me say things I had no right to say, and"—

There was a hint of tears in her reproachful, big eyes, and she tugged hard to loose her imprisoned fingers. Instantly all the teasing fled from his manly face, and he dropped her hands.

"Very well, Peggy, but may I ask you this: Do you realize that it would not be quite—kind, to give me permission to tell you some day, and then not to make me happy by giving me the right answer?"

Peggy's lips quivered helplessly, but she finally lifted her eyes to him bravely and answered, "Yes, I realize, and I'll—be—kind."

For a moment she feared that he was going to kiss her. But after a moment, with a wistful, half contented sigh, he turned away, and with one accord they walked toward the door. At the portal he stopped her and asked again: "Don't make me wait long, little girl, and don't let any one else tell you the same story in the meantime. I'm not afraid to trust you with the other fellows, but—but I shouldn't be happy to know that they had told—told you the story, even though I knew you wouldn't care for them."

She answered him only by a look, for some one came up with the frantic explanation that he had been looking everywhere for her, as this was his dance. So she slipped away from the yearning Richard, who made himself ridiculous all the rest of the evening by forgetting that he had left his name on half a dozen programmes before he had carried Peggy off to the library.

When supper time came, Richard all at once lost sight of his ladylove. He hadn't had a chance to speak to her since the little scene in the big armchair, but he had not for an instant lost sight of the pretty white muslin gown, with its tiny sprigs of pink rosebuds. But in the confusion of the breaking up of the last waltz she mysteriously disappeared and finally, in sheer desperation, he hunted out her mother, hoping to find the lost maiden under the careful wing of the loving chaperon.

"Where is Peggy?" called the sweet faced little mother. "I've lost her, and I hoped you would bring her." Poor Richard's heart sank and with some murmured explanation he plunged off in the midst of the gay little throng. The search was fruitless. Everybody seemed to have drifted into the supper room, and still Peggy was not among them. He plunged into the most impossible corners and hiding places. He even looked into the depths of the big armchair in the library and still there was no Peggy. At last, when his face was white and his palms were burning where his impatient nails had dug into them, he heard a soft, tearful little whisper from the stairs, and there, in the turn above the landing, he found her, sobbing to herself as though her very heart was broken.

"Peggy," he cried, kneeling on the step beside her and chafing her cold hands between his feverish palms, "Peggy, what is the matter?"

Peggy dabbed her wet little ball of a handkerchief into her eyes and swallowed a sob. "It's—it's that big George Waters," she choked out, and then, with a new fit of sobs she buried her disconsolate little head in her lap and could go no further.

Richard set his teeth and waited. Then all at once he understood, for he had been afraid of Waters all winter. There was no further room for delay. Leaning over he caught the sobbing little figure in his arms, and there never was any joy in the world so dear as his when he felt her nestle her face on his shoulder, while her crying grew less violent and finally subsided into an occasional sigh of growing content.

When she had become quiet, he gently turned her face to his and said:

"Never mind, little girl, you needn't explain. I know that—that—that impudent cad has presumed to tell you what you didn't want to hear, and I know it wasn't your fault. But don't you think, little girl, that it is time for me to tell you what I had to say a couple of hours ago?"

And Peggy actually smiled through her tears while he went off into an elaborate recital of the secret which they congratulated themselves was all their own and had never been so deliciously told by any one else in the world.

An Averted Tragedy.

An Atchison man got angry the other night, and hissing an angry farewell at his family stalked haughtily out of the house and out the front gate. When he reached it, however, his pants leg caught on a nail and was ripped from top to bottom, and the angry man who had gone forever was compelled to return. Thus another tragedy was turned into a comedy.—Atchison Globe.

OUR WEEKLY FASHION PLATE.

FRENCH FALL TAILOR GOWN FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

A gown of light weight mixed wool in a small checked pattern of fawn, very fashionable for tailors gowns this autumn, is trimmed with velvet bands strapped again in the centre with lady's cloth of a paler tint, so closely that very little of the velvet shows between. The illustration which is reproduced from Harper's Bazar, and for which cut paper patterns may be secured, gives an idea of the cut of the gown.

The circular skirt is attached in the back without any visible fulness just at the waist line, hanging lower down in easy graceful fold and perfectly straight in front, where the band trimming is curved apron-fashion in double rows. The width of the skirt at the hem is four and a half yards; the lining and outside are cut the same form, and are seamed and faced in the usual manner.

The jacket in the style of a Zouave is cut away sharply in front, just above the waist line. The double revers, rather wide and pointed, roll back over a chemisette of cream-colored silk muslin, pleated and finished with a great soft bow at the neck. The jacket, in the back, is fitted closely to the figure and finished with double basques open behind and curving to the front, the belt of black velvet with gilt buckle concealing the seams.

A high flaring medici collar is the finish at the neck, and the decorations of the jacket are bands similar to those of the skirt, with groups of cameo buttons, that appear also on the skirt front.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

TOPIC.—"What is true success?"—Math. xvi, 21-27.

Worldly success is often not true success. Few people in the world really have correct ideas as to what success is. To many to succeed means to lay up an immense fortune; to others it means to reach some high position in the social or political world; to others, again, it has no other meaning than the satisfying of the appetites and desires of life, no matter in what direction they may run. To achieve what we start out in life to achieve, no matter what the object of life may be, is the highest idea that most people have of success. But, alas, how many do that and then at the end of life feel that life, instead of having been a success, has been a miserable failure! The goal of life is won, but as we touch the crown it withers and fades, and we say to ourselves in deepest remorse: "This is not what we thought it was. This is not success. This is failure."

Christ's solemn words here suggest two things about true success.

1. True success comes from giving, not from getting. This may seem paradoxical, but it is true. "Whosoever will save his life shall lose it, and whosoever will lose his life for My sake shall find it." This is Christ's principle of success. To find the highest and truest life, which alone can be called success, we must lose our lives, we must sacrifice them, for Christ's sake and for the sake of humanity. True success lies in making the most of our lives for God and for humanity, and we can never do that if we are sordidly laying up gold, selfishly seeking for office or sating ourselves with the pleasures of life. Self must be eliminated to achieve success. Humiliation leads to exaltation. The cross is necessary to the crown.

2. True success is eternal, not temporal. Temporal success is an illusion. It has no reality. He only succeeds in life who has so used this world as to assure himself a safe entrance into eternal life. "What is a man profited if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul" or the higher life of the soul in eternity? And if the gaining of the whole world would not compensate us for the loss of our souls how much less will it pay us to lose our souls for the trifling part of the world that we may gain. The world is not the true judge of man's failure or success. "The Son of Man shall come in the glory of His father, with His angels, and then He shall reward every man according to his works." This award will decide the success or failure of our lives, and it will prove that he who lost his life here for God, for Christ, for humanity, has found it, or, in other words, has succeeded.

Bible Readings.—Josh i, 8; Eccl. ix, 11; xii, 13, 14; Zech. iv, 6; Math. vi, 33; xxv, 14-30; Mark viii, 34-38; Luke xiv, 26-29; John xii, 24-26; I Cor. x, 31; xv, 58; Col. iii, 17; II Tim. iv, 7, 8; Rev. ii, 10; xxi, 7.

Responsibility.

A sense of responsibility not only holds one in check, but tends to develop what is good in him. Put a person in a position where trusts are committed to his care, or under conditions where he is expected to be good and to do good, he is all the more apt to display his character and aptitude to the best advantage. Men of worth are what they are because they have been put upon their mettle. People have trusted them, or parents and friends have shown that they expected something worthy of them, or conscience has in some way been aroused within them, or existing condition has forced them to do and to dare, and they have responded to the demands made upon them promptly and fully, to their own and others' benefit. —Presbyterian.

A Danger.

We shall be tempted to forget, but we must not forget, that we have for a quarter of a century been leading the way toward the new achievements of peace, that we have been preparing for the time when all controversies between nations shall be settled without resort to war. If we forget that, the immiaent danger will be that we shall fall in love with war, and that, deluded by the phantom of military and naval glory, we shall seek new opportunities to use our strength and display our prowess as a dictator among the nations.—Christian Register.

Kindness From the Old.

Kindness seems to come with a double grace and tenderness from the old. It seems in them the hoarded and long purified benevolence of years, as if it had survived and conquered the baseness and selfishness of the ordeal it had passed—as if the wind which had broken the form had swept in vain across the heart, and the frosts which had chilled the blood and whitened the thin locks had no power over the warm tide of the affections.—Churchman.

Reserving Religion.

It is a pity that many reserve their religion for the still hour of worship, but fail to display it in the active duties of daily life. In the one case there are the bowed head, the gentle tone, the reverent feeling; in the other there are the scowl, the harsh temper, brute force and greed. Yet God is not the God of our worshiping hours only. He is the God of our hours of work as well.—Jewish Messenger.

Those Who Succeed Best.

The men whom I have seen succeed best in life have always been cheerful and hopeful men, who went about their business with a smile on their faces and took the changes and chances of this mortal life like men, facing rough and smooth alike as it came, and so found the truth of the old proverb that "good times and bad times and all times pass over."—Exchange.

VIOLENTLY ATTACKED.

Editorial Disrespect For the President of France.

Styled "A Grotesque Fool" by One Paper.

Enemies of Dreyfus Resorting to All Sorts of Dodges.

Paris, Sept. 24.—The most violent attacks on President Faure continue. A member of the chamber of deputies and foreign editor of The Times, at a public meeting, charged Faure with being the unwilling agent of the approaching coup d'etat. Another editor calls the president "a grotesque fool" and "canaille."

The final meeting of the commission to consider the subject of revision, which was fixed for last night, has been postponed until today, when a report will be drafted. It is stated in ministerial circles that the report will advise the minister of justice in favor of revision Brisson, the premier, opposes the convocation of the chambers on the ground that the revision question is purely a governmental matter.

The military authorities have accomplished their plan of stifling Colonel Picquart by placing him in solitary confinement. His friends have been denied admission to the prison, and his counsel has twice appeared at the office of the clerk of the court-martial and applied to see his client. On both occasions he was informed that Picquart could only be seen on an order from the authorities, which order the attorney has been unable to secure.

Some of the papers state that General Chenoine, the minister of war, was trapped into signing the authority for General Zurlinden's proceedings against Picquart without reading the document. The recognized organ of the military staff, in a circumstantial explanation, declares that Chanoine deliberately signed the warrant after having carefully read Zurlinden's report and the Picquart dossier. If this report is true, then both Zurlinden and Chanoine are equally responsible for the situation, which is regarded as very grave. The paper also hints at a charge against Colonel Picquart of complicity with Dreyfus and the possible trial of Picquart for treason, which would probably be held behind closed doors, despite the fact, as now asserted, that Mr. Brisson secured an engagement that Picquart should be tried publicly before consenting to his transfer to the military prison.

One of the editors of The Lantern was wounded by a woman whom the paper had slandered because her husband had declared anti-Dreyfus viws.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 24.—Colonel Hyde of the quartermaster's department for Boston has received orders to secure suitable quarters for nearly 5000 soldiers. The barracks will be built by the government instead of purchasing the building outright.

An Italian in the north end used his revolver on his landlady last night because she declined his advances, wounding her in the arm. Camillezo Gokey was shot by Adolph Stockenberg in the thigh because the latter thought the former was too attentive to Mrs. Stockenberg.

William Wynter, 30 years of age, and Harry Burtnett were arrested last night, charged with complicity with Charles Lowrie, alias James H. Richardson, in several burglaries in Boston, Cambridge and Somerville. Lowrie is already in custody, and in the persons of those three men the police believe they have captured a dangerous gang. In Wynter's room were found two valises filled with property stolen from a Cambridge residence last Sunday night.

Charles Silva of East Cambridge was instantly killed last evening by an outward bound train.

Sarah Cohen, 18 months old, was killed by gas in her home yesterday afternoon. The death is attributed to a loose fixture.

John Swinger was arrested yesterday on the charge of manslaughter. He was the driver of a horse that ran over and instantly killed John P. Keffel, aged 5, last Tuesday afternoon. It is claimed that the driver did not stop to ascertain what damage he had done.

Arizona's Proud Distinction.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The annual report of N. O. Murphy, governor of Arizona, says the population of the territory is nearly if not quite 100,000. Social and moral conditions compare favorably with those in any portion of the Union. The citizens are true, honest Americans, and the governor says they enjoy the proud distinction of being the first to respond to their country's call for volunteers for the war just closed. On Cuban soil, by their bravery and heroic conduct, they won the admiration of all christendom. An Arizona flag was first hoisted over the ramparts of the enemy at El Caney. All the railroads of the territory report a satisfactory increase in the volume of business during the past year, and considerable construction work has been done on new lines. Governor Murphy recommends that Arizona be admitted as a state.

Twelve Hundred Out.

Bridgeport, O., Sept. 24.—Twelve hundred miners employed in the Diltonville and Long Run mines suspended work yesterday. The step was taken as a result of the operators refusing to concede the most important part of the demands of the miners. The operators have asked for another conference, and it is thought the trouble may be settled shortly.

Killed In a Train Wreck.

Ashland, Wis., Sept. 24.—A train wreck occurred near White River. Harrison Fifield was killed and Walter Sharple fatally injured. Fifield, Sharple and three others were stealing a ride in a box car. The train broke in two, and in going down grade the two ends came together and the car was demolished. Three other men escaped uninjured.

COLONEL THEODORE ROOSEVELT, U. S. V. From HARPER'S WEEKLY.

Reproduced from Harper's Weekly. By Permission. Copyright, 1898, by Harper & Brothers.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt has gained an international name for the way in which he organized, equipped, and took through the Spanish campaign perhaps the most unique regiment that has been known in the history of this country. The large portrait of him which we publish in this issue is a drawing from a large photograph taken of the Colonel by the Harper's Weekly special photographer during the last days of his camp life at Montauk, L. I. It was just as he is in this drawing that Colonel Roosevelt went through the last, and perhaps not the least important, episode in the history of thi extraordinary regiment.

Shortly after breakfast one morning Colonel Roosevelt noticed that orders were being given to his men which had not emanated from him. The different troops were marching out in a body to a little strip of open country near the camp, and before he knew what was taking place he was waited upon by a committee of officers and troopers, who asked him to walk out into a hollow square formed by his regiment. There he was presented with a bronze statue of a Bronco Buster and, after the speeches had been made, the episode closed with an impromptu reception, during which the entire regiment marched by their Colonel in single file, each man shaking him by the hand.

IS HE INELIGIBLE?

Discovery of a Point That May Prevent Teddy's Nomination.

Albany, Sept. 24.—Governor Black's leading supporters feel happy over the discovery of a fact which, they assert, establishes the ineligibility of Colonel Roosevelt to be the Republican candidate for governor, and ensures the renomination of the present executive.

They claim to have documentary evidence showing that when Roosevelt was sworn in as assistant secretary of the navy he swore to his residence as Washington. The federal constitution provides that persons holding office in the federal government retain their residence in the state from which they are appointed, but when Colonel Roosevelt resigned his portfolio in the navy department he retired to private life. Afterwards he enlisted in the army, and in accepting his commission, it is stated that he again swore to his residence as Washington. It is claimed that further evidence of the colonel's ineligibility is afforded in the fact that he was assessed for personal property in the town of Oyster Bay, L. I., and later appeared before the tax commissioners and swore off the assessment upon the ground that he was not a resident of Oyster Bay, but was a resident of Washington.

Winnie Davis Buried.

Richmond, Sept. 24.—Varina Anne Jefferson Davis, "the daughter of the confederacy," sleeps her last sleep in the bosom of the land she loved so well. Her remains arrived here at 8:40 o'clock yesterday, and were met at the depot by the Lee camp of confederate veterans, of which she was a member, and others. Four white horses were attached to the hearse, each one being led by a colored man.

The casket was placed in the lecture room of St. Paul's church and Colonel Laughton dismissed the escort. Two members of the guard of honor remained constantly on duty, being relieved every half hour. Upon being deposited in the lecture room the casket was surrounded by floral tributes from Georgia, Virginia, South Carolina and other states. To the left of the casket was furled the flag of the confederacy.

Rev. Dr. Carmichael announced the first hymn, "How Firm a Foundation," which was the favorite of General Robert E. Lee. After the hymn had been sung, Rev. Dr. Hoge read the psalm for the day, and "Nearer My God to Thee" was sung. Dr. Carmichael read the lesson. "Art Thou Weary" was then sung, and at its close the veterans moved out with the casket. Mrs. Davis was prostrated, and it was several minutes before the grief-stricken mother could rise. The scene was deeply affecting, and those who witnessed it were greatly moved. Many old soldier dressed in gray wept freely as he witnessed the grief of the aged lady.

Headed by the First regiment band, playing the "Dead March in Saul," and amid the tolling of bells of many churches, the procession started towards Hollywood cemetery, marching between dense lines of humanity the entire distance. The procession was nearly a mile in length, though the carriages were driven two abreast.

Bradstreet's Trade Review.

New York, Sept. 24.—Some relaxation in activity is perceptible in some lines at large markets, but the volume of trade as a whole is equal to any record. At the south low priced cotton and yellow fever quarantines affect trade adversely. The presence of troops during the spring and summer at many southern points has been helpful to trade at those points. At the east the least favorable reports continue to come from the textile industries. Wool is quiet and manufacturers are not encouraged to buy heavily in view of the very moderate trade in woolen goods. Cotton goods are in better distribution, but prices betray the unsettling influences of low prices for the raw material, and print cloths are slightly weaker. Activity in iron and steel manufacture continues unabated.

For the week ending Thursday the total clearings aggregate $1,325,890,000, about the same amount as last week, but 52 percent larger than in 1896, 60 percent larger than in 1894, and 65 percent larger than in 1893. Business failures for the week number 182, against 173 last week, but compared with 237 in this week a year ago.

Pleasure of the Porto Ricans.

Washington, Sept. 24.—General Wilson called upon President McKinley yesterday, accompanied by Captain Gardner, and presented an address to the president signed by many of the leading Porto Ricans. In this address the signers express their pleasure over the prospect of becoming citizens of the United States, and announce their hope that the Porto Rican people may some day become worthy to organize a state function.

Captain Gardner's report elaborates upon the relation of the church to the government. It states that while a large majority of the Porto Ricans are Catholic by profession, they are not especially zealous as religionists. It places the number of priests at 240, and the annual cost to the public treasury of their support at about $120,000 in American money.

There are a few books left at this office of trolley trips along the north and south shore and this is just the weahter to enjoy a cool trip. Books with complete maps only ten cents.

"Chimney of Hell."

Naples, Sept. 24.—A panic prevails at Torre del Greco, which is on the coast, three miles south of Resina, on account of Vesuvius. So great was the terror at Torre del Greco that Cardinal Prisco, the archbishop of Naples, proceeded to that town with a large body of clergy and celebrated a special open air service and offered up prayers in which he implored the Almighty to cause a cessation of the eruption of Vesuvius. Thirty thousand persons attended the services. They came from the entire Vesuvian territory. Immediately after the conclusion of the beautiful and impressive ceremony there seemed to be a diminution in the flow of lava, or the inhabitants so believed, and there was great rejoicing.

Doctor of Divinity Dead.

Newport, Sept. 24.—Rev. Dr. Philip Grace, for 29 years pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, died yesterday after an illness extending over several weeks. He was one of the leading clergymen of the faith in New England. He was 60 years of age, and had served as councillor to Bishop Harkins. His degree of doctor of divinity was an honor bestowed upon him by Pope Leo in 1879, shortly after the latter's election to the see of St. Peter.

No wonder some women feel as if the disease which constantly pursues them is just a malignant devil dooming them to endless misery. Thousands of women who could get no relief from any other source have written grateful letters to Doctor R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalid's Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., telling him of the benefits received from his wonderful prescriptions and the careful professional advice which he sends by mail without charge.

A lady living in West Eaton, Madison Co., N. Y., Mrs. Mattie A. Walker, in a recent letter to Dr. Pierce, says: "I write to inform you what your remedies have done for me; but they have helped me so much that I know not where to commence or where to leave off, as I had such a complication of ailments. For three years I had such bad spells I thought that if dying was only just a sleep I did not want to wake and suffer again; I would be glad to have death come any night. I got so discouraged it seemed as if I could never be well and happy again. I had asthmatic spells towards morning. Sometimes I felt as if I could not get breath enough to live; had dreadful pains in the top of my head, and was so nervous I felt as if something dreadful was going to happen—I could not tell why either. I could write a dozen sheets full and not tell all the dreadful things I suffered, from female weakness, coustipation, asthmatic spells, and rheumatic neuralgia.

"I advise all who are suffering not only to use Dr. Pierce's medicines, but to get his advice also, for it has helped me so much I cannot say enough in praise of both the advice and the remedies. I look on your medicines as being a God-send, and will ask God to guide suffering humanity to the right relief."

For nervous troubles and ailments peculiar to women Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only proprietary remedy designed by a regularly educated physician. For bronchial affections and digestive difficulties his "Golden Medical Discovery" is the one permanent cure. His "Pleasant Pellets" are the most effective natural nongriping laxative for constipation.

Bates beat Gallagher.

Saturday afternoon, Sept. 17th, the final games for the possession of the Hitormissit cup were held. The opponents were C. W. Bates of Wollaston, and W. W. Gallagher of Braintree. The previous afternoon Bates, after a hard match with Albee, had won the tournament. Gallagher was successful in last year's tournament, and this year, simply defended the cup.

The match was called at 2.30 by Umpire Nixon. Bates started off strong and played a star game, winning the first set 6-4. In the next two sets Gallagher played much better, winning both sets and many picked him for the winner of the match. The score was 3-6, 3-6. The next set was a deciding one for Gallagher. Bates played an excellent game and won 6-3.

The fifth set started favorably for Bates, and by fine playing and with the help of the weakness of Gallagher, he won 6-1. The referee was Howe; linesmen Plumer, Ewart, Hobart and Barbour.

The cup is now held by Bates and it will be his duty to defend it next year. The last public playing will be Saturday, Oct. 1st, between the Crescent club of Reading, and the Hitormissit club of Braintree. Gallagher, Bates, Howe and Bent will play for Braintree. Play will begin at 9.00 A. M., but the best matches will be reserved for the afternoon.

Latest---Owing to the storm, the match has been postponed one week.

CAMP WIKOFF TALES.

SCENES AND INCIDENTS OF LIFE AT MONTAUK POINT.

How General Young Helped a Mother to Find Her Sons—Baby Food Joke on Some Rough Riders—Actions of Delirious Patients.

Now that General Young has gone to Camp Meade and the detention hospital regulations at Camp Wikoff are not so stringent as of necessity they were earlier this story can be told without detriment to any one. A certain New York woman who has four sons in the volunteer service, one of whom is a captain in the Seventy-first regiment, came down to Montauk Point a few weeks ago, when all was in confusion, to find her boys if possible. Disappointment met her on all sides. Nobody could tell her where to go or to whom to apply. After two days, during which she hardly gave herself time to eat or sleep in her incessant search, she came down to the station to make inquiries there and was directed to Captain Chase, the provost marshal. Captain Chase, for all that he is as busy as any man in camp, is one of those officers who can always find time to listen to any one in distress and to help them if possible. The woman poured out a broken and rather incoherent story of her search for her four sons.

"I've got traces of two of them," she said, "but I can't find anything about the other two. I don't even know if they're dead or alive. The only place I haven't been is the detention hospital, and they've turned me back from there twice." "It is against the rules of the camp, madam, for anybody to go in there. The danger of spreading infection"— "I must go in," broke in the woman desperately. "My boys may be dying there now. Captain, you can take me in if you will. Let the rules go this once. I'll take any precautions you say. I'll stay in there and help nurse the sick. Only take me in." "Madam, I can't disobey the orders," said the captain, but he didn't say it as if he meant it, and he looked appealingly at an officer with whom he had been talking. The officer was General Young, but the woman did not know this when she turned to him with her appeal.

"Can't you help me, sir? I know what military rules are, but if you could know how I've suffered and what it was to let my four boys go"— "Chase," said General Young, "see here for a moment. Excuse us for a minute, madam," he said to the woman. Then to Captain Chase, "Isn't there some way to get around this?" "Not within the rules, general," said the provost marshal dubiously. "But if"— he stopped and looked inquiringly at the other. "D—n the rules!" said General Young. "Any woman who can produce four sons with blood enough in them to go and fight for their country and who has got blood in her to let them go deserves some consideration. Get her into the detention hospital, Chase."

Captain Chase got a carriage, put the searcher into it and went with her to the hospital, got her through the lines and found one of her boys for her. That left one unaccounted for. Later on he turned up on one of the transports, and now all four of the brothers in arms are at home and well.

"This is a cinch," said the first rough rider. "Work that hatchet hard, Bill." "It's a hard box to open," said the second rough rider, who was plying the hatchet. "Looks like there might be most anything in it," observed the third, "and I've got the appetite for it." "Looks like there might be hoot in it," said the fourth, "and I've always got the appetite for hoot." The quartet had acquired the packing case by extra legal methods from a delivery wagon bound to their camp with supplies, and as they worked at it with an old hatchet other troopers stood about and watched enviously. Finally after much effort and profanity one board came off, then another; then the worker lifted out a tin box, one of many which filled the case.

"Grub, sure," gleefully chorused the other three. Bill unwrapped the box, examined it and got red in the face. "What—the—h—l!" he said slowly and emphatically. "Look at this! 'Prepared Baby Food, For Infants of Tender Years. Directions For Use.' I'll use it!" He dropped it on the ground and sent it spinning away with a kick. His three companions sat with drooping jaws, but the circle of troopers who were watching burst into roars of laughter. Then they broke and ran under a severe fire of baby food in heavy boxes. Each man of the four is now known as "Babe," and their company is getting up a subscription to buy rattles for them.

Delirium of the sick men at Camp Wikoff has taken the same form in nine cases out of ten among those who have been in Cuba, no matter from what form of fever they are suffering. Their hallucination is that they are again back in battle. One will be rushing up a hillside in a charge, another will be working his way forward from tree to tree, trying to discover some Spanish sharpshooter who is firing at him, a third will be wounded and trying to crawl to a place of cover, while a fourth will urge his companions on. Never a night passes that some ward in the general hospital is not roused by the cries of delirious patients, and the surgeons and orderlies are ready at all times for hand to hand conflict with violent cases. Some time ago it was found necessary to remove from the wards the side arms of the officers who are there as patients, but that did not do away with the fighting spirit. An officer got up the other night, and, wrapping his blanket around him, tottered down the ward shouting:

"Come on, men! Come on! Sweep those devils off the earth!" An orderly seized him. He fought as well as he could to get away, but in his weakened condition he quickly collapsed, and bursting into tears cried: "Let me go! Let me go forward! My men will think I'm afraid. I shall be called a coward. For God's sake, let me go! I'm strong enough."

It was an hour before the idea that he was disgraced for life left him. A private was found stealthily crawling on his stomach along the promenade between the wards and occasionally stopping to take a careful shot with a boot which he had picked up somewhere. To the nurse who took him back to his ward he explained that he had not had time to dress before going out on skirmishing duty, and that his gun was less effective than it would have been had the muzzle been made smaller. It occasionally happens that as the orderlies are unable to watch their entire wards all the time a delirious patient slips out and makes for the open, but none of them has yet succeeded in getting past the guards. This performance is particularly troublesome, since it involves going through the hospital, after the man is captured, to find out from what ward he escaped.—New York Sun.

THE MARCHAND MISSION.

History of the French Expedition Sent to the Sudan.

Major Marchand, who is in command of the French expedition in central Africa and is reported to have arrived recently at Fashoda, on the White Nile, above Khartum, was appointed by the French government in February, 1896, to take command of a force of Senegalese sharpshooters sent to assist M. Liotard in his mission to the Bahr-el-Ghazal. Very little has been heard of him since he left France in June of 1896, but it was generally understood that he had joined M. Liotard. The Paris Eclair of Oct. 29, 1897, stated that the Mar-chand and Bonchamps missions had in fact joined their forces near Fashoda and were marching on Khartum, where they expected to be well received by the khalifa as enemies of England. The Eclair had indeed been assured by a soi disant emissary of the khalifa at Constantinople, the Emir Soliman Inger, that the sovereign of the dervishes had already been advised of the coming of the French expeditions and that they were sure of a cordial welcome.

MAJOR MARCHAND.

The defeat of the khalifa at Omdurman by the Anglo-Egyptian expedition under General Sir Horatio Herbert Kitchener destroyed Major Marchand's hopes of a junction with the dervishes, if he entertained such an idea, but his arrival at Fashoda with his expedition has already stirred England, rumors of his success having been current for several days. Great Britain does not desire any interference with her plans for the development of Egypt and central Africa, and she has more than once let it be understood that such action would be considered hostile and a cause of war.—New York Herald.

The Khalifa's Cruelty.

The khalifa's character is a strange mixture of malice and cruelty. He delights to annoy and cause disappointment and is never happier than when he is robbing families wholesale and seizing and executing all persons of influence and authority. It was this Abdullah who gave the order for no quarter at the storming of Khartum, and it was he and not his master, the Mahdi, who authorized the wholesale massacre of men, women and children at the fall of the city. He has caused the deaths of thousands of innocent people, and Slatin Pasha says that when he was in prison the khalifa had the right hand and left foot of a certain general publicly cut off in the market place because he had been unsuccessful in an expedition. But in spite of his tyrannical nature he is said to be devoted to his eldest son, Osman, who is now a young man of 25 years of age.—New York Sun.

Welcome to Autumn.

We envy ye your naked woods, your limbs and branches bare
That from the touch of wailing winds such cool refreshment share;
And roasted, grilled, broiled, calcined, by the season's simmering blaze,
We gasp for cooling comfort of your melancholy days.

—Boston Courier.

Castle Square Theatre.

The management of the Castle Square theatre have decided to revive one of the earliest successes made by Stock company, Edward Milton Royle's comedy drama "Friends" which was first played at this theatre in July of last year. The strength of Mr. Boyle's work in this play quickly gained favor for it throughout this country and the opportunity of seeing it with such a cast as is possible with the Castle Square company will be fully appreciated. Some changes have occurred in the membership of the company since "Friends" was first produced but the leading characters will be largely as in the original performance of the play, the cast being as follows:

Marguerite Otto, of the Metropolitan Opera House, Miss Lillian Lawrence; Hans Otto, her father, William Humphrey; Harold Hunting, director of the Opera house, N. H. Fowler; John Paden, Sr., a business man, James C. Barrows; John Paden, Jr., a modern poet, J. H. Gilmour; Adrian Karje, a pianist, Charles Mackay; Henry, a valet, John J. Geary; Jenny Merryweather, Miss Mary Sanders; Miss Wolff (of the Metropolitan Opera house, Miss Rose Morrison. Following "Friends" and for the week beginning Monday Sept. 26, the Castle Square theatre attraction will be "The Great Diamond Robbery" a melodrama of the most intense interest.

Boston Museum.

There is no stronger dramatic attraction that will visit New Enlgand this season than that which is now being given at the Boston Museum, "The Sign of the Cross." This stirring tragedy, for it is really that, has made the sensation of three continents. All England became lost in admiration when it was given there and the London success was followed by equal demonstrations in America and Australia. Audiences at the Boston Museum are well aware of its strength, for when ever the piece has been given there, the house has been crowded to the doors with enthusiastic admirers No play has made such a powerful impression as this. The days of Nero, the cruel torturer of Ancient Rome, have always been a fascinating period in history, and in "The Sign of the Cross" they are presented to perfection. The palaces, the splendors of pagan vice, the horrors of the catacombs ad the torture chamber and the awful trials of the early Christians—all these are among the themes illustrated by Wilson Barrett in his tragedy which has proved an epoch making drama of rare strength.

The Magazines.

The complete novel in the October issue of Lippincott's is "Confessions of an Aide-de-Camp." It is a rattling tale of the Civil War, and the heroine and hero (especially the heroine) pass through some surprising adventures. Other stories are "Tish's Triumph" and "Grandma's Diamonds." The latter is by R. L. Olbar. Apropos of "War and Trade," Fred. Perry Powers maintains that the two are closely related and interacting; that "the more commerce is extended the more danger there is of war, and that war, while possibly necessary for the defence of commerce, tends rather to promote than to check it.

A new era is marked among women's magazines by the October Woman's Home Companion for the wide scope of thought and research covered by its leading articles. Notable among these is Forrest Crissey's practical insight into the work of "The Hull-House Social Settlement," which is profusely illustrated from photographs. Some interesting theories of the social changes likely to be wrought by our ate war with Spain are advanced by John Gilmer Speed, and Hezekiah Butterworth contributing to the series, "Child-Training by the Froebel System," reviews the great work being accomplished by the Kindergarten Homes. A page devoted to "Poems of the Season," is representative of the best verse of the day. The first chapters of a fascinating love-story by Francis Lynde, "A Worshipful Ancestry," is a clever commentary upon society's popular fad, the study of family trees.

Women ought to read the article in the October number of What to Eat, addressed to them by the Extension Cooking School of Chicago. It tells how to join a club whose object it is to lighten household duties and make the home pleasant and beautiful. All questions are answered promptly through What To Eat. The markets of Spain, the new and wonderful tea rooms of Chicago departments stores, stories, poems, etc. make up the number.

HE DESIRES THE FACTS

Commissioners of Inquiry Instructed by the President.

Work Must Be Satisfactory to the People.

Wrongdoers to Be Punished if the Charges Are Sustained.

Washington, Sept. 26.—The president feels assured that the verdict of the commission to investigate the management of the war will be accepted and approved by all right-minded and right-thinking citizens. It was his effort to secure as members men of the highest character and understanding, in whose opinions and judgments the country would have all confidence. He desired to have represented on the board all phases of public and political feeling, every section of the country and all classes of business—professional, commercial and military.

That the president desires that the inquiry should be rigid and searching was indicated by his statement to the commission when it assembled for a conference with him. No limit is placed upon the scope of the investigation. It is to include every department of the army, and the president assures the commission in advance that he will afford it every facility in his power for the prosecution of the most searching inquiry into every part of the administration of the war. In addressing the commission, the president said among other things: "Before suggesting the matters which shall come before you for investigation I desire to express my appreciation to each of you for your willingness to accept the patriotic service to which you have been invited. You are to perform one of the highest public duties that can fall to a citizen, and your unselfishness in undertaking it makes me profoundly grateful.

"There has been in many quarters severe criticism of the conduct of the war with Spain. Charges of criminal neglect of the soldiers in camp and field and hospital and in transports have been so persistent that, whether true or false, they have made a deep impression upon the country. It is my earnest desire that would thoroughly investigate these charges and make the fullest examination of the administration of the war department in all of its branches, with the view to establishing the truth or falsity of these accusations. I put upon you no limit to the scope of your investigation. Of all the departments connected with the administration I invite the closest scrutiny and examination, and shall afford every facility for the most searching inquiry. The records of the war department and the assistance of its officers shall be subject to your call.

"I cannot impress upon you too strongly my wish that your investigation shall be so thorough and complete that your report when made will fix the responsibility for any failure or fault, by reason of neglect, incompetency or mal-administration, upon the officers and bureaus responsible therefor, if it be found that the evils complained of have existed.

"The people of the country are entitled to know whether or not the citizens who so promptly responded to the call of duty have been neglected or misused or maltreated by the government to which they so willingly gave their services. If there have been wrongs committed, the wrongdoers must not escape conviction and punishment."

Sketches of the Commissioners.

The following are brief biographical sketches of all members of the commission except Dr. Connor of Cincinnati, who han not yet arrived in Washington:

Major General Grenville M. Dodge, president of the commission, born April 12, 1831; graduate of Norwich (Vt.) university as a civil engineer; entered service, April, 1861, as captain. In 1865-66 assigned to command of the Indian campaign. Left the army in 1866. Built Union Pacific railroad and Texas Pacific. Was member of congress from Iowa. Since then he has been connected with railway systems of the United States.

Brigadier General John M. Wilson, chief of engineers United States army, was born in the District of Columbia; appointed from Washington territory to the military academy, graduating in 1860, and after serving a short time in ordnance and artillery was assigned to the engineer corps. He served throughout the Civil war, first as an engineer, afterwards as an inspector general, and was engaged in many battles. In 1885 he became superintendent of public buildings and grounds at the capitol, serving in this capacity until 1889, when he was made superintendent of the military academy, where he served until 1893, when he was again made superintendent of public buildings and grounds and served as such until the first of February, 1897, when he was appointed brigadier general, chief of engineers.

Major Stephen C. Mills, inspector general of the United States army, recorder of the commission, was born in New York; appointed to the military academy from Illinois, and graduated in 1877. Major Mills served in a number of Indian wars in the west from 1876 to 1882.

Charles Denby was born in 1830 at Mount Ivy, Bottetout county, Va. Graduated at the Virginia military institute. Took up his residence at Evansville, Ind., in 1853 and has ever since resided there. Is by profession a lawyer. Was lieutenant and colonel in the Forty-second regiment, Indiana volunteers, and afterward colonel of the Eightieth regiment, Indiana volunteers. Was appointed by President Cleveland minister to China May 29, 1885, and remained in that capacity at Pekin until July 11, 1898.

General James Adams Beaver was born in Perry county, Pa., Oct. 21, 1837; graduated at Jefferson college in 1856 and studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1859. He belonged to a military company of which Governor Curtin was captain, and when the war broke out he entered the Union army at the first call for three months; after expiration of the term, re-entered the army for the war as lieutenant colonel of the Forty-fifth Pennsylvania. At Chancellorsville he was shot through the body. At Reams station he lost his left leg. He was selected governor of Pennsylvania in 1886.

Major General Alexander McCook, United States army, retired, is a member of the fighting McCook family of Ohio. He was born April 22, 1831, and appointed to the military academy in 1847. When the Civil war broke out he was on duty at the military academy. He was appointed colonel of the First Ohio volunteers in April, 1861, promoted brigadier general of volunteers in Septe ber, 1861, and major general of volun rs in 1866.

BRIGADIER GENERAL M'COOK.

At the close of the war he served for many years on the staff of General Sherman, and was appointed brigadier general in 1890, promoted major general in 1894, and retired on April 22, 1895. He was selected by President Cleveland as the official representative of the United States at the coronation of the czar in 1896.

Urbana Woodbury, Burlington, Vt., was born in New Hampshire July 11, 1838, and moved to Vermont in 1840. He was educated in the common schools; graduated in medicine from the university of Vermont in 1859; enlisted in company H, Second Vermont volunteers, in May, 1861, and lost his right arm at Bull Run July 21, 1861. He was lieutenant governor of Vermont from 1888 to 1890, and afterwards chosen governor.

Captain Evan P. Howell was born in Milton county, near Atlanta, Ga., on the 10th of December, 1839. He practiced law for a year and entered the confederate army as orderly sergeant. Captain Howell has been a member of four national Democratic conventions, commencing 1876. He was appointed consul to Manchester, Eng., by President Cleveland during his first administration, and declined the place on account of his business.

Colonel James A. Sexton was born in Chicago. He enlisted for three months in 1861. When 17 years old he re-enlisted in the sixty-first Illinois infantry volunteer regiment. During Colonel Sexton's army service he was wounded four times and was mentioned in the reports and general orders of his superior officers several times. Three of his four sons enlisted in the present war with Spain. He is the new commander of the Grand Army of the Republic.

China's Internal Troubles.

London, Sept. 26.—The Times' Pekin correspondent says: "Chang Yin Yaun, the Chinese enemy and rival of Li Hung Chang, who is charged with harboring Kang Yuwei, has been arrested. He is now under trial by the board of punishments. He will be stripped of all his offices, his removal giving increased power to Li Hung Chang.

"The officials generally welcome the empress' return to power, but the people are indifferent. Kang Yuwei is charged with conspiring against the empress dowager. He has been declared an outlaw, and his arrest has been ordered. In the course of an interview he said that he left Pekin on Tuesday in compliance with a secret message from the emperor, warning him of his danger and urging him to obtain assistance from those interested in the country's welfare. He further stated that recent events were entirely due to the action of the Manchu party, headed by the dowager empress and Viceroy Yung Lu and including all the high Manchu officials. The latter were displeased by the emperor's leaning toward the reform party and decided to restore the regency of the dowager. The dowager party is bound by an understanding with the Russians, whereby the latter, in consideration of the support of Russian interests, undertake to preserve Manchuria as the seat of the dynasty and to maintain Manchu rule in China. In pursuance of this compact the gradual substitution of Manchus in all offices and military commands began last year under the direction of the dowager, thus creating sources of friction with the emperor, whose dethronement was frequently threatened. The present movement is entirely Manchu as opposed to Chinese. The influence of Li Hung Chang is now subordinate to that of Yung-Lu and is likely to decrease."

Future Blacksmith Shop.

A blacksmith's shop without a forge may really come to be a popular institution in the near future. The idea originated in Belgium. The metal to be heated is plunged into a metal tub of water, and, apparently with little reason, becomes instantly white hot. As a matter of fact, the metal tub is connected by wire to one pole of a dynamo. The water is acidulated, and when the metal is plunged into the water an arc seems to be established all around the submerged portion, which may then be removed and hammered on an anvil the same as any ordinary heated metal.—Los Angeles Times.

BOSTONS AND BALTIMORES.

Week Fraught With Deep Consequences to the Pennant Chasers.

Boston, Sept. 26.—Ten home games and nine away from home; and then the race of 1898 is run. What will the harvest be? The orioles play Washington twice and Brooklyn thrice. In form, the champions should do nothing less than capture five of the seven this week, and it is within the reach of their capabilities that they win all seven. By so doing they know they are taking $2000 away from another team, unless the home managers wake up and offer them some of the "take-off." "Baltimore has $1800 'cinched' right now," said one of the Boston boys, after the champions won the 2 to 1 game from Pittsburg, "as they divide that sum for capturing the place, while we have got to take $4000 from them if we beat them, and don't get one bit of appreciation shown ourselves for winning the flag. That's pretty tough luck, isn't it? Well, we will win if we can, but there's small satisfaction in winning the trophy."

Last week the Baltimores clung to the leaders with the tenacity of bulldogs, but could not gain on "our own" because they lost their 13th game, after an uninterrupted row of 12 wins, to the Chicagoes, 2 to 0. The orioles won two from Cleveland, three out of four from Chicago, and, with all the other teams in the east unable to play, owing to the storm, took a chance on the senators Saturday, and trounced them handily. Six games won and one lost was a grand week of victories, but the champions surpassed that record by winning five games and losing none. Louisville was beaten twice and Pittsburg three straight, which championship playing enabled Boston to gain a few points in the standing. Games are the things to figure on now, however, and each team will go to the limit to win.

Three new players were in Sunday's game for the Chicagos—Wolverton at third, Taylor and Nichols in the points. All made a favorable showing, Taylor pitching splendid ball until the ninth, when he became a little rattled, hitting a man and giving two passes. Hart of the Pittsburgs proved a mark for the western players.

The Cincinnatis managed to tie the score in the eighth inning of the first game with the Clevelands by good hitting and errors. They won it in the 11th inning by clean hitting. The second game was called at the end of the fifth inning with the score a tie.

Chicago stands first and Cincinnati second in the number of double plays made.

Delehanty leads in the number of stolen bases, Hamilton second, Demont third, Donovan fourth, Clark fifth and Joyce sixth.

Sudhoff's wildness and the poor playing of the St. Louis team gave the Louisvilles a close game yesterday.

The National league standing is as follows: Boston, 669; Baltimores, 647; Cincinnatis, 609; Clevelands, 556; Chicagos, 543; New Yorks, 526; Philadelphias, 519; Pittsburgs, 489; Louisvilles, 452; Brooklyns, 392; Washingtons, 326; St. Louises, 263.

Not a Tax Dodger.

New York, Sept. 26.—Colonel Roosevelt's friends are not at all apprehensive about the result of the convention in Saratoga Tuesday. They will rely upon the written evidence now in the hands of Elihu Root to clear up the question of Colonel Roosevelt being a resident of this state.

The evidence is in the shape of three letters written by Colonel Roosevelt, in which he specifically cautioned his lawyer against jeopardizing his status as a townsman of Oyster Bay, L. I. These letters, too, will absolutely prove that Colonel Roosevelt had no idea of evading his taxes. In fact, one of the letters specifically stated that he would rather pay the taxes assessed against him in this city than have any question arise about his citizenship. At the same time Colonel Roosevelt did not believe he could be held for them. Colonel Roosevelt considers himself a resident of Oyster Bay.

Talk of Sporting Circles.

New York, Sept. 26.—The glove contest for the lightweight championship of the world, which will take place next Wednesday in Coney Island, is causing no end of comment in sporting circles. George "(Kid)" Lavigne of Saginaw, Mich., the champion, and Frank Erne of Buffalo are to be the principals. Both have trained faithfully, and but for the interference of the authorities would have opened the rooms of the Hawthorne club in Cheektowago two weeks ago by settling their relative merits in that arena. Since that neither has let up on his training.

Lavigne had been training for the fray with James J. Corbett at Asbury Park for some weeks. He arrived at Coney Island Sundey. He never looked better in his career, and he said he had no doubt as to the result of the coming bout. Erne's friends are very confident that the Buffalonian will wrest the laurels from the Saginaw boxer.

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A, B, C, D and E. Today's instalment concludes the F's:

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

Good Afternoon.

The Ledger has received from Camp Meade a map of the camp showing the location of each regiment, the headquarters of the brigade, hospital, parade, etc. It is a very good thing, but the Chief Engineer of the 2d Corps lays himself open to severe criticism by allowing a distillery to advertise whiskey on the back. The soldier boys have too many temptations without having such flaming advertisement continually with them. If the government prepares plans of its camps it should furnish them to the soldiers without advertisements of any kind. It certainly should not allow a liquor concern to use its maps or distribute any literature upon the grounds. The Fifth Massachusetts has been very free from liquor and intoxication and we want the boys protected in the future.

Boys Missing.

Frank Bavin of Union street reports his son George, a lad of fourteen years, and two Burke boys of the neighborhood to be missing since Friday morning. The Bavin boy was given a dollar and sent to the store on an errand. He was expected back in time to go to school Friday morning, but has not yet appeared. The Burke boys, who are supposed to be with him, are thought to be without money. The Bavin boy goes to the Coddington school. When he disappeared he wore a white and blue blouse, a very dark grey coat, navy blue pants, and a checkered cap. It is probable that the boys have run away.

High School Notes.

One hundred and six pupils are preparing at the Quincy High school for higher institutions including Harvard, Radcliffe, Boston University, Wellesley, Smith, Lawrence Scientific school, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Bridgewater Normal, Boston Normal, Normal Art, Tufts, Oberlin, etc.

Miss Miriam B. Lane of the Quincy High school, will read a paper on "The Value of of Local History in Training for Citizenship," at the annual convention of the teachers of Norfolk County, October 21.

Volume 8, number 1, of the Goldenrod will appear October 20.

Marches at Camp Meade.

A Camp Meade dispatch of Sunday to the journal, says, Gen. Graham expects to begin practice march soon by regiments. They will march to rendezvous within a radius of ten miles of camp and will take with them baggage and water wagons and ambulances for the sick. The health of the corps, with the exception of the New York regiments, is excellent, and unless there is a change the troops will stay here until cold weather. The prospects are that the First Division will be the first ordered South to prepare for duty in the West Indies and Philippines.

To prevent the spread of typhoid fever in camp, the Two Hundred and Third New York Regiment, which is infected with the disease, will be isolated from the other troops. There are several hundred cases in the three New York Regiments, which came here recently from Camp Black. Chief Surgeon Girard says the fever had its incipiency in the New York camp, and the sick will be sent to Philadelphia hospitals. The Red Cross Society will send a hospital train to camp Monday from Philadelphia to take away 100 patients.

RESULTED FATALLY.

Manslaughter Now the Charges Against Fitzgerald and Hayden.

Michael Saville, the crossing tender at the Cross street crossing of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. at West Quincy, who was severely injured while trying to save two drunken men from driving in front of an approaching train on Sept. 18, died at the City Hospital this morning from injuries received at that time.

Saville was swinging his lantern to warn people of an approaching train, when Daniel Fitzgerald and Frederick L. Hayden drove up in a team. Both men were intoxicated and not heeding the warning signal attempted to drive onto the crossing. Saville seized the horse by his head too hold the animal back. Upon this it is alleged that Fitzgerald who was driving struck the horse, forcing him ahead throwing Saville against the train, the wheels of which passed over one foot which was badly mangled. One rib was also fractured and he was injured internally resulting in death.

Fitzgerald and Hayden the two men were arrested by Officer Bradley and arraigned in court for assault, upon which complaint they were held in $500 and $300 until Thursday morning to wait the result of Saville's injuries. This morning a new complaint was issued and tomorrow morning they will be arraigned for manslaughter.

Saville was about 53 years of age and leaves a widow and four children.

ADAMS CHAPTER.

Hospitably Entertained at Squantum Inn by Mrs. N. V. Titus.

Although very stormy and windy on Saturday afternoon several members of Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, braved the elements and responded to their regent's invitation to an outing at Squantum Inn. A hospitable welcome awaited them. Mr. Lee received the guests at the door and ushered them into the presenc of Mrs. Nelson V. Titus, who received all in her usual cordial, hearty manner.

A bright fire in the big fireplace added its warmth and cheerfulness to the hostess' greeting, and soon chairs were drawn up in a big circle around the fire and all were chatting and feeling very much at home.

The fireplace in the large hall at Squantum Inn is one of its prettiest features. The chimney is of large cobble stones, cemented symetrically and above the broad mantle in the centre is an arch in which is a large bronze head of Squanto, the Indian from whom Squantum is named.

A dainty lunch such as Lee always serves, and for which he has become so well known to Bostonians, was served in the large dining hall, consisting of hot escalloped oysters, dainty sandwiches, ices, cake, coffee and chocolate. After an inspection of the Inn by the ladies, as it was new to most of them, a return was made to the fire, all being full of praise of the Inn, its fine view, its fine rooms and conveniences. In the glow of the fireplace, chapter work for the coming season was vigorously discussed and many plans made for future meetings, furnishing the John Adams birthplace, and entertainments. So enjoyable was the occasion that all were loth to leave, but electrics are like time and tide so at five o'clock all departed for their homes.

A Quiet Home Wedding.

At the home of her parents, Miss Exelis Beaulieu of West Quincy, was united in marriage to Leonard H. Nason of Worcester by Rev. Mr. Englund on Saturday Sept 24. The parlor was handsomely decorated with evergreen and flowers.

The bride came in resting on the arm of her father he giving her away. She was dressed in a pretty swiss muslin. Her sister Grace acted as bridesmaid, and the best man was her brother Wesley, and the flower girl was her sister Etta. Grace and Etta were dressed in white muslin.

After the ceremony refreshments were served. The amusement of the evening concluded with vocal and instrumental music. Many presents were sent to the happy pair. Mr. and Mrs. Nason will reside in Worcester, where they will be at home after Oct 1.

But Few to be Sold.

Tax Collector Baker was besieged all day Saturday by people whose property he had advertised to sell at auction this afternoon who wanted to pay up and thus save their homes. City Hall was closed Saturday afternoon and when people called and could not find the collector they journeyed to Wollaston and caught him at his home and he was kept busy all the afternoon and evening taking in money. Those who did not find Mr. Baker Saturday were after him this morning and his office was a busy place.

AT CAMP MEADE.

Less Drilling for Fifth Mass. Under New Set of Calls.

Co K, Camp Meade,
Sept. 24th, 1898.

The usual parade took place last evening, Col. Whitney being the reviewing officer. Last night was very windy, but dry. This morning the boys are allowed to sleep fifteen minutes later, a new set of calls taking effect commencing today. They are as follows:

Reveille 1st call 5.30, assembly 5.45.
Mess breakfast, 6.00.
Police of camp fatigue, 6.30.
Sick, 6.30.
Drill company on squad, 8.30.
Recall, 9.30.
Guard mount, 10.30.
Officers school, 10.45.
1st sergeants, 11.30.
Mess dinner, 12.00.
Non-commissioned officers school, 1.30.
Drill, battalion or regimental, 2.30.
Recall, 3.30.
Parade, 4.30.
Mess supper, 5.30.
Retreat, 6.00.
Tattoo (call to quarters) 9.15.
Taps, (all lights out) 9.30.
Saturday—Inspection 8.30, guard mount after inspection.
Sunday—Church 9.00.

The new calls give the boys a little more leisure time to themselves. Before they went into effect, we had to drill 2 1-2 hours, now with new calls, only 2 hours each day. Same regulations as in regular army.

Inspection this morning is the regular weekly inspection, consisting of examining rifles, clothes, belts, quarters and general appearance of men. Inspecting Officer, Capt. McDonald, Charlestown.

The following who came off guard and were with passes are Private Belcher, Bowler, R. F. Buckley, F. E. Clapp and Chase.

Those for guard duty for today are Privates Leonard, Newcomb, Osgood, O'Connor, Olsen, Oliver, Pierce and Piravano, Rostelli, supernumery. No non-commissioned officers taken from company for guard duty today.

This afternoon will be our usual Saturday half holiday; nothing takes place only parade, which is called for 4.30. So the boys can rest until Monday morning, then they begin their hard work over again.

The Colonel's quarter have been moved from centre of camp to the woods in rear of Christian Commission this makes a very delightful site for headquarters, free from all dust. In their former position, they got a good share of the dust of roads.

At guard mount Co. K again captured the prize for the cleanest man and best rifle. The orderly's name being Private Fred W. Newcomb, the second one of Corp. Matthews' squad to be the Colonel's orderly this week. The corporal must have a lucky squad. It is a good thing to have a squad leader who looks after the welfare of his men.

Major Morrison of the 2d Battalion of which K is senior company, took his office on the Summary Court, yesterday. He will see that every man who deserts will be properly taken care of. Major Clements, we understand, is about to resign, on account of ill health, so Captain Clare of Co. M, Hudson, will in all probability succeed him as Major. VOLUNTEER.

Army Commission.

The Army Christian Commission has not finished its labors although the war has ceased. As long as the Fifth, Sixth and Eighth Massachusetts and First Rhode Island are in the field, two workers with tent and equipment consisting of reading matter, stationery, organ, singing books, etc., will be maintained with each regiment. During the summer months alone the expense of tents, stationery, ice-water, and support of workers has been $5,000 for the two States. The workers have marched and suffered with the soldiers. Some have endured fever, and all have made great sacrifices. The correspondent of the Boston Globe writes of one as follows: "He has helped attend the sick, has been with the men on the hard mountain roads when the sun blazed hot, has slept with them in the wet, given them paper and envelopes to write their friends and in every way shown himself a believer in the themes he preaches."

The work among the volunteers from these two States will be under the supervision of the State Executive Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and contributions for this work will be thankfully received by F. O. Winslow, Treasurer, 167 Tremont street, Boston.

Mushroom Plumbers.

There are mushrooms that are delightful. There are toadstools that will "kill you dead"

There are plumbers that undestand their business and have been established for years. They are safe to deal with, but beware of the mushroom plumber who today is, and tomorrow is not.

Plumbing a house is a serious matter and you should not be caught napping by employing inexperienced or faking workmen.

C. B. BATES

has had twenty-five years of practical experience, which is the best credential you can find, and your interests so far as plumbing and house-heating are concerned, will be safe in his hands.

If You Have a House to Let,

PAICE WILL WIN.

So Says Frederick W. Peabody,

Who Discredited Atwood and Created Barrows.

Says Barrows is Likely to Lose His Own Ward.

It will be remembered that it was Mr. Atwood's abandonment of his criminal libel suit against Frederick W. Peabody to prove he had not, as Mr. Peabody charged, "robbed the city of Boston of upwards $80,000" during his term of office as city architect, that so thoroughly discredited Mr. Atwood two years ago.

The suit was in process of trial before a jury, and Mr. Atwood's cross examination had not been completed, when he asked the District Attorney to stop the trial and suspend the prosecution. Mr. Peabody consented to that disposition of the case, because, in the words of his counsel, Hon. Moorfield Storey "A public confession coming through the lips of the District Attorney is better than any verdict that could be returned by the jury."

That ended the political career of Mr. Atwood but did not end his desire to be in congress, as his hopeless struggle two years ago and his still more hopeless struggle this year prove. Politically speaking however, he is dead as a door nail, and Mr. Peabody was his political executioner.

Mr. Peabody was also the political creator of Congressman Barrows. He it was discovered Mr. Barrows got him to run, boomed him in the papers, organized his campaign and behind the screen of a nominal campaign committee pulled the wires and did the work that aroused the anti-Atwood sentiment of the district as it was never aroused before.

This year Mr. Peabody is not a resident of the district, and is consequently not taking an active part in the contest. It is well known, however, that he is heartily sick of his bargain and thinks the Barrows record of broken pledges, and active opposition of his party in congress, together with his well known Spanish sympathies make Mr. Barrows a congressional impossibility, and bury him as deep beneath the political sod as Atwood's proven dishonesty buries him.

If any one knows the district from A to Z Mr. Peabody does, and his prediction is supported by the opinions of others best qualified to judge.

The following statement of Mr. Peabody in the columns of the Evening Transcript gives his understanding of the situation.

"I am not a resident or a voter in the Tenth district, and consequently shall not attend the caucuses. I believe, however, it is a mistake to urge Republicans to vote for Mr. Barrows, as I am confident he has not the slightest prospect of a nomination. Whether rightly or wrongly, justly or unjustly, Mr. Barrows is not popular with his Republican constituents taken as a whole, and his candidacy for a renomination can have no other effect than to aid the efforts of Mr. Atwood to foist himself upon the district. The contest is clearly between Atwood and Paige, and if Barrows does not get enough votes to nominate Atwood, Paige will win."

"A few days before the caucuses which nominated Mr. Barrows "two years ago, on behalf of the Barrows campaign committee I sent to "the Boston papers a statement that Mr. Barrows would have between 80 "and 85 of the 117 delegates to be elected. He had 83, and Atwood had 34. This year I venture the prediction that Mr. Barrows will not have half as many delegates as Atwood had two years ago, with a strong probability that he will not elect one delegate in the Tenth District. His own ward is confidently claimed, with good reason as I believe, by the supporters of Mr. Paige.

"If the friends of clean government are more anxious to defeat Atwood than they are to give Mr. Barrows the barren compliment of an insignificant representation in the convention they will vote direct for Mr. Paige as the only possible means of saving the District from the disgrace of Atwood."

For Congress.

Hon. Milton C. Paige, the Republican candidate for congressional honors in this district, seems to be an exceedingly popular man. He is not only highly spoken of on the street, but the newspapers all seem to have a good word. Even the Boston Herald, which politically opposes him, says: Everything we hear personally of Mr. Paige is to his credit; an industrious, popular man."

DANGER IN SODA.

Serious Results Sometimes Follow Its Excessive Use.

Common soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking an washing purposes, but it was never intended for a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it.

We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heart burn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice almost daily, and one which is fraught with danger; moreover the soda only gives temporary relief and in the end the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

The soda acts as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels and cases are on record where it accumulated in the intestines, causing death by inflammation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harlandson recommends as the safest and surest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large 20 grain lozenges, very pleasant to taste and contain the natural acids, peptones and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals they digest the food perfectly and promptly before it has time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Wuerth states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements and finds them a certain cure not only for sour stomach, but by promptly digesting the food they create a healthy appetite, increase flesh and strengthen the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but intended only for stomach disease and weakness and will be found reliable in any stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents per package.

A little book describing all forms of stomach weaknesses and their cure mailed free by addressing the Stuart Co. of Marshall, Mich. 3t 26-28-30.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

A congress of mothers, under the auspices of the national organization, will be held in Omaha Oct. 8, 9 and 10, by invitation of the Trans-Mississippi exposition.

The Casque and Gauntlet senior fraternity house of Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H., was damaged to the extent of $500 by fire. The cause of the blaze was a defect in the electric light wires

General John B. Callis died in Lancaster, Wis. While in congress he introduced the original resolution on which was afterwards based the celebrated Ku Klux bill, which resulted in rooting out that organization.

The South Congregational society of South Weymouth, Mass., quietly observed its 175th anniversary Sunday. The church was organized in September, 1723, and is the second oldest religious body within the borders of the Weymouths.

It is announced in Madrid that 10,000 Spaniards residing in the island of Porto Rico have refused to live under the American flag, and have demanded that they be returned to Spain at the expense of the government. The question of the repatriation of the discontented Spaniards has been referred to the state council.

The German bark Olga arrived at the Delaware breakwater last night for orders, from Samarang, Japan, laden with sugar. She brought to a close a voyage of strange fatalities, having only a few of the original officers on board, Captain Dreyer, her commander, and five others having died of scurvy, which so often breaks out on board vessels from the far east.

Busy Life Ended.

Bellefont, Pa., Sept. 26.—Thomas Collins, the last but one of the once widely-known firm of railroad contractors, Collins Brothers, died yesterday at his home in this city, aged 75 years. He had been ill for the past year or two, and was convalescent from an attack of typhoid fever, when gangrene set in and caused death.

The firm, in which Thomas Collins was the principal spirit, is said to have built hundreds of miles of railroad more than any firm in the world. It was composed of six brothers, born of poor parents and with but few educational opportunities. The brothers made and lost several large fortunes, and they won praise by the spirit with which they went to work to retrieve their losses. The firm's heaviest financial disaster resulted from a contract made with the English government in 1877 to construct the Madeira and Mamore railroad in Brazil. The brothers left on a ship with supplies, iron and several hundred men. While off Cape Hatteras, the vessel was wrecked and nearly all on board lost their lives. The Collins brothers escaped and immediately set to work to carry out the contract. Another ship was chartered, and several years had been spent in building the road, when the English government refused to pay. It practically ruined the firm, but the brothers started anew, and once more achieved success, but not in the same measure as had been theirs before the building of the Brazilian road.

The Antiquity of Glass.

Glass has been employed, we know, both for decorative and domestic purposes since the dawn of civilization. The earliest remains date from Egypt 3064 B. C. and are preserved in the British museum. It is an amulet, in the form of a lion's head, of opaque blue color, with hieroglyphics that determine its date. On the rock cut tombs of the necropolis of Memphis glass blowers were depicted as early as 3900 B. C. Stories are told by Pliny, Josephus and other writers to account for its discovery, but these are very doubtful, so that we have only to rely upon facts attested by actual remains.

The discovery was doubtless fortuitous. Such lucky finds are often the work of chance. When it occurred, we cannot determine; but, so far as we know, Egypt, as she was the germ of all civilization, was also the mother of this art, which she applied to a multitude of purposes, strangely excepting that which we deem most necessary—namely, to admit light into buildings.

The dwellers by the Nile handed down the art to the Phœnicians, who in like manner bequeathed it to the Assyrians. Then it was passed along to the Persians and the Greeks, then to the Romans and the Byzantines, who in turn communicated it to the Venetians. The monks of the middle ages appropriated it to beautify their Gothic temples, and so it came down the centuries to modern times.—Frank H. Vizetelly in Woman's Home Companion.

A Hopeless Case.

A Scottish paper tells a story of an old Scottish woman who was "unco' drouthie," without the money to buy "a drappie." "Lassie," she said to her little granddaughter, "gang round to Donald McCallum and bring me a gill. Tell him I'll pay him i' the morning."

Back came the child with a refusal. Donald declined to part with his whisky without the cash. Eager and irritated, the old woman cast about for some means of "raising the wind," and her eye fell upon the family Bible. "Here, lassie," she said, "gie him this and tell him to keep it until I bring him the siller." Off went the little girl, but she soon returned, still carrying the Bible. Donald was obdurate.

"He says he maun hae the baubees first, granny."

In anger the disappointed grandmother threw up her hands and exclaimed: "Losh, did onybody ever hear the like o' that! The man will neither tak my word nor the word o' God for a gill o' whusky!"

How Snake Poison Kills.

The action of poisons upon the system is and always has been one of the most interesting of subjects. Just how and why it kills has been determined through a series of experiments made by scientists. The following description is unquestionably the best and most lucid of any that has been given to the public: "The venom may be roughly separated into two parts—one acting upon the blood, and the other upon the nerves. When injected, it immediately begins to create terrible destruction in the blood vessels, the walls of the veins are eaten away and an internal hemorrhage takes place. While this is going on a portion of the venom is attacking the nerves. Particularly susceptible to its ravages is the 'vasomotor' system, a nerve center which controls the muscles of respiration. Paralysis takes place in these organs, and the victim generally dies from an inability to breathe."—New York Ledger.

Bismarck's Ancestors.

It is stated that the Bismarcks first made their appearance in Brandenburg as cloth merchants. In 1430 or thereabout it is believed that one Claus Bismarck advanced a sum of money to the Margrave Ludwig, which was secured upon the customs of his native town. The citizens, however, rebelling against this arrangement, the margrave assigned to Claus Bismarck the fief of Burgstall, and it was in this manner that the nobility of the family began. In the middle of the sixteenth century the Bismarcks came under the sway of the Hohenzollerns, to whom they have ever remained faithful vassals.—London Globe.

A Fancy For Old Hats.

The inhabitants of the Nicobar islands, a group in the Indian ocean, have an extraordinary fancy for old hats, and a regular trade in such cast off headgear is carried on between Calcutta and Nicobar, the much desired headpieces being paid for in cocoanuts. A tall chimney pot is the favorite among the Nicobarians, and the acme of fashion is considered to be a high white hat with a black hatband. This is worth from 50 to 60 cocoanuts, and is worn by the Nicobarian dandy when he goes out fishing, the rest of his attire consisting solely of a waistcoat.

Willing to Fortify.

It was a few minutes before dinner when little Fred inquired:

"Mamma, have I been bad today?"

"Yes, Freddie, very bad indeed."

"Do you think you'll send me to bed without any supper?"

"I have a great mind to."

"Well, mamma, I wish you would let me know now, so that I can tell how much dinner to eat."—Pick Me Up.

The Scoffer—Why do missionaries make such great efforts to train the heathen to wearing clothes? Are dresses and bonnets a necessary part of religion?

The Missionary—No, but nothing makes a woman come to church regularly so well as knowing that the other women will be there in new bonnets.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

GEN. ALGER IN FLORIDA

Accomplishments In the Spanish War Expatiated On.

The Record a Monument to National Greatness.

God Thanked That the North and South Are Firmly United.

Jacksonville, Sept. 26.—Sunday Secretary Alger and party visited the camp of the Seventh corps. At the conclusion of his labors Secretary Alger said in response to a question: "I am highly delighted with all I have seen, and am very agreeably surprised at the conditions that I find existing in Camp Cuba Libre."

A luncheon was tendered at noon and in response to a toast the secretary said: "I have visited Jacksonville once or twice before, but never with the same interest as today. I have listened with pleasure, but with no surprise, to the resolutions that have been read as to how the citizens of Jacksonville have got along with General Lee. Anyone can get along with him that will let him have his own way. I know him pretty well, and you have been sagacious in letting him run things here. The organizing and equipping of an army of 50,000 men carrying on a war in two continents in the space of three months has been a tremendous undertaking. The secretary of war has been ably assisted in this undertaking by the surgeon general and the quartermaster's department. They have been criticised, but not to the extent the secretary of war has been, yet I know the work they have accomplished has been little short of miraculous. When this war began, the clothing that the men have worn was on the backs of animals. There was no ammunition, no transportation; there was nothing beyond the war department but a great, rich nation burning with patriotism. Almost in a night an army was organized and equipped that paralyzed the nation with which we had to deal, and has awakened the admiration of the world. I have no apology to make for what has been done. I am willing to let the record of the campaign stand and speak for itself. United States Senator Morgan said to me before he left for the Hawaiian islands, 'The world has never seen nor will it see again the mobilization of such an army and the accomplishing with it of what has been done with this one in such a short period.' It matters not what may become of me. I may be buried in oblivion or in the grave, but the unbiased historian will give the world the impartial record of what has been accomplished, and the record will stand forever as a monument to the greatness of this nation and of its boundless resources. We are a great nation. We don't have to depend on any other on earth, and our resources are such that we can be independent of all. We should have a standing army enough for our needs. We should have a great navy that we may take our place among the leading nations of the world.

"When this war began I issued an order that the north and south should be brigaded together. They have been united, and it is proven that the sectional lines of the north and the south no longer exist, and I thank God that I have lived to see the day when we have a united country."

Surgeon General Sternberg, in an interview, said that he did not think he should be held responsible for the mistakes of all the officers under him, and yet he had been criticised for all that had happened. He said that every requisition for supplies had been promptly filled, and he did not know of but one item that had been cut from a requisition, and that was chewing gum. His department had been ready to meet every demand, and if the supplies wanted had not been asked for, it was not his fault. Regarding female nurses, he said his position had been misunderstood. He had been in favor of them from the start, and did not know how it would be possible to get along without them. As to the hospitals here, he was highly pleased and found the sick being well cared for. In contrast to other camps, the purity of the water supply was unquestionable. He had made inquiry at random, and had not heard a single complaint during the entire day.

Chaplain McIntyre's Defense.

Denver, Sept. 26.—Two specialists on nervous diseases examined Chaplain McIntyre of the Oregon yesterday, with regard to his nervous and mental condition. The examination was made at the request of the chaplain's brother and legal advisers, indicating that his defense before the courtmartial by which he is to be tried on charges growing out of his alleged criticism of the conduct of Admiral Sampson and Captain Evans, will probably be temporary aberration due to sickness contracted while in the line of duty.

Maria Teresa Afloat.

Playa Del Este, Sept. 26.—The wrecking company engaged under Lieutenant Hobson in the work of saving the wrecked Spanish warships has succeeded in floating the Infanta Maria Teresa. The cruiser, after being got afloat, was taken in tow by the Potomac and, convoyed by the Newark, the Scorpion and the Alvarado, proceeded for Guantonamo bay, where she arrived Saturday night. The successful issue of the attempt was greeted with the blowing of whistles, the firing of national salutes and by cheers, in which the Cubans joined.

Chaplain's Serious Charges.

Philadelphia, Sept. 26.—Rev. Cyrus T. Brady, archdeacon of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of eastern Pennsylvania and chaplain of the First regiment Pennsylvania volunteers, in a sermon Sunday severely criticised the management of the volunteer camps which came under his supervision at Chickamauga, where his regiment was stationed for a long time. He said the medical, commissary, quartermaster and ordnance departments were all to blame.

"I personally saw men in the hospitals in camps for 35 hours without any medical attendance whatever," said he. "I saw men in those hospitals suffering from the fever with the rain beating down upon them. I saw men committed to the care of unskilled attendants when it was absolutely impossible for them to receive anything like the attention they deserved. I saw men suffering from fever, lying with their mouths open, and their mouths filled with flies."

In conclusion the archdeacon said: "I wonder if I dare, being still in the government service, say more. There is much more that might be told if it were proper for me to tell it, but perhaps this will suffice. I had not intended to touch upon this phase of our experience at all, but when I think that these things have taken place in this, the richest, greatest and presumably the most advanced nation on the face of the earth, I cannot hold my peace."

Will Pay No Duty.

Washington, Sept. 26.—The Cuban commission has effected an arrangement with the Spanish authorities whereby the Comal, carrying a cargo of supplies for the suffering people of Cuba, will be permitted to land her cargo at Matanzas free of duty. This is the text of the war department's statement: "The Comal has been ordered to sail for Matanzas, where her stores will be distributed under the direction of a commission to be agreed upon by the commissions on evacuation. The arrangement affects the Comal only."

Hundreds In Danger of Starvation.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 26.—Brindley Mills and P. G. Grant, two members of a Montreal syndicate, arrived here Sunday after spending four months in trying to get through to the gold country over the Ashcroft trail. At Quesnell they met Sir Arthur Curtis, an English baron, and his party, and also ran across them at Mud river, where Sir Arthur disappeared and was never seen again by a white man. Mr. Mills said they joined in the search with Indians for the body. He is confident that the latter know all about the nobleman's death, and where the body might be found. They want $1000 reward for bringing it out of the woods. The unfourtunate nobleman, Mills believes, met with foul play.

Mills and his party were lost four days without food 100 miles from Telegraph creek. On one occasion they took the advice of a treacherous Indian guide and went 50 miles out of their way. They describe the experience as terrible. They declare emphatically that the route is a fraud and that hundreds of poor fellows are in actual danger of starvation on it now. They are stalled 50 and 100 miles apart without provisions and without hope. Mills and Grant started out with 58 horses and left 30 on the road. Their outfits are also lost, and when they reached Telegraph creek, they were broken in health and without money.

Competing In Austria.

Washington, Sept. 26.—The United States consul at Vienna ascribes the general decrease in exports to this country to the fact that the same goods are now manufactured in the United States and can be sold there at the same or lower prices than the Austrian goods. The report is that American silk is being sold in Lyons, the real silk center of Europe, and that French manufacturers are buying it in large quantities, especially that used for lining purposes, to take the place of that formerly imported from Austria and Germany. There is a falling off in the demand for pearl goods and for glassware, due to the popularity and superiority of the American products. It is frankly admitted, the consul says, that the American cut glass is finer and more elegantly cut than any manufactured in Europe.

The American bicycle, according to the consul, is finding favor with the wheelmen, notwithstanding its higher price over those of domestic make. He thinks that if the United States manufacturers desire to get their wheels into the foreign markets, they should be satisfied with a less profit and try to make easier terms for their agents. The wheels sent from America are generally without mud guards, brakes and other necessities, and the agent is put to the additional expense and trouble of supplying them. There is a growing demand for American canned goods, but high prices prevail because the goods go through the hands of middlemen.

Advocates an Alliance.

Boston, Sept. 26.—Rev. John Clifford, pastor of a Baptist church in London, and also president of the free evangelical churches of Great Britain, preached at Tremont Temple Sunday morning on "The Anglo-American Alliance." He said it was the desire of nearly every true citizen of both countries that there should be an alliance, and that both nations should co-operate in the service of mankind. It would bring about a solid and enduring progress, and the advancement of the kingdom of God.

He could confidently speak with regard to the people of England, the churches and the ministers. The upper classes in England were coming into line on this subject with the lower classes. There was almost a universal pulse of interest in England for the consolidation of these two peoples.

The preacher contended that an Anglo-American alliance was the inevitable step that must be taken, because the two nations were of one stock; because the two nations spoke one tongue; because they read one literature, and because they had one religion.

Talk of a General Strike.

Brockton, Sept. 26.—The striking lasters were busy Sunday mapping out plans for the contest with the manufacturers, and all expressed themselves confident of winning. After the mass meeting there was a conference of district committees, including representatives from all the neighboring shoe towns, and it was decided to notify the manufacturers that if the machine companies did not remove their agents every man under the jurisdiction of the committee would be ordered out, and the strike at once extended.

The joint meeting of the sole fasteners, cutters and lasters Tuesday evening is regarded as one of the most important yet held, and it is stated that action may be taken toward a general strike of shoe workers throughout the state.

FOUND IN OPIUM DIVE.

New York Woman Who Absconded With Her Brother's Money.

Located In Boston and Returned to Her Home.

Became Addicted to the Seductive Drug Early In Her Teens.

Boston, Sept. 26.—Another woman of refined family, and whose character was thought to be above suspicion, has been found in one of the places whose frequenters are the lovers of opium. The latest victim is Catherine Wausbern of Troy, who goes home under escort of a detective ostensibly to answer a charge of having absconded with a goodly pile of her brother's wealth.

It is understood that this charge was formally preferred by the brother in order that he might have her taken to Troy, where an effort will be made to cure her of her terrible habit. Until about a week ago no one of her family had the slightest idea that Catherine was addicted to opium. She is now about 30 years of age, and it would appear that she has been a devotee of the drug for about 14 years.

Catherine was very bright for her age at 16 years, and wrote a number of short stories and poems, which were accepted by various periodicals. One day she said she intended to write a novel in which should be portrayed every side of life of which she could possibly obtain a view. Shortly after this she disappeared, and after two months she appeared in the best of health and said she had been spending some of the money she had saved in traveling about, looking for the life she wished to portray in her book.

She then settled down ostensibly to write her impressions of what she had seen. Then again she disappeared, and it was two years before she returned. Again she was gone three years, and at length, as she grew older and lived on her own responsibility, she would drop out of Troy life for months or years at a time. When asked about her book she always said it was coming on famously, and read passages from it, which were greatly admired.

Although her life was anything but a conventional one, no word had even been breathed derogatory to her character. Her relatives loved to think of some day seeing her a famous authoress. Two months ago she disappeared, as was her wont, but this time she took over $600 with her belonging to her brother.

Thomas Wausbern traced her to Boston. After a quiet hunt over the city for a number of days he located her in a Chinatown joint. During her various disappearances she has been in the Chinese sections of most of the great cities. At one time she was in San Francisco. Her brother was almost prostrated at the shock of finding his sister in the place and in the company of the dozing Chinamen, who merely wagged their heads when he took her away.

Waiting For Dr. Guilford's Arrest.

Bridgeport, Sept. 26.—While the Gill murder case may now be said to be practically in statu quo, awaiting the arrest of Dr. "Nancy" Guilford, the police are searching for all evidence to make the case more complete. A search of the Guilford house settles beyond a doubt that the girl died there, and it was also learned that her death took place sometime during Sunday, Sept. 11. Incriminating articles belonging to Mrs. Guilford were found in the search of the premises. It is believed that the first portion of the dismembered body was thrown into the pond sometime between 10 and 11 o'clock Sunday night. It has also been ascertained that Mrs. Guilford hired a conveyance that Sunday night and was gone two hours, and the Monday night following she had the same carriage again, and was gone until 1 o'clock the next morning.

Opposition to Revision.

Paris, Sept. 26.—There was a meeting Sunday for the purpose of protesting against a revision of the Dreyfus proceedings, at which the chairman made a speech violently denouncing Mr. Brisson and all the prominent supporters of revision, and declared that if a revolution broke out and a scaffold was erected in Paris the first head ought to be that of Clemenceau. If Dreyfus ever returned to France he would be lynched. In conclusion the speaker announced the intention to reconstitute the League of Patriots, which the government formerly dissolved, and a resolution to this effect was carried by acclamation.

New England Moulders.

Worcester, Sept. 26.—A two days' convention of the moulders of New England ended yesterday. The conference board was reorganized with the following officers: President, James H. O'Neil, Providence; vice president, William H. Gardner, Worcester; treasurer, J. F. P. Frey, Worcester; financial secretary, P. H. Kilcoyne, Lawrence. An organizer will be appointed at the first meeting of the advisory board in October. The constitution and by-laws were not materially changed.

Mistaken For a Deer.

New York, Sept. 26.—Mistaken for a deer in the wilds of the Adirondacks, Scott Currier, 14 years old, was accidentally killed last Friday afternoon. The news of the accident was received at his home yesterday. Scott was accompanied by his father and a party of friends from Mt. Vernon, who were on a hunting expedition. It is not known who fired the fatal shot. Dr. Currier, who is a prominent New York specialist, lives in Mt. Vernon.

Two Men Burned to Death.

Manchester, Conn., Sept. 26.—A fire was discovered in the bakery of Frank Goetz Sunday morning, resulting in the complete destruction of the extensive establishment, and John Loetles and Rob (last name unknown), the two night bakers, were burned to death in their rooms. The money loss on buildings and contents is about $40,000; insurance, $25,000 on stock and $10,000 on buildings. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

SECURING EVIDENCE.

Net With Close Meshes Being Woven About Dr. Guilford.

Meat Saw With Particles of Flesh Found.

Colored Woman Thought to Have Assisted the Abortionist.

Bridgeport, Sept. 27.—That the police have not exhausted their resources in securing evidence in the Emma Gill case is apparent. Monday witnessed additional developments in this direction. Probably the most interesting find of the day was a meat saw that was discovered at the house of Rose Drayton, Mrs. Guilford's colored laundress. The saw blade bore evidence of recent use, and particles found on it are believed to be human flesh and marrow of human bones. State Chemist Wheeler made a microscopical examination, which has not been made public, but the officials since the examination express themselves positively that the particles were of a human substance.

The find is a most important one, as it removes all suspicion of Eudora Guilford being connected with her mother in the dismemberment of the remains, while, on the other hand, it would indicate pretty clearly that the colored woman was the midwife's assistant. It has been learned too that Mrs. Drayton has been writing to Mrs. Guilford since the latter's hasty departure from the city, and, with other evidence that has been secured, it will cause the officials to hold the woman pretty closely.

Oxley's connection with the affair as told by his brother, who visited the arrested man at the jail, is given considerable credence, particularly in his home town, where both Emma Gill and Oxley lived, and where both were best known. It is in brief that Emma Gill told him she was in trouble and wanted money to be operated upon by Mrs. Guilford. Upon the advice of Guernsey, he offered to marry the girl, but she desired to marry another man. Oxley will not admit that he is responsible for the girl's condition and disclaims sending her to the midwife. On the contrary it was something she had determined upon when she asked for the money, and she went to Mrs. Guilford's house of her own volition. The police say that such a confession has not been made to them. Oxley's father was sadly disappointed when he learned that his son was to be held on a charge of manslaughter instead of an attempt to procure an abortion, as preferred originally, and that bail would not be fixed on the latest charge until Saturday next.

Fred Welch, son of Alderman Welch, who has been paying attentions to Eudora Guilford, and was known to have spent a few hours in the house on that fateful Sunday night, was subjected to a very severe examination at headquarters yesterday afternoon, but he was able to satisfy the officials that he knew nothing of the affair.

Sickness In Santiago.

Washington, Sept. 27.—The daily reports that come to the department from Santiago make it apparent that even among the immune regiments, made up, as some of them are, of negroes, supposed to be almost exempt from attacks of climatic fevers, much sickness prevails, and it is only a fair assumption that the ordinary troops would suffer more were they now sent into Cuba. Therefore, while the American and Spanish commissioners in Havana are still seeking to reach an agreement as to the time to be allowed for evacuating the island, it may be said that the president expects that the result will be a compromise between the dates mentioned on each side, and that the movement will begin towards the latter part of October and be concluded soon after New Year's.

This will accord very well with the plans of the war department, as it will enable it to avoid sending to Cuba a considerable number of soldiers until the healthy season is well under way. It is the present purpose to make the replacement of the Spanish forces in detail, not sending over any large expedition, but establishing a garrison at one point after another, beginning probably at the western end of the island. The authorities have reached the conclusion, in view of the spirit shown by the Cubans as reported to it, that it will not be necessary to have nearly so large a force to garrison the island as was at first anticipated.

Nellie a Housebreaker.

Newton, Mass., Sept. 27.—The burglary in the A. H. Tilney residence last week has been cleared, and the Newton police have the guilty party under surveillance. Her name is Nellie Huxford. She is 16 years old. She has not been arrested owing to her age, but the police claim that she has confessed and that much of the plunder obtained from the residence has been found in her room.

HUB STILL GAINS.

Bostons Victorious In a Double Matinee With the Brooklyns.

Boston, Sept. 27.—The Bostons won two games from the Brooklyns yesterday afternoon at the south end grounds. The first game was full of hits, runs and errors, the Bostons having a shade the better of the hits and runs while the visitors were first in errors.

MIKE GRIFFIN.

The second game was a pitchers' battle between Nichols and McKenna, the old Brockton pitcher, and, strange as it may seem, the youngster was the more effective. This time Boston had all the errors, and won by Tenney's timely double with the bases full.

Tom Daly, the old league favorite, was back again with the Brooklyns and had a fine record, accepting nine chances and getting a brace of hits in each game. Jack Ryan caught splendidly, and so did Smith, while Captain Michael Griffin hit and put up a game in the field that was baseball. Score of the second game:

During the 11th inning of the Cincinnati-Cleveland game yesterday, Vaughn had an altercation with Umpire Swartwood, and was put out of the game for three days. Swartwood's poor work cost the Cincinnatis the game.

The Philadelphias after having the first game won lost it to the New Yorks. The latter made three runs in the seventh and three more in the eighth. With the score tied in the sixth inning of the second game, Seymour hit a 2-bagger, and scored on Doyle's single. The New Yorks again won.

The Chicagoes and the Pittsburgs both put up a sensational fielding game, the former making up for errors by marvelous work at critical points and better bunching of hits, winning by the score of 4 to 3.

Municipal Coal Yard.

Boston, Sept. 27.—Mayor Quincy and the city council have been petitioned by a committee of the social alliance to establish a municipal coal yard, where people who are obliged to buy coal in small quantities can obtain it at cost.

The committee in its petition states that "coal is one of the necessaries of life, created by nature's own hand, which it is a crime to make scarce or dear by any form of monopoly. The mass of the people are obliged to buy coal in small quantities for immediate consumption, which makes it much costlier for them than for the well-to-do, who buy it in larger quantities when the market is in their favor."

The petitioners further say that the plan will, of course, conflict with the business interests of a class, and that "it would also interfere with the time-honored prerogative of some benevolent institutions that inflict humiliation on the poor by doing for them what they might do for themselves but for legal injustice."

Swept by a Hurricane.

Tonawanda, N. Y., Sept. 27.—A terrible wind storm struck this place Monday afternoon. Houses and barns were smashed to kindling wood, trees uprooted and many persons injured. It had been raining for an hour, when at 4:15 a regular hurricane swept across the Niagara river. Bassett & Bellinger's wharf was the first place hit, and here huge piles of lumber were thrown in all directions. Sheds were demolished and a number of cars turned over. The cyclone passed right across the town and disappeared in a northerly direction.

Dozens of houses were wrecked and telegraph and trolley poles litter many of the streets. Great stretches of wooden sidewalks were torn up on some streets. Samuel Monette, a milk wagon driver, was caught in the storm. His rig was rushed along the street at lightning speed until wrecked. Monette is believed to be fatally injured. Mrs. Charles Peters and Mrs. Henry Peters, the latter carrying an infant, were picked up and hurled violently against a building. Both women were picked up in an unconscious condition. It is estimated that the damage to property will reach $100,000.

HAD HER WISH.

Fanny Davenport Passed Away Before the Public Tired of Her.

Duxbury, Mass., Sept. 27.—The expectations for the restoration to health and return to the stage of Fanny Davenport, based on the favorable turn in her illness through enlargement of the heart, will not be realized. There was a turn for the worse Friday, and the curtain fell upon her busy life at 10:30 Monday night.

Miss Davenport was the daughter of Edward Davenport, the famous actor, and Fanny Davenport, an equally famous actress, and was born in London, April 10, 1850. She first essayed juvenile parts at the Howard atheneum in Boston when 12 years of age, while her first adult part was that of Mrs. Mildway in "Still Waters Run Deep." As Arline in "The Black Crook" she made her debut as a soubret, and later joined Mrs. John Drew's company at Philadelphia. She remained there but a short time, and then joined Augustin Daly's forces in New York, where she played in leading parts for nearly 10 years, from 1869 to 1879. She made her first appearance as a star in "Pique," and later produced a number of Shakesperian and old English comedies. Then she presented from time to time some of the modern dramas of Dumas, and in 1883 began a series of Sardou's plays which made her famous. "Fedora" was brought out, and in this and in later productions of Sardou's she displayed her wonderful skill as a stage manager.

Miss Davenport occupied a unique position on the American stage. She was one of the foremost of the female stars, while she held high rank as a producer of plays, and in the latter work she achieved great success. Her Sardou plays were put on the stage with lavish scenery and costumes, and she was fortunate in finding in the heroines a part especially adapted to her style of impersonation.

Miss Davenport was twice married. Her first husband was Edward Price, a young stock actor, whom she engaged as the leading juvenile man in her company in the season of '77 and 78. Later, in the season of 1888-89, she married her leading man, Melbourne McDowell, considerably younger than herself, and an actor of ability. A remark of Miss Davenport made years ago fits the present hour. "I don't want," she said, "to lag superfluous on the stage until I have worn out my reputation and the public is tired of me. I want to retire while I am still popular." She has had her wish.

Sixteen Have Settled.

Brockton, Sept. 27.—The addition of the Lilly-Brackett company to the list of those settled brings the list up to 16 and the number of men at work nearly as large as those out on strike. Other settlements are reported in sight by the press committee, and several conferences have been asked for.

The Poles who are out on a strike at D. W. Field's factory claim that they have been paying from $10 to $50 for their jobs to the foreman and from $5 to $8 a week for getting shoes without caps to last.

Walter Shaw, a representative of one of the shoe companies, laughs at the idea of striking the state, and says that Brockton has been picked out as a mark for the unions of the vicinity who adopted the price list which caused the strike. He stated that the Brockton manufacturers were losing thousands of dollars daily by the strike, and that the Auburn, Me., manufacturers were gaining a like amount. He predicted that the men would be sorry inside of six weeks that they had not taken the advice of the dethroned secretary.

The conference committee of the lasters met last night, when the committee sent to Boston to interview the machine companies made its report. The committee said it had notified the companies that if they do not remove their agents from the Brockton factories by 9 a. m. Wednesday the entire district would be struck, and if necessary a larger territory. The pickets reported that they had induced 50 new employes to leave for their homes.

Two demonstrations occurred during the evening, one in Montello, but in neither was anyone injured. One disturbance occurred in front of a hotel at which a party of Armenians had registered without knowledge of the proprietor. The guests in the hotel threatened to vacate if the men were allowed to stay, and the strikers congregated outside waiting for the new arrivals. The Armenians having registered, the hotel keeper could not turn them out; but matters were finally patched up so that they either returned to Boston, or got lodging elsewhere. A number of men who had come to take the strikers' places returned to Boston on the evening train.

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. Good Afternoon.

F. D. Greany of Waianae, Oahu Hawaiian Islands, has kindly forwarded to the publishers of the Ledger a copy of The Pacific Commercial Advertiser of Honolulu, which has been read with much interest. It is of the date of Aug. 27, and while not a special issue, shows enterprise along American lines, and might readily be taken for a paper printed in this country.

The arrival of the American-Hawaiian commission at Hilo on Aug. 24 is reported, and also a meeting at Maui. A stock exchange has just been established. The farming prospects are set forth in a two column report. A death from measles is reported. American coal has arrived. There is in the paper an interesting essay by a Hawaiian young lady on "Work for Girls," the author being graduated from the Normal department of the Kamehameha school for girls. Here is one of the opening paragraphs:

"Some young women of the present generation wish to live independent lives and be supported by the labor of their own hands. The only way to secure this independence is by dignifying labor. There are many of us, too many, I fear, who do not consider it a dignified thing to labor; scarcely regard it as respectable. We should be proud of the opportunity to work, and not be ashamed of it. If we entertain the least feeling of false pride in our hearts, we should root it out and destroy it. We should not despise any work, however menial it may be, if it is honest labor; but should be eager to do it. It may be that the lowest work which is given to us is but the stepping stone to high and noble position. We should be but following in the steps of our beloved Lord and Master, who walked by the blue sea of Galilee a lowly carpenter."

The author, Miss Lewa Iokla, considers horticulture, perfumery, kid gloves, school teaching, kindergarten work, trained nursing, laundry, sewing, housekeeping, weaving and fancy work. In conclusion the author says:

"Starting these industries will not be an easy task. A great amount of money is needed and also men and women who have an abundance of practical business ability, and who have keen foresight. Deep thinking and planning are essential in this matter. It may take a long time to start these industries, but they can be started when the competent persons are found.

"If these industries become a realization for Hawaiian girls, are we ready and willing to take hold of the work, whatever it may be, and do it to the best of our ability? It lies with us to decide. Shall we not make an effort ourselves to forward these industries and not leave all for others to do?

"If the moral and social progress of the land depends upon the women, then there is a great work for us, and now is the time to do it. Let us not leave our part of the work undone. Let us open the way for the next generation by being self-respecting and self-supporting women."

Such an essay, and a paper like the Commercial Advertiser, gives our people a very different idea of the Hawaiian Islands than they have possessed.

THE DEMOCRATS.

Held Harmonious Caucuses and Chose Delegates.

Democratic caucuses were held throughout the city, and were very harmonious, and practically unanimous. They resulted as follows:

WARD ONE.

T. J. McGrath was elected chairman of the Ward One caucus, and Philip D. Cook was chosen as secretary. There were two lists on the ticket. One filed by the ward committee, and the other by outsiders. They did not deem the list of the committee to be sufficiently Democratic. The opposition list fared fairly well at the hands of the few voters present, but the ward list was successful.

State—William A. Hodges, Thomas H. McDonnell,
Congressional—Jeremiah C. Dorgan, Philip D. Cook.
Senatorial—William A. Hodges, Thomas J. McGrath,
County, Councillor and District Attorney Convention—Paul R. Blackmur, William G. A. Pattee.
Representative—John J. Fallon, Philip D. Cook.

WARD TWO.

Without any contest the following names, which appeared on the ballot as printed, were elected:

State—James H. Slade, John A. McDonnell.
Congressional—William H. Sampson, Jr., Daniel J. Ford.
Senatorial—Timothy J. Collins, Dennis Ford.
Councillor—Robert J. Williams, William Kiernan.
County—John W. Walsh, George O'Connor.
District Attorney—William H. Flynn, John F. Donovan.
Representative—Timothy J. Carey, Cornelius Ford.

WARD THREE.

The Ward Three Democratic caucus was held in Cahill's hall, the polls being kept open from 7.45 to 9 20. William A. Kelley called the meeting to order, read the call and was elected chairman with James F. Parker as secretary. The following caucus officers were then appointed: On check list—T. F. Ford and Thomas Higgins; counters—James Morrissey and Joseph Heavey; at box—Peter J. Williams and Andrew Costa.

The only contest was in the delegates for the State and Congressional delegations, where there was a second list of one name, that of George H. Hobart. Mr. Hobart received but few votes, however, only 8 for the State and 6 for the Congressional. The delegates elected were:

State—Peter J. Williams, Edward J. Parker.
Congressional—Dannis J. Ford, William A. Kelley.
Senatorial—Timothy F. Ford, Thomas Higgins.
Councillor—George D. Cahill, Frank Morrison.
County—Edward J. Parker, James H. Sullivan.
District Attorney—William A. Kelley, Timothy F. Ford.
Representative—James Brogan, Thomas M. Murphy.

WARD FOUR.

There was no contest over the election of delegates at West Quincy and the attendance was not large. Matthew Lyons, chairman of the Ward Committee, called the caucus to order and read the call. Mr. Lyons was elected chairman and John Dugan, secretary. Messrs. John Burke, J. W. White, Cornelius Crowley, James F. Burke, and James Lyons were appointed tellers.

The polls were kept open until 8.45 and a few minutes later the result was announced as follows:

State—William N. Eaton, William T Shea, James F. Burke.
Congressional—Mathew Lyons, John Burke, Thomas Hogan.
District Attorney—James McDonnell, Edward Farrell, Maurice Driscoll.
Senatorial—John Curtin, Jr., William T. Shea, Thomas J. Lamb.
County and Councillor—James A. White, F. Markham, Patrick A. Lane.
Representative—Michael B. Geary, Thomas F. Cain, Stephen B. Little.

WARD FIVE.

The usual number were in attendance at the caucus held in this ward. William B. Orcutt called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock and was elected chairman, and Edward Twitchell, secretary. There was no contest and the nominations on the official ballot were elected without opposition. The delegates chosen are:

State—Richard J. Larkin.
Congressional—William A. Jordan.
Councillor—William B. Orcutt.
County—Edward H. Austin.
District Attorney—William B. Orcutt.
Senatorial—Arthur Murphy.
Representative—David J. Roche.

WARD SIX.

There was no contest at the Ward Six Democratic caucus and it was but slimly attended the largest vote any delegate received being twelve. Stephen H. Edwards was chairman of the caucus, B. Cullen, secretary, and Elijah G. Hall, inspector. The delegates elected were as follows:

State—Jeremiah W. Donovan.
Congressional—Stephen H. Edwards.
Senatorial—Elijah G. Hall.
Councillor—John A. Duggan.
County—Elijah G. Hall.
District Attorney—John H. O'Brien.
Representative—Martin W. Cunniff.

AT CAMP MEADE.

Fifth Massachusetts Visited by the Christian Endeavorers.

Co. K, Camp Meade,
Middletown, Penn., Sept. 25,

Yesterday afternoon the Christian Endeavors of Harrisburg paid the regiment an informal visit. The boys were delighted to see so many civilians at once The visitors sang their convention songs and several other religious songs. Their convention takes place in Harrisburg on Oct. 4, 5, 6. They gave the boys a cordial greeting and wanted every young man to be present. Our chaplain, Rev. Mr. House, is one of the speakers. His theme will be: "A Volunteer in the United States Service." It will be of interest to the people of Pennsylvania.

Undress parade came at 4.30 according to the new calls, it being in brown ducks without rifles. It was called so that the adjutant could issue the guard details for Sunday. The guard consisted of Corporal MacIntosh of K, and the following Privates: Restelli, Raffety, Roberts, Rowell, Rogers.

Those on 24 hour passes are Privates Clements, Colberg, J. G. Clark, M. M. Clark, and Capaccioli.

Today, Sunday, the usual church call sounded at 9 A. M., every man answering to his name. It being misty and wet, the Army Christian Commission kindly lent the regiment the use of their large tent for divine worship. The Colonel in a few remarks before opening the service wished every man to remain as he thought we should worship God for our existence and preservation. He said that it was not compulsory for the men to attend. But hoped every man would have a principle, and as the Fifth Massachusetts has today received the highest praise from the citizens of Pennsylvania, for their gentlemanly manners, he hoped they would continue on top.

The chaplain in his remarks said that he had also heard several comments made on the Fifth Massachusetts for their good behavior, and hoped that the boys would treat every civilian who came on the grounds with respect. It was done at Framingham, and hoped it would continue the same here.

The following will report for guard duty Monday: Corp. Matthews, Privates Savoie, Spillane, Sullivan, Thumstrom, Livendale, Brown, Belcher, Burns and Briggs, Supernumerary.

Those who receive passes tomororw are Corp. Adams, Privates Currie, Collins, Delano, Doran.

The weather today is very damp, a mist continually hanging over us, which makes it very diasagreeable, especially being Sunday, as the boys like to visit other camps. This weather they have to hang around their quarters all day.

The regimental band gave a concert this afternoon. We have today one of the best bands in Camp Meade. The Leader, Sergt. Lynn, having been very strict with men so that he has today received what he desired and the regiment feels proud of him, in organizing such a fine band.

The boys of K, are anxiously waiting, to know who is to be their commander. Lots of current rumors are circulated every day. We all want Lieut. William H. Whitney for Captain. VOLUNTEER.

A Musical Treat.

The usual fair or trotting meet pays but little attention to the item of music, and any cheap band that can make a noise seems to suffice of their wants. It is wholly different with the Brockton Fair management, the "best always" is their motto, and this year they have secured three of the best bands in the country to furnish music for their patrons: Brooke's Marine Band of Chicago, 50 pieces; Reeves American of Providence, 25 pieces, and Martland's Fifth Regiment Band of Brockton, 25 pieces. The first named band is justly celebrated as one of the finest bands in America. Reeves' Band is without doubt the leading band of New England, and Martland's Band is the crack band of this state. No fair has ever yet delighted its patrons with such excellent musical talent. The big grand stand has been enlarged this year and will now seat 8,000 people, and music lovers can find comfortable accommodations and listen to the continuous concerts at their ease. October 5, 6, 7 and 8 are the dates of the Brockton Fair, and should be jotted down in every note book and diary. Excursions are run on all railroads.

Civil Service Examination.

A civil service examination of applicants for the position of water inspector will be held in Quincy at an early date. Citizens of the United States who have been residents of Massachusetts for the past year, and of Quincy for the six months last past, have a right to apply. Blank applications may be obtained of Christopher A. Spear, Secretary of the Board of Examiners.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A, B, C, D, E and F. Today's instalment begins the G's:

Teachers' Association.

The lecture on "Seven Centuries of English Song," which is to be given by Mr. Louis C. Elson on Thursday evening October sixth, in High School hall, is of the utmost importance to anyone at all interested in English history. The mere naming of a few of the selections show this clearly. Mr. Elson sings the 44th Psalm from an old English missal; the songs of Shakespeare are sung from old editions; old popular ballads are given the songs of the epoch of Charles II are illustrated, and the virginal (piano) pieces of Queen Elizabeth are played from a copy taken from an old manuscript. Of this lecture the Kansas City Daily Times says: "Mr. Louis C. Elson of Boston, probably the most learned music critic of the country lectured at Music hall last night. For years an enthusiastic student of music in general, of folk songs in particular, and a singer of graceful and most winning accomplishments, he comes before an audience enriched with the fruits of his patience and his talents, and only the limitations of time and opportunity can confine his happy and instructive comments, and his enhancing vocal illstrations."

The Memphis Appeal says:—"His talk was a web of fact, folklore and history, interwoven with tact and skill. Mr. Elson has a graceful style of speaking, and his voice is of that insinuating quality which commands and holds attention. His lecture concluded with singing the last of the folk song "Sally in our Alley."

Mr. Elson began his literary career as editor of the Ux Humana, a journal largely devoted to organ music. He subsequently became one of the editorial staff of the Boston Musical Herald. He was the musical editor of the Boston Courier for many years, and is at present the musical editor of the Boston Advertiser. He has been for fourteen years the Professor of Musical Theory and lecturer on Musical History and Criticism at the New England Conservatory of Music. In no role, however, has he achieved more signal and unqualified success than as a popular lecturer.

Co. K. Benefit.

There was a large attendance Monday night at Hancock hall at the grand benefit concert and dance for Company K, 5th Massachusetts Regiment, which was given under the management of Gabriel A. Pelos. The concert which was from 8 to 10 o'clock was by the three Rossi sisters, who played the guitar and mandolin; Smith Bros., slack wire performers, Bergeron & Rossia, club juggling, lantern twirling and lofty ground acrobatic feats; Robertson and Butler in an up-to-date amusing sketch introducing burlesque, boxing and double bag punching; Mr. Sugro, black face comedian and Gabriel A. Pelos as a laughable clown. There was also a cake walk in which John Troop and John Flynn carried off the prize. Aside from this there was a gramaphone concert, introducing all the popular airs of the day, both vocal and instrumental.

From 10.30 to 2 o'clock there was general dancing, music being furnished only for Mr. C. C. Bradford. The benefit will net something like $50.

MURDER THE CHARGE

Fitzgerald and Hayden Held Without Bail.

Daniel Fitzgerald and Frederick L. Hayden who were arrested Monday by Officer Bradley upon a warrant charging them with the murder of Michael Saville, the West Quincy crossing tender, spent Monday night at the Quincy lockup and were brought before Judge Humphey this morning. The two men were represented by City Solscitor McAnarney and they entered a plea of not guilty.

Officer Bradley asked to have the cases continued until Wednesday morning, which the court granted. Counsel for the defendants tried to have the warrant changed to that of manslaughter, which would admit of the men being bailed. The court, however, refused to change the charge at this stage, and the two men were committed to the Quincy lockup without bail.

Both young men are about 23 years of age and are stone cutters. Since their arrest they have been silent and refuse to make any statement of the case.

Auction at Squantum Park.

Thursday, Sept. 29, a second opportunity will be given for the purchasing by auction of choice house lots at Squantum Park, Squantum. The first opening sale of lots in the vicinity was one of the most remarkable happenings for the year in the real estate world, and it is because of numerous requests that there will be another auction next Thursday. Mr. L. L. P. Atwood of 31 State street will be the auctioneer. The sale begins at 10 o'clock in the morning at the Squantum Park, and will continue all day, rain or shine.

From this elevated tract of land one may have extensive views of Dorchester Bay, Milton Hills, Boston Harbor, and the broad ocean is a dull blue background. Squantum Park is easily accessible and is but five miles from the State House. Eighty-seven trains run from Kneeland street station to Atlantic every day in 11 minutes, and it is but seven minutes' ride from Atlantic to Squantum Park by the electric. Electric cars also connect at Neponset direct for Squantum Park on the half hour. By many who have given the prospects of the location a careful investigation it is asserted with vigor that the Park is destined to become one of the most popular and profitable land investments around Boston.

The surface of a man's lungs is estimated at 150 feet, 10 times more than the entire external surface of the body.

Napoleon, at St. Helena, said to Antonomarchi, his physician, "Believe me, we had better leave off all these remedies; life is a fortress which neither you nor I know anything about. Why throw obstacles in the way of its defence? Its own means are superior to all the apparatus of your laboratories. Medicine is a collection of uncertain prescriptions, the results of which, taken collectively, have been harmful to mankind. Water, air and cleanliness are my chief medicines."

At the time when Napoleon said this he was largely right. Physicians in those days dealt out obnoxious and drastic drugs that did violence to every fiber in the body. Since that date medical science has made wonderful strides. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a medicine composed of native medicinal roots that do no violence to nature. Its action is gentle and natural. It simply promotes the natural processes of secretion and excretion. It restores the lost appetite, corrects all disorders of the digestion, makes the assimilation of the food perfect, invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood, builds new and healthy flesh tissue, tones the nerves and gives sweet and refreshing sleep. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of all diseases of the air passages that lead up to consumption. It is a wonderful medicine for all diseases due to insufficient or improper nourishment of body or nerves. Do not deal with unscrupulous dealers who urge you to take worthless substitutes for the sake of a few pennies added profit.

"I have been using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets' for the past three years and they have saved my life." Thus writes Mrs. Sophia Frazer, of Oakdale, Rockbridge Co., Va. "I now keep the 'Pellets' in my house all the time and use them every time I feel the need of a laxative. I am fifty-three years old and was troubled with liver complaint until I used your medicine. Now I am well."

Every sick man or woman should send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., to pay the cost of mailing only for a free copy of Dr. Pierce's great 1000-page Common Sense Medical Adviser; or 31 stamps for a heavy cloth-bound copy.

THE DAILY EVENTS.

Last week, Wednesday, parties unknown, entered the hall at The Greenleaf and stole a lady's bicycle. The theft was not reported to the police, however, until this morning.

That portion of Milton in the vicinity of Mattapan will have postal delivery by two mounted carriers after Nov. 1. East Milton should have it from Quincy via. Adams street.

The new carrier allowed Quincy by the postoffice department will go on duty Oct. 1, and will be James H. Copeland, who receives the appointment by virtue of his being the senior substitute carrier.

Miss Corlew's classes in dancing and deportment will open next week in Quincy. Those for beginners at 4 P. M. Monday; those for advanced pupils at 4 P. M. Wednesday; and an advance class for young people at 7 P. M. on Wednesday. The indications are that this popular teacher will have larger classes than ever, and this is not surprising after the proficiency at the grand reception given at Music ball last spring.

The October number of Harper's Magazine contains a half page illustration of the destruction of the Japanese man of war "Lancefield" in the straits of Shimonoseki, Japan. She was commanded for some time by the late Captain Comfort Whiting, the father of the present secretary of the Quincy Yacht club. A short time ago the Century Magazine contained a lengthy illustrated article on this same engagement.

Tax Sales.

The sale of the property advertised by Tax Collector Baker, for unpaid taxes, to have been held Monday, took place this afternoon, when 19 pieces of property was sold to Mr. Hutchings of Boston for about $1,500, which included the amount of taxes, interest, cost, etc.

In connection with the above sale, it is interesting to note that it was largely non-resident property that was sold.

Since Mr. Baker took the office of tax collector, he has advertised 199 pieces of property of which number 73 pieces have been sold.

That Mr. Baker is a hustler is shown by the fact that he has thus far this year collected $80,341.62 in back taxes, and out of about 4,000 poll taxes assessed he has collected 3,042.

ART IN THE HOUSE.

HARMONIUS FURNISHING OF THE HOME MADE POSSIBLE BY JOHN H. PRAY, SONS & CO.

No characterisic of American life is more marked than the individuality that appears in all grades of society—in our arts and sciences and in our manners, customs and costumes. Instead of trying to conform everything to a universal model, it is now the aim to secure a harmonious development by following some logical plans adapted to the specific case in hand.

In the matter of furnishing a house, for instance, it has in years past been common, even among people of wealth and refinement, to purchase goods simply because they were in themselves pleasing, without regard to any possible relation of one room's decoration with that of the adjoining apartment.

It is not for lack of a desire to furnish a home artistically that people fail in doing it. Few have had the artistic training to enable them to judge correctly of the right combination of carpets, furniture, hangings and tinting necessary for a harmonious whole.

Not only in the mansions of the rich, but in the dwellings of the people in moderate circumstances, is it possible, without increasing the expense, to make an interior which shall afford a constant unconscious education to the occupants, and impart a satisfaction impossible to estimate in dollars and cents.

Expert advice in this, as in anything else, must be consulted to secure the best results Skilled aritsts should make color sketches for each house and room, and see that the plans are carried out in detail in every part of the furnishing The tinting of the ceiling, the paper for the walls the hangings and draperies, carpets and upholstery, must all be included in a complete design, and Messrs. John H. Pray, Sons & Co. of this city have established a department that exactly fills the requirement.

In placing an order with them the householder is sure of conscientious, professional attention to the original designs, and the large resources of this long-establishd house in carrying out the plans. They will submit for inspection designs for each separate room, and they offer their rich stock of exclusive patterns and original designs to please the individual taste of the customer.

The home furnished in this way will be unique, with no duplicates, and will furnish a suitable environment for an individual of taste.—Boston Herald.

Ended In a Draw.

Philadelphia, Sept. 27.—The international cricket match begun on Friday between the Philadelphia team of 19 "colts" and Captain Warner's English eleven ended in a draw yesterday in consequence of a rainstorm. When play was suspended on Saturday the "colts" had lost 13 wickets in their second inning for 134 runs. Play was resumed Monday and the remaining five wickets went down when the total for the inning had reached 159, the local batsmen being unable to hit the bowling of Bosanquet and Ainsworth with success. The first inning had netted them 77 runs, and their grand total was thus 236.

The Englishmen in their first inning had scored 133 and therefore required 104 to win. Burnup and Captain Warner started the second inning for the visitors against the bowling of Adams and Demett. The batsmen played carefully, but they steadily increased the score until the total of 30 was reached, when Burnup was caught. Play was then stopped for lunch, and during the intermission rain necessitated an abandonment of the match. It therefore officially goes on record as a draw.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 27.—At the Jewish synagogue on Union Park street, which was crowded with a congregation celebrating the day of atonement yesterday, announcement was made that the French cabinet had decided for a revision of the Dreyfus case. The news was followed by a demonstration such as has never been seen in a synagogue in this city.

At a meeting of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, held at Faneuil hall last evening, Colonel Sydney M. Hedges, for the original committee of five for the reception of the London company in this city in 1900, recommended that 25 additional members be added to the committee and stated that the visit of the Englishmen would be one of the most important events of the opening of the new century.

The directors of the American Peace society yesterday passed a resolution of gratification with the car's leaning toward disarmament and of protest against a permanent enlargement of the army or navy of the United States except what may be absolutely necessary for police purposes.

SWING ON PAYNE'S JAW

McCoy's Sparring Partner Roughly Treated by a Darky.

Rendered Unconscious For Twenty Minutes.

Foul Fighting Stirred the Blood of Two Thousand Spectators.

Philadelphia, Sept. 27.—It required less than two rounds at the Arena for Joe Butler, a colored pugilist, to put "Doc" Payne, McCoy's sparring partner, out of business, but in that time he gave an exhibition of the foulest kind of fighting, and it was only with the aid of the police that he got safely away from the crowd of over 2000 persons who were waiting in the front of the building.

The men were to fight six rounds. In the middle of the first, Butler deliberately forced Payne against the ropes. In a clinch he threw him and began to punch him. Referee Schlichter separated the men and declared the round ended, but the colored fighter went at his opponent again and landed three or four hard punches. Payne was groggy when the bell sounded.

In the second both fought fiercely for a minute, when the local man again began his rushing tactics and landed a heavy right swing on Payne's jaw. The latter fell like a log and had to be carried from the ring. He did not regain consciousness for over 20 minutes.

Reckoned Without His Host.

Louisville, Sept. 27.—"Australian Jimmy" Ryan entered the arena of the Kentucky Athletic club flushed with the success of half a dozen victories over eminent ringsters in his class to don the mitts with Jim Franey, the crack Cincinnati welterweight. This time he reckoned without his host. Franey proved himself a veritable whirlwind and was the aggressor throughout. The

GEORGE SILER.

Australian tried in vain to land his awful right, but Franey blocked his blows with great precision. In the ninth and tenth rounds Ryan palpably fouled his opponent by punching in clinches, and was warned by the referee. In the 11th round Ryan duplicated his fouling tactics, and Referee Siler gave the fight to the Cincinnati boy.

Smith Early Incapacitated.

New York, Sept. 27.—Dave Sullivan of Boston and Solly Smith of Los Angeles met last night in the arena of the Greater New York Athletic club for a 25-round bout for the featherweight championship, but Smith was incapacitated early in the fight. The bout was stopped at the end of the fifth round by Referee Brown, who awarded the honors to Sullivan.

During the second round Smith broke his left arm near the wrist. He used it lightly a few times in the third round, but it hung loosely in the next two rounds, and it was seen by everybody that the Californian could not continue.

Smith's accident robbed him of what was certain to have been a victory, as it was apparent to everyone that he was by far the cleverer. Sullivan's brother, "Spike," bet a lot of money on his brother's ability to best the western pugilist, forcing his price to 100 to 75, and he won a big pile on the result.

Democratic Caucuses.

Boston, Sept. 27.—The Democratic voters of the state were called on last night to attend primaries for the purpose of nominating delegates to state, congressional, senatorial and district conventions, and to pledge their delegations if they so desired. Of the contests the chief interest centered in the Fifth and Seventh congressional districts, at present represented by Congressmen Knox and Barrett. In the former district the Democrats had two candidates—Joseph J. Flynn and A. H. Bruce, both of Lawrence. On his strength shown by delegations pledged, Senator Flynn is the probable choice of the convention.

In the Seventh district the two candidates were Mayor Ramsdell of Lynn and Philip J. Doherty of Charlestown. The former, with practically all Lynn behind him, and a majority of the delegates in the other cities and towns, except Chelsea, is sure of the nomination, for he carried one ward in this city, the home of Doherty.

The only contest in this city was the Ninth congressional district, which John F. Fitzgerald, the present representative, carried almost overwhelmingly, his principal opponent, Senator Sullivan, being successful in only one ward.

Maria Teresa Afloat.

Washington, Sept. 27.—The navy department has decided to send the Buffalo to the Pacific station. She probably will go to Honolulu, and in the event that she is needed to reinforce Dewey's fleet she can receive orders at that place by dispatch boat. The Buffalo goes out under commission of Commander Hemphill, late of the navigation bureau.

Mechanics are working overtime on the Oregon and Iowa in order to fit them out for their cruise to the Pacific, and it is hoped that the vessels will be ready by Oct. 1 for beginning the voyage.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Rapid Ripening and Harvesting Aided by Last Week's Sunshine.

Boston, Sept. 27.—The warm and pleasant weather of the early part of last week aided the rapid ripening and harvesting of all crops, so that no great amount of damage resulted from the general frosts of the morning of the 21st. During the middle and latter part the weather was much cooler. The rain of the 23d relieved the drought, which was becoming quite serious in many parts of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire, excepting in a few sections of Maine, where more rain is needed to fill streams and wells and place pastures in good condition. Over the greater part of New England the rainfall was sufficient to make the ground in fit condition for plowing, seeding and fall work.

Corn is being husked, and is reported a good and large crop without exception. Buckwheat is reported a good crop. The conditions are excellent for fall plowing and seeding, which, though delayed by the rainy weather, is being rapidly completed.

The season favored grass. The hay crop has been so large that in many instances rowen and meadows were not cut. Pastures and fields are reported as green as in June, with excellent fall feed.

In sections of southern New Hampshire apples are reported a large crop and of good quality, but otherwise the crop is light, many reporting it to be not more than half or third of the usual supply. Peaches, plums and pears are generally light and below the usual quality. Cranberry picking is well advanced, but the crop is much less than expected, much damage having occurred from insects, sun-scald and early frosts.

Potatoes are an average crop except in a few instances where rot was severe; digging will soon be finished. Squashes are a large crop of good quality. Vegetables generally yield well.

DEATH AND RUIN.

Strange Freak of the Elements Displayed In a Dominion City.

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 27.—Monday afternoon a cyclone passed over a goodly portion of this city, and left many evidences of its awful destructiveness behind. McHugh's cigar factory lost its roof. Packard's electric works was badly shaken up, and one storage warehouse was demolished. Ratcliffe's large icehouse on the banks of the Welland canal has completely disappeared. The St. Catharines House was badly wrecked. In the district extending from James street east to Queenston street the havoc was great. Trees, poles and debris of all kinds render the streets impassable.

The storm struck Merriton, three miles from here, with terrible violence and from that place three deaths are reported, with many injured. The dead are: Clara O'Neill, employed in the Lincoln paper mill; Mrs. John Bickley and Frank Moffatt. The paper mill was unroofed and badly wrecked, as was the power house of the acyteline gas works. Other prominent buildings unroofed or partly wrecked were the Orange hall, the public school, St. James' church and the Presbyterian church.

There were 40 pupils in the school when it collapsed. The children were covered with piles of debris and many were badly injured. Frank Moffatt, one of the pupils, was dead when taken from the ruins. Mrs. John Bickley was killed just as she was about to enter the front door of her house, a piece of lumber striking her on the head. Telegraph and telephone lines are down in all directions, and the damage done in the surrounding country cannot be ascertained at present.

Decided For Revision.

Paris, Sept. 27.—It is understood that Premier Brisson literally wrang consent from the cabinet for a revision after a remarkable display of eloquence and personal influence, and the stormiest scenes. His strongest opponent was the minister of justice, who expressed a desire to resign, and warned the other ministers that they were assuming a terrible responsibility.

Brisson fell into a violent passion and declared tearfully that the ministers ought to credit him with understanding all the difficulties and the best way of mending them. Should they now abandon him by refusing a revision it would be to face dishonor. As a final argument he pointed out that it would be an extremely grave matter to force a cabinet crisis while the chamber was not in session.

The dissenting ministers then reluctantly yielded. Mr. Maruejouls said: "It is not worth while to resign when we know that we shall be overturned in a fortnight."

President Faure hastily returned to Paris yesterday afternoon, but Mr. Brisson went to Boulogne, probably to avoid presidential interference until the papers should have announced the decision in favor of a revision, Faure being still strongly against a revison.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

A Mrs. Collins, whose home is in Springfield, was struck by a runaway in Salem last night, and received severe, if not dangerous, injuries.

The following fourth-class postmasters have been appointed: Royalton, Vt., George A. Liard; East Dummerston, Vt., William M. Randall; Islington, Mass., Mary A. Long.

The Bessemer Furnace company in Sharon, Pa., will build a $2,000,000 steel mill. The plant will be built large enough to utilize the product of the 18 furnaces owned by the company.

At a meeting of the Democratic state committee in New Haven Melbert B. Cary of Ridgefield was chosen chairman and David T. McNamara of New Haven secretary. There was a strong sentiment in favor of the re-election of Alexander Troup as chairman, notwithstanding his resignation.

The New England Loan and Trust company, which failed Monday, is a corporation organized under the laws of Iowa. Its business has been to deal in western securities consisting almost entirely of mortgages negotiated by it and indebtedness issued by it and secured by mortgages deposited with the trustees. It has a capital stock of $875,000 and undivided profits of $109,000, making an aggregate of $984,000. The amount of debentures outstanding is $5,500,000, and there have been negotiated $5,500,000 of real estate mortgages.

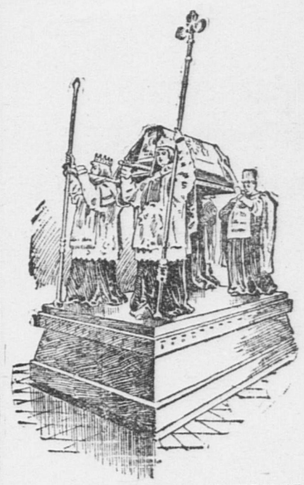
COLUMBUS' REMAINS.

Preparation For Their Removal From Havana.

Second Transfer Since the Discoverer's Demise.

Monument Ordered to Be Built, but Plan Not Carried Out.

Havana, Sept. 27.—The remains of Christopher Columbus, which have been removed from their niche in the cathedral preparatory to their shipment to Spain, have lain in their late resting place since Jan. 15, 1796, when they were brought from Santo Domingo, that island having been ceded to France by Spain. In 1892 there was placed in front of the niche a slab of doubtful artistic taste, representing in relief a bust of the great admiral and bearing this inscription: "The remains and image of the great Columbus lie a thousand centuries preserved in this urn, and in the remembrance of our nation."



TOMB OF COLUMBUS IN THE CATHEDRAL AT HAVANA.

After the 400th anniversary of the discovery of the new world the Spanish cortes included in the Cuban budget large sums for the purpose of erecting a monument symbolizing all the travels of the discoverer, to be placed in the most conspicuous place in Havana, and the construction of a mausoleum to hold his ashes. This mausoleum, the work of a sculptor, was brought to Havana and placed upon a base erected in the center aisle of the cathedral, close to the main door. The monument has not come and probably never will come to Havana. It was to have been paid for by an appropriation included in the budget of the island, but circumstances have overturned the plans made on the occasion of the celebration of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America, and it is probable that both the monument and the mausoleum will be placed in a fitting place in Spain, where they will be looked upon as one of the treasures of the Spanish nation. The ashes were deposited in a zinc case, which was placed in the sacristy of the cathedral, and a permanent guard was established to watch them. Public services will be held shortly.

Blanco More Complaisant.

Havana, Sept. 27.—General Blanco has authorized the free entry of the Comal and other vessels bringing supplies for the relief of the sufferers in Cuba. Matanzas now and in the future will be the first port where supplies will be landed, owing to Captain Page's report of the distress existing there.

The captain general has decided to remit the fine of $500 imposed upon the Clinton because she did not have a manifest, and has ordered the money to be refunded. The payment was made under protest and by direction of President McKinley.

The junta of Matanzas held a meeting, at which it was decided to address a letter to President McKinley setting forth that "an immense majority of the people of this island adheres strictly to the government constituted by the revolution as being the only ideal of the Cuban people."

The Spanish Instructions.

Madrid, Sept. 27.—The peace commissioners have been instructed to contend strongly for the integrity of Spanish sovereignty in the Philippines on the ground that the protocol between Spain and the United States was signed before Manila capitulated; and also to make a firm stand regarding the Cuban debt and the Philippine loan of 1896, if Luzon is ceded to America. Should the United States prove less exacting than is expected, the commissioners have power to make all possible concessions, political and commercial, compatible with the retention of Spanish sovereignty in the Philippines; but in the event of losing a portion of the islands, they are instructed to resist to the utmost any attempt of the United States to claim the right of preference over other powers should Spain desire to sell or cede the remainder of the islands.

Hobson's Success as a Wrecker.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Now that the Teresa has been raised, Hobson has been instructed to begin work on the Colon and begin operations toward wrecking the Mercedes, which lies in the mouth of Santiago harbor, close to the Merrimac, in smooth water, and well situated for successful wrecking. The Teresa will be brought north, probably to Norfolk, as soon as she is in condition to undertake the voyage. The wreckers who have so successfully accomplished their work have earned a large sum of money under the salvage laws, the exact amount of which will be determined by an admiralty court. It is the present purpose of the department to place the Teresa in commission as a United States naval vessel, and, following the English custom, her name is likely to remain unchanged to carry into the future the glory of the American victory.

WANTS INFORMATION.

Questions For War Department Officials to Answer.

Commission Prepared to Receive Complaints.

Inquiry Not to Be Confined to the National Capital.

Washington, Sept. 28.—It is not expected that the commission charged with the war investigation will make much progress until returns begin to come in from the inquiries that were sent out, Tuesday. Later committees will be appointed to take testimony in different places in the country. Persons having facts of their own knowledge are requested to forward it to this city without delay.

Letters were sent to the secretary of war, enclosing a list of inquiries to the secretary, and to the heads of the various divisions of the war department, calling for specific information bearing upon the conduct of the war. To Secretary Alger the commission has addressed these queries:

1—Plan of campaign proposed immediately after the declaration of war; was it intended to move at once on Havana, or that the campaign should be postponed until the autumn?

2—When was the Santiago campaign determined upon?

3—Why was Tampa selected as the base of operations?

4—Why were summer camps organized at Fernandina, Jacksonville and Tampa?

5—When was the Porto Rico campaign determined upon?

6—Why were the troops held on transports after embarkation at Tampa and not permitted to sail for several days?

The 17 questions addressed to the medical department are:

1—What was the organization of the medical department on April 1, 1898? How many officers with their rank, how many hospital stewards, and what was the size of hospital corps?

2—How many ambulances and litters were available?

3—An army of what size was the department able to fit out with medical officers, stewards and hospital corps and necessary surgical instruments and supplies of every character?

4—Between April 1 and Aug. 31, 1898, what steps were taken for fully supplying an army of 250,000 men with all necessary surgeons, stewards, hospital corps, ambulances, litters, surgical instruments and supplies of all and every character?

5—How many general hospitals were organized? Where located, how equipped and managed, number of patients and number of deaths in each case between April 1 and Aug. 31, 1898?

THIRD FROM BROOKLYNS.

Boston Players Forced to Work Hard For Victory.

Boston, Sept. 28.—There was not a moment from the time Captain Griffin drew a base on balls in the first inning until Jones was third out in the last inning that the Brooklyns were not dangerous. The margin of runs was always small, and, though Willis, aside from occasional wildness, was pitching a magnificent game, the element of chance was so much increased by the gale of wind, which swept across the field from the railroad, that one expected every minute some Brooklyn batsman would swat the ball far over the right field fence. This feeling was somewhat intensified by the fact that the "grooms" had men on the bases much oftener than the Bostons. Score:

By winning yesterday the Baltimores tied with the Washingtons on the season's series. Dineen of the Washingtons was wild and hit hard at times, while his support was poor.

Meekin of the New Yorks was hit hard by the Philadelphias for five innings yesterday. Carrick, who relieved him, did well, but the giants could not overcome the lead. Fifield was wild and was replaced by Duggleby in the third inning.

The Louisvilles won in St. Louis yesterday with great ease, errors being responsible for the one-sided score.

Wilson of the Clevelands was a mark for the Cincinnatis. Damman, on the other hand, was effective throughout.

Rosebrough kept the Chicagoes guessing until the eighth, when the Pittsburgs' score was tied. Chicagoes won in the 11th.

"Minister" In Disgrace.

Cleveland, Sept. 28.—Captain Webb of the secret service and Deputy Marshal Keeley went to Canton yesterday to finish the work on a counterfeiting case. They there searched the residence of Rev. Gabriel Hostetter, pastor of the Reformed Baptist church, and in the cellar found five counterfeit silver dollars, material from which they might have been made, and two moulds which fit the bogus coins perfectly. Mr. Hostetter was arrested and taken to Massillon, where he was arraigned before a United States commissioner. He waived examination and was brought to Cleveland, where he is now in jail.

The minister vehemently denies that he is a counterfeiter, and says he was not aware that the coins and dies were in his cellar. He declares that it is a conspiracy on the part of one of his relatives. Mr. Hostetter is 64 years old, and has 14 children. It is generally believed that he is not a regularly ordained minister of the Baptist church. His church was established by himself and has a small congregation. He added to his means of livelihood by keeping a small candy and tobacco store.

Republican Caucuses.

Boston, Sept. 28.—Republican caucuses were held last night throughout the state in nearly all the cities and towns outside the city, and there were numerous contests for delegates in many of the congressional, councillor and senatorial districts.

Returns in the Second councillor indicate that W. W. Davis of this city will receive the nomination. Congressman Knox will probably succeed himself in the Fifth congressional, but the successful candidate in the Seventh is still in doubt, although Harwood of Malden has the lead.

In the senatorial districts, Hall is probably successful in the cape; Lincoln in the First Bristol; Soule in the Fifth Middlesex; Barrett in the Sixth Middlesex, and Gauss in the Second Essex.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A, B, C, D, E and F. Today's instalment concludes the G's:

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

Sprague vs Nickerson.

One of the most singular campaigns that has ever been conducted in Wollaston comes to a partial close at the Republican caucus this evening. Wollaston is always original in its method of doing things. A good hot political fight or something of a similar nature is more fun for the denizens of that ward than a dozen Brockton fairs would be. When a man in that place puts himself into the hands of his friends, and asks for the suffrage of his fellow citizens and is found wanting in a few essential qualities, there is suddenly some preliminary skirmishing, then some hustling around, and presto! a hot fight is on. May the best man win.

Holden—Rowell.

At the residence of Rev. L. B. Hatch, at Whitman, Tuesday, Mr. Arthur E. Holden of Greenfield, Mass., and Miss Mabel Rowell of Greenfield formerly of Braintree were married. They then journeyed to Quincy where a pleasant evening was spent at the home of the bride's sister Mrs. D. A. Newcomb after which the happy couple departed on their wedding tour with Washington, D. C., as their main point of destination. On their return they will reside at 15 Hayward street, Greenfield, where they will be at home to receive their friends after Oct. 15, in their beautiful new residence which has just been completed.

MANSLAUGHTER NOW

Hayden and Fitzgerald Discharged on Murder Complaint.

The case of Daniel Fitzgerald and Frederick L. Hayden who were charged with the murder of Michael Saville, came up this morning in the District Court, when they were discharged for want of probable cause.

They were however immediately arraigned upon a warrant charging them with manslaughter.

These are the two men who it is alleged, while intoxicated attempted to cross the railroad track at West Quincy in front of an approaching train on the evening of Sunday, Sept. 11, and in so doing forced Michael Saville, the crossing tender, in front of the train, while he was trying to prevent their crossing, causing injuries from which he died Monday morning.

Some seventeen witnesses were called and sworn. The case was then continued until next Wednesday, the two men being held in $1,500 each.

AT CAMP MEADE.

Two Heavy Storms Sweep Over the Tented City.

Camp George Gordon Meade, Middletown, Penn., Sept. 26, 1898.

The first of the morning the sun shone brightly, towards noon we were visited by a heavy thunder storm. The lightning was sharper than in Massachusetts. It rained very heavy, but our canvas city stood the rain and very strong wind which lasted for a full half hour. This is the heaviest storm the Fifth Massachusetts ever lived in.

The morning inspection took place at 8. Major Morrison, K's past captain, being the inspecting officer. The boys quarters were very neat.

Our genial benefactor, George H. Wilson of Quincy, has even sent to this distant state for the pleasure of the boys, a keg of pigs feet and half a barrel of "cuck" pickles. We enjoy them very much as we miss all the good dainties sent us at Camp Dalton. The other companies envy K. They think we are the only company on the field. Wagoner Livendale has returned from Baltimore after enjoying his 24-hour pass. Private Newcomb receives his 24-hour pass this noon, he serving as Colonel's orderly. Private Randall Faxon is running a race to see who can raise the biggest beard in the shortest time; he has about half an inch on now.

All non-commissioned officers of Co. K have decided to let their moustaches grow. Sergt. Phillips takes the lead.

The guard details for Tuesday from this company will be: Privates J. Buckley, P. F. Buckley, G. P Clapp, F. E. Clapp and Timothy Bowler; noncomps.

Those to receive 24-hour passes are: Corporal McIntosh, Privates Dennison, Deslauries, and Dean.

The boys of Co. K, are all well. None sick today.

Another storm this afternoon causing more damage than in the morning. Lieut. Col. Weaver's quarters were completely demolished, Captain Butler of D Co., Plymouth, received the same fate, two guard and one prison tent were blown to ground, so that camp was more like a river, than a parade ground. It is once more fair, so that the duties of camp will be resumed.

VOLUNTEER.

How to Extend Furloughs.

Quincy boys of the Ninth Massachusetts, who are home on a furlough will be pleased at recent decisions. Quartermaster Hyde has received two very important circulars. The first was that in volunteer regiments, such as the Ninth and Second Massachusetts Volunteers, the commanding officers were authorized to extend the furloughs or leaves of absence granted to convalescent soldiers, so as to cover the period between the expiration of their present furlough and the furlough of regiment to which they are attached. Now all they have to do under this general order is to write to or see the colonel of their regiment and have their furloughs extended.

The other general order allows the men indvidually, instead of reporting to the nearest military post for the purpose of being discharged, to report to the commanding officer of their regiment, and they can be discharged individually instead of waiting for the muster-out of their regiment.

Golf Goods Stolen.

The Wollaston Golf club house was broken into on Monday night and golf balls and sticks to the amount of $40 were stolen. The break was effected by smashing a light of glass in a window and then shoving back the catch. The burglar was one who was evidently familiar with the premises, as he devoted his entire attention to the professional player's locker, where a large quantity of balls were stored.

The locker door was forced by first breaking the padlock.

The Committee on Finance recommended that the teacher in the overflow room at the Coddington be paid a substitute's salary, instead of an assistant's salary, as long as she had charge of the room. The report was adopted.

The Superintendent was instructed to expend the interest of the Rock Island fund in purchasing reference books for the High school.

The matter of James Morrison attending the Coddington school was referred to the chairman of that school and the Superintendent with full powers.

Nathaniel Churchill was elected janitor of the overflow room of the Quincy school in Music hall.

An application was received from two young men from Weymouth and one from Braintree to attend the evening school. It was voted that they be allowed to attend and that their tuition be at the rate of $5 for fifty lessons.

Voted that the evening schools be opened on Monday, Oct. 24.

Brockton's Horse Show.

At the Brockton Fair, October 5, 6, 7 and 8, among the many new features destined to delight its patrons is one that is bound to attract wide attention: A Horse Show, conducted on the same lines as the New York, Chicago and Newport shows. Mr. F. M. Ware of New York, who has conducted the Madison Square Garden, Newport, and many other successful horse shows, will have the affair in charge; this in itself insures its success. An exhibition track is to be built in the race track enclosure near the judges' stand, with "parking" spaces surrounding it for the accommodation of tally-hos and drags. On this track the judging of all entries will take place, after which they will be driven in review down the quarter-stretch fronting the grand stand. This great attraction is in addition to many others and will in no way interfere with the races, stage show or any other events. The Brockton Fair managers are always on the lookout for novelties, and always secure them.

One of the Runaways Returns.

Frank Bavin of Union street, one of the three runaway boys missing since Friday, returned Tuesday. He says he was at Brockton assisting in preparing for the great fair, and that he left the two Burke boys there. The report that Bavin was a Coddington school boy might be qualified a little in justice to the school, as he has only attended the building a few days since the opening of this term.

DIED.

MACDOWELL.—In South Duxbury, Sept. 26, Mrs. Fanny Davenport MacDowell, aged 48 years.

MERRIAM.—In Dorchester, Sept. 26, Mr. George O. Merriam of Prescott place, aged 74 years, 4 months.

"Don't."

When you go to church Sunday, don't try to attract all the attention. Don't be too resolute in your demand for a front pew. Somebody may be paying several hundred dollars for the privilege of sitting down front and you might annoy the somebody. If you are given a sitting down in front, it is not considered proper for a man to wear his Overcoat down the aisle, and when shown into a pew to turn around and bow to all the ladies as you draw it off.

It is still more embarrassing if you try to put your hat under the seat on wire holders as you would in a theatre.

Of course it is excusable in you to wish to show off your new coat and hat, but do it on the street.

So that you may have a chance to show them Sunday, we will sell for the rest of this week a splendid all wool Fall Covert Coat for $7.50 to $16.50. Over a dozen styles to pick from; and as for Hats, we will give you our special at $1.98 and guarantee no Boston Hatter will sell them for less than $2.50. DANGER IN SODA.

Serious Results Sometimes Follow Its Excessive Use.

Common soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking an washing purposes, but it was never intended for a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it.

We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heart burn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice almost daily, and one which is fraught with danger; moreover the soda only gives temporary relief and in the end the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

The soda acts as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels and cases are on record where it accumulated in the intestines, causing death by inflammation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harlandson recommends as the safest and surest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large 20 grain lozenges, very pleasant to taste and contain the natural acids, peptones and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals they digest the food perfectly and promptly before it has time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Wuerth states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements and finds them a certain cure not only for sour stomach, but by promptly digesting the food they create a healthy appetite, increase flesh and strengthen the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but intended only for stomach disease and weakness and will be found reliable in any stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents per package.

A little book describing all forms of stomach weaknesses and their cure mailed free by addressing the Stuart Co. of Marshall, Mich. 3t 26-28-30.

POLITICAL FIELD.

Prospect Bright for T. H. Newcomb for Senator.

The eight Republican delegates chosen in Weymouth are pledged to Thaddeus H. Newcomb for senator.

Ward One Republicans will vote tonight in the Council chamber, Ward Two, in Hose 4 house, Ward Three in Doble's hall, Ward Four in Forester's hall, Ward Five in Hose 2 house, and Ward Six in the engine house.

The Randolph and Holbrook senatorial delegates are said to favor B. H. Woodsum of Braintree. Randolph chose James Blythe, Jr., W. Ray Spear and LeBaron Hathaway. Holbrook elected Howard Platt, Maynard E. Thayer and Zenas A. French.

The Herald says, If the Republicans make a mistake in their nomination in this Congressional district a safe, conservative Democrat should have a good chance of carrying the election. If the Democrats lose this district the indications are that Congressman Fitzgerald will continue to be the only member of that party in the Massachusetts delegation at Washington.

Councilman Cain is said to be the only active candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative, and his friends claim the delegates of Wards One, Four, Five and Six are for him. As two are to be nominated he has an excellent chance of being one.

The county delegates from Stoughton are John Stetton, Ira F. Burnham, Walter B. Southworth and A. Perry Curtis and are solid for Thomas Blanchard for county commissioners.

The city has been flooded with circulars urging voters to vote for the delegates favorable to Milton C. Paige at tonight's Republican caucuses.

It is reported that another meeting of some of the ex-city officials was held Tuesday evening in the vicinity of the High school, in the interest of Hon. William A. Hodges for mayor.

The Norfolk Conference.

The seventy-second autumn meeting of the Norfolk Conference of Congregational churches was held Tuesday in South Weymouth. The attendance was remarkably large. The interest and enthusiasm was marked, due in part to the fact that the Old South church, in which the conference met, is this week celebrating its 75th anniversary.

The addresses of the morning were largely historical or based on the lessons of the past. The Rev. H. C. Alvord gave an interesting sketch of the Old South church, full of noteworthy facts and suggestive incidents. Eight men have been installed covering a period of about 165 years. Three church edifices have been built. An excellent cut of the first building was exhibited. This picture has a curious history. A young man returning to London wished to carry a gift of local significance to his lady love. Being something of an artist he engraved on a punch bowl a cut of the old church. The bowl is still preserved and used, and the cut is the only picture of the church. Out from the Old South church have gone a long list of able men and women. It has been a mother to churches, an originator and sustainer of the best local institutions.

Rev. R. R. Kendall brought the greetings of the Old North church organized just one hundred years earlier, 1623. He touched briefly the days of early settlement and showed the streams of influence flowing from those first families, and the first church.

He noted that one family, the Whitmans, could boast as descendants Marcus Whitman, the late Gov. William Russell, and the martyred Lincoln. From the old parsonage went out Abigail Smith, as the wife of the young Quincy lawyer, John Adams, who with her husband graced the court of St. James in England, and ere long became mistress of the White House; the wife of one, the mother of another president of this nation.

The Rev. C. H. Hilton pointed out the conspicuous evidences that the faith of the Fathers has not waned in the present. That the Bible in spite of frenzied attacks upon it has lost none of its virile power. The church still continues her sweet and effectual ministries.

The Rev. David Evans presented a strong paper on the relevation of the church to laboring men.

The Rev. E. C. Porter, in an excellent paper, indicated new lines of Christian effort.

After lunch and a social hour, an audience completely filling the church, listened to a masterly address by Prof. C. S. Beardslee, D. D., of Hartford, on the Present Word of the Spirit to the Churches.

Dr. Archibald preached the sermon taking as his text, Ps. 121:1-2. It was one the finest sermons heard at the conference in years. The Quincy churches were well represented.

The holy communion was administered by Rev. Edward Anderson of Quincy, assisted by Rev. Charles A. Hilton of Randolph.

The next session of the conference will be held at North Abington.

Denounced Revision.

Paris, Sept. 28.—The rightest senators and deputies have passed resolutions denouncing the revision. The former declared that the government's decision was taken in spite of the resignation of two ministers of war and the vote of the chamber of deputies, and condemned the ministers for not convoking parliament and disregarding the army's honor.

The deputies of the right party declared the government had violated its pledges not to agree to a revision, in virtue of which the chamber voted confidence in the ministry, condemned the cabinet for changing the Dreyfus affair from a judicial to a political question, and demanded the convocation of parliament. A deputation of 12 members of the right party was appointed to present the resolution to President Faure, but he refused to receive the deputation on the ground that the procedure was unconstitutional.

Dr. Guilford Trapped.

Bridgeport, Sept. 28.—London's criminal bureau had been asked by State Attorney Fessenden to keep an eye out for Dr. Nancy Guilford, who is wanted for causing the death of Miss Gill, and who was supposed to be on a Montreal steamer to Liverpool. Tuesday word was received that a woman answering the description had arrived on the Vancouver with three trunks, one marked "Gifford," one "Gill" and one "Guilford." The detective followed her to London, where she is under surveillance. Attorney Fessenden at once communicated with Washington, and a cable has been sent to the United States embassy through the state department to have the woman arrested.

New York Silverites.

Syracuse, Sept. 28.—At a meeting of silverites last night, one of the speakers said: "If the Democratic party tomorrow, as represented in convention, is not Democratic, then we have a right to organize a Democratic party." He stated that the Democrats of the state had the assurance from two-thirds of the national committeemen that such an organization would have the recognition of the next national convention, adding: "We will be recognized."

W. B. Pierce scouted the idea that national issues did not properly form a part of the campaign. "Our only course," he said, "is to stand by the principles adopted at Chicago and not to trust the men who betrayed the party in 1894 and who are now at Syracuse to break into the Democratic party in order that they may betray it in 1898."

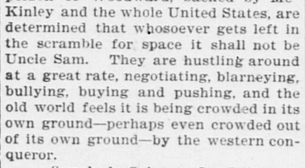
QUESTION OF FUTURE.

Old World Realizing the Greatness of Uncle Sam.

Big Change In the Attitude of the French.

Naval Exploits Caused the Scales to Fall From Their Eyes.

Paris, Sept. 28.—William T. Stead, the English newspaper man, referring to the arrival of the peace commission, writes: "The new world has invaded the old world, and in Paris today, at the Hotel Continental, is the headquarters of the army of invasion. It is a pacific invasion no doubt, but the invaders are bent, if not on conquest and annexation, at least upon appropriations and an extension of their borders.



W. T. STEAD.

"The struggle now going on between the French authorities and the exposition commissioners brings forcibly home to the European mind the great question of the future. It is a miniature production of a conflict of the forces which loom even more gigantic before the eyes of mankind. 'Room, therefore' the new world cries. Commissioner General Peck, the American, must have room to spread himself and his wares at the world's fair, where, with Paris, he will salute the new century, and the allocation of space in the exposition is far too small.

"The amiable French minister expostulates with a polite shoulder shrug: 'It is impossible. What would our friends, the Americans, have us do? Germany and Great Britain are also clamoring for more space. We have already alloted to the United States all the space we can spare. It is impossible, quite impossible.'

"'Impossible?' thunders the commissioner general. 'Don't use to me that idiot word. Your space is small I admit—only 336 acres, against 750 in Chicago—but our needs are great. Room, make room for the growing western world.'

"What can be done? Three hundred and thirty-six acres cannot be stretched like elastic. All the space is appropriated. If Uncle Sam is to have more he can only have it at some one's else expense, but Commissioner Peck and his staff are to attain the object on which they have set their hearts. Somebody will gave to 'git.' The Americans are quite remorseless, ruthless, relentless in their demands. Chicago, in the person of Peck, and New York, in the person of Woodward, backed by McKinley and the whole United States, are determined that whosoever gets left in the scramble for space it shall not be Uncle Sam. They are hustling around at a great rate, negotiating, blarneying, bullying, buying and pushing, and the old world feels it is being crowded in its own ground—perhaps even crowded out of its own ground—by the western conqueror.

"What is going on in the exposition grounds is going on on land and sea all around this planet. The shrinkage of the world has suddenly brought everyone face to face with each other. In the markets, in the colonies and on the high seas the old world is beginning to realize that perhaps there may no longer be enough to go around, that somebody is going to get left and that that somebody is not going to be the new world. This conviction is coming home slowly to the French; but they are learning it all the same. The result is immediately to increase the deference paid to the United States by the French. Nothing succeeds like success. The difference in the attitude of the French to the Americans since Manila and Santiago is more marvelous than edifying. Frenchmen of all classes, who a year ago sneered at the dollar-hunting Yankee as their forefathers scoffed at 'the nation of shopkeepers' across the channel, are running over each other in a race as to which can first fall on Uncle Sam's neck and embrace him.

"If by any possibility any space can be discovered in the exhibition, of course it will be made over to the sister republic rather than to Germany or Great Britain. Is not the American commissioner general ready to erect a statue of Lafayette in bronze if he can only get space to set it up? The minister of commerce and the minister of foreign affairs outdo each other in paying exceptional compliments to the American commissioner; now it is even hinted that next year American goods will be admitted to France on the payment of a minimum tariff, a reciprocal concession being of course anticipated on the other side.

Scales From French Eyes.

"The war between Spain and the United States was a revelation to the average Frenchman. When Dewey destroyed the Spanish fleet at Manila, the scales began to fall from his eyes, and when Cervera's fleet met with the same fate, he realized that a new naval power had been born into the world, inheriting, as one of them put it, 'the good fortune that always attended the English on the seas.'

"Early in the war the reports that the American fleet had been destroyed and that Sampson had been killed threw the Parisian populace into a paroxysm of delight. In those days no one here disguised his sympathies with Spain.; but nowadays all agree to forget that, and they are already convinced that there were never such friends of the Americans as the French.

Plane to Caesarism.

"All this is very pleasant for the Americans in Paris, and it will contribute to the facility of the work of the peace commissioners. There is no trace of any disposition in official quarters to make any difficulty in settling the terms of peace. The only demur made to the imperial expansion of the United States comes from experienced observers like De Pressenzo of The Times, who regrets the new departure, not because it affects France, but because it endangers the American republic. The French are at present exhibiting to the world some deplorable results of dominant militarism, and they sigh when they see the new world gliding down the incline plane which leads to Caesarism. They declare that the annexation of the Antilles and the Philippine islands will necessitate the creation of a large standing army, the enrollment of a corps of functionaries, a departure from all traditions of the republic, and a total transformation of the letter and spirit of the constitution.

"I see there appears still to be some question as to whether the European powers ever actually proposed to intervene in behalf of Spain. The story was that they decided to do so and were only stopped by the blunt intimation from Lord Salisbury that if they ever attempted such a thing the British fleet would be placed under the orders of President McKinley. I have the highest official authority, both British and French, for saying that there was never any proposal from Mr. Hanotaux, the French minister of foreign affairs at the time, for intervention. I regret having destroyed the legend, but 'magna est veritas,' and however delighted John Bull might have been to lend a hand to Uncle Sam he never had the chance to do so, and for this reason the European powers, France most of all, had too much sense."

Earmarks Discredit This.

San Francisco, Sept. 28.—The Post reiterates its former stories regarding the supplying of arms to the Philipines by the German government, and is positive that its authority is absolutely correct. The Post yesterday published an interview with its informant in which he says that he is not in a position to tell the full story, as he is financially interested in the plot and has actually been a party to the scheme. He says that he is interested in the German Philippine trade to the extent of nearly $1,000,000, and that for 15 years Germany has been working among the insurgents for her own benefit. He also told The Post that there would never have been a revolution had it not been for the German government.

Continuing, he says: "The arms that have been supplied came from the imperial government and were furnished through the trading companies in which I am interested, so as to conceal the German hand. The arms that are now being carried by the insurgents are from the same source. Aguinaldo, who accepted a petty bribe to desert the cause of the insurgents, has not the money to arm and equip a big army, and it has taxed his resources to furnish such supplies alone. My information is absolutely authentic, as it comes from high officials of the government who have large personal interests in the Philippine islands. Germany is supplying the rifles, ammunition and machine guns that are being landed, and when the insurgent army is fully armed and equipped and drilled, trouble will commence. America's safety lies in disarming the insurgents as a move toward the restoration of peace."

Threw Stones and Apples.

Brockton, Sept. 28.—A crowd of over 1000 people, including a few strikers, assembled at the shops of M. A. Packard & Co. last night and followed an Armenian who had taken the place of one of the strikers. He was hooted and hissed, and though he was under the protection of a police officer, he was hit several times by stones and apples. His guardian was also treated in a similar manner, but neither of them was injured. The Armenian sought refuge at the police station, and later went to a restaurant for his supper. Another demonstration started, and he was sent out of the restaurant, being followed to a hotel by a large crowd. There were similar demonstrations against others who have taken the place of the strikers. There were two arrests for disturbance.

At D. W. Field's factory in Montello a crowd gathered when the men came out from work, and the authorities escorted the lasters to a vacant house near by, where they were located for the night.

There was another crowd looking for Armenians at the factory of T. D. Barry & Co., and trouble was averted by the manufacturers bringing cots to the factory, where the men slept last night.

All of the machine lasters in the district were called out this morning, and several manufacturers propose to discard the machine and go back to hand lasting.

"Griffo" Has Them.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Albert Griffiths, better known as "young Griffo," the pugilist, is strapped in a straight jacket at a police station, where he is being held pending an examination into his mental condton. He ran amuck last evening, and left a trail marked by bruised faces. Three policemen who arrested the pugilist were sent sprawling to the ground by a series of blows, and reinforcements were necessary before the prisoner was taken to a patrol box. Before Griffo was tied in the patrol wagon he had taken off every article of clothing which he wore. He was drinking in a saloon when he suddenly leaped inte tho air and dashed out.

Robbery In Portland.

Portland, Sept. 28.—One of the boldest highway robberies ever committed in this city took place last night. Charles F. Andrews lost everything he had in his pockets, even to a jackknife. Two men assaulted him, and, after dragging him into an alley, went through his pockets. The desperadoes secured a gold watch, $89 in money and other articles. Mr. Andrews was not badly injured. He was unable to give a description of his assailants.

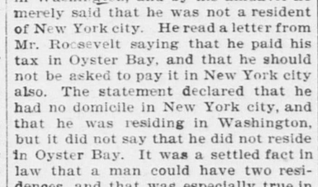
BLACK BADLY BEATEN

New York's Governor Made a Poor Showing In Convention.

Eloquent Plea For Justice by His Spokesman.

Roosevelt's Eligibility Declared to Be Not Open to Question.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The Republican state convention yesterday nominated the following ticket: For governor, Theodore Roosevelt of Oyster Bay; for lieutenant governor, Timothy L. Woodruff of Kings; for comptroller, William J. Morgan of Erie; for secretary of state, John T. McDonough of Albany; for state treasurer, John B. Jareckel of Cayuga; for state engineer, Edward A. Pond of Jefferson; for attorney general, John C. Davies of Oneida.



THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

When Mr. Depew had reached the point in his speech for Mr. Roosevelt where he alluded to the non-effect of Mauser bullets, two or three men rushed down the aisle bearing a big portrait of Colonel Roosevelt in rough rider uniform. There was a 3-minute interruption, and t picture was taken to the stage and set up.

Judge Ca , in speaking for Governor Black, said: "You will be told that expediency demands his retirement to private life. It will be urged that the captivating brilliancy of a military record will blind the eyes of the people of New York to the more sober merits of duties well performed in civic place; that the smoke of battle from that far Cuban hill has so far veiled and obscured the noble qualities of Governor Black that they can be of no further use to the state. Are you prepared to admit the soundness of all this? Are you persuaded that such argument is just? Are you convinced that such a course is best calculated to enlist the services of good and able men in public careers? Are you ready to say, with all the great prestige of this vast convention, that there is no bar of justice in politics at which the deserving can receive the fair rewards of their merits? Will you deem it prudent to announce such doctrine to the youth of the party and the state?"

Elihu Root made a statement as to the eligibility of Mr. Roosevelt to hold office. He said in part that Mr. Roosevelt had always voted in Oyster Bay and had merely removed personal property to Washington. He had merely refused to pay taxes on property he was using in Washington, and by his affidavit he merely said that he was not a resident of New York city. He read a letter from Mr. Roosevelt saying that he paid his tax in Oyster Bay, and that he should not be asked to pay it in New York city also. The statement declared that he had no domicile in New York city, and that he was residing in Washington, but it did not say that he did not reside in Oyster Bay. It was a settled fact in law that a man could have two residences, and that was especially true in the case of a Washington officeholder and the courts had so declared.

The closing remarks of Mr. Root were received with great applause and were as follows: "Gentlemen, Mr. Roosevelt would not have your suffrage or that of the people of the state if there was a doubt of his eligibility to be governor, but he would not be deprived of his citizenship without his will. He would not lose his birthright without fault. He would not retire from the contest for this honor because of charges which are not true. He would not give up his state, and I take it, gentlemen, that the people of the state of New York will not willingly surrender the priceless possession of his citizenship, the broad nobility of his citizenship, the splendid energy of his character and his noble heroism in civic and military life that carried him unflinchingly against the storms of public opinion and the storms of death, which are a heritage for our people and our children and our children's children which we cannot afford to surrender."

The most important plank in the platform reads: "We have abiding confidence that the president will conclude this peace upon terms that will satisfy the conscience, the judgment and the high purpose of the American people. We realize that when the necessities of war compelled our nation to destroy Spanish authority in the Antilles and in the Philippnes, we assumed solemn duties and obligations alike to the people of the islands we conquered and to the civilized world. We cannot turn these islands back to Spain. We cannot leave them unarmed for defense and untried in statecraft, to the horrors of domestic strife, or to partition among European powers. We have assumed the responsibilities of victory, and wherever our flag has gone, there the liberty, the humanity and the civilization which that flag embodies and represents must remain and abide forever. The Republican party has been the party of brave conservatism, of wise progress and of triumphant faith in the nationality of this people, and we know that the president and statesmen and voters of the Republican party will meet these issues of the future as bravely and triumphantly as we have met the issues of the past."

DEATH OF BAYARD.

Stricken With Fatal Illness While on a Visit to Bay State.

Dedham, Mass., Sept. 29.—Thomas F. Bayard, the first ambassador from this country to Great Britain, died yesterday afternoon at Karlstein, the summer residence of his daughter, Mrs. Samuel D. Warren. His death was without pain, the distinguished citizen merely passing from a semiconscious state to that of unconsciousness and then out into the great unknown. His wife, his two daughters, Mrs. Warren and Florence Bayard, and his son, Thomas F. Bayard, Jr., saw him draw his last breath, while a third daughter, Countess Launhaupt, was on her way to Dedham. The remains will be taken back to his native state, Delaware, and the funeral services will be held Saturday in the old Swedish church at Wilmington.

Karlstein lies off the Needham road, and to this place one evening about the middle of August went Mr. Bayard to be the guest of his daughter and son-in-law. He was sick when he reached there, but it was given out that his illness was merely incident to declining years. He steadily grew weaker, however, and had spells of semiconsciousness and of delirium. A consultation of physicians was held Aug. 26, and they agreed that Mr. Bayard was suffering from arterio-sclerosis and a general breaking down incident to age. He suffered no pain to any noticeable degree, and the chief tendency was to sleep.

During the first few weeks of his illness Mr. Bayard was able to sit up, but as the days passed he became gradually weaker, and three weeks ago he laid himself on his bed and never rose from it. At times he would rally to some extent, but the relapse always carried him nearer the end. His wonderful constitution, however, resisted the ravages of disease for a surprising period, and during the past two weeks he practically lived on it, taking but little nourishment, and certainly not enough to sustain life. During this time he was in a semiconscious condition, seldom recognizing any of the family and at intervals having sinking spells, accompanied by choking. These left him always weaker until Tuesday, when it became evident that his death was only a matter of a few hours. Still he lingered, having a slight rally during the night, while during the forenoon his condition showed little change. The afternoon, however, brought with it the final scene, for, at 4 o'clock, he began to sink rapidly, and half an hour later he gently passed away.

Sketch of the Statesman.

Thomas Francis Bayard was a distinguished member of an eminent family. Since long before the revolutionary war times the Bayards have been conspicuous in the country's history as patriots and statesmen, and many acquired national fame as jurists. Nicholas, the first ancestor to come to America, a son of an Amsterdam merchant, though of French Huguenot extraction and a nephew of Governor Stuyvesant, was secretary of the province of New York in 1685 and holder of several other important provincial offices. Col. John Bayard, a grandson, was a member of the provisional council of 1774; a leader of the movement for independence in Philadelphia; a number of the council of safety; colonel of the Second continental regiment, raised in Philadelphia in 1775; speaker of the assembly in 1777; member of the continental congress in 1785, besides having been honored with many other offices of great trust.

Four members of the Bayard family, direct descendants of the foregoing, have had senatorial honors bestowed upon them by the little state of Delaware—Thomas Francis Bayard, his father, James Ashton Bayard; his grand-father, of the same name, and the negotiator of the treaty of Ghent, and his uncle, Richard Henry Bayard. His grandmother's father, Governor Bassett of Delaware, was also the recipient of senatorial honors.

Thomas Francis Bayard was born in Wilmington, Del., Oct. 29, 1828, and was a younger son. In his 13th year he entered school at Flushing, L. I. Here he remained two years. At the expiration of that period, being intended by his father for mercantile pursuits, a clerkship was obtained for him in the establishment of Mr. Bayard's brother-in-law, August Van Courtlandt Schermerhorn. Here he received an excellent business training.

In 1848 his elder brother died, whereupon, at the request of his parents, he returned to Wilmington. Having a liking for his father's profession, that of law, he became a student with that end in view, and was admitted to the bar in 1851. He immediately began the practice of his profession with his father, and was successful from the beginning, his local fame spreading rapidly. In 1853 he was appointed United States district attorney for Delaware, but resigned in the following year. In 1865 Mr. Bayard removed to Philadelphia, where he formed a legal copartnership with William Shippen. This connection lasted five years, being terminated by the death of Mr. Shippen. Mr. Bayard on the death of his partner once more returned to Wilmington, where he was needed by his father, who was then engrossed in public duties.

When the war of the rebellion began Mr. Bayard was pursuing his profession. With the first muttering the people of Wilmington set about establishing means of self-protection. A militia company was organized and Thomas F. Bayard was elected its first lieutenant. In June, 1861, the famous peace meeting of the citizens were held in Dover, and Lieutenant Bayard was one of the principal speakers. He denounced the war, and his remarks on that occasion have been quoted in late years as an argument against his availability as a presidential candidate.

Meanwhile Mr. Bayard's popularity in his native state kept growing rapidly, and in 1868 he was elected to succeed his father in the United States senate, and was subsequently twice re-elected. It is noteworthy that on the day he was elected to the senate to the full term his father (who had resigned) was re-elected a senator from Delaware to serve for the unexpired part of his original term. This is the only case of a father and son being voted for by the same legislature to fill senatorial offices.

Almost at the outset of his senatorial career, Mr. Bayard took an active part in the discussions concerning the presidential election of 1876. He was an advocate and subsequently a member of the electoral commission. In October, 1856, Senator Bayard was married to Louisa, daughter of Josiah Lee, a Baltimore banker. Twelve children were the result of that union. In 1877 Senator Bayard received the honorary degree of LL. D. from Harvard college.

When the Democratic national convention was held in 1880 his friends rallied in force to secure his nomination for the presidency, and such was their strength and the popular feeling for him that on the first ballot he stood next to Hancock, who was elected on the second. In the Democratic convention of 1884, at which Mr. Cleveland was nominated, Mr. Bayard received the next vote on the two ballots which were taken.

At the close of Mr. Cleveland's administration Mr. Bayard returned to private life to his legal profession. He was appointed ambassador to the court of St. James and served during Mr. Cleveland's second term.

Mr. Bayard's first wife died during the first year of his term as secretary of state. Four years later he was married to Miss Mary W. Climer of Washington, who survives him.

Erne Proved a Tartar.

New York, Sept. 29.—Kid Lavigne, the recognized lightweight champion pugilist of the world, came very near losing his title at the Greater New York Athletic club in a 20-round bout with Frank Erne of Buffalo. Erne proved a tartar for the Saginaw boxer, who is not the Lavigne of three years ago by any means. Erne's wonderful improvement was a surprise to the 7000 people who witnessed the fight. He drew Lavigne to him and sent back as good as he got in many of the rounds, while in some of them he outpointed the champion.

It was generally understood that a decision was to be given on points, and the statement made at the end of the bout that both men had agreed to call it a draw in case they were good and strong at the end of the 20 rounds was a source of keen disappointment to a host of Erne's friends, who looked for a favorable verdict. Had the bout been decided on points Erne certainly would have got the championship and the winner's slice of the $5000 purse which the club hung up for the contest.

What Roosevelt Purposes.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Sept. 29.—Colonel Roosevelt received this telegram from Elihu Root yesterday: "You have doubtless heard of your nomination by more than three-fourths majority. So far as I can ascertain, not the slightest doubt remains in the mind of any member of the convention, including Governor Black's friends, as to your eligibility or the pretended evasion of taxes."

Colonel Roosevelt said he regarded the platform adopted by the convention a strong one, and especially the foreign policy plank. When asked about his future plans the candidate said: "I shall probably speak in many principal cities and in towns of the state, and have already received invitations from certain towns to open my canvass in those places. I shall certainly make a vigorous canvass of the state."

Did $50,000 Damage.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 29.—A special from Clinton says that a fire destroyed the Maine Central station, several barns, several dwellings and other buildings last night. The supposed cause was a spark from a smoker's pipe. The estimated loss is $50,000.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to G, and today's instalment begins the H's:

BROCKTON STRIKE.

Non-Unionists Assailed as They Left Shoe Shop.

Brockton, Sept. 29.—Trouble was narrowly averted at two shops last evening, and one arrest was made. A crowd of about 1000 people congregated in front of P. B. Keith's factory, but the 10 officers kept it moving until five Armenians appeared. They walked through the multitude under protection of the officers. It was noticed that one of the Armenians had a knife in his hand before the police reached them. Stones were thrown, and one Armenian received a flesh wound. Another crowd followed three Armenians from the same shop to the depot. One of the non-union men drew a revolver, but did not discharge it. John Nelson was arrested on the charge of disturbing the peace.

There was a large crowd in front of N. A. Packard & Co.'s factory, which waited in vain for the non-union men to come out. They had left their benches at about 4 o'clock, with the exception of those who are sleeping in the shop, where two officers are on guard. At about 6 o'clock, John S. Kent, one of the firm, started to go up the street, when he was discovered and followed by 1000 people, many of them hissing him. After going nearly a quarter of a mile he stopped at a street corner, where stones were thrown at him. Several hit the mark, but he was not injured. Officers escorted Mr. Kent to the factory, and later he went to his home in a conveyance.

To add to the apprehension and general unrest, street demonstrations of some proportions have been made by those opposed to non-union help, and serious trouble has been narrowly averted. The strikers and union officials have not sanctioned these demonstrations, and in fact have spoken emphatically against them. Marshal Chase and the city authorities have become fully alive to the needs of the hour, and a strong force of police will hereafter be on hand at the places where trouble has already occurred. Riot rule will not be tolerated in Brockton.

President Tobin says that the war inaugurated yesterday is against the machines and not the unaffected manufacturers, as the union stands ready to help them in every possible way, so far as it could be done without working the machines.

McCoy Injured Corbett.

New York, Sept. 29.—Corbett, his manager, George Considine, and Al Smith ate lunch together yesterday at the Gilsey House. They then walked out through the lobby, and in the Broadway entrance met David Nugent of the Hawthorne club, who joined them. In one of the side entrances were McCoy, William Gray of the Hawthorne and six other men. They were talking excitedly. Considine saluted Gray, and Corbett walked up to do likewise. Gray, after acknowledging the salutes, said to Corbett: "I don't think you want to fight."

"What's that?" hastily inquired Corbett.

Gray repeated the remark, and Corbett loudly said that he was ready to fight McCoy anywhere and at any time. "I'll fight him now and right here on the street," said Corbett.

McCoy, who had been listening, stepped up to Corbett as the latter spoke and knocked off his hat. Several of Corbett's friends, wishing no disturbance, held him, and just as they seized him by the arms and shoulders McCoy delivered a kick at Corbett which struck him in the groin.

Corbett leaned over in pain, unable to try to get at McCoy, who, as soon as he had kicked, ran back to the side entrance of the hotel. Corbett tried to follow, but he could not do so, and he was persuaded to go to his room. McCoy disappeared.

Ruling on Third Class Matter.

Washington, Sept. 29. — Postmaster General Smith has modified previous rulings of the department in definition of third class mail matter. Under this latest ruling all impressions obtained upon paper or cardboard by means of printing, engraving, litrography or other mechanical process easy to recognize, except the typewriter letter or manifold copy, are held to be printed matter, if not in the nature of an actual and personal correspondence.

Matter prepared by the typewriter must be regarded as personal correspondence and unmailable at the third class rate of postage; but the facsimile copies of manuscript or typewriting obtained by a mechanical process are assimilated to printing and may be regarded as third class matter, provided they are presented for mailing at post-office windows and in minimum number of 20 perfectly identical copies. If mailed elsewhere or in less number, postage at first class rate must be required.

Postage on Hawaiian Mail.

Washington, Sept. 29.—The numerous articles of mail matter reaching the San Francisco postoffice addressed to Hawaii and paid for only at domestic rates indicate a general but erroneous impression that our domestic system was extended to those islands when they were annexed. The postal department has called attention to the fact that the universal postal union rates apply to the Hawaiian mails as heretofore, the only exception being in matter addressed to our military or naval forces there, to which domestic postage applies. For the present at least the same rates apply to mails for and from Hawaii as before the annexation.

Derrick Fell Upon Him.

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 29.—In the granite quarry of William R. Chees of Lanesville yesterday James Kane was terribly mutilated by the falling of a derrick, and death resulted before he could be removed from the scene. He was in charge of the steam drill at the time. He is survived by a widow and three children.

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

Hundreds Congratulate Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mead.

The marriage of Mr. George Palmer Mead and Miss Nellie Florence Nightingale was solemnized Wednesday evening at quarter past seven at the home of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, pastor of the First Unitarian church, in the presence of only the immediate families.

Miss Ada M. Nightingale, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Katharine Stearns, the little six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Stearns of Ashmont, was the flower girl. She was dressed all in pink and looked like a little fairy. Mr. Peter B. Mead, brother of the groom was best man.

At eight o'clock a large reception was given, which was attended by several hundred, there being a steady stream of guests from eight until ten. Mr. and Mrs. Mead were assisted in receiving by the bride's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James Nightingale, and Mr. and Mrs. I. Freeman Hall of North Adams. Mr. and Mrs. Hall formerly lived at the Point and are well known to many. Mrs. Hall is a sister of the groom and daughter of the late Peter B. Mead.

Mr. J. Warren Nightingale, Mr. Charles W. Nightingale, Mr. George W. Nightingale, brothers of the bride, and Mr. Harry M. Spring of Boston introduced the guests.

The wedding march and music for the reception was furnished by an orchestra. A sumptuous wedding supper was served. The bride was very self possessed and never looked prettier, her white bridal robe and veil being most becoming. She carried a large bouquet of Bride roses.

If the old sign is true that the bride shall be happy that the sun shines on, what a bright future is foretold for this bridal pair, for Wednesday was an ideal day and the evening so glorious as to be almost bewitching.

The Nightingale homestead seems especially adapted for weddings and large parties, the house is so large and roomy, one room leading from another in such a way as to never seem overcrowded, even when the house is full.

In an upper room was a large and valuable display of gifts of cut glass, silver, china, pictures and bric-a-brac, besides several checks and pieces o furniture.

Mr. and Mrs. Mead left after the reception for a wedding trip, and on their return will reside at 251 Washington street, Quincy Point, where they will receive their friends after November first.

For the Dandy Fifth.

There was a box of dainties and canned goods, contributed by the friends of Co. K, Fifth Masachusetts Infantry, U. S. V., now stationed at Camp Meade, Pennsylvania, sent by express, by the Volunteer Aid Association Wednesday, valued at $35.00.

A barrel filled with canned goods valued at $10.00, was also sent Wednesday, Sept. 21, to the boys at Camp Meade by the local branch of the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid Association.

Delegates for All Congressional Candidates

Chosen at the Caucuses of the Republicans.

Some for Barrows, Paige, Atwood and Bradley.

After all the aspirations of other candidates it is very probable that Congressman Barrows will receive a majority of the Republican Congressional delegates from Quincy. Some favor him as a first choice, while others will vote for him if they see no show for their candidate. However,

CONGRESSMAN BARROWS.

Paige, Bradley and Atwood secured some delegates and it is difficult to predict just how the Quincy delegates stand or will stick. Republican caucuses were held throughout the city and all wards used the Australian ballot. The result was as follows:

WARD ONE ANTI.

The Quincy ward elected Congressional delegates who are against both Barrows and Atwood. They are not enthusiastic over Paige but will vote for him if they find no chance of electing J. Payson Bradley or some dark horse. The vote for Congressional delegates was: Macleod 85, Goodridge 87, Jenness 85, and Brown 80. The delegation elected, received: Faxon 106, Burgin 103, King 102 and Merrill 99.

The caucus was called to order at 4 P. M. by A. G. Dolliver, chairman of the Ward One Republican Committee. Charles H. Johnson was elected chairman and Frank F. Prescott secretary.

Counting began about 8 o'clock. The polls closed at 9, and the result was promptly announced at 9.40. These delegates were elected:

State—Russell A. Sears, Eben W. Sheppard, Delecvare King, William P. Barker.
Councillor—John F. Merrill, Charles H. Porter, George N. Nash, Charles F. Pettengill.
Congressional—Clarence Burgin, Henry H. Faxon, James F. Merrill, Theophilus King.
County—Henry H. Faxon, Clarence Burgin, Elias A. Perkins, William T. Isaac.
District Attorney—Thomas M. Butler, Arthur W. Stetson, Henry M. Faxon, Edward B. Souther.

WARD TWO FOR ATWOOD.

The Ward Two Republicans turned out well and a good vote for a State caucus was polled. The caucus was called to order at 6 o'clock by Secretary John S. Gay, who read the call.

Representative T. H. Newcomb was elected chairman and John S. Gay secretary.

Messrs. Edgar F. Hayden, Eugene C. Hultman, E. W. Newcomb and Maurice I. Gatcomb were appointed tellers.

Polls were kept open until 9 o'clock and the result of the ballot was announced soon after.

The only contest in this ward was over the delegates to the Congressional convention. For this there was two lists, one of which was favorable to Paige and the other list was unpledged, though said to favor Atwood. The unpledged list won out by nearly fifty votes, as these figures show:

Unpledged List:
Edgar F. Hayden,	90
Rollin H. Newcomb,	87
Benjamin Johnson, Jr.,	86
Favorable to Paige:
Hiram W. Phillips,	40
Henry C. Rodgers,	38
George Crane,	35

The following delegates were elected:

State—Thaddeus H. Newcomb, Arthur W. Newcomb, George A. Sidelinger.
Senatorial—Rollin H. Newcomb, Benjamin Johnson, Jr., Henry Glidden.
Congressional—Benjamin Johnson, Jr., Edgar F. Hayden, Rollin H. Newcomb.
Representative—George Weston, Peter B. Meade, Maurice I. Gatcomb, Frank E. Burrell John S. Gay.

WARD THREE.

As usual there was a large attendance at the Ward Three caucus the interest being centered in the delegates for the Congressional, County and Representative conventions, each of which had two lists. Ex-Counilman John P. Bigelow called the caucus to order and read the call, after which the caucus organized with Philip J. Halvosa as chairman, John N. Kelley, secretary, and John W. Faircloth, assistant secretary.

Tellers were appointed from the floor as follows: Alexander McCabe, John C. Scott, Alexander Murch, Newman Savage, William Skinner and John Ross.

The caucus officers considered the advisability of commencing to count the ballots before the polls closed, but according to their interpretation of the caucus law counting could not be begun until the polls had closed. As the polls did not close until 9 o'clock, it was a few minutes past that hour before the counting commenced.

One hundred and thirty-eight ballots were cast, and as the counters were all new at the business, the counting was necessarily slow and proceeded at the rate of ten every twelve minutes which made it late before the result was known.

It was midnight before the result was announced and at that hour there were but a few waiting to hear it. There was of course some surprises.

The Congressional delegates are thought to be Atwood sympathizers but that they will vote for Barrows on the first ballots.

Of the two lists for the County convention the list said to favor John Q. A. Field was defeated by the anti-Fields by about twenty votes.

There were also two lists of delegates for the Representative convention, one of which was pledged to Eugene H. Sprague. This list was defeated by over forty votes. Just who the Representative delegates elected favor is not known, although some claim that they favor Representative James Thompson.

The following delegates were elected:

State—James W. Pierce, Peter W. Dakers, James Richards, James M. Cutting.
Congressional—John Kennedy, John C. McGowan, Thomas Johnston, Daniel McLennan.
District Attorney—Joseph P. Prout, John C. Murray, Harry S. Nicoll, William T. Spargo.
Senatorial—Alexander Marnock, John Coyle, Andrew McIntosh, Michael T. Phillips.
Councillor—William W. Parry, Roderick McLennan, Frank C. Field, Walter H. Dunbar.
County—Andrew McIntosh, Sr., William Michael, David T. Drummond, William F. McCalder.

The vote for Congressional delegates was: First list Kennedy 81, McGowan 78, Johnston 75, McLennon 84; Second list—Bigelow 57, Marnock 51, Thompson 51, and Spargo 48.

County vote: First list—Mitchell 60, Field 57, Prout 51, Milne 45. Second list—McCalder 72, McIntosh 70, Drummond 70, Michael 68.

Representative vote—Unknown list—Bigelow 95, McIntosh 86, Dakers 84, Kenn 82, Kennedy 81, Johnson 80, Rendle 76. Sprague list—Murray 48, Roberts 46, Falconer 46, Pratt 43, Young 40, Campbell 37, Gustafson 37.

WARD FOUR FOR BARROWS.

Although there was no contest on any of the delegations in Ward Four, nearly forty votes were cast. The Congressional delegates elected from this ward are unpledged although they are believed to favor Barrows to the end.

Tobias H. Burke was chairman of the caucus and Albert J. Shackley secretary. The tellers were Hiram W. Campbell and Alexander Shirley.

The delegates elected were:

State—W. E. Badger, Walter H. Ripley, Peter A. England.
Councillor—Oscar A. Barron, Joseph W. Shackley, W. H. Teasdale.
Congressional—Thomas F. Burke, H. W. Campbell, William J. Hammond.
County—Tobias H. Burke, Joseph Walker, John Williams.
Senatorial—Arthur W. Woodward, John Anderson, William B. Donald.
Representative—Henry F. Geer, Alexander Shirley, John J. Nichols, Albert T. Rodman, Albert J. Schackley.

WOLLASTON FOR SPRAGUE.

The Ward Five Republican caucus was called to order promptly at 7.30 o'clock by Chairman Freeman of the Ward Committee. He opened the proceedings by reading the State Committee call and also the Ward and City Committee's call for the holding of the caucus.

"We will now proceed to elect a chairman of the caucus," he said as he finished reading. The words were hardly out of his mouth when Mr. Bryant exclaimed, "Mr. Chairman, I nominate Mr. E. E. Jameson for chairman of this caucus!"

And before the nomination could be seconded Mr. Whting had the floor with, "Mr. Chairman, I nominate Mr. R. R. Freeman to be chairman!"

Then there was a buzz as the audience

POLITICAL FIELD.

T. H. Newcomb Probably Has Enough Votes for Nomination.

Twenty-eight votes in a full convention will be necessary to nominate the Republican candidate for senator from this district. With the solid vote of Quincy (19), and Weymouth (8), Representative Thaddeus H. Newcomb of this city will have 27, and it will be necessary for all the other delegates to combine to defeat him. Braintree has 4, Randolph 3 and Holbrook 3, and their first choice is undoubtedly B. H. Woodsum of Braintree. The Canton 4 are for Judge Grover, and probably some of the Hyde Park and Milton delegations which number 9 and 5 respectively. Capt. Newcomb has friends in the last two towns and his nomination is almost assured.

The names of Councilman Henry McGrath and W. A. Jordan of Wollaston have been suggested for the Democratic Representative nominations. As the matter now stands it is not thought that Councilman Cain has the hold on the nomination that was claimed for him. The Democrats realize that exceptionally strong men must be nominated, if they hope for success and for this reason it may be that the convention will turn to the two gentlemen here named.

The Ledger has it from a member of the Democratic City Committee that the accounts in the Ledger of meetings held in different parts of the city, in the interest of a certain mayoralty candidate, do not make interesting reading for the other members of the party. The State election is engrossing the attention of all Democrats at this time, and the workers say if these gentleman so interested are true blue they will bestir themselves in this campaign and not anticipate the work of the municipal campaign by nearly six weeks. The men most prominent in this movement are known to be exofficers of the old regime. Thia member says no matter what may turn up, and this takes into consideration every possibility, the Democratic mayoralty nominee this year will be nominated without the influence or help of ex-office holders.

The Tenth district Republican Congressional convention will be held at Wesleyan hall, 36 Bromfield street, Wednesday evening, Oct. 5, at 8 o'clock.

Cohasset elected the following county delegates: Philander Bates, Edward E. Wentworth and Harry E. Mapes.

County Commissioner Blanchard was elected on the town committee of Stoughton.

The Republicans are sure to renominate Russell A. Sears for Mayor and are not at all anxious about the result on election day.

Canton Republicans are understood to be in favor of Judge Thomas E. Grover.

Now for the conventions.

For Senator, Thaddeus H. Newcomb of Quincy.

Why not Representative James Thompson for County Commissioner?

The Globe figures it out that 12 of the Quincy delegates are for Atwood, 3 for Barrows, and 4 unpledged, and that of the 116 in the Tenth Congressional district, Barrows has 40, Atwood 31, Paige 20, and that there are 25 unpledged.

The Journal says Barrows will have 9 delegates from Quincy, Atwood 8 and Bradley 4. In the disrict—Barrows 41, Atwood 27, Bradley 4 and Paige 3, with some to hear from.

The Repulbican county delegates o Dedham are: Dr. F. L. Babcock, Harry L. Wardle, Cuvier G. Wheeler, Jacob Lorio, Charles A. Wrag.

Hingham favors a renomination of Senator Bouve of that town.

Foxboro elected Charles L. Bixby, Horace G. Smith, and Arthur F. Young to the Republican county convention.

The Journal reports the Hyde Park delegates pledged to Grover, viz: Wilbur H. Powers, Edward I. Humphrey, Fred Y. French, William B. Kollock, Joshua S. Lewis, Henry A. Rich, Franklin C. Graham, Charles L. Farnsworth, Edward S. Fellows.

Boston Sewer Rentals.

The new sewer maintenance assessment of Boston is certain to cause considerable discussion among real estate owners, and doubtless a great deal of complaint. It is doubtful, however, if they will get much satisfaction. The law undertakes to have each assessment based upon the use which each piece of property makes of the sewers. As there are over 60,000 dwelling houses alone, not to mention other buildings, in this city, the difficulty, not to say impossibilty, of making a just distribution of the tax according to the benefit derived from the sewer becomes apparent. If the water charge is made the guide the matter could have been easily, cheaply and expeditiously arranged by taking a certain proportion of such rates.—Herald.

"Don't."

When you go to church Sunday, don't try to attract all the attention. Don't be too resolute in your demand for a front pew. Somebody may be paying several hundred dollars for the privilege of sitting down front and you might annoy the somebody. If you are given a sitting down in front, it is not considered proper for a man to wear his Overcoat down the aisle, and when shown into a pew to turn around and bow to all the ladies as you draw it off.

It is still more embarrassing if you try to put your hat under the seat on wire holders as you would in a theatre.

Of course it is excusable in you to wish to show off your new coat and hat, but do it on the street.

So that you may have a chance to show them Sunday, we will sell for the rest of this week a splendid all wool Fall Covert Coat for $7.50 to $16.50. Over a dozen styles to pick from; and as for Hats, we will give you our special at $1.98 and guarantee no Boston Hatter will sell them for less than $2.50. Continued from page 2.

tumbled to the fact that there was to be a fight from the start.

The motion to vote for chairman by show of hands was put and carried.

Before the vote could be taken Mr. Bryant again had the floor saying, "Mr. Chairman, do I understand that we vote for secretary first?"

"No," replied the chairman, "we first proceed to vote for a chairman of this caucus."

"I understood," replied Mr. Bryant, "that we were to first vote for a secretary. As I misundestood the question I withdraw Mr. Jameson's name."

The caucus then unanimously elected R. R. Freeman for chairman and E. E. Jameson for secretary.

Upon a vote the chairman was authorized to appoint five tellers. He appointed these, E. E. Jameson, James C. Cates, E. S. Taylor, John B. Given and William H. Bain. It was voted to keep the polls open until 10 o'clock.

At the opening of the polls there was a large crowd present. They lined up, passed before the tellers, received their ballots, went into the stalls and marked them and then, after their names were checked, deposited them in the ballot box.

This was the largest caucus ever held at Wollaston, the total number of ballots cast being 267. It was eleven o'clock when the vote was declared.

The fight came over the Nickerson-Sprague contest for Representative. The Sprague forces won, the vote being 151 to 108 for the Nickerson delegation.

These delegates were elected:

State Convention—William D. Given, Edward A. Lyman, F. P. Waterhouse.

Councillor—Charles R. Sherman, James S. Whiting, A. G. Olney.

Congressional—R. R. Freeman, G. F. Pinkham, H. T. Whitman, W. J. Wellington.

WARD SIX UNPLEDGED.

The Atlantic caucus was called to order by Roger H. Wilde, chairman of Ward Committee, and organized with Alfred A. Bradshaw as chairman and Alfred W. Jelinek, as secretary. All delegates as they appeared on the ballot were elected without opposition. There being only one set of delegates for each convention there was no excitement whatever and attendance light. Less than 50 votes were cast.

AT CAMP MEADE.

Anxiety in Co. K as to Length of Service.

With Co. K, 5th Mass., U. S. V., Camp George Gordon Meade., Middleton, Penn., Sept. 27

A few of the boys are not so well this morning; not thought to be anyways serious.

Today has been a bright sunny day after the terrific storm of Monday.

The usual drill this morning was dispensed with and this afternoon's drill will also be postponed on account of a number of duties which have to be filled. A private when he come off guard has one day off, and then he goes on again, so it makes the companies short-handed about all the time. Having to supply heavy guards for Brigade Headquarters, and another guard for Division and another for the Red Cross Hospital, leaves some companies with only about 20 men some days.

We have at last got water on grounds, the faucets being opened this morning, for first time.

The following will report for guard duty tomorrow from Company K: Corp. Haskins, Privates Capaccoli, Carlson, Currie, Collins, Doran, Gillis, Gilbride and Gunderson.

The boys are enjoying themselves immensely, taking in all the sights.

There seems to be considerable anxiety throughout camp, among the boys, wondering when they will be mustered out. Boys are hoping to see their homes about next spring. If they do not, something serious may occur. The boys are willing to do the proper thing, but do not want to be played with.

VOLUNTEER.

A $250,000 Fire Near Home.

About 10 o'clock last night, J. E. Curtis, night watchman at Bradley's fertilizer works, at North Weymouth, discovered a fire in the main factory, in the corner of what is known as the fish building.

The company's fire pump was immediately started, and six streams from their hydrants were soon being directed into the burning building by the fire department of the works.

Unable to extinguish the fire, an alarm was sounded from Box 13 which brought Engineer Collyer and the North Weymouth department.

Engineer Collyer immediately ordered a second and a general alarm, which brought the entire department.

An alarm had also been sounded in Hingham, and Chief Cushing and part of his department responded.

The fire was confined to the buildings surrounding the main building, which was 30 feet long and 250 feet wide, the nitric acid building being saved by hard work on the part of the department.

There were fire lighters moored to the wharf, and with one exception, the Curtis, they were moved out into the stream. The Curtis was slightly damaged.

The contents of the buildings burned, which included machinery and stock was a total loss, and was valued at $250,000. This also includes the buildings.

Robert F. Bradley, the president and treasurer, was at Beverly farms, and L. B. Curtis, the manager, is in California, and the exact figures of the insurance could not be obtained, although it is reported that the losses are fully covered by insurance.

Mr. Curtis, the night watchman, had visited the building just previous to the fire and states that the fire started in a quantity of dried blood in a corner of the building, which had been smouldering all the evening, and was discovered by a man placed there to watch it, and he was the one who put on the first stream and gave the alarm. Spontaneous combustion is given as the cause.

Farewell Party.

An exceptionally pleasant party was given at the residence of Mr. Charles E. Bugbee, on Holmes street, Norfolk Downs, Tuesday evening, the occasion being in honor of his son, Frank E. Bugbee, who returned to New York this morning, after a pleasant vacation of two weeks which was spent with his folks. His many friend gathered early in the evening to enjoy the pleasure of his pleasing company for the last time for a year, as Mr. Bugbee's duties detain him in New York throughout the rest of the time. The evening was spent in a most enjoyable manner. Refreshments were served during the evening, and games, dancing, etc., were also indulged in. A jolly good time was had. Frank rendered many pleasing selections on the piano and a few vocal selections which were well applauded. His many friends were sorry that he should depart so soon, as his vacation passed much too quickly for them all, but his duties called him.

The stockholders of the Old Colony Railroad Company, at their annual meeting, held Wednesday, at the United States Hotel, unanimously re-elected the old Board of Directors by a vote of 71,583 shares. Upon recommendation of the Directors, and in view of the fact that the accounts of the company are regularly examined under the direction of the New Haven Road's officials, the usual Examination Committee was not appointed.

METHOD IN MADNESS.

The Governor of a Soldiers' Home Wounded by an Inmate.

Had Been Given a Reputation as a Martinet.

Charges That Led to His Removal From a Kansas Institution.

Santa Monica, Cal., Sept. 29.—While Governor Smith of the Pacific branch of the national soldiers' home was going to his headquarters yesterday, Albert G. Bradley, who has been an inmate of the home for five years, shot at him five times, one ball taking effect under the right shoulder blade, one over the right hip and one through the right arm. The surgeons think the wounds are not fatal. There is no external bleeding, but fears of internal injury are entertained. At times Bradley has acted strangely, and it was supposed he was mentally unsound. The governor is resting easy. Bradley was arrested.

Governor Smith was in charge of the national home in Leavenworth for many years. Early on the morning of June 11, 1897, the governor's residence on the grounds was wrecked by dynamite. The governor, his wife and daughter escaped with minor injuries. The crime was traced to a veteran, Joseph W. Oliver, an inmate of the home, and he was convicted.

Smith's administration was marked by many troubles. Later the management of the home was investigated by a committee from the house of representatives. Many charges were preferred against Governor Smith, but the investigation resulted in nothing more than his transfer to the governorship of the Pacific branch, where he was wounded.

The charges that led to the investigation were principally mistreatment of the old soldiers. It was said that he confined men in the insane wards of the hospitals without previous examination by the surgeons; that he maintained a police system cruel in the extreme, and that he forced men to take the gold treatment for drunkenness against their will. Colonel Sidney Cook of Herrington, Kas., the local manager, testified that he had ordered Governor Smith to discharge the brutal police officers and to cease the custom of forcing the soldiers to take a cure for drunkenness. The order, he said, had been disobeyed. Later Colonel Cook stated that he had investigated complaints made by pensioners that their pensions had been withheld from them by order of the governor and against the law. He had ordered this to cease, and had been obeyed. Governor Smith had been let off with a reprimand. Further charges against the governor were that he had abused and insulted the officers under him; had caused men carried on government pay-rolls to do chores about his house, and had turned government property over to his private use. Before becoming governor of the Leavenworth home, Smith was for three years treasurer of the national soldiers' home at Togus, Me. Charges preferred against him there by the governor of that home led to his transfer in 1885 to Leavenworth.

War of the Professionals.

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—The breach between the professional circuit chasers and the L. A. W., which began at Trenton with the formation of a temporary organization to be known as the National Racing Cyclists' union, was widened last night, when the riders formed a permanent organization. Officers were elected, a dozen new members were admitted, and a schedule of dates for October was decided upon. The officers elected were: Eddie Bald, president; Arthur Gardiner, vice president; Tom Cooper, recording secretary; F. A. McFarland, treasurer; Edward Spooner, corresponding secretary. The admission of Major Taylor, the colored rider, was opposed by Gardiner, Stephens, McFarland and Becker. Cooper, Eaton and Martin warmly espoused the colored crack's cause. When the vote was taken Taylor was accepted unanimously.

Their Party's Choice.

Boston, Sept. 29.—A number of Republican caucuses were held in cities and towns Wednesday night, and Thursday the remainder were held and warm contests left unfinished were decided. Many of the candidates who were up for nomination were vigorously opposed, and quite a number were turned down by their party followers. In the congressional districts the interest centered in the Seventh and Tenth. Although Congressman Knox in the Fifth had an opponent in Holt of Lawrence, he had no difficulty in winning, as Holt announced his withdrawal. Congressman Barrows had an apparent majority in the Tenth. There was also a close fight in the Second councillor district, while in over a dozen senatorial districts there were a number of candidates striving for delegates.

For Aiding a Prize Fight.

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—Joseph Butler, the colored pugilist who delivered a knockout blow to "Doc" Payne, McCoy's sparring partner, Monday night, was held in $1500 bail yesterday on the charge of aiding and abetting a prize fight and assault and battery upon Payne. Special Officer Lutton testified that Butler threw Payne on the floor three times in the first round and struck him several times while down. He also testified as to the knockout blow. Mayor Warwick has notified the Arena management that no more contests will be permitted to take place in that building until he shall give permission.

"Young Griffo's" Case.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Alfred Griffiths, known in sporting circles as "Young Griffo," who created a sensation by running along the street stripped to the waist and yelling at the top of his voice, and who all but knocked out three officers attempting to arrest him, is believed to be insane. He talks incoherently about some person who intends to shoot him. The case was continued to enable the city physician to examine into Griffo's sanity.

COST HUB A GAME.

Pitcher Willis Unable to Stand Two Successive Appearances.

Boston, Sept. 29.—Anxiety for the future, without any regard for today, tempted Manager Selee to pitch "Vic" Willis again yesterday after his winning game of Tuesday, and hold out Kloby, Lewis and Nichols for the troublesome Phillies. To cap it all, instead of giving the long pitcher his usual catcher, Yeager or Bergen, who were itching for work, young Bransfield was ordered to recruit the wind-pad department, with a bad man to hold. Willis was replaced, after the Brooklyns took the lead in the fourth, by Nichols, who found that bunch of four runs an insurmountable barrier to pulling the boys out winners; but he pitched the Brooklyns out without another run for five innings. Miller missed the plate so often that Captain Griffin hauled him off the rubber at the right time in the fourth, he having filled the bases with only one out. Score:

The Louisvilles played gilt-edged ball yesterday, and the Chicagoes narrowly escaped a shutout.

The Clevelands defeated the Cincinnatis yesterday, because Powell pitched splendidly. Breitenstein had one bad inning.

The New Yorks had the game well in hand up to the fifth, when the Phillies began to score on good hitting and poor fielding. They had scored two runs in the ninth when the game was called on account of darkness, the New Yorks losing by one run.

Lawyer Their Standard Bearer.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 29.—The Democratic state convention nominated for governor Elvin W. Crane, the prosecutor of Essex county, and adopted a platform which in a measure supports the Democratic national platform.

The convention, however, defeated a proposition specifically to endorse the platform adopted by the Chicago convention of 1896. Mr. Crane's name was not the only one presented, but before the first ballot had been completed it was clear that he was the popular choice and his nomination was made unanimous.

The proceedings were without special incident until the majority report of the committee on resolutions was presented by Senator Edwards. This was followed by a minority report. There was a noisy time among the delegates, but Chairman Gourley promptly submitted the minority proposition to insert an endorsement of the Chicago platform to the convention without debate, and declared it defeated. For a few moments there was considerable turmoil, but finally the silver men accepted the situation gracefully.

A feature of the convention was the presence of a delegation of colored men, who called to pledge the support of a large contingent of colored men to the nominee of the convention. The delegation was cheered by the convention.

An unknown man was struck and instantly killed by a train on the Boston Revere Beach and Lynn railroad between Lynn and Revere last night.

General Greely has recommended that four of the companies of the volunteer signal service be mustered out, there being no further use for their services. The Tenth was recruited in Massachusetts.

A rear end collision of electric cars on the Lewiston, Brunswick and Bath railroad resulted in serious injuries to two workmen and less serious injuries to a passenger. The accident occurred between Lewiston and Lisbon.

Lieutenant Southerland, the commander of the Eagle, which made such a creditable record in fighting the Spanish forts on the south shore of Cuba, has been selected by the assistant secretary of the navy to take charge of the naval militia branch of the department.

A complaint reached the treasury department from a steamship agency in New York that one of its vessels had been refused permission by the Spanish authorities at San Juan to unload her cargo. No reason for this action was given. The matter was referred to the war department.

The British colonial office has vetoed the offer of the Jamaican government to contribute to the fund for the relief of the sufferers by the recent hurricane. This action is taken as implying the imperial government's assumption of the entire burden of relief of the devastated islands, which will appreciably affect the public subscriptions.

Along with the report of General Merritt and appendices on the land battles at Manilla, General Greene brought to Washington the report of Admiral Dewey, which is to be sent to Paris for the information of the American peace commissioners on the political importance of the islands, character of the people, and other matters that may properly be regarded as having a bearing upon the disposition of the islands.

RIFLES AND GUNS USED

Miners' Strike Leads to a Pitched Battle With Firearms.

White Unionists Triumph Over Colored Men.

Five Minutes of Heavy, but Poorly Directed, Firing by Combatants.

Pana, Ills., Sept. 29.—The negroes from the stockades at the Springside and Penwell mines last night paraded on the principal streets of the city, heavily armed. The union miners were in session at their hall. A negro appeared at the hall and quarrelled with a white miner. Officer Smith arrested the black and was escorting him to jail when a crowd of negroes, pointing revolvers at Smith, ordered him to release the prisoner. Union miners and others went to Smith's assistance, and the negroes were driven back. Smith took his prisoner to Operator Penwell's store, and upon Penwell's standing for the negro's fine he was released.

Before Smith released his prisoner, however, the crowd of colored men had been reinforced and assumed a threatening attitude toward the white men. David McGavie, leader of the union miners, clubbed one of the blacks over the head with a revolver, it is said. For half a block McGavie forced the negroes to retreat, and then a few shots were fired.

The negroes retreated quickly to their stockades, secured rifles, returned and challenged the miners to a fight. The opposing forces lined up on the street, the negroes with Winchesters and the miners with shotguns, rifles and revolvers. Neighboring business houses were immediately closed, lights extinguished and citizens generally sought their homes.

At the word of command firing commenced. The first volley came from the negroes. The union men responded with a volley and heavy firing continued for five minutes. Much of the shooting was wild. The white men finally drove their enemies to the stockades.

A second encounter between whites and blacks occurred 20 minutes after the first battle near the Penwell stockade, but the firing was scattered, and it is not believed to have been serious. The miners had full charge of the business streets at midnight, when desultory rifle reports could be heard from the Penwell and Springside stockades.

Cuban General's Sophism.

Santiago, Sept. 29.—General Collazo, the Cuban military officer who accompanied Lieutenant Rowan on his return to the United States after delivering documents from the war department to General Garcia, publishes a strong article in which he contrasts the state of affairs in the island after the revolution of 1876 and the present situation. "Then," says Collazo, "the Spaniards paid the insurgents enough money to allow them to return to their homes and commence work. They reduced, and in some cases remitted, taxes and treated the people leniently, affording them every facility for the resumption of peaceful pursuits.

"Now, the Americans demand the disbandment, without pay, of the Cuban army, still retain the heavy duties on cattle, thus preventing agriculturalists from resuming the cultivation of their lands, and are generally acting without consideration towards men deserving the highest consideration for their services to the cause of liberty. It is true the Americans are distributing rations to the Cuban army, but the Cuban soldiers do not want charity, but only an opportunity to work for themselves." The article concludes with a solemn warning of the serious consequences likely to ensue unless the aggravated situation is relieved.

The distress, disease, death, hunger and starvation at Matanzas continue unabated. The daily average of deaths upon the street corners exceeds 20, and the condition of the poor in Havana is not much better than at Matanzas. Mothers, gaunt and famished, hugging the shadows of skeleton children to their breasts, beg food and fall by the wayside, but the government refuses to admit the gravity of the situation, and has closed the soup kitchens, proclaiming to the world that want and destitution no longer exist there.

Killed an American.

San Juan, Sept. 29.—A Porto Rican, residing at Aguadilla, near Mayagues, asked protection both of the American and Spanish troops against depredations by outlaws which it was expected would occur. In response to his request the authorities sent to his house two soldiers of a Kentucky regiment who arrived there after dark.

The resident had not notified the Spaniards that he had requested American protection, and soldiers who had been sent to guard the house, arriving after the Americans, mistook the latter for outlaws. In the confusion resulting the Spaniards fired, killing one of the Americans.

May Have Been the Thief.

Boston, Sept. 29.—Chief Inspector Watts received a telegram from Marietta, O., yesterday asking whether or not Frederick T. Moore was still wanted. The chief answered immediately that the man was wanted here very much. The reward of $5000 offered some months ago by the National Bank of Commerce for the capture of its former assistant teller has never been recalled.

The telegram was prompted by the suspicion that a man giving the name of Hans Henry Capers of New York and New Orleans, who was married there a day or two ago to a girl of 16, may be Moore. The judge who issued the marriage license was shown a photograph of Moore and was struck by the similarity between Moore and the man to whom the license had been granted. Then it is said that the writing of "Capers" on the marriage record and a specimen of Moore's writing were compared, and that the similarity was marked.

There is a widespread and false impression that a man, in order to be a good physician, must be more or less heartless. People mistake heartlessness for nerve. The two terms are far from synonymous. A man may have a nerve of steel and a heart as tender as a mother's.

Of all the specialists in the world, there probably are not two that have as wide an experience in the treatment of women's diseases as Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. With the assistance of his staff of able physicians, he has prescribed, in the past thirty years, for many thousands of women. Dr. Pierce is pre-eminently a sympathetic physician. Perhaps more than any other man in the profession he realizes the hardships of woman's work, and the disadvantages under which she labors because of the weak, delicate and susceptible structure of the feminine organism. His immense practice in diseases peculiar to women forced upon his recognition the fact that women would never take the proper care of their health, so long as that care required the repugnant "examinations" and "local treatments" insisted upon by nearly all physicians. After years of study he invented a remedy now known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription that is an absolute and unfailing cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of diseases peculiar to women. This wonderful medicine cures in the privacy of the home, and does away with the necessity for obnoxious "local treatment." It imparts health, strength, vigor and elasticity to the organs distinctly feminine and fits for wifehood and motherhood.

In paper covers, 21 one-cent stamps; cloth binding, 10 cents extra. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Don't."

When you go to church Sunday, don't try to attract all the attention. Don't be too resolute in your demand for a front pew. Somebody may be paying several hundred dollars for the privilege of sitting down front and you might annoy the somebody. If you are given a sitting down in front, it is not considered proper for a man to wear his Overcoat down the aisle, and when shown into a pew to turn around and bow to all the ladies as you draw it off.

It is still more embarrassing if you try to put your hat under the seat on wire holders as you would in a theatre.

Of course it is excusable in you to wish to show off your new coat and hat, but do it on the street.

So that you may have a chance to show them Sunday, we will sell for the rest of this week a splendid all wool Fall Covert Coat for $7.50 to $16.50. Over a dozen styles to pick from; and as for Hats, we will give you our special at $1.98 and guarantee no Boston Hatter will sell them for less than $2.50. MAYOR AS MEDIATOR

Brockton Aldermen Seek a Settlement of the Strike.

Brockton, Sept. 30.—At a meeting of the board of aldermen last night resolutions were adopted calling attention to the strike and the unsettled condition of affairs, which may lead to acts of violence and the creation of ill feeling between employe and employer if the strike continues. It declared against the introduction of a dangerous foreign element at such a time. It was voted to request the mayor to tender his services as mediator to bring about a settlement.

There was only one demonstration, that being at the factory of P. B. Keith at Montello. Several Armenians were followed and hissed at by a large crowd, but no violence resulted. City Marshal Packard escorted the non-union men to their lodging places.

The incoming of the Armenians and Poles has been the worst feature of the strike, as it has been the direct cause of all rioting and trouble. The strikers are not making any demonstrations, but their sympathizers and the curious exhibit their feeling. Judge Reed announced in the police court yesterday morning, when he discharged a prisoner who had drawn a revolver, that a man had a right to protect himself when he was pursued by a mob, and could take the law into his own hands. The men at work will probably take advantage of this, and in the future knives and revolvers are likely to figure in the demonstrations. The police protection has been extra strong where trouble is looked for, and every effort is being made to preserve order.

Each night the situation grows more serious, and the few arrests made have encouraged the crowd so that more trouble is looked for.

Secretary Smith of the union is satisfied at the way the battle is going. His pickets sent nine men home yesterday, and others were met at the depot and induced to go back to Boston. The depots are well picketed, and the reports of the pickets show that the city is being kept free from new men who are after work. No one got by at the local depots, but it is suspected that the men get off at a station about five miles out and ride into the city. The streets leading into the city are also being watched, and the pickets at the factories make the final appeal to the men.

In the battle against the machines, the agent, Walter Shaw, expresses satisfaction at the outlook. He claims that the men cannot win. He has 1000 machines in this district, and states that he can keep them running if necessary. Men are being brought here all the time who either know how to run them, or wish to learn. "It is our duty to keep the machines running," he continued, "and we will do so."

At Stacey, Adams & Co.'s the men who worked on the machines do not like the idea of fighting the machines by hand lasting, at machine prices, plus the royalty. It is about 4 cents less than the machine price on the cheapest goods, and the amount they could earn would not be a living wage. As yet they have not returned. It is expected that the men will stop work in other shops after the first pay day, as the scale they now have to work for is alleged to be very low. The idea that hand lasters are working beside them for double the wages also bothers them. The union officials are endeavoring to adjust the matter.

John Milsson was sentenced to one month in the house of correction for disturbance of the peace in connection with a demonstration at the P. B. Keith factory.

A careful canvass in the headquarters of the union and the various affected shops fails to show who is winning the battle. Many of the manufacturers claim to be practically idle, and yet it is known that they are working. They make this statement, it is claimed, in order to keep strikers from coming near their factories. Others are putting on a more cheerful aspect, and are known to be doing a little. Outside of the three factories which have shut down it is known that some work is being done. As the manufacturer only has to pay for what he gets, he can get a little money for himself for the goods. The strikers, on the other hand, are living on what they have saved, and this in most cases is small. They are helped by a 50-cent a week tax on the men who are now working in shops not affected, and by money contributed by merchants in response to solicitations. No striker has yet publicly made complaint of his lot, but there are a few disgruntled ones.

As the battle continues the men are becoming careful of how they spend their money. At first it looked like a short, sharp fight with the men as winners, and they were free with their money. It is changed now, and though they still claim to be winning, the money is more carefully used.

Series of Bowling Games.

New York, Sept. 30.—A challenge for a series of bowling games with the "all-star" bowling team, now being organized in Chicago, with one player each from Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Toledo, Buffalo, Columbus, Cincinnati, Detroit and Chicago, was issued yesterday by Manager Karpf of the Greater New York Bowling club. The latter club is willing to play a series of 21 games, strikes and spares, for any amount from $500 to $1000.

—The new head of the Mormon church is Elder Lorenzo Snow. Like his predecessors he is of New England descent.

LUCKY NINTH AGAIN.

Collins' "Homer" for Four Runs Saved the Hub Team.

Boston, Sept. 30.—The game with the Philadelphias Thursday was an insipid affair up to the great finale. But for a sailor in the bleachery, half-seas over, with decided Philadelphia predilections, who rooted for his pets in stentorian tones until the ninth, when he fell under the seat, there wouldn't have been a particle of fun in the ceremonies. "Kloby" was sent in for three innings, but retired under a fire of six runs and six hits, Lewis pitching it out to a successful conclusion.

Collins was a veritable wonder at the bat and in the field, and his two home runs scored five of the home team's runs, while his grand field play shut off almost as many Quaker tallies. One of his homers was batted when three men were on bases and the Bostons were behind six runs. Score:

The Louisvilles were badly crippled Thursday, and the Chicagoes had a walkover. Darkness put an end to the game at the end of the seventh.

The Clevelands again defeated the Cincinnatis. The wanderers were always in front and won almost as they pleased.

Keeler sprained his ankle in yesterday's game between the Brooklyns and the Baltimores. The injury, according to his physician, will keep him out of the game for more than a week. Kelley and McGraw were sent to the bench for disputing with Hunt. McKenna went to pieces in the fifth, and the Baltimores won in a walk, 13 to 1.

The New York club gave the most flagrant exhibition of disorganization and amateur playing probably ever seen on the Washington grounds. At the end of the sisth inning Catcher Warner was put out of the game for kicking. Joyce redistributed the players, with the result that but two remained as originally placed. Two men refused to play in positions assigned them. Then began an exhibition which disgusted the spectators when they were not moved to laughter by the antics of the giants. The farce was stopped by calling the game back to the end of the sixth.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to G, and today's instalment is the second of the H's:

THE WAR INQUIRY.

Letters of Those Who Made Complaint to the President.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Circular letters have been sent to the writers of all the complaints received by the president asking them to make their charges specific and to state whether they spoke from personal knowledge or only from report.

One of the letters read yesterday was from Dr. Sims of Chattanooga. It was written to a friend in Ohio in response to an inquiry for the facts in regard to Camp Thomas, and was forwarded by the person that had received it to the president. Dr. Sims said that there was no justification for the charge that the site of the camp was not desirable. It was, he said, admirable. In the beginning of the camp's career the hospital facilities were limited, but these had been increased until they were adequate to meet the demands upon them.

The committee expects to begin to take testimony next week. General Wheeler is expected to be among the first witnesses called. A decision was reached yesterday to include in the work an inquiry into the conduct of the war department in the Pacific as well as in the Atlantic region, and to this end letters were written to General Merriam in command of the Philippines and to General Merritt, who occupied this latter post until recently.

Peace Commissioners Introduced.

Paris, Sept. 30.—The breakfast at which the two peace commissions met for the first time yesterday was a purely informal affair given by Mr. Delcasse in his private apartments at the foreign office. Mr. Delcasse presided in the center of a long table. On his right were General Porter and Senator Gray, with a Spanish commissioner between them. On the left was the president of the Spanish commission, Montero Rios, with Senator Davis next to him and a Spanish commissioner on the left of the senator. On the opposite side, facing Mr. Delcasse, was Mr. Brisson; on his right were Mr. Castillo, Senator Frye and a Spanish commissioner. On the left of the premier were Judge Day, president of the American commission, a Spanish commissioner and Whitelaw Reid. Beyond these on either side were the secretaries of the United States and the French foreign office officials.

The breakfast, or luncheon, as it would be termed in the United States, occupied 80 minutes. Coffee and cigars were served in an adjoining apartment, and after half an hour of further chatting the party broke up, both commissions leaving simultaneously with corteous adieus. The Americans regard the function as having been a happy means of making the two sets of commissioners acquainted with each other. It was planned with great tact by the French and was conducted with the utmost discretion.

Jobs For the Cubans.

Santiago, Sept. 30.—Arrangements have been completed for the formation of a force of Cuban mounted police for the province of Santiago. It consists of a commandant with the rank of major, three captains, six lieutenants, 10 sergeants and 240 enlisted men. The rate of pay of the enlisted men is the same as in the United States army, while the officers get two-thirds. General Castillo has charge of the preliminaries of the appointments, but he must select capable men who have served in the Cuban army, and the officers must have had similar or a higher rank. This police force will have a large territory to cover, and it is expected that as soon as the Cuban troops disband the lawless element will have to be kept in check. Even at present quantities of cattle are stolen and complaints are frequent, both to Generals Wood and Castillo, and they are determined to put an end to this state of affairs.

The Cubans are beginning to understand that the sudden change they wanted after the surrender would have caused disorder and confusion, while every day Cubans are appointed to positions of power and emolument.

Two Generals to Retire.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Major General Hamilton S. Hawkins, who commanded the division which captured San Juan hill in the second day's fight in Santiago, has been appointed a brigadier general in the regular army to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of General Graham. Immediately after receiving his commission he will be placed on the retired list on his own application under the 30-years' service clause, and this will enable the president to advance Major General Kent to the grade of brigadier general in the regular army. General Kent commanded the wing of the army which effected the gallant capture of Caney in the first day's fight.

Chaplain McIntyre's Defence.

Denver, Sept. 30.—The defense of Chaplain McIntyre was opened Thursday. Senator Schermerhorn testified that the chaplain said that when the battle with Cervera's fleet began Admiral Sampson's flagship, the New York, was 11 miles away, but during the fight she came up so that at the surrender of the Colon she was within signalling distance, which he explained, was within four miles, and that she was so reported. The chaplain did not state that the admiral reported himself within the 4-mile limit. Witness believed the chaplain said something to the effect that the audience was as much entitled to prize money as Admiral Sampson.

Stole by the Wholesale.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Mrs. John Polie and her daughter, 20 years old, were arrested yesterday on a charge of shoplifting. Their flat was packed with goods of every description which had been pilfered. The police recovered goods worth about $8000. The flat held enough goods to stock a drygoods and notion store.

Come, Mary,

Let's go over to the Quincy Second-Hand Variety Store and see if we can't find just what we want. You say you need some more kitchen goods and a few chairs, a carpet for the chamber, some glassware and various other things, and when I was there last week I saw my cousin get a lot of goods for almost nothing. He told me that sometimes he could find new goods at less than half price. These are hard times, Mary, and we must buy where the dollar goes farthest.

Good Afternoon.

The suggestion of Representative James Thompson for County Commissioner, even at this late date, meets with favor. Mr. Thompson's three years in the Legislature have been upon prominent committees, two upon the Committee of Ways and Means, and he has been called upon to pass upon Norfolk County appropriations. As these have been under fire for five years they have been very carefully scrutinized and some reductions made. Mr. Thompson has served the city of Quincy several years in its City Council, for two or three years as president. He also stands high among the business men of Quincy, and while president of the Granite Manufacturers' Association was largely instrumental in averting an impending labor trouble. He is a conservative yet progressive official, and would be the right man in the right place should he be elected on the board of Norfolk County Commissioners. The towns of Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Cohasset, Holbrook and Randolph should have one of the members of the board, as they are on a different division of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., and include at least one-third of the population, valuation and voters of Norfolk County.

Nova Scotia believes in prohibition, every county having voted against liquor on Thursday. The English turn to the left where Americans turn to the right so that Yes is for prohibition, and No against. The aggregate vote was 25,169 yes, and 3,643 no. This ought to please Mr. Faxon.

In interviews with soldiers of Company K, who have been home on short leave, and with a knowledge of what has been printed and said concerning the war in Cuba, its a fact that they are willing to return and serve their country in any capacity and go where duty calls.

MILTON.

The corner stone of the new church edifice of St. Michael's church at Milton was laid Thursday afternoon by Rt. Rev. Bishop Lawrence in the presence of a large gathering of the church people. There was music by the choir and addresses by Bishop Lawrence and others. The corner stone is of Quincy granite and was furnished by John Heuss of West Quincy. The new edifice is located at the corner of North Russell street and Randolph avenue and it is to be built of sap faced granite. In the rear of the church there will be a rectory. The church is to cost $17,000 and the rectory $7,000 and when completed it will make an imposing appearance. Church services are now held in Associates' hall.

Boys are wanted to sing in the choir of the Mission of Our Saviour church. This is an excellent opportunity to obtain a musical education free of expense. Applicants should apply at Ellsworth hall, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

Rally day was observed last Sunday at the Congregational and Baptist churches.

Miss Mabel Buck has returned from a five weeks' visit to Bangor, Me.

Beginning with Sunday, Oct. 2, the services at the Mission of Our Saviour, Ellsworth hall, will be as follows: Morning prayer 10.30, followed by Sunday School. Evening prayer and sermon 7.00.

Autumn.

And now the little chipmunk,
Like the busy bee,
Runs along the stone walls,
And climbs the chestnut tree.

What cares he for winter?
What cares he for rain?
If only plenty of shellbarks
Will satisfy his gain.

Soon the stormy winds will blow,
The days will be bleak and cold,
So fill your larder to the brim,
And cart in your winter's coal.

ROSELEAF.

Squantum Park.

There was a large sale of house lots at Squantum on Thursday, by L. L. P. Atwood of Boston. The day was charming and finer lots have seldom been offered. There was a good sized gathering yet the lots went quite reasonable. If the boulevard is built to Squantum next summer, the lots will sell for double what was paid for them—six to twelve cents per foot. An excellent collation was served between 12 and 1 o'clock.

—Mrs. Allen of Worcester will make an attempt to lower the bicycle record between New York and Boston on Monday.

FOUR CANDIDATES.

For the Republican Representative Nominations.

The indications now are that there will not be clear sailing at the coming Republican Representative convention as was thought by many. There are certainly three and possibly four candidates in the field, viz: Eugene H. Sprague, Eben W. Sheppard, Jonas Shackley and John P. Bigelow.

It was thought that Mr. Shackley had withdrawn from the race, but he has not, and his friends in West Quincy are trying to secure delegates in the other wards to vote for him in place of Mr. Sprague. As far as Mr. Sprague goes, it might be said that it would have been the same if Mr. Nickerson had won out in Ward Five, for as has often been said, there are schemes and schemes. How well Mr. Shackley's friends have succeeded cannot be known until the convention. If Mr. Sprague can secure the Ward One, Two and Six delegations with his own ward he can win out.

Ward Three, as usual, is a hard ward to place, for they always bob up serenely with a candidate of their own, and it is said that this year will be no exception, and that the name of John P. Bigelow will be presented to the convention.

Mr. Sheppard will doubtless have his own ward and Ward Two and if he can secure Ward Five he will come pretty near landing.

Mr. Shackley's chances are considered as slim unless his friends succeed in pulling Ward One from Mr. Sprague.

REAL ESTATE ACTIVE

More Sales in Quincy than Several Larger Cities.

Palace on Wheels Here.

"Lasley's house palace on wheels" which is going from Seattle, Wash., around the world, and which was illustrated recently in the Sunday papers, arrived in Quincy this noon and stopped for refreshments near the fountain in City Square. The house is built of small boards and is an antiquated looking affair set upon four wheels which are much the worse for wear. From what could be seen from the door at the rear end, the palace has two rooms, viz: sleeping and living.

With the palace was a man, his wife, five children an a dog. The affair is drawn by two horses which certainly looked as though they had plenty to eat, as did also the occupants. On the sides of the palace were numerous signs and a map of their route of travel. One of the signs informed the readers that no questions were answered but if they wanted to "know about us," they could from a book for ten cents, telling the whole story. The palace, arriving as it did about school time served to attract many school children and others, who made passing remarks about it. It is understood that the palace goes to the Brockton fair from Quincy.

Pup Tents Issued—Guard Detail—Turtle Escapes.

Co. K, Fifth Mass., U. S. V.,
Camp George Gordon Meade
Middletown, Penn., Sept. 28.

The boys are well. It was very chilly last night, and hard work to keep warm. Today warm.

The usual drills take place. Inspection of quarters by Capt. Sykes of Co. I, Attleboro.

The commissionary department has issued the pup tents, which are used in time of active service, doing away with the standard tent. These tents are large enough for two men to crawl into. No standing up however is allowed, as they are only four feet high, and 5 feet long. They are used only when on marches and skirmishes.

The following will report for guard duty tomorrow: Musician Johnson, Privates Egan, Fitzgerald, Faxon, Gallagher, Gilfeather, Hodges, Logan, Johnson, Jones, Kelliher.

Passes for 24 hours will be issued to the following: Sergt. McGrath, Privates Leslie, Leonard, Levangie, and Martelle.

The turtle that has been held in captivity for some time, made his disappearance some time during the storm of Monday. We are sorry that our souvenir has gone, for it was the intention of the captor to send his prize to Quincy,

Corporal Johnson likes to chop down trees; he is a good hand at it.

We are still waiting to hear the verdict—who will become our captain The new Commissioned officers have been detailed to the several companies. K is left same as usual. We hope it will be Captain Whitney, but the delay causes doubt. VOLUNTEER.

Co. K. in New Camp.

The letter of Thursday to the Boston Post is of great local interest throughout, as it tells of a change of camp for the 2d battalion, including Co. K, and also of the move to Cuba. It is given in full:

It is almost certain that the Fifth will not remain in this country a month more. Yesterday Major-General Graham officially announce d to the members of his staff that the entire Second Army Corps would go to Cuba as a portion of the army of occupation. Between Oct. 15 and 20 the first instalment of this corps will start upon the movement that will change the station of the troops now at Camp Meade to Cuba. As soon as the movement has begun the regiments will be moved as rapidly as possible, as it is hoped to get the entire corps transported to their location before Nov. 15.

Probably one of the first to leave this camp for foreign service will be the Fifth Massachusetts It is generally conceded that this is the model regiment of the Second Corps, and as such will receive any benefit it will be possible to bestow upon it as the assignment of stations.

Late last night orders from corps headquarters came to have one battalion of four companies report at the depot commissary for fatigue duty. The second battalion including Co. K was decided upon as the one to perform this service, and so before day Major Morrison had his battalion up and at work. Teams were secured, all the goods were packed and tents were struck. When this was done the goods were packed up on the teams and the men in heavy marching order moved off to their new positions. The depot commissary is located on the Pennsylvania railroad at the Camp Meade station about two miles and a half from Camp Meade.

Today the battalion adjutants were officially assigned to their posts. The adjutant of the first battalion will be Lieutenant Orville J. Whitney of Company E. Lieutenant Edward P. Coleman of Company I will serve as adjutant of the second battalion, while Lieutenant Charles R. Gow of Company M will occupy the same post with the third battalion. All have purchased horses, being allowed payment as mounted officers of their grade. Captain Linwood E. Hanson of Company G will be division officer of the day for tomorrow.

Captain Willis W. Stover of Company A is confined to his quarters by an attack of rheumatism.

Tomorrow is monthly muster. Colonel Whitney will act as mustering officer for the portion of the regiment still remaining in camp. Major Morrison will officiate in the same capacity for the detached second battalion. As they are not blessed with the conveniences that they possessed at South Framingham, the boys have been working hard all day getting their kits in shape for tomorrow's inspection. Lieutenant Colonel E. A. Weaver, who is on detached service at South Framingham as mustering officer, visited the camp today, stopying over long enough on his return from Washington, where he has been on business connected with his duties of mustering officer, to see the regiment in its camp and to shake hands with the officers.

He says it is doubtful if he will get away from South Framingham before the first of December, so he can resume his duties with this regiment. He also stated that this regiment would be in Cuba before the first of November. His visit was brief, as he had to hurry his return to attend to his duties at Framingham. Lieutenant Robert W. Daley of Company C has been detailed as hospital officer at the division hospital. Lieutenant Homer Brant has been detailed on the board of survey to investigate into the records of one of the hospital quartermasters.

An Unrighteous Verdict.

Paris, Sept. 29.—The house and furniture of Emile Zola are about to be sold to satisfy a judgment of 50,000 francs obtained against him by the handwriting experts who recently won a libel suit growing out of the Dreyfus case against the author. The sale is to take place in spite of the fact that the late Lieutenant Colonel Henry's confession of having forged a letter which was instrumental in bringing about the conviction of the prisoner of Devil's island has sustained Zola's position.

It is expected that the minister of justice will, if he has not already done so, issue directions that the rigors of the imprisonment of Dreyfus be modified, according to custom, pending the final decision in his case, which is now before the court of cassation.

Report Was Scandalous.

Jacksonville, Sept. 30. — Sergeant Gallagher of the Third Nebraska regiment was tried yesterday by court-martial on the charge of circulating scandalous reports concerning Cuba. It is claimed that Gallagher wrote to his father that at the time of the corps' parade Aug. 31, seven men had died as the direct result of the parade and 100 had been physically ruined, the parade having been given merely to show off on the part of "swell-headed" officers. The letter was sent by Gallagher's father to the secretary of war. Gallagher's arrest and trial followed. The result has not been made known.

Philippines' Independence.

Manila, Sept. 30.—The declaration of independence was ratified at Malolos yesterday, amid great festivities. A review of the troops was held and speeches and recitations were delivered. The feature of the ceremonies was the address of Aguinaldo. Many foreigners attended the state ball, but no American officials were present.

A FLAGITIOUS OFFENSE

Emperor of China Wore the Clothes of Civilization.

Dowager Empress Mortally Grieved by Spectacle.

Punished Him by Taking the Reins of Office In Her Own Hands.

Pekin, Sept. 30.—The developments of palace affairs confirm the belief that the emperor, by the radical reforms which he had decreed, prepared himself for the blow struck by the dowager empress. The successive edicts furnished a history of the trend of affairs. The emperor's chief advisor, Kang Yuwei, obtained unbounded influence over him and inspired the reforms. The official classes opposed him and consulted the dowager empress as to means for nullifying these reforms.

EMPEROR OF CHINA.

The current story is that the immediate cause of the emperor's downfall was that he appeared one day in European clothes. This offence, it appears, was aggravated by the arrival in China of the Marquis Ito, the Japanese statesman, which alarmed the palace officials as foreshadowing Japanese domination in the emperor's councils. Thereupon the dowager empress acted with wonderful promptness and deposed her nephew before the Pekin people were aware that she had left the summer palace. Yuwei, forseeing trouble, fled two days before the crisis. The empress has issued an edict ordering that he be kept under surveillance until further orders, and his degradation is certain.

Six reformists, namely, Kang Yuwei's brother, one censor and four head clerks of the cabinet, including a son of the governor of Hu-Poi, were executed for alleged conspiracy against the dowager empress. There is no excitement, and everything is proceeding as usual.

Empire State Democracy.

Syracuse, Sept. 30.—Honors come fast to the family of Van Wyck. One brother, the mayor of greater New York, steps aside to make room for another Van Wyck—his brother, Augustus, and a justice of the supreme court of the state—who is named by the Democrats of the empire state to head its fight for governor.

The platform adopted yesterday sounds a note of battle against Colonel Theodore Roosevelt which indicates warm work ahead for the military chieftain. The issue of "tax dodging" is clearly defined, even if the national questions of finance and tariff are passed over in silence.

The selection of Judge Van Wyck is regarded as a concession to Mr. Croker and as overcoming Mr. McLaughlin's objections to a municipal election, which would have been necessary had Robert A. Van Wyck been nominated and elected.

Ex-Senator Hill gave out this statement last night: "I originally doubted the wisdom of taking a candidate from greater New York, and personally should have preferred that one of the gentlemen whose names were prominently mentioned, residing in the country portion of the state, should have received the nomination; but in a conference with leading Democrats a majority thought otherwise, and I yielded my personal views after a full and frank discussion.

Turks Are Pretending.

Candia, Crete, Sept. 30.—Edhem Pasha, the Turkish governor, who is chiefly blamed for the recent rioting here, has been deprived of the governorship.

The delays and subterfuges in complying with orders of Admiral Noel, the British commander in these waters, increase. The Turkish authorities have ceased surrendering arms, and are pretending that the disarmament has been completed. The British officers propose to search suspected houses. They have discovered that many of the men surrendered as ringleaders of the rioting are innocent, while the guilty are still at liberty.

Slid Down a Clothesline.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—A clothes line attached to a window saved the lives of a number of people yesterday in a 4-story apartment building, the fire having cut off other means of escape. A dozen persons, including a number of women and children, slid down the line and escaped. Seventeen other persons were rescued by the firemen with ladders. Five persons were injured by jumping from windows.

The fire broke out in a drug store in the basement, and the burning chemicals made a quick fire, precipitating a panic among the inmates, who rushed for the windows. The financial loss will be small.

No Fight to a Finish.

Pittsburg, Sept. 30.—Police Superintendent Muth of Allegheny says that Corbett and McCoy can spar there during the week of the Knights Templar conclave, but that a fight to a finish will not be permitted. The city will be open for all kinds of legitimate sport for the entertainment of the visitors. It is understood that strong efforts are being made to get the big fighters to meet in Allegheny at that time.

LIGHT VOTE POLLED.

Result of the Plebiscite on Prohibition In the Canadian Provinces.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—The prohibition vote in the province of Ontario has resulted in a big surprise. In 1894 a majority of $1,000 voted in favor of total prohibition. There appears to be a small majority against prohibition as a result of yesterday's voting. Every city in the province went heavily against the proposition. This city turned a previous majority for it of 2500 into a majority of 4000 against it.

It will be some days before anything like complete returns are received in the province of Quebec. Estimates from scattered returns received place the majority against at 75,000. Of this Montreal gave 12,000. The French-Canadians voted solidly against prohibition. Interest taken in the question was but slight, and the vote polled was light.

The aggregate for Nova Scotia was 25,169 yes and 3643 no. Returns from Prince Edward Island show a light vote but an increased majority for prohibition. Those favoring prohibition carried the day in Manitoba by about 8000 majority. Only about 30 percent of the total vote was polled.

The News of Beantown.

Boston, Sept. 30.—Consolidation of 10 or 12 of Boston's national banks is as good as assured. A circular has been issued to the savings banks, which practically own a controlling interest in these banks, naming a price which will be paid for their holdings. The intention is to liquidate these banks and organize a bank with a capital of $3,000,000 or $5,000,000. The largest capitalization of any Boston bank at the present time is $3,000,000, and that the Merchants'. The banks named are the Boston, Columbian, Harvard, Market, North, North American, Globe, Lincoln and Massachusetts.

A slick swindler, making use of shipping orders of a railroad for a bluff, has been obtaining money by false pretences in this vicinity for the past three months. He has operated in Somerville, Lynn, Charlestown, Roxbury and Boston proper. Taken to Delaware.

Dedham, Mass., Sept. 30.—The remains of Thomas F. Bayard were taken to Boston this morning and placed in a special car attached to the colonial express. The family sent a telegram to Mr. Cleveland, requesting him to act as one of the pallbearers.

Hundreds of telegrams have been received offering condolences to the widow and other relatives. Leading citizens in this country and Great Britain, political associates, personal friends, and men famous in the various walks of life are among those who are sympathizers of the family. They include cablegrams from Queen Victoria of Great Britain and Henry Irving, the actor, and Lady Churchill.

Acting Secretary Adee of the state department sent the following: "Permit me to add my assurance of sorrow and sympathy by reason of the death of one I esteemed in public life and loved as a true friend. The state department, over which he so worthily presided and which he represented abroad with distinction, pays a just tribute of honor and reverence to his memory."

Gift to Vermont University.

New York, Sept. 30.—By the will of Dr. Thomas Robertson the university of Vermont in Burlington is to receive the proceeds of a portion of his estate, to be devoted to the creation of a trust of $5000. The faculty is to purchase yearly with three-fourths of the income a microscope, to be awarded to the student of the university composing and writing the best essay on any neurological subject. The remainder of the income is to be annually devoted to the purchase of a pocket surgical case to be given for the second best essay on the same subject, and both prizes are to be known as the "Robertson prizes."

Any surplus remaining after this trust has been created the testator leaves to the faculty and medical department of the university, and directs that it purchase immediately a large cabinet of microscopes for the use of the students in the medical department which shall be placed in a case in a conspicuous place and inscribed, "Robertson Memorial Cabinet." Although the testator left a widow, no bequest to her is made in the will.

Pana's Street Riot.

Pana, Ills., Sept. 30.—Great excitement prevailed Thursday as a result of the street riot between the imported negroes and the union miners. The principal streets were filled with miners and citizens armed to the teeth. The negro who attempted to kill Policeman Smith and whose arrest started the riot failed to appear for trial. Mine Operator Penwell, who gave bail for the negro, also failed to appear. Warrants have been issued for all the negroes concerned in the riot.

How many negroes were wounded and how severely cannot be learned. No one is permitted to enter the stockades, and the operators refuse to give out any information. E. Bishop, a by-stander, is the only white citizen wounded.

True to Their Promises.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—All but two of the professional bicycle riders who have formed the National Cyclists' union and refused to race on any track under L. A. W. auspices remained true to their promises yesterday, and took no part in the national circuit meet at Woodside park. The two who signed the agreement to boycott the L. A. W., but who were in the races, were Bob Thompson and Archie McEachern of Toronto. Friends of these men state that their sympathies are with the new organization, but that the existence of a contract with the track management compelled them to participate. The attendance was very small.

Robbery of a Postoffice.

Plymouth, N. H., Sept. 30.—Word was received here that the Rumney postoffice was broken into and the safe blown open and robbed. The burglars forced the front door, drilled the safe and blew it apart. They secured all there was in the strong box, including the receipts for the three months ending Oct. 1, and a lot of postage stamps.

MEETING OF MILL MEN

Cotton Manufacturers Discuss Textile Topics.

Value of New Method of Baling Raw Staple.

Importance of the Paris Exposition to Producers of Cloth.

Crawford House, White Mountains, N. H., Sept. 30.—The papers presented last evening at the closing session of the New England Cotton Manufacturers' association were those of William C. Lovering of Taunton on "Some Newly Discovered Advantages of the Round Bale;" James G. Hill, Lowell, on "The Relations Between Steam and Water Power," and John H. McGibbons, director of exhibits at the auditorium building, Chicago, on "American Textiles at the Paris Exhibition of 1900."

Mr. Lovering said that machinery has improved all the cotton manufacturing processes, but the cotton bale is as it was a century ago. The improved form of bale, as he advocated, was bound up in the form of a cylinder, two feet in diameter and three feet in length, weighing 270 pounds, which is 35 pounds a cubic foot. These bales can be packed to great advantage in cars and steamers, and there is less danger from fire than from the ordinary bales. It is an improvement in manufacturing, as the cotton can be taken directly from the bale to the picker, thus obviating the bale breaker; and by placing different rolls on the apron of the picker, a complete mixing of the various grades of cotton may be accomplished, which is only approximately feasible under present conditions of cotton picking.

The paper was a very able one and excited great interest. A large amount of cotton is now being packed by Mr. Lovering's method, and a higher price is secured on this account. The paper was discussed at length, and many questions were asked of the speaker by Joseph M. Dunham of Holyoke and Lewis Simpson of Montreal.

Water and Steam Power.

Mr. Hill's paper in part was as follows: "In general it may be said that any water power furnished without charge, except that of building the plant and the expenses of maintaining the same, is cheaper than steam power, or any other known power. Of course we know that whenever water power is furnished by a separate company distinct from the mills at a fixed or variable charge, water power may soon become an expensive luxury; but in order to determine at what point water power or steam power is the cheaper, we must turn to the tables for a comparison.

"I assume the average water and steam power plants will cost about $50 per horse power each. From data recently obtained and from careful estimates made of large water power mills like Lowell for instance, the cost of the two plants can be readily proven. The statement has been made that steam power at tide water is as cheap as, or possibly cheaper than, water power inland. Of course, if this be true, the advantages in freights and the nearer proximity to commercial centers are apparent; but I think that we can show that no steam power, no matter how cheap coal may be, is as cheap as water power without charges other than those incidental to its production, that is to say without any fixed charges for the use of the water power."

Broadening Our Markets.

Mr. McGibbons said in part: "In 1900 France holds her fifth universal international exposition, the first having been held in 1855. By concerted effort the members of the New England Manufacturers' association can display American cotton textiles and many of those textiles of which cotton forms a part so as to convey a good impression of the progress we have made in these lines, and be in every way creditable to the country. By such an exhibit we can best reach our South American friends, who continue to go to Europe to buy through force of habit and through lack of perfect knowledge as to what we actually have to sell. Nothing should be left undone which will tend to divert from its present channel the enormous trade which rightfully belongs to the United States. The space allotted to the United States for threads, textiles and garments, amounts approximately to only 3,000 square feet, but a joint exhibit of the cotton manufacturers would reduce the amount of space necessary and at the same time assure a more attractive and satisfactory exhibit."

Prospective Men Lose Their Lives.

San Francisco, Sept. 30.—Charles E. Watson, a mining man of Carson City, Nev., who has arrived here from Kotzebue sound, tells how some goldseekers lost their lives. He says: "On the night of Aug. 17, Fred Ward, Irving Howard, Joseph Graham, Samuel Wilmeth of Providence and J. G. Sturke of Grue Gulch, Madira county, Cal., who went north on the Mermaid, were drowned while trying to get across Hotham inlet with their provisions. A storm arose and capsized their small boat. When morning came the other prospectors missed the Rhode Island party, and the searching party that was sent out found the boat floating keel up, but no trace of the men. The provisions and other effects belonging to the hapless party were cast upon the beach by the waves."

Will Preserve the Peace.

Springfield, Ills., Sept. 30.—Sheriff Colburn told the governor that he had no further control of the striking miners and feared loss of life and bloodshed. Captain Craig of battery B of Galesburg was ordered to go with his men to Pana at once, and Colonel John H. Hamilton of Elgin was also ordered to report with two of the best equipped companies of his Sons of Veterans for riot duty. Governor Tanner ordered Captain Craig to camp within the city limits and to protect the life and property of the citizens, but under no circumstances should they aid the operators of mine owners in operating the mines with foreign labor, to which the governor is much opposed.

DANGER IN SODA.

Serious Results Sometimes Follow Its Excessive Use.

Common soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking an washing purposes, but it was never intended for a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it.

We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heart burn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice almost daily, and one which is fraught with danger; moreover the soda only gives temporary relief and in the end the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

The soda acts as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels and cases are on record where it accumulated in the intestines, causing death by inflammation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harlandson recommends as the safest and surest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large 20 grain lozenges, very pleasant to taste and contain the natural acids, peptones and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals they digest the food perfectly and promptly before it has time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Wuerth states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements and finds them a certain cure not only for sour stomach, but by promptly digesting the food they create a healthy appetite, increase flesh and strengthen the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but intended only for stomach disease and weakness and will be found reliable in any stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

A little book describing all forms of stomach weaknesses and their cure mailed free by addressing the Stuart Co. of Marshall, Mich. 3t 26-28-30.

Gentry Wins From Patchen.

Springfield, Ills., Sept. 30.—At the state fair yesterday in the presence of 60,000 people, John R. Gentry defeated Joe Patchen with ease in the match race for a purse of $5000. Patchen was the favorite, but the horse was not in the best condition, and was never in the race at any time. The first heat was in 2:04 1-4 and the second in 2:03 1-2. The starter announced that it was the fastest race of the year, and also that it was the best two consecutive heats ever done by Star Pointer, Joe Patchen or Robert J. The conditions of the race were that both heats should be made in 2:05 or less. The winner received the purse. Neither horse broke during the race.

DANGER IN SODA.

Serious Results Sometimes Follow Its Excessive Use.

Common soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking an washing purposes, but it was never intended for a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it.

We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heart burn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice almost daily, and one which is fraught with danger; moreover the soda only gives temporary relief and in the end the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

The soda acts as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels and cases are on record where it accumulated in the intestines, causing death by inflammation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harlandson recommends as the safest and surest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large 20 grain lozenges, very pleasant to taste and contain the natural acids, peptones and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals they digest the food perfectly and promptly before it has time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Wuerth states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements and finds them a certain cure not only for sour stomach, but by promptly digesting the food they create a healthy appetite, increase flesh and strengthen the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but intended only for stomach disease and weakness and will be found reliable in any stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.
